IN presenting the "BEAUTIES OF GAELIC POETRY" to the public, I find myself in a position which demands some explanation of the motives that induced me to undertake this arduous task, and the principles that guided me throughout its execution. I would premise, however, that although they are called, and, I trust not inappropriately, BEAUTIES, it is not to be expected that every line, or stanza, or even poem, of the Collection, could be of itself beautiful. The name under which the work is ushered into the world does not warrant so high an anticipation. It is merely intended to signify, that the richest and most valuable gems of the Keltic Muse combine to form this constellation of our country's minstrelsy; and, in instances where poems may not be so brilliant in poetical genius or grandeur, they will be found to throw a stream of light on many of the manners and customs of our ancestors.

In the compilation of such a work as this, however, it is impossible to meet the wishes of every reader; and, indeed, until the public agree among themselves on points of literary taste, it will be impossible for the most skilful and sagacious compiler to gratify every palate. Enough, however, it is hoped, has been collated to make the work as generally acceptable as possible.

Regarding the cause which induced me to undertake a task so arduous, no one, who knows me, will question my veracity when I say, that, veneration for the productions of my country's talented sons and daughters, and an honest desire to preserve them in the most imperishable form, were the impelling motives. In the morning of my days, it was my happy lot to inhale the mountain air of a sequestered spot, whose inhabitants may well be designated the children of Song; and, in a state of society, whose manners were but little removed from that of primitive simplicity, I had frequent opportunities of witnessing the influence of poetry over the mind, and uniformly found, that cheerfulness and song, music and morality, walked almost always, hand in hand. Thus nurtured, and thus tutored, the intrinsic excellence of the poetry which I was accustomed to hear in my younger days, made such an impression on my mind, that neither time, distance, nor circumstances, have been able to obliterate. I was therefore bred with an enthusiasm which impelled me, as I advanced in life, to dig deeper and deeper into the invaluable mine, until, having obtained a view of the whole available materials, my admiration became fixed, and my resolution to rear the present monument was immovably formed.

The compilers who have preceded me, either from the irresistible pressure of circumstances, or, from prejudices resulting from geographical considerations, have interspersed their collections with a preponderating amount of doggerel and inferior rhymes; nay, many of their best pieces are given in an imperfect, or garbled form; while not a single attempt has been made to explain obscure phrases, or to develop the real and legitimate meaning of doubtful idioms and passages. The task thus left for the future gleaner, although no doubt considerably facilitated, was still great; and it was not until I had completely traversed the Highlands, and secured a variety of old manuscripts, that I ascertained the nature of the labour I had imposed upon myself, in appreciating the character and quality of the materials.

It is not for me to say with what success I have brought my labours to a close. Without, however, arrogating to myself any exclusive means of information, or any thing beyond ordinary abilities, I should hope, at least, that credit for indefatigable perseverance, and diligent untiring research will be awarded to me; and that, while the transcribed part of the work will be found superior to productions of the same nature, the amount of original and curious matter which it contains will bear ample testimony to the extensiveness of the inquiries I have instituted.

Some small items of self-interest are ever apt to be interwoven, even with our most patriotic actions; and, therefore, to steer wholly clear of all personal considerations, in whatever we undertake, requires more virtue than is possessed by the generality of men. Yet I sincerely trust that purity of motives will be a sufficient shield from the aspersions and insinuations which have been levelled at me, by individuals who measure their neighbours' actions by their own. These, however, I shall contentedly bear, provided I can only be the means of wreathing one laurel more for the brow of departed genius. I would gladly be spared the pain of animadverting upon a class of men, whose assistance I had a right to expect in so national an undertaking,—I mean our clergymen and schoolmasters. Those gentlemen who hurl their invectives against the high-minded, patriotic, and talented Dr M'Leod, for his unwearied efforts to enlighten his countrymen, and to exalt them to a higher status of moral and intellectual excellence, will very naturally be as forward in discouraging my endeavours to preserve from oblivion the songs of our native country. An indiscriminate charge, however, would be as ungenerous, as it would be unjust; and, therefore, with great pleasure I record, among both classes, many honourable exceptions; and, to them I take this opportunity of conveying my heartfelt thanks.

I may here notice a few deviations from what is generally recognised as the standard of Gaëlic orthography, that have been made in the following pages. Had I been writing prose, where no inflections could offend the ear, or destroy the smoothness or harmony of a sentence, these emendations, however justifiable in themselves, would not have been introduced. But in poetry it is far otherwise. Indeed, to do justice to the harmony of the versification, no acknowledged rules will apply. A north-country poet uniformly writes ian, where one belonging to Argyle sings eun; both taking care that the accordant word chimes with their peculiar orthoepy. How murderous, then, would it have been to the cadence and clink of the bard, were either of these words made to conform to the stiffness of established rules! This is but a solitary instance where thousands might be produced, of anomalies and provincial phraseologies which render a sameness of orthography impossible in poetical composition.

The difference of termination in the nominative plural of nouns ending in a, and the dative in aibh, has been done away with here; and both cases, which, correctly speaking, are the same, have been made to terminate in an or ean as the case may be—except where, for the sake of harmony, their retention, in the vulgar terminations, has been indispensable. This, however, has seldom been the case; for, such terminations do not belong to Scottish Gaëlic. No Highlander would say Fo na h-eachaibh (eich). Bho na marbhaibh (mairbh), Air do chasaibh (chasan). With the learned translator of Ossian's poems, I am anxious to yield the credit of such discoveries to the monks of Ireland, who, regardless of the only legitimate source of correctness, the language as spoken by the Aborigines, have tortured their vernacular tongue into a similarity with the Latin! And strangely enough, our grammarians are endeavouring to perpetuate the error, notwithstanding that any old woman in the Highlands could put them right on the subject; for

"These RULES of old discover'd, not devised,
Are Nature still, but Nature methodiz'd."

I have also thrown out the Irish words fuidh, luidhe, tigh, and dhoibh, and supplied their place by their correct Gaëlic synonymies fo, laidhe, taigh, and dhaibh—which are consonant with the orthoepy in every part of the Highlands; nor am I aware of any reason why these words should be spoken in one way and written in another. The letter t, which should always be used for the possessive pronoun, has been restored in the following pages, in contradistinction to the "Revisers" of the Gaëlic Bible, who have excluded it, as in d'athair, instead of t-athair, which is evidently the most eligible, the word being a contraction of tu athair (thy father). With these slight innovations, if such they can be called, the orthography throughout will be found to accord with the recognised standards.

Before leaving this point, I may quote the words of Owen Connellan, Esq., Irish Historiographer to her Majesty. "I regret," says he, "to be compelled to observe, that it has been but too common among Irish scholars, to display extreme jealousy of each other; each appearing to wish that he should be looked up to as the sole expositor and oracle of this neglected dialect; and, prompted by a desire of exhibiting his own superior knowledge, he is ever ready to find fault with every other Irish production whatever." Now, had Mr Connellan been a Scottish Gaëlic writer, he would have had to complain, not of the "exhibition of superior knowledge," but of the dogged tenacity of many of our pretending Gaëlic scholars, and, that too, on a matter subject to so many anomalies and inflections which often derive their caste from provincialism, where it is perhaps impossible that harmony of opinion should exist, even among competent scholars. But the evil is, that, instead of co-operating to establish a grammatical system of uniformity, our literati have thought fit to render no higher services to their country, than to play a game of cross-purposes on the subject.

In a land of song, like the Highlands of Scotland, where every strath, glen, and hamlet, had its bard, and, possibly, every bard his host of admirers, some obscure votary of the Muses may have escaped our notice ; and, a few day-dreamers have been designedly passed over in silence. In the first case, the charge of intentional neglect does not apply to me ; and, with regard to the second class, I could mention the names of many poetasters, who have not been admitted into our galaxy of Keltic minstrels ; and, for this obvious reason that they were not worthy of the enviable position. Their friends, therefore, will pardon in me the oversight of not mentioning names that could not otherwise be noticed.

The lives of the Bards form, perhaps, the most interesting part of the work. Biography has always been found a useful study ; and, although these sketches are necessarily condensed, they will be found to extend in length, and in minuteness of circumstantial detail, in proportion to the claims of the subject of the memoir. The Highland bards filled a most important station in society ; and I know no better mirror than their works, to shadow forth the moral and intellectual picture of the community among whom they lived. In collecting materials for lives of which no written records, not even, perhaps, the date of their natal day was kept, I experienced considerable difficulty. Frequently have I blushed to find among my countrymen, individuals who could learnedly tell me of Virgil's bashfulness, and the length of Ovid's nose, with as much precision as if they had measured it by rule and compass, and put me right as to the cut and colour of Homer's coat when he was a ballad-singer ; but who knew nothing of our own poets—simply because they were their own countrymen, and sang in their vernacular language !

These memoirs are generally commingled or followed by short critiques on the productions of the bard under notice. My opinions, in this respect, are freely given, and if they should run counter to the prepossessed notions of any one, it is submitted whether, perhaps, we shall not agree on a reconsideration of the subject. I am aware how firmly early prepossessions and local partialities lay hold of our esteem, and how difficult it is for us, in after years, to exercise our judgment unfettered by first impressions ; but I can say with perfect truth, that I have divested myself of every vestige of partiality when adjudging laurels to the Highland bards. If, therefore, I have bestowed more florid encomiums on any one than he merited—if I have anywhere taken a lower estimate than the reader would be disposed to do—if I have been unjust in the distribution of praises or animadversions, I hope it will be attributed, as it ought to be, to an error in judgment, and not to prejudice, partiality, or evil intention. In writing them, much more attention has been paid to simple and authentic detail, than to illustrative or excursive comments.

In the arrangement of the poets, due regard was had, as far as practicable, to seniority, that being the most unobjectionable mode that could be adopted ; and the same rule was observed in the classification of the poems.

It may be deemed out of place, in a prefatory notice, to allude to my list of subscribers ; but I feel so grateful on this subject, and so proud of their number, respectability and intelligence, that I cannot help adverting to it. Their literary taste and discrimination afford me the best assurance that the nature of my labours will be fully appreciated. From the plan I have adopted, those who were accustomed to see the poems occupy so much space in other works, may be apt to think that they have undergone curtailment—a perusal of them, however, will not only obviate this misconception, but convince the reader that they are given at greater length and in a more improved form than they ever appeared before. Where spurious verses and monastic interpolations had intruded themselves, they have, of course, been thrown out. The same system of ejection has been carried to indecent phrases and objectionable passages; and, while nothing of the fire, or grandeur, or general beauty has been lost, the utmost vigilance has been exercised that nothing should be allowed to creep in, which could offend the most delicate, or afford ground of complaint to the most fastidious.

The idea of this undertaking was first suggested to me by a worthy friend, who is now no more, James Robertson, Esq., Collector of Customs, Stornoway. Mr Robertson, himself a gentleman of high poetic talent, possessed a fund of curious information about the bards, and several written documents, to which he obligingly gave me free access, and from which, some of the anecdotes with which this work is interspersed, have been extracted.

After having collected all the materials which I deemed necessary for the completion of the work, I met with so little encouragement, that I was on the eve of abandoning my design, when Mr Donald M'Pherson, Bookseller, London, with an enthusiasm and high patriotic feeling that do honour to his heart, entered into my projects, and, by his warmly exercised influence, put me into a position in which I soon enjoyed the pleasing assurance of being able to carry my intentions into execution.

With equal gratitude I have to record the disinterested kindness of Archibald M'Neil, Esq., W.S., Edinburgh—a gentleman whose name carries along with it associations of all that is noble-minded and generous. To this gentleman I owe much. His exertions to further my views were characterized by a warmth of zeal, and promptitude of action, in the way of urging others to give the work their support, for which no words of mine can sufficiently thank him.

I feel myself also deeply indebted to another gentleman, the mention of whose name is sufficient to convince the reader of the sincerity of my feelings—I allude to Mr Lachlan M'Lean, Merchant, Glasgow, author of the "History of the Gaëlic Language," &c., who, in the most handsome manner, gave me the use of his library, and exerted himself with his wonted enthusiasm to enlist public sympathy and support in favour of the undertaking.

There are other favourable circumstances and kind friends that might well elicit from me the tribute of grateful acknowledgment but as I am more inclined to be concise than ceremonious, my devoirs must be expressed in general terms; and I therefore assure all such, that I shall fondly cherish the recollection of their kindness until the latest hour of my existence.

It is customary in a notice of this kind to take the precaution of disarming the critics,—a custom I would gladly honour in my own case. That errors have crept in, and that imperfections may appear to the eye of critical acumen, is readily conceded; but these will form no greater defalcation than candour will allow it was impossible to eschew. If I am afterwards convinced of any unintentional errors—convinced, as I have a right to demand, by the force of argument and the power of philological reasoning, I will be as ready to acknowledge my mistakes, as I shall be imperturbable at the innocuous shafts of ill-natured pedantic invective and declamation.

And now, Reader, having conducted you to the threshold of the palladium of the Highland Minstrels, let me crave your leisure hours to the study and contemplation of their works. We speak of by-gone ages in terms which seem to imply that we are morally, intellectually, and religiously superior to our ancestors. Would that it were so! We exult in the progress of civilization, improvement and scientific knowledge; but we are retrograding in another point of view. Time was, when the hours which are now so assiduously devoted to the propagation of gossip, to circumvention, scandal and chicanery, were spent in singing songs, and reciting legends in the innocent comfort and simplicity of unsophisticated manners. But the Bards have ceased to lash the backbiter, the drunkard, and the moral delinquent; and as snails shoot out their horns in a calm, so the human owlets of our country have multiplied in a fearful degree!

Reader, farewell!—but ere I pronounce that doléful word, allow me, in the sincerity of a warm Highland heart, to wish you the innocence, beauty, and simplicity of the mountain maid—the prowess and patriotism of the plaided warrior—the lofty talent of the Keltic bard—the age of our Apollo, silvery-locked Ossian—and the death-bed of one who is conscious of nothing worse than having read and studied and sung the “BEAUTIES OF GAELIC POETRY.”

JOHN MACKENZIE.

GLASGOW, April 1, 1841.

INTRODUCTION.

THOSE who compose the poems and melodies which stimulate or mollify the passions of mankind, possess a much greater influence in society than can be readily conceived.

If national airs, in ages of refinement and artificial feeling, are found to have so strong a power over the mind, as in the "Ranz des vaches," or "Erin gu brath," how much more forcibly must the bold chanting of heroic verse—the plaintive tones of injured innocence—the impressive notes of impassioned exhortation, or the keen touch of satiric spirit, have affected a people like the Gaël, imbued with all the fervour of unaffected nature, and who paid ardent devotion at the shrine of freedom? How highly must an order have been venerated, which possessed an influence, the effects of which were so deeply and so universally felt, and how greatly must the general applause have fanned the flame which burned so ardently in the poet's heart? The deference paid to the professors of poetry and music, was prompted by a sense of the utility of their labours, and by enthusiastic approbation.

The retention of the Celtic Language and Manners by the unmixed descendants of the most ancient people of Europe, is a singular phenomenon in the history of mankind; and not the least remarkable trait in the character of the race, is their genius for the sister arts of poetry and music. The patriarchal system, as incompatible with an altered state of society, has been broken up, and much indeed of national characteristic has been lost since its abolition. The different condition of the Highland population has lowered the Bardic profession from its former high standing. The powerful stimulus of "the man of song," is no longer required to animate the clansmen for the battle field, or to preserve by his captivating recitations, the memory of the days of old. His useful services as the Laureat, moral preceptor, and historical instructor, are not now rewarded by the free possession of a good farm, and other rights, but the innate love of poetry has still preserved the unbroken generation of Bards. The people yet highly appreciate the poet's lays, and the feelings of unabated delight with which the Highlander continues to cherish the Song, show that the ancient spirit has not decayed.

The numerous collections of Gaëlic pieces which have from time to time appeared, evince the national taste, and display the poetical acquirements of the writers, but how small a proportion these bear to the stores yet floating in oral record, selections from which are now submitted to the public! The following pieces will give natives a more extended idea of the value of poetic treasure in their rugged and romantic country, while to the reader who is a stranger to the language in which the immortal Bard of Selma formed his imperishable compositions, the varied lives of so many remarkable and talented individuals, must prove an interesting novelty.

An appropriate introduction to the Beauties of the Gaëlic Poets, appears to be a brief account of that long descended race, which so justly demands regard, and of which they ever formed so important a class. Connected with this is a demonstration that the language in which the following poems appear, is that handed down to their authors from ancestors the most remote.

The Celtic race were the first known inhabitants of Europe, which was occupied throughout by various tribes or clans. The appropriate name which this remarkable people gave themselves was Celtæ, but the terms Calatæ, Galatæ, or Gallatians, and Galli, or Gauls, were adopted by the Greeks and Romans, and were the appellations by which in later ages they were usually distinguished.*

Various etymological conjectures are advanced as explanatory of these designations. A name descriptive of locality does not appear reasonably applicable to nations spread over an extensive continent and its numerous islands; they could neither be described as living in woods, nor on the hills, nor beside the waters, with any propriety, either by themselves or by others.† A more probable derivation is from the fair complexion by which the ancients characterized the race. This is the etymon given by Greek scholars, as if the body was "Galactoi," milky coloured; and as G and C are commutable letters, it must be confessed that the Gaëlic Gealta or Cealta, has the closest possible resemblance to Celta.

The original seat of the human race was undoubtedly the fertile plains of Asia, but when the Celtic stream first rolled from that productive storehouse of nations, is never likely to become known.‡ Successive waves of migratory hordes must have flowed from the east, impelled by a want of food or a thirst for conquest, long before the Trojan war, when the Keltoi were first known to the Greeks, or when Herodotus, the father of history, informs us they inhabited to the farthest west.§ Their daring enterprise and mighty conquests had shaken the well-settled empires of Greece and Rome, when these nations were yet unacquainted with the regions whence issued the overwhelming hosts, and scarcely knew their terrific foes, save through the disturbed vision of a frightened imagination.||

Various sections of the dense population of western Europe came alternately under historical notice, as their power and influence brought them more prominently into view. The Cimmerii, or Cimbri, the Getæ or Goths, the Scythæ or Celto-Scyths, the Germanii, the Teutoni, and the three divisions of Gallia proper ; the Celts, Belgs, and Aquitains, successively occupy a predominant share in the eventful page of history. From the testimony of numerous ancient authorities, these appear rather subdivisions of an identic race, than different nations. If Celtæ gave place to Galli, Scythæ became Germani, &c. The name Lochlin and Lychlin was applied by the British tribes to Germany, and they considered it the same country as Gaul.*

There can be no doubt, that local position, commerce, and other circumstances, will, in process of time, occasion so much difference between branches of an original race, that they will appear, and may be justly considered different nations. Thus, the Greeks and Barbarians so closely resembled each other, previous to the time of Homer, that no distinction in manners or language appears to have then existed.†

When continental Europe had become fully peopled, emigration to the British isles must have speedily taken place, and the obvious route was from the opposite coast of Gaul, to South Britain, but at what period the first adventurers arrived, can only be matter of conjecture. Some part of the maritime population were known to the Romans as mercantile settlers from the continent, but those who inhabited the interior, had lost all tradition of their origin, and, like their Gaulish ancestors, believed themselves the indigenous possessors of the island.‡ To the early Greeks and Romans it was unknown, but the assertion has been reiterated that the Phœnicians had established a commercial relation with the natives upwards of 2,800 years ago, and carried on a lucrative trade with them in lead and tin.§

The author of the Argonautica, writing nearly 600 years before our era, speaks of Iernis, which, signifying the western island, [Iar-innis,] would apply to either Britain or Ireland, and Aristotle, who flourished two centuries and a half later, calls the former both Albium and Brettania. These and other scanty notices of a certain island opposite Gaul, are more curious than satisfactory or important ; the fact of an early colonization is proved by the numerous population at the period of the Roman advent, 55, A. C.,|| and the whole was composed of various tribes represented as arriving at different times from the continent, forcing back the previous settlers and presenting those great divisions, in the illustration of whose descent, historians have so laboriously employed themselves.

The Welsh or Cumri, from their general appellation of Ancient Britons, are considered as the original inhabitants, but it is admitted by their own antiquaries, and shown by others, that the Gaël, or in their own lingual form, the Gwyddel must have preceded them.†† The Welsh authorities preserve the names of other colonies which arrived at uncertain periods. The Lloegrws came from Gwasgwn or Gascony, and were the progenitors of those who possessed England, and the Brython, from Lhydaw or Bretagne, who it is said gave name to the island, both being of Cumraeg descent.‡‡

The Romans found the southern coasts occupied by tribes of Belgic origin, who are supposed to have arrived three or four centuries before the birth of Christ. Successive emigrations forced the inhabitants westward, and to the north, but certainly nothing is recorded to warrant the belief, that the whole were not of Gaulic origin.* Scotland was possessed by a Celtic people, divided into twenty-one tribes, some of whom became at times conspicuous from more daringly contending with their ambitious foes, or being chosen to direct the national confederations, but the collective inhabitants were, as they have ever been, denominated by themselves and their brethren in Ireland, Albanich, Albanians; natives of Alban or Albion, a name of which they still are justly proud, thus vindicating their claim to be considered the primordial race.

Several of the great divisions lost their names in the fluctuations of a predatory and unsettled state of society and were ultimately incorporated with more powerful neighbours. The Mæatæ, (Magh-aitich,) dwellers on the plain, whose situation between the præentures, a sort of debateable land, exposed them more particularly to the devastations of war, but gave ample scope for the acquisition of military renown, lost their prominence when the Romans succeeded in forming their territories into the province of Valentia, and when the legions were finally compelled to leave the island, the Meats, losing their consequence, were quickly amalgamated with the general body. The CALEDONII who were the ruling tribe in the great confederation which Galgacus led to battle at the Grampians, ceded their warlike pre-eminence to other branches who came into power. The term by which they were distinguished, whatever may be its precise meaning, displays in its composition Caël or Gaël, the appropriate name of the most ancient inhabitants of both Albion and Erin, and it still subsists, if not the native, yet the classical appellation.† The redoubted Picts themselves were at last embodied with their more successful countrymen the Scots, but long retained the evidence of their descent in the designation of Gaëlweadians, and Galloway is still applied to a greatly reduced portion of their ancient kingdom.

No more prolific subject of literary contention has offered itself to the national controversialists, than the lineage of the Pictish nation, that powerful division which so long shared the sovereignty of the kingdom. A prevailing tradition from most early ages, held them as the original inhabitants;‡ the Roman writers identified them with the Caledonians,§ and in later ages they were recognised as Scots.|| One opinion has many able advocates: it is that they were a Cumraeg nation, using that branch of the Celtic language, but were expelled by the Gaël. Certainly we look in vain for a proof of this in the names which remain, even in the territories of the Strathclyde Welsh, which are believed to have extended to Cumberland—all are Gaëlic.¶ But reverting to another opinion not less keenly supported: were the Picts of Gothic extract? It is not probable, that at so early an epoch, the Scandinavian wastes could furnish such a force as would be sufficient to expel the Celts and supplant their language, for except there was a very considerable number of colonists, the strangers would inevitably lose their own tongue in mixture with the natives. Language, like manners, is liable to change from many operating causes, and differences in one which is widely spread, especially when unwritten, will greatly increase by the long estrangement of the branches, who own a common descent. Grammarians raise the polished structures, but the simple vocables attest the kindred alliance. The affinity of languages most certainly evinces the ancient connexion of nations, that in course of time become very widely separated. The Greek and Gothic have satisfactorily displayed to the learned their common parentage, and we know that Gallic words predominated in the Latin, derived through that most ancient Celtic race, the Umbri, who were the aborigines of Italy, and this classic tongue in grammatical construction, bore close resemblance to the Gaëlic.*

The assertion has been confidently repeated, that the Belgic portion of the British tribes, Gothic as the Picts, like them, obtruded a different language, which in the form of Saxon and English has superseded in the greater portion of Britain, the primeval tongue. How far this argument can be supported, it will be satisfactory to inquire. Do the names applied to natural objects on record, and as yet preserved in those parts which the two nations inhabited, favour the assumption, or do the Roman historians, our only guides, afford their evidence in its favour? Cæsar describes the South Britons as being in all respects like the people of Gaul, from which country he says they were.† Tacitus informs us, the Gothinian was the Gaëlic, and he particularizes two distinguished Belgic tribes, the Cimbri and Æstii, as using the proper British language.‡

The Gothic tribes came to the west of Europe, long after the Celtic migrations had spread population over the land, but the Getæ were Scyths, and these retained the name of Celto-Scyths,§ when their ancient brethren and precursors, the Keltæ, had fixed themselves far distant in the west. The Gothic first prevailed in England, and a striking evidence of the progressive change of language among nations of dissimilar pursuits, is the fact related in the Sagas, that widely different as the present English is from the northern tongues, a Saxon could converse so easily with a Scandinavian, in the 10th century, that he could not discover him to be a foreigner.¶ The Gothic did not become the language of the low country of Scotland, until comparatively recent times. The whole inhabitants were originally of one race, whatever shades of difference may have been observable in separate districts, of which a clear demonstration is afforded by the entire coincidence of local names, personal appellations, similar modes of interment, and relics of superstition throughout the whole extent of the country; that this race was Celtic, is satisfactorily proved by the terms being significant in the Gaëlic language, and in no other. In the years 547 and 650, the kings of Northumberland ravaged the southern districts, and seizing the country between the Forth and Tweed, filled the province with their Anglo-Saxon vassals, thus first inducing the adoption of the Anglo-Saxon language; and the events of the Norman conquest, 1066, when the royal family, the nobility and their followers were compelled to seek the protection of Malcolm III., mightily assisted in the introduction; for the kingdom became so filled with them, that there was not a farm-house or cottage in the south, which did not contain English men and women servants!¶ The refugees were located on the borders and east coast by the policy of our kings, as a good means of defence against the English and Danes, and it may not have been so practicable to plant them in the inland, the Highlanders bearing such intruders no good will. Moreover, the enterprise of the Saxons led them to prefer the east coast, where the powerful stimulus of commercial advantage, hastened the adoption of their speech; finally, the Scottish kings, from Malcolm Cean-mor to Alexander II., spent part of their lives in England, where they acquired the language, and married princesses of that country, and when the seat of government was removed from the Highlands, theirs became the court language, which gradually extended in the maritime parts. In the heights and distant isles, the pastoral and agricultural population clung with increased tenacity to their original tongue, the patriarchal institutions of Clanship being peculiarly calculated to prevent any disturbance of their social state.

Another portion of the inhabitants remains to be noticed, which had the fortune to preserve its appropriate name, and impart it to the whole. The appellation Scoti or rather Scuite, is apparently a modification of Scyth, the name by which the great unsettled branch of the continental Celts were distinguished, and is descriptive of the wandering life which a large portion of the inhabitants led through their predatory habits, and for the easy pasturage of their numerous flocks.* Those who had store of herds, possessed the only riches of the pastoral state. In Ireland, which was inhabited by the Britons, † who were forced over, as we are told, on the arrival of the Belgs in England, ‡ the Scots were the dominant and noble class, the natives or aborigines being considered an inferior order. § The epithet was adopted by the monkish writers, but does not appear to have been acknowledged by the Gaël, at least in Scotland, where they have stedfastly adhered to their national distinction.

In Erin as in Albion, the Scotie people were named the Pictish, and were known also as Cruthenich, a name indicative of peculiar habits. || The close connexion between the Scots of both countries, was such as became nations owning a common origin, in which they had an equal pride. The Dalriadic Kinglet, which the county of Antrim nearly represents, was long subject to the Scottish line, but at last the regal seat was removed to Argyle, and from this little sovereignty came the race of princes who crushed the vigorous independence of the Pictish throne, and so long ruled over the united Gæil. This transfer of the dynasty, whatever may have been the motives which swayed the minds of those who favoured it, was not accomplished without a display of "the high hand." ¶

Did the Dalriadic colony, as a different people, bring to Scotland their own language, and become the first disseminators of the Gaëlic, vulgarly called Erse? This has been rashly asserted, but after what has been said on the subject of language, it seems unnecessary to devote more time in disproving an evident absurdity. The Gaëlic, the primordial tongue used by the whole inhabitants of both countries, has gradually given way on the south and east sides of Scotland. In Carrick it was only lately extinguished: in Galloway it was spoken in the reign of Queen Mary 1542—1566,* and during the same reign we find it the common language in the Gariach district of Aberdeenshire, from the upper parts of which it has receded in our own memory.† This much is to be observed, that within the Garbh-Criochan, or boundaries of the Highlands, where the recession of the Gaëlic has not been in consequence of Saxon settlements, the manners of the people are essentially Gaëlic, and they retain at home and abroad the predilections of their birth, particularly cherishing a just admiration of the bardic art, and possessing the characteristic taste for national melody.

The foregoing opinions are not newly formed: the writer of these pages having in another publication, some years ago, gone at greater length into the subject, is happy to find that his views are now generally adopted.

The Celts, from whom it was reluctantly acknowledged by both Greeks and Romans, that they had derived many of the useful arts and sciences, nay, even their philosophy,‡ were distinguished by very remarkable habits and customs, many of which still characterize their descendants; and their personal appearance offered a striking contrast to that of the inhabitants of Italy and Greece. To whatever cause is to be attributed the general mixture of dark-complexioned individuals among the Gaël, inducing the assertion, so often repeated, that they display the genuine Celtic hue, nothing is more particularly noticed than the fairness of skin, the blue eyes and the yellow hair of all branches of the race. So anxious were the Gauls to improve the glowing brightness of their flowing locks, that in the desire to heighten, by frequent washing and other artificial means, its natural colour, they hit on the manufacture of soap.§ The general appearance of the Celts must have been very peculiar to excite the notice of so many writers,|| and their aspect must have been a matter of ostentation, when its preservation was an object of national care.¶ The bardic effusions have always extolled the golden ringlets as imparting beauty to both sexes, comparing them to the gracefulness of flowing gold—to the loveliness of the golden-haired sun; while one of an opposite colour is alluded to as an exception. The Welsh are perhaps the darkest of the race, for they called the others Gwyddil coch, the red-haired Gaël. The careful arrangement of the hair, was one of the most particular duties of a Celtic toilet, and the practice of trimming or “glibbing” it, was put down in Ireland as an anti-English practice, by act of Parliament.

The comeliness and great stature of the Celts were acknowledged; the Britons and Caledonians, particularly exhibiting that stately appearance which in early society would be an object of pride, and a favourite theme for bardic compliment. The commanding figures of the Fingalian heroes, and those of later date, are always kept in view.

The dispositions of a people are however more worthy of consideration, personal appearance being dependent on physical causes, while the mental affections and moral feelings are influenced by other circumstances.

On the ministers of religion devolve the care of forming the morals, and on legislators the regulation of society by the enactment of laws, the coercion of the wicked, and encouragement of the virtuous. These two important functions, so naturally allied, were combined in one individual among the early Celts. That highly interesting and venerable order the Druids, who presided over a religion the most ancient, included the singularly important class, the Bards, the disseminators of knowledge, or rather as some maintain, they were in truth the body, of which the Druids formed a part, if more exalted in rank, certainly not a more numerous nor popular division.

Britain seems to have been the hyperborean island alluded to by Hecataeus, a very ancient writer, who describes it as lying opposite to Gaul, and being as large as Sicily. The inhabitants led the most happy lives, spending great part of their time in playing on the harp, and worshipping the gods in groves and circular temples.* It is certain that in Britain was the grand seminary for Druidic learning, to which the youth from Gaul resorted to complete their course of education, and to which reference was made in all cases of controversy or doubt. In the southern province, therefore, we find the wondrous remains of the stupendous works of Avebury and Stonehenge, with many other circular erections of the Clachan mor of less note throughout England and Wales. In Anglesea was the sacred fane and last retreat of the British druids, while seeking to escape the Roman sword. In Ireland the great Feis, or bardic convention, was held on the hill of Tara, (Teamhair) in Meath, and the science studied in different seminaries. In Scotland, besides other consecrated precincts, was Ellan Druinich, now Iona, the isle wherein the chief establishment of bards was placed, which the celebrated Colum or Columba supplanted by a college of the scarcely less famous Christian order of Culdees, as he did with that sacred grove where now stands the town of Derry in Ireland.† To this latter country the bards are supposed to have been first introduced by the colony of Danas, and the name, believed to have come from Dan a song, is noticed as a corroborative proof. They would no doubt accompany the first Celtic settlers, and in all probability held their appropriate place among the Milesian adventurers.

Legislation—the services of religion, and the poetic art, were blended in primitive society, and the united duties performed by one person; the priests, the historians, and the lawgivers, were consequently of the bardic order. Although it cannot be admitted as true that “poetry preceded prose,” yet it is not paradoxical to assert that verse was anterior to prose as the medium of record. It was used in intercession with the Deity, and was the vehicle of all praise. The ethics of antiquity were delivered and orally preserved in pithy rhymes; in this way, the earlier decrees of Greece were promulgated, and remained for ages ere they were engraven on tablets in the public ways, and even then the metrical form was not abandoned, nor did the people find another word for law than verse.‡ Strong indeed was the attachment to oral record, but still stronger was the predilection for rhyme; even after writing had come into use, the form of versification was fondly retained. The Brehons or Gaëlic judges delivered their decrees in sententious poetry, and

Columba, who is himself believed to have been of the bardic order, and other early ecclesiastics delivered their moral precepts, as no doubt was the common practice, in impressive verse.* It was in this style of composition, that the Gaëlic genealogies of the Scottish kings, repeated by the seanachies at coronations were formed.† In Wales, numerous moral triplets are confidently ascribed to the Druids: in the Highlands, many such apothegms, handed down from the Sean'ir, or men of antiquity, are of similar origin.

The Druids, like the Pythagoreans, a similar sect, were most careful to exercise the memory, and it was a positive law that there should be no written record; the first deviation from which appears to have been, as far as respected religion, but the poems were too mystical to be understood, save by the initiated, and it was not permitted to speak openly of the ceremonials or secrets of their profession; to sing in heroic verse the praises of illustrious men, was the unrestricted and most congenial duty of the bard. How admirably fitted for the assistance of recollection was the use of poetry—how well adapted for diffusing throughout the community, a knowledge of the laws by which foreign and internal relations were directed; of the misfortunes which depressed, or the successes which brightened the national prospects;—the song kept alive the memory of transactions which gained the friendship of neighbours, or exalted military renown—it transmitted to succeeding generations the history of illustrious individuals—the woes and calamities of the unfortunate! How little even now, are the people in general indebted for their acquaintance with events, to the pages of the historian? It is the record of vocal song which so long preserves among the illiterate the remembrance of bygone transactions.

There is much truth in what has been observed on this sort of vehicle for the conveyance of opinion; “songs are more operative than statutes, and it matters little who are the legislators of a country, compared with the writers of its popular ballads.” With the Celts the statutes were really poems, and the observation of Macpherson is just: “The moral character of our ancestors owed more to the compositions of the bard, than to the precepts of the Druids.”‡ The druidic injunction for cultivating the power of recollection, long affected the national character, and in the Highland districts, it cannot be said to have altogether ceased as a popular object. The Gaël frequently met for the purpose of friendly contest in the repetition and singing of their ancient poems, and poetic talent was one of the most respected accomplishments. In Wales, its possession elevated one to rank. A Highland amusement which Johnson describes, is illustrative of the poetic spirit. A person enveloped in a skin enters the house, when the company affecting to be frightened, rush forth; the door is then closed, and before they are admitted, for the honour of poetry, says the doctor, each must repeat, at least a verse. The young men who celebrate the festival of Colain, or bringing in of the new year, are obliged to recite an extempore rhyme before they are admitted to any house. The Dronn, or rump, was called the bard's portion; whoever received it, was obliged to compose a verse; and many a humorous couplet has the present elicited. This is called Beanneachadh Bhaird, or the Bard's Blessing, and it was customary to give a metrical salutation as a mark of respect; a composition in praise of one whose kindness or hospitality had been experienced, was an equally common effort of the muses. Dr Donald Smith, speaking of MS. poems of Ossian, and those collected by Duncan Kennedy, which scarcely differed, observes, "The test which such an agreement affords at a distance of almost three hundred years, of the fidelity of tradition, cannot but seem curious to such as have not had an opportunity of observing the strength which memory can attain, when unassisted by writing, and prompted to exertion by the love of poetry and song."*

The Fear Sgeulachd or reciter of tales in Ireland, although now perhaps reduced to an itinerant mendicant, was formerly a personage whose entertaining and instructive rehearsals always procured becoming respect. These men were walking chronicles, the depositaries of what was old, and the disseminators of passing novelties. A favourite pastime among the Gaël was recitations of the old poems in manner of dramas, for which they were excellently adapted, if not originally so intended.

The chief object of the Celts in the nurture and education of their children, being to promote hardiness of constitution and corporeal strength, and to instil into the mind a sense of justice, and the highest notions of freedom and of warlike renown, their institutions were of a serious and martial cast.† The population were stimulated by the bardic exhortations from early childhood, to contemn inglorious ease and death itself, and to emulate the heroic virtues for which their ancestors were so highly extolled, as the only means by which they could attain distinction here and happiness hereafter. The labours of those national preceptors were eminently successful, and the bloody and protracted wars which they so intrepidly sustained in Gaul, against the conquerors of the world, tarnishing their arms, before unsullied,‡ bear ample testimony to the love of freedom. In our own country, was the influence of those patriots less strong? "Neither by Romans, Saxons, Danes nor Normans, could they ever be conquered, either in Britain or Ireland; but as they could not successfully resist the overwhelming numbers, and superior discipline of their enemies in the plain country, they retreated with the highest spirited and most intractable of their countrymen, into the mountains, where they successfully defied the legions of the Roman and Saxon barbarians. For more than a thousand years they maintained their country's independence in the mountains of Wales and Scotland, whence they constantly made incursions upon their enemies. Here it was, where, with their native wild and beautiful music, and in poetry which would not disgrace a Homer, being the production of passion not of art, their venerable Druids deplored their country's misfortunes, or excited their heroes to the fight." These are the words of a Saxon writer, who made the history of the Druids, and their mysterious religion, subjects of the most profound research.§

An order which possessed the power of inflaming their countrymen to the fiercest resistance of invasion, and unextinguishable passion for liberty, was subjected to the direst persecution of their implacable enemies. The cruelty with which the Romans accomplished the slaughter of the British Druids, even in the sacred isle of Mona, had only a parallel in the massacre of the Welsh bards, by Edward the first of England. The indomitable spirit of resistance to aggression, which these illustrious patriots so effectually cherished in their countrymen, aroused the sanguinary vengeance of their ambitious foes, and the same policy, with a subdued severity, animated Queen Elizabeth, and Henry the Eighth, in their proscriptive legislation for the natives of Ireland.

Many instances are on record of the extraordinary power of music, which was always in ancient times an accompaniment to the song. Tyrtæus, by the chanting of his heroic verses, so inspirited the sinking Lacedæmonians, that, rallying, they gained a triumphant victory, and saved the state. Terpander succeeded in appeasing a seditious outbreak, by singing an appropriate composition to the sound of his lyre, and Alcæus rescued his country by the same means. The bards not only inflamed the martial zeal of the people, rousing them to arms in defence of all they held dear, but they accompanied the armies to the field, and their persons being held inviolable by friend and foe, they employed themselves in moving about, sustaining the courage of the troops in the heat of battle; charging them to acquit themselves like men, and thereby obtain the approbation of their country, assuring them of ample fame on earth, and a joyful existence hereafter, should they bravely fall. "Ye bards, raise high the praise of heroes, that my soul may settle on their fame!" was an appropriate Celtic ejaculation. To die without this fame was a misfortune felt beyond the grave; the spirit rested not, when nothing had been done on earth to ensure its posthumous meed of praise.

The bards were also the heralds who summoned the clans to the strife of arms, a duty which was afterwards effected by the fleet bearers of the Crann taradh, and that important official in the establishment of a chief, the Piobair-mor. An instance occurs in the poem of Temora where a bard performs the ceremony; he proceeds to the hall of Shells, where the chiefs were assembled, and raising aloud the song of war, he calls on the spirits to come on their clouds, and be witness to the heroism of their descendants. The bards were in fact called upon by the leaders, as those on whose well-directed exertions rested the fate of battle, to rehearse the glorious exploits of former heroes, and by urging every motive to exertion, endeavour to carry the day by esprit du corps, not unlike the way in modern times of calling on the pipers—seid suas, play up? But they stood in no need of command; they acted in their vocation con amore, and they could excite or appease the warlike passions at their will; nay, with such awe were these men of song regarded, that they would step between armies which had drawn swords and levelled spears for immediate action; and the ireful combatants, as if their fury had been tamed by a charm, instantly dropt their arms.* The shaking of the "Chain of silence" by the Irish bards, produced the same effect.†

Their prophetic character added greatly to their influence; for they professed to foretell the fate of wars, and the destiny of individuals. So nearly allied are the gifts of poetry.

and prophecy, that the same individuals were professors of both, and hence it is that we find the Romans using the terms indiscriminately, especially with reference to those in their Gaulish provinces. Of the prophecies of the Gauls, many instances are related; they were held in much estimation for their auguries and predictions, and were consulted by even the emperors of Rome. Those soldiers who were in their armies, perhaps from their national gravity, and dark and figurative manner of expression,* compared with their Italian comrades, were looked on as seeing more clearly into futurity than others. The spirit descended on their successors in the British isles. In the Principality, the faculty in the bardic order was tacitly acknowledged, and Irish history affords many proofs of the conjunction, whilst among the Scottish Gaël, the ability to prognosticate unerringly, was repeatedly claimed, and respectfully conceded. Fingal himself, by concurrent tradition, is allowed, with other attributes of one so illustrious, to have possessed in an eminent degree, the ability to predict coming events. The court poets, about 1323, delivered a prophecy respecting King David, which was fully credited.†

Numerous proofs of the unabated influence of bardic exhortations on individuals, clans, and confederated armies, could be adduced. When the orator, standing on a cairn or other eminence, harangued the assembled host, in energetic verse, descanting in glowing terms on the well earned glories of the race—their heroism and other virtues, reminding them that on present exertions depended their country's fate—their own, their wives and children's safety; that the freedom which their sires bequeathed, it was for them to maintain and faithfully transmit to following generations; and when he warned them that the shades of their noble ancestors hovered near to witness their prowess, and bear them to the realms of bliss, if they bravely fell, the climax was attained, and in the paroxysm of generous resolution, with a simultaneous shout, the whole rushed forward to the melèe.

Those who survived, were welcomed by the fair with the songs of praise; the bards extolling their exploits in the most laudatory strains.

The War Song of Gaul in the fourth book of Fingal, shows the usual style of the Prosnachadh cath, which is the name applied to it, corresponding to the Irish Rosga cath, and the Welsh Arymes prydain.‡ The address of that intrepid chief of the Caledonian confederation, Galgacus, delivered to his troops previous to the great battle of the Grampians, is highly interesting for its antiquity, the eloquence it displays, and the light it throws on the sentiments of that unconquerable race, to whom the Britons of the south alleged the gods themselves were scarcely equal. The famed Caractacus would animate his forces in a similar manner; and it is probable both delivered their harangues in verse, and may indeed have been of the bardic order. The strife was truly "kindled by the songs of the bards." "Go Ullin—go my aged bard! remind the mighty Gaul of battle—remind him of his fathers—support the yielding fight; for the song enlivens war," says the king of Morven.

It is unnecessary to multiply examples: the practice was retained as long as clanship was entire. The Brosnachadh cath Gariach, composed by Lachlan Mac Mhuireach, the bard of Donald of the isles, at the bloody field of Harlaw in 1411, is a specimen, curious for the subject and the strict alliteration in its composition. It has been observed as scarcely credible, that a bard could compose and deliver such lengthened exhortations in the battle field, and impossible to preserve such effusions afterwards, except he was "attended by a secretary!" These, and many similar objections to the authenticity of the ancient remains of Gaëlic bards, have been offered by the late Rev. Edward Davies, author of "Celtic researches," in a very rare work, entitled, "The claims of Ossian considered." This writer, whose remarks we shall have occasion again to allude to, is the most severe assailant of the venerable bard who has yet appeared, and it is to be regretted, that the asperity, promoted by ignorance of the subject, which is evinced throughout his inquiry, tarnishes much the fame he acquired by his other learned productions. The bards doubtless studied the subject of their compositions, previous to rehearsal, and polished or perfected them afterwards. Ossian was as capable of composing Fingal and Temora, as Homer was to form the Iliad, and the deep misfortune, of being "blind, palsied, destitute, broken-hearted and illiterate," p. 53. and the last of his race, was rather favourable to his poetic genius, while it imparted a melancholy spirit. He might not be provided with an "amanuensis," but he had zealous admirers, and attentive auditors to his frequent repetitions; and although Malvina might be 80 years of age, by Mr Davies' chronology, she could well store her memory, less disturbed by the passions of youth, with those affecting songs, which it delighted the hoary bard to repeat.

A striking instance of the irresistible impression of these vigilant monitors occurs in Irish history. The primate of Ireland, in a conference with Fitzgerald, succeeded in convincing him of the folly and the guilt of a contemplated rebellion, when Nelan, the bard, lifting up his voice with his harp, poured forth a touching effusion, commemorative of the heroism of that noble's ancestors—of their wrongs and the inestimable value of freedom, and evoking quick revenge; the gallant Thomas rushed forth and flew to arms.

When aid was sought from neighbouring clans, the bard was the fitting messenger to arouse the sympathy of friends. In late and altered times, the poets exercised, by means of their compositions, a power scarcely inferior to that of their predecessors, in the days of Druidism. If they could not command the favour of a chief, they could neutralize his efforts by their songs, which took the desired effect on the less politic clansmen. Iain Lom and others performed wonders by the power of verse, and respect for their profession. Rob Donn was more useful by the effect of his cutting poems, in favour of Prince Charles, than his chief was prejudicial in his operations with an unwilling clan.

It is necessary here to notice, with attention, the religious tenets maintained by the Druids, that celebrated priesthood, which held unlimited power over a mighty race—which instilled for many centuries of uninterrupted sway, those generous precepts, that not only operated on the mental faculties of the bard, himself so important a member of the community, but formed a national character, which is not even yet effaced. The progress and fall of a system are to be traced, which became like other institutions, corrupt and injurious, through the venality of the professors of poetry, who had survived the religion whence they emanated, which had long been abandoned by the human race, but which left much, long entwined with the holy faith we now maintain, strongly imbuing the poetic genius of the Gaëlic bards. The wild imaginations of the enthusiastic Celts, led them to indulge in many superstitious ideas, but if, like other Pagans, they openly and emblematically admitted a plurality of Gods; the belief in one supreme disposer of human events was the fundamental creed of the bardic hierarchy; and if the people were persuaded of the truth of metempsychosis, or transmigration of spirits into other bodies, the more enlightened portion believed the immortality of the soul, in a state of happiness or misery. In the work of that intelligent Roman soldier and historian, Marcellinus, who was well acquainted with the Gauls, he thus speaks: "the Druidæ of a higher polish and imagination, as the authority of Pythagoras decreed, being formed into societies or fellowships, were addicted wholly to the consideration of matters of divine and hidden import, and despising all human things, they confidently affirmed that the souls of men were immortal."* The simple and sublime doctrines, if it is permitted so to designate them, which the Druids taught, were to reverence the Deity—to abstain from evil, and to behave with bravery; and they enforced their observance with unremitting energy. To the Almighty being, they paid adoration under the open canopy of heaven, esteeming it unbecoming to confine within a covered edifice, the worship of Him who created all things. At His mysterious shrine—circular, as the type of eternal duration,—they invoked divine favour, under the striking symbol of the resplendent sun, the apparent source of universal life. The appellations, Be 'il and Grian, or Granais were applied to the glorious luminary, and they are still used by the Gaël, although they do not attach to them those unchristian ideas, which darkened the mind of his ancestors, or perhaps being at all aware of the origin of terms formerly repeated with feelings of gratitude and veneration.† Many superstitions which yet maintain a hold on his imagination, are traceable to the mysterious dogmas of Druidism. Feelings carried along from ages the most remote, imbued the minds of the Gaëlic poets who indulged the fond persuasion, that the aerial spirits of departed friends hovered near their earthly relatives, rejoicing in their success and happiness, warning them of impending misfortunes, and ready when meeting death, to bear their spirits on clouds to a happier region. This cannot be called a debasing belief.

The only names which the Gaël yet apply to Heaven and Hell, proclaim their origin in days of Paganism. The ideas concerning Flath-innis, the island of the brave or noble, which was supposed to lie far distant in the Western Ocean, and Ifrinn, the cold and dismal isle in which the wicked were doomed to wander, in chilling solitude, so inconsistent with, and diametrically opposed to the Christian faith, could never have been imbibed from the sacred records of divine will. The numerous imaginary beings, with which the Celts filled earth, air, and water, were admirable accessories to the poetic machinery; they were perhaps originally deified, and although not yet discarded from popular belief, they are reduced to the less awful forms of phocas, fairies, beansiths, Glasligs, &c.

By all people, heaven has been pictured as an indescribable refinement, of all that imparts pleasure to the inhabitants of earth; and it is otherwise impossible to form any idea of the joys awaiting the righteous, the reality of which "it hath not entered the heart of man to conceive." With the Gaël, all the amusements in which they took delight, whilst dwellers in the lower world, were pursued without alloy in their aerial abode. All descriptions of the Celtic paradise, must fall short of their own conception of its glories, but the following effort of an ancient bard to impart some notion of its imaginary excellence, is highly interesting, abounding as it does in that hyperbolic style, which is impressed on all similar compositions. It gives also a curious picture of one of the Celtic sages. "In former days, there lived in Skerr, a Druid of high renown. The blast of wind waited for his commands at the gate; he rode the tempest, and the troubled wave offered itself as a pillow for his repose. His eye followed the sun by day; his thoughts travelled from star to star in the season of night. He thirsted after things unseen—he sighed over the narrow circle which surrounded his days. He often sat in silence beneath the sound of his groves; and he blamed the careless billows that rolled between him and the green Isle of the west." One day as he sat thoughtful upon a rock, a storm arose on the sea: a cloud, under whose squally skirts the foaming waters complained, rushed suddenly into the bay; and from its dark womb at once issued forth a boat, with its white sails bent to the wind, and around were a hundred moving oars: but it was void of mariners; itself seeming to live and move. An unusual terror seized the aged Druid: he heard a voice, though he saw no human form. "Arise! behold the boat of the heroes—arise, and see the green Isle of those who have passed away!" He felt a strange force on his limbs; he saw no person; but he moved to the boat. The wind immediately changed—in the bosom of the cloud he sailed away. Seven days gleamed faintly round him; seven nights added their gloom to his darkness. His ears were stunned with shrill voices. The dull murmur of winds passed him on either side. He slept not, but his eyes were not heavy: he ate not, but he was not hungry. On the eighth day, the waves swelled into mountains; the boat rolled violently from side to side—the darkness thickened around him, when a thousand voices at once cried aloud,—"The Isle, the Isle!" "The billows opened wide before him; the calm land of the departed rushed in light on his eyes. It was not a light that dazzled, but a pure, distinguishing, and placid light, which called forth every object to view in its most perfect form. The Isle spread large before him, like a pleasing dream of the soul; where distance fades not on the sight—where nearness fatigues not the eye. It had its gently sloping hills of green; nor did they wholly want their clouds: but the clouds were bright and transparent, and each involved in its bosom, the source of a stream; a beauteous stream, which wandering down the steep, was like the faint notes of the half-touched harp to the distant ear. The valleys were open and free to the ocean; trees loaded with leaves, which scarcely waved to the light breeze, were scattered on the green declivities and rising grounds. The rude winds walked not on the mountain; no storm took its course through the sky. All was calm and bright; the pure sun of autumn shone from his blue sky on the fields. He hastened not to the west for repose; nor was he seen to rise from the east. He sits in his mid-day height, and looks obliquely on the Noble Isle. In each valley is its slow-moving stream. The pure waters swell over its banks, yet abstain from the fields. The showers disturb them not; nor are they lessened by the heat of the sun. On the rising hill, are the halls of the departed—the high-roofed dwellings of the heroes of old.”*

There is here none of the barbarous ideas which distinguished the Scandinavians. The Celts never dreamt of such joys as were found in Odin’s Hall, or of carrying vindictive feelings beyond the grave—no quaffing beverage from the skulls of enemies, and other marks of ferocious minds. There is here no purgatorial state—no such horrid passage, as led to the Elysium of the Greeks—the transit of the spirit from earth, is on clouds accompanied by those of relatives long before removed. There was indeed an intermediate position, occupied by the shades of those who had escaped the more awful penalty, but had no position in the abode of the virtuous. So difficult is it to control the vicious propensities of mankind, that the Druids not only were empowered to pass a sentence, of the most strict excommunication, rendering it highly criminal in any to show the smallest favour to the proscribed, but they carried their pretensions farther, and debarred them from entering Flath-innis. For those who were guilty of venial crimes, or had shown “the little soul,” by coming short of the standard of goodness, through cowardice, injustice, &c., which did not incur the severer ban, it was impossible ever to reach the island of the brave. Their sluggish spirits heard no song of praise; they were doomed to hover in miserable solitude, beside fens and marshes, tormented by unavailing regrets.

To a northern people, as warmth is of all sensations the most desirable, so cold is the most to be avoided. Exposure to chilling winds, and a state of intense and continued frigidity, is a calamity, which those who were ill clad, must have dreaded even more than the want of food. It was therefore with them a natural imagination, that the place of final punishment should be wrapt in an atmosphere of everlasting frosts. Ifrinnt† was therefore contemplated with feelings of horror, and the dread of being consigned for evermore to its indescribable rigour, operated as a powerful check on the unworthy passions.

Besides piety to the objects of their worship, and unflinching bravery in the battle field, Druidic morality required the exercise of other duties, to merit the beatitude of the Isle of the exalted. The profession of bardism ensured a becoming degree of respect and awe, towards itself; while the patriarchal feelings of clanship bound closely the followers to their natural chiefs and protectors.

Hospitality is a virtue of primitive society—its exercise was a positive law among the Gauls and Germans of old.‡ It continued unrestricted among the Gaël, while their ancient system remained entire, and it is now only cooled, where modern civilization and refinement have intruded on the unsophisticated manners of an open-hearted race. “The red oak is in a blaze; the spire of its flame is high. The traveller sees its light on the dusky heath, as night spreads around him her raven wings. He sees it, and is glad; for he knows the hall of the king. There,” he says to his companion, “we pass the night; the door of Fion is always open. The name of his hall is the stranger’s home.” The feast is spread—the king wonders that no stranger from the darkly heath is come.

“I will listen,” says he, “if I may hear their wandering steps. He goes. An aged bard meets him at the door.”* This paragraph is from the fall of Tura, and on it Dr Smith remarks, that “hospitality is one of those virtues which lose ground, in proportion as civilization advances. It still subsists to a high degree in the highlands; though vanishing so fast, that in some years hence, its existence in some parts may be as much doubted, as that of some other virtues ascribed by Ossian to his heroes. It is not many years, since it was the general practice to look out every evening, whether any stranger appeared, before the doors were shut. When any had cast up, the host had manifestly more pleasure in giving, than the guest in receiving the entertainment.” The Gauls never closed the doors of their houses, lest they should miss the opportunity of entertaining strangers.† Cean uai na dai, the point to which the way of the stranger leads, was the poetical appellation of the house of a chief. In the praise of this virtue the bards ever indulged, and these portions may well be ranked among the beauties of their compositions. “Hospitality stood at the outer gate, and with the finger of invitation, waved to the traveller as he passed on his way.”‡ “Turlach lived at Lubar of the streams. Strangers knew the way to his hall; in the broad path there grew no mountain-grass—no door had he to his gate. ‘Why,’ he said, ‘should the wanderer see it shut?’”§ So a Cumraeg bard exclaims, “Cup-bearer! fill the horn with joy; bear it to Rhys in the court of the hero of treasure—the court of Owain, that is ever supported by spoils taken from the foe. It supports a thousand—its gates are ever open.”|| But the entertainment of strangers and travellers was not left to individual feeling. In the Highlands, were numerous spidals (Hospitia) which like the Irish Fonnteach, were provided for at the public expense by Brehon appointment, and directed by the Bruighe or farmer of the open house.

Lest the Gaël might have an enemy under the roof, to whom they were equally bound by the honour and the rules of hospitality, the name and business of a stranger were not required, until after a considerable sojourn; a year and day was often suffered to elapse, ere a question on the subject was put—an extraordinary effort with a people so naturally inquisitive.

The Druids would doubtless show an example of benevolence and condescension, which the extreme deference they received, could enable them to do without lowering their dignity. Had their rule been otherwise than benign, it would have been impossible for them to have maintained their undiminished influence so very long, among a people proverbially impatient of severity and coercion, yet more power was vested in them, than even in their princes; it was to them as to magistrates that the settlement of all disputes was referred, whence they obtained the name of Co' retich, peace-makers, the Curetes of the Romans. Being physicians also, their aid would be frequently required; and their kind offices were cheerfully afforded. The promptitude with which they threw their protection over the distressed, is commemorated in a saying yet current in the Highlands:

“ The stone lies not closer to the earth, than the help of Coivi is to those in distress.” This personage was no other than the Ard Druid, or chief Druid. Coivi is supposed to have been the title of the primate; it is that given to the one who attended a council called by Edwin of Northumberland, when about to renounce paganism. Of their prescriptions, one is preserved in tradition, the observance of which would much conduce to health. “ Bi gu sugradh, geannnaidh mocheir 'each.” Be cheerful, temperate, and rise early, or take exercise.

As those who entered the order were obliged to bear an unblemished character,* they were eminent in the practice of the virtues they sedulously inculcated. “ Within this bosom there is a voice—it comes not to other ears—it bids Ossian help the helpless, in their hour of need.” In the same poem, the bard shows the impropriety of sons reviving the quarrels of their fathers; had his excellent advice been attended to, in later times, it would have prevented many unfortunate feuds which were unhappily fomented, often for sinister purposes: “ your fathers have been foes—forget their rage ye warriors, it was the cloud of other years!”† It was a high compliment to say that, “ none ever went sad from Fingal,” and proudly might a Celtic hero declare:—“ my hand never injured the weak, nor did my steel touch the feeble in arms. O Oscar! bend the strong in arms, but spare the feeble hand. Be thou a storm of many tides against the foes of thy people; but like the gale that moves the grass, to those who ask thine aid. So Trenmor lived—so Trathal was—such has Fingal been. My arm was the support of the injured; the weak rested behind the lightning of my steel.”‡ More examples could be given of these just and generous sentiments of the bards, who, while they could determine war, had also authority to command peace, and denounce its disturbers. Deeds of cruelty, or the indulgence in a spirit of revenge was abhorrent to bardic principle, at least before the profession became mercenary, and parasitical.

“ If we allow a Celt to have been formed of the same materials with a Greek and Roman, his religion ought certainly to have made him a better man, and a greater hero.”

Some have maintained, that there were no Druidesses. Among the Gaël, celibacy was certainly not a rule; for we hear of the bards having wives,—Ossian among others. The Isle of Sena, now Isle de Sain[ts], off the coast of France, contained a college of Druidesses, who, like him of Skerr, had power over the winds, which they were in the practice of selling to credulous mariners. These unfortunate damsels fell at last victims to the sanguinary system of persecution, to which the votaries of bardism were every where subjected. Conan, Duke of Bretagne, in the fervour of his zeal, committed them to the flames.§ Those who acted so conspicuous a part, when in desperation they defended themselves against Suetonius and his legions in Anglesea, were most probably the wives of the British Druids. Arrayed in black garments, they ran wildly to and fro, with dishevelled hair and drawn swords, forcing back, like the Cimbric females of old, those who were retreating. "They are for this looked upon with detestation by those who at Eton, or Westminster, imbibe the notion that every thing is good which a Greek or Roman could do; who triumph with Æneas over the unfortunate Turnus, or glory with the Romans over the fall of Carthage. But if those women had been Roman matrons defending the capitol, we should never have heard the last of their gallantry and patriotism."*

Old poems show that the bard had no partiality for a single life; and the Irish, by the ilbreacht laws, regulated the price of his wife's, as well as his own dress. In fact the succession was hereditary.

Before dismissing the subject of religious belief, which gave so peculiar a character of wild sublimity to their poetical compositions, the settled conviction that the spirits of their ancestors "came to the ear of rest," and frequently appeared to men, acting as guardian angels, must be noticed as having had a strong effect on the sensitive mind, and furnishing to the bards a subject of the grandest description. It was a topic not to be overlooked by bard nor druid, in addressing themselves to their countrymen. The system of morality was adapted for this world, and, to please the great, and secure the approbation of their immortal countrymen, was all else they expected. The appearance of Crugal, with his melancholy presages, is an extraordinary effort of the poet. "Dim and in tears he stood, and stretched his pale hand over the hero. Faintly he raised his feeble voice, like the gale of the reedy Lego. My ghost, O Connal! is on my native hills, but my corse is on the sands of Ullin. Thou shalt never talk with Crugal, or find his lone steps in the heath. I am light as the blast of Cromla, and I move like the shadow of mist. Connal, son of Colgar, I see the dark cloud of death. It hovers over the plain of Lena. The sons of green Erin shall fall,—remove from the field of ghosts?" This was not a dream, but the supposed actual appearance of the fallen warrior. At times their appearance was wishfully invoked; for the Celts seemed to have had no feelings of dislike to such meetings. How sturdily Cuchullin steeled himself against the argument of Calmar, who had appeared to give him a friendly warning, against the perils of the approaching war! He would not be persuaded by him; but, in rejecting the admonition, he gave him the ever grateful meed of praise, which sent him off in his blast with joy. Departed bards were pleased with earthly music, and would come to listen, while the harpers were performing. Agandecca, before the engagement with Swaran, mourns the approaching death of the people, a circumstance which coincides with the wailing of the Bean-sith, so well known to give presage of family bereavements, in Ireland, where its existence is not doubted.

The entertaining Mrs. Grant of Laggan gives in her Superstitions of the Highlanders, many interesting and affecting anecdotes of their belief in supernatural appearances.

So highly esteemed was the profession of a bard, that those most distinguished for rank were proud to be enrolled in the fraternity; sometimes, even those of royal lineage were found in it. The possession of poetical genius entitled one to claim the daughter of nobility as his consort, and the alliance was deemed honourable among Celts and Scandinavians.† Some of the continental Celtic kings are mentioned as poets. In Wales, we find Aneurin, a prince of the Ottadini, Llywarch hen, and many others, who gloried perhaps more in their bardic qualifications, than in their nobility of birth. Among the Gaël, Ossian stands conspicuous; Fingal is celebrated for his poetical talent, and more of the chiefs might be enumerated, as exercising the bardic spirit: indeed, the national taste led the Celts to deliver themselves, especially on matters of serious import, in a magniloquent and poetic strain.* The bards were, it is true, like other professions, hereditary; but this rule must have been modified by circumstances. One with no ear for music, or soul for poetry, could not take the place of his father; and we know besides, that aspirants were admitted. We are assured, that an irreproachable character was indispensable, and a personal defect would incapacitate one from entering the fraternity; hence they were a class of superior appearance, while their consciousness of importance gave them a commanding air.

Extraordinary honours were paid to the bards, and they enjoyed many important privileges. They were exempted from all tax and tribute, and were not compelled to serve in the army, although not prevented if they chose to do so; their persons were inviolable, their houses were sanctuaries, and their lands and flocks were carefully protected, even amid the ravages of war. In the latter ages of their prosperity, ample farms were given to many in perfect freehold, and they were entitled to live, almost solely at the public expense. The Welsh laws of Hwyl Dda gave the bards and their disciples, liberty and free maintenance. The various privileges and immunities, enjoyed by the different classes, were strictly regulated by the Irish, who divided the order into seven gradations. The first was entitled when travelling, to a horse and a greyhound, and two men as attendants for five days; he was then entitled to be kept for one day, where he might stop, be supplied with all necessaries, and rewarded by a gift of two heifers or a large cow, for his recitations or other duties. The second was entertained in like manner, for three days, and was furnished with three attendants when travelling. As a gratuity, he received three cows. The third had four attendants provided for him on a journey, and his reward was from one to five cows, according to the character of his recitations or compositions. The fourth was allowed six attendants to accompany him, for eight days. The fifth, accompanied by eight students in poetry, was entertained for ten days, and was rewarded by five cows, and ten heifers. The sixth was entertained for fifteen days, having a retinue of twelve students; and twenty cows were his reward. The seventh, or Ollamh, was entitled to be freely and amply entertained for a month, and had on all occasions twenty-four attendants—his reward for the services he might render, was twenty cows. The last four, we are told, were specially protected. Considering their number, and the erratic lives they led, the contributions they levied were by no means light. Keating says, that by law they were empowered to live six months at the public expense, and it was therefore the custom to quarter themselves throughout the country, from All hallow tide until May, from which they were designated as Cleir na shean chain, the songsters of the ancient tax. A wandering life seems to have been congenial to their feelings, from a desire to disseminate their works, as well as provide for themselves, and they believed that their public utility fully justified this practice of 'sorning' which was afterwards so grave a charge against them. "The world," says an ancient bard, "is the country, and mankind the relations of every genuine poet." The northern Scalds were held in equal esteem, and enjoyed extraordinary privileges. Among the Welsh, the institutions of bardism became ultimately much refined and complicated, although there were originally only the three primitive classes as in Gaul; and they regulated the duties and immunities of the different individuals with great precision, by express laws which existed from an unknown age, but were first embodied in a written code, by the famous Hwyl Dda in the 10th century. Besides enjoying the same privileges, as those among the Gaël, respecting their persons, property, and domiciles, and being permitted to solicit a largess or gift, by an appropriate poem, tendered without troublesome importunity, which no doubt was often successful, the following perquisites were allowed them.—The Court bard who was the eighth officer in the Royal household, and sat at festivals next to the comptroller, received on his appointment, a harp and other presents from their majesties; the King provided him with a horse, and all his apparel which was formed of wool; the Queen supplying him with that which was of linen. In war, he received the most valuable animal of the spoil, after the leader had got his share, and this was for singing the accustomed war-song to rouse the courage of the troops when in battle. At the Christmas, Easter, and Whitsunday banquets, he received from the Queen the harp on which he performed, and had the comptroller's garment as his fee. On making his Clera or professional tour, he was entitled to double fees. Whoever did him an injury was mulcted in six cows and 120 pence; and for his slaughter, 126 cows were exacted. He paid as Gabr merch, the fine on the marriage of his daughter, 120 pence; for her Cowyll or nuptial gift, one pound and 120 pence; and for her eyweddi or dowry, three pounds. His mortuary or heriot was three pounds.

The chief bard of the district was the tenth officer in the household, and sat next the judge of the palace. An insult offered to him, subjected the offender to a fine of six cows and 120 pence, and 126 cows were the expiation of his death. When a musician had advanced so far in his art, as to drop his Telyn rawn, or hair-strung harp, he paid this chief bard twenty-four pence; and every woman on her first marriage, gave a like sum. His daughter's marriage fine was 120 pence, and his heriot was as much. These were the only two bards who performed before the sovereign; when desired, the latter was to give two songs,—one in praise of the Almighty, the other extolling the king's virtues and exploits, recounting all the famous deeds of his ancestors; the former then sang a third.

In 1100, Gruffudd ap Cynan, or Gryffyth ap Conan, finding the establishment rather disorganized, called a congress of bards to which those of Ireland were invited; and with their assistance, he not only improved the music of the principality, but reformed the order, and introduced many judicious alterations in the rules of government. By these "statute privileges for the profession of vocal song, and for instrumental music of the harp and of the crwth," the bard was to enjoy five free acres; and the chief district bard was to receive at each of the three great festivals, and on occasion of royal nuptials, forty pence and a suitable gift; at weddings the fee was settled at twenty-four pence. The bard next in gradation had also forty pence for the festivals and royal marriage, but only twelve pence for attendance at weddings of others. The next in degree was allowed twenty-four pence on the first two occasions, and eightpence for the latter; while the two lower had twelve pence, and sixpence on the first occasion; and the lowest in the profession did not officiate at weddings, but his immediate superior did so, and received sixpence. The genealogist got but twopence for a pedigree, except he accompanied the bardic cavalcade on the triennial circuit, when the fee was doubled. The Clerwr, or itinerant bards were allowed a penny from every plough-land in the district, and this humble income was secured to them, by a power to distrain for payment. There was a peculiar amusement afforded by the bards of Wales to the company assembled at their great meetings, which was a source of some honourable emolument to an individual. The most witty and satiric of the first order was appointed to an office called Cyff-cler, in which he was to be the butt of all the jests and sarcasms of the others, which he was patiently to hear, and afterwards reply to in extemporaneous verses, without betraying any heat or loss of temper. For supporting this rather unpleasant character, he was rewarded by a gratuity of eighty pence, and the doublet next to the best which a bridegroom possessed.

The heavy eric or compensation exacted for the manslaughter of a bard, and for insulting or wronging him, is an indication of the regard in which he was held.* It would indeed have been reckoned a grievous crime, to put one of these public monitors to death whatever his offence might have been, and some individuals have had their names carried down with the stigma of having avenged themselves on members of this privileged class. In the "Fall of Tura," is an affecting tale, which shows, that the most savage disposition would relax its fury, in the case of a bard. It is thus given in translation by the talented compiler. "The bard with his harp goes trembling to the door. His steps are like the warrior of many years, when he bears, mournful to the tomb, the son of his son. The threshold is slippery with Crigal's wandering blood—across it the aged falls. The spear of Duarma over him is raised, but the dying Crigal tells,—it is the bard." So infuriated was the chief, that on a passing dog he wreaked the vengeance he intended for a human being, had he not been the "voice of song."†

The English settlers sometimes massacred the Irish clergy; but it does not appear that they committed the same atrocities on the bards. One of the Triads commemorates the three heinous strokes of the battle-axe; they fell on the heads of Aneurin and Colyghan, who were bards, and on Avaon, who was the son of the famed Taliesen.

The estimation in which the bards were held, was equally the cause and effect of their extraordinary influence. They were the indispensable followers of a Celtic army, and members of the establishment of Celtic nobility at home and abroad. Struck with this fact, they were viewed by many as insatiable parasites, rather than necessary attendants.

Their utility was extensive, and as in the pastoral and predatory state of society, there were alternate seasons for active exertion and inactivity, the bard was not less useful in solacing his master in the hours of retirement, and entertaining his company at their assemblies, than in aiding the military efforts of the clan in war. He conveyed information of warlike movements over the land, and laboured as hard with his poetic weapons to vanquish an enemy, as others with their sword; and his was the grateful task to extol the heroes of victory, singing loudly to his harp at the head of the returning host.

Their eager spirits often urged them to mix in the battle; but they were usually stationed where their war songs could be most advantageously poured out, and where they could best observe the gallant bearing of their friends. Care was always taken so to place the Scalds; and should the fight have been one at sea, which was of frequent occurrence with these "sons of the waves," they looked attentively from the land, protected by a guard, and qualifying themselves to perpetuate in song, the prowess of the warriors. It was no slight stimulus for such men to know, that their deeds were marked by the bard who was to chronicle their valour in lasting verse, and thus convey their names with fame to late posterity.

When Iain Lom stood on the battlements of Inverlochy castle, marking the circumstances of the battle raging below, he was taunted by Montrose for having avoided participation in the conflict. "Had I," says he, with somewhat of the pride of profession, "mixed in the engagement, how could I have marked the many deeds of valour so nobly achieved, and had I fallen, who would have sung your praise?" The heroic Bruce carried with him his bard to celebrate the heroism of the Scots at Bannockburn; and Edward of England likewise took with him a rhyming monk of Scarborough, in the same capacity, that he might delight the nation with the glorious account of the annihilation of the rebel Scots. The issue of that dire collision would probably have left us no specimen of his talents, had he not fallen into the victor's hands, who made the poet sing the praise of those whose fall he never dreamt of mourning for. Poor Richard Bastwick did his best in the doggerel Latin of the times, which has been rendered into English of a similar cast. Dolefully did the bard invoke the nine.

"With barren verse, this rhyme I make,
Bewailing, whilst this theme I take," &c.

He nevertheless describes in graphic, though uncouth language, the deeds of strength and valour, which he had witnessed.

Another bard with more congenial feeling, celebrated the whole acts and deeds of his sovereign the Bruce, in verse elegant for the age. Archdeacon Barbour of Aberdeen, no doubt, had the feeling of a Celtic bard, and had in his eye the Gaëlic duans; for he was well acquainted with the exploits of "Fin Mac Cowl" and his compatriots.

The above mishap at Bannockburn, is similar to what befell the Earl of Argyle at Aultacholachan, when he took the field in 1597, against the Catholic lords. In confidence of success, and greatly pleased with his bard's prophecy, that he should play his harp in the castle of Slains ere the victorious army returned, he was proudly taken along when

" Mac Callain-mor went fra' the west
 Wi' mony a bow and bran' ;
 An' vow'd to waste as he thought best,
 The Earl o' Huntly's lan.' "

On his defeat, however, the bard was made prisoner, and verified his claim to the faculty of fore-knowledge, much to the delight of the confederates and Lord Errol, who gladly afforded him the opportunity.

Before the chiefs in the Highlands began to think it unnecessary to number a bard among their personal retainers, either from a consideration that their actions no longer required the tribute of so antiquated a recorder, or by an unavoidable departure from the former simplicity of living, finding it expedient to add the bard's farm, like that of the piper and other hereditary officers in their establishment, to the rent roll, he was one of the most respected in the number. The chiefs of Clan-Ranald retained a bard until about a hundred years ago, when Lachlan Mac Nial Mhuireach, the 17th in regular descent, lost his farm, and naturally dropt, as useless, the profession by which he and his ancestors had so long held it. Iain Breac MacLeod of Dunvegan, who died in 1693, was perhaps the last chief who upheld the ancient state by numbering in his retinue, bard, harper, piper, jester, and the full number of what has been with an attempt at wit, designated the tail. Dr Mac Pherson mentions one who kept two bards, and they held a seminary for the instruction of students. About 1690, John Glass and John Macdonald, the bards of two lairds in different parts of the country, met by appointment in Lochaber, to vindicate in a poetical contest their own excellence and their chief's honour ; but the result of this duel is not related. Such challenges were not unfrequent, and it was a well-known practice for the Highlanders to make small bets as to who could repeat the most of the Sean dana, or old poems.

The bards who exercised so beneficial an influence on their countrymen while alive, rendered the necessary and becoming services to the dead. The mode of sepulture is well known ; " the grey stones of the dead," half hid in the moss of ages, and the funeral hillocks and cairns appear on all sides, where the industry of man has not laid the heath under the operation of the plough—the striking monuments of ages far distant, but now the useless record of those who were honoured in their day and generation. The stones of memorial were raised amid the united voices of all around, and the plaintive music of the harpers who gave out the funeral chant.

" Bend forward from your clouds, ghosts of my fathers, bend ! lay by the red terror of your course and receive the falling chief ; let his robe of mist be near, his spear that is formed of a cloud. Place a half-extinguished meteor by his side, in the form of the hero's sword. And O ! let his countenance be lovely, that his friends may delight in his presence. Bend from your clouds, ghosts of my fathers, bend ! " In the same poem is the affecting lament for the beauteous DARTHULA. " Daughter of Colla, thou art low ! " said Cairbar's hundred bards ; " silence is at the blue streams of Selma, for Trathul's race have failed. When wilt thou rise in thy beauty, first of Erin's maids ? Thy sleep is long in the tomb, and the morning distant far. The sun shall not come to thy bed, and say, awake Darthula! awake thou first of women! the wind of spring is abroad. The flowers shake their heads on the green hills, the woods wave their opening leaves. Retire, O sun, the daughter of Colla is asleep, she will not come forth in her beauty, she will not move in the steps of her loveliness."

The duty of performing the obsequies of a hero seems to have been imperative, although his life might not have offered those traits of character which so well suited the bard's eulogium. They however did justice to his memory, neither suppressing any allusion to his vices, nor refusing the praise he might deserve. A chief had broken his oath. "His tomb was raised, but what could the bards say? Manos remembered not his words. When asked what he had done with his oaths? 'Alas! he said, where I found, I left them.' Manos, thou wert generous, but wrathful and bloody was thy darkened soul."

It has already been noticed, that without the funeral dirge, the spirit would be subjected to wander in forlorn suffering about the place where the body had been laid: it was therefore a matter of the utmost solicitude, that this should be performed, and the ceremonial was observed in the Highlands to the days of our fathers. It is now discontinued as a vocal tribute, but the 'Lament' of the piper played in front of the funeral procession, is a most characteristic substitute. Many remains of the Coronach music are believed to be still preserved, and it is reasonably supposed, that the species of piobaireachd appropriate to the melancholy event, has in many cases retained in the urlar or ground-work, the spirit of the original dirge.*

The following detail of the ceremonial at the interment of an old Celtic hero, as given by the Irish authorities, is conformable to what is otherwise related. The Druid first performed those rites which may be called religious; the Senachie then repeated the eulogium of the hero departed, detailing the illustrious descent and personal titles of the deceased. He was followed by the Filea, who recited the Caoine or funeral song, which having been adapted to music by the Oirfidighe or musician, was sung by the Racaraide or rhapsodist, who was joined by the wailing notes of all present.†

The practice of Caoining at funerals is still practised by the native Irish, but since the suppression and neglect of the order of bards, the mourners in Ireland have been mercenary females, generally of advanced years, and their hackneyed or extemporaneous lamentations are not particularly creditable to the art. They, however, tenaciously hold to this rite, whether in Ireland, or elsewhere, and it is evident that there is no Christianity in it. Take a specimen. "O son of Connal, why didst thou die? royal, noble, learned youth; valiant, active, warlike, eloquent! why didst thou die? Oigh! oin-oigh!" Here follows the Uilaluia or chorus, first gone half through, poured forth in the wildest notes of extreme grief, being indeed the chief part of the performance, and as may be supposed not the most regular nor musical. "Alas! alas! he who sprung from nobles of the race of Heber, warlike chief! O men of Connal. O noble youth, why didst thou die? Alas!

* Pat. Macdonald on the influence of poetry and music on the Highlanders, prefixed to his admirable collection of their vocal music.

alas!" The semi-chorus again is given, and then the full orgoll. "Alas! alas! he who was in possession of flowery meads, verdant hills, lowing herds, fruitful fields, flowing rivers and grazing flocks—rich—gallant. Lord of the golden vale, why did he die? Alas! alas!" Uilaluia, &c. "Alas! alas! why didst thou die, O son of Connal, before the spoils of victory by thy warlike arm were brought into the hall of the nobles, and thy shield with the ancients? Alas! alas! Uila—luia, luia, luia, lu, lu, ucht o ong," &c., all which had the most thrilling effect. After the interment, the bard was formerly accustomed to perform the Elogy or Connthal sitting on the grave, which mark of affectionate respect like the Christian services for the dead in the Romish Church, was repeated at the new and full moon, for several months.* The Scriptural lamentations, as that over Saul and Jonathan, are of no whit more religious character.

Adverting to the classification of the members of the bardic brotherhood, it will be seen at first, simple and vigorous; subsequently undergoing alterations and subdivisions. The Druidical order was originally divided into three classes, which are distinguished as the Druids proper, who were the priests and legislators; the Vates, Ovates, Euvates or Eubages and the Bards. The duties of the first have been briefly referred to, and a general view of the bardic office has been presented, but scanty as our knowledge respecting it is, a few more particulars may be given to improve a picture, unfortunately but meagre.

The Vates have been considered by some writers, an order inferior to the bards, and by others to have held an intermediate place in the triad, but many regard the term as simply denoting a more advanced noviciate. "The Euvates," says Marcellinus, "more deeply considering nature, made attempts to discover the highest arcana, and lay open its most secret workings, and amongst these the Druids," from which it would seem that they were bardic aspirants for druidic preferment. Lucan classes them with the bards, but allows them superiority to a simple poet. It is very probable that a claim to a prophetic spirit was the cause of distinction. All three were accustomed to compose and to sing, but all did not claim the faculty of foreknowledge. Vates, which in Latin is a prophet or interpreter, is a word no doubt borrowed from the 'barbarians,' and the Gaëlic Faid signifying the same, appears to be the original word. Dr Smith however thinks Euvates may be Eu-phaisde, promising youths.

To ascertain the etymology of names, often clears up the obscurity which envelopes a subject: on this occasion, the attempt is more curious than useful. The general opinion is, that the appellation Druid is derived from the name of the oak tree, which in Greek is Drus, Derw in Welsh, Duir in Irish, Dair in Gaëlic, Druith in the Cornish. Considering the similarity of these words, the estimation which the Druids, like others, had for the oak, and the veneration they paid to the Mistletoe, the All-heal which grew thereon, it has appeared a satisfactory origin for their name, and the Welsh bards of later days have on the tree-system, raised a very ingenious allegory. The letters dd, having the sound of th, form a common termination, so Derwydd, is the trunk of an oak; bardd, from bar, the top, is significant of the full grown branches, and Ovydd, from ov, raw, pure, indicates the saplings. Sir Samuel Meyrick gives less fanciful derivations—Der, superior; wydd, instructor; and o-wydd, subordinate instructor. In Whiter's method of determining the affinity of words, by the consonants as radices, we see the same consonants running through these words; the tr, pervading a series of terms, indicates activity, industry, improvement; and dr or tr were connected with the mystical T, a Druidical and Pythagorean symbol. The above laborious and profound etymologist, alluding to the Gaëlic "draonaich" so well illustrated by Coiremonadh,* as intimating a diligent cultivator, pronounces Druid to signify a teacher.† The appellation is undoubtedly Celtic, originating with that people, and not imposed by Greeks or others. The sense in which it is still used is that of an artist, a learned person, or vulgarly a magician, and it is the word in the Scripture translation for the wise men or priests. It is equally applied in Teutonic languages to denote a dexterous individual or enchanter.

The word Bard has been pronounced insoluble. It is uncertain whether the peculiar chant, called barditus, is the origin of the term, or its derivative. Bardachd in Gaëlic is poetry and history, literally the bard's work; barddae-th in Welsh is also bardism.

The profession has given names to many localities, as Monadh-bhaird, ach na' m bard, Tulloch-bardin, &c., and respectable families may trace their origin to those distinguished poets. There are many ancient charters in which different individuals are designated, le bard and le harper; the Bards, Bairds, MacBairds, and Wards are their descendants; in Ireland and Argyle are the Mac Faids, and Mac Faidzeans. Throughout the principality are numerous names indicating the residences and haunts of the different branches, as Tre'r Beirdd, the bard's villages. Croes y Beirdd, the bard's cross. Tre'r and Bod Drúdan, the villages, and the houses of the Druids. Bod-Ovyr, the Ovyd's dwelling, &c. &c. The Baile-bhairds in the Highlands and Harper's lands in the low-country, are memorials of the golden age of Celtic minstrelsy.

A sketch of the personal appearance of the different characters, seems an appropriate accessory to a detail of their duties. Bodily imperfection being sufficient for exclusion from the order, it gave an imposing specimen of the Gaulish race, and their dignities were marked by suitable distinctions in dress. Their garments differed from others in amplitude: they were "the wearers of long robes." The costume, as may be supposed, was of a peculiar form, calculated for the attraction of notice, as well as the becoming denotation of rank. The beard which the Celtic nations always shaved, the Druidic officials wore long, and the hair of the head they cut close. The robes flowing to the heel; whilst those of the commonalty, and even of the nobles, fell only to the knee, as sufficiently distinguished the superiority of the order, as the episcopal costume marks the sacerdotal degree. White, denoting purity and truth, was the appropriate colour of the druid's robes.

In Cathlava one of the poems translated by Dr Smith, is a picture of Sean'ear, a druid, then a subject of persecution, but believed to possess supernatural acquirements, and consulted as an oracle by those, who, like the Roman general, might be disposed to say, "I scorn them, yet they awe me." Under the awful shade of his oak he finds him, leaning on his own trembling staff. His head of age stoops to the ground, his grey beard hangs down on his breast, and his dim eyes are fixed on the earth. But his soul is mixed with the spirits of air, and his converse is with ghosts. 'What seest thou of my love,' said Ronan, 'what seest thou of Sulmina?'" The figure was that of a solitary and prescribed anchorite, who submitted to his evil destiny, doubtless for his conscience' sake, like many fellow devotees. In the original, the description is singularly striking.

"An crith-thaice ri luirg fein,
Fui' gheug dhoilleir dharaich,
Lan ogluidheachd :—a chrom aomadh,
'S fheasag aosda sios mu bhrollach.
-air lar tha shuil a dearcadh
Ach anam ann co'radh thaibhse."

The figurative and laconic reply is very characteristic.

"Macan an fas cruaidh,
Barca, thar cuan, na dean ;
Shuilmhine ! 's cruaidh leam do glaoth,
A 'taomadh air tiunn gun fhurtachd !"*

In happier ages, the raiment was an object of careful attention among the Celtic people, with whom every thing was precisely regulated; even the colours of the robes were apportioned by invariable law. In Wales, the bards wore a dress of sky-blue, the emblem of peace and fidelity, and that of the Ovydd was a vivid green, the prevailing colour of verdant nature. The Awenydd, or disciple, showed in his vestment, as an escutcheon of pretence, the three colours, white, blue, and green. When officiating at religious ceremonies, the bard had a cowl attached to the cloak, like that worn by the Capuchin friars; it was called Barddgwccwll, and is the bardo-cucullus of the Romans. The Druidesses are described by Strabo, as arrayed in white garments, fastened with girdles and brazen clasps. Among the Gaël, a very remarkable difference prevailed with respect to the vesture. A variety of colours was introduced, and the number which the gradations in society were permitted to display, was regulated by a prevailing rule. It was a striking mark of the estimation in which the bards were held, that they were allowed six colours, being two more than the nobility, and only one less than royalty itself. This was the well known law in Ireland, and there can be no doubt it was equally observed by the Gaël of Albion. In Meyrick's splendid work on British Costume, coloured prints of the various classes are given, among which we remark the two figures found near Autun, one of which carries the "slat an drui' achd," or ensign of authority, and the other bears the "cornan," or crescent, emblematic of the "cead rai re;" the first quarter of the moon.† The robe is fastened by a brooch on the left shoulder.

Sumptuary laws were not forgotten in the Brehon code. In A. D. 192, as Irish Annals inform us, such enactments settled among other matters, the value of a bodkin of refined silver for the king or a bard at thirty heifers. The clothes of a poet and his wife cost three milch cows, and the raiment of an Ollamh, and of an Anshruith, the next in rank, five cows.

Some proof is found that the Cochal or upper garment which was evidently, from the name, of coarse texture, was fringed and ornamented with needle-work.* The full dress is described as consisting of the Cathanas, cota or body covering, and the Triuse, the gathered or girded up portion.

The shoes were wooden, and of a pentagonal form,† and an Ollamh was entitled to wear the barred or cap of honour. Thus in all respects did the bardic order appear strikingly different from others. On the extinction of druidism, it is probable that the peculiarity of costume was abandoned, the Christian missionaries naturally discouraging a distinction, which was calculated to prolong a reverence for the professors of a pagan creed.

The course of bardic study was long and arduous. So rigid was the term of probation, that the education of a student in the science of druidism, was not completed in a shorter period than perhaps twenty years, during which time he was obliged to commit to memory, a prodigious number of verses; twenty thousand by the lowest computation, but Chambray the Celtic professor at Paris, says the number for those of the highest class was not less than sixty thousand.

In later ages, as we learn from Irish authorities, the time occupied in acquiring the necessary bardic instruction was twelve years, three of which were devoted to each of the four principal branches of poetry. Another writer gives them sixteen or twenty years to complete their education, and he tells us he has "seen them where they kept schools, ten in some one chamber, grovelling upon straw, their books at their noses;" and although their seminary was thus rude, those men were well grounded in the classics, and invoked the muses with great success. The accommodation, it is presumed, was not in all cases so homely. We can scarcely suppose that the practice described by Martin, adopted by some in the Highlands to produce inspiration, was very usual. They would shut both doors and windows, wrap their plaids about their heads, and lie with their eyes closed, and a large stone on their bellies, for a whole day!‡ Poets are sometimes sufficiently eccentric.

If a vassal obtained permission from his lord to exercise a poetical or musical talent, he would, according to his genius, obtain rank by the courtesy of Cambria, but no one, whatever his merit might be, was classed among the bards, except he went through the regular curriculum. There were three individuals of no little celebrity otherwise, who were in this way unqualified:—the great kings Arthur and Cadwalon, and Rhyhawd ap Morgant.

It is much to be regretted, that the Scottish Gaël adhered so faithfully to the druidic injunction, not to commit their knowledge to writing. Those of the sister island were haply less obstinate, and have preserved many of the Breith-neimhe or laws of their native judges. Those which relate to the bards have been collected with praiseworthy care, and given to the world; and although they are likely to show considerable innovation on the primitive institutions, upon the whole, we may believe the regulations in both countries were not materially different.

The order presented three principal classes, in which were several gradations, viz. :— The Ollamh re dan, graduate of song, or bard properly so called; the Seanachadh, or historian and genealogist; and the Brehon, Breith, or judge, which last, in the eleventh century, was separated from the bardic establishment.

The following were the gradations in the order of Fileas or bards, and the qualifications required in each.

The Fochlucan, the youngest student, was required to be able to repeat twenty poems, or historical tales.

The Mac Fuirme was required to have forty tales, any of which he should be able to repeat when desired.

The Dos was qualified by being perfect in fifty poems or stories.

The Canaith, although a degree higher, was not obliged to learn more than the Dos.

The Cli, whose duties are not given in the authority we have consulted.

The Anra, or Anshruith, had to commit to memory one hundred and seventy-five compositions on different subjects.

Lastly, the Ollamh or Doctor, who was the bard, the others being noviciates. He was required to possess a perfect knowledge of the four principal branches of poetry, and be able to repeat three hundred and fifty pieces.*

The Aois dana preceded even the Ollamh, and sat with the chiefs in the circle. This class, however, does not appear earlier than the seventeenth century.

The Welsh had a division of bards no less complicated; the department of each class being pointed out with tedious minuteness, a comparatively modern alteration.† With them there were six classes of bards, three being poets, and three musicians.

The poetical bards were first, historical or antiquarian, who sometimes mixed prophecy with their effusions. Their duty was to sing in praise of virtue—to censure vice and immorality, and it was specially permitted them to address the clergy and married ladies, upon fitting subjects and in becoming language.

The second class, who were domestic bards, exhorted the people to a strict practice of the social virtues, and celebrated those who were patterns to others for their upright conduct and patriotism.

The third order, who were denominated the Cleirwr Arwyddveirdd, or heraldic bards, with their other duties, were assigned the composition of poems on amusing and jocular subjects.

After passing through the gradations of the Awen, or muse, the title of bard was conferred, and, retaining the ancient claim of superiority, the addition of ‘Ynnys Prydain was always given.

The activity of Welsh genius led them to remodel and refine the bardic institutions, with the same care as they have cultivated their language, so that in modern times it must exhibit a very different aspect from what it originally displayed. There were eight orders of musicians; four of which only were admitted to be bards; the Harper, Crwth, and Singer, were regularly invested poets, the Pencerdd being their chief. The four inferior orders were, the Piper, the Taborer, the Juggler, and the performers on the humble Crwth with three strings; the fee of these minstrels was a penny each, and they were to stand during their performance.

The Irish Oirfidigh, or musical order, was in like manner classified, taking their appellations from the instruments on which they performed, of which there were a considerable variety. The following enumeration is given.

The Ollamh re ceol, or Doctor of music, presided over the band consisting of the Crutairigh who played on the cruit or fiddle. The Ciotairigh. The Tiomponaich, who played on the horn; and the Cuilleanach.

These musicians were of much consequence as a constituent portion of the Fileacht, and being good vocalists, after the introduction of Christianity, they added much to the effect of the band of choristers for which many abbeys were famed in both islands. It may be observed, that as the Welsh held the harp to be the indispensable instrument of a gentleman, so we find many instances of bishops and abbots excelling in their skilful playing. We have a curious intimation in the venerable Bede anent the harp; he describes an individual, who at an entertainment being unable to perform on the instrument which was always handed round, slunk away ashamed of his deficiency. Want of a musical taste was accounted an indication of a bad disposition.

The decline and fall of an institution which existed so long, was so widely diffused, and, after the cessation of its direct influence, left so deep an impression on the national character, is a subject of much interest, and affords ample matter for reflection. Like all human establishments, it is seen to advance from simplicity and usefulness, to refinement, corruption and decay. The epoch of Christianity was the commencement of druidic decadence; but with the pertinacity which animates the professors of proscribed opinions, the ancient system was clung to for several subsequent centuries, and indeed where full conversion was found impossible, the apostles and missionaries accepted the profession of the Christian faith, with the retention of many of the established superstitions, wisely considering it better to accomplish the great end by judicious conciliation of long-riveted prejudices. When the Pagan priesthood was annihilated, the bardic branch, as an order of acknowledged utility, retained its place in Celtic society. Many who were touched with zealous fervour in the true religion, became clergymen, and were not the less pious, in that they continued to exercise their poetic talents, and solace themselves with the melody of the harp.* So long were the Welsh in abandoning the institutes of druidism, that Prince Hwell, who died in 1171, invokes the Deity to protect his worship in the groves and circles. This is sufficiently curious; but it is still more so to find that a small society still existing, allege that they are the descendants, and possess a knowledge of the ancient mysteries of the druids, which has been transmitted purely, by a succession of the initiated, who could explain many of the mysterious triads, &c., were they at liberty to divulge their knowledge.*

The Highland traditions are copious on the subject of the fall of the druids, which, from the particulars related, was not a sacrifice to the cause of Christianity. The frequent wars in which the Scottish tribes were engaged, increased the power of the Feargubrèith, while it lessened that of the druid, who had long been the arbiter of all transactions. Treunmor, grandfather of Fin Mac Cumhal, was appointed commander of the Caledonian forces by general election, on which the druids sent Garmal Mac Tarno requiring the chief to lay down his office, with which order he had the fortitude to refuse compliance. On this a civil war immediately ensued, which after much bloodshed, ended in the discomfiture of the druids, whose resistance was so obstinate, that few survived the desperate contest. The bards, who it may be readily believed were prone to flatter the powerful, and avenge real or imaginary wrongs by the sharpness of invective, being no longer under the salutary control of their superiors, the druids, became exceedingly presumptuous, abusing their ample privileges, and drawing on themselves severe chastisement. The Irish legends detail the circumstances of their expulsion twice before the celebrated council of Drumceat, held in 580, where the whole order was doomed to proscription for their oppressive exactions, having gone so far as to demand the golden brooch which fastened the plaid or cloak of Aodh, the king of Ulster! The good Columba, the apostle of the Highlands, left his charge in the college of Ii, for the purpose of interposing his influence to avert the destruction of an order, which, under proper regulations, was so well suited to the genius of his countrymen, and he was successful in softening very materially the severity of their sentence. The bards were on this occasion reduced to the number of 200, one only being allowed to each of the provincial kings, and lord of a cantred, and he was enjoined for no cause to prostitute his talents in flattering the vanity of the great, or covering vice by adulatory strains. He was to compose and sing to the glory of God, honour of the country, praise of heroes and females, and exaltation of his patron and followers. There was evident necessity for restriction; the numbers having so greatly increased, that they were estimated at no less than one third of the population! The propensity which those who were so highly favoured, and possessed such influence, had, like most others, to exceed moderation, required a check. Cupidity, it has been observed, is an inherent passion; and the possession of much, begets a desire for more. The bards subjected themselves to much obloquy and dislike by their arrogance and neglect of their proper duties, which eventually led to sundry curtailments of their personal immunities.

In Wales, they were not less inclined to abuse their privileges. Several regulations had been passed previous to the time of Gruffudd ab Cynan, who, much concerned to find the bardic profession in disorder, held a congress of all who had any knowledge of the science throughout Wales and Ireland, when a great reformation was accomplished; the three classes of poets, heralds and musicians, being then instituted, whereas the offices were formerly held by one individual, and they were forbidden to demand the prince's horse, hawk, or greyhound, or any property from others above a reasonable value.

There is a curious account of this notable convention given in an ancient MS. preserved in the library of the Welsh school, London, from which it appears there were four chief judges who decided, with the approbation of the audience, as to forming the song, preserving it in memory, and performing it correctly. The names of the four were Alban ab Cynan, Rhydderch the bald, Matholwch the Gwythelian (Gaël) and Alav the songster. Mwrchan, Lord of Ireland, was umpire, and by his power confirmed the proceedings at Glen Achlach.* The judicious improvements introduced at this time, were the means of restoring bardism to a sound and flourishing state, which continued until the death of Llewelyn the last prince in 1282. From the strictness of these coercive laws, it is evident the bards were a little unruly at times. If any one left a party for which he had been engaged, offered an insult to a female, &c., he was fined, imprisoned, and his circuit fees for a proportionate time, were forfeited to the church. In fine, although Edward the First actually carried a harper with him to the Holy Land, he subsequently considered the bards a dangerous body; and although they were retained at the courts of his successors, along with minstrels, whose proper occupation was originally that of historians, yet they certainly gave at times great offence by their freedom and assumption: hence such enactments were passed as one in 1315, to restrain them from resorting in unreasonable numbers to the houses of the great; and another by Edward III., which provided that bards who perverted the imagination by romantic tales, and those who were tale-tellers, and seduced the lieges by false reports, should not be entertained in the mansions of the great, or harboured by the people. This is like the decree passed to repress the insatiable curiosity of the ancient Gauls, who were the greatest known encouragers of those who could amuse them with stories—compelling strangers to stop even on the high-ways, and entertain them with some recital, in consequence of which they were misled by the mendacious tales to which their importunity gave so much encouragement.

Long after the maintenance of a bard as a retainer in a Celtic establishment was confined to these portions of the kingdom, their services continued in partial requisition elsewhere; but from the advancing change in society, this neglected class, with difficulty maintained a degree of respectability, but were obliged to itinerate in considerable numbers, and trust for their support to casual employment, by those who made their efforts to please a subject of rude jest. The following no doubt excited a laugh at the expense of the Gaël: it is a curious allusion to their manners by a lowland poet—

“Then cried Mahoun for a hieland padzean,
Syn ran a feynd to fetch Makfadzean,
Far northwart in a nuke;
Be he the coronach had shout,
Earse men so gatherit him about,
In hell grit rowm they tuke:

 An' rowp like ravin rowk ;

In Saxonized England and Scotland, the bards and minstrels were denounced as idlers who lived on the useful and industrious, levying their contributions on an unwilling people. In the reign of James II., 1449, an act was passed, which declared that "gif there be onie that makis them fiules, and are bairdes, thay be put in the kingis waird, or in his irons for thair trespasses, as lang as thay have onie gudes of thair awin to live upon, that thair ears be nailed to the trone, or till ane uther tree, and thair eare cutted off, and banished the cuntrie." By a statute of Jas. VI., in 1579, those who were sangsters, tale-tellers, &c., and not in the special service of Lords of Parliament or boroughs as their common minstrels, were to be scourged and burnt through the ear with a hot iron.

When the court of the Scottish kingdom was Gaëlic, the ancient usages were closely observed, and the class whose history is now under investigation, continued, at least occasional services, for ages afterwards. At coronations, a Highland bard attended in his heraldic capacity, to repeat a poem on the royal genealogy. His attendance at the enthronement of Malcolm II., 1056, and the oration then delivered, are recorded, and the same duty was performed to Alexander III., in 1249, when the poet, we are informed, was clad in a scarlet dress. Various notices are found in the Lord Treasurer's accounts, of the services of seanachies and minstrels at royal entertainments, an extract from which will not be thought uninteresting. Blind Harry, the author of the metrical life of Sir William Wallace, sang his compositions to the king and nobility,† and received frequent gratuities. In 1490, and 1491, he was paid eighteen shillings. In the former year, "Martin Clareschaw and ye toder Ersche Clareschaw, at ye kingis command," were paid eighteen shillings, and shortly afterwards the same payment was made "till ane ersche harper." In 1496 are these entries:—

The kings of England, with few exceptions, continued to employ one or more Welsh harpers in the royal establishment. The marriage of Catherine, widow of Henry V., with Sir Owen Tudor, a nobleman of Mona or Anglesea, from whom Henry VII. was descended, brought the bards into more notice, and the title of the eldest son of the reigning monarch, offered a sufficient reason for compliment to so worthy a portion of the British subjects. When James VI. succeeded to the English throne, Henry, Prince of Wales, appointed one Jones as his bard. The author of the work, whence so many curious particulars of this class have been transcribed, Edward Jones of Henblas, was the talented bard to the last of our princes who bore the title.

That the bardic institutions have been so entirely neglected in the Highlands, is only to be accounted for by the very different position of the two countries. Wales has been for many centuries a province of England; their wars of independence have long ceased, and even internal dissensions have for a great length of time been unknown. In peace and tranquillity, the natives could therefore cultivate their poetry and music as an agreeable source of rational amusement, and if they continued to chant forth their ancient martial lays, it was a pleasing solace to have reflection drawn to departed renown. An indulgence in reminiscences of a state which no more can be reverted to, is some slight alleviation of regret.

The Gaël, on the contrary, who had ever to struggle for national independence, were between energetic resistance of the common enemy; the civil wars in which they were involved, and the clannish feuds which were fomented by designing foes, at last plunged into a state of sanguinary turmoil, which was but ill calculated for the fosterage of such a system as their happier brethren were permitted to cherish in peace. In these inauspicious circumstances, the soft and melting strains of the clarsach might be well suited for the enlivenment of their entertainments, and as an accompaniment for the grateful themes of love, and pastoral pursuits; but the utmost fervour of the harper's efforts, would fail to rouse the vengeful ardour of the Gaëlic heroes. It was the piobaireachd's shrill summons, thrilling in their ears the sad tale of their devastated glens, and their houseless friends, which gathered them for the war, by notes which had often sounded to hard-earned victory; speaking in strains which made their blood boil with glowing emulation, as they marched to the foe, and which pealing to survivors of the battle-field in notes re-echoed by the frowning crags, drowning by its piercing tones, the loud wailings of the bereaved, and the woful shrieks of the despairing women, called in a maddening voice for speedy and unsparing retribution.

The pipes supplanted the harp as the instrument for war among the Gaëlic tribes. The potency of bagpipe-music as a stimulus to heroism was acknowledged by the Irish, who always used pipes in their warlike operations. "As others with the sound of trumpets, so those with the sound of the pipes, are inspired with ardour for the fight." Derrick likewise alludes to its martial use, and in the representations of battles, we observe the pipers in a prominent position, but do not perceive a harper. The great pipe has survived, an equally national instrument, which is much better adapted for an accompaniment at the festive board. The exhilarating but loud-toned Pìob is less suited to appear in place of the bard at the feast of Shells, who by his sweet-sounding harp and vocal melody, afforded a double gratification.

These remarks are by no means to be taken as in disparagement of the professors of this admirable instrument, the sound of which strikes so surely a responding chord in a Scotsman's heart. It is matter of delight to perceive its use so nobly upheld, and its music preserved with so much patriotic zeal. The frequent "competitions" of performers in different parts of Scotland, present a becoming counterpart to the means so successfully pursued in Wales and Ireland, for the preservation of their poetry and music; and this ancient regulation, especially in the former country, is so peculiar, bearing as it does on the subject, that it cannot with any propriety be omitted.

It appears that king Cadwaladdr, about 670, presided in a meeting assembled for the purpose of hearing the bards recite old compositions and their own productions. Those meetings were called Eisteddvodau, and were like the Clera or circuits, held triennially. Prince Gruffudd, who, with the approbation of his Gaëlic friends, did so much for the repression of abuse and introduction of improvement in poetry and music, laid down express rules for the guidance of these meetings, regulating the mode of competition, qualification of candidates, &c., the chief object being "to extinguish falsehood, and establish certainty in the relation of events," the proper observance of which excellent practice served so well to perpetuate the true history of transactions. Invention, or propagation of falsehood was declared punishable by imprisonment and fine, and the like penalty was exacted for mockery, derision, or undeserved censure. Rhys ap Gruffudd, Prince of South Wales, gave a magnificent entertainment in the manner of the country, to King Henry II., when a large assemblage of bards attended, and received a confirmation of all their franchises. Similar meetings have been held at various times and places, sometimes by royal summons; at others, under the auspices of the nobility. Henry VIII. issued a commission for one to be held at Caerwys in Flintshire, 1523, "for the purpose of instituting order and government among the professors of poetry and music, and regulating their art and profession, according to the old statute of Gruffudd ap Cynan, Prince of Aberfraw." Queen Elizabeth appointed another to assemble at the same place in 1568, and those who were not found worthy to hold so honourable a calling, were charged to betake themselves to honest labour, on pain of punishment as vagabonds. On the 22d September, 1792, "a congress of the bards of the Isle of Britain," was held on Primrose hill in a suburb of London, with the view of "recovering druidical mythology and bardic learning."* Since then, the Cymrodorion society has given frequent Eisteddvods in the metropolis, and they are held periodically throughout Wales. The kindred people of Bas Bretagne have been desirous of a similar convention being held there, and we have heard some literati of the Principality observe, that a gathering of bards on the same principle in Iona, where, in the days of persecution, the Cumraeg druids found refuge with their Gaëlic brethren of the same order, would be a highly interesting and appropriate commemoration, and productive of much advantage to the bardic cause. Some degree of literary character was at first given to the competitions in pipe-music, when prizes were awarded for poetic compositions, and when the admirable Donchadh-Ban nan orain was accustomed to present the Comunn Gaëlach na h-Alba, with a complimentary effusion in his happiest style. If the idea of the liberal-minded archdeacon Williams, rector of the Edinburgh Academy, and several other gentlemen of literary character and respectability, is ever matured, we shall have a grand union of the three divisions still remaining unmixed in these realms—the Gaël of both islands and the Cumri, “jointly and severally,” engaged in the prosecution of Celtic literature, of which the bards were from unsearchable antiquity the only conservators.

The Irish, less affected by those unpropitious circumstances which operated on the Highlanders, have retained the use of the harp and its appropriate melodies.

They however had their golden age of bardism, to which the iron naturally succeeded. They escaped the visitation of Roman persecution; but from the time of Henry II., it was an object of solicitude with the invaders, to repress the order as seriously inimical to English designs. Taking advantage of their privileges, they mixed with the enemy and acted as spies, while they excited their countrymen to unceasing opposition. In the statutes of Kilkenny, 1809, it was attempted to abolish the influence they possessed by Celtic usage, but with little effect. In the 13th of Henry VI., 1434, it being found that Clarsaghours, Tympanours, Crowthores, Kerraghers,* Rymours, Skellaghesh,† Bardes, and others, contrary to that statute, were constantly passing between the armies, exercising their ‘minstrelsies’ and other arts, and carrying all information to the Irish camp, means were taken in order to repress so dangerous a practice. The mercenary spirit was but in few cases sufficiently strong to extinguish the patriotic; yet if any of these bards would officiate in the same vocation on the English side, he was taken under protection, and amply provided for. A precept occurs in the 49th, Edward III., 1375, for the remuneration of Downald O Moghane, a bard, who did great service to the English in this way.‡ Henry VIII. received with much satisfaction, ‘a Breviate’ of certain regulations for the good of the country, by Lord Finglass, in which it is recommended, that no Irish minstrels, Rymers, Shannaghesh,§ nor Bardes be “messengers to desire any goods of any man dwelling within the English pale, upon pain of forfeiture of all their goods, and their bodies to be imprisoned at the king’s will.”|| Their habits were no wise changed in the succeeding reign. An act was passed in 1563, for reformation of the enormities which arose in Limerick, Kerry and Cork, by certain idle men of lewd demeanour, called Rymers, Bardes and Carraghsh, who, under pretence of their travail, carried intelligence between the malefactors inhabiting these countries, to the great destruction of true subjects ; it was therefore ordered that none of these sects be suffered to travail within these territories, against the statutes. " And for that these Rymers do by their ditties and rhymes to lords and gentlemen, in commemoration and praise of extorsion, rebellion, &c. &c., encourage those lords and gentlemen rather to follow those vices than to leave them, and that for making of such rhymes rewards are given, &c., for abolishing so heinous an abuse, orders be taken, that none of them, from henceforth, do give any manner of reward for any such lewd rhymes, and he that shall offend to pay to the Queen's majesty, double the value of that he shall so pay, and the Rymer that shall make any such rhymes or ditties, shall make fine according to the discretian of commissioners, and that proclamation be made accordingly." That a bard should vent his indignation on occasion of such a stigma, is not to be wondered at. The Hibernian warmth is natural :

" When England would a land enthral,
She doomed the muses' sons to fall,
Lest Virtue's hand should string the lyre,
And feed with song the patriot's fire.
Lo ! Cambria's bards her fury feel ;
And Erin mourns the bloody steel."

The ' factions' which have continued to agitate the Irish peasantry so unhappily to the present day, had an injurious effect on the poetical character, the bards becoming mercenary and sycophantic followers of the great. The poet Spenser, who otherwise had a proper respect for the profession, gives a quaint and curious, but on the whole we may believe, a just picture of the bards.

" They were brought up idly," he says, " without awe of parents, without precepts of masters, and without fear of offence . . . for little reward or the share of a stolen cow, they wax most insolent, and half-mad with love of themselves. As of a most notorious thief and wicked outlaw, which had lived all his lifetime by spoils and robberies, one of their bards will say that he was none of the idle milk-sops brought up by the fireside, but that most of his days he spent in arms and valiant enterprises ; that he did never eat his meat, before he had won it with his sword : that he lay not all night slugging in a cabin under his mantle ; but used commonly to keep others waking to defend their lives, and did light his candle at the flame of their houses to lead him in the darkness ; that the day was his night, and the night his day ; that his music was not the harp, nor lays of love, but the cries of people, the clashing of arms, and ' finally,' that he died, not bewailed of many, but making many wail when he died, that dearly bought his death." Such a song, he adds, might be purchased for 40 crowns.*

Many who could not themselves compose, acted the rhapsodist, which Buchanan notices as a practice in the Highlands also, and sang the poems of others as a profession. In fact, the bards in Ireland became a public annoyance, and frequent petitions were made for their suppression.

Most part were extremely profligate, and consequently poor, but some became affluent, and renounced a profession become disreputable.* A genuine bardic feeling animated Richard Roberts, a poor harper, who performed at a late Eisteddvod at Caernarvon, who, on receiving his fee, observed, "this money has been of service for my wants, but it has spoiled my music, for I never play so well for hire, as from my love of the art, and desire to please."

Oral poetry, the only medium through which the Celtæ preserved the memory of all transactions, was in no wise so feeble an instrument as a late Essayist considered it.† A poem of the bard Taliesen, who lived, anno 540, described the death of King Arthur, and the place of his interment, which being repeated before Henry II., about the year 1187, the king ordered search to be made for his tomb in the churchyard of Glastonbury, and there it was found. A similar discovery was made by the recitation of the duan of Cath-Gabhra by an old harper, in which an account is given of the burial of King Conan. The Irish academy, to verify the correctness of the bardic record, had the spot excavated, when the grave was found as described in the song!

It is unfortunate that the Greeks and Romans did not consider the compositions of the Celts worthy of preservation. They may not indeed have been very important, except as relics of extreme antiquity; but the glimpses of ancient manners which they would have afforded, and their curiosity as productions of ages so remote, render their loss matter of much regret. It is certain from the few intimations which are given on the subject, that there were many in existence of very distant origin. Some of the Celtiberians asserted that they had poems, containing their laws and history, six thousand years old. So long a duration may well be doubted, but if it was only a moderate fraction of such a number, it would be confessedly great, and there is no question, but that other tribes made equal claims. The German poems, which formed their national annals, were ancient in the days of Tacitus, who flourished in the first century, and he mentions some composed in his own time;‡ their remains were extant seven hundred years afterwards. One of the pursuits in which Charlemagne took great delight, was, searching for those decaying relics of poetic antiquity and committing them to memory. It was a similar practice with the great Alfred. There is one fragment which may be given as the oldest specimen of the bardic genius of an ancient Celt. Luernius, king of the Arverni; was wont to court popularity by extraordinary munificence. A poet once arriving long after the others, saluted the prince with a poem extolling his virtues and his benevolence, but lamented his misfortune in being too late to receive his bounty. The song procured the gift of a purse of gold, to the happy bard, who then chanted loudly, saying that Luernius' chariot-wheels as they rolled along, scattered wealth and blessings among the children of men.§

Although not disposed to go beyond an era of probability in the belief of the alleged antiquity of many British remains, yet as the inhabitants were found by the Romans, in most parts which they explored, as far advanced in civilization as the Gauls, and were much their superiors in bardic knowledge; not to advert to the general supposition that the famed chief-druid Abaris, who visited Greece clad in a tartan robe, must have been a Caledonian, and other points which would serve to show considerable civilization in early times; there seems good reason to admit that the Britons had also preserved historical poems which may have reached a high antiquity. From certain dark and figurative verses, the early chroniclers probably drew their materials, which, incorporated in their works without sufficiently comprehending the meaning, led to erroneous constructions, and the fabulous narrations which mark the productions of the early writers. Gildas and Nennius or Neniaw, 550 and 608, who were bards, compiled their histories from such authorities; and the former deploras the destruction of many old records by the enemy, and loss of others carried away by those who were driven from the country by the inroads of the northern tribes. Many Cumraëg MSS., were at one time in the Tower of London, either the spoils of war, or carried there by Welsh captives, taken in the Saxon and Norman invasions. They are supposed to have been poetical; but whatever they were, with a policy which subsequently actuated English monarchs with respect to the national songs and records of the sister kingdoms, they were committed to the flames. Owain Glendwr's rebellion, 1400, led to the destruction of most of the remaining bardic compositions which had been committed to writing; William of Salisbury says on his defeat, not one that could be found was saved! The Llyvr du o Caerfyrddyn, Blackbook of Caermarthen, is supposed to be the most ancient British manuscript in existence; it contains the works of bards of the 6th century.*

Among the more ancient remains of bardic science are those of Merddin, or Merlin the Caledonian, who flourished in 470. He was born at Caerwerthevin, near the forest of Celyddon, supposed to be Dunkeld, where he was protected by Gwenddolau ap Ceidio, with whom his mother, a nun, had sought refuge: having through accident killed his nephew in battle, he became subject to insanity, whence he was called the Wild, and his effusions were accounted prophetic. He received a tract of fertile land from this prince, which he lost in the wars with Rhedderch, King of Strathelyde. A poem which he composed on this gift, praising it under the name of an orchard, is a fair specimen of this bard's abilities. The verses have an unequal number of lines, but in each the final syllables rhyme. A verse or two are thus translated:—

AFALLENAU MYRDDIN.

“Sweet apple tree, growing in the lonely glade! fervent valour shall keep thee secure from the stern lords of Rhydderch. Bare is the ground about thee, trodden by mighty warriors; their heroic forms strike their foes with terror. * * * * Death relieves all, why does he not visit me? for after Gwenddolau no prince honours me; I am not soothed with diversion, I am no longer visited by the fair: yet in the battle of Arderydd, I wore the golden torques, though I am now despised by her who is fair as the snowy swan.

woods of Celyddon! all seek thee for the sake of thy produce, but in vain; until Cadwaladr comes to the conference of the ford of Rheon, and Conan advances to oppose the Saxons in their career, &c."*

There are some pretty similes here, and the Celtic character is impressed on the composition, but how far short it comes of the Gaëlic poems of antiquity!

The Welsh having so sedulously maintained the science in all its peculiarities, a reference to their history could not with propriety be avoided. From the kingdom of the Strathclyde Britons, through that of Cumbria, which extended to the marches of North Wales, the tribes appear to have for some time formed the link between the Cumri and the Gaël; the intercourse therefore which appears to have subsisted between the two people in early ages, will justify a frequent allusion to those who at first thought might appear quite disconnected with the Gaëlic bards.

From the beginning of the 5th century there were numerous bards, the remains of whose works are still extant. The antiquaries of Wales enrol in their list the names of several who are assigned an antiquity so remote, that a degree of scepticism is excited as to their existence, but the Irish writers quite surpass them; for they lay claim to national poetry three thousand years old!† It is impossible, without a great stretch of credulity, to believe that any relic anterior to the Christian era has reached our times. Fingin and Fergus of the 2d century, and others, may be real personages, and the authors of poems ascribed to them; without questioning the truth of the legends concerning the more ancient personages, it may be sufficient to say, that from the advent of our Saviour, downwards, the numerous individuals distinguished in the science are recorded by the bardo-monkish chronicles in precise detail. We find among those most noted in the 5th century, Torna and Dubthach who is said to have written a poem in which the rights of the bards are enumerated. He subsequently became a convert to Christianity, and in this class are to be ranked Feich, Cronan, Columcille, Adamnan, Dallan, Seanchan, Angus, Amergin, &c. These primitive Christians, being of the privileged class, by the old institutions, did not fail to set forth in a favourable light, the glorious state of ancient poetry, thinking it an enhancement of the national honour, to show that Ireland was the celebrated land of bards before it acquired the more exalted title of that of saints. The powerful exhortations of St Patrick and his successors, induced numerous bards to betake themselves to the services of religion, many acquiring dignities in the church, and considerable celebrity. In 884, died Maolmhuradh—his contemporary Flann was accounted the Virgil of Ireland; Donagh O Daly, Abbat of Boyle, who died in 1244, was called the Ovid.

We find, from what is recorded of the bardic system in Ireland, that like the Welsh, they had triennial conventions, and the Iomarba, or contests, were professional competitions. The practice in Ireland must be held to be the same as was observed by the Gaël of Scotland. The Munster bardic Sessions which were held so late as the beginning of last century, were suppressed by penal statute.* Attempts have been made to restore in some measure the ancient practice of the harp and vocal melody, as a means of preserving the poetry and music so rapidly on the decline. A Mr Dungan offered four prizes of seven, five, three, and two guineas to the best performers on the harp, in a meeting held at Granard, in 1781, at which eight or ten performers attended. In 1792, a meeting of the harpers, as the descendants and representatives of the ancient bards, was called at Belfast, by a number of gentlemen who raised funds for the purpose of reviving and perpetuating the old "music, poetry, and oral traditions," at which ten harpers attended. The Belfast Harp Society, for supporting a professor and students, was established in 1807. An institution worthy of the descendants of the ancient Dalriadic Scots deserved a more extended existence: it only survived until 1813.†

Returning to the bards of Caledonia, to whose history this essay is more particularly devoted, it must be confessed that they have not met with the ready chroniclers who have celebrated the others; but they have left a more splendid monument, in their own inimitable works.

Who were the "bards of old," whose poems were alluded to by the renowned Ossian, or in what age did they exist? The expression carries the mind back to a distant and indeterminate era, and it proves that there were poems well known in his day, which were then reckoned ancient. "Thou shalt endure, said the bard of ancient days, after the moss of time shall grow in Temora; after the blast of years shall roar in Selma." Fergus, Ullin, Orain, Daol, were his contemporaries, but we know not who was the author of the "Tain bo, Cualgne," a poem co-eval with the epoch of redemption. The Duan Albanach, repeated at the coronation 1056, was formed from some similar record, of much higher antiquity.

The era of Ossian is fixed by concurring opinion, formed from the evidence contained in the poems, in the third century. The compositions of several who lived in his own time, as well as the immediately succeeding ages, have come down to our own times; owing their preservation to that peculiar beauty which characterizes the works which preceded the full establishment of Christianity. Collections of the Sean-dana have been published under the general affiliation to those ancient bards; but as it cannot in the case of several pieces be with certainty shown whether it was the 'voice of Cona,' which gave them being, or the others, the descriptive appellation of Ossianic poetry seems an appropriate designation. At the same time it must be observed, that the judgment of the Highlanders may in general be relied on; some of the anonymous poems given in the following collection, although evidently formed by those who had not embraced Christianity, and compositions of acknowledged merit, are nevertheless so far from the ne plus ultra of the acknowledged standard of excellence, that they are never ascribed to Ossian

* Walker, who quotes memoirs of Clan Ricard, 1727. See Hardiman's Irish minstrelsy for a copious list of Bards and Seanachies and poetical ecclesiastics. Mac Fhinn.* The authors of some of those ancient compositions are known, as of Mordubh and Collath, but many others are anonymous, or of uncertain authorship.

It will scarcely be expected that the question of the authenticity of the poems of Ossian which so long agitated the literary world, shall be resumed in the pages of this short essay. The ample proofs of the existence of those poems in the oral record of the unlettered Highlanders, as well as in several MSS., long before MacPherson undertook the labour of collecting and translating them, obtained by the searching investigation of the Highland Society, and of individuals, have, we should think, settled the controversy to the satisfaction of the unprejudiced. The evidences which the poems were supposed to exhibit of their recent composition, as urged by Laing and others ignorant of the language, have been happily overthrown by natives of the country who well understood the originals, while the correspondence of the chronology of those compositions with the events in Scottish history, is an extraordinary proof of their being the genuine production of antiquity.

“The history of the bards, is perhaps of all others the most extraordinary,” is the expression of an eminent writer on poetry and music;† and another has said, that “on the construction of the old Celtic poetry we want much information.”‡ Since this wish was expressed, the subject has been treated by writers qualified by a competent knowledge of the language. The Triads, which form so curious a record, commemorate Tydain, who first made an order and regulation for the record of vocal song; and it is laid down that there are three requisites for a poetical genius—an eye that can see nature, a heart that can feel it, and boldness that dares to follow it. In Ireland, Ceanfaela (who flourished about 500,) we are told, wrote or revised what is called the “uraicept na neagir,” or rules for poets, a very useful work, since we find there were upwards of 100 kinds of poetical construction. In ‘Anglia Sacra,’ mention is made of a Scot who was acquainted with 100 different sorts of verse, with the modulation of words and syllables to music, to which letters, figures, poetic feet, tone, and time, were necessary.§

The Triads are a sort of oracular stanzas, composed with much art in three lines. This triplet form was not unknown to the Highlanders, but it was more peculiarly Welsh, and appears to be, as is uniformly asserted, the favourite druidic style. It is generally termed Englyn Milwr, the warrior's song, which points to its use as the “cerdd voliant prosnachadh,” or stimulating address which animated the troops in war. It was in this measure, doubtless, that the famed Unbeniaeth Prydain, or heroic poem called the Monarchy of Britain, was composed. This is now lost; but it had a wonderful effect on the hearers, referring to the pristine glories of the Britons when they held the sovereignty of the island. It was Eydeyrn, the golden-tongued, in the reign of Gruffudd, Prince of Aberfraw 1258-82 who made an analysis of the metres of vocal song, “to be as a record and a code.”|| Those who wish farther information respecting the Welsh bards will be amply gratified by consulting the elaborate works of Jones and Evans; it may be sufficient to say, that the three divisions of Englyn, Cywydd, Awdl, close, parallel and lyric metre, were divided into twenty-four, the last of which was "the masterpiece."

The poetical genius of the Highlanders has been often subject of remark. Pastoral occupations and an Alpine situation are congenial to it. The mountains of Bœotia were the favourite abode of the Muses, and the Arcadians, who were the Highlanders of Peloponnesus, became famous in the most early ages for their poetry and music. The modes of Gaëlic versification are various, but on a close examination are not so numerous as at first would appear; it is evident, however, that the ancient poets did not cramp their genius by adherence to any rule, although there was an attention to rhyme and cadence. In later times, the system was rendered intricate and complicated by a curious classification of the letters, in which the Irish particularly distinguished themselves. The Gaëlic language is well adapted for poetry, but it cannot we think, except in a few cases, be successfully scanned according to the rules of latinists, although this has been attempted.*

In the scarce work of Mr Davies before referred to, this learned Cambrian—endeavouring to prove that the poems of Ossian, if allowed to be older than the days of our fathers, are the productions of an age long posterior to their believed era—enters very particularly into the systems of versification, which his elaborate 'Celtic Researches' and intimate acquaintance with such matters, enabled him to do with great critical acumen; nevertheless most of his dicta may be very confidently repelled. 'Rhime,' he admits, 'was peculiarly known to the Celtæ,' and with alliteration it formed the true mark of antique composition; with which observations we readily agree. He subsequently says that alliteration was a more recent invention than rhyme, and that rhyming verses are the nearest resemblance to the style of versification used by the druids. The Welsh were ignorant of alternate rhymes or quatrains, their poetry being usually of such a form as the following:

Mor yw gwael gweled,
Cymwro cynnired,
Brathau a brithred,
Brithwyr ar gerdded.

It is rather surprising that this people should not have this style of versification in their heroic pieces, for which Dryden recommends it as most suited, and in which style the Ossianic poems are generally composed. Mr Davies' object is to test the antiquity of this poetry, but he does so by a comparison with the Irish system which he allows to be so full of art, and so fanciful, that it could not be of ancient origin, nor the manner "of any Celtic tribe whatever!"

The system, as Gaëlic scholars know, is by a complex and arbitrary classification of the letters, and the strict application of the rule of "caol ri caol, agus leathan ri leathan," short to short, and broad to broad. Mr Davies acknowledges that their table must have been the work of time, and says, the oldest specimen in which he found it in full force, was of the time of Queen Elizabeth: certainly the oldest Gaëlic poetry does not exhibit this feature. If 'both nations versified on the same principle,' is there not some inconsistency in saying that the Highlanders were bungling copyists of the Irish? The roughness of this charge is indeed a little smoothed down by the subsequent admission, that whatever they copied they much improved, having, he confesses with unexpected candour, a genius for poetry!

The war-song of Goll he accounts a fair specimen of the poetry of the age of Ossian. He takes it from an Irish version, and a short specimen will be quite sufficient for a Gaëlic scholar to determine whether the Hibernian or Caledonian displays the finest genius, or bears the strongest marks of antiquity.

“Goll mear mileata	Laoch gu lan ndealbhaig
Ceap na crodhachta	Reim an richuraibh
Laimh fhial arachta	Leomhan luatharmach
Mian na mordhasa	A leonadh biodhbhaidh
Mur leim lanteinne	Ton ag tream tuarguin
Fraoch nach bhfuarthear	Goll nan gnath iorguil.” &c.

It is within the range of our observations to consider our author's opinions a little farther. He brings forward many instances of what he terms defective rhyme, but it is evident, he was not sufficiently master of his subject, for he errs in supposing that the final syllables ought to rhyme—it is the penult syllables which do so. He gives four lines which are certainly as perfect rhymes as could be produced.

Briathra bin mhala
Mile mear dhanna
Dlightheach diongmhala.”

Mr Davies dwells at considerable length on the sounds of the consonants and their combinations, according to the Irish table; but although he notices Shaw's observation “that the Highland poets, following their example, had also a classification,” he does not let his readers know that the two differed. The sound of ch, by the Irish is accounted rough; by the Gaël of Alban, it is deemed soft, sprightly, forcible, &c. His objections therefore to laoich, which he maintains should be laoigh to agree in character with faoin; fitich, which ought to be the Irish fiagh; oigh, and seod, and other words which he asserts do not rhyme, are therefore groundless. He may have satisfied himself and been able to persuade others, that the genuine Ossianic poetry is not a production of the Highlanders, because until late years, they had neither grammars nor dictionaries; but surely it will not be gravely maintained, that the grammarian preceded the poet! Ingenious persons would endeavour to reduce to rule, and innovate upon, or improve the acknowledged, although sometimes rather obscure laws of verse, but they no more formed those original laws than Shaw formed the language of which he first gave the ‘Analysis.’ The Irish poetical letter-table was not thought perfect until little more than 260 years ago. Mr Davies allows the very ancient rann on the Lia-fail, or palladium of Scotland, to rhyme very well, although he suspects it to be Irish; but in truth so much time should not have been given to the consideration of his objections to the authenticity of these poems, did not his defiance call for some reply, and the weight of so great an authority require it; the subject at the same time being so appropriate to that in hand. Both nations versified on the same principle, and as few countries produce a Homer or an Ossian, it is not surprising that there should be contending claims for the honour of their birthplace. It no doubt astonished the antiquaries of other countries, to find that such extraordinary compositions should be the production of "a people who had never boasted of their literary treasures," but our learned objector could not find many, except among the hopelessly prejudiced, to believe that "the Scotch poems are the trivial songs of the illiterate peasant in the reign of George III."! To close these remarks, we are happy to insert Mr Davies' own opinion of the same poems, which doubtless was not hastily formed, being expressed in more elegant language than we could readily command, or becomingly use for ourselves.

"The Fingal and Temora, upon subjects so interwoven with the feelings of the people, set this corner of the island far above poetic competition, not only with any Celtic tribe, but we may almost say with any nation in Europe. What people now existing can boast of epic poems, so interesting, so original, so replete with generous sentiment, and at the same time so nationally appropriate? The man who believes himself descended from Fingal, from either of his heroes, or even from the nation which produced such characters, must be a degenerate wretch indeed, if he can do otherwise than think nobly and act honourably."*

Previous to displaying more particularly the beauties of the Gaëlic bards, their system of versification requires to be more fully developed; but it is a difficult task to convey a clear idea of that which is so much "sui generis," and constructed on principles in many cases at entire variance with the laws which govern in other languages. The variety of measure in Gaëlic poetry, is not more remarkable than its complication of rhythm and cadence, often presenting a wild excellence, which to those unacquainted with the language, appears to be a perfectly lawless arrangement of lines. Some of the early productions of untutored bards, and even portions of the Ossianic poetry, are in verse so irregular, as to present the aspect of disjointed prose. The natural flow of the passions is not restrained by attention to measure or adherence to rule, and events which produce strong mental agitation, are not likely to be commemorated, in soft, flowing and well adjusted lines. The ancient bards do not appear to have composed under any fixed laws of versification, yet the wildest effusions were not without a certain rule; their poems, although in blank verse, had a peculiar adjustment of cadence and feet, easily discoverable to a practical ear.

Polymetra, or verses of different measures, employed according to the poet's taste or feeling,—a style, capable of being rendered extremely effective, is held to be the first form of composition, and has been frequently used by both the ancient and modern Gaël. It was adopted by other nations, and successfully practised by the French and Spaniards—in England, it is first seen in the works of Ben Johnson.†

* Besides several literal and versified translations in English, the Poems of Ossian have appeared in Latin, Italian, Spanish, Portuguese, French, German, Russian, Danish, Swedish, &c.

† See Transactions of Irish Academy.

Much of the Gaëlic poetry might be scanned; but a great deal of it cannot be properly subjected to this classical test by the most ingenious; and yet a Celtic ear will tell that it is good. We are of opinion that the rules for scanning, by which Latin verses are governed, are alien to the Gaëlic, which certainly does not owe the art of poetry to the Romans. The concord does not always depend on the coincidence of final words; but rests on some radical vowel in corresponding words, and these not terminal alone, but recurring in several places throughout the verse, which will be best understood from examples.

Muir, cuir; each, creach; gleann, beann, &c., are quite perfect, but in fios, gion; làmh, bàs; feidh, sleibh; beul, speur, &c., the rhyme is in the corresponding vowels. In the same poem, especially if ancient, we frequently meet with good regular versification, and portions in which there is no rhyme at all: indeed in one piece, there are often various sorts of verse.

Rhyming lines, which are thought to be the nearest resemblance to the style of versification used by the Druids, are common.

“ Bha geal-làmh air clàrsach thall;
Chunnaic mi a gorm-shuil mall
Mar ghlan thaibhs an iomairt a’ triall
Le cheilte an cearb nan dubh niall.”

Tighmora, Duan IV. Vol. III. p. 52.

Here is a specimen of alternate rhymes, which exemplifies their independence of the final consonants. The cadence in the middle of the line is also observable.

“ O! m’ anam faic an ribhinn òg,
Fo sgeith an daraich, rìgh nam flath,
’S na lamh shneachd meisg a ciabhan òir,
’S a meall-shuil chiuin air òg a gràidh.

“ Esan a’ seinn ri taobh ’s i balbh,

An gaol bho shuil gu suil a falbh,
Cuir stad air feidh nan sleibhteann mōr.”

Miann a Bhaird aosda, p. 16.

Heroic verse is usually of seven, eight, nine, or more syllables.

Some modes of versification are very singular, having a curious concord of vowels, without alliteration, running through the whole, and occurring in different parts of the lines, forming compound rhymes: for example:

Besides the regular rhymes, there is a sort of melodious cadence pervading the verse, which of course is more or less beautiful according to the genius of the poet. The following anonymous composition shows the harmonious adaptation of the language for versification ; it seems to flow with the greatest facility in the happiest agreement of rhythm and measure. It is usually sung to the fine old air of ' Johnny's grey breeks.'

" A nighean donn na buaille
 Gam bheil an gluasad farusda,
 Gun tug mi gaol co buan duit,
 'Snach gluais e air an EARRACH so ;
 Mheall thu mi le d' shùgradh
 Le d' bhriodal a' le d' chùine,
 Lùb thu mi mar fhiùran,
 'S cha dùchas domh bhi FALLAIN uaith."

Here is another specimen of a similar style :—

Fhuair mi sgèula moch dicèdin
 Air laimh fhèuma bha gu creùchdach,
 'S leor a gheùrad anns An leùmsa
 Anal on trèud bha buaghar.
 O Dhun Gàranach nr àllail

 Na'n gleus glàna s' ceutach seàlladh,

Mary MacLeod, better known as Nighean Alastair ruadh, the daughter of red Alexander, had so fine a genius, that she appears to have struck out some new measures. Here are two specimens of a very plaintive cast.

The following variety is by the celebrated John MacDonald, not Iain Lom, but Iain dubh Mac Iain 'ic Ailein; the Eigg bard.

Donchadh Bân, or Duncan MacIntyre, the boldness and originality of whose conceptions, clothed in poetry of the most genuine excellence, unassisted by the slightest education, have obtained for him a comparison with Ossian himself, offers many a beauty scattered profusely throughout his numerous works. In that admirable poem called Beinn Dou-rain, he has adapted the verses to the piobaireachd notes, commencing with the ùrlar, the groundwork or air: the second part is the suibhal, or quickening, arranged in a different measure, to which succeeds the crun-luath, swifter running music, to which a suitable measure is likewise adapted. It is a curious effort, and his model seems to have been an older piece which accompanied Moladh Mairi, the praise of Mary, otherwise the Mac-Lachlan's salute.

His lines are extremely mellifluous, and his compositions show a great poetical versatility. Let us present a verse of his Coirre-Cheathaich, scanned according to Dr Armstrong.

'S à' mhàdàinn | chùin gheal, | ànn àm dhòmh | dūsghadh,
 'Aig bün nä | stüicë | b'è'n sùgradh | lean,
 A chearc lë | sgüicün | a gäbhäil | tüchäin,
 'Sän cöileäch | cüirtëil | äg dürdäil | trom.
 Än drëathän | sürdail, | 's ä rübhíd | chíul äige,
 Ä cür nän | smüid dhëth | gü lüthär | binn;
 Än trüid säm | brü dheärg | lë mörän ünäich,
 Rë cëilëir | sünntäch | bü shübhlläch | rann.

The measure is repeated at every second line. It will be observed, that there is an agreement in sound between the first syllable of the second and third foot; in the second and third lines, between the first syllable of the second, and the middle of the third foot.

His beautiful song to Mairi bhàn òg, fair young Mary "so often imitated, but never equalled," is another captivating beauty in the composition of 'Fair Duncan of the songs.'

In the fourth book of Fingal is the war song, prosnachadh, or exhortation, which the bard chanted to inspirit the renowned Gaul, when engaged in the heat of a desperate battle. So expressive is the language, and with such skill did the bard compose his address, that the very sound echoes the sense; it could never, we apprehend, be mistaken, even by one totally unacquainted with Gaëlic, for a gentle pastoral. An English translation is given, which is not so elegant as that by MacPherson, but it is more literal, and will, therefore, be considered more fair, i. e. if it were from this version he translated.

In the poem entitled Conn,† is preserved an incantation or invocation to Loda the Scandinavian deity, which seems to partake of the stern character of northern poetry, and has but a very slight approximation to rhyme in the final syllables.

The Duan Albanach is on a subject which did not admit of any copious introduction of the graces of poetry; a portion of it will nevertheless be thought curious, as exhibiting a production of the middle age, presuming, that the bard who repeated it in 1056 was the author, in Gaëlic of an orthography now rather obsolete. There are 27 verses, of which the following are the first and last.

A eolcha Alban uile,
A shluagh feta folt bhuidhe,
Cia ceud ghabhail an eol duibh,

One of the most curious alliterative poems is that composed by Lachlan mòr Mac Mhuireach, bard to MacDonald of the Isles, to animate his troops at the battle of Harlaw, fought 1411. The bard gives a part for every letter of the alphabet, and each contains the most felicitous collection of epithets under the respective letter. Towards the end, the strict alliteration is abandoned, and the piece concludes as usual in heroic poems, with the opening lines, which call on the children of Conn, "of the hundred battles," to behave with becoming hardihood in the day of strife.† A portion will be found, p. 62.

Another selection from "the voice of Cona," will exemplify the freedom with which the ancient bards versified, presenting events in the most impressive language, without restraining the flow of the muse for the mere sake of making the lines 'clink,' as Burns would say.

Mar cheud gaoth an daraig Mhoirbheinn,
Mar cheud sruth o thorr nan aonach,

† The farm, heretofore Muir of Harlaw, is on the north side of the river Urie, about 17 English miles from Aberdeen. It is in the Gariach or rough district, whence the battle is called by the Highlanders, cath gariach. On the field of conflict were to be seen the sepulchral cairns of the slain—MacLean, M'Intosh, &c., but the industrious utilitarian now raises his crops on the soil which enwraps the undistinguished remains of the gallant warriors, who fell in that well-contested field.

Here in some parts the final syllables rhyme extremely well ; in others, there appears no such agreement. The 5th and 11th lines prove how truly Mr MacLean speaks in his "History of the Celtic Language," when he says it is the voice of nature,—an echo, reflection, or vocal painting, so to speak, of passion and action. Celtic versification is indeed one of the most venerable remains of European literature, and its correspondence with the Hebrew style indicates the most remote antiquity.

This extract is truly one of the bardic beauties, but no translation can do it justice. MacPherson was certainly deeply imbued with the spirit which animated those who composed the poems he rendered into English, and although not always strictly literal, they are undoubtedly the most happy attempts to convey in one language the feelings displayed in another. He thus translates the passage.

"As a hundred winds on Morven ; as the streams of a hundred hills ; as clouds fly successive over heaven ; as the dark ocean assails the shore of the desert : so roaring, so vast, so terrible, the armies mixed on Lena's echoing heath. The groan of the people spread over the hills : it was like the thunder of night, when the clouds burst on Cona, and a thousand ghosts shriek at once on the hollow wind. Fingal rushed on in his strength, terrible as the spirit of Treunmor, when in a whirlwind he comes to Morven, to see the children of his pride."*

How much has the Celtic poet here made of a simple battle—what striking accessories he has introduced, and what grandeur of simile he has employed, to impart a conception of the fiercest of fights in which his hero appears so conspicuously ! In "revolving a slender stock of ideas," how admirably he has here availed himself of his scanty imagery !

It would certainly be impossible to preserve in any translation, the native simplicity, force and beauty of Gaëlic poetry. To those acquainted with the language, the representations are highly graphic and often sublime ; but the feeling and felicity of description could not be clothed in an English dress without lamentable deterioration. Could MacDonal's Iorram for instance be translated so as to carry all its force of expression with it ? Language is used to convey ideas and express action and feeling. In a primitive tongue it does so emphatically to a natural mind : when society becomes artificial, language undergoes a similar change. It is to be regretted, that to the English reader, the beauties in this work will be almost unknown, except from the instances submitted in this introduction, and they are merely sufficient to convey a general idea of the peculiar merit of Celtic poetry. The language is no doubt happily adapted for metrical composition, but the people possess a poetical genius, in no inconsiderable degree diffused throughout the community ; for it is a fact that numerous bards were perfectly illiterate ; some of the sweetest being ignorant of the A B C. Duncan MacIntyre is a celebrated instance, and a long list of others who lived in comparative obscurity could be given, many of them in the humblest walks of life. The feeling which animated these plebeian composers was reciprocated by the taste of their countrymen, and many a popular song is the work of obscure or unknown peasants and seafaring men. Such are Fhir a bhata, Air mo run geal óg, and numerous others. The Rebellions, particularly that conducted by Tearlach óg Stiuart, 1745, inspired many an individual of both sexes with poetic fervour, who never, before or after, felt the same irresistible impulse to invoke the muse.

* A translator may lose the spirit and sense of an author if too metaphrastic : we shall however be forgiven for making a few remarks on the above, presuming it was the original from which the translation was made. The oaks of Morven are forgotten in the first line ; Borb is more correctly fierce—dorcha, darkening is omitted. The gairm was not a groan or cry of affright, but the battle-shout of defiance. For the 'hollow wind,' the 11th line would be more literally 'on the idle, eddying wind of the cairn.' It is curious to find sims're, ancestors, instead of progeny ! These unimportant criticisms can never deteriorate from the just fame of MacPherson, and are by no means penned in a spirit of detraction.

The Gaëlic poetry and music are usually of a melancholy cast, and this has been attributed to the atrabilious temperament of a depressed people. Such a character is surely unsuitable to a people who have been characterized as high-spirited, proud and pugnacious. Yet the tender and affecting poems of the ancient bards, and the titles of popular airs, have been considered as satisfactory proofs of the justice of the assertion.* The unhappy situation of Ossian will fully account for the plaintive character of most of his pieces, but, admitting that the muses are most frequently invoked in seasons of trouble and adversity, and that in general the poems are of that gloomy and sorrowful cast, it will show undoubtedly a keenness of sensibility towards affliction, yet it will not follow that the Highlanders are naturally a querulous, dejected people. Poems, commemorative of calamity and distress, took stronger hold on the memory, and more powerfully excited the feelings than those of an opposite character, according well with a grave and reflective race. Dr Beattie speaks thus on the subject: "The Highlands are a picturesque, but in general a melancholy country. Long tracts of mountain desert, covered with dark heath, and often obscured by misty weather; narrow valleys thinly inhabited and bounded by precipices, resounding with the fall of torrents; a soil so rugged, and climate so dreary, as in many parts to admit neither the amusements of pasturage, nor the labours of agriculture; the mournful dashing of waves along the friths and lakes that intersect the country; the portentous noises which every change of the wind, and every increase or diminution of the waters, is apt to raise in a lonely region, full of echoes and rocks and caverns; the grotesque and ghastly appearance of such a landscape by the light of the moon; objects like these diffuse a gloom over the fancy, which may be compatible enough with occasional and social merriment, but cannot fail to tincture the thoughts of a native in the hour of silence and solitude. What then would it be reasonable to expect from the fanciful tribe, from the musicians and poets of such a region? strains expressive of joy, tranquillity, or the softer passions? No: their style must have been better suited to their circumstances; and so we find in fact, that their music is. The wildest irregularity appears in its composition; the expression is warlike and melancholy, and approaches even to the terrible."

No doubt there is much truth in this, but it will not account for a similar character in the compositions of the Irish, whose country is comparatively champaign, and who are blessed with a genial climate and fruitful soil. Whence also the plaintive and tender melodies of the low country and southern counties of Scotland? Both people were imbued with the same feelings—they used the same musical scale to poetry constructed on the same principle.

The prevalence of poems which detail the calamities of war, deaths of heroes, disappointments of lovers, ravages of storms, disasters at sea, &c., with melodies suitable to such lamentable subjects, shows, that tragic events leave a deep and enduring impression; while convivial, humorous and satiric effusions, are usually forgotten with the persons or incidents from which they arose.* The bards sought not to avoid the melancholy vein—they rather gave way to the feeling, and in this mood, many of their best productions were executed. “Pleasant is the joy of grief! it is like the shower of spring when it softens the branch of the oak, and the young leaf lifts its green head.” That mind must be little susceptible of the softer feelings of human nature, which does not sympathize with the poet in the recital of a moving tale of wo. The sensitive bards are represented as at times bedewing the harp-strings with their tears, while repeating the sad story which the sterner chiefs could not listen to unmoved. A bard of Wales, about 1450, describes a similar effect.

His harp in briny flood imbrues.”

“Cease the lightly trembling sound. The joy of grief belongs to Ossian, amid his dark-brown years. Green thorn of the hill of ghosts that shakest thy head to nightly winds; I hear no sound in thee; Is there no spirit’s windy skirt now rustling in thy leaves? Often are the steps of the dead in the dark-eddying blasts; when the moon, a dun shield from the east is rolled along the sky.”† Beautifully does the bard again express himself. “I am alone at Lutha. My voice is like the last sound of the wind, when it forsakes the woods. But Ossian shall not be long alone. He sees the mist that shall receive his ghost—he beholds the cloud that shall form his robe, when he appears on his hills. The sons of feeble men shall behold me, and admire the stature of the chiefs of old; they shall creep to their caves.”‡ The closing portion of the aged bard’s wish is of a similar cast. See page 15.

The generous sentiments which animated the Caledonian heroes, are worthy of the brightest age of chivalry.

“Fuil mo namh cha d’ iaras riamb
Nam bu mhiann leis triall an sith.”

“The blood of my foe I never sought if he chose to depart in peace.”

Female beauty was a very congenial subject for bardic eulogium. The berries of the mountain-ash afforded a simile for the complexion of health, and snow, or the Canach, the white, flossy down of a plant which grows in moors and marshy ground, with the plumage of the Swan, for the fairness of the skin.

* It must strike a student in the poetry of the Highlanders, as remarkable, that it exhibits much more to indicate the state of hunters, than of shepherds or agriculturists.

‡ Berrathon.

“Bu ghile bian na canach sleibhte,
No ur-sneachd air bharr a gheuga.”*

“The star of Gormluba was fair. White were the rows within her lips, and like the down of the mountain under her new robe was her skin. Circle on circle formed her fairest neck. Like hills beneath their soft snowy fleeces, rose her two breasts of love. The melody of music was in her voice. The rose beside her lip was not red; nor white beside her hand, the foam of streams. Maid of Gormluba, who can describe thy beauty! Thy eyebrows, mild and narrow, were of a darkish hue; thy cheeks were like the red berry of the mountain-ash. Around them were scattered the blossoming flowers on the bough of the spring. The yellow hair of Civadona was like the gilded top of a mountain, when golden clouds look down upon its green head after the sun has retired. Her eyes were bright as sunbeams; and altogether perfect was the form of the fair. Heroes beheld and blessed her.”

What a poetical picture of a vessel in a gale does Alexander MacDonald, in his Prosnachadh Fairge or stimulus to a Biorlin's crew, give us: the imagined bellowing and roaring of the monsters of the deep, whose brains were scattered on every wave by the prow, the boat being damaged in the furious collision! &c., evince a truly imaginative genius.

The old bards called Echo, “the son of the rock”—MacIntyre's “ghost of sound,” is much more poetical.

There is fortunately less necessity for extending the number of examples, inasmuch as the bardic “beauties” are so liberally spread before the reader in the succeeding pages; yet before closing our extracts, it will not be accounted a digression, to give a short specimen from the compositions of the Sister-kingdom. ‘The Songs of Deardra,’ are held by the Irish to be of equal, if not greater antiquity than those of Selma. As the poetry of a kindred people, it is similar in character; but those who are conversant with the subject of ancient Gaëlic versification and its peculiar idioms, will be able to say whether it carries the mark of so remote an era as is claimed for it.

heard the news. I took my boat and rushed upon the sea, regardless whether I should live or die," &c.* This is the 'Clan Uisneachan' of the Highlanders.

A few passages, too, from Cumraeg poets, will serve for comparison with their brother-bards among the Gaël. David ap Guilym, who is called the 'Welsh Ovid, flourished about 1370. His Ode to the Sun is a feeble effort compared with that of Ossian, and is less striking than those by Milton or Thomson. The allusions are commonplace, as 'ruler of the sky,' 'ornament of summer,' 'looking on the manly race of Cambrians,' &c., David ap Edmunt, about 1450, composed a Monody on Sion Eos, a bard who was executed for manslaughter. The poet makes good use of the epithet Eos, nightingale, which was given for his mellifluous strains, and he sorely laments that the unfortunate man was not tried by the impartial laws of Howel the Good, which would have found the act justifiable. "A man," says David, "punished for an act in his own defence! Let misfortune fall on such as fail therein—of evils the lesser the better. Is the soul of the slain made happier, or his ghost appeased by life for life as an atonement? * * * Neither the passions of man, nor the virtue of angels was unmoved by the melody of his harp, which whirled the soul upon wings of ecstasy. * * * What have I said? they deprived him of life: he has life—their verdict only changed the scene of mortality for that of immortality. Their wilful judgment will have no effect in that court of equity, which is held at the gates of heaven. He now sings before the throne of mercy with an incorruptible harp." &c. It seems the weight of John the Nightingale in gold was offered for his ransom, but the days were long gone, when the law would be satisfied with an eric of any amount for such a crime.

Sion Tudor, who lived about 1580, is the author of an elegy on the death of twenty poets and musicians who departed this life in his own time. He names each individual with varied terms of praise and regret. The expressions are peculiarly bardic, and approximate to those of a much older generation. "It was God's pleasure," he observes, "to send for these men to hold a feast with him in heaven; may their souls enjoy the celestial mansion! Peace to their shades; their like will never more be seen. They are gone to their heavenly abode; let us hasten to follow."†

There is a decidedly Celtic and pleasing vein in these compositions, but there is not wild grandeur and elevated sentiment, that originality of conception and nervous expression, which characterize the works of the Gaëlic bards.

The Celtic poems were framed by the bard to suit the melody of the harp, the instrument sacred to the order; and to its music they were sung,—a music simple and natural, which long preceded the artificial and complicated. The peculiarity of the Scottish scale is well known as the enharmonic, consisting of six notes in the key of C, with C D E G A C, corresponding to the black keys in a piano. Defective as this scale may appear to be, it is admirably suited to express the passions in the effective tones of nature, the harmony of which is felt long previous to the adoption of scientific rules, and it strengthens our arguments for the unity of the ancient inhabitants of Scotland, that the melodies of the high and low country are invariably formed on the same scale, and possess the same character. The larger harp was strung with wire, and was the clarsach of the Gaël, the lesser being the cruit.

Cambrensis describes the Irish performances on this Celtic instrument in terms of great praise; and, had he visited North Britain, he would have had no reason to speak otherwise of the Scottish harping.

The Ossianic class of poetry is usually sung or chanted in a kind of recitative, executed with the gravity due to such revered compositions. An old Highlander considered it becoming to take off his bonnet when reciting them, and the term laoidh, hymn, by which many are distinguished, indicates the veneration with which they were regarded. The Highlanders were accustomed to sing at all their employments, and it was an excellent stimulus, serving also to relieve the irksomeness of labour. Those Highlanders of Greece, the Arcadians, were remarkable for a similar practice, and it is thus very rationally accounted for by an ancient historian, whose observations are strikingly applicable to the Gaël. “Singing is useful to all men, but truly necessary to the Arcadii, who undergo great hardships; for as the country is rugged, their seasons inclement, and their pastoral life hard, they have only this way of rendering nature mild and bearable; therefore they train up their children from their very infancy, until they are at least thirty years of age, to sing hymns in honour of gods and heroes. It is no disgrace to them to be unacquainted with other sciences, but to be ignorant of music is a great reproach, &c.”‡ We have a very curious account of the vocal attainments of the people by Giraldus, from which it appears they understood counterpoint! “In the northern parts of Britain, the inhabitants

* Book VI. Hibernienses aut sylvestres Scotos. The sylvestrian Scots were the Cearnæch a choile, the Highlanders of the woods, a term formerly applied to these active warriors. Hardiman, a compiler of Irish poetry who delivers himself with sufficient confidence on matters extremely doubtful, says, “Ireland gave its music to Scotland!” with equal justice the assertion may be made in the exact reverse, but would it prove the fact? Speaking of the harp mentioned in the ancient poem which had passed through so many hands; “this,” says Mr H., like every other research connected with the natives of the Highlands, leads to their Irish origin.” If any discovery were made to prove this notion, it would save authors from filling their pages with much unmeaning observation, and groundless and illiberal conceit. If we thought the acerbity of feeling in Mr Davies unbecoming, how could we have grappled with O’Reilly, whose work on the same sore subject, displays so transcendent a share of national prejudice!

use, in singing, less variety than the Welsh. They sing in two parts, one murmuring in the bass, the other warbling in the treble. Neither of the two nations acquired this by art, but by long habit which has made it familiar and national, and it is now unusual to hear a simple and single melody well sung, and what is more wonderful, their children from infancy sing in the same manner!"

There is nothing more remarkable in the Gaëlic mode of singing, than the repetitions of a verse, one or two lines, or sometimes a part of one in chorus, which adds much to the effect, and is a great means of diffusing a knowledge of songs, since by repeatedly joining in them, the whole must soon be impressed on the memory. These tunes or Luinigs are simple and touching, and the effect in a harvest-field is particularly pleasing. The person who sings leaves the chorus to the others, who all join, the leader taking up each succeeding verse.

The Iorrams or boat-songs are those by which seafaring men likewise alleviated the labour of rowing and managing the vessel, keeping time by the motion of the oars, and relieving the singer by carrying out the chorus. When at home, and at social entertainments, the whole company join hands or modulate time by plaids and handkerchiefs passed from one to another. All these songs were formed for the harp or the voice alone—there could be no vocal accompaniment to the bagpipe.

There is a very curious method of singing peculiar to the Welsh. It is called Penillion, and consists in adapting verses to the harper's tunes while performing, without any previous knowledge of the order in which they will follow, and it is thus performed, as we have observed at a bardic Eisteddvod. A harper is brought forward, and around him are seated several persons who are the Penill singers. He commences playing, when one of the party joins him by a song—the harper presently changes the tune; the other as promptly alters his verse, and when he chooses to stop, another takes up the air, and so it goes round. But the true penillion is the extemporaneous production of a verse or verses to the tune, and it is remarkable that this improvisatorial feat is frequently accomplished with astonishing success, by persons quite illiterate. Many of those 'poetical blossoms' display great command of language and considerable genius.*

After the period when Ossian, Orain, Ullin, Fergus, Fonar, Douthal, and other unknown bards flourished, which reaches to the union of the Pictish and Scottish kingdoms, there seems to have been for a long time few poets of any note. About the end of the 13th

The roaring thunder, dreadful in its ire,
Is water warring with aerial fire.

Many of these epigrammatic stanzas are preserved. The following on a silkworm is curious as being formed without a consonant.

O'i wiw wy i weu e â, aia weuau
O'i wyau y weua;
E weua ei wê aia,
A'i, weuau yw ienau iâ!

I perish by my art; dig my own grave; I spin my thread of life; my death I weave!

century, a revival took place; and, since then, numerous bards of acknowledged excellence have from time to time appeared, besides those of lesser note whose songs were of too local and circumscribed a range for general popularity. Had any compositions of sufficient worth been produced in this dark interval in the history of Highland bardism, they would no doubt have been handed down, like those of older date.

In this essay, to illustrate that distinguished order in Celtic society, the bards—the system under which they so long flourished, beneficially exerting their accorded power, a picture has been given, rather of that which formerly existed, than what could have been witnessed in many by-gone generations. It was among the Gaël, that the primitive manners and usages were preserved, when elsewhere they were suppressed or amalgamated with those of the conquerors. Under pretence of abolishing a mischievous superstition, the Emperors prohibited the practice of druidism; but although the ‘Romans carried their gods as far as they did their eagle, they were not able to extend the one or the other over the mountains of Caledonia.’ Little, however, it has been seen, is to be found here or elsewhere concerning this religious belief. Most of the historians, who allude to druidism, flourished when the phenomenon had nearly disappeared, and ‘all that they have done, serves only to excite our curiosity without satisfying it, and to make us regret the want of a history, which seems to have been replete with instruction and entertainment.’

If the age of bardism, in its primary sense, is gone, it is satisfactory to preserve a memorial of what it was, and evidence of its present state. In the following pages are the flowers and blossoms of Gaëlic poetry, culled with careful discrimination, and without the encumbrance of redundant stems and foliage.

The piper is now held in the same esteem as the harper of old, and his performance is a noble substitute for the softer strains of the clarsach; but would not a bard in his multifarious office, combining poet, historian, genealogist, &c., be a useful and becoming personage in the train of a chief? At a Highland banquet about fifty years ago, a call was made for the bards to be brought to the upper end of the room. “The bards are extinct,” observed Mac Nicail of Scoirebreac. “No,” quickly rejoined Alastair buidh Mac Ivor, “but those who patronised them are gone!”

THE BEAUTIES OF GAELIC POETRY, &c.

MORDUBH.

A' CHEUD EARRAN.*

Am beil thus' air sgiathan do luathais,
A ghaoth, gu triall le t-uile neart?
Thig le cairdeas dh'ionnsuidh m' aois—
Thoir sgrìob aotrom thar mo chraig.
Co-aois m' oige ghlac an t-aog,
'S uaigneach m' aigne 'n uamh mo bhròin;
'S mòr mo leon fo lamh na h-aois.
Osag tha 'g astar o thuath,
Na deau tuasaid rium, 's mi lag.
Bha mi uair gu'n robh mo cheum
Cho aotrom riut fein, a ghaoth;
Mo neart mar chraig a Chruaidh-mhill,
'S iomadh cath 's na bhuaill mi beum;
'S tric taibhse mo naimhdean ag astar,
Le ceum lag, o bheinn gu beinn.
Ach thig àm do bhroin-sa, ghaoth,
'N uair dhireas tu 'n t-aonach gu mall.
Cha'n imrich thu neoil thar coill,
'S cha lùb a choille fo d' laimh,
'S cha gheill am fraoch anfhann fein.—
Ach togaidh gach geug an ceann.
Bi-sa baigheil rium-s', a ghaoth,
Oir tha 'n aois ort fein ro theann.

Cuir lasair ri geug do'n ghallan,
A shealgair coire 's aille sruadh.
Tha 'n oidhche siubhal o'n ear,

* The Author of this Poem, whose name is Douthal, was both a Chief and a Bard of great repute. The accounts which tradition gives of him are various; but the most probable makes him the Poet of Mordubh, King of the Caledonians. A fragment of this Poem has been published in Gillies' Collection, in two Parts, consisting of the First, and nearly half the Second Part. It is now given in three Parts entire; and differs not materially from the Translation given in "Clark's Caledonian Bards"—a small Volume published in the last century.

Tha ghrian a' crìtheadh 's an iar,
D'fhosgail eilean Fhlaitheis sa' chuan,
Tri uairean dorsan nan nial,
A glaothaich, "Dean cabhag thar a chuain
Le d' chuach-fhalt àluinn, a ghrian."
Tha neoil dubh siubhlach na h-oidhche,
Gun aoibhneas air chùl nan tonn;
'S tric iad ag amharc do thriall,
A ghnuis àluinn tha 'g astar o'n ear.
Ach eiribh le 'r sgiathan o'n chuan,*
A neoil dhorch nan iomadh gruaim.
Tha sgàilean nan soun o shean,
Tabhairt cuireadh do'n ghrein gu flath-innis.*

Beannachd le ribhinn chiùin do ruin,
Buaidh le d' shaigneid air gach beinn,
A shealgair, tha tabhairt dhomh treòir,
'S mi leointe fo laimh na h-aois!
Ach suidh thusa ann am uaimh,
A's eisd ri tuasaid ghaoth a's chrag;
Innsidh mi dhut sgeul is mor brìgh,
Air suinn tha sìnte fo'n lic:
'S taitneach na smaointean a thriall;
'S miannach dreach nam bliadhna dh-fhalbh!
Pill thusa, m' oige, le t-uile ghnìomh,
A's feuch do m' anam bliadhn' mo neirt;
Feuch gach cath 's na bhuaill mi beum,
A's airm nan laoch bha treubhach borb,
Thugaibh suil o neoil 'ur suain.
'Fheara bha cruaidh anns gach cath,
Cluinnidh 'ur clann fuaim 'ur cliù,

* The Sun was supposed to sleep in Flath-innis, the Iste of Herocs, in the western ocean. The human mind has been in every age ambitious of obtaining a happy hereafter. The Kelts, indulging in this pleasant presentiment, sent the ghosts of their departed friends to this imaginary paradise.

'S thig sìleadh an sùl gu làr.
Tha m' anam a soillseachadh le gnìomh,
Nam bliadhna dh-fhalbh, a's nach pill.

Dh-fhalaich a ghealach a ceann,
Bha cadal reulltan air chul neoil;
Cabhadh ghaoth a's chuan o chian,
Bu gharbh an cath 'bha edar stuaidh,
A's sìleadh ghailbheach nan speur,
N uair dh' eirich co-shamhla Shailmhoir,*
O leabaidh fhuair sa' gharbh chuan;
A siubhal air bharruibh nan stuagh,
S a ghaoth' cur meanbh chath mu'n cuairt,
Dh' eirich mac an aoig air sgiath
Na h-osaig, gu gruaidh Chraigmhoir;
'S bha anail fhiadhaich nan nial,
Ag eiridh ma shleagh gun ghuin.
Ag amharc anuas o leabaidh fhuair,
Bu mhòr a brìdh a bha 'na ghuth:
"Duisgibh! chlann Alba nam buadh,
'S garbh colg "ur naimhdean o thuath;
A' gluasad air bharruibh nan toun,
Tha clanna Lochluinn† nan lom long.
Eiribh! chlann Alba nam buadh,
'S mor neart ur naimhdean o thuath."
Air sgiath na h-osaige fuair'
Dh-fhalbh mac na h-oidhche gu luath.
Lùb an darach garbh fo chasan,
'S chrith gach gallan roi' fheirg.
"Tionailibh mo shuinn o'n t-seilg,"
Thubhairt Ceann-feadhna na h-Alba,
"Soillsichibh sràd air Druim-Feinne,
A's thig mo laoiach o ghruaidh gach beinne."
Labhair Mordubh, Rìgh nan srath,
'S lionar crag tha 'g innseadh sgeil.
Chuala clann a chath am fonn,
A's leum iomadh lann ghlas amach.
Dh' eirich a mhadainn san ear,
A's dh' iarr i air sian gailbheach gluasad.
B' àluinn, maiseach, fiamh na greine
Tigh'n amach gu ciùin o'n chuan;
' Boillsgeadh a gathan air airm
Nan laoch mòr-bhuadhach anns gach cath.

Air adhart dh' eirich Ciabh-ghlas treun,
A's iomadh sleagh air chul Cheann-aird.
Tha Treunmor a tional a shluaigh;
'S c'uin'am bi Mordal air dheireadh.
Labhair Ciabh-ghlas, bu mhor aois,
"Co chunnaic Sunar o thuath?
Am beil e togail iomadh sleagh?

* Tradition says that Salmor was drowned in passing from the mainland to his own house in one of the Hebrides, on hearing that his wife was taken prisoner, and his lands laid waste by Tuthmar, a Chief of Norway, whose father Salmor is said to have killed in battle.

† The Lochlins, signify in Gaelic The Descendant of the Ocean, and comprehend all the Northern Nations who invaded the Caledonians.

Thug mi fein am òig air' buaidh.
Ge fann mi'n diugh anns a chath,
Bha mi'n siu gu neartar cruaidh.
"Ni m' beil a d' neart, no d' chruadal feum."
Thuir Mac-Corbhui bu bheag cliù,
"S treun meannach, Sunar o thuath.
Tha gathan na greine a leum
Mu'n cuairt a dh' eideadh an t-seoid.
Tha sunn gharbh neartar ri thaobh,
Is ard a choille tha lùbadh fo chasan.
Tha creagan Thùr-mhoir beag fo cheum,
'S trom colgar, gailbheach rìgh Lochluinn,
'S cha toir Siol Alb' air buaidh."

CIABH-GHLAS.

"Imich thus' a ghealtair chlaoin
Gu aiseiridh shàmhach nam ban.
Tha t' anam air chrith mar dhuille uaine,
A ghluaiseas roimh anail nan speur,
Mar thuiteas i roi' fhuachd a gheamhraidh,
Teich thusa o na naimhdean borb:
Ach is ioma' craobh gharbh sa bheinn so
A sheasas 'n uair is gailbheach sian.
Is tric thainig naimhdean o thuath,
Ach buannachd cha tug iad riamh.
Imich thuse mhic gun chliù,
Gu aiseiridh chuil nan daoine crion'.
Mur biodh aige-san tha gun chliù,
Naimhdean nach bu mhò na thu,
B' aobhar eagail nach b' fhiù dha
Airm a rusgadh sa chath.
A feith air Clann Lochluinn o thuath,
Bi 'n cruaidh lannan fuilteach o'n taobh.
Chualas t' fhacail bu bheag stà,
A mhic an ardain tog do ghàth."

Dh' eirich dà shleagh gu h-àrd—
Bha rusgadh lann air gach taobh.
Dhuais anis neart na h-Alba,
Chum garbh chath thabhairt dh'i fein:
Ach, thainig sgiath laidir an t-sluaigh,
Rìgh àluinn Albainn a nuas,
Le corruich mhor, 's le trom ghruaim,
Dh' amhaire e air na suinn làn fnath.
Bha shuil gu fiadhaich ag siubhal,
Gu dubhach o fhear gu fear;
Air eagal gu tuiteadh an sluaigh,
Borb luath ag imeachd bha ghuth:
"Na ruisgeadh lann a chloinn na fairge,
Na canaibh gu leag sibh sinn.
Is tric dh' eirich sleagh ur 'n athraiche;
Is lionar an cill air ar tràigh;
Ach 's aobhinn duibhs', a chlann Lochluinn,
Leagar Alba le h-airm fein!"

Làn maslaidh bho fheirg an rìgh,
Shiubhail na laoiach a dhuais an strì;

Mar dhà neul tha siubhal air càrn,
 'Nuair shiubhlas a ghrian air mìn dhriuchd :
 Dubhach bha na glinn roi 'n ceum,
 Ag amharc an tighinn an deoir nan speur.
 Cha 'n fhiù leo an cnocan crion,
 Tha triall chum gruaidh Ard-chraig.
 Mar sin a shiubhlas na suinn,
 An coinneamh a naimhdean borb.
 Air adhart tha ceum rìgh Alba,
 Mar gharbh chraig an aghaidh tuinn mhoir,
 'N uair chruinnicheas na stuaidh,
 A tabhairt garbh chath do thuilte.

Mar ghaoth oidhche shiubhlas air speur,
 Thainig claup Lochluinn nan sleagh ;
 Cha siubhail osag na h-onar,
 'S ann comhla tha dubh ghruaim nan sian.
 Dh' eirich airm Albainn gu h-ard,
 Mar thairneanach tha gairm nan cnoc ;
 Mar thuiteas dà chlach o bheinn aird,
 'S iad tachairt air ùrlar a ghlinn',
 Mar sin bha toiseach garbh a chath',
 Is iomadh nàmh a thuit leinn.
 Bha uamhann a bhlaire air an fhraoch—
 Bha tuilte fala mu shleagh Cheann-ard ;
 B' iomadh creubhag a lot Mordal—
 Bu chruaidh, borb, flathail, gach fear.
 Ach co b' urrainn seasadh roi' cheud ?
 Chunnac an Rìgh ar ceum air ais ;
 Las anam a ghaisgich le feirg,
 'S àilt dearg a leanailt a shleagha ;
 Bha taibhsean a naimhdean mu'n cuairt,
 Ach fad' uaith fein bha na laoch.
 Thainig e mu dheireadh nan deigh,
 Mar thonn a tuiteam o'n chreig ;
 'S tric a dh' iarr an fhaigr air dìreadh—
 'S tric a thilg an stuadh e bho bhonn ;
 Tha gàraich a chomh-stri garg,
 'S am barr glas briseadh 's a ghaoith,

C' uime tha thu gruamach 's an iar,
 A ghrian àluinn ag astar nan nial ?
 Cha b' anfhann na suinn—
 Cha do theich sinn roi 'n mheata.
 'S tric chuir neoil dhorch smal ort fein,
 An aimsir ghailbheach nan sian.
 Ach 'n uair théid fògradh air a ghaoith,
 'S théid caonnag nan speur gu taobh ;
 'N uair bheir thu smachd air na neoil,
 'S a ghlacas a ghaoth air do laimh ;
 'N uair sheallas tu oirne nuas,
 'S do chuach fhalt àluinn a sniomh ;
 'N uair bhios fiamh ghàir air do ghnuis,
 'S mòr aoibhneas 'g éideadh gach cnuic—
 'S aighearach leinn do bhuaidh 's na speuran,
 A's beannaichidh sinn do ghathan, a ghrian.
 Imich gu d' leabaidh le ceòl,
 Thusa tha measg nan reulltan mòr ;

Bheir sinne buaidh fathasd,
 Ged' tha siun a nochd fo leòn.

AN DARA H-EARRANN.

Tri uairean chrath an oidhche
 A sgiath dubh, cheòthach, 's an ear ;
 Tri uairean sheall na reulltan,
 Mar neoil ghruamach nan speur.
 Bha osnadh thamailte nan laoch,
 'S a ghaoith ag astar nan càrn ;
 Bha co-shamhla nan sonn o shean,
 Le corruich ag siubhal nam beann.
 Chualas trom osnaidh nam marbh,
 'S b' anfhann an guth 's na neoil ;
 Chuimhnich sinne gaisg' an lamh,
 A's ghabh sinn tamailte mhòr.

Air ard-chraig dh' amhairc an rìgh,
 'S lìonar gaisgeach bha fo ghruaim ;
 Bha 'n smaointean soillear dha fein,
 A's labhair e le briathraibh cruaidh.
 Air cuis 'n uair laidheas gruaim,
 Théid fuadach an cridhe crion,
 'S théid fir fhann gu luath fo dhion ;
 Togaidh an calma cheann roi 'ghailleann ;
 'S cha bhi fiamh taise na ghnuis.
 Tha ceuman nan sian 's an doire,
 'S cha lùb an darach a ghùn.
 Abraibh sibhse Chinn-fheadhna,
 An tainig sinn o dhaoine crion !
 An ann do gheuga fann ar sleagh ?
 O dharach Alba nam mor ghnìomb,
 'S tric thainig naimhdean o thuath,
 'S c'uin a theich ar sinnsir gu bhuaidh ?
 An geill sibhse do chloinn na fairge,
 Far am b' àbhaist taibhse nan naimhdean
 Leum bho osaig gu h-osaig,
 Le trom osnadh bhròin nam marbh ?
 Tha chlach ud le mòintich liath
 A cumail cuimhne air treun laoch,
 Ag radh, " Cha do theich ar n' athraiche riamb,
 Fhearann leanaibh dian an lorg !"

Ag eisdeachd ri briathran an rìgh,
 Bu dubhach bha na suinn mu'n cuairt.
 Ag amharc claidheamh, sgiath, a's sleagh,
 'S le facail gun bhrìgh ann a chluais.

Sheas Morcheann, Triath Allt-duibh,
 Tri uairean chrath e sgiath,
 Tri uairean bhuail e an darach ;
 " Ainmic bha mo bhuillean fann.
 Ainmic fhuair mo naimhdean buaidh ;
 Ge d' thug bliadhn' air falbh mo neart,
 Ni 'm beil gealtachd am ghruaidh.
 Shaoil leam gu'n togadh mo mhac
 Mo leac, 's gu càireadh e mo cheann.

Chaidh ni 'n togar sgiath, no leac
 Le oigear flathail nan deas lann,
 Bha cheum air adhart sa chath :
 Ach d' fhaillig gach caraaid mu 'n cuairt.
 Bha iomadh namhaid na strì ;
 'S thuit an laoch roi' mhìle suaigh."
 "Beannachd" ars 'an rìgh, "do'n laoch,
 Ach na aonar ni 'm faod e falbh ;
 Theid Ceann-feadhna nochd na lorg ;
 S dorch do choigrich tamh nam marbh."

Ghlac Ogan Mac-Chorbuidh a sgiath,
 An diombainn duinn gu eiridh grein'
 Nan' dean sibh feathamh da'r luchd mì-rùn ?
 An sin do labhair Ceannard treun,
 'S tric thug siol Albainn an t-slige chiuin ;
 Ach e' uin a thainig bàs air coigrich,
 'N uair a thachair iad le mùirn ?
 Is treubhach, maiseach, linn Lochluinn,
 A's buinig sinn fòs ar cliù.
 Ciod uime thuiteamaid mar neul,
 Thig le sgleo bho linne bhuirn,
 A suamh as air bharrath nam beann,
 'N uair chaidhleas a ghealach fo shuain,
 'S a chrathas gailiunn clachan trom',
 'S fiamh eagail air rionnag nan sian ?
 Crathaidh mhadainn a ceann 's an ear,
 'S eiridh a ghrian le cuach-fhalt ciuin ;
 Biodh solus a gath' air gach sgiath,
 'S bàs a gearradh airm gach suinn.

A cur air sgiath Dhunairm,
 Deir Morfhalt,* fanaibh gach laoch,
 Air an tog lamb mhìn-gheal leac,
 Ach laidhidh mise nochd air fraoch.
 Cha bhi deoir air gruaidh am dheigh—
 Cha 'n eirich clach le mo chliù—
 Cha 'n abair athair—"mo mhac,"
 No gruagach—"mo chreach, mo rùn !"
 Lot mo shaighead uchd na ribhinn,
 Bha tlachdar thar mhìle mnà.
 Bha fuil mo chairdean ag cur smùid,
 Dheth na h-airm dhu'-ghorm 'n am laimh ;
 Bu naimhdean a dh'-Alba, m'athraiche,
 Aig Rìgh Lochluinn, b' ainmeil iad.
 B'aite leam siubhal na fairge,
 Thog sà gaisgich bhorb mo bhreid.
 Thainig gaoth le cabhaig o thuath,
 'S thog na stuaidh le feirg an druim ;
 Bha meanbh chathadh g-eiridh mu'n cuairt,
 S neoil ghruamach ag astar os-cinn.
 Dh' eirich Albainn air bharr tuinn,

* Morfhalt was a Scandinavian. His history, as given by himself, is full of the most affecting incidents. His character is distinguished by valour in the highest degree, and unshaken fidelity, to the Chief of Dunarm, who so hospitably received him on landing in Scotland, and to whom he occasioned the greatest misfortune—the loss of his family!

'S chrath gach doir' an ciabh le fàilte.
 Bha sleibhtean gòrm gu ceolmhor, binn,
 Le cathadh mìn bho cheam ar bàre.
 Be Dunairm ceann-uighe nan coigreach,
 A's shìn an Ceannard gasd' a lamb.
 'S e beatha clann Lochluinn an Albainn,
 'N uair bhios meirg fìochaidh air an lamh,
 'S lionar ar feidh, a's làn ar sligean ;
 'S tha cliù a's misneach 'n ar sgeul ;
 'S c'uime chitear gruaim air coigreach ?
 Chaidh sùrd le sòlas air cuirm ;
 B' aobhinn leinn còmhradh ar sìth ;
 'S bheannaich sinn naimhdean ar tìr !

Mar ghathe greine air madainn chiuin,
 'N uair chromar le drùchd gach geug,
 Bha Mìn-bhàs an talla na mùirn,
 A's iomadh laoch toirt suil na deigh ;
 Ach, thug i a rùn do Mhorfhalt.
 Agam cha robh sliabh no suinn ;
 Bha mì an aonar sa chath,
 Thuit naimhdean Lochluinn le m' laimh—
 Thuit, 's cha d' eirich mo chliù.
 Imich thusa, ars' an oigh,
 Gu cathaibh rìghrean cèin ;
 Eireadh do chliù-sa fad as,
 A's cluinidh Mìn-bhàs an sgeul.
 Raineas rìgh Eirinn nan sleagh,
 A's thuit a naimhdean le m' laimh ;
 Sheinn am bard, as fad' thar chuan
 Chualas m' iomradh gu fial.
 B' fhaolidh oighean Innse-fail,
 Le 'n lamhan mìn-gheala caoin,
 Rombam gu furanach fial,
 Ach ni 'n d' fhuair a h-aon mo ghradh.
 'N tra throaigh fearg, 's a phill sìth,
 Phill mi gu òigh nam bàs mìn.
 'N uair dh' eirich Dunairm gu h-ard,
 Bha ghrian na tamh an cluain seamlh,
 'S a ghealach a siubhal gu luath
 O nial gu nial le baoisge geal—
 Thainig guth air osaig na h-oidhiche,
 O chìrb an doire ud thall,
 Mar ghuth na maidne cubhraidh,
 Air aiseag gu m' chluais gu mìn mall :
 "Imich, 's ma thuiteas tu ghraidh,
 Mo shuilean bi'dh silteach gach trà."
 Chrith m'anam le eagal am cliabh,
 Mar nach robh e roimhe riamh.
 Chunnacas Mìn-bhàs nan gaol
 Le àrmunn gasda ri taobh.
 Lùb mi 'n tiubhar, ag radh—
 "A shaighead ruig cridhe na ceilg"
 Nìor rachadh an laoch an cein,
 A bhuidhean cliù do chridhe 'n ardain.
 Ra'nig an guin nimhe a taobh,
 A's chlaan an oigh-mhìn air tom.
 Bha cuach-fhalt dearg le fuil,

A's dh'imeil a h-osnadh air osaig na h oidhche.
 Cion a thainig guin an aoig?"
 Thuir an laoch, le guth ard,
 " O laimh an fhir nach bu tais,"
 A's thog mi an t-sleagh am laimh.
 A mhacain na h-oidhche uaignidh,
 Thuir an t-òg le mor ioghnadh,
 " Tha neart a d' laimh, a ghaigich
 'N uair is faoin do nàmh.
 Nior thog an gaisgeach a shleagh,
 Le cridhe gun àdhadh, gun ghean.
 Falbhaidh do thaibhse duachnidh,
 Le macaibh na gaoithe duibh';
 Far nach tog do lamhan lann,
 'S nach guin do shaihead cridhe gaol."

B' fhad a ghreis thug sinn,
 Cha chualas Mìn-bhàs le gair airm;
 Thuit a shleagh o laimh mo nàmh;
 A's chlaon e fadheigh air an fhraoch.
 Thainig a ghealach o neoil;
 A's chunnacas mo charaid na fhuil.
 " An do thuit thu, bhrathair ghaol?"
 Thuir an òigh, 's an t-aog na beul
 " 'S nach faic t-athair thu pilleadh o n t-seilg?"

O! Mhorfhuil an tìr chein,
 C'aite an eirich do shleagh?
 Cha chluinn thu guth mo bhrathar fein,
 Cur fàilt ort tille le d' chliù.
 Ach uair eiginn thig an laoch,
 A's togaidh e 'n t-saighhead o'n chreuchd—
 Tharuinn mi 'n t-saighhead o'n chreuchd—
 S a h-uchd mìn-gheat air a lot!
 A's shìl mo dheoir le braonaibh fala
 Na h-ighinn, 's a suilean a plogadh
 N uair chun' i lamh Mhorfhuil na fuil,
 'Sgread i mar thannasg, a's theich
 A taibhse air neulaibh na gealaich.
 Ceithir chlathan le 'n còinnteach lath
 Thogadh sud mu uaigh an laolch:
 Ga chòir sin an suain na tàmh,
 Tha 'n ribhinn bu ghile taobh.

Sileadh oighean deoir a bhròin;
 A's seinnidh na h-coin gu tiamhaidh
 Mu dhoire nan neultan dorcha.
 Rè na h-oidhche ag eisdeachd na gaoitn,
 Bha neoil dhubh dol tharum luath;
 A's clann an adhair, gu d' theich
 Le mòr gheilt, toirt dhomh-sa fuath!
 Tha Ceannard Dhunairm na onar,
 Rì bròn, 's a sileadh dheur;
 Air uairbh thig e gan còir;
 A's cluinnear a leon air a ghaioth.
 Cha tog es-an a shleagh ni 's mò,
 Ach coinnichidh a namh ma shleagh.
 Thuit Mac Dhunairm le m' laimh—

Thuit Mìn-bhàs fo dhaille na gealaich.
 An ré na gealaiche nuaidh,
 Théid mi an caramh an t-sluaigh.
 Cha 'n eil mùirn an talla Dhunairm,
 Theid mi, a rìgh; ach ni' m pill;
 Siubhlaidh mi mar ghruaim nan speur,
 A sheideas gu cruaidh air an raon,
 'N tra sheargas na luibhean maoth,
 Le anail fhuar na h-eigh-reotha.
 Laidh an damh aig steigh na carraige;
 'S tha ennlaidh luath gun cheòl.
 Tha 'n darach gun duilleach uaine.
 Tha cìrb an doire ri crathadh;
 A's sian an adhair ga ghluasad.
 Théid an duine ga theach,
 O fhearg na doinìone fuair';
 Ach seallaidh athair na soillse
 Air na raoin, 's iad brònach.
 Dearsaidh a chiabhan le maise;
 A's fògraidh se namhaid nan luibh;
 Crathaidh na cnuic an gruaim air falbh,
 'S ni fàilte ris a dol seach.

Suidhibh sibhse so gu là,
 A Cheann-fhadha nan slogh,
 A's tuitidh mise am aonar,
 A measg ur naimhdean is geur colg;
 Nach abrar, " Nach toir sibh buaidh,
 Chionn gu'm beil mi fhein na'r measg."

" 'S muladach do sgeul r'a luadh,
 A Mhorfhuil," se thuir an Rìgh,
 " Ach ni 'n tuit thu ad' aonar sa chath,
 'S clann Alba an so na'n suain.
 Mar dhealan thu an am na strì,
 Ach coigil do chairdean a Mhorfhuil,
 Tuitidh fadheireadh an treun,
 Treigidh samhradh an àidh,
 'S thig gearradh le gbruaim gun bhàidh.
 Bha Mìn-bhàs am madainn a h-òige,
 Mar dheò greine am barralbh ògain;
 'S co dheanadh còmhrag na fheirg,
 Rì mac Dhunairm a bha garg?
 Cha do laidh e gun a chliù,
 Auns a chria'-thaigh chumhann chaol.
 Gu b' iomràiteach a ghaigse, 's an dân,
 Sheinn na baird gu blasda binn.
 Ach tha sleagh t-athar, a Mhorfhuil,
 Fo smal an ad' lamh sa 'n uairs';
 Cha tog thu i 'n aghaidh ar nàmh—
 Cha bhì fuil t-athar air do chruaidh."

'S i sleagh Cheannard Dhunairm,
 A tha dearg le fuil a nàmh.
 Cha togar ma lann sa chath,
 Tha i *sinte làimh' ri m' ghradh.

* The ancient custom of laying the implements of war, and of the chase, in the grave with the fallen hero, has

Bu Iadair an lamh a fìobh
An t-sleagh so a th' agam fhein ;
Ach tha e coimhead an taibhse,
A threig uaith air raon na nial.
S an toir a naimhde buaidh,
Air athair an lài a shean aois ?
Cha toir—'s e na chiabhan liath,
O rìgh, 'n tra thogam-sa shleagh.

A's tog e a laoch le buaidh,
Arsa Ceannard bu mhòr cliù,
Ach, eisd ri truaighean is mò.
Bha mo thuireadh sa faraon,
Airson Ainnir a chaidh aog ;
Ach ni'n toir acain, no bròn,
Air ais dhuinn an dream tha fo'n fhòd.
Bu mhaiseach air sliabh Culàluinn,
Ainnir nan lamh geala, caoin ;
Dubh mar fhitheach bha a falt,
'S bha brolach mar eal' air caol.
Thigeadh smal air dearsadh, gach òigh',
An lathair nigh'n Shonmhoir nan rath
Gu'm b' àluinn mathair mo chloinne !
A bha fonnar an talla a chiùl.
Thainig nighean Aonair nan Sleagh,
Da'n robh mo rùn an tùs m' oige ;
'S ghabh a suil bu mhor goin,
Culàluinn, am maise mnà.
Na h-aonar fhuair i mo rùn,
A's labhair i rìthe am foil ;
Nach ionmhuinn siubhal' an lo,
'S cubhraidh' Chuilàluinn am beith.
Tha fir na seilg air beamtaibh cian ;
Thràigh a mhuir fada null,
Fagail a carraig sa ghaoith bhlàth.
A nighean Shailmhoir nam bàs mìn
Rachamaid siar gun dàil.
Chaidh iad tro choille nan crann,
'S fo charraig àird mu'n iadh an cuan,
Chaidil Culàluinn bu gheal snudh.
Cheangail a ghuineid mhnà
A falt amlagach grunn,
Na dhuail ri feamainn nan tonn ;
A's thill i uaipe, eridhe bà !
Le h-aighear mu gnìomh nach àdh.
Thain an fhairge tonn air thonn,
A's dhuise Culàluinn á suain,
A's b' ioghna' lea ceangal a gruaige.
Ó fuasgail mo leadan, a ghraidh ?
Nach truagh leat fheiu mi, òigh !
C' uime bhui thu rium cho bà,
'S mo mhacain aillidh am dheigh !
Fhreachair mac talla nan creng,

been observed here by Moralt. Abandoned to despair, he probably regarded his spear as of no further use to him ; and, as the only proof he could give of his affection for the deceased, who so unfortunately fell by his hand, he laid it in her grave. Dunarm, being weak through age, gave him his own spear, and made him his adopted son.

Ach bha nighean Aonair uaithe cian.
Thainig tonn bàiteach thar sgeir,
'S na dheigh cha chualas a h-eigh.
D'fhagadh i na còdaibh-eun,
'N tra threig a bhuinn' an sgeir ;
Tri trathan dh'i bhi mar neul,
Air aigéal na mara ud shios.

Ach ni'n tearmunn dhut gu bràth,
A Ghuineid, do bhrathair baoth.
Thuit an laoch le 'm gheur lann,
Ged' dhion e mi aon uair sa chath.
Laimh rìs ann an suram suain,
Laidh thusa a b' uabhraiche gnìomh ;
Is minig an aisling na h-oidhche,
Thig do thaibhse le droch fhiamh.
Ach a Chuil-àill an fhuilte duibh,
Is ionmhuinn leam thus' am shuain !
Thig thu gun chith, gun cholg,
'S cha sheun fear cuairt do chòmhnaidh,
'N tra dh' eireas gealach gun smal.
Is minig a chluinnear do ghuth.
Roi' thighinn na doimionna ghairbh'.
Cluinnidh am maraich' an éigh,
A's gabhaidh tamh fo sgeith na creige ;
A coimhead nan tonn gun bheud,
Is caomh leis eigh nam boghannan,
Ged' eireadh iad ard san duibhre !
Amhuil a thuit mo chaomh, a Mhorfhuilt,
A's dh' eirich mo shleagh le buaidh ;
Cha mhaireann aon ghràdh air thalamh,
A's leagar mor ghaisgeach san uaigh.

Dh' aithris Ceannard sgeula bhròin,
'S am feachd bha tosdach trom !
Bhrùchadh osnaidh a' chleibh,
'N tra dh' aithris e sgeula na truaighe.
'S an doire dhailreach bha thainh,
Cha d' ghluais an osag am fraoch mìn ;
Cha do shiubhail na neoil thar bheinn,
'S ni 'n robh sian an ciabh nan crag ;
Bha gach crann a's lus an sith,
A's laidh a ghaoth a sios gu grad.
Ciod tha dearsadh san ear,
Faoin chruth le fàite gàire ?
Tha ghealach na cadal gu seamh,
'S ni'm beil a ghrian a tighin air faire.
'S i oighe an uchd chreuchdaich a th' ann,
Le mìle solas tighin' na deann.
Mìn-bhas gu Mhorfhalt an tìr chein,
A tha giulan sgeith a h-athar.
Ni'm beil a h-imeachd am feirg,
Is caomh i air an leirg gu h-ard.
Cuir fuadach fo smalan na h-oidhche,
Tha *reull na maidne na dearna ;
A tighin' mar dhearsadh am moch thrà,
Toirt fios duinn mu eiridh na greine.

* Moidtearg-mhadne.

C' uime tha t-imeachd cho luath,
Ainnir shuairce 's gile gnùis ?
Ach dh-fhag thu mhadainn òg 'na t-àite,
Is caomh leth-dheàlrach do chruth ;
Thar bhadan ceathaich na leirge,
A dh-fhalbhas ro' eiridh na greine.

AN TREAS EARRAN.

Bha briseadh na faire 's an ear,
'S theich duibhre air sgiathan luathais :
Dh' imich na reulltan fad as ;
'S bha ghrian a togail a cinn àidh,
'N tra thog am bàrd a ghuth.

Chuir Sunar, Ceann-feadhna nan laoch,
Tha treun mar charraig nan tonn,
Mar chnoc air thir-mor nach gluaisear,
Mise thugaibh, shìol nam beann.
Tha fhìreun air sgiathan ro threun ;
'S tha sheobhaig ma cheum gu luath ;
Bha fhithich ma loma long !
Air imeachd nan cuantean mòr.
An tabhair ceannard na tìr'
A shuinn dhaibh mar chlosaich ?
Na 'n tuit e sìos do'n ghaisgeach,
Ag tabhairt feidh a shleibhteann ard ?
Uaibhse, theich o'n chath,
Tha Sìol Lochluinn nan sleagh geur',
Ag iarraidh freagairt gu grad.

'S ard guth Shunar gun ag,
Fhìlidh dhàn nan ciabhan liatha :
Tha bhriathran labhar neo-mheat',
A chionn nach eil a naimhdean lionmhor.

Ach, suidh thus' air an fhraoch,
A mhacain nam fonn is binn' ;
A's theid an t-slige làn mu'n cuairt ;
Cha 'n eil ar fuath air clann nam fonn :
A's pill a rithisd, gu foil,
Gu Rìgh Lochluinn, a ghlòir nach àdh ;
Innis dha gu'm beil eunlaidh nan sliabh,
Air sgiath an dèis an creich fein.
Thigeadh e le mhiltean sloigh ;
Tha neart n'ar cridhe-ne 'ta mòr

Chual am bard briathran an Rìgh,
A's dh-fhalbh e 'n ardan a chrì :
Bha aithris nan taibhse na chuairt,
O'n chunnaic e 'n sluagh a thuit.*
Mar thig an doireann bho thuath,

* The bard, leaving the adverse host, reflected on the high spirit of either army, and inferred the effects that would naturally ensue. Being inspired with such thoughts, he looked forward with a prophetic eye, and pronounced the fall of the people. Hence often the ground of belief in the second sight.

Le gaoth luath a's nialta fiuch,
A tuirìnn o ghruaidhean nam beann,
Nuas air aonach, ghlinn, a's shlochd—
Mar sin thainig Sunar le shuinn.
Bha 'n sgiathan mar nialaibh na h-oidheche—
Bha 'n aghaidh mar reulltan a' lasadh,
'S na plathanaibh duibhreach, nialach.

Chaidh neart na h-Alba air adhart,
Mar ghaillbheann thonn le gair,
Tha g' imeachd an neart nan sian,
Tha gluasad o chian gu h-àrd.
Cluinnidh an maraiche an toirm,
'S le fiamh theid e na dhàil,
O nach urr' e nis a sheachnadh,
Tha 'g iomairt air aghaidh na bhàre.

Cia mar dh'aithriseam fein
Gnìomhan euchdach 'ur n-arm ?
A shealgair Choirre-nan-stùc,
Chunna' do shuil Mor-chreag—
A tha togail a chinn gu h-àrd,
'S a gabhail nan nial na chiabh,
O mhulach tha tòirleum a nuas,
Le tailmrich o ghruaidh na craig,
Sruth laidir, tha siubhal gu lath,
Gu cuan, o aonach a's ghleann,
'S a tuasaid ri buinne na fairge ;
Ach bu ghair, a shealgair, an trod.

Mar lùbas a chuisseag fhann,
Fo dhoinnion na h-àibheis fuair',
'N uair bhios buaireas thaibhse dian,
'S na siantan uile fo ghruaim.
Lùb Sìol Lochluinn gu lùath
Roimh Rìgh Alba nan sluagh àir.
Chunnaic Sunar e tighin—
A's chrath e trì uairean a shleagh.
Ach crathaidh tu i gu faoin,
A mhic Lochluinn a ghuth aird.
Mar charraig roi' dhoineann garbh,
Tha ceann-feadhna na h-Alba an tràs.
Am buinne tha neartar, mear,
Teichidh roimh aghaidh gun chail.

“ Ach an do theich mise riamh,”
'S e labhair Rìgh Lochluinn nan cliar.
“ Mar dhoinnion an adhair mo laimh,
Cha seas na beanntan fein le'n coill,
'S le'n stacaibh cragach, am lathair.
Air an fhaireg thug mi buaidh,
'N uair le feirge do sgaoil an cuan,
Mu fhearann a's fhonn, ag eigheach,
Is bheum gach rutha, a's sgeir bheucach.
Ach 's faoin a labhair thu, chuain,
Bhuirb nan stuadh-ghlasa baoh ?
Nach tug mi fein ort roimhe buaidh ?
'S an seas Ceannard an t-sluaigh so ri m' thaobh ?”

Sin samhail do bhriathraibh an laich.
 Ach, chrithnich an talamh mu'n cuairt,
 'N tra thog iad an sleaghan ard;
 Thuit craobhan le m' freumhach buaint',
 'S chrith creagan fo chasan nan treun?
 A's leum iad o'n leabaidh thaimh.
 'S iomadh cruaidh a bha á truaill,
 A's saighead a siubhal a h-iubhar.
 Bha seoid ag amharc an strì,
 'S dà rìgh a gleac' gu borb.
 Thuit sgiath Shunair gu lar,
 'S thar a shloigh thuige le fiamh;
 Thog Mordubh a shleagh gu h-ard,
 Ach chun' e uchd a nàimh gun sgiath.
 Bha smointean air gnìomhan éuchd,
 A's ghleidh e laimh air ais.

Bha Morfholt air aghaidh 's a chath—
 Leis thuit laoch air gach buille
 Sheas Ceann-feadhna bho thuath an cein;
 Bha airde mar chraoibh fo blà.
 Dh'aom clann Alba air an ais,
 O sgeith laidir mar stuadh o charraig,
 Amhuil darag aosda nan àrd,
 'S na siantan ri combstrì dhian.
 Ach togaidh tu do cheann le buaidh
 Tha maiseach, gun bheud o'n stoirm:
 Mu d' thimcheall tha dìon gach uair;
 'S thig an sealgair o'n fhuachd a d' dhlùthas,
 A's gheibh e dìon o'n iunnrais fhuair:
 Mar sin tha sgiath an laoch da shluagh.
 Thog Morfholt a shleagh gu éuchd,
 A's ghabh e'n còdhail a ghaisgich,
 'S bu ghàbhaidh còmhrag nam fear borb;
 Fhreagair mac-talla nan creag
 Do dh' fhuaim an lannan glas' géura—
 Chuir iad coill a's fraoch á bun,
 Le 'n casan air uillinn an t-sleibhe—
 A's chrithnich clanna nan crìon,
 Ag coimhead ri gnìomh nan tréun-fhear

Is mor a ghreis a thug na seoid,
 'S na sloigh a coimhead an éuchdan;
 Ach chlaon iad araon air an fhraoch,
 'S fuil chraobhach a ruith o'n creuchdaibh.

Sin labhair Morfholt na mor ghnìomh,
 Cha'n eirich mo shleagh ni 's mò;
 'S cha ruisgear mo chruaidh 's a chath.
 Tha aon bhrathair agam fòs,
 Mas' a beò e, Solbha treun,
 Sealgair an fheidh air Bunar:
 Ma thuiteas tu leis gheibh thu cliù—
 Oir cha tnu an t-òg gun mheang.

An do thog mi mo lamh, 's mo lann,
 A Mhorfhuilt, a t-aghaidh, mo bhrathair?
 A sheol an tùs dhomh cleasan lùgh;
 Ach, ni 'n t-sleagh ni 's mò.
 Fàram lamh mo bhrathair chaoimh,
 'S gu 'n càram an so e ri m' thaobh.
 Theid sinn le cheile air chuairt,
 Gu teach ar n' athraichean thug buaidh;
 Biodh ar leabaidh 's an nial,
 An ionadan sian nan taibhse.

Chual an sluagh balbh a ghloir,
 'S bu mhor am bròn air son an laoch.
 Theich Siol Lochluinn g' an cabhlach,
 A's shìl deoir Mhordhuibh mar bhraon;
 Phill e air ais a shuinn—
 Thog iad leac-lighe gu h-ard,
 A's sheinn am bàrd cliù an t-seiod.
 Tha darag aosda na chòir,
 'S na mheuraibh mòr tha sranna ghaoth—
 Tha dealan an adhair mu'n cuairt,
 'S cha tìg fear turais na dhàil—
 Seachnaidh e 'n t' uil nach àdh,
 An aimsir nan reultan cian—
 Tha dà thaibhse mu'n cuairt an còmhnaidh,
 Le acain bròn na siubhal air siantaibh.

COLLATH.

Tha acain am aisling neo-chaoin !
An cadal do laogh, athair ?
Is eagal leamsa doinninn chraidh ;
Tha toirm gun àdh air na flathaibh.

Ciod e, Chollaith, fà t-acain ?
Arsa Aosar a ghuth bhinn.

Chunnacas, deir e-san, slige gu h-òl,
Do fhuil nàmh o dhortadh lann.
B' uamham do m' anam an gnìomh !
Ciod e bhrìgh, a shìol nan rann ?

Ach 's faoin so aisling na suain ?
Is faoin neo-bhuan gach uile ùl.
Tuitidh an gaisgeach treun na threis,
A's àillteachd gach cruth gu crìon.
Mar shruthas blà na coill—
Mar thig neul daillreach air a ghrein—
Is amhuil sin beatha nam beo !
Cha choigil 's cha chaomhain sinn seud.
Ach, an combhuidh dhomhs' am thamh ?
A mhic Chollaith, mo ghraidh, ca' beil thu ?
Aona mhic mo chèile chaoimh !
A t-aonar am beil thu air lear ?
Fair an lann ud air an eallachainn,
Mac-samhailt do dheudan nan cath.
Thog Oglach an lann so g'a liobh—
Lann m' athraichean an gnìomh nan rath.
Is iomadh cath a's còmhrag cruaidh
Is cuimhne leam a bhì le buaidh.

Fhreagair an sin Aosar nan dàn,
A churaidh, a Chollaith nam buadh,
C'uinne—na bitheadh t-inntinn fo phràmh—
Bha Oglach mar athraichean treun,
Curaidh treubhagh e 's a chath,
A' mosgladh air faiche nan cruidh.
'S e bheireadh buaidh thar mhìle flath.

A's aosda lag mi nis fo bhròn,
Thuir Collath, 's a dheoir a ruith !

* Fonar, the Author of this Poem, belonged to the illustrious and once powerful family of Collath. He accompanied his young friend, in his last expedition, to rescue Annir, the betrothed bride of Oglach, and only child of Rutha, whom Ardan, a chief of a distant isle, carried off in the absence of her friends. Her exquisite beauty gained her many admirers. She preferred the Son of Collath. By their marriage the two most powerful families of Caledonia would have been united. But these hopes were never to be realised. The Poem opens with a vision of Collath, and concludes with a lament of the fall of the race of Collath, chief of Carrig. It is partly dramatic.

Tha tuitte dol tharuinn gu dlù,
A c' ait' am beil m' annsachd fein an diugh.
Gu b' ionmhuinn thu Oglaoich threinn,
Mo leanabh fein a b' aille cruth !
Bha thu fann roimh imeachd do nàmh,
'S an triall mar thoran thar Mealldubh ;
A's thig an là gun teach, gun ùigh,
Gun talla, gun fhlaithaibh, gun cheòl,
'S am bi Sìol Armuinn fo sprochd,
Mar fhaileas ruiteach tro' neoil.
Ach 's diomhain mo thuireadh gu leir !
Ciod so 'm fà mu'm beil mo chrì
Fo bhruaillean le aisling chruaidh ?
A bualladh gu crìtheach, gun fhois,
Mar dhuilleach roi dhoinninn 's na cluanaibh.

Fhreagair mi fhein gu seamh,
A's tioma bhròin ga 'm chlaoi !

“ Am fanam-sa so am thamh,”
Thuir Oglach, “ 's mo ghraidh am dhì ?
Cha chaill mi, arsa e-san, mo chliu,
Ann am madainn chaomh na h-oige.
B' eug-samhuil na h-armuinn threuna,
M' athraiche feile, gun ghiomh :
'S ni 'm fanamsa so gun àdh,
Mar gheug gun duille gun bhà ;
Bheir mi buaidh air ardan fein,
Neo thèid mi eug, 's e chual
Mi, as tartar a cheum
A ruighinn gu h-eutrom mo chluas.
Tha ' cruth caoin mar dheò greine,
'S deirge beul no bilibh ròis ;
Tha h-anail ni's cubhraidh na'n sùth,
'S a guth binn mar inneal ceoil
'S i 's aille dealbh de'n t-sluagh,
Bheireamsa buaidh da trid !
Aiteal sùl is glaine snuadh,
Ainuir shuairce 's igheann rìgh.
Mar torchair mi 'n oigh le m' laimn,
Ni mi còdhail rìthe thall.
Mo chridhe tha 'g eiridh neo-throm,
A leumnaich le aiteas am chom !
O thaibhse nan treun fhear, a threig,
C' ait an combhuidh dhuibh o'n eug ?
An combhuidh d' ur n' anma an àdh,
Gun cheò na Lanna, no blàr ?
Gach fùran le òigh gun smal,
Neo-ionan a's sine ri gal.”
Thog e ri crannaibh na seoil,
A's dhomhlaich uime a shluagh ;
Ri comh-strì ghaillbheach nan tonn,

Bha fonn a ghaoil ann a bheul.
 Cha mheata, am feasd, a chrì,
 A's Ainnir da dhì 's an iuil ;
 'S an oidhche fheartluinneach gu lò,
 Ag udal cuain an aghaidh shian,
 " Fagamaid acain a's bròn," Thuirt Oglaoch, " gu clanna nan crìon,
 Taosgar gach boinne de m' fhuil.
 Mu'n leigear leo an òigh."
 Dh' eirich leinne cairdean treun,
 Thar lear a thorchar cliu—
 Dh' eirich leinn Eilean nan laoch—
 Dh' eirich leinn Fraoch a's a shluagh.
 A chaitheadh ar slighe 's a chuan,
 Ghabh sinn an sin duan mu seach ;
 Sin sheinn duinn filidh nam fonn,
 'S a ghuth bha ard thar tuinn a's lear.

Biodh anam àidh ag taomadh,
 Mar chaochan ann an nualan ciuil,
 Is eibhinn le m' chluas an torraghan trom !
 Mar chabhlach nan caomh fo shiuil.
 Is ion' le m' chrì an t-aiteas ard.
 Tha 'g eiridh àdhamhor a steach !
 Mar chlaraibh an talla nam fonn,
 Mar chuileann an sonn nach meat,
 Mar fhilath-inuis mhìle bàrd,
 Biodh smaointe graidh a chrì !
 Ionmhuinn gach sìle, gach braon,
 Ionmhuin maraon a's Beul-bì,
 Caoin chruth geal nan ioma dual,
 O shìol na cathraiche nuaidh,
 Càir gheal a chambhair a cneas,
 'S a leaca mìn mar na ròis ;
 Amhuil i 's an t-sobhrach bhàn,
 Reull nan ioma b' àille sruadh ;
 Bha i mar aiteal na greine,
 'S a mhadainn ag eiridh gun ghruaim.
 Ach tuitidh fathasd luibh an raoin ;
 Seargaidh a caoin chruth 's a dreach ;
 " Sruthaidh a blàthan gun bhuaibh,"
 'S e deir Mac Nuaith is geire beachd.

Thug i ceisd, a's a gaol trom
 Do Shonn òg a chaidh thar lear ;
 A's dh' eirich doiuinn nan lann
 Mu oigh chaoin gheal nan cleachd,
 Tha aigne 'n laoich mar aiteal spur,
 No lasair dhein air aonach ard ;
 Co thraoghas a bhuirb ghàir ?

A chlanna fial nan armunn fluidhidh,
 Eiribh gu duthaich fad as,
 Gu taomadh oirn mar dhoinnionn ghairbh,
 'Ni h-aobhinn an fheirg a tha las'.
 Ach mairidh cliu nan saoidh gach ial,
 A gleachdas ri truaighean gun mheath.
 A laochraidh nan sleagh liobhaidh geur,

Togadh oirbh, mear, leumnach, garg,
 Mor—uaibhreach—borb,
 Le uamhann cith agus colg !
 Theid gathaibh leoin tre 'n cridhe ;
 (Is aobhinn fulang nan treun !)
 Buirbe nan gaisgeach 's an strì,
 Coigil a d' chleibh a's a d' shuain.
 Lamh nan treun gu cath biodh leat,
 'S an àrach fo lamh gu sguab.
 'N tra thraoghas gailbheinn na h-àibheis,
 Mar an t-àrach claoite sgrìth ;
 Seallaidh gnuis an iunraies caoin,
 Amhuil laoich n' tra philleas sìth.
 Ach e-san a thuiteas le buaidh,
 Tha e faighinn caochladh nuadh ;
 A mhealtuinn ionmhas nan saoidh,
 Nach ionmhuinn a chaoi, a chomhuaidh !

Thaig tioma air mo chrì,
 Rì cuimhne na chunna' mi fhein !
 Gualann-chatha nach bu tìm,
 Flathaibh fuileach bha ri m' linn.
 Nach eil a h-aon diu am shean aois ?
 Nach b' eibhinn a bhi leo seach leinn ?
 Chunnacas sonu mor nam buadh,
 Curaidh uaibhreach nan gnìomh garg :
 Lubadh nan cathau fo lainn,
 'N uair a mhosgladh e am feirg.
 'S e aigne an laoich a bha ard—
 Bha bhoile mar chaoiribh chruach.
 Cha robh e riamb ann an sìth,
 'N uair ruisgeadh na lannan san strì ;
 Bha imeachd mar thoran tro gheann,
 Mar dhealan an adhair bha dheann.
 Ach threig an gaisgeach o chian,
 Carraig-chatha a chridhe fhial ;
 'S chaidh mar aon ris iomadh còmhlan,
 Cha n-è mo shòlas nach eil e buan.
 Ach teirigidh sinn uile fa-dheoidh,
 A's chi an lò sinn smal' san uaigh.*

Ach mairidh gu suthain 's an dàn,
 Gnìomhan alloil aoidh nan saoidh :
 'N uair chrionas a cholluinn gu smùr,
 Mar an ùir an còmhachd criadh ;
 Mar cheathach tra nòin air an t-sliabh,
 Triallaidh an deò ag imeachd uainn,
 Far nach teirig grian, no gradh—
 Far a maireann àdh nan sonn.

Ach, Oglaoich, is deacair trom,
 Sean aois a chromas an t-àrd,
 A chaochailas cruth nam fath,

* Fonar, who was a warrior as well as a bard, recites past events, in which he, together with the aged chief, whose mind is soothed with a recital of the deeds of former days, acted a part : and his own state frequently and naturally occurs to him.

'S a dhallas fradharc chail nam bàrd.
Cia mar sheinneas mi dhut ceòl,
A laoiach oig, am chiabhan liath?
'S e labhair mi fein ris an t-saoidh,
Ceannard òg nam mìle clìar.

Chunnacas reull bu dealrach dreach,
A soillse tro' dhuibhre na h-oidhche ;
A's shoillsich a ghealach a ris,
'S na neoil ag imeachd gu luath.
" Mar aiteal nan reull ud gu h-ard,
Tha maise Ainnir," ars' an laoch,
" A lionadh m' anam do ghradh ;
Ged' tha thusa balbh ad' dheoir !
Còmh is meuchaire, mhìne, ghile,
Taomadh gaol mar dhearsa na h-òidhche !'
A lionadh anam de sbòlais,
Is binne guth no fuaim nan clàr,
Is àille dreachl no cruth cubhraidh,
An noinein bhàin fo dhealt nan speur.
Is anmhor an t-àiteas so am chliabh !
Cìod so an sòlas diamhair,
A tha ga'm lionadh gun fhoghnadh ?
Tha m' aigneadh a' leumnaich a ghna,
Le buaidh a's mor ghradh na h-oighe.
Air an t-sleagh so ann am laimh,
Pillidh sinn o'n àr le buaidh !
Pillidh, no tuitidh le cliù,
Air son an rùin a tha bhuainn.
Pillidh mar aon a gaol
Ro chaoin, mar ri caochladh cath.
Tha m' aigneadh a' leumnaich gu còmhrag.
Is ionmhuinn le oighean mac rath.

Aithris dhuinn fhilidh nan dàn,
Thuir mi fhein am briathraibh ciùin,
Mar bha oigh na h-ìomair bhaigh,
Rè a latha an reull iùil.
Beul-bì,* sòlus mhìle crì,
Maise muà a bhil bhì ;
Ighean ghaoil bu bhlasda ceol,
A falt mar fhitheach, dubh mar smeoir.
Bha maise a's gradh le cheil' na sealladh,
A mala crom mar ite 'n lóin ;
A còmh seamh, finealta, fuasgailt',
Cha lubadh a ceum am feoirnean.
Bu chruth ionmholt an ribhinn ;
Ach cìod am fà mu'n robh sa 'g radh ?
Gach aona bhuaidh do bhì air finne,
Bha sud air dunach nan laoch,
A thuit mar ghallan nan gleann,
Mar sgathar fiùran nan crann.

* The history of Belvi is introduced here with great propriety. The injured are apt to think their own case without a parallel, and the burden of the afflicted becomes lighter, when they are assured that others suffer the like, or greater hardships.

Ach dh-fhailig mor mhais' a ghaoil,
Chaochail ' cruth àillidh gu h-aog !
'N uair bhuaill lann Chonnlaioich uchd Dhonnaghail,

'S a ruith fhuil na thonnann blà !
Chlaon e air uilinn an t-armunn,
An gath nimhe chaidh tro' airnean ;
Gath geur guineach nan trì cholg,
Os ceann imleig air sliabh na bhòl.
Bha tosga tiugha nam beum luatha,
A reubadh feoil, a's cnai' ga'm bruasgadh.
Gach lann, mar dhealan an adhair,
Mar fhalaig air sliabh na lasair,
Dh'aom na flathaibh fo mhaoin :
Bu dearg gach sruthan san raon.
'Thuit e mu throma ghràdh na h-oighe !
Mar chobhar sruth bha fhuil a dortadh,
'S a ruith—'s e fuil a chridhe bh' ann,
A brùcadh tro' chreuchdan nan lann.
Uaith sin, chluinte caoiran na h-oigh' :—
" Och, mo dhorainn, agus m' acain !
Nach deachaidh mi eug o chian,
Mu'n d'fhuair aon fhleasgach mo ghaol !
Thuit mo roghainn, thuit mo rùn,
Ach ma thuit e, fhuair e cliù.
Och ! nach robh sinn, ruin ghil còmhla,
Fo'n fhòd ghròm a gabhail comhnaidh !
Theireadh iad, an sin n'an tàmh,
Tha òg-fhlath nam buadh, 's a ghràdh,
An ceangal buan, an glais a bhàis.
Thuit iad mar luibhean an raoin,
Le'n uile bhàl, 's a mhadainn chubhraidh,
'S an dealt a boillsgeadh le gath greine."

Mar sin, thàr sinn chuige gu sèamh ;
Bha ar caoinh a tighin' san duibhre ;
Thamh sinn car ghreis air an leirg,
Gu briseadh faire na maidne.
Bha'n cuan siar mar lainnir,
Le soillse àdhmhor o'n ear ;
A's dealt nau speur air gach blà,
Gu foineil tlà mar an lear.
Chaidh sinn f'ar n' armaibh gu leir ;
'S chaidh mosgladh fa eilean nan stuadh.
" Rachadh, thuir Oglaoch, ard, mear, Romhainn a nis' teachdair luath."
Chuir sinn romhainn Lùghmhor òg,
Le fios gu Ardan, gun àdh !
" E chur chugainn Ainnir na mais',
'S gu'm pilleadh ar feachd ga'n cabhlach."
'S e thuir Ardan a chridhe bhuirb,
" Sinn fein a philleadh gu grad,
Air neo gu sguabadh e gach saoidh
Gu lear, mar fhaileas ro'n ghaoith
Gu lubadh e Oglaoch fo lann,
Mar mheangan an doire nan crann."
Dhomhlaich an sin na sloigh
Air an fhaiche gu h-ard,

A's thàr sinn a suas nan codhail
Gun fhiamh, ge b' iomadh na laoiach.

Bhuail na saoidh air a chéile,
A's chrith an learg fo'n casan,
Thainig Ardan, mar bhuinne borb;
Ag iarraidh Oglaoich gu còmhrag,
E-san sheas roimhe gu treun,
Mar charraig roimh eiridh nan tonn:
Bu chruaidh am buillean 's bu gharg,
'S an chrìdhe leumnaich nan com.
Mar thuiteas taosgadh a chuain,
'S a dh'islicheas buirbe nan tonn,
Roimh Oglaoch nam beuma nach eil,
Bha Ardan a fannach' 's an strì.
" Am meanglan mi nis a lùbas
Fo d' laimhse, churaidh gun àdh?
C'uime nach leigeadh tu leam
An òigh a thug thu thar tuinn?
Ainnir nam meall-shuilean mìne,
'S an domh fhìn a thug i gradh!"
" Cha leiginn leat an oigh chaoin,
No le aon laoch ann ad t-fheachd.
Is cian a shiubhail mi 'n euan,
Is eileanan stuadh-ghlasa sàil',
'S cha 'n fhacas a sambla fo 'n ghrein,
'S eha sgar o cheile sinn ach bàs."
Sin mar labhair na suinn,
An cruai'-ghleachd 's am buinn ga 'n stailc;
Bha aigneadh an armuinn nach bu chli
Ag eiridh air bhoile 's an strì.
Thug e iarraidh dheacair threun,
A's shàth e chruaidh an crìdhe Ardain.
Thuirilinn na cathaibh gu dombail,
'S bha Oglaoch am meadhon a nàmh.
Thainig Fraoch nan sonn ga chomhna,
'S bha abhainn fala dòl seach.
Mar dhealan an adhair bha 'n lannaibh—
An tartar mar thòran adhair,—
Shìn a's thàr iad gu chéile,
A's thuit na trenn-fhir sa' bhàr.
Cha robh Ceanna-bheirt na dhìnn—
Cha robh roinn gun reuba fuileach!
Mar sin bha iomairt nan laoch,
Gus an do theich na h-ìomadh.
Thug sinn ar n'aghaidh gu lear;
A's thog sinn leinn Oglaoch creuchdach,
A's Fraoch, a's iomadh fear trenn,
A chàradh fo lic an cois na tràghad:
A's Ainnir a tharunn nan dàil,
Fhuaradh ise urad siar,
A cruth a caochladh mar neul!
A's sleagh sàithaite na cliabh—
A com caoin bu ghile snuadh,
Air caochladh le dìle fala!—
A falt am-lubach cleachdach
Na dhualaibh a falach a taobh—
Bha h-acain leoin fadheoidh,

Mu Oglaoch caomh a graidh!
Thog sinn dà lic le 'n còinntich,
A's sheinn an filidh an cliù;
'S am fuigheal brònach a mhair,
Thog sinn thar lear ar siuil!*

Bha sinn làtha sgìth air chuan,
Air udal seach stuadhan ard,
A seoladh gu muladach trom,
As eagais an t-suinn 's a ghràidh.

" A's dh-fhag sibh mo laogh an céin,"
Arsa Collath, 's a dheur a ruith;
" Bu gheal an eridhe bha na chom,
'S bu chaoine no deo grein a chruth.
Shaoileam, Oglaoich threim,
Gu biodh tu leam fhein an diugh,
Mar neart dhomh an shean aois,
A's feasgar mo là dhomh dlù,
Is gearr an rè a fhuair
Thu, Ogain a b'uaisle gnìomh!
Bu mhor treoir do lamh 's do laimn:
A's thuit thu, Oglaoch nach bu chli!
Ach mairidh do chliù 'san dàn,
A's triallaidh mise gun dàil a d' dheigb,
Gu eilean nan flath san iar,
'S mo ghrian a làidhe air lear.
'S neo-aoibhinn a sealla an tràs—
Fhìlidh dhàun nach eil i 'm bròn?"
" Tha," thuir Binn-ghuth gu caòin;
" Ach daisgidh i thall ud a ceòl.†"
'N uair threigeas i sinne car seal,
Cha bhì gal air saoidh tha thiall,
" Ach Fhonnair, aithris do sgeul,"
Arsa Collath fein, an sin.
" Eilean mo ghaoil, 's e a t' ann,"
Arsa 'm Fìlidh, ar fear iuil.
" An t-eilean mu'n iadh an euan ard,
A togail a chinn gu cùr'!
Togail a chinn tro cheo-allaidh,
A's neul a folach gach stuadh.

Mo chean ort fein, ge d' is cian,
Caraid fhial bu mhor gràdh!
De shìol fhìlthaibh nad ceud chath,
Thainig oirn' an là nach àdh!
Thuit na gaisgich, thuit na saoidh.
'S truagh an laoidh a tha na 'r beul!
A caoidh sliochd Chollaith nan gràdh;
A's ìblà an Rùtha a thuit uath cian.
O fhinne gaoil a tha gun mhairg,
'S e mo chreach! an fhaing tha stench.

* This description of the heroine is beautiful and affecting. On the fall of Ardan she was set at large, and sought her friends in the midst of danger; a spear pierced her side—they found her like a pale cloud, inquiring for the youth of her love with her latest breath!

* Perhaps it is impossible, at this day, to decide with any certainty to what part of the Highlands the AGED BARD belonged, or at what time he flourished. Mrs Grant of Laggan, who has given a metrical version of the above poem, says, "It was composed in Skye," though upon what authority she has not said. The poem itself seems to furnish some evidence that at least the scene of it is laid in Lochaber. *Treig is mentioned as having afforded drink to the hunters. Now Loch Treig is in the braes of Lochaber. We know of no mountain which is now called Ben-ard or Scur-eilt. Perhaps Ben-ard is another name for Ben-nevis. The great waterfall, mentioned near the end of the poem, may have been Eas-bhà, near Kinloch-leven in Lochaber. The following is almost a literal translation of the above poem:—

THE AGED BARD'S WISH.

O place me near the brooks, which slowly move with gentle steps; under the shade of the shooting branches lay my head, and be thou, O sun, in kindness with me.

At ease lay my side on the grass, upon the bank of flowers and soft zephyrs—my feet bathed in the wandering stream that slowly winds along the plain.

Let the primrose pale, of grateful hue, and the little daisy surround my hillock, greenest when bedewed; my hand gently inclined, and the calvi † at my ear in its freshness.

Around the lofty brow of my glen let there be bending boughs in full bloom, and the children of the bushes making the aged rock re-echo their songs of love.

Let the new-born gurgling fountain gush from the ivy-covered rock; and let all-melodious echo respond to the sound of the stream of ever-successive waves.

Let the voice of every hill and mountain re-echo the sweet sound of the joyous herd; then shall a thousand lowings be heard all around.

Let the frisking of calves be in my view, by the side of a stream, or on the activity of a hill; and let the wanton kid, tired of its gambols, rest with its innocence on my bosom.

Poured on the wing of the gentle breeze, let the pleasant voice of lambs come to my ear; then shall the ewes answer when they hear their young running towards them.

* We likewise find Treig spoken of in "Oran na comhachag," where the author of that piece says, "Olaidh mi a Treig na beam-Nach."
† An herb called St. John's wort.

Mu'n cuairt do bhruchaibh àrd mo ghlinn',
Biodh lùbadh ghéug a's orra blà;
'S clann bheag nam preas a' tabhairt seinn,
Do chreagaibh aosd' le òran gràidh.

Briseadh tro chreag nan eidheann dlù,
Am fuaran ùr le tòrramam trom,
'S freagraidh mac-talla gach ciùil,
Do dh' fhuaim srutha dlù nan tonn.

Freagraidh gach cnoc, agus gach sliabh,
Le binn-fhuaim geur nan aighean mear;
'N sin cluinnidh mise mìle geum,
A' riuth m'an cuairt domh 'n iar san ear.

O let me hear the hunter's step, with the sound of his darts and the noise of his dogs upon the wide-extended heath; then youth shall beam on my cheek, when the voice of hunting the deer shall arise.

The marrow of my bones shall awake when I hear the noise of horns, of dogs, and of bow-strings; and when the cry is heard, "The stag is fallen," my heels shall leap in joy along the heights of the mountains.

Then methinks I see the hound that attended me early and late, the hills which I was fond of haunting, and the rocks which were wont to re-echo the lofty horn.

I see the cave that often hospitably received our steps from night; cheerfulness awaked at the warmth of her trees; * and in the joys of her cup there was much mirth.

Then the smoke of the feast of deer arose; our drink from Treig, and the wave our music; though ghosts should shriek, and mountains roar, reclined in the cave, undisturbed was our rest.

I see Ben-ard of beautiful curve, chief of a thousand hills; the dreams of stags are in his locks, his head is the bed of clouds.

I see Scur-eilt on the brow of the glen, where the cuckoo first raises her tuneful voice; and the beautiful green hill of the thousand firs, of herbs, of roes, and of elks.

Let joyous ducklings swim swiftly on the pool of tall pines. A strath of green firs is at its head, bending the red rowans over its banks.

Let the beautiful swan of the snowy bosom glide on the tops of the waves. When she soars on high among the clouds she will be unnumbered.

She travels oft over the sea to the cold region of foaming billows, where a sail shall never be spread out to a mast, nor an oaken prow divide a wave.

Be thou by the summits of the mountains, the mournful tale of thy love in thy mouth, O swan, who hast travelled from the land of waves; and may I listen to thy music in the heights of heaven.

Up with thy gentle song; pour out the doleful tidings of thy sorrow; and let all-melodious echo take up the strain from thy mouth.

Spread out thy wing over the main. Add to thy swiftness from the strength of the wind. Pleasant to my ear are the echoes of thy wounded heart—the song of love.

* Allusion is here made to a fire of wood.

M'an cuairt biodh lù-chleas nan laogh,
Ri taobh nan sruth, no air an leirg.
'S am minnean beag de'n chòmhraig sgith,
'N am achlais a' cadal gu'n cheilg.

Sruthadh air sgéith na h-òsaig mbin,
Gladhan maoth nan crò mu'm chluais,
'N sin freagraidh a mheannh-spreigh,
'Nuair chluinn, an gineil, is iad a ruith a nuas.

A ceum an t-sealgair ri mo chluais!
Le sranna ghàth, a's chon feagh sléibh,
'N sin dearsaidh an òig air mo ghruaidh,
'N uair dh-eireas toirm air sealg an fhéidh,

Dùisgidh smìor am chnaimh, 'nuair chluinn,
Mi tailmrich dhòs a's chon a's shreang,
Nuair ghlaodhar—"Thuit an damh!"
Tha mo bhuinn, a' leum gu beò ri àrd nam beann.

'S an sòlas chuach a bha mòr aoibhneas.

Bha ceò air fleagh bhàrr an fhéidh
An deoch á Tréig 's an tonn ar ceòl,
Ge d' sheinneadh tàisg 's ge d' rànadh sléibh,
Sinnte 's an uaimh bu sheamh ar neoil.

From what land blows the wind that bears the voice of thy sorrow from the rock, O youth, who watest on thy journey from us, who hast left my hoary locks forlorn.

Are the tears in thine eyes, O thou virgin most modest and beautiful, and of the whitest hand. Joy without end to the smooth cheek that shall never move from the narrow bed.

Say, since mine eye has failed, O wind, where grows the reed with its mournful sound? by its side the little fishes whose wings never felt the winds' soft breath, maintain their sportive conflict.

Raise me with a strong hand, and place my head under the fresh birch; when the sun is at high noon let its green shield be above mine eyes.

Then shalt thou come, O gentle dream, who swiftly
walkest among the stars; let my night-work be in thy music, bringing back the days of my joy to my recollection.

See, O my soul, the young virgin under the shade of the oak, king of the forest! her hand of snow is among her locks of gold, and her mildly rolling eye on the youth of her love.

He sings by her side—She is silent. Her heart pants, and swims in his music; love flies from eye to eye; deers
stop their course on the extended heath.

Now the sound has ceased; her smooth white breast heaves to the breast of her love; and her lips, fresh as the unstained rose, are pressed close to the lips of her love.

Chi mi Beinn-àrd is àillidh fiamb,
Ceann-feadhna air mhìle beann,
Bha aisling nan damh na ciabb,
'S i leabaidh nan nial a ceann.

Chi mi Sgorr-eild' air bruach a ghlinn'
An goir a chuach gu binn au tòs.
A's gorm mheall-àild' na mìle giubhas
Nan luban, nan earba, 's nan lòn.

Biodh tuinn òg a snàmh le sunnd,
Thar linne 's mine giubhas, gu luath.
Srath ghiubhais uain' aig a ceann,
A' lubadh chaoran dearg air bruaich.

Biodh eal' àluinn an uchd bhàin,
A snàmh le spreigh air bharr nan tonn,
'Nuair thogas i sgiath an àird,
A measg nan nial cha'n fhàs i tròm.

'S tric i 'g astar thar a chuain,
Gu asraidh fhuar nan ioma' ronn,
Far nach togar breid ri crann,
'S nach sgoilt sròn dharaich tonn.

Bì thusa ri dosan nan tom,
Is cumha' do ghàol ann ad bheul,
Eala ' thriall o thìr nan tonn
'S tu seinn dhomh ciùil an aird nan spur.

O! eirich thus' le t-òran ciùin,
'S cuir naigheachd bhoedh do bhròin an ceill.
'S glacaidh mac-talla gach ciùil,
An gùth tùrsa sin o d' bheul.

Happiness without end to the lovely pair, who have awaked in my soul a gleam of that happy joy that shall not return! Happiness to thy soul, lovely virgin of the curling locks.

Hast thou forsaken me, O pleasant dream? Return yet—one little glimpse return: thou wilt not hear me, alas! I am sad. O beloved mountains, farewell.

Farewell, lovely company of youths! and you, O beautiful virgin, farewell. I cannot see you. Yours is the joy of summer; my winter is everlasting.

O place me within hearing of the great waterfall, with its murmuring sound, descending from the rock; let a harp and a shell be by my side, and the shield that defended my forefathers in battle.

Come with friendship over the sea, O soft blast that slowly movest; bear my shade on the wind of thy swiftness, and travel quickly to the Isle of Heroes,

Where those who went of old are in deep slumber, deaf to the sound of music. Open the hall where dwell Ossian and Daol. The night shall come, and the bard shall not be found.

But ah! before it come, a little while ere my shade retire to the dwelling of bards upon Ardrven, from whence there is no return, give me the harp and my shell for the road, and then, my beloved harp and shell, farewell.

Tog do sgiath gu h-àrd thar chuan,
Glac do luathas bho neart na gaoith,
'S eibhinn ann am chluais am fuaim,
O'd chridhe leòint'—an t-òran gaoil.

Co an tìr on gluais a' ghaoth,
Tha giulan glaoidh do bhroin on chreig?
Oigeir a chaidh uain a thriall,
'S a dh-fhàg mo chiabh ghlas gu'n taic.

B'eil deòir do ruisg O! thusa ribhinn,
Is mìne mais' 's a's gile làmh?
Sòlas gu'n chrìoch do'n ghruaidh mhaoith,
A chaoidh nach gluais on leabaidd chaoil.

Innsibh, o thréig mo shuil, a ghaoth',
C' àit' am beil a chuill' a fàs,
Le glaothan bròin 's na bric r'a taobh,
Le sgiath gun deò a cumail blàir.

Togaibh mì—càraibh le'r laimh threin,
'S cuiribh mo cheann fo bharrach ùr,
'N uair dh'eireas a' ghrian gu h-àrd,
Biodh a sgiath uain' os-ceann mo shùl.

An sin thig thu O! aisling chiùin,
Tha 'g astar dlù measg reull na h-òidhch',
Biodh gnoimh m' oidhche ann ad cheòl;
'Toirt aimsir mo mhùirn gu'm chuimhn'.

O! m'anam faic an ribhinn òg,
Fo sgéith an daraich, rìgh nam flath,
'S a lamh shneachd ' measg á ciabhan òir,
'Sa meall-shuil chiùin air òg a gràidh.

E-san a' seinn ri taobh 's i balbh,
Le cridhe leum, 's a snàmh' na cheòl,
An gaol bho shuil gu snil a falbh,
Cuir stad air féidh nan sleibhtean mòr.

Nis thréig am fuaim, 's tha cliabh geal mìn,
Ri uchd 's ri cridhe gaoil a' fas,
'S a bilibh ùr mar ròs gun smal,
Ma bheul a gaoil gu dlù an sàs.

Sòlas gun chrìoch do'n chomunn chaomh,
A dhùisg dhomh m' aobhneas àit nach pill,
A's beannachd do t-anams' a rùin,
A nighean chiùin nan cuach-chiabh grunn.

'N do thréig thu mi aisling nam buadh?
Pill fathast—aon cheum beag—pill!
Cha chluinn sibh mi Ochoin! 's mi traugh.
A bheannaibh mo ghraidh—slàn leibh.

Slàn le comunn caomh na h-òige,
A's oigheannan bòidheach, slàn leibh,
Cha leir dhomh sibh, dhuibhse tha samhradh,
Ach dhomsa geamhradh a chaoidh,

O! cuir mo chluas ri fuaim Eas-mòr
Le chrònan a' tearnadh on chreig.
Bi'dh cruit agus slige ri'm thaobh,
'S an sgiath a dhian mo shinnsir sa' chath.

Thig le càirdeas thar a chuain,
Osag mhìn a ghluais gu mall,
Tog mo cheò air sgiath do luathais,
'S imich grad gu eilean fhlaithais.

Far'm beil na laoch a dh-fhalbh o shean,
An cadal trom gun dol le ceòl,
Fosglaibh-sa thalla Oisein a's Dhaol,
Thig an oidhche 's cha bhì'm bàrd air bhrath.

Ach o m'an tig i seal m'an triall mo cheò,
Gu teach man bàrd, air àr-bheinn as nach pill.
Fair cruit 's mo shlige dh-junnsaidh 'n ròid,
An sin; mo chruit, 's mo shlige ghraidh, slan leibh.

Note.—This is a curious and valuable relic of antiquity. It affords internal evidence that the doctrines of Christianity were either wholly unknown to the poet, or had no place in his creed. The Elysium of bards upon Arden, the departure of the poet's shade to the hall of Ossian and Daol, his last wish of laying by his side a harp, a shell full of liquor, and his ancestors' shield, are incompatible with the Christian doctrine of a future state.

That it is a composition, however, long subsequent to the times of Ossian, is evident from the change which the manners of the Caledonians had in the interim undergone; for in the poems of that bard there is scarcely an allusion to the pastoral state. At any rate, the art of taming and breeding cattle was certainly not practised by the Fingalians. Hunting and war seem to have been their sole occupations. Our aged bard, however, lived in the pastoral state of society; a state which many poets have made the subject of that species of poetry denominated pastoral.

Our bard exhibits tender senses, and describes happy situations. He paints the beauties of nature with the hand of a master, and expresses the warmth of his feelings in glowing numbers. His style is nervous, his manner chaste. His fancy wears the native garb of purity and simplicity; and true taste will recognise his composition as the genuine offspring of nature—as real poetry.

The poet has enumerated those rural occupations which afforded him delight in the vigour of life. He has arranged and drawn forth to view rural objects, attended by such circumstances as had made the most pleasurable and lasting impression upon his own mind; and he seems, at the same time, to have been highly sensible of the beauties of nature, and capable of producing those strokes of fancy which evince poetic merit.

This poem shows that men leading a pastoral life are capable of refined feelings and delicate sentiments, and may be actuated by the best affections of the heart; that long posterior to the days of Ossian, the Christian religion had not perhaps been heard of by the Caledonians; and that they were of opinion that the soul was an airy substance capable of existing in a state of separation from the body, and of enjoying, in the region of the clouds, those agreeable occupations which had given it pleasure upon earth.

Ma bha thu ann ri linn Donnaghail,
Cha'n iognadh ge trom leat t-aigeadh.

Bha na faillean ann sa' choinntich,
'S iomadh linn a chuir mi romham,

Chunnac mi Aonghas na dheigh,
Cha b' e sin raghainn bu tàire,
'S ann 's an Fhearsaid a bha thuinidh,
'S rinn e muilleann air Allt-Larach,"

* This poem is attributed to Donald Macdonald better known by the cognomen of Dòmhnall mac Fhùllaidh nan Dàn—a celebrated hunter and poet. He was a native of Lochaber and flourished before the invention of fire-arms. According to tradition, he was the most expert archer of his day. At the time in which he lived, wolves were very troublesome, especially in Lochaber, but Donald is said to have killed so many of them, that previous to his death, there was only one left alive in Scotland, which was shortly after killed in Strathglass by a woman. He composed these verses when old, and unable to follow the chase; and it is the only one of his compositions which has been handed down to us.

The occasion of the poem was this: He had married a young woman in his old age, who as might have been expected, proved a very unmeet helpmate. When he and his dog were both worn down with the toils of the chase,

Bu lìonmhor cogadh a's creachadh,
Bha'n an Lochabar 'san uair sin
C'àite 'm biodh tusa ga t-fhalach,
Eoin bhig na mala gruamaich.

" 'S ann a bha cuid mhor de m' shiinsir,
Eadar an Innse a's an Fhearsaid,
Bha cuid eile dhiu' ma'n Dèaghthaigh;
Bhiodh iad ag àigheach 'sa'n fheasgar.

'N uair a chithinnse dol seachad,
Na creachan agus am fuathas,
Bheirinn car beag far an rathaid,
'S bhithinn grathunn sa' Chreig-ghuanaich."

Creag nan aighean 's nan damh siùbhlach,
'A chreag ùrail, aighearach, ianach.

Chreag ma'n iathadh an fhaoghait,
Bu mhiann leam a bhi ga taghal,
'N uair bu bhinn gùth gallain gaodhair,
A' cur graidh gu gabhail chumbainn.

'S binn na h-iolairean ma bruachan,
'S binn a cuachan, 's binn a h-eala,
A's binne na sin am blaoghan,
Ni an laoghan meana-bhreach, ballach.

A's binn leam toraman na'n dós,
Ri uilinn nan corra-bheann cäs,
'S an eilid bhiorach is caol cös,
Ni fois fo dhuilleich ri teas.

Gun de chéil aic' ach an damh,
'S e 's muime dh'i feur a's cneamh,
Mathair an laogh mheana-bhrich mhír,
Bean an fhir mhall-rosgaich ghlain.

and decrepit with age, his "crooked rib" seems to take a pleasure in tormenting them. Fear, rather than respect might possibly protect Donald himself, but she neither feared nor respected the poor dog. On the contrary, she took every opportunity of beating and maltreating him. In fact, "like the goodman's mother," he "was aye in the way." Their ingenious tormentor one day found an old and feeble owl, which she seems to have thought would make a fit companion for the old man and his dog; and accordingly brought it home. The poem is in the form of a dialogue between Donald and the owl. It is very unlikely that he had ever heard of Æsop, yet he contrives to make an owl speak, and that to good purpose. On the whole it is an ingenious performance and perhaps has no rival of its kind in the language. Allusion is made to his "half marrow," in the 57th stanza.

'S siùbhlach a dh'fhalbhas e raon,
Cadal cha dean e sa'n smùir,
B' fhearr leis na plaide fo' thaobh,
Bàrr an fhraoich bhadanaich ùir.

Gur àluinn sgeamh an daimh dhuinn,
'Thearnas o shireadh nam beann,

Nach do chrom le spid a cheann.

Eilid bhinneach, mheargant, bhallach,
Odbar, eangach, uchd réidh àrd,
Damh togalach, croic-cheannach, sgiambach,
Crònanach, ceann-riabhach, dearg.

Gur gasd' a ruitheadh tu suas,

Ach molams' 'n trùp tha dol as.

Creag mo chride-sa chreag mhor,

Ch'an fhaca mi dath air bian,
Ach buidhe, riabhach, a's dearg.

Cha mhi-fhìn a sgaol an comunn,
A bha eadar mi 'sa Chreag-ghuanach,
Ach an aois ga'r toirt o chéile,
Gur grathunn an fhéil' a fhuaras.

'S i creag mo chridhe-s' a Chreag-ghuanach,

Ach 's tric a chuala mi mòran,
De chrònaich an daimh allaidh.

Cha do chuir mi duil san iasgach,

'S mor gu'm b' annsa leam am fiadhach,

'S truagh an diugh nach beò an fheoghainn,
Gun ann ach an ceò de'n bhuidheann,
Leis 'm bu mhiannach gloir nan gadhar,
Gun mheoghail, gun òl, gun bhruidhinn.

Bu mhath e 'n sàbaid na feirge.

Dh-fhag mi san Ìtuaidhe so shios,
Am fear a b' òlc dhoma' a bhàs,
'S tric a chuir e ' thagraidh an cruathas,

Deagh Mhac-Dhomhnuill a chuil chais,
Nì'm beò neach a chòmhraig leis.

Alasdair cridhe nan gleann,
Gun e bhi ann mor a' chreach,
'S tric a leag thu air an tom,
Slìochd nan sonn leis a chù ghlas.

Alasdair mac Ailein mhòir,
'S tric a mharbh sa' bheinn na féidh,
'S a leanadh fad air an tòir,
Mo dhoigh gur Dòmhnallach treun.

A's Dòmhnallach thu gun mbealachd,
Gur tu buinne geal na cruaghach,
Gur càirdeach thu do Chlaun-Chatain,
S gur h-e dalt thu do'n Chreig-ghuanach.

Ma dh-fhàgadh Domhnall a muigh,
Na aonar a' taigh na' fleagh,
S gearr a bhios gucag air bhuil,
Luchd a chruidh bi'dh iad a staigh.

Mi'm shuidh air sith-bhruth nam beann,
A coimhead air ceann Locha-Tréig,
Creag ghuanach am biodh an t-shealg,
Grianan ard am biodh na féidh.

Chi mi na Dù-lochain bhuam,
Chi mi Chruach, a's Beinne-bhreac,
Chi mi Srath-Oisein nam Fiann,
Chi mi ghrian air Meall-nan-leac.

Chi mi Beinn-Neamhais gu h-àrd,
Agus an càrn-dearg ri bun,
A's coire beag eile ri taobh,
Chit' as monadh faoin a's muir.

Gur rìmheach an coire dearg,
Far 'm bu mhiannach leinn bhi sealg,
Coirre nan tulaichean fraoich,

Chi mi Garbh-bheinn nan damh donn,
Agus Slat-bheinn nan tom sìth,
Mar sin agus an Leitir dhubh,
'S an tric a rinn mi fuil na' frìth.

Soraigh gu Beinn-allta bhuam,
O'n 's i fhuair urram nam beann,
Gu slios Loch-Earrachd an fhéidh,
Gu'm b'ionmhuinn leam féin bhi ann.

Thoir soraigh uam thun an Loch',

'S e loch mo chridhsé an loch,
An loch, air am biodh an lach,
Agus iomadh eala bhàn,
'S bh'ìdh iad a snámh air ma seach,

Olaidh mi a' Tréig mo theann-shàth,
Na dheidh cha bhi mi fo mhulad,
Uisge glau nam fuaran fallan,
O'n seang am fiadh a nì 'n langan.

'S buan an comunn gun bhristeadh,
Bha eadar mise 's an t-uisge;
Sùgh nam mòr bheann gun inhisge,
'S mise ga òl gun trasgadh.

'S ann a bha 'n communn bristeach,
Eadar mise 's a Chreag-sheifich,
Mise gu bràth cha dìrich,
Ise gu dìlinn cha teirinn.

On labhair mi umaibh gu léir,
Gabhaidh mi fhéin dibh mo chead,
Dearmad cha dean mi s an àm,
Air fiadhach ghleann nam beann beag.

Cead is truaighe ghabhadh riabh,
Do 'n fhiadhaich bu mhòr mo thoil,
Cha 'n fhalbh lé bogha fo m' sgeith,
'S gu là-bhràth cha leig mi coin.

Tha blaidh mo bhogha 'n am uchd,
Le agh maol, odhar is àit,
Ise ceanalt 's mise gruamach,
'S cruaiigh an diugh nach buan an t-shlat.

Mis' a's tusa ghadhair bhàin,
'S tùrsach air turas do 'n eilean,
Chaill sinn an tathunn a's an dàn,
Ge d' bha sinn grathunn ri ceanal.

Thug a choille dhìot-s' an earb',
'S thug an t-àrd dhìom-sa na féidh,
Cha n eil nàire dhuinn a laoich,
O'n laidh an aois oirnn le chéil'.

'Nuair a bha mi air an da chois,
'S moch a shiubhlain bhos a's thall,
Ach a nis on fhuair mi trì,
Cha ghluais mi ach gu ìnn, mall.

Aois cha n'eil thu dhunn meachair
Ge nach feudar leinn do sheachnadh,
Cromaidh tu 'n duine dìreach,
A dh' fhàs gu mìleanta gàsda.

Giorraichidh tu air a sbaoghal,
Agus caochlaidhidh tu ' chasan,
Fagaidh tu cheann gun deudach,
'S ni thu eudann a chasadh.

A Shinead chas-aodannach, pheallach,
A shream-shuileach, odhar, éitidh,
Cia ma 'n leiginn leat a lobhair?
Mo bhogha toirt dhìom air éiginn.

O'n 's mi-fhin a b' fhearr an airidh,
Air mo bhogha ro-math iubhair,
No thusa aois bhothar, sgallach,
Bhìos aig an teallach ad shuidhe.

Labhair an aois a rithist;
 “ 'S mo 's ruighinn tha thu leantainn.
 Rìs a bhogha sin a ghiùlan,
 'S gur mòr bu chuibhe dhut bàta.”

Gabh thusa bhuanmsa 'm bàta,
 Aois grànda chairtidh na pléide,

Cha leiginn mo bhogha leatsa,
 Do mhathas no d' ar, eigin.

“ 'S iomadh laoch a b' fhearr no thusa,
 Dh-fhàg mise gu tuisleach anfhann,
 'N dèis fhàobhachadh as a sheasamh,
 Bha rìomhe na fhleasgach meamnach.”

MAIRI NIGHEAN ALASDAIR RU AidH.

THE real name of this poetess was Mary M'Leod, though she is more generally known among her countrymen by the above appellation. She was born in Roudal, in Harris, in the year 1569, and was the daughter of Alexander M'Leod, son of Alasdair Ruadh, who was a descendant of the chief of that clan.*

It does not appear that Mary had done any thing in the poetic way till she was somewhat advanced in life, and employed as nurse in the family of her chief: neither is there any evidence that she could write, or even read. Her first production was a song made to please the children under her charge.

“ An Talla 'm bu ghnà le Mac-Leòid” was composed on the Laird being sick and dying. He playfully asked Mary what kind of a lament she would make for him? Flattered by such a question, she replied that it would certainly be a very mournful one. “Come nearer me,” said the aged and infirm chief, “and let me hear part of it.” Mary, it is said, readily complied, and sung, ex tempore, that celebrated poem.

It was during her exile there that she composed “'S mi 'm shuidh' air an Tulaich,” or “Luinneag Mhic-Leòid.” On this song coming to M'Leod's ears, he sent a boat for her, giving orders to the crew not to take her on board except she should promise to make no more songs on her return to Skye. Mary readily agreed to this condition of release, and returned with the boat to Dunvegan Castle.

* There was another, though inferior poetess, of the family of Alasdair Ruadh, who is sometimes confounded with our authoress. Her name was Flora M'Leod. In Gaelic she is called Fionaghal Nighean Alasdair Ruaidh. This poetess lived in Troterness, and was a native of Skye. She was married, and some of her descendants are still in that country. All that we have been able to meet with, of Flora's poetry, is a satire on the clan Mac-Martin, and an elegy on M'Leod of Dunvegan. We have the authority of several persons of high respectability, and on whose testimony we can rely, that Mary M'Leod was the veritable authoress of the poems attributed to her in this work.

Soon after this, a son of the Laird's had been ill, and, on his recovery, Mary composed a song which is rather an extraordinary composition, and which, like its predecessors, drew on her devoted head the displeasure of her chief, who remonstrated with her for again attempting song-making without his permission. Mary's reply was, "It is not a song; it is only a crònan,"—that is, a hum, or "croon."

She mentions, in a song which we have heard, but which was never printed, that she had nursed five lairds of the M'Leods, and two of the lairds of Applecross. The song ends with an address to Tòrmod nan trì Tòrmod.^{*} She died at the advanced age of 105 years, and is buried in Harris. She used to wear a tartan tonnag, fastened in front with a large silver brooch. In her old days she generally carried about with her a silver-headed cane, and was much given to gossip, snuff, and whisky.

Mary M'Leod, the inimitable poetess of the Isles, is the most original of all our poets. She borrows nothing. Her thoughts, her verse, her rhymes, are all equally her own. Her language is simple and elegant; her diction easy, natural, and unaffected. Her thoughts flow freely, and unconstrained. There is no straining to produce effect: no search after unintelligible words to conceal the poverty of ideas. Her versification runs like a mountain stream over a smooth bed of polished granite. Her rhymes are often repeated, yet we do not feel them tiresome nor disagreeable. Her poems are mostly composed in praise of the M'Leods; yet they are not the effusions of a mean and mercenary spirit, but the spontaneous and heart-felt tribute of a faithful and devoted dependant. When the pride, or arbitrary dictate of the chief, sent her an exile to the Isle of Mull, her thoughts wandered back to "the lofty shading mountains,"—to "the young and splendid Sir Tòrmod." During her exile she composed one of the finest of her poems: the air is wild and beautiful; and it is no small praise to say that it is worthy of the verses. On her passage from Mull to Skye she composed a song, of which only a fragment can now be procured: we give a few stanzas of it:—

"Thèid mi le'm dheoin do dhùthaich Mhic-Lèidid,
M' iull air a mhòr luachach sin,
Bu chdìr dhomh gum bi m' edlas san tìr
Lèdàch, mar pill cruadal mi,
Siubhlaidh mi 'n iarr, tro dhùlaidh nan sian,
Do'n tìr g'am bi triall thuath-cheathairn:
On chualas an sgeul buadhach gun bbreug,
Rinn acain mo chùibh fhuidhadh.

"Chì mi Mac-Lèidid 's prìseil an t-òg,
Rimheach gu mòr buadhachal,
Bho Ollaghair nan lann chuireadh sròlaibh ri crann;
'S Lèdàich an dream uamharra.
Eiridh na fuinn ghleusd air na suinn,
'S feumail ri an cruadal lad,
'Na fìrannaibh gharg an am rusgadh nan àrm,
'S cliutach an t-ainm fhuaras leibh.

"Sìol Tòrmod nan sgiath foirmealach fial,
Dh' eireadh do shluagh luath-lamhach;
Deàlradh nam pìos, tòrman nam plob,
'S dearbh gu'm bu leibh 'n dualachas;
Thàinig teachdair do'n tìr gu macanta mhn,
'S ait leam gach nì chualas leam,
O Dhun-bheagan nan steud 's am freagair luchd-theud,
Bbeir greis air gach sgeul buaidh-ghloireach.

"Nuair chuireadh na laoi ch loingheas air chaol,
Turas ri gaoith ghluaste leibh,
O bharraribh nan crann gu tarraunn nam ball,
Teannachadh teann suas rithe,
Iomairt gu leoir mar ri Mac-Lèidid,
Charaich fo shròl uain-dhait' i,
Bho àrois an fhion gu talla nam pìos,
Gu'm beannaich mo Rìgh 'n t-uasal ud."

* We knew an old man, called Alexander M'Rae, a tailor in Mellen of Gairloch, whom we have heard sing many of Mary's songs, not one of which has ever been printed. Some of these were excellent, and we had designed to take them down from his recitation, but were prevented by his sudden death, which happened in the year 1833. Among these was a rather extraordinary piece, resembling M'Donald's "Birlinn," composed upon occasion of John, son of Sir Norman, taking her out to get a sail in a new boat.

Thigeadh sud ann ad laimh-sa
Lann spainteach, ghorm, dhias-fhada,
A's paidhir mhath phiostal
Air crios nam ball sniomhanach.
H-ithill, &c.

Gun sgeilm a chuir asad no bòsd.
Shir Tòrmaid, &c.

Ann am freasdal gach duine,
Air dheiseachd 's air uirighioll beoil.
Fhuair thu teist, &c.

Leat bu mhiannach coin lùgh-mhor,
Dol a shiubhal nan stùc-bheann,
'S an gunna nach diultadh re h-òrd.
Leat bu mhiannach, &c.

'S i do lamh nach robh tuisleach,
Dol a chaitheadh a chuspair,
Led' bhogha cruaidh, ruiteach, deagh-neoil.
'S i do lamh nach, &c.

Glac throm air do shliasaid,
An deigh a snaitheadh gun fhìaradh,

CUMHA DO MHAC-LEOID.

Gur e naidheachd so fhuair mi,
A dh-fhuadaich mo chiall uam,
Mar nach bitheadh i agam,
'S nach fhaca mi riamh i;
Gur e Abhall an lis so,
Tha mise ga iargann;
E gun abuchadh meas air,
Ach air briseadh fo chiad bharr.

Gur e sgeula na creiche,
Tha mi nise ga éisdeachd,
Gach aon chneadh mar thig oirn',
Dol an tricead, san deinead,
Na chunnaic, 's na chualas,
'S na fhuaradh o'n cheud lá,

Creach nid an t-seobhaic,
Air a sgatha ri aon uair.

Ach a Chlann an fhir allail,
Bu neo mhalartaich' beusan,
Ann an Lunnuinn, 's am Pàris,
Thug sibh barr air na ceudan,
Chaidh n-ur cliù tharais
Thar talamh na h-Eiphit,
Cheann uidhe luchd-ealaidh,
'S a leannan na féileachd.

Ach a fhriamhaich nan curaidh,
'S a chuilein nan leoghan,
A's ogha an dà sheanar,
Bu chaithréamaich' loistean;
C'ait' an robh e ri fhaotuinne
Air an taobhs' an Roinn-Eòrpa,
Cha b' fhurrasidh ri fhaighinn
Anns gach rathad, bu dòigh dhuibh.

Ach a Ruairidh mhic Iain,
'S goirt leam fhaighinn an sgeul-s' ort,
'S e mo chreach-sa mac t-athar,
Bhi na laidhe gun eiridh,
Agus Tòrmod a mhac-sa,
A thasgaidh mo chéille!
Gur e aobhar mo ghearain,
Gu'n chailleadh le chéil' iad.

Nach mòr an sgeul sgrìobhaidh,
S nach ionghnadh leibh féin e,
Duilleach na craoibhe,
Nach do sgaoileadh am meanglan,
An robh cliù, agus onair,
Agus moladh air deagh-bheairt,
Gu daonachdach, carthannach,
Beannachdach, ceutach.

Ge goirt leam an naidheachd,
Tha mi fhaighinn air Ruairidh,
Gun do chorp a bhi 'san Dùthaich,
Anns an tuama bu dual dut;
Sgeul eile nach fusaadh,
Tha mi clastinn san uair so,
Ged nach toir mi dha creideas,
Gur beag orm ri luaidh e.

Gur ro bheag a shaoil mi,
Ri mo shaoghal gu'n eisdinn,
Gun cluinneamaid Leòdaich,
Bhi ga'm fogradh o'n òighreachd,
'S a'n còraichean glana,
'S a'm fearann gun déigh air
'S ar ranntanan farsuinn,
Na'n rach-te 'n am feum sud.

Gu'n eireadh na t-aobhar
Clann-Raonuill, 's Clann-Dòmhnui!,
Agus taigh Mhic 'Illeain,
Bha daingheann 'n-ur seòrsa,
Agus fir Ghlinne-Garaidh,
Nall tharais á Cnòideart,
Mar sud, a's Clann Chama-Shroin,
O champ Inbhir-Lòchaidh.

'S beag an t-ionghnadh Clann-Choinnich,
Dheanadh eiridh ri d' ghuaillean,
'S gu'n robh thu na'm fineachd,
Air t-fhilleadh trì uairean,
'S e mo chreach gu'n do Chinneadh
Bhi ma chruinneachadh t-uaghach,
No glaoth do mhna muinntir
'S nach cluinntear, 's an uairs' i.

Tha mo cheist air an oighre,
Th'a stoidhle 's na h-Earadh,
Ged nach deach' thu san tuam' ud,
Far bo dual dut o d' sheanair.
Gur iomadh fuil uaibhbreach,
A dh-fhuairich ad bhallaibh,
De shloinneadh nan righrean,
Leis na chiosaicheadh Manainn.

'S e mo ghaols' an sliochd foirmeil,
Bh'air sliochd Ollaghair, a's Ochraidh,
O bhaile na Boirbhe,
'S ann a stoidhleadh thu'n tòiseach;
Gur ioma fuil mhorga,
Bha reota sa chorp ud,
De shliochd armunn Chinntire,
Iarl' Il', agus Ròis thu.

Mhic Iain Stiubhairt* na h-Apunn,
Ged a's gasd' an duin' òg thu,
Ged tha Stiubhartaich beachdail,
Iad tapaidh 'n àm fairneart,
Na ghabhsa meanmadh, no aiteas,
A's an staid ud, nach còir dhut,
Cha toir thu l dhaindeoin,
'S cha'n fhaigh thu le deòin i.

C'uim' an tigeadh fear coigreach
A thagrath ur'n Oighreachd;
Ged nach eil e ro dhearbhta,
Gur searbh e ri eisdeachd,
Ged tha sinn' air ar creachadh
Mu chloinn mhac an fhir fheilidh,
Sliochd Ruairidh mhoir allail,
'S gur airidh iad fein oir.

* Stewart of Appin was married to a daughter of Mac-Leod of Dunvegan, which made the Mac-Leods afraid that he should claim a right to the estate, on account of Mac-Leod having left no male heir.

MARBH-RANN

DO DH-FHEAR NA COMRAICH.

Tha mise air leaghadh le bròn,
O'n là dh-eug thu 's nach beò,
Mu m' fhiuran faighidneach, còir,
Uasal, aighearach, òg,
'S uaisle shuidhe mu bhòrd,
Mo chreach t-fhaigiun gu'n treòir eiridh.

'S tu'n laoch gun laigse, gun leòn,
Macan min-geal gun sgleò,
B' fhearail, finealt an t-òg,
De shliochd nam fear mòr,
D'a bu dual a bhi còir,
'S gu'm b'fhiù faitéal do bheoil eisdeachd.

'S tu chlan na h-ireinn a b'fhearr,
Glan an riamh as an d'fhàs,
Cairdeas rìgh as gach ball,
Bha sud sgriobt' leat am bairn,
Fo laimh duine gun mheang,
Ach thu lion-te de dh-ardan euchdach.

A ruairidh aigeantaich aird,
O Chomraich ghreadhnaich an àidh,
Mhic an fhir bu mhor gàir,
Nan lann guineach, cruaidh, garg,
Ort cha d'fhuaradh riamh cearb,
Iar-ogha Uilleam nan long breid-gheal.

Fhuair mi m' àilleagan ùr,
'S e gun smal air gun smùr,
Bu bhreac min dearg do ghnuis,
Bu ghorm laoghach do shuil,
Bu ghlan sliasaid, a's glùn,
Bu deas, dainghean, a lùb ghleust thu.

A lub abhoil nam buadh,
'S maire a tharladh ort uair,
Mu ghlaic Fhionnlaidh so shuas,
Air each crodhanta luath,
Nambaid romhad na ruaig,
Air dhaibh buille cha b'uair cis e.

Ach fhir a's curranta lamb,
Thug gach duine gu cràdh,
'S truagh nach d'fhuirich thu slan,
Ri uair cumaisg no blàir,
A thoirt cis dheth do nàmh,
Bu leat urram an là cheudaich.

Bu tu'n sgoileir gun diobradh,
Meoir a's grinne ni sgriobhadh,
Uasal faighidneach, cinnteach,
Bu leat lagh an taigh sgriobhaidh,
'S tu nach muchadh an fhirinn,
Sgeul mo chreiche ! so shil do chreuchdan.

Stad air m'aighear an dè
Dh'fhalbh mo mharcanta fèin,

Chuir mi'n ciste nan teud,
Dhiult an gobha dhomh gléus,
Dhiult sud mi 's gach leighe
'S chaidh m'ouair, 's mo rìgh dh'eug thu.

Thuit a chraobh thun a bhlàir,
Rois an graine gu làr,
Lot thu 'n cinneadh a's chràdh,
Air an robh thu mar bharr,
Ga'n dìonadh gach là,
'S mo chreach ! bhuintig am bàs treun ort.

'N am suidhe na d' sheomar,
Chaidh do bhuidhean an òrdugh,
Cha b'ann mu aighear do phòsaidh,
Le nighean Iarla Chlann-Dòmhnail,
As do dheigh mar bu chòir dh'i,
'S ann chaidh do thasgaidh san t-sròl ghle-gheal.

Ach gur mis' tha bochd truagh,
Fiamh a ghul air mo ghruaidh,
'S goirt an gradan a fhuair,
Marcach deas nan each luath,
Sàr Cheannard air sluagh,
Mo chreach, t-fhagail ri uair m'fhéime.

Ach fhuair mi m' àilleagan òg,
Mar nach b'abhaist gun cheòl,
Saoir ri caradh do bhòrd,
Mnai ri spionadh an fheòir,
Fir gun tàilg, gun cheòl,
Gur bochd fulang mo sgeòil eisdeachd.

'Nuair a thionail an sluagh,
'S ann bha'n tioma-sgaradh cruaidh,
Mur ghàir sheillean am bruaich,
An deigh na meala thoirt uath,
'S ann bha'n t-eireadh bochd truagh,
'S iad na cheannas an t-sluaigh threubhaich.

MARBHRANN DO DH' IAIN GARBH.

MACILLECHALUM RARSAIDH.*

Mo bheud, 's mo chràdh,
Mar dh'-eirich dha
'N fhear ghleusda, ghraidh,
Bha treun san spàirn,
'S nach faicear gu bràth thu' n Rarsa.

Bu tu 'm fear curanta, mor,
Bu mhath cumadh, a's treòir,
O t' uilean gu d' dhòrn,
O d' mhullach gu d' bhròig,
Mhic Muire mo leon,
Thu bhi 'n innis nau ròn,
'S nach faighear thu.

* This celebrated hero was drowned while on a voyage between Stornoway and Raasa.

'S math lùbadh tu pic
O chùl-thaobh do chinn,
'Nam rusgadh a ghill,
Le ionnsaidh nach pill,
'S air mo lainh gu'm bu ciunteach saighead uat.

Bu tu sealgair a gheoidh,
Lamh gun dearmad, gun leon,
Air 'm bu shuarach an t-òr
Thoirt a bhuanachd a cheòil,
'S gu'n d'fhuair thu na 's leoir,
'S na chaitheadh tu.

Bu tu sealgair an fhéidh,
Leis an deargta na bein ;
Phiodh coin earbsach air éill
Aig an Albanach threun ;
C'ait' am faca mi fein
Aon duine fo 'n ghrein,
A dheanadh riut euchd flathasach.

Spealp nach dibreadh,
An cath, nan strì thu,
Casan dìreach, fad' finealt,
Mo chreach dhiobhail
Chaidh thu dhìth oirn, le neart sine,
Lamh nach dibreadh caitheadh orr'.

'S e dh-fhag silteach mo shuil,
Faicinn t' fhearainn gun sùrd,
'S do bhaile gun smùid
Fo charraig nan sùgh,
Dheagh mhic Chalum nan tùr a Rarsa.

Och! m' fheudail bhuam,
Gun sgeul sa' chuan,
Bu ghlè mhath snuadh,
Ri grein, 's ri fuachd,
'S e chlaoidh do shluagh,
Nach d' fhead thu 'n uair a ghabhail orr'.

Mo bhèud, 's mo bhròn,
Mar dh' eirich dhò
Muir beucach, mor,
Ag leum mu d' bhòrd,
Thu féin, 's do sheòid
'Nuair reub 'ur seòil,
Nach d'fhaod sibh treòir
A chaitheadh orr.

'S e an sgeul' craiteach
Do'n mhnaoi a d'fhag thu,
'S do t-aon bhrathair,
A shuidh na t'aite,
Diluain Càisge,
Chaidh tonn bàit ort,
Craobh a b' aird' de 'n abhal thu.

CHUMHA MHIC-LEOID.

Cha sùrd cadail,
An runs air m'aigheadh,
Mo shuil frasach,
Gun sùrd macnais,
'S a' chùirt a chleachd mi:—
Sgeul ùr ait ri eisdeachd.

'S trom an cùdthrom so dhràidh,
Dh-fhag mo chùslein gun lùgh,
'S tric snigh' mo shuil,
A tuiteam gu dlù ;
Chail mi iuchair mo chuil :
Ann a cuideachd lùchd-ciuil,
Cha téid mi.

Mo neart 's mo threoir,
Fo thasgaidh bhòrd,
Sàr mhac 'Ic-Leòid,
Nan bratach sròil,
Bu phailt' ma'n òr,
Bu bhinn-caismeachd sgeoil ;
Aig lùchd-astair
A's ceòil na h-Eireann.

Co neach ga'n eòl,
Fear t-fhasain beò,
Am blasdachd beòil,
'S am maise neoil,
An gaisge glois,
An ceart san còir ;
Gun airceas na sgleò féilè.

Dh-fhalbh mo sòlas,
Marbh mo Leodach,
Calama, cròdha,
Meanamnach rò-ghlic,
Dhearbh mo sgeoil-sa,
Seanachas eolais ;
Gun chearb foghlum,
Dealbhach rò-ghlan t-eagaisg.

An treas la de'n Mhàirt,
Dh' fhalbh m'aighear gu bràth,
Bi sùd saighead mo chraidh,
Bhì 'g amharc do bhàis,
A ghnuis fhlatasach àilt ;
A dheagh mhic rathail,
An àrmuinn euchdaich.

Mac Ruairidh reachd-mhoir,
Uaibhreich, bheachdail,
Bu bhuaidh leatsa,
Dualchas farsuinn,
Snuadh-ghlaine pearsa ;
Cruadail 's smachd gun eucoir.

'Uaill a's aiteis,
'S an bhuaig gu faighte,
Ri uair ceartais,
Fuasgladh faicil ;
Gun ghruam gu lasan ;
Gu suaice, snaiste, reusant.

Fo bhùird na ciste,
Chaidh grùnd a ghliocais,
Fear fìughant, miseal,
Cuilmeach, gibteil,
An robh cliù gun bhriseadh ;
Chaidh ùir fò lic air m' eudail.

Gnùis na glainne,
Chùireadh sùnd air fearaibh,
Air each crùidheach ceann-ard,
'S lann ùr than ort,
Am beart dhlù dhainghinn :
Air cùll nan clann-fhalt teùd-bhuidh.

'S iomadh fear aineoil,
Is aoidh 's lùchd eallaidh,
Bheir turtais tamul,
Air crùn a mhalairt,
Air iùil 's air ainne,
Bu chluith gun aithreis bhreug è.

B tu 'n sìth-thamh charid,
Ri' am tigh'n gu bail,
Ol dìon aig fearabh,
Gun strì gun charraid,
'S bu mhiam leat mar ruit,
Luchd inns' air annas sgenla.

Bu tric aoidh chairdean,
Gu ù' dhùn àdhmhor,
Suilbhear, fàilteach,
Cuilm-mhor stàtoil,
Gun bhuirb gun àrdan :
Gun diultadh air màl dheirceach.

Thù shliochd Ollaghair
Bha mor morga,
Nan seòl corra-bheann,
'S nan còrn gorm-ghlas,
Nan ceòl òrghan
'S nan seòd bu bhorb ri eiginn.

Bha leath do shloinnidh,
Ri siol Cholla,
Nan cise tromadh,
'S nam pios soilleir,
Bho choig-amh Coinneach,
Bu lion-mhor do luingeas breid-gheal

'S iomadh gàir dalta,
'S mnàì bhàs-bhuailt,

Ri là tasgaidh,
Cha 'n fhàth aiteis,
Do 'd chaidinn t-fhaicinn
Fò chlàr glaisde,
Mu thruaidh ! chreach an t-eug sinn.

Inghinn Sheumais nan crùn,
Bean chéilidh ghlan ùr,
Thùg i ceud ghradh ga rùn,
Bu mhòr a' h-aobhar ri sùnd,
Nuair a shealladh i'n ghnuis a céile.

Si fhras nach ciuin,
A thainig as ùr,
A shrac air siùil,
Sa bhrist ar stiùir,
'S ar cairt mhath iùil,
'S ar taice cùil ;
'S air caidridh cùil,
Bhiodh againn 'na d' thùr éibhinn.

'S mor an iùndrain tha bhuainn,
Air a dùnadh 's an uaigh,
Air cuinneadh 's ar buaidh !
Air curam 's ar 'n ùail ;
'S ar sùgradh gun ghruaim
'S fad air chuimhne
Na fhuair mi fein deth.

LUINNEAG MHÍC-LEOID.

'S mi 'm shuidh' air an tulaich',
Fo mhulad 's fo ime-cheist ;
'S mi coimhead air lle,
'S ann de'm iongnadh san am so.
Bha mi uair nach do shaoil mi,
Gus 'n do chaochail air m' aimsir ;
Gu'n tiginn an taobh so,
A dh' amharc luraidh a's Sgarbaidh,

*I h-urabh ò, i h-oiriunn ò,
I h-urabh ò, i h-oiriunn ò ;
I h-urabh ò, h-ogaidh h-ò-ro,
H-i-rì-rì rithibh h-ò-i ag ò.*

Gun tiginn an taobh so,
A dh' amharc luraidh, a's Sgarbaidh :
Beir mo shoraidh do'n dùthaich,
Tha fo dhubhar nan garbh-bheann.
Gu Sir Tòrmod ùr, allail,
Fhuair ceannas air armailt ;
'S gun caint' ann 's gach fearann,
Gum b' airidh fear t-ainm air.

I hurabh o, &c.

Gun caint' ann 's gach fearann,
Gum b' airidh fear t-ainm air ;

Fear do cheille, 's do ghliocas,
Do mhìsich, 's do mheanmainn.
Do chruadail, 's do ghaisge,
Do dhreach, 's do dhealbha;
Agus t-òlachd as t-uaisle,
Cha bu shuarach ri leanmhuinn.

I h-urabh o, &c.

Agus t-òlachd, as t-uaisle,
Cha bu shuarach ri leanmhuinn;
Dh-fhuil dìreach rìgh Lochluinn;
B' e sid toiseach do sheanachais.
Tha do chairdeas so-iarraidh,
Rìs gach Iarla tha 'n Albuinn;
'S ri uaislean na h-Eireann,
Cha breug. ach sgeul dearbt' e.

I h-urabh o, &c.

'S ri uaislean na h-Eireann,
Cha bhreug ach sgeul dearbt' e;
A mhic an fhir chliùtich,
Bha gu fùghantach ainmeil.
Thug barrachd an gliocas,
Air gach Rìdir bha 'n Albuinn;
Ann an cogadh 's an sio'-chainnt,
'S ann an dioladh an airgeid.

I h-urabh o, &c.

Ann an cogadh 's an sio'-chainnt,
'S ann an dioladh an airgeid;
'S beag an t-iongnadh do mhac-sa,
Bhìdh gu beachdail mòr, meannnach.
Bhìdh gu fùghant', fial, farsuinn,
O'n a ghlachd sibh mar shealbh e;
Clann Ruairidh nam bratach,
'S e mo chreach-sa na dh-fhalbh dhìu'.

I h-urabh o, &c.

Clann Ruairidh nam bratach,
'S e mo chreach-sa na dh-fhalbh dhìu';
Ach an aon fhear a dh' fhuirich,
Nìr chluinnean sgeul marbh ort.
Ach eudail de dh-fhearaidh;
Ge do ghabh mi bh'uat tearbadh;
Fhir a chuirp 's glan cumadh,
Gun uireasaidh dealbha.

I h-urabh o, &c.

Fhir a chuirp 's glan cumadh,
Gun uireasaidh dealbha;
Cridhe farsuinn, fial, fearail;
'S math thig geal agus dearg ort.
Suil ghorm 's glan sealladh,
Mar dhearcaig na talmhuinn;
Lamh ri gruaidh ruiteach,
Mar mhucaig na feara-dhris.

I h-urabh o, &c.

Lamh ri gruaidh ruiteach.
Mar mhucaig na feara-dhris,
Fo thagha na gruaige,
Cul dualach, nan cama-lub.
Gheibhte sid ann a t-fhordaich,
An caradh air ealachuinn;
Miosair a's adharc,
Agus raogha gach armachd;

I h-urabh o, &c.

Miosair a's adharc,
Agus raogha gach armachd;
Agus lanutainnean tana,
O'n ceannaibh gu 'm barra-dheis.
Gheibhte sid air gach slios dhìu,
Isneach a's cairbinn;
Agus iubhair chruaidh, fhallain,
Le 'n tafaidin cainbe.

I h-urabh o, &c.

Agus iubhair chruaigh, fhallain,
Le 'n tafaidin cainbe,
A's cuilbheirean caola,
Air an daoirid gu'n ceannaicht' iad.
Glac nan ceann liobhta,
Air chuir sios ann am balgaibh;
O iteach an fhir-eoin,
'S o shìoda na Gaille-bheinn'.

I h-urabh o, &c.

O iteach an fhir-eoin,
'S o shìoda na Gaille-bheinn';
Tha mo chiou air a churaidh,
Mac Mhuire chuir sealbh air.
'S e bu mhiannach le m' leanabh,
Bhì 'm beannaibh nan sealga;
Gabhail aighear na frìdhe,
'S a dìreadh nan garbh-ghlac.

I h-urabh o, &c.

Ghabhail aighear na frìdhe
'S a dìreadh nan garbh-ghlac;
A leigeil na'n cuilein,
'S a furan na'n seanna-chon.
'S e bu deireadh do'n fhuaran ud.
Fuil thoirt air chaldaibh,
O luchd nan céir geala;
S nam falluinnean dearga.

I h-urabh o, &c.

O luchd nan céir geala,
'S nam falluinnean dearga,
Le d' chomblain dhaoin' uaisle,
Rachadh cruaidh air an armaibh.
Luchd aithneachadh latha,
'S a chaitheamh na fairge,
'S a b'urainn ga seòladh,
Gu seòl-ait' an tarruinnit' i.

I h-urabh o, &c.

AN CRONAN.

An naigheachd so 'n dè
Aighearach i,
Moladh do 'n léigh,
Thug maileart d'am chéil
'Nis teannaich mi féin ri crònan,
Nis teannaich &c.

Beannachd do 'n bheul,
Dh-aithris an sgeul
Cha ghearain mi féin
Na chailleadh 's na dh-eug
'S mo leanabh na dheidh comb-shlan
'S mo leanabh, &c.

Nam biodh agamsa fion
Gum b'ait leam a dhiol,

IAIN LOM;

OR,

JOHN MACDONALD, THE LOCHABER POET.

THIS celebrated individual, a poet of great merit, as well as a famous politician, was commonly called Iain Lom, literally, bare John; but so named from his acuteness, and severity on some occasions.* He was sometimes called Iain Manntach, from an impediment in his speech. He was of the Keppoch family; lived in the reigns of Charles I. and II., and died at a very advanced age about the year 1710.

We know little of the early education of the Lochaber bard. Of him it might be said, "poeta nascitur non fit;" but from his descent from the great family, Clann-Raonail na Ceapach, a sept of the M'Donalds, he must have seen and known more of the men and manners of those times than ordinary. His powers and talents soon rendered him a distinguished person in his native country; and subsequent events made him of importance, not only there, but likewise in the kingdom.

The first occurrence that made him known beyond the limits of Lochaber, was the active part he took in punishing the murderers of the heir of Keppoch: the massacre was perpetrated by the cousins of the young man, about the year 1663. The poet had the penetration to have foreseen what had really happened, and had done all he could to prevent it. He perceived that the minds of the people were alienated from the lawful heir in his absence: he and his brother being sent abroad to receive their education during their minority, and their affairs being intrusted to their cousins, who made the best use they could of the opportunity in establishing themselves by the power and authority thus acquired in the land. Although he could not have prevented the fatal deed, he was not a silent witness. He stood single handed in defence of the right. As he failed in his attempt to awaken the people to a sense of their duty, he addressed himself to the most potent neighbour and chieftain Glengarry, who declined interfering with the affairs of a celebrated branch of the great Clann-Dughail; and there was no other that could have aided him with any prospect of success. Thus situated, our poet, firm in his resolution, and bold in the midst of danger, was determined to have the murderers punished. In his ire at the reception he met from Glengarry, he invoked his muse, and began to praise Sir Alexander M'Donald.

Nothing can give us a better idea of the power of the Highland clans, and of the state of the nation at this period, than this event, which happened in a family, and among a people, by no means inconsiderable. M'Donald of Keppoch could bring out, on emergency, three hundred fighting men of his own people; as brave and as faithful as ever a chieftain called out or led to battle, that would have shed the last drop of their blood in his cause, and yet he had not an inch of land to bestow upon them. The M'Donald of Keppoch always appeared at the head of his own men, although only a branch of the great clan. He might have got rights, as he had just claims to land for signal services: but "would he care for titles given on sheep skin? he claimed his rights and titles by the edge of the sword!"

* Some say he was called Iain Lom because he was bare in the face, and never had any beard.

The kingdom of Scotland, as well as other nations, often suffered from the calamities that have been consequent on minorities. The affairs of Keppoch must have been in the most disordered state, when a people, warlike and independent in spirit, were trusted to the care, and left under the control of relations—selfish, and, as they proved, unworthy of their trust. The innocent, unsuspecting young men were sacrificed to the ambitious usurpation of base and cruel relatives. Our poet alone proved faithful; and, after doing what he could, it was not safe for him to rest there. The cause he espoused was honourable; and he was never wanting in zeal. Confiding in the justice of his cause, and his own powers of persuasion, (and no man better knew how to touch the spring that vibrated through the feelings of a high-spirited and disinterested chieftain,) he succeeded. Being favourably received by Sir Alexander M'Donald, he concerted measures for punishing the murderers, which met his lordship's approval, and indicated the judgment and sagacity of the faithful clansman.

A person was sent to North Uist with a message to Archibald M'Donald (An Ciaran Mabach), a poet as well as a soldier, commissioning him to take a company of chosen men to the mainland, where he would meet with the Lochaber bard, who would guide and instruct him in his future proceedings.

The usurpers were seized and beheaded. They met with the punishment they so richly deserved; but the vengeance was taken in the most cruel manner; and the exultation and feelings of the man who acted so boldly, and stood so firmly in the defence of the right, have been too ostentatiously indulged, in verses from which humanity recoils. How different from his melting strains, so full of sympathy and compassion for the innocent young men whose death he avenged!

The atrocious deed has been palpably commemorated, in a manner repugnant to humanity, by "Tobar nan Ceann."

Sometime thereafter the poet and Glengarry were reconciled. The chief well knew the influence of the "man of song" in the country, and had more policy than to despise one so skilled in the politics of the times—who made himself of more than ordinary consequence by the favour shown him by Sir Alexander M'Donald. No one of his rank could command greater deference. There might have been found votaries of the muses that poured out sweeter strains, but he was second to none in energy and pathos, in adapting his art to the object in view, and in producing the desired effect. He was born for the very age in which he lived. To the side he espoused he faithfully stood, and exerted all the energies of his mighty mind in behalf of the cause which he adopted. We shall not say that he was always in the right: in the one already related, he undoubtedly was; in a subsequent and greater cause he made one of a party. A poet is often led away by feeling, by passion and prejudice, when not left to cool reflection, or to the exercise of a better judgment. But Iain Lom entered on his enterprise with heart and zeal. A wider scene of action opened to his view. Usurpation, family feuds, and intestine troubles, gave way to civil war; and the vigilant seer became an active agent in the wars of Montrose.

One trait in the character of our poet, though not common, yet is not singular, and may be worthy of a remark or two. He was no soldier, and yet would set every two by the ears. Men of influence in the country, as well as chieftains at a distance, knew this, and dreaded him. An instance will put this in clear light. In the active scenes of those intestine troubles, a great politician and a famous bard was a person not to be neglected. He became an useful agent to his friends, and he received a yearly pension from Charles II. as his bard.

The Lochaber poet was the means of bringing the armies of Montrose and the Argyleshire men together, at Inverlochay, where the bloody battle that ensued proved so fatal to so many brave men, the heads of families of the Campbell clan.

It will be unnecessary to follow here a history so well known. The Argyleshire men, on learning the intentions of their enemies to make a second descent on their country, marched north in order to divert their course, and save Argyleshire from another devastation. John M'Donald's eyes were open to all that was passing. He hastened to the army of Montrose with the intelligence that the Campbells were in Lochaber. Mr Alexander M'Donald, (better known by his patronimic, Alasdair Mac Cholla,) who commanded the Irish auxiliaries, took John as guide, and went in search of the Campbells. He, after search was made, and finding no trace of them, began to suspect the informer of some sinister motive; and declared, "if he deceived him, he would hang him on the first tree he met." "Unless," answered the poet, who was well informed of the fact, "you shall find the Campbells all here, for certainly they are in the country, before this time to-morrow, you may do so." The enemy at length appeared, and they prepared to give them battle. "Make ready, John," says the commander to the poet, "you shall march along with me to the fight." The poet, as has been asserted of the greatest of orators, was a coward; yet he too well knew his man to have altogether declined the honour he offered him; for Mr Alexander was not the man to be refused. The other was at his wits end. A thought arose quicker than speech; and it was fortunate for him. "If I go along with thee to-day," said the bard, "and fall in battle, who will sing thy praises to-morrow? Go thou, Alasdair, and exert thyself as usual, and I shall sing thy feats, and celebrate thy prowess in martial strains." "Thou art in the right, John," replied the other; and left him in a safe place to witness the engagement.

From the castle of Inverlochay, the poet had a full view of the battle, of which he gives a graphic description. The poem is entitled The Battle of Inverlochay. The natives repeat these heroic verses, as most familiar and recent ones. So true, natural, and home-brought is the picture, that all that had happened, seem to be passing before their eyes. The spirit of poetry, the language, and boldness of expression, have seldom been equalled, perhaps never surpassed; yet, at this distance of time, these martial strains are rehearsed with different and opposite feelings.

The changes which afterwards took place produced no change in the politics of our bard. He entered into all the turmoils of the times with his whole heart, and with a boldness which no danger could daunt, nor power swerve from what he considered his duty. He became a violent opposer of the union, and employed his muse against William and Mary. It mattered little to him of what rank or station his opponents were if they incurred his resentment. He treated his enemies with the same freedom and boldness whether on the throne, at the head of an army, or in the midst of a clan on whose fidelity the chief might always depend. But his friends who were of the party which he espoused were spared, while he made the nicest distinction between the shades and traits of character. How ingeniously he revenged himself on Glengarry in the praises bestowed on Sir Alexander M'Donald! Yet, would he suffer a hair of the head of any of his clan to be touched? No truly.

But how severe was he against a neighbouring clan that was always in opposition to his own. The Campbells he always lashed with the sharpest stripes of satire. The marquess of Argyle, who, on the score of heroism might have shaken hands with himself, felt the influence of the satire and ridicule of the popular bard and politician so much, that he offered a considerable reward for his head. The conduct of M'Donald on this occasion, indicates well the manner in which the character of a bard was respected and held sacred.

The poet repaired to Inverary, went to the castle, and delivered himself to the marquess, demanding his reward. We have already given an instance of his cowardly spirit. No one would accuse him of rashness; for he proved his prudence, caution, and foresight, from the long experience and trials he had in troublesome times. It was, therefore, on the safety granted to the office of bardship that he depended. Nor did he trust too much. He was perfectly safe in the midst of his enemies; even in the very castle of their chief who offered a reward for his head. The marquess received him courteously, and brought him through the castle; and on entering a room hung round with the heads of black cocks, his Grace asked John:—"Am fac thu riamh Iain, an viread sin de choilich dhubha an aon àite?"—"Chunnaic," ars Iain. "C'àite?"—"An Inbher-Lòchaidh."—"A! Iain, Iain, cha sguir thu gu bràch de chagnadh nan caimbeulach?"—"Se 's duilich leam," ars Iain, "nach urradh mi ga slugadh." i. e. "Have you ever seen, John, so many black cocks together?" "Yes," replied the undaunted bard. "Where?" demanded his grace. "At Inverlochay," returned the poet, alluding to the slaughter of the Campbells on that memorable day. "Ah! John," added his grace, "will you never cease gnawing the Campbells?" "I am sorry," says the other, "that I could not swallow them."

He was buried in Dun-aingal in the braes of Lochaber; and his grave was till of late pointed out to the curious by the natives. Another bard, Alexander M'Donald of Glencoe, composed an elegy to him when standing on his grave, beginning thus:—

"Na shìneadh an so fo na pluic,
Tha gaol an leoghainn 's fuath an tuire, &c."

Iain Lom composed as many poems as would form a considerable volume, the best of which are given in this work.

* This song was composed on account of the laird of Glengarry refusing his aid in apprehending the Keppoch murderers; and in order to provoke the chief, the poet began by singing the praises of Sir Alexander M'Donald of Slate, and Sir James his son.

Sliochd a ghabhail nan steud thu,

* Women were the judges in this case, and a thief who was brought before them for stealing a horse, was allowed to escape while the horse was condemned to be hanged. The occasion was this:—Some time before the present action was raised, the same culprit had stolen the same horse and was prosecuted; but had the good fortune to get off in consequence of its being his first offence. It seems, however, the horse had found the thief so much the better master that he soon after "stole himself" away and returned, for which, poor fellow he had to suffer the above reward. This story is often referred to among the Highlanders when law and justice are evidently different things, they say—"Cha tugadh an Cille-ma-cheallaig breath bu chlaoinc."

'Nuair a lagadh a ghaoth oirnn,
Bhiodh seol air pasgadh a h-aodaich,

* "After the murder of the children of Keppoch Iain Manntach, the poet, had to flee for his life to Ross-shire, where he got a place from Seaforth in Glensheal, where he and his family might reside till such time as the murderers could be apprehended, as Seaforth, at the poet's request, had petitioned government for carrying that point into effect. This happened in the time of Sir James M'Donald, sixteenth baron of Slate, anno 1663.

"The government finding it impracticable to bring those robbers to justice in a legal way, sent a most ample commission of fire and sword (as it was then called) to Sir James M'Donald, signed by the duke of Hamilton, marquis of Montrose, earl of Eglinton, and other six of the Privy Council, with orders and full powers to pursue, apprehend, and bring in, dead or alive, all those lawless robbers, and their abettors.

"This, in a very short time, he effectually performed: some of them he put to death, and actually dispersed the rest to the satisfaction of the whole court, which contributed greatly to the civility of those parts.

"Immediately thereafter, by order of the ministry, he got a letter of thanks from the earl of Rothes, then Lord High Treasurer and Keeper of the Great Seal of Scotland, full of acknowledgments for the singular service he had done the country, and assuring him that it should not pass unrewarded, with many other clauses much to Sir James' honour.

"This letter is dated the 15th day of December, 1665, and signed Rothes. Sir James died anno 1678."—Extracted from an unpublished Historical MS. of the M'Donalds.

* This battle was fought between the M'Donalds and the Campbells, on Sunday, February 2, 1645.

† When the Campbells were routed, they endeavoured to cross the river at the above-mentioned ford. To their astonishment, however, the task proved more irksome than they had anticipated ; for, some of them losing their footing, their bonnets were carried down by the current. This event delighted and amused the poet ; and, in order to make it at the same time ludicrous in itself, and galling to the poor Campbells, he began to address them as follows : — "A Dhùimhneacha Dhùimhneacha, cuimhnicibh 'ur boineidean."

'N latha sin shaoil leo dhol leatha,
'S ann bha laoiach ga 'n ruith air reothadh,

'S ceart 's cho cheart mar mo dhurachd,
Le beachd mo shul gur mi chunnaic ;
Cha robh againn do sgathan,
Ach greasad trà do 'n taigh grunnaich ;
" Aisliug caillich mar a dùrachd,"
Gach mìo-rùn bha do 'n duin ud ;
Ged bu ladurna 'n cùl-chainnt,
Stad a chuis air an iomall.

Cha b e aingeachd na tuatha,
Gluais am marcus le dhaoine ;
Ach togail a bhraataich,

Oighre 'n duin' thu tha maireann,
Tha thu 'd charaid dhuinn dùbailt ;
Cha bheo e 's cha mhairean,
Na ni ar sgaradh o d' chul-thaobh,
A luchd nan ceanna-bhearta' crabhaidh,
Thionndaidh falachd a chrùn ruibh.

'S e do charaid mor dealaidh,
Mac 'Ic-Ailein a Muideart,
Sliochd an Alasdair Gharaich,
Luchd tharruinn nam fùran ;
Cha do chuir cainb shalach ;
Na tafaid ealamh ri d' chùl-chrann ;
Bheireadh beum air a h-athlorg,
Fhad sa mhaireadh a fudhaidh.

Na 'm biodh Tighearn na Learguinn,
Ann an Albainn 's e mar-riut ;
Agus Tighearn an Tairbeirt,
'S iad nach tairgeadh do mhealladh :

Luchd na 'm peighinnean talmhaidh,
'S tu dh fhaodadh earbs' asd gu daigheann ;
Cha 'n eil iad beo do shliochd Cholla,
Na ni 'n comunn ud aithris.

Gur a h-ìoma fear goirseid,
Gunna stoilte, 's lann dù-ghorm ;
Le 'n gunnaichean caola,
'S na daormuinn ga 'n giulan :
Mac-Laomuinn 's Mac-Lachuinn,
'S Mac-an-Ab o Ghleann-Dochart,
Mac-Neachduinn, 's Mac-Dhughail,
'S Mac-Iain-Stiubhairt o 'u Apuinn.

Cha 'n iongnadh thusa bhi fiambach,
'N taobh shios do Bhun-atha ;
Ged theid Duimhnich gu 'n dicheall,
'S gu dideann a chlaidheimh ;
'S leat na thubhairt mi chianamb,
Ceart cho direach ri saighead ;
'S leat Mac-Ionmhuinn an t-Stratha
Agus da Mhac-'Illeain.

'S fearr leam fhaicinn na chluinntinn,
Gu 'n do stad a chuimh air am muineal ;
Nis o 'n thionndaidh a chuibhle,
'S fad bhios Duimhnich gun urram ;
Ged a Shaoil le Mac-Caillein,
E bhi na bharrach air Muile ;
B' fhearr dha chumail na bh'aige,
Na bhi 'g agradh air tuille.

Na 'm biodh fear a bheoil mhoir ann,
O nach doirteadh gloir bbreamais !
Naille chailleadh sibh geogh ris,
Nach b' fhiach an ròstadh ri teallaich :
Fhuair sibh sgapadh nan caorach,
Na 'm biodh a dhaoine air an talamh ;
'S ged a ghlac sibh le foill e,
B' e fhein an saighdear bu ghlaine.

Gur maing a dh' earbadh a cairdeas,
Neach a dh-fhas dheth an t-sloinneadh,
Na 'm biodh cuimhn' air an lath' ud,
Fhuair iad t-athair fo 'n comas ;
Chuir iad smuid ri tur-arda,
Chaisteil Bhlaire gu gle shoilleir ;
'S beag bha dhòchas an là sin,
Gu 'm biodh iad pàighte na 'n comainn.

'S mor tha eadar dha latha,
Ged bha e grathunn gun tighinn ;
Chaidh thu 'n cuirt na bu leatha,
'N deigh t-athar a mhilleadh ;
Gun aon bhuille claidheamh,
Gun sathadh biodaig no sgine ;
Mur gu 'm bathadh tu coinnean,
Chaill e 'n oighreachd 'sa 'n cinneach.

'S beag a b' fhiach do Mhac Mhoirich,
Dhol n' ur coinneamh ach ainneamh ;
Na ghabhail mar chompach,
Ach fear da 'n geallt' bhi na charaid ;
'N deigh a Chomasdair Stiùbhairt,
Thain' sibh 'n tus air le h-an-ìochd,
Thugadh an ceann deth gun sgrubadh,
Ann an tìr Lady Murray.

Buail an teud sip gu sealbhach,
'S na dean searbh i gun bhinneas ;
'S na toir t-aghaidh neo-chearbbach,
Do 'n fhear nach earb thu do shlinnein ;
Ma chuir an rìgh an t-slat sgiùrsaidh,
'N glaic do dhuirn gun a sireadh ;
Uair mu seach air an fhurnais,
Mur bhuill' ùird air an innein.

Gloir do 'n Rìgh th' air a chathair,
'S maing a ghabhadh mun chluinneadh ;
No ghuidheadh na bhreig e ;
Gach ni dh-eirich sa chunnaic ;
Mu 's ann le droch-bheart Iudais,
Dh-fhuaigh thu chlùd air an Lunnaim ;
Chaill thu 'n luireach 's na breidean,
'S gach aon eideadh bha umad.

'N cuala' sibhse 'sa 'n duthaich,
'N ranntar-bùth bh' aig na luchan ;
'S iad a trusadh ri chèile,
Na 'n droch reisemid churta ;
'Nuair bha eagal a chait orr' ;
Chaidh droch sgapadh an cuid diu ;
'Sa bheisd mhor 'sa 'n robh phlaigh dhiu,
Sgrios gun agh oirr' mar fhurtachd.

Sin 'nuair labhair Dubh-na-h-àmrài,
A bheisd ghraund 'sa chrain mhullaich ;
Cha robh an sabhal nan àth dhiu,
Beisd le 'n àl nach do chruinnich,
Nuair bha 'm mòd ga 'r cruaidh shàrach'
'S na cuid a fagadh ma 'r muineil ;
'S ann an sud a bha 'n gàtur,
Co a chàradh iad umaibh.

B' ionann sin sa 'm bun rutha,
Cha 'n eil iad buidheach da' r 'n an-ìochd ;
Mar chlach an ionad an uibhe,
Na 'm biodh luitheachd na 'n teangaidh ;
B' ionann sin 's do shliochd Dhiarmaid,
Bhi ga 'r biadhadh an an-ìochd ;
Math an agaidh an uile,
Chuir mi luchd-sa 'n Aird-reanaich.

'Nuair bha 'n ad oirbh n-uiridh,
Bha sibh urranta mòdhar ;
Am blaidhna chaill sibh an currachd,
'S eiginn fuireach gle shambach :

Chaill an t-Iarl air 'ur turas,
Mheud 'sa bhuinig e mhàl oirbh;
Gar am b' fhiach leis an duin' ud,
Bhi ri cruinneachadh cnàmhaig.

B' ole a b' fhiach do dhiuc-Atholl,
Dholl an coinne riut Eardsaidh,
'N deigh latha Roinn-Lìothunn;
Thug sibh loc-shlaint mar earlais,
Mheall sibh null thar an abhuinn,
Marcus Atholl 'sa bhrathair;
Chuir sibh 'n laimh an toll-dubh iad,
'S loisg sibh duthaich iarl Earlaidh.*

Tha thu 'd mharcus am bliadhna,
'S ad shàr farl air Tulaich-bheardainn;
'S ged a dheanadh iad diùc dhiot,
'S ro mhath b' fhiu thu an t-aite;
Tha do thiotal cho lionor,
Chumail dìon air do chairdean;
Geard an rìgh fo d' smachd orduidh,
'S tha thu d' mhòir-fhear Baile-mhanaidh.

ORAN AIR RÌGH UILLEAM
AGUS BAN-RÌGH MAIRL

LUNNEAG.

Hi-rinn h-à rinn, ho ro h-o bha ho,
Hi-rinn h-à rinn, ho ro h-o bha ho,
Biodh gach duine agaibh brònach,
Atr son soirneart mo rìgh.

'N dìugh chuala' mi naidheachd,
Air alt nach b'aimhealach leinn,
'Nan cumadh e chasan—
'S gu boidh an t-ath-ègeul cho binu—
Rìgh Seumas le farum,
Cur a dharaich na still;
O'n 's leat uachdar na mara,
Gluais a's taruinn gu tìr.
Hi-rinn, &c.

Mhic Mhuire na h-òighe,
Coimhead foirneart mo rìgh;
Co b'urrainn da'r smàladh—
Ach do lamhans' bhi leinn:
Faic a nis prionns Orans',
Cur na còir os a cinn;
Ach as do chobhair, a Shlan-'ear,
Thig furtachd a's slaint air gach tinn.
Hi-rinn, &c.

A Rìgh chumhachdaich, fheartaich,
Ga 'm beil beachd air gach nì,
Cum air aghaidh an ceartas—
An lagh seachranach pill:

* A title formerly in Strathmore, now extinct.

Faic luchd nam breid dàite,
Bhi gun dealt ann ri'n linn;
'S ma tha 'n eucoir nan aigneadh,
Beum do shlat os an cinn.
Hi-rinn, &c.

'N uair a thainig thu Shasunn,
'S tu rinn aiseag a bhreamais;
Sheilbh chòir thoirt air eiginn,
O athair ceile thug bean dut.
Cha bi reull nan dùilean,
Bha deanadh iuil dut 'san ain-eol;
Mar bha roimh na trì rìghrean,
'N uair bha Iosa na leanabh.
Hi-rinn, &c.

Thug thu 'm follais an t-Slàn'ear,
Sgeula gràin do luchd teagasig;
'S gur mòr am fà nàire,
'S an coig àntean a bhriseadh.
A nighean fhéin, 's mac a pheathar,
'N aghaidh labhairt an Sgrìobtuir,
Mar bhreun ghearran 'sa chathair,
'S nach b'fhear-taighe da 'n sliochd e.
Hi-rinn, &c.

'S fìor mhallaichte 'n lànán,
Chum an Spàin anns an roinn ud;
Seilbh chòir thoirt a dh-aindeoin,
Le mùtha malairt an t-slaighteir:
Ged' a stadadh an claidheamh,
Gun bhuille chaith' ach na rinn e,
Bì'dh gach fuil 'g eigheach am flaitheas,
A d' dheigh a latha 's a dh' oidhche.
Hi-rinn, &c.

'S maig a chreideadh droch naidheachd,
Thig tro ambaich a nàmhaid,
Chuireadh fùdar na ghreadan,
An grund' na h-eaglaise gnàthaicht;
'S lionor lunn tha na teine,
'S a ghrund 'n do spealadh an grain-shop
Ach, chi sinn fhathasd sud diolte,
Mas' a fìor a ta 'n fhàistinn.
Hi-rinn, &c.

'N uair chaidh Whitehall losgadh,
Bu mhall do chois eachd gun bhògan;
'S mi nach rachadh le pairti,
Air mhìre, bhàthadh, na tòite.
Mas' a daoine rinn suas e,
B'fhaoin an cruadal, 's an seoltachd;
Cha 'n eil mi gearan—mo thruaighe!
Ach a lughad 's a fhuair dhiu an ròstadh
Hi-rinn, &c.

Cha tig ach rùcas a's cealgan,
O chruitean cealgach an ràbuill;
Cuiribh an t-aibhisdear saoil ris—
Biodh Dia a's daoine ga aicheadh.

Cleas eud bean a chruiteir,
Fhuair a cursadh 'n sgàth gàraidh ;
Thog iad airsan mar uirsgheil,
Gu 'n do mhurt e dhearbh-bhrathair.
Hi-rinn, &c.

Gu 'm bu ghrannda na sgeoil sin,
Thog na deomhain ga dhibeirt !
'S nach b' urr' iad ga dhearbhadh,
Ach mar bhuille searbh da 'n luchd mi-ruin ;
Gu 'n cuirte isean a chlamhain,
An nead clannach an fhireoin ;
Mac muice a bhalaich,
Shalcha fala nan rìghrean.
Hi-rinn, &c.

'S maìrg rìgh a rinn cleamhnas,
Ri Dùitseach shantach gun trocair ;
Cha b'e 'n onair bu ghnàs da,
Ged' 's tu brathair-mathair an rògair.
Ged' a thug thu dha Màiri
Air laimh, chum a pòsaidh,
Ghabh e t-oghreachd a t-an-toil
Thar do cheann, a's thu d' bheo-shlaint.
Hi-rinn, &c.

Bha mac aig rìgh Daibhidh,
'S bu deas àill air ceann sluaigh e,
Chaidh e 'n aghaidh an athar,
S am fear nach càir da bhuaireadh ;
'N uair a sgaioleadh am blàr sin,
Thug Dia pàigheadh na dhuais da ;
'S o'n bu droch dhuine cloinn e,
Chroch a choill air a ghruaig e.
Hi-rinn, &c.

Ach buaidh an droch sgeoil sin,
Do phrionns Orains gun diadhachd,
Ged' a rachadh do bhàthadh,
Cha b' ionann bàs dut 'sa dh' iarrainn ;
Ach mo suilean bhi t-fhaicinn,
Edar eachabh ga d' stialladh ;
Dol a d' smaladh 's an adhar,
Mar luaithe dhaigte ga criathradh.
Hi-rinn, &c.

Sgrios gun iarmad, gun duilleach,
Cha 'n iarruinn tuille am dhàn duibh ;
Gun sliochd a dh-iathadh mu t' uilinn,
Do ghniomh broinne droch Mhàiri ;
Ged' a ghlacadh na theum e,
'S farsuinn beul a mhic-lamhaich ;
A shean staoile bhi 'n cunnart,
Aig na rinn thu thrusadh a cràineig.
Hi-rinn, &c.

Ach seun gun tuisleadh air Màiri,
'S olc an làn tha na togsaid ;

'N ar fhaicear laogh càraid,
Nuas gu làr as a poca.
Cha bhi 'n sean fhacail claoite,
Air neo 's claon theid a thogail ;
Tha 'n dà shant 's an droch mhnaoi ud,
'S annsadh * * * le no böban.
Hi-rinn, &c.

Ach na 'n tigeadh an rìgh sin,
'S a mhac dìleas air aidmheil,
Ged' a theireadh prionns Orains,
Nach b-i choir a bhi againn,
Cha bu mho orra Uilleam,
Air sràid Lunnainn an Sasunn,
'N ceann fhuadach deth mhùineal,
Na cluais cuilein an radain.
Hi-rinn, &c.

Prionns Orains a mhì-rath,
Mas' toil le Rìgh thoirt gu creideamh,
'S còir an duilleag so thiondadh,
Air a bhan-rìgh nach creid e.
Ma shaoil am bith-shanntach sanntach
Na mhac-samhla ga ghoid sud ;
Na a ruitheadh le lànnan,
Air nighean Seanalair Huitsein.
Hi-rinn, &c.

B'fhearr gu 'm buaileadh e'n staidse,
Tus a bhàidse bu chòir dha,
N'am bu tuiteam 'sa phlaigh dhuinn,
Mar fhuair rìgh Phàro, 's a sheorsa ;
Mar bha chomhairle bhreige,
Chuir rìgh Seumas air fògradh ;
Aithris cleas nan droch rìghrean,
Leis 'n do dhìtheadh Rìgh-boam.
Hi-rinn, &c.

Sgeul buan e do'n mhearcaid.
'S nach tog a mac a cuid oighreachd ;
'S ion dìth cùram a ghabhail,
Mu'n dùinear cathair na soills' orr ;
Thoil i mallachd a b-athar,
O'n ghabh an t-aibhisteir greim dh'i ;
'S olc an dùchas a lean rith,
Chuinnt a seanair na throiteir.
Hi-rinn, &c.

'S math an toiseach ar seannsa,
Ma rinn am Frangach a thapadh—
Ma ghlacadh leis Monsai,
Cha sgeul tum-sgeul ach ceartas,
Bu mbath gu'm biodh an adbhansa,
Air a tiondadh gu Sasunn ;
Na gu faicte an cunnart,
Cho ghrad ri tionda nan cairtean.
Hi-rinn, &c.

* Rehoboam, poetically.

Ach ma stad air an diùc sin,
 'S nach e a run tigh'n ni's fhaide ;
 Leig e cadal do'n chirein—
 Stad a sgrìob mar a chleachd e ;
 Ma leig gach saighdear a ghleus deth :
 'N uair tha leigheart mu'n chaisteal,
 B'fhearr gu'm faicinn an coileach,
 No, gu'n gaireadh a chaismeachd.
Hi-rinn, &c.

Mu tha e'n dàn dhut teachd dhachaigh,
 'S nàr dhut t-fhaicinn gun speurad ;
 Ged' a fhuair thu pairt leonaidh,
 Ri àm fògraidh rìgh Sheumais ;
 Ma tha thu cruaidh air an raipeir,
 Seall air slachdan a ghleusaigh,
 Leis an do sponadh mo sgròban,
 Ma's fìor Tòmas an Réumair.
Hi-rinn, &c.

* "Crois-tàra," or "crann-tàra," was a piece of wood, half burnt and dipt in blood, sent by a special messenger as a signal of distress or alarm. The person to whom it was sent, immediately despatched another person with it to some one else; and thus was intelligence passed from one to another over immense distances in an incredibly short time. One of the latest instances of its being used, was in 1715, by lord Breadalbine, when it went round Loch Tay, the distance of thirty-two miles, in three hours. The above method was used only in the day-time; for in the night, recourse was had to the "Sporr-theine," a large fire kindled on an eminence. See Ossian's "Carrig-thura." The last mentioned signal is spoken of by Jeremiah to denote distress, chap. vi. 1.

* Captain Andrew Munro sent instructions to Neil Macleod, the laird of Assynt, his brother-in-law, to apprehend every stranger that might enter his bounds, in the hope of catching Montrose, for whose apprehension a splendid reward was offered. In consequence of those instructions, Macleod sent out various parties in quest of Montrose, but they could not fall in with him. "At last the laird of Assynt being abroad in arms with some of his tenants in search of him, lighted on him in a place where he had continued three or four days without meat or drink, and only one man in his company. Assynt had formerly been one of Montrose's own followers, who immediately knowing him, and believing to find friendship at his hands, willingly discovered himself; but Assynt not daring to conceal him, and being greedy of the reward which was promised to the person who should apprehend him by the council of the estates, immediately seized and disarmed him."* Montrose offered Macleod a large sum of money for his liberty, which he refused to grant. Macleod kept Montrose and his companion prisoners in the castle of Aldr-bhreach, his principal residence, for a few days. He was from thence removed to Skibo castle, where he was kept two nights, thereafter to the castle of Braan, and thence again to Edinburgh.

AN CIARAN MABACH.

NO,

GILLEASPUIG RUADH MAC-DHOMHNUILL.

ARCHIBALD M'DONALD, commonly called Ciaran Mabach, was an illegitimate son of Sir Alexander M'Donald, sixteenth baron of Slate. He was contemporary with Iain Lom, the Lochaber bard, and his coadjutor in punishing the murderers of the lawful heirs of Keppoch.

In no one could his father more properly have confided matters of importance, requiring sagacity, zeal, and bravery, than in this son. Accordingly he made use of his services when necessary; and put the greatest dependence in his fidelity, prudence, and activity. Ciaran Mabach was no doubt amply requited by his father, who allotted him a portion of land in North Uist. Grants of land were in those times commonly given to gentlemen of liberal education, but of slender fortune; where amid their rural occupations they enjoyed pleasures unknown to those who in similar stations of life were less happily located. Of this our bard was very sensible during his stay in Edinburgh, as we learn from his poem on that occasion.

It does not appear that our poet was a voluminous writer; and of his compositions there are very few extant. It is to be regretted that so few of his poems have been preserved, as his taste, education, and natural powers, entitle him to a high place among the bards of his country. Gentlemen of a poetical genius could have resided in no country more favourable to poetry than in the Highlands of Scotland, where they led the easy life of the sportsman, or the grazier, and had leisure to cultivate their taste for poetry or romance.

B' ANNSA CADAL AIR FRAOCH.

GE socrach mo leabaidh,
 B' annsa cadal air fraoch,
 Ann an lagan beag uaigneach,
 A's bad de'n luachair ri 'm thaobh,
 'Nuair dh'èirinn sa' mhadainn,
 Bhi siubhal ghlacagan caol,
 Na bhi triall thun na h-Abaid,
 'G eisdeachd glagraich nan sàor.

'S oil leam càradh na frìthe,
 'S mi bhi 'n Lite nan long,
 Eadar ceann Saileas Si-phort,
 A's rutha Ghrianaig nan tonn,

Agus Uiginnis riabhach,
 An tric an d'iarr mi damh-donn,
 'S a bhi triall thun nam bodach,
 Dha'm bu chosnadh cas-chrom.

Cha'n eil agam cù gleusda,
 A's cha'n eil feum agam dha,
 Cha suidh mi air bachdan,
 Air sliabh fad o chàch,
 Cha leig mi mo ghaothar,
 Chaidh faogh'd an tuim bàin,
 'S cha sgaoil mi mo luaidhe,
 An Gleann-Ruathain gu bràth.

B'iad mo ghradh-sa a ghraidh uallach,
 A thogadh suas ris an àird,
 Dh'itheadh biolair an fhuarain,
 'S air bu shuarach an càl,
 'S mise féin nach tug fuath dhuibh,
 Ged a b'fhuar am mìos Màigh.
 'S tric a dh'fhuilig mi cruadal,
 A's moran fuachd air 'ur sgàth.

Be mo ghradh-sa fear buidhe,
 Nach dean suidhe mu'n bhòrd,
 Nach iarradh ri cheannach,
 Pìinnt leanna na beoir ;
 Uisge-beatha math dubailt,
 Cha be b'fhiù leat ri òl,
 B'fhearr leat biolair an fhuarain,
 A's uisge luaineach an lòin.

B'i mo ghradh-sa a bhean uasal,
 Dha nach d'fhuaras riamh lochd,
 Nach iarradh mar chluasaig,
 Ach fìor ghualainn nan cnoc,
 'S nach fuilgeadh an t-sradag,
 A lasadh r'i corp,
 Och ! a Mhuire mo chruaidh-chas,
 Nach dh'fhuair mi thu nochd.

Bean a b'aigeantaich céile,
 Nam eiridh ri drìùchd,
 Cha'n fhaigheadh tu beud da,
 'S cha bu leir leis ach thu
 Sibh an glacaibh a chéile,
 Am fìor eudainn nan stùc,
 'S ann am eiridh na grèine,
 Bu ghlan leirsinn do shùl.

'Nuair a thigeadh am foghar,
 Bu bhinn leam gleadhair do chléibh,
 Dol a ghabhail a chrònain,
 Air a mhointich bhuig réidh,
 Dol an coinneamh do leannain,
 Bu ghile feaman a's céir
 Gur h-i 'n eilid bu bhòiche,
 A's bu bhrisge lòghmhorra ceum.

Note.—This song was composed in Edinburgh while the poet was under the care of a surgeon for a sprain in his foot.

'S bàth dhomh fuireach r'a rùsgadh.

* Raoghull odhar was a piper. There is a story told about this worthy, to the following purpose:—He was a great coward; and being in the exercise of his calling in the battle-field one day along with his clan, he was seized with such fear at the sight of the enemy, whom he thought too many for his party, that he left off playing altogether, and began to sing a most dolorous song to a lachrymose air, some stanzas of which had been picked up and preserved by his fellow soldiers; and which, on their return from the war they did not fail to repeat. When an adult is seen crying for some trifling cause, he is said to be singing "Port Raoghull uidhir," "Dun Donald's tune;" and when a Highlander is threatening vengeance for some boisterous and uproarious devilment which has been played off upon him, he will say: "Beir mis ort gu seinn thu 'Port Raoghull uidhir," i. e. "I will make you sing 'Dun Ronald's tune.'" The following are a few of the stanzas:—

"Be so an talamh mi shealbhach!
Tha gun chladach gun gharbhach gu'n chòs;
Anns an rachainn da'm fhalach,
'S sluaigh gun athadh a teannadh faisg oirn

*Tha mi tinn leis an eagal,
Tha mi cinnteach gur beag a bhios beò
Chi mi lasadh an fhùdair,
Chluinn mi sgaitcadh nan àr-chlach ri òrd!*

Fhuair mi gunna nach diult mi,
Fhuair mi claidheamh nach lùb ann am dhòru,
Ach ma ni iad mo mharbhadh,
Cìod a feum a ni 'n àrmach sin dhomh-s?
Tha mi tinn, &c.

Ged do gheibhinn-sa sealbh,
Air làn a chaistead de dh' airgead 's de dh-òr,
Oich! ma ni iad mo mharbhadh!
Cìod a feum a ni 'n t-airgead sin domh-s?*" Tha mi tinn, &c.

Bhuin an t-eug creach gun toir dhìom
Dh' aindeoin oigrìdh do dhùthcha;
Dh' fhag e m' aigneadh fo dhòruinn,
'S bhuail e bròg air mo chuinneadh;
'S trom a dh' fhuasgail e deoir dhomh,
Bu mhor mo choir air an dubladh;
Mu cheann-uighe nan deoiribh,
Bhi fo bhòrd ann an dùnadh.

Bu deas déile mo shior-ruith,
'S gu 'm bu dìonach mo chlàraidh;
Bha mo chala gun dìobradh,
Ga mo dhion as gach sàradh;
Riamh gus 'n tainig an dil orm,
Dh' fhag fo mhighean gu bràth mi;
'S ard a dh' éirich an stailc-s' orm,
Chuir i as domh ma m' àirnean.

Call gun bhuinig gun bhuannachd,
Bha ga m' ruagadh' o 'n tràth sin;
Cha b' i 'n iomairt gun fhuathas,
Leis 'n do ghluais mi mar chearrach;
'N cluich a shaoil mi bhi 'm buannachd,
Dh' fhaointe ghluasad air tàileasg;
Thainig goin a's cur suas orm,
'S tha fear fuar dhomh na t-àite.

O 'n chaidh maill' air mo fhradharc,
'S nach taoghail mi 'n ard-bheann;
Chuir mi cul ris an fhiadhach,
Pong cha n' iarr mi air clàrsaich;
Mo cheol laidhe a's éiridh,
M' osnadh gheur air bheag tàbhachd;
Fad mo rè bidh mi 'g acain,
Mheud 'sa chleachd mi dheth t-àilleas.

Ach dheasaidh faighidinn furtachd,
Nach faic thu chuisle ga luaithead;
Air fear na teasaich 'sa 'n fhiabhrais,
'S gearr mu shioladh a bhruaidlein;
Muir a dh' éireas ga bhraisead,
Ni fear math beairte dh' i suaineach;
Ach e dh' iomairt gu tapaidh,
Ceann da shlait thuig a's uaithe.

'Nuair a bha mi am ghille,
'S mi 'n ciad iomairt Shir Seumus,
Mar ri comhlan dheth m' chinneadh,
Seoladh air spinneig do dh' Eirinn;
'S ann aig I Chalum Chille,
Ghabh mi giorrag mu d' dheighinn;
Chaill thu lan mèise feodair,
Air do shròin do 'n fhuil ghè dhèarg.

Luchd a chaitheadh nan cuaintean,
'S moch a ghluaiseadh gu surdail,
Le 'n àlach chalpannan cruaidhe,
Bu bheag roimh' 'n fhuaradh an curam;

Bu choma co dheth na h-uaislean,
 Ghlacadh gluasad na stiùrach ;
 'S fear math bearit air a gualainn,
 B' urrainn fuasgladh gach cuise.

'N am gluasad o thìr dhuinn,
 Bu neo-mhìodhoir ar lòistean,
 Cornach, cupanach, fionach,
 Glaineach, liontaidh a stòpaibh ;
 Gu cairteach, taileasgach, disneach,
 'S tailc eir uigh na 'm foirneibh ;

Dhomb-sa b' fhurasd' sud innse
 Bu chuid dom' gnoimh o m' aois òige.

Bu ro-eibneach mo leabaidh,
 'S bha mo chadal gle chomhnard,
 Fhad 'sa dh' fhuirich thu agam,
 An caoin chadal gun fhòtus ;
 Bu tu mo sgaith laidir dhìleas,
 Ga mo dhìon o gach dòrainn,
 'S e cuid a dh' aobhar mo leith-truim,
 Bhi 'n diugh a seasamh do chòrach.

DIORBHAIL NIC A BHRIUTHAINN;

OR,

DOROTHY BROWN.

THIS poetess belonged to Luìng, an island, in Argyleshire. It is uncertain when she was born; but she was cotemporary with Iain Lom; like him was a Jacobite, and also employed her muse in the bitterest satire against the Campbells. Indeed there must have been great pungency in her songs; for, long after her death, one Colin Campbell, a native of Luìng, being at a funeral in the same burying-ground where she was laid, trampled on her grave, imprecating curses on her memory. Duncan Maclachlan, of Kilbride, in Lorn, himself a poet, and of whom the translator of Ossian makes honourable mention as a preserver of Gaelic poetry, being present, pulled him off her grave, sent for a gallon of whisky, and had it drunk to her memory on the spot. Her song to Alasdair Mac Cholla, was composed on seeing his birlinn pass through the sound of Luìng on an expedition against the Campbells, in revenge for the death of his father, whom they had killed some time before. She is the only poetess who at all approaches Mairi nighean Alasdair Ruaidh as a successful votary of the muse. She composed a great many songs, but, not being much known out of her native island, perhaps, the following piece is the only thing of hers now extant. A tomb-stone, with a suitable Gaelic inscription, is about to be erected to her memory, in Luìng, by a countryman of her own, Mr Artt M'Lachlan, of Glasgow, a gentleman well known for his zeal in every thing tending to promote the honour of Highlanders, and the Highlands.

ORAN DO DH' ALASDAIR MAC COLLA.

ALASDAIR a laogh mo chéile,
 Co chunnaic no dh' fhag thu 'n Eirinn,
 Dh' fhag thu na mìltean 's na ceudan,
 'S cha d' fhag thu t-aon leithid féin ann,
 Calpa cruinn an t-sluhail eutruim,

Caas chruinneachadh 'n t-sluaigh ri chéile,
 Cha deanar cogadh as t-éigais,
 'S cha deanar sìth gun do reite,
 'S ged nach bi na Duimhnic reidh riut,
 Gu 'n robh an rìgh mur tha mi féin dut.

*E-hò, hi u hò, rò hò eile,
E-ho, hi u ho, 's i ri ri ù,
Hò hi ù ro, o hò 's eile,
Mo dhiobhail dìth nan ceann-fheadhna.*

Mo chruit, mo chlòrsach, a's m' fhiodhall,
Mo theud chìùil 's gach àit am bithinn,
'Nuair a bha mi òg 's mi 'm nighinn,
'S e thogadh m' inntinn thu thighinn,
Gheibheadh tu mo phòg gun bbruithinn,
'S mar tha mi 'n diugh 's math do dhlighe oir'.
E-ho i u ho, &c.

Mhoire 's e mo run am firionn,
Cha bhuachaille bhò 'sa 'n innis,
Ceann-feadhna greadhnach gun ghiorraig,
Marcaich nan steud 's leoir a mhìre,
Bhuidhneadh na cruintean d'a ghilleann,
'S nach seachnadh an toir iomairt,
Ghàlaich na 'n deanadh tu pilleadh,
Gheibheadh tu na bhiodh tu sìreadh,
Ged a chaillinn ris mo chinneach—
Pòg o ghruagach dhuinn an fhirich.
E-ho i u ho, &c.

'S truagh nach eil mi mar a b' àit leam,
Ceann Mhic-Cailein ann am achlais,
Cailein liath 'n deigh a chasgairt,
'S a 'n Crunair an deigh a ghilacadh,
Bu shunnadh a gheibhinn cadal,
Ged a b' i chreag chruaidh mo leabaidh.
E-ho i u ho, &c.

M' eudail thu dh' fheara' na dìlinn,
'S math 's eol dhomh do shloinneadh innse,
'S cha b' ann an cagar fo 's 'n iosal,
Tha do dhreach mar dh' òrdaich rìgh e,
Falt am boineid tha sìuteach,
Sàr mhug ort no cuilbhear,
Dh' eighte geard an cuirt an rìgh leat,
Ceist na 'm ban o 'n Chaisteal Ileach,
Dorn geal mu 'n dean an t-òr sniamhan.
E-ho i u ho, &c.

Domhnallach gasda mo ghaoil thu,
'S cha b' e Mac Dhonnchaidh Ghlinne-Faochain.
Na duine bha beò dheth dhaoine,
Mhic an fhir o thùr na faoileachd,

Far an tig an long fo h-aodach,
Far an òlte fion gu greadhnach.
E-ho i u ho, &c.

Mhoire 's e mo rùn an t-òigear,
Fiughantach aigeantach spòrsail,
Ceannard da ceathairne moire,
'S mise nach diultadh do chòmhradh,
Mar ri cuideachd no am onar,
Mhic an fhir o 'n innis cheolar,
O 'n tìr am faighte na geoidh-ghlas,
'S far am faigheadh fir fhalamh stòras.
E-ho i u ho, &c.

Bhuailte creach a's speach mhor leat,
'S cha bhiodh chridhe tigh'n a t-fhearaich,
Aig a liuthad Iarla a's mòrair,
Thigeadh a thoirt mach do chòrach,
Thig Mac-Shimidh, thig Mac-Leod ann,
Thig Mac-Dhonuill duibh o Lochaidh,
Bidh Sir Seumus ann le mhor fhir,
Bidh na b' annsa Aonghas òg ann,
'S t-fhuil ghreadhnach fein bhi ga dortadh,
'S deas tarraun nan gear laun gleoiste.
E-ho i u ho, &c.

'S na 'n saoleadh cinneadh t-athar,
Gu 'n deanadh Granntaich do ghleidheadh,
'S ioma fear gunna agus claidheamh,
Chotaichean uain' 's bhreacan dhathan,
Dh' eireadh leat da thaobh na h-ambunn,
Cho lionmhor ri ibht an draighinn.
E-ho i u ho, &c.

Mhoire 's iad mo run an comunn,
Luchd na 'n cul buidhe a's donna,
Dheanadh an t-iubhar a chromadh,
Dh' oladh fion dearg na thonnadh,
Thigeadh steach air mointich Thollaidh,
'S a thogadh creach o mhuinntir Thomaidh.
E-ho i u ho, &c.

Note.—As the air to which this piece is sung is rather a kind of irregular chant than a tune, the poetess was not necessitated to make all her stanzas of equal length. We know of other even good songs in similar style: and, perhaps, it is in some measure owing to this circumstance that the fertility of imagination, and raciness of language, so apparent in the compositions of some of our untutored bards is to be attributed. Marbhrann Iain ghairbh, at page 26, is an instance of this.

SILIS NIGHEAN MHC RAONAILL.

CICELY or JULIAN M'DONALD lived from the reign of Charles II. to that of George I. She was daughter to Mac Raognhaill na Ceapach, and of the Roman Catholic persuasion. Consequently she was an enemy to Protestantism, and hence devoted the earliest efforts of her muse against the House of Hanover. It is said that in her young days she was very frolicsome. She then composed epigrams, some of which are very clever, and in our possession. She was married to a gentleman of the family of Lovat, and lived with him in Moràghach Mhic-Shimidh, a place which she describes in a poem, as bare and barren in comparison to her native Lochaber. This celebrated piece begins with, "A theanga sin 'sa theanga shròil," which was the first piece she composed after her marriage. During her residence in the North she composed "Slan gu bràch le ceòl na clàrsaich," as a lament for Lachlan M'Kinnon the blind harper. This harper was a great favourite of our poetess, and used to spend some of his time in her father's family. He was also in the habit of paying her a yearly visit to the North, and played on his harp while she sung:—

“ Nuair a ghlacadh tu do chlàrsach,
Sa bhiodh tu ga gleusadh lamh rium,
Cha mhath a thuigte le umaidh,
Do chuir chiul-sa, 's mo ghabhail dhan-sa.”

During her residence in the North she composed several short pieces, among which is an answer to a song by Mr M'Kenzie of Gruineard called "An obair nogha." Her husband died of a fit of intoxication, while on a visit to Inverness. She composed an elegy on him which is here given. The song "Alasdair a Glinne-Garaidh" is truly beautiful, and has served as a model for many Gaelic songs. After the death of her husband, she was nearly cut off by severe illness; and upon her recovery, engaged her muse in the composition of hymns, some of which are still in use, as appears from a Hymn-book printed at Inverness in 1821. She lived to a good old age, but the time of her death is uncertain.

MARBHRANN AIR BAS A FIR.

'S i so bliadhna 's faid' a chlaoidh mi,
Gu'n cheol gu'n aighear gun fhaoilteas,
Mi mar bhàt air tràigh air sgaoileadh,
Gun stiùir, gun seol, gun ràmh, gun taoman.

O 's coma' leam fhìn na co dhiubh sin,

Mìre, no aighear, no sùgradh,

'N dìugh o shìn mì r'a chunntadh,

'S e ceann na bliadhna thug riadh dhìom dùbailt.

'S i so bliadhna' a chaisg air m' àilleas,

Chuir mi fear mo thaighe 'n càradh,

'N ciste chaoil 's na saoir 'ga sàbhadh;

O! 's mis tha faoin 's mo dhaoin' air m' fhàgail.

O 's coma' leam fhìn, &c.

Chaill mi sin 's mo chuilean gràdhach,

Bha gu foinnidh, fearail, àillidh,

Bha gun bheum, gun leum, gun ardan ;
Bha guth a bheil mar theud na clàrsaich.

O 's coma' leam fhìn, &c.

Ma 's beag leam sud fhuair mi bàrr air
Ceann mo stuic is pruib nan càirdean,
A leag na ceud le bheum 's na blàraibh,
Ga chuir fo 'n fhòd le òl na gràisge.

O 's coma' leam fhìn, &c.

Ciod na creachan a thug bhuainn thu ?
Thug do dh' Inbheirnis air chuairt thu,
Dh' òl an fhiona lās do ghruaidhean
'S a dh'fhag thu d' chorp gu'n lot gun luaidhe.

O 's coma' leam fhìn, &c.

'S mor a tha gun fhios do d' chairdean
San tìr mhoir tha null o 'n t-sàile,
Thu bhi aig na Gaill ga d' chàradh
'S do dhuthaich féin ga mort' le nàmhaid.

O 's coma' leam fhìn, &c.

Bu tu 'n Curaidh fuilteach, buailteach,
Ceannsgalach, borb, laidir, usal,
Na 'm b' ann am blàr no 'n spàirn a bhuaile' thu,
Gu 'm biodh do chairdean a' tàir-leum suas orr'.

O 's coma' leam fhìn, &c.

Curaidh gasta, crodha, fumail,
Tionnsgalach, garg, beodha, euchdach ;
'N Coille-chriothnaich 's là an t-sléibhe,
Bu luath do lann 's bu teann do bheuman.

O 's coma' leam fhìn, &c.

Mo chreach long nan leoghann garga,
Nam brataichean sròil 's nan dath dearga,
Gur tric an t-eug gu geur g'ur sealg-sa
Leagail bhur crann-siùil gu fàirge.

O 's coma' leam fhìn, &c.

Nise bho na dh'fhalbh na braithrean
'S nach eil ach Uilleam dhiu lathair,
A rìgh mhoir, ma 's deonach dàil da,
Gus an dìong an t-òighre t-àite.

O 's coma' leam fhìn, &c.

Ach a rìgh mhoir tog 's an aird iad,
Mar chraoibh ubhlan, mheulair mhiaghair,
Mar ghallan ùr nach lùb droch aimsir,
Mar phreasa fiona 's lionmhor leanmhuinn.

O 's coma' leam fhìn, &c.

O 's e so deireadh 'n t-saoghail bhronnaich
Aird-rìgh dean sinn orsta cuimhneach ;
An deigh an latha thig an oidhche
'S thig an t-aog air chaochladh Staidhle.

O 's coma' leam fhìn, &c.

MARBHRANN

DO DH' ALASTAIR DUBH GHLINNE-GARAIDH

ALASDAIR a gleanna-garadh,
Thug thu 'n diugh gal air mo shàilean,
'S beag iognadh mi bhi trom creucidach,
Gur tric g'ar reubadh as ùr sinn,
'S deachdar dhomhsa bhi gun 'n osnaidh,
'S meud an dosgaidh th'air mo chàirdean,
Gur tric an t-eug oirn a' gearradh,
Tagha nan darag is airde.

Chaill sinn ionnan agus còmhla,
Sir Dòmhnall, a mhac, 'sa bhrathair,
Ciod e 'm feum dhuinn bhi ga ghearan ?
Dh-fhan Mac-'Ic-Ailein sa bhàr bhuain,
Chaill sinn darag laidir liath-ghlas,
Bha cumhail dìon air a chairdean,
Capull-coille bharr na giubhsaich,
Seobhag sul-ghorm, lugh-mhor, laidir.

Dh-fhalbh ceann na céille 's na comhairl,
Ann 's gach gnothach am bi cùram,
Aghaidh shocrach, sholta, thaitneach,

Na b' ionnan do chach 's do ghoill,
Mu'n dh-imich an long a mach,
Cha rachadh i rithist air sàil,
Gun 'n fhios cia fath a thug i steach,
Ach 'nuair chunaig sibh an tràch sin,
A bbi g'ar fagal air faon thragh,
Bhrìst bhur eridheachan le mulad,

 Bu tu'n darach dainghean laidir,
 Bu tu'n cuileann bu tu'n dreaghunn,
 Bu tu'n t-abhall molach blath-mhor,
 Cha robh meur annad do' chritheann,
 Cha robh do dhlighe ri fearna,
 Cha robh do chairdeas ri leamhan,
 Bu tu leannan nam ban àluinn.

Bu tu céile na mná priseil,
 'S oil leam fhìn ga dìth an drasd thu,

 Bidh ambach 's na còrdaibh ;
 Tha mi am chadal 's na dùisgibh mi ;
 Na 'n eireadh sibh suas,
 Le cruadal a's duinealachd,
 Eadar islean a's uaislean,
 Thuath agus chumanta,
 'S gu'n sgiùrsadh sibh uaibh e,
 Rìgh fudain nach buineadh dhuinn ;
 Dheanainn an cadal gu sunndach leibh.

NIALL MAC-MHUIRICH.

NEIL MAC VURICH, the family bard and historian of Clanronald, Mac-Dhònuill, Mhic-'Ic-Ailein, was born in the beginning of the seventeenth century. He lived in South Uist, where he held a possession of land which is known to this day, as marked out and designated Baile-bhàird, i. e. the bard's farm. He was of a succession of poets that the illustrious family kept to record the history of their ancestors, and to fill the station so indispensably requisite in those days, in the halls of chiefs of renown. There were several poets of the name of Mac-Mhuirich, lineal descendants of the same man, who were distinguished from each other in various ways, as specified in the brief account given of Lachunn mor Mac-Mhuirich Albannaich; Neil was simply, if not emphatically, called Niall Mac-Mhuirich, Clanronald's Seanachaidh, or family historian.

He had written, in the Gaelic language, the history of the great clan whose records he kept, and the strains in which distinguished individuals were commemorated for their talents and prowess. But he satisfied not himself with writing what related to the family that honoured him with the office of bard: he likewise had written ancient poetry, and the history of past times.—See the Highland Society's account of the Red Book.

While this celebrated bard was most careful in recording every thing worthy of preservation, it is to be regretted that so little of his own history and works have been preserved. This has been often the case with men of genius. Very few Gaelic bards were at the trouble of writing their own productions: they trusted too much to memory; seldom reflected on what might happen in the lapse of time; never apprehended that succeeding generations would be indifferent about what seemed to them to be of the greatest moment. Neil M'Vurich, while he adopted the best method of handing down to posterity the invaluable relics of antiquity, might not think it worth his trouble to write his own poems, or record any anecdotes concerning himself. These, like many others, have been lost, with the exception of the two pieces given in this work. He lived to a great age, and was an old man in 1715.

To throw more light on the history of this tribe of poets, we beg to give the following, which is a copy of the declaration of Lachlan M'Vurich, a son of the bard, written in Gaelic, and addressed to Henry M'Kenzie, Esq., at the time he was writing the Highland Society's report of Ossian:—

BARRA, 9th August, 1800.

ANN an taigh Phadruig Mhic-Neacail an Torluim goirid o Chaisteal Bhuirghi ann an Siorramachd Inbhearnis, a naoidhamh latha de chiad mhios an fhoghair, anns an dà fhichead bliadhna agus naoidh-deug d'a aois, thainig Lachlunn mac Nèill, mhic Lachluinn, mhic

Nèill, mhic Dhòmhnuill, mhic Lachuinn, mhic Nèill mhòir, mhic Lachuinn,* mhic Dhòmhnuill, do shloinne chlann Mhuirich, ann an lathair Ruairidh Mhic Nèill tighearna Bhàra, thabhairt a chòdaich, mar is fiosrach e-san, gur e féin an t-ochdamh glùn déug o Mhuireach a bha leanmhuinn teaghlach Mhic-'Ic-Ailein, ceannard Chlann-Raonuill, mar bhardàibh,

* This is LACHUNN MOR MAC MUIRICH ALBANNAICH, or Lachlan mòr Mac Vuirich of Scotland, the second of this famous tribe of bards.

Where there are several individuals of the same name, it is necessary to have some marks to distinguish them. This has been always attended to by the Gaël though in various ways. It is common to call persons by their patronimics; and among clans, where many have the same name and surname, they could not be distinctly called and recognised otherwise: instead of saying Alexander M'Donald, where two, three, or four were found of the same name, in the same place, they called one, Alexander, the son of Allan, the son of John; another, Alexander, the son of Donald, the son of Neil; and another, the son of Rory, the son of Dugald, &c.

The Gaelic language being susceptible of describing beings and objects most minutely; individuals are frequently distinguished and described from their appearance, or qualities external and internal. Thus our author has been called Lachlan Mòr, in contradistinction to another of the same name who was less. Mòr signifies great in respect of one's person or mind. Its literal meaning is magnitude, and this is the sense in which it has been applied here. But there is another mark by which this bard was distinguished, namely, by his country, Albanach, or of Scotland. Irish bards, or minstrels, were once no strangers in Scotland, and especially the Highlands; for Alban, the Gaelic term for Scotland, had been particularly applied to the Highlands. The cognomen, Albanach, had been given Lachlan mòr Mac Vuirich emphatically, being the great poet of his day. The language of the two countries being the same, the Scottish Highlanders and Irish understood each other; and there was frequent intercourse between them. They, in fact, were originally the same people; and, instead of disputing about the origin of the one or the other, historians ought to regard them as one and the same, removing from the one kingdom to the other as occasion or necessity required. Of the works of this famous poet, all now extant is an extraordinary one—a war song, composed almost wholly of epithets arranged in alphabetical order, to rouse the Clan Donuil to the highest pitch of enthusiasm before the battle of Harlaw. This poem is entitled in Gaelic:—“BROSNACHA-CATHA LE LACHUNN MÒR MAC MUIRICH ALBANNAICH DO DHÒMHNUL A LLE RÌGH-INVNSE-GALL AGUS IARLA RÒIS LATHA MACHRAICH CHATH-GAIRIACH.”* The piece has a part for every letter in the Gaelic alphabet till near the end consisting altogether of three hundred and thirty-eight lines. It would occupy too much space to print it in this work. Here follow the two first, and also the thirteen last lines of the poem:—

|----------------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| A chlanna Cuinn cuimhnichibh,          | A chuileanan chonfhadach,            |
| Cruas an am na h-iorghuill.            | A bheirichean bunanta,               |
| * * * * *                              | A leoghainnean lan-ghasta            |
| Gu ur-labhrach, ùr-lambach neart-mhor, | Aon-chonnaibh iorghuilleach          |
| Gu coisneadh na cath-làrach,           | De laochuibh chrodda, churanta       |
| Ri bruidhne 'ur biubhaidh,             | De chlannaibh Chùinn cheud-chathaich |
| A chlanna Chuinn cheud-chathaich,      | A chlanna Chuinn, cuimhnichibh       |
| 'Si nis uair 'ur n'aithnaichidh.       | Cruas an am na h-iorghuill.          |

This poem is very valuable in two respects;—First, it is the best proof that could be given of a language, so copious and abounding in epithets, that the number poured out under each letter is almost incomprehensible. What command of language! How well deserved our bard the

* This battle was fought, anno 1411, at a small village called Harlaw, in the district of Garioch, within ten miles of Aberdeen. The cause of it was this:—Walter Lesly, a man nobly born, succeeded to the Earldom of Ross, in right of his lady, who was daughter of that house. He had by her a son, who succeeded him, and a daughter, who was married to the Lord of the Isles. His son married a daughter of the duke of Albany, son of Robert II., at that time governor of Scotland; but dying young, left behind him only one child. It is said that she was somewhat deformed, and rendered herself a Religious. From her the governor easily procured a resignation of the Earldom of Ross in favour of John earl of Buchan, his second son, to the prejudice of Donald lord of the Isles, who was grandson of the said Lesly, and supposed the nearest heir. He claimed his right accordingly, but finding the governor, who probably regarded him already as too powerful a subject, not inclined to do him that justice he expected, he immediately raised an army of no less than 10,000 men within his own Isles, and putting himself at their head, made a descent on the continent, and without opposition, seized the lands of Ross, and after increasing his army with the inhabitants, he continued his march from Ross until he came to Garioch, within ten miles of Aberdeen, ravaging the countries through which he passed, and threatening to enrich his men with the wealth of that town. But before he could reach that place, his career was stopped by Alexander Stewart, the grandson of Robert II., and earl of Marr. For this brave youth, by orders from the governor, drew together, with great expedition, almost all the

agus o an àm sin gu robh fearann Staoileagairi agus ceithir peighinean do Dhriomasdal aca mar dhuais bàrdachd o linn gu linn, feadh chuig ghlùn-déug: Gu'n do chaill an siathamh-glun déug ceithir peighinean Dhriomasdail, ach gu do ghleidh an seachdamh glùn diu fearann Staoileagairi fad naoi bliadhna déug de dh' aimsir, agus gu robh am fearann sin air a cheangal dhaibh ann an còir fhad 's a bhiodh fear do Chlann-Mhuirich ann, a chumadh suas sloinneadh agus seachas Chlann-Dòmhnuille; agus bha e mar fhiachan orra, 'nuair nach biodh mac aig a bhàrd, gu tugadh e fòghlum do mhac a bhrathar, no dha oighre, chum an còir air an fhearann a ghleidheadh, agus is ann a rèir a chleachdaidh so fhuair Niall, athair féin, ionnsachadh gu leughadh, sgrìobhadh, èachdrai agus bàrdachd, o Dhòmhnuille mac Nèill mhic Dhòmhnuille, brathair athar.

Tha cuimhne mhath aige gu robh "Saothair Oisein" sgrìobht' ar craicnean ann. an glèidhteanas athar o shinnsiribh; gu robh cuid dheth na craicnean air an deanamh suas mar leabhraichean, agus cuid eile fuasgailt o chéile, anns an robh cuid do shaothair bhàrd eile, bharachd ar "Saothair Oisein."

Tha cuimhne aige gu robh leabhar aig athair ris an canadh iad an "Leabhar dearg," de phaipeir, a thainig o shinnsiribh, anns a robh mòran do shean eachdraidh nam fineachan Gàèlach, agus cuid de "Shaothair Oisein" mar bha athair ag innseadh dha. Chan eil a h-aon de na leabhraichean so r'a fhaotainn an diugh, thaobh is 'nuair a chaill iad am fearann, gu do chaill iad am misneach agus an dùrachd. Cha'n eil e cinnteach ciod e thainig ris na craicnean, ach gu bheil barail aige gun tug Alasdair mac Mhaighstir Alasdair 'Ic-Dhòmhnuille ar falbh cuid diubh, agus Raonull a mhac cuid eile dhiubh; agus gum fac e dha no trì dhiubh aig tàileirean ga 'n gearradh sios gu criosan tomhais: Agus tha cuimhne mhath aige gu tug Mac-'Ic-Ailein air athair an "Leabhar dearg" a thabhairt seachad do Sheumas Mac Mhuirich a Bàideanach; gu robh e goirid o bhi cho tiugh ri Bioball, ach gu robh e na b' fhaide agus na bu leatha, ach nach robh ùrad thiughaid sa chòmhdach; gu robh na craicnean agus an "Leabhar dearg" air an sgrìobhadh anns an làimh anns an robh Gàèlig air a sgrìobhadh o shean an Albainn agus ann an Eirinn, mu'n do ghabh daoine cleachdadh air sgrìobhadh na Gàèlig anns an làimh Shasunnaich; gum b'aithne dha athair an t-shean làmh a leughadh gu math; gu robh cuid de na craicnean aige féin an deigh bàis athar, ach a thaobh is nach d' ionnsaich e iad, agus nach robh aobhar meas aig' orra, gu deach' iad ar chall. Tha e ag ràdh nach robh h-aon de shinnsiribh air a robh Pall mar ainm, ach gu robh dithis dhiubh ris an canadh iad Cathal.

Tha e 'g ràdh nach ann le h-aon duine a sgrìobhadh an "Leabhar dearg," ach gu robh adnomen Albanach! He lived in the fifteenth century. He could not be ignorant of letters. He was well acquainted with all the idioms of his native language, and had the greatest command over its powers and energies. Nor was he ignorant of the genius of the people whom he addressed. Clann-Dòmhnuille was the most powerful of the clans in his time. They were foremost in battle, and entitled to take the right in the field; which was never disputed, till the battle of Culloden, which proved so fatal to many. Our poet, therefore, exhausted the almost exhaustless copia verborum of the language, for the purpose of infusing the spirit of the greatest heroism and love of conquest into the breasts of the warriors.

nobility and gentry between the two rivers Tay and Spey, and with them met the invader at the place above mentioned, where a long, uncertain, and bloody battle ensued; so long, that nothing but the night could put an end to it; so uncertain, that it was hard to say who had lost or gained the day; so bloody, that one family is reported to have lost the father and six of his sons. The earl of Marr's party, who survived, lay all night on the field of battle; while Donald, being rather wearied with action than conquered by force of arms, thought fit to retreat, first to Ross, and then to the Isles.—Abercromby's Hist.

e air a sgrìobhadh o linn gu linn le teaghlach Chlann-Mhuirich, a bha cumail suas seana-chas Chlainn-Dòmhnúill, agus ceannardan nam fineachan Gàelach eile.

An deigh so a sgrìobhadh, chaidh a leughadh dha, agus dh-aidich e gu robh e ceart, ann an làthair Dhòmhnúill Mhic-Dhòmhnúill, fear Bhaile Raghail; Eoghain Mhic-Dhòmhnúill, fear Gheara-sheilich; Eoghan Mhic-Dhombnúill Fear Ghrimínis; Alasdair Mhic-Ghill-eain, fear Hoster, Alasdair Mhic-Neacail, ministear Bheinne-bhaoghla; agus Ailein Mhic-Chuinn, ministear Uist-a-Chinne-tuath, a fear asgrìobh a seanachas so.

TRANSLATION OF THE ABOVE.

In the house of Patrick Nicolson, at Torlum, near Castle-Burgh, in the shire of Inverness, on the ninth day of August, compeared in the fifty-ninth year of his age, Lachlan, son of Neil, son of Lachlan, son of Neil, son of Donald, son of Lachlan, son of Neil Mòr, son of Lachlan, son of Donald, of the surname of Mac Vuirich, before Roderick M'Neil, laird of Barra, and declared, That, according to the best of his knowledge, he is the eighteenth in descent from Muireach, whose posterity had officiated as bards to the family of Clanronald; and that they had from that time, as the salary of their office, the farm of Staoiligary and four pennies of Drimisdale during fifteen generations; that the sixteenth descendant lost the four pennies of Drimisdale, but that the seventeenth descendant retained the farm of Staoiligary for nineteen years of his life. That there was a right given them over these lands as long as there should be any of the posterity of Muireach to preserve and continue the genealogy and history of the Macdonalds, on condition that the bard, failing of male issue, was to educate his brother's son, or representative, in order to preserve their title to the lands; and that it was in pursuance of this custom that his own father, Neil, had been taught to read and write history and poetry by Donald, son of Neil, son of Donald, his father's brother.

He remembers well that works of Ossian, written on parchment, were in the custody of his father, as received from his predecessors; that some of the parchments were made up in the form of books, and that others were loose and separate, which contained the works of other bards besides those of Ossian.

He remembers that his father had a book which was called the Red Book, made of paper, which he had from his predecessors, and which, as his father informed him, contained a good deal of the history of the Highland Clans, together with part of the works of Ossian. That none of these books are to be found at this day, because when they (his family) were deprived of their lands, they lost their alacrity and zeal. That he is not certain what became of the parchments, but thinks that some of them were carried away by Alexander, son of the Rev. Alexander Macdonald, and others by Ronald his son; and he saw two or three of them cut down by tailors for measures. That he remembers well that Clanronald made his father give up the red book to James Macpherson from Badenoch; that it was near as thick as a Bible, but that it was longer and broader, though not so thick in the cover. That the parchments and the red book were written in the hand in which the Gaelic used to be written of old both in Scotland and Ireland before people began to use the English hand in writing Gaelic; and that his father knew well how to read the old hand. That he himself had some of the parchments after his father's death, but that because he had not been taught to read them, and had no reason to set any value upon them, they were lost. He says that none of his forefathers had the name of Paul, but that there were two of them who were called Cathal.

He says that the red book was not written by one man, but that it was written from age to age by the family of Clan Mhuirich, who were preserving and continuing the history of the Macdonalds, and of other heads of Highland clans.

After the above declaration was taken down, it was read to him, and he acknowledged it was right, in presence of Donald M'Donald of Balronald, James M'Donald of Garyhelich, Ewan Mac Donald of Griminish, Alexander Mac Lean of Hoster, Mr Alexander Nicolson, minister of Benbecula, and Mr Allan Mac Queen, minister of North-Uist, who wrote this declaration.

Note.—The Author of this piece is Niall mòr Mac-Mhuirich. We have heard the following anecdote, in illustration of this poem. Neil had lately returned to his father's house from the bards' college, in Ireland, from whence, along with the stores of genealogical and other lore with which he had stored his head, he had in addition, brought over a back-burden of the small-pox, and was lying asleep, on a settle bed, at the back of the house near the fire, when John and Donald M'Arthur, two pipers, came in, and, sitting down on the bed-stock, began tuning their pipes preparatory to playing. The horrid and discordant sound of the pipes roused the bard, who, bursting with indignation, in the true style of his profession, began to inveigh against the pipers, in the following mock genealogy of the bag-pipe. It would appear from this, as well as from hints in other poems, that the bag-pipe was never a favourite with the bards; but was rather regarded by them as treaching on their province. The poem was evidently intended to resent the intrusion of the pipers on the bard's slumbers. Nor did it fail of the desired effect; for, the pipers it seems, had intended to make good their quarters for the night; but, on hearing the odd and ludicrous invective against their favourite instrument, enunciated from behind them, they started from their seats with astonishment looking round for an explanation. But when the swollen and pocky countenance of Neil met their view, wrought up we may suppose with no ordinary excitement, terror added wings to their feet, and they fled in the utmost consternation. Neil's father on hearing the poem to the end exclaimed "Math thu fein a mhic, tha misfaicinn nach bu thuras caill' a thug thu dh' Eirinn ;" i. e. "Well done my son, I see your errand to Ireland has not been lost."

IAIN DUBH MAC IAIN 'IC-AILEIN.

JOHN M'DONALD, commonly Iain Dubh Mac Iain 'Ic-Ailein, i. e. John of black locks, son of John, the son of Allan, was a gentleman of the Clanronald family, and was born about the year 1665. He received all the advantages of education, together with the opportunities that the times in which he lived offered to a man of observation. He was immediately descended from the Maer family—a great branch of the Clanronalds—of whom many individuals were highly distinguished for prowess, wit, and poetical powers. He resided in the island of Eig, on the farm of Grulean.

Mr M'Donald was not a poet by profession, although he was considered by good judges not inferior to any bard of his age. He lived in easy circumstances. Amid his rural pursuits, he had ample time to woo the muses, or pass his leisure as inclination or opportunity occurred. He, therefore, put himself under no restraint, but sung when inspired, and made observations on men and manners; and his remarks were generally allowed to be shrewd and just. Few anecdotes can be expected of a man who passed a quiet life in such circumstances. He always held a respectable rank in society. His poems display taste and elegance, and his compositions, occasional and gratuitous as they were, must have been numerous.

DO SHIR IAIN MAC-ILLEAN TRIATH DHUBHAIRT.

IOMRAICH mo bheannachd,
Gu Bainn-tighearna Thamair,
Bean 's am beil barrachd,
De charantachd nàduir;

Chunaic mise gu dlìgheil,
A suilean ri snithe,
'S i 'g àireamh mar mhi-àdh,
Sìor Iain da fàgail:
Bha dòrainn a cridhe,
Cho mòire ga ruighinn,
'S mar gu 'm biodh e air tighinn,
O dhearbhadh nighean a màthar:
Gu cronachadh sgéula,
Bhìodh fada 'na dhéigh sin,
Thug Mairread na féile,
Spòr gheur do'n fhear-dhàna.

Nach iongnadh ri chlàistin,
Gu'm beil mise o cheann fada,

Agus m' acad ro-chraiteach;

Ach sgeula 's mor cùram,

Mar choir bho na fhlaithes,

Nis o chaochail iad cleachdadh,
As an àite bu cheart daibh,

Ach 's e raghainn a nì mì,

CROSDHANACHD

FHIR NAN DRUIMNEAN.

Tha bith ùr an tìr na Dreollainn,
'S coir dhuinn aithris,
Tha moran deth tigh'n am biochionn'
Ri gnàs Shasuinn,
Ni 'm beil duin' usal, no iosal,
No fear fearainn,
Leis nach àill, gu moran buinig,
Ceird a bharrachd.
Tha ceird ùr aig fear nan Druimnean,
Th' air leinn tha cronail;
B' àill leis fein a dhol an àite
Mhaisteir Sgoile,
An t-òide sin fein a rinn fhoghlum,
Le gloir Laideann,
Ghlacadh leis, gun chead a chairdean,
A cheird a bh'aige.

Labhairt—'S e an t-aobhar a thug do dhaoine aire thoirt do shannt an sgoileir so, 'nuair a mh-iannaich se cheird do bhì aig oide foghlum, nach laimhsicheadh e i, mar laimhsicheadh an t-oide foghlum féin i. Oir 'nuair a ghabhadh an t-oide foghlum air a dhaltachan, 's ann a ghabhadh e air na leanaban, ach 's ann a ghabhadh an sgoileir sanntach so air na daoine àrsaidh mar au ceudna. 'Nuair ghabhadh an t-oide foghlum air a dhàltachan, 's ann a ghabhadh e air na ciontaich, ach 's ann a ghabhadh an sgoileir sanntach air na neo-chiontaich. 'S ann uaith sin a dubhradh—"Saoilidh am fear a bhios na thàmh, gur e féin a's fearr lamh air an stiùir," ach cha mhò gur h-e.

Cha'n ionnsaich e clann, no leanabain,
Mar bu chòir dha,
Gus am bi iad na'n daoine àrsaidh
Fo 'n làn fheòsaig,

Cha tugadh an Cillmocheallaig
Breath bu chlaoinne,*
No ni rinn an ceann a b' aird',
A' màs 'ga dhioladh.
Gabhail do chrios an aois àrsaidh,
Air màs sean-duin',
'S fada ma'n ionnsaich an gnìomh sin
Ciall do theangaidh,
Ge be labhras ris an fhear ud,
Còir, no ea-coir,
Gabhàr air a ghiort' de stràcaibh,
Le crios féilidh.

Labhairt—Agus b'fhior do'n duine sin, cha d'fhuair e riamh rud a dh'ionnsachadh teanga droch mhuinte, bu mheasa na gabhail air na màsan ann an aobhar na teanga, agus an teanga thuigsinn gur h-ann na h-aobhar féin a fhuair am màs am mor-ghleusadh sin. Mar deanadh sin a ciall ni bu mheasa, cha deanadh e idir ni b'fhearr i. Uaith sin a dubhradh—"Am fear nach ionnsaich laimh ri gliùn, cha'n ionnsaich laimh ri uilean."

A chuideachd da'm bu chòir bhì diamhair,
'S a ghnà 'm falach,
Cha d'fhagadh da'n dìon bho chunnart,
Sion de dh' earradh,
Bha iad aon uair an lathair fianais,
An taigh gréusaich.
Dubhairt nighean Shomhairle†
Le rabhart, sa gnàs siomhailt,
'S còir gu'm beannaich sinn gu saibhear,
Cuid gach Criosduidh.
B'fhearr leam ge nach eil mi maoinneach,
No luach gearrain,
Gu'm biodh coltas do thriuir
Gu turn aig Calum.‡

Labhairt—'S e aobhar thug do'n mhnao. bheusaich, cheart, chòir, so a radh, a rùn deagh chneasta, chum gu'm biodh aig a fear féin a leithid, sa bhiodh aig a nàbaidhean; 's nach suil ghointe, no lombais, a bh' aic air cuid a coimhearsnaich. Mar bh'aig Gillebrìde Mac-an-t-Saoir ann an Ruthaig, an Tirithe, a mhòrt an ceithir-fichaid cearc le aon bheum-sula, 's a bhris long mhòr nan cuig crannag, a dhaindeoin a cablaichean sa h-acraichean. Uaith a sin a dubhradh—"Sann de'n cheird a chungaidh."

Tha bith ùr an tìr na Dreollainn,
A thog am Baron,
Air gach aon fhear a labhras buna-chainnt,
Rusgadh feamain,
Ma sgaoileas air feadh gach tìre,
Am bith thog Tearlach,

† The shoemaker's wife.

‡ The shoemaker who had no children.

'S teann as nach feudadh ri h-uine,
E-fein bhi pàighte.
Ma rigeas an gearan so Seumas,
Breitheamh sàr-mhath,
Cha tog e dochair mu dheibhinn,
Ach glag mòr gaire.

Labhairt—Agus bha aobhar na dha aig an t-Siorramh choir air gair a dheanadh, thaobh gu'n d'rug timchioll-ghearradh airsan, le coimhearsnachd ban-Spaintedh do thachair ris. 'S ann uaith sin a dubhradh, "An duine ni teine math deanadh e-féin a gharadh ris.

Note—The laird of Druimin kept an old school-master in his house, in the double capacity of tutor to his children and goer of errands. The dominie was one day sent to a shoemaker who lived on the laird's grounds, with a message ordering a pair of new shoes for his master. The souter declined the honour intended him, alleging as a reason that it was a standing rule with him, "never to make a pair of shoes for any customer till the last which he had got were paid for." But there was another, if not rather a piece of the same, reason of the shoemaker's unwillingness to make the shoes—the laird was a breach payer; one, in fact, who would run on an account to any conceivable length without ever thinking it time to settle it. Well, the wielder of the ferula returned, and reported to his master the ipsissima verba of the son of St Crispin. The laird was so exasperated at the insolence of his retainer, that he immediately determined to be revenged on the souter; and, lest he should have the hardihood to deny his own words, he took the schoolmaster along with him. Now, the souter was a regular lickspittle; a mean, cringing, fawning, malicious, yet cowardly wretch; for, when the laird said to him, "Did you say to this gentleman," pointing to the dominie, "that you would make no more shoes for me till I had paid for the last I got?" "Oh no, no, Sir," said the shoemaker, with an air of surprise, "most willingly would I convert all the leather in my possession into shoes for your honour. I have but too much time to work for those who are not so able to pay me, and am therefore always at your service." The poor dominie was thunder-struck at the barefaced impudence of the "fause loon;" but, ere he had time to utter a word in explanation, the laird had not only laid the flattering unction to his own soul, but seizing the preceptor by the throat, placed his head between his own knees in a twinkling, and clutching Crispin's foot-strop in the one hand, and lifting the dominie's philabeg with the other, he therewithal plied him on the bare buttocks, so hotly and heavily, that he had well nigh expended the "wrath" which he had so carefully been "nursing" for the rascally souter. How many stripes the wight received deponent hath not said, but true it is, the number far exceeded that prescribed by the law of Moses. Indeed it is doubtful whether "the man of letters" might not have lost his "precious spunk," if the shoemaker's better-half had not flown to his rescue. Gentle dame! well have I designated thee thy churlish husband's "better-half!" for though the poor schoolmaster was both disgraced and pained through his default, his eyes were blind and his heart hard as the "nether millstone." And though it may be that no grey stone points out the place of thy sepulture, yet has the bard embalmed thy name in his song.

AN T-AOSDANA MAC-MHATHAIN.

THIS poet flourished in the seventeenth century. He lived in Lochalshe, Ross-shire, where he had free lands from the Earl of Seaforth, and was called his bard. He was a poet of great merit, and composed as many poems as would occupy a large volume; but as they were not committed to writing, they suffered the same fate with the productions of Nial Mac-Mhurrich, and were lost by being trusted to memory alone. The two pieces given here is all that can now be found of his works. "Cabar Féigh" was not composed by him, as stated by some collectors of poetry. The first song given here was composed on the Earl of Seaforth, on his embarking at Dornay, of Kintail, for Stornoway. It has been imitated in English by Sir Walter Scott.

ORAN DO'N IARLA THUATHACH

TRIATH CHLANN-CHOINNICH.

DEOCH slainte 'n Iarla thuathaich,
A thriall an de thar chuaintean bhuaibh,
Le sgioba laidir luasganach,
Nach pilleadh càs na fuathas iad,
Muir gàireach air gach guallainn dh'ì;
Air clar do lùinge luaithe,
Gabh mi cead dhìot is fhuair mi 'n t-òr.

Gu'n cumadh Dia bho bhaoghal thu,
Bho charraid cuain 's bho chialalan,
Bho charrraig fhuair gun chaomhalachd,

Ga bhreideadh air gach bòrd.

Gu'n innsinn gnìomh do stiùreadair,
Fear cuimhneach, ciallach, curamach,
'Dh' aithnicheadh fiamh a chùlanaich,
A chuireadh srian ri cùrsaireachd,
Mu 'm bristeadh trìan a chuirnean oirr',
A mhuchadh e fo sròin.

T-fhear eolais laidir, fradharcach,

Fir bhuille saoir a 'dh fhuairgheas i,
Bidh barrantas dhaoin' uaisle leat,
Bidh beannach bho chd, a's tuatha dhut,
Cha 'n eagal baoghal fuaaich dhuibh,
Bidh Dia ma 'n cuairt da d' sheol.

Mu sheol thu barc air fairge bhuainn',
Thu féin 's do choirneal Calamanach,
Fhuair cliù 'n cùirt na 'n Albannach,
Gur h-ìomadh tùrn a dhearbhadh leat,
Be sùd an leoghunn ainmeil,
Bu mhor seanachas air gach bòrd.

Gur tagha calla dh-innsinn dhut,
'N deidh na mara Si-phortaich,
Thu dhol gu fàllain, firineach,
Do Steornabhaidh bho linn teantann,
Bithidh ro-fbial gheala teinteannan,
Aig fir 's aig mnai 's toil-inntinn orra,
Ri linn thu theachd gu 'n cors.

Gur h-ìomadh sruthan firinneach,
Tha 'n linnichean an t-Si-phortaich,
Tha triath na h-Earradh dìleas dhut,
Le 'n connspainn fhearail innsingeach,
A Lochlainn thig na mìltean,
Air chuan-sgìth gu teach Mhic-Leoid.

'Nuair cruinneicheas na Sàileich leat,
'S do chinneadh neartmhor tàbhachdach,
Bidh mire, 's chùich, is gaireachdaich,

Sa'n ionnadh ann an tàrladh sìbh,
Cha 'n ioghnadh thu bli ardanach,
Sa liuthadh fion-fhuil àluinn,
A tha cairdeach ga do phòr.

AN T-AOSDANA MAC-'ILLEAN.

HECTOR MACLEAN, commonly called Eachann Bacach an t-Aosdàna, lived in the seventeenth century, and was poet to Sir Lachlan M'Lean, of Duart, from whom he had a small annuity. After much inquiry, we have not been able to procure any particulars of his life worth publication, or seen any more of his productions than are published in this work. The following elegy attracted the particular attention of the late Sir Walter Scott, and he has published an imitation, or free translation, which is every way worthy of that great bard.

LACHUNN MAC THEARLAICH.

LACHLAN M'KINNON, alias Lachunn Mac Thearlaich Oig, flourished about the middle of the seventeenth century. He was a native of Strath, Isle of Skye, and a lineal descendant of the Ceann-taighe of the M'Kinnons of that place. His parents were in comfortable circumstances, and although we have no data to ascertain the extent of his scholastic acquirements, it is obvious from a cursory glance at his productions that he was not unlettered,—while the purity and critical correctness of his Gaelic, furnishes ample proof that he studied and understood the structure of that language. He was an excellent musician, and was in the habit, when a young man, of carrying his violin about with him from place to place—more for recreation and amusement, than for any sordid considerations of pecuniary remuneration. The habits and predilections of his countrymen, their excessive fondness of poetry, music and dancing, always secured for such gifted individuals as M'Kinnon, the warmest grasp of hospitality's right hand wherever he went. He seems, however, to have discontinued the practice—in consequence of a low, unmanly attack upon his character and motives by a wandering bard of the name of M'Lennan.

Talents and genius are very seldom bestowed upon any individual without a copious mixture of impulses, that too often seek their gratification in improper indulgences. Burns and Byron were constituted after this manner. Lachlan M'Kinnon happened at one time to be perambulating the Main land, in the district of Lochalsh, where he put up for the night in the house of a respectable farmer. After supper, one of the daughters went out to prepare a bed for the cherished stranger in an out-house or barn. She was accompanied by a little favourite pug called Coireal, and the poet soon followed. Fairly ensconced with the fair and artless maid, and privacy favouring his designs, Lachlan yielded to the impulses of his heart, and the result was an illegitimate daughter, who seems to have inherited the broad humour and poetic genius of her father. Many of her repartees and witticisms have descended to us by oral recitation, but space remonstrates against our noticing but one, which may serve as a specimen of the whole. Some time after her father married, her stepmother was going from home, and meeting her about the door accosted her thus:—"You're my first-foot, and pity you if you are not lucky to meet with!" "Ask my father," rejoined the young woman, "and he will tell you that I am the most unpropitious omen that could come in your way." "Dear me! how that?" eagerly inquired the stepmother. "Because," continued the other, "I was the first person he himself met, while on his way to marry you, and God knows it was the most unlucky journey he ever made!" But we are digressing, and had almost forgot to say, that during M'Kinnon's struggle to deflower the farmer's daughter, little Coireal sounded so loud an alarm, that he seized it by the hind legs, and dashed out its brains against the wall! This has been made the subject of a very merry song, in which our author comes in for a pretty round flagellation.

Lachlan M'Kinnon died at a good old age, and was buried in his native parish, where some of his grandchildren are still living and much respected.

* Alluding to an Irish Harper of the name of Callean Cormac, who, in consequence of a misunderstanding, left his master and fled to Scotland, at that time the saving ark of refugees, whether children of prose or verse. During his peregrinations in the hyperborean regions of Calcedonia, he visited, according to the custom of the times, many of the Highland Chieftains and families of distinction, whose ears were not yet sufficiently refined to disrelish music, and who, consequently, appreciated his abilities and performances. Among others in whose families the Hibernian minstrel was well received, was that of the Laird of Applecross. On the day of his departure, Applecross, whose generosity was worthy of his country and high rank, gave Cormac a handful of gold pieces out of his right hand, and a similar quantity of silver ones out of his left. Such a splendid instance of genuine Highland liberality, could not but awake sentiments of the most lively gratitude in the naturally feeling bosom of the minstrel; who, upon his arrival in the Emerald Isle, lost no opportunity of trumpeting forth the praises of his benefactor. The tide of his quondam employer's rage having now subsided, and a reconciliation having been effected between the parties,

" Thug sinn ruaig gu'n sòradh

 Ge d' fhalaich oirn e 'n uaigh !

" O'n rinn an uaigh 'ùr glasadh orm,

his master asked Cormac:—" Creid i 'n lamh bo fheile do fhuair tu 'n Albainn?" i. e. which was the most liberal hand you found in Scotland? To which he replied:—" Lamh dheas fhir na Comraich"—The right hand of Applecross.—" Creid i 'n ath te?" which was the next?—" Lamh ch'èth fhir na Comraich," or the left hand of Applecross, was the minstrel's prompt and quaint reply.

'S mi smaointeach air na saoidheann sin
 'S a bhi ga'n caoidh gu truagh,

 Dh'eng Iannraic priunsa Shasuinn;
 'S cha dùisg e gu là-luain !

Note.—This beautiful and pathetic song was composed by Mackinnon after the death of some of his relations. It would appear that while they lived, and while his own circumstances continued prosperous, he was much respected throughout the country, and was not unfrequently the guest and companion of the best gentry in the Highlands. No sooner, however, had death deprived him of his friends, and misfortune had robbed him of his gear,* than he began to experience, from the world and his former patrons, the bitter indifference and coldness which poverty too often brings in her train. This he experienced in an especial manner, when, on a Christmas evening having gone to the Castle of Dunvegan, where the rest of the country gentry were, as usual on such occasions, enjoying the hospitality of the chief, poor Mackinnon was not only unnoticed and neglected, but repulsed from the hall, where, in worthier days, and under a worthier laird, he and his fathers were wont to be welcome guests. In consequence of this unhandsome treatment, the indignant bard returned instantly to Strath. While pursuing his homeward journey through the lonely glen, beneath the towering Culeens, and while the fever of his resentment still burned within his bosom, he met, or imagined he met, Generosity, Love, and Liberty, outcasts, like himself, from the hearts and halls of highland lairds, and bitterly inveighing against the tyranny that thus exiled them, unfed and unclothed, from the abodes where they were accustomed to reign and revel. At length having reached his home, he went to bed, probably supperless, and gentle sleep not deigning to woo him, but in its stead the weeping muse; he composed, and, for the first time, sung this song. It was highly esteemed by the Highland bards and sconachais, the latter of whom entitled the tune to which it is sung, "Tri-amh Fonn na h-Alba," or the third best air in Scotland;—we have not been able to ascertain what airs were considered the first and second. In reference to the time and place where it was first sung, we may mention that it was a custom of the old highlanders, when they could not sleep, to sing on their beds, and that loud enough to waken all the inmates of the house, who, if the song was good, never grudged their slumbers being thus musically broken.

Moch sa' mhadainn mi 's lan airtneil,
 Tha mi 'g achdain m' inndrainn,

 Na 'm faighinn cead, gun rachainn grad,
 Am still gu'n stad, gu'n aon-tamh;
 A dh' fhios an àit' am fosruch càch,
 Gu 'm beil mo ghradh-sa 'n Geambail.

* Lest this statement may be mistaken, it is only to be inferred that his predecessors had been obliged to dispose of their lands, but that he still had some of the proceeds upon which he lived; but funds in cash, even if considerable, were not regarded in those days so honourable as even a very limited competency arising from a paternal estate.

'S ge fad air chuairt, mi 's tamull bh'uam,
An aisling bhuan so dhùisg mi;
Thu bhi agam, ann am ghlaicibh,

A dhaineann buinig 's fada m' fhuireach,
Ann an ìosal dùthcha,
O choin a chiall! gu 'm be mo mhiann,
Bhi 'n diugh a triall ga t-iunnsaidh.

Air t-iunnsaidh théid mi 'n uair a dheireas,

Note.—The poet happened to be one of a party at the house of Lachann Og, a relative of his own, when, upon the company "getting fou an' unco happy," they fell to playing at a sort of game called Iomlaid bhiodag. The manner in which it is played is this:—The lights are extinguished, and every man casts his dirk under the table. The dirks are then shuffled with a staff, after which a person, having his right hand tied to his side, and a glove on his left, is blindfolded and put under the table to hand out one by one in rotation to every man who had cast a dirk in: and every body had to keep the dirk which fell to him in this way. M'Kinnon's dirk was by far the best in the whole collection, but he lost it in the lottery, and got in its stead an old coarse dagger belonging to a Kintail man who was present. This person was one of those termed "Clann 'Ic Ràth Mhòlach," i. e. Hairy M'Raes. M'Kinnon was far from pleased with his lot, and he composed this song on the occasion.

AN CLARSAIR DALL.

RODERICK MORISON, the far-famed harper and poet, commonly called An Clàrsair Dall was born in the Island of Lewis*, in the year 1646. His father was an Episcopalian Clergyman in that place, a man of great respectability and goodness of heart, and a descendant of the celebrated Brìtheamh Ledghasach. He had other two sons, Angus and Malcolm. At an early age, the three, who were all designed for the pulpit, were sent to Inverness to their education. They were not long there, when the small-pox made its appearance in the town with great virulence; our three pupils were seized with it, and although the best medical skill was in requisition, so severe was the malady, that Roderick lost his eye-sight, and had his face—otherwise a very fine, open and expressive one,—dreadfully disfigured and contracted by it. His brothers were more fortunate,—they followed up their clerical aspirations, and having gone through the curriculum of their order, Angus got a living in the parish of Contin, and Malcolm was appointed to the Chapel of Pòolewe, in the parish of Gairloch, Ross-shire. Balked in his juvenile anticipations, and now incapacitated for any active, civil, military, or other profession, Rory directed his attention to the study of music, for which nature had furnished him with a first-ratè genius. In this divine science he greatly excelled, and although he was no mean performer on other musical instruments, the silver-toned harp seems to have been his favourite. On this instrument, he left all other Highland amateurs in the rear.

His superiority as a musician, and his respectable connexions soon served him as a passport to the best circles in the North. He was caressed and idolized by all who could appreciate the excellence of his minstrelsy. Induced by the fair fame of his fellow-harpers in Ireland, he visited that country, and probably profited by the excursion. On his return to Scotland, he called at every baronial residence in his way; the Scotch nobility and gentry were at the time at the Court of King James in Holyrood-House—Rory

* The Messrs Chambers of Edinburgh, in their Journal, Number 451, of Saturday, September 19th, 1840, say, on the authority of Mr Bunting, that blind Rory was an Irishman. This is incorrect. We know how much Journalists are at the mercy of others, and how easily they are misled; but without at all expecting any thing like omniscience in the Messrs Chambers, we think, that before lending the weight of their columns to give currency to the mis-statement, they ought to have informed themselves of the facts.

Of Mr Bunting, we know nothing or almost nothing; but we sympathize with him in his literary researches, and attempts to resuscitate the musical spirit and ancient melody of his country. We protest, however, against his robbing us of our sweetest minstrel—not for the world would we accord to Hibernia the honour of having given birth to Rory Dall—and for this one reason, that he was bona fide born and brought up in the Highlands of Scotland; and, if a man must be born a second time, it does not necessarily follow, that that event must take place in Ireland. Mr Bunting's blind Rory, goes by the sonorous name of O'Cahan,—we have no objection to this; neither do we lay claim to any of the estates which descended to the said Rory O'Cahan as his patrimonial inheritance, but we claim for ourselves the honour of consanguinity with Roderick Morison, the blind harper. We have given his birth and parentage;—we have pointed to the mauses of his two brothers,—we have given his own history as a poet, harper, and farmer, and until these facts are disproved, the Irish historian must rest satisfied with his own Rory, and the Messrs Chambers must understand that such things as erroneous statements can be imported over the Irish channel, much easier than a Ross-shire Highlander can be made an Irishman.

This story is repeated in
"Doc. Hist. Anc. Ireland"

5 - 574.

wended his way to Edinburgh, where he met with that sterling model of a Highland Chieftain, John Breac M'Leod of Harris, who eagerly engaged him as his family harper. During his stay under the hospitable roof of this gentleman, he composed several beautiful tunes and songs, and, among the rest, that fascinating melody—" Feill nan Crann," which arose out of the following circumstance: Rory, sitting one day by the kitchen fire, had chanced to drop the key of his harp in the ashes which he was raking with his fingers, as M'Leod's lady entered and inquired of one of the maids—" Ciod e tha dhith air Ruairidh ?" " Mhuire! tha a chrann—chaill e san luath e," was the reply—" Ma ta feumair crann eile 'cheannach do Ruairidh ;" continued Mrs M'Leod; and the gifted minstrel, availing himself of the forced or extended meaning of the word crann, forthwith composed the tune, clothing it in words of side-splitting humour, and representing the kitchen maids as ransacking every mercantile booth in the land, to procure him his lost implement!

Shortly after this period, we find our author located as a farmer at Totamòr in Glenelg, at that time the property of his liberal patron M'Leod, who gave him the occupancy of it rent-free. Here he remained during his friend's life, and added largely to the stock of his musical and poetical compositions.

An Clàrsair Dall was fondly attached to his patron, whose fame he commemorated in strains of unrivalled beauty and excellence. The chieftains of the clan M'Leod possessed, perhaps, greater nobleness of soul than any other of the Highland gentry; but it must be observed, that they were peculiarly successful in enlisting the immortalizing strains of the first poets in their favour—our author and their own immortal Mary. Rory's elegy on John Breac M'Leod, styled, "Creach nan Ciadan," is one of the most pathetic, plaintive and heart-touching productions we have read, during a life half spent amid the flowery meadows of our Highland Parnassus. After deploring the transition of M'Leod's virtues, manliness and hospitality from the earth, he breaks forth in sombre forebodings as to the degeneracy of his heir, and again luxuriates in the highest ingredients of a Lament. Oran mor Mhic-Leoid, in which the imaginative powers of the minstrel conjure up scenes of other days, with the vividness of reality, is a master-piece of the kind. It comes before us in the form of a duet, in which Echo (the sound of music), now excluded like himself from the festive hall of M'Leod, indulges in responsive strains of lamentation that finely harmonize with the poignancy of our poet's grief.

This last song was composed after his ejection from his farm, and while on his way to his native Isle of Lewis. It is not true, as stated by Mr Bunting, that Rory Dall was a wandering minstrel. He indeed occasionally visited gentlemen's houses, but that was always under special invitation—he was born a minister's son, and did not require to earn his bread by wandering from place to place. Rory Dall was much respected in his age and country for those high musical powers which have contributed so much to the pleasure and delight of his countrymen—talents which have obtained for himself the imperishable fame of being one of the sweetest and most talented poets of our country. He died at a good old age, and was interred in the burying ground of I, in the Island of Lewis. Peace be to his manes! never we fear, shall the Highlands of Scotland again produce his like.

* The Highlanders had a practice in the olden times that is still partially observed in certain parts even at the present day, and that tended to keep alive and fan those habits of hospitality and friendly feelings among the inhabitants of particular districts for which they are so justly celebrated. The custom to which we allude, was to meet at an appointed house, on the first Monday of every quarter, to drink a bumper to the beverage of the succeeding, and wish it better or no worse than the present.

Note.—When the harper composed this song, he was residing in Tota-Mòr, in Glenelg, as a farmer, and the few of the clan's he alludes to were people that he had good reason to fear would rob him, or, in other words, carry away his cattle—a very prevalent practice in those days. As, therefore, he had little or no means of defending himself, he immediately called his harp and his muse to his aid, and composed this song, in which those dreaded enemies are invested with all the attributes of honour, honesty, and good neighbourhood; and, as far as the bard was concerned, they always acted towards him in the characters his muse was willing to believe they actually possessed.

Beul macanta, ciùin, rabhairtach,
 'N uair tharladh tu 's taigh-òsd,
 A dh'fhàs gu seirceil, suairce,
 Gaol na'm ban, 's nan gruagach òg;
 'S iomadh maighdeann cheutach,
 A bha deigheil air do phòig,
 Le 'm h' ait bhì cunntadh spreidhe dhut,
 'S a deas-lamh féin le deòin.
Their mi ho-ro, &c.

Cha robh fuath na greathachd ort,
 Ri t-amharc bha thu caoin,
 Saighdear foinnidh, flathail,
 Air an gabhadh gach neach gaol;
 Euchdach, treubhach, urramach,
 Bha 'n curaidh glan gu'n ghaoidh,
 Gu fearail, meanmnach, measail,
 Air nach faighte an tiotal claou.
Their mi ho-ro, &c.

Saighdear fearail, fuasgailteach,
 Fear cruadalach, gu'n mheang,
 Ceann-feadhna air thùs na brataich e,
 Ga taisbeanadh san Fhraing;
 Thig airm air reir a phearsa,
 Air an laoch bu sgariteil greann,
 'Nnair dh' eireadh airde lasrach ort,
 'S maig a' chasadh riut san àin.

* An t-uisge-beatha.

Thig claidheamh socrach, stailinn dhut,
De 'n t-seòrs as fear sa bhùth,
'S e fulangach bho bharr-dheis,
Gu 'n ruig a cheanna-bheairt duirn;
Faobhar air a gheur chruaidh sin,
Nach gabhadh leum na lùb,
Lann air dhreach na daolaig',
'S i air taobh deas-laimh mo rùin.
Their mi ho-ro, &c.

'S e sud an t-airm a thaghainn dut,
'S tu 'n deigh an retreat,
As paidhir dhag nach diùltadh,
Agus fùdar gorm da reir;
Do ghunna 'n deigh a falmachadh,
'S tu marbhtach air an treud,
Ann san laimh nach greagara,
'S tu leantainn as an deigh.
Their mi ho-ro, &c.

'S fhada leam a chomhnaidh so,
Th' aig Eoin a measg nan Gall,
Cha ghiorra leam an oidhche,
Bhi ga chuimhneachadh 's gach àm:
Dh' fhaoltichinn na 'm faicinn thu,
Tigh'n seachad ann sa ghleann,
Cha ghabhinn fein bonn faiteachais,
Ge d' ghlacadh tu mo gheall.
Their mi ho-ro, &c.

Corr agus trì ràidhean,
Tha thu d' chadal sàmhach bh' uain,
Gu'n t-fhaicinn bho na dh'fhàg thu sinn,
'S ar cridhe ghnàth fo ghruaim;
A nis bho 'n chuir thu cùl ruinn,
'Sa laidh smùrnein air do ghruaidh,
Mar sholas and deigh dorachadais,
Tha Tòrmod mar bu dual.
Their mi ho-ro, &c.

'S e Tormod òg mo shubhachas,
Air bhuidheachas shìol-Leòid,
Ma 's mac an àit' an athar thu,
Thig fathast gu bhì mòr;
Ann san Dùn gu fathail,
'N robh do chinneadh roi beò,
Mac-ratha dhùisgeas eibhneas domb,
Le aighear thréig mi bròn.
Their mi ho-ro, &c.

Ma thuirt iad ogha Thòrmoid riut,
B' i sud an fhoirm fhuil ghlan,
Ma thuirt iad iar-ogha Ruairidh riut,
B' i 'n àrd-fhuil uaibhreach mhear;
'S ogha 'n Eoin gun truailleadh,
Thug suairceas air gach neach,
Mac an fhir nach b'fhuathach leam,
An nochd thog suas mo ghean.
Their mi ho-ro, &c.

CREACH-NA-CIADAIN.*

Tha muld, tha mulad,
Lion mulad ro mhòr mi,
'S ge d' is eigin domh fhulang,
Tha tuille 's na's leoir orm;
Thromaich sac air mo ghiulan,
Le dùmhladas dòrainn,
Dh' amais dosgaich na bliadhn orm,
Creach-na-Ciadain so leon mi!

Creach-na-Ciadain so leon mi,
Dh' fhàg mi breòite gu'n fhiabhras,
A dh'fhògair mo shlainte,
'S tearc mo bhrathair 's na criochan;
Agam glaodh an loin bhrònaich,
'N deigh a h-eoin 's i 'ga iargainn,
Dh' fhalbh gach sòlas a b' àbhaist,
'S dh' fhuirich càillein a m' fhiacail.

Dh' fhuirich càillein a m' fhiacail,
So i bhliadhn' a thug car dhomb,
Dh' fhag puthar fo m' leine,
Nach faothaich leigh tha air thalamh,
Mo leigheas cha'n fheudar,
Cha ré domh bhì fallain,
Fhuair mi dinneir là Càisge,
'S cha b' fheairrde mo ghoin i.

Cha b' fheairrde mo ghoin i,
Ge do bha mi mu'n chò'roinn,
'N diugh gur buan domh ri aithris,
Gu'n bhuail an t-earrach so bròg orm;
Mi mu'm màighsteir glè mhath,
'S fad a leus orm nach beò e,
Ge do racha mi seachad,
Cha'n fhaigh mi facal dheth chòmhra.

Cha'n fhaigh mi facal dheth chòmhra,
Chleachd mi mòran deth fhaotainn,
'N diugh dh' fhaodas mi ràite,
Gur uan gu'n mhàthair san treud mi,
'S ann is gna dhomb bhì tùrsach,
Gu'n bhrath furtachd as eugais,
'S o'n a chaochail e àbhaist,
'S tearc a chaoidh mo ghàir éibhinn.

'S tearc a chaoidh mo ghàir éibhinn,
Cha bheus domh bhì subhach,
Ghabh mi tlachd ann bì tùrsach,
Chuir mi ùigh ann bì dubhach,
Mu'n tì tha mi 'g iomradh,
Chuir an cuimhne mo phutar,
Nis o'n fhuair an uaigh e-san,
Chaidh an caisead mo bhruthaich.

* This lamentation was composed on the death of John Breac Macleod.

Chaidh an caisead mo bhruthaich,
 'S mi fo chumba da dìreadh,
 Dol an truimead 's an àirde,
 An diugh a thainig mo dhìobhail:
 Dh' fhalbh mo laitheichean éibhinn,
 O'n a thréig sibh Clàr-sgìthe,
 Tha mo thaic ann sna h-Earadh
 'N deigh fhalach 'na aonar.

'N deigh fhalach 'na aonar,
 Bi'dh e daonnan 'an uaigneas,
 Sgeul mu'n gearanach daoine,
 'S mnai chaoiteach nan luath-bhos,
 'S iad a' co-strì r'a chéile,
 Ceol gun éibhneas seachd truaighe!
 Leum mo chridhe 'na spealtaibh,
 M' an chaismeachd 'n uair chualas.

Gur h-i chaismeachd so chualas,
 A luathaich orm tìoma,
 Dh' fhàg fo m' osnaich fuil bhrùite,
 A' sior-dhrùthadh air m' innigh,
 'S fhaide seachduin na bliadhna,
 O'n a thriall sibh thair linne,
 Le friamhach na fialachd,
 Bh'ann san lion-bhrat air fhilleadh,

'S ann san lion-bhrat air fhilleadh,
 Dh' fhàg mi spionnadh nan anfhann,
 Ceann-uidhe luchd-ealaidh,
 Mar ri earras luchd-seanachais.
 Agus ulaidh aos-dàna,
 Chuir do bhàs iad gu h-imcheist;
 'S o'n a chaidh thu sa chiste,
 Cha bu mhis a chùis fhàrmaid.

Cha bu mhis a chùis fhàrmaid,
 Ghabh mi tearbadh o'n treud sin,
 Far an robh mi a'm mheanbh-ghair,
 'An toiseach aimseir mo chéitein,
 'S ann an deireadh a Charbhais,
 A dhearbhadh ar feuchain
 Chaill mi 'n àr-ghibht, a chreach mi,
 Ann an seachduin na Césuda.

Ann an seachduin na Césuda,
 Diciadain mo bhristidh,
 Chaill mi luchair na h-éudail,
 Cha mhi aon neach is mist e,
 Gu'n bhrath faighinn gu bràth oirr',
 Sgeul a shàraich mo mhisneach;
 'S ann fo dhìomhaireachd m' àirnean,
 A tharmaich mo niosgaid.

A tharmaich mo niosgaid,
 Cha'n fhaidh mise bhi slàn deth,
 Se fear tinn a chinn-ghalair,
 A nì'n gearan bochd cràiteach,

'S ann air ata 'n easlaint,
 Nach d' fhiosraich a nàbaidh,
 'S cha mho dh' fhairaich e thinneas
 Leis 'n do mhilleadh a shlainte.

Far 'n do mhilleadh mo shlaint-s',
 'S ann a tharmaich dhòmh m' easlaint,
 Gu'n d' chuir aimsir na Càisge,
 Mi gu bràth fo throm airsneal,
 Gheibh gach neach do na dh' fhàg thu,
 Rud 'an àite na bh' aca,
 Ach mis agus Màiri,
 A chuir a bràthair 'an tasgaidh.

Chaidh do bhràthair 'an tasgaidh,
 'Se mo chreach-sa gur fìor sud,
 'S ann an diugh tha mi 'g acair,
 Mar tha mhac na mhaol-ciarain,
 Agus ise bochd brònach,
 'N deigh a leonadh o'n chiadain,
 Thug mo mhaighstir math uamsa,
 Leis 'n do bhuaineadh mo phian-bhron.

Mo phian-bhron a Mhàiri,
 Mar tha thu fo chumba,
 Nach faic thu do Bhràthair,
 Mar a b' àbhaist gu subhach,
 An sean-fhacal gnàthaichte,
 An diugh 's fìor e mar thubbairt:—
 “ Cha robh meoghail ga miad,
 Nach robh na deigh galach, dubhach.”

Nach robh na deigh galach, dubhach,
 'Se 'm fear subhach am beairteas,
 Cha'n fhaigh piuthar a bràthair
 Ach gheibh bean àluinn leth-leapach,
 Thainig àr air an dùthaich,
 Dia a dhùbladh an carta,
 'S ga eumail an uachdar,
 Gus am buadhaich do mhac e.

Gus am buadhaich do mhac e,
 'N déigh a ghlasadh le gruagnaich,
 Lan saibhris is sonais,
 Ann san onair bu dual dut,
 Lean cùis 's na bi leanbail,
 'S na bidh marbh-ghean air t-uaislean,
 Cum an coimeas ruit féin iad,
 'S na toir beum dha t-ainm Ruairidh.

Ruairidh reachdar, run-meanmach,
 Tartach, toirbeartach, teannta,
 Do shì-seanair o'n tainig,
 Cha b'ion do nàmhaid dol teamu air,
 'S Ruairidh gasda 'na dheigh,
 Cha b'e roghainn bu tàire,
 'S an treas Ruairidh fa dheireadh,
 Cha b'e'n gainneanach fàs e.

An treas Ruairidh de'n dream sin,
A choisinn geall 's cha b' e mì-chliu,
Cha b' e 'n coilleannach gann e,
Ach an ceannsgalach mìleant'
Ma 's tusa roinn suas,
An ceathramh Ruairidh, na dearmad,
Lean ri sinnsireachd t-aiteam,
'S n a toir masladh dha 'n ainm sin.

Na toir masladh dha 'n ainm sin,
'S cuir leanabas fo d' bhrògan,
Na biodh daoine ann am barail,
Ge d' tha car aig an òig ort,
Bidh gu fìghantach smachdail,
Rianail, reachdmhor, 'n triath Leòdach,
"Na faic frìd an sùil brìdean,"
Cha chùis dìon do Mhac-Leòid e.

Cha chùis dìon do Mhac-Leòid,
A bhi dòlum 's rud aige,
Lean an dùthchas bu chòir dhut,
'S biodh mòr-chnis na t-aigneadh,
Ach ma leigeas tu dhìot e,
Bì'dh na ciadan ga t-agairt,
'G ràdh gur crann shlatag chrìon thu,
'N àit' a ghnìomharaich beachdail.

Maide dh' fhàs na chraoibh thoraidh,
Fo bhà onarach àluinn,
Ann an lios nan crann éuchdach,
Bha tlachd nan ceud ann 's gach àit' air,
Lean an dùthchas bu chathair,
A mhic an athar a chràidh sinn,
Na bidh ad chrìonaich gu'n duilleich,
Ann 'san ionad 'n do thàmh thu.

ORAN MOR MHC-LEOID.

[EADAR AN CLARSAIR AGUS MAC-TALLA.]

MiAD a mbulaid tha 'm thaghall,
Dh' fhag treoghaid mo chléibh gu goirt
Aig na rinn mi ad dheighidh,
Air m' aghairt 's mo thriall gu port.
'S ann bha mis' air do thoir,
'S mi meas robh còir agam ort;
A dheagh mhic athar mo ghràidh,
B tu m' aighear, 's m' àdh, 's m' olc.

Chaidh a chuibhle mu'n cuairt,
Gu'n do thiunnaidh gu fuachd am blàthas,
Naile chuna' mi uair,
Dùn fhathail nan cuach a thràigh.

Far biodh taghaich nan duan,
Ioma' mathas gu'n chruas, gu'n chàs;
Dh' fhalbh an latha sin bhuaibh,
'S tha na taighean gu fuairaidh fàs.

Dh' fhalbh, mac-tall' as an Dùn,
'N an sgarachdainn duinn r' ar triath;
'S ann a thachair e rium,
Air seacharan bheann, san t-shliabh.
Labhair e-san air thus—
"Math mo bharail gur tu ma 's fìor,
Chunna' mise fo' mhùirn,
Roi 'n uiridh an Dùn nan cliar."

A Mhic-talla, nan tùr,
'Se mo bharail gur tusa bhà,
Ann an teaghlach an fhion',
'S tu g-aithris air gnìomh mo lamh:
"S math mo bharail gur mi,
'S cha b' urasd dhomh bhi mo thàmh;
G-eisdeachd brosluim gach ceòil,
Ann an fochar Mhic-Leòid an àigh."

A Mhic-talla so bha,
Anns a bhaile 'n do thar mi m' iuil;
'S ann a nis dhuinn as léir,
Gu'm beil mis' a's tu féin air chùil.
A reir do chomais air sgeul,
O'n 's fear comuinn mi-féin a's tu;
'M beil do mhuinntearas buan,
Aig an triath ud, da'n dual an Dùn?

"Tha Mac-talla fo ghruaim,
Anns an talla 'm biodh fuaim a cheòil;
'S ionad taghaich nan cliar,
Gu'n aighear, gu'n mhiagh, gu'n phòit.
Gu'n mhìre, gu'n mhùirn,
Gu'n iomracha dlù nan còrn;
Gun chùirm, gu'n phailteas ri dàimh,
Gu'n mbacnas, gu'n mhàran beoil.

"S mi Mac-talla, bha uair
'G eisdeachd fathrum nan duan gu tiugh;
Far bu mhuirneach am béus,
'N am cromadh do'n ghréin san t-sruth.
Far am b' fhoirmeal na seòid,
'S iad gu h-òranach, ceolmhor, clùth;
Ged nach faicte mo ghnùis,
Chluinnt' aca sa'n Dùn mo ghuth."

"N am eiridh gu moch,
Ann san teaghlach, gu'n spròc, gu'n ghruaim;
Chluinte gleadhraich nan dōs,
'S an céile na' cois on t-suain;
'Nuair a ghabhadh i làn,
'S i gu'n cuireadh os n-aird na fhuair;
Le meoir fhileanta bhinn,
'S iad gu ruith-leumach, dìonach, luath."

“ Bhiodh a rianadair féin,
Cuir an ìre gur h-e bhiodh ann ;
'S e g-eiridh na measg,
'S an éibhe gu tric na cheann.
Ge d' a b' ard leinn a fuaim,
Cha tuairgneadh e sinn gu teann ;
Chuireadh tagradh am chluais,
Le h-aidmheil gu luath, 's gu mall.

'Nuair a chuir' i na tàmh,
Le furtachd na fàrdaich féin ;
Dhomb-sa b' fhrasda ràdh,
Gu'm bu churaideach gair nan téud.
Le h-ìomairt dha làmh,
A cuir a binneas do chàch an céill ;
'S gu'm bu shiubhlach am chluais,
A moghunn lughar le luasgan mheur.

“ Ann sa' fheasgar na dheigh,
N am teasa na gréin tra nòin ;
Fìr chneatain ri clàir,
'S mna' freagairt a ghnà cuir leò.
Da chomhairleach ghearr,
A labhairt 's gu 'm b'ard an gloir ;
'S gu'm bu thitheach an guin,
Air an duine gu'n fhuil, gu'n fheoil.”

“ Gheibhte fheasgaich gu'n ghraim,
Na do thalla gu'n sgràig, gu'n fhuath ;
Mna' fhionna 'n fhuil réidh,
Cuir buineis an céill le fuaim.
Le ceileireachd beoil,
Bhiodh gu h-ealanta, h-ordail, suairc ;
Bhiodh fear-bogha 'nan còir,
Ri cuir meo-ghair' a mheòir nan cluais.

“ Thoir teachdaireachd bhuam,
Le deatam, gu Ruaridh òg ;
Agus innis dha féin,
Cuid de chunnard ged 'se Mac-Lèòid.
E bhi'g amharc na dheigh.
Air an Iain* a dh-éug, s' nach beò ;
Ge bu shaibhir a chliù,
Cha'n fhàgadh e 'n Dùn gu'n cheòl.”

Note.—This song was a favourite with Sir Alexander M'Kenzie, of Gairloch, who paid a person to sing it to him every Christmas night. One of Sir Alexander's tenants went to him one day to seek a lease of a certain farm. The laird desired him to sit down and sing Oran Mòr Mhic-Lèòid till he should write the document. The tenant remarked that he certainly set great value on that song. “Yes,” was his reply, “and I am sorry that every Highland laird has not the same regard for it.”

We here beg the reader to note, that we have not said Rory was an English gentleman, but only hinted that he aped the manners of one. Eight stanzas of this song are purposely omitted, as we think their insertion would be an outrage on our readers' sense of propriety.

AM PIOBAIRE DALL.

JOHN M'KAY, the celebrated piper and poet was born in the parish of Gairloch, Ross-shire, in the year 1666. Like his father, who was a native of Lord Reay's Country, he was born blind, but with perhaps the exception of a slight shade on their eyes, it would be difficult to the most acute observer to perceive that they had not their sight. When John had acquired the first principles or elementary parts of music from his father, he was sent to the College of Pipers in Skye, to finish his musical studies under the auspices of the celebrated Mac-Criummein. There were at this time no fewer than eleven other apprentices studying with this celebrated master-piper; but in the articles of capacity and genius so superior did Iain Dall prove himself to his fellow-students, that he outstripped them all in a very short time. This superiority, or pre-eminence naturally gained him the envy and low-souled ill-will of the others, and many anecdotes have traditionally come down to us illustrative of their rivalry and wounded pride. On one occasion as John and another apprentice were playing the same tune alternately, in the highest key of rivalry, Mac-Criummein repriuvandingly asked the other, "why he did not play like Iain Dall?" to which the chagrined aspirant replied, "By Mary, I'd do so if my fingers had not been after the skate!"—alluding to the conglutinous touch of his fingers on the chanter-holes after having forked at some of that fish at dinner. Hence originated the taunt which the north country pipers, conscious of their own superiority, are in the habit of hurling at pipers of the more Southern districts—" Tha mhedirean as dzighe na sgait!" Genius is never at a loss for developing itself, and where there is actually no casus, its fertility of invention finds abundant materials to work upon. Our youthful piper, it appears, was somewhat unfortunate in the appointment of his bed, during the early period of his apprenticeship; in short, he was infested with certain marauders, which detracted from his comfort and sleep. This circumstance he commemorated in the composition of a piobaireachd appropriately called "Pronnadh nam Mial," which, although his first effort, both as regards its variations and general structure, is equal to any thing of the kind.

One of the Mac-Crinnmeins, a celebrated musician known by the cognomen of Padruig Caogach, owing, we suppose, to his inveterate habit of twinkling or winking with his eyes, was about the time composing a new pipe tune. Two years had already elapsed since the first two measures of it became known and popular; but owing to its unfinished state, it was called "Am port Leathach." Some of the greatest poets have experienced more difficulty in supplying a single line or couplet than in the structure and harmonization of the entire piece—musicians, too, have experienced similar perplexities—and Padruig Caogach had fairly stuck. The embryo tune was every where chanted and every where applauded, and this measure of public approbation tended to double his anxiety to have it finished—but no! the genius of composition seemed to exult at a distance, and to wink at Caogach's perplexity. Tender of his brother's reputation, our blind author set to work, and finished the tune which he called, "Lasan Phàdruiig Chaogaich"—thus nobly renouncing any share of the laudation which must have flowed upon the completion of the admired strain. Patrick, finding his peculiar province usurped by a blind beardless youth, became furiously incensed, and bribed the other apprentices to do away with his rival's life! This they attempted one day while walking together at Dun-Bhorraraig, where they threw their blind friend over a precipice of twenty-four feet in height! John alighted on the soles of his feet, and suffered no material injury: the place over which he was precipitated was shown to us, and is yet recognised as Leum an Doill. The completion of "Lasan Phàdrraig Chaogaich" procured great praise for our young musician, and gave rise to the following well-known proverb—" Chaidh an fhòghluim os-ccann Mhic-Cruimein." i. e. "the apprentice outwits the master."

After being seven years under the tuition of Mac-Cruimein, he returned to his native parish, where he succeeded his father as family-piper to the Laird of Gairloch. He was enthusiastically fond of music, and the florid encomiums which every where flowed in upon him, gave his inventive powers an ever-recurrent stimulus. During his stay in this excellent family, he composed no fewer than twenty-four piobaireachds, besides numberless strathspeys, reels and jigs—the most celebrated of which, are "Cailleach a Mhuillear," and "Cailleach Liath Rasaidh."

Finding himself ultimately in comfortable circumstances, he married, and had two children, a son and a daughter—the former of whom was a handsome man. His name was Angus, and he was equal to any of his progenitors in the science of music. When our author became advanced in years, he was put on the superannuated list, with a small but competent annuity; and he passed the remaining part of his life in visiting gentlemen's houses, where he was always a welcome guest. His visits or excursions were principally in the country of Reay and the Isle of Skye. It was during one of these peregrinations, that, hearing in the neighbourhood of Tong, of the demise of his patron, Lord Reay, he composed that beautiful pastoral "Coire'an-Easain," which of itself might well immortalize his fame. It is not surpassed by any thing of the kind in the Keltic language—bold, majestic, and intrepid, it commands admiration at first glance, and seems on a nearer survey of the entire magnificent fabric, as the work of some supernatural agent.

After the death of Sir Alexander M'Donald of Slate, John paid a visit to his old rendezvous, now occupied by his friend's son. The aged bardic-piper soon experienced the verification of the adage—new kings, new laws—instead of being honoured with a seat in the dining-room as usual, he was ushered into the servants' hall immediately below—an indignity he was by no means disposed to pass sub silentio. As the young chief was taking dinner, a liveried servant made his appearance in the hall, and addressing John said—"My master wishes you to play one of those tunes he often heard his father praise"—"Go back to your master," replied Iain Dall warmly, "and tell him from me, that when I used to play to his father it was to charm and delight his ears, and not to blow music up in his a—!"

Having returned to Gairloch, he never again went from home. He died in the year 1754, being consequently 98 years of age, and was buried in the same grave with his father, Ruairidh Dall, in the clachan of his native parish, Gairloch.

* As Myro, son of the king of Sora,* was one day sailing in his little barque along the Irish coast, he came to a bay, remarkable for its beautiful seclusion. As his eye wandered here and there over every part of the smooth expanse, it at length rested on a group of nymphs desporting themselves, as they thought unseen, and enjoying the cool of a fine summer's eve among the waters. For a time, he fancied them mermaids, or daughters of the sea, and continued to gaze on them with admiration and awe; but observing, as he drew nearer, that their forms were entirely human, he made all sail to ascertain who they were! On observing his approach, they darted like lightning to conceal themselves in the crevice of an adjoining rock, whither fear and modesty compelled them to seek a hasty retreat. Determined to make captive of the fairest, whosoever she might be, he moored his skiff, and went in pursuit. He soon pounced upon them in their concealment, and carried off the most handsome. Awed with terror, and suffused with tears, she on her knees implored him for liberty,—telling him that her name was "Fàine-Soluis," i. e. beam of light, and that her father was king of that part of Ireland. Unmoved by her entreaties, he conveyed her to his boat, and bore her off to his own country, where she lived with him for some time, as the partner of his bed. To her, however, Sora was a place of torment,—for the thoughts of kindred and of home embittered every hour of her existence. Goaded to despair, she formed the resolution of attempting her escape, and, having sallied forth one day, as had been her custom, to the beach, she observed Myro's curach afloat, and no one within view, which she unmoored, and committing herself to the mercy of the elements, nimbly leaped on board. Spreading all sail, and a favourable breeze having sprung up, she was soon driven upon the coast of Scotland, at a spot where Fingal and his attendants were refreshing themselves after the fatigues of the chase. Her eyes beamed with joy as she recognised the hero. After mutual salutations, she informed the king of Morven of what had happened; and, imploring his protection, as her husband was in pursuit, she assured him of her determination to die rather than return. Fingal promised her his aid; but, hardly had her troubled mind composed itself to rest, when the prince of Sora landed in the bay, and demanded his wife from him. The hero, true to his plighted promise, refused. The prince of Sora drew his sword, and menaced defiance.

* The island of Sorcha is frequently mentioned in the poems of Ossian. It is uncertain where it lay, but it seems to have been noted for the cruelty of its inhabitants.—Dr Smith.

Upon which, Gaul, the son of Morni, stepping forth, encountered the stranger. But, valiant as was the arm of Gaul, he had well nigh been overpowered. Oscar, however, the son of Ossian, taking advantage of an exception to the Fingalian law, "not to aid either party in single combat with the right hand," hurled a dart at the young chief of Sora with his left; but which, missing its aim, unhappily pierced Fàine.Solais to the heart. Confounded at the sight, Myro became unnerved, and was overpowered and bound by Gaul. Fàine.Solais was buried where she fell, and the young chief returned to Sora. The episode concerning the Maid of Craca, in the third book of Fingal, is to be regarded as another version of the same story, though perhaps the following poem, entitled "Cath Mhaighre mhàir mhic rìgh Sorcha," is the more correct. There are indeed several editions of this piece, all of which are good, but this, in our judgment, is the best. It furnishes internal evidence of its antiquity.

ALASDAIR MAC MHAIGHSTIR ALASDAIR.

ALEXANDER M'DONALD, commonly called Alasdair Mac Mhaighstir Alasdair, was born in the beginning of the eighteenth century. His father resided at Dalilea, in Moidart, and was Episcopalian clergyman at Ardnamurchan. He always travelled on foot, there being no roads in that rugged country, in his time, and returned the same day. He was a man of great bodily strength, which his weekly labours and travels required. His strength was, however, sometimes necessarily exerted on other occasions. In his time the people of Moidart and Suainart often met at interments in Eilean-Fionain, then the common burying-ground of both districts; and, as was the custom in former ages, consumed an anchor or two of whisky, and then fought. The presence of the clergyman was often required; and it was not seldom that his strength also was exhibited in parting the combatants. His character and prowess were so well-known that few men dared dispute his right as umpire. All were obliged to succumb to the pacificator; but the Suainart men alleged that he generally laid a heavy hand on them, the Moidart men being his own friends and relatives.

The Rev. gentleman had a large family of sons and daughters. The latter all died of the small-pox, after they had families of their own. An anecdote is still related concerning them. The small-pox raged in Moidart when his children were young, and Mr M'Donald removed with them to Eilean-Fionain, (not the burying-place but another island farther up in Loch-Sheil,) that they might escape the contagion that proved fatal to so many. And they did then escape. But nothing can more clearly evince our want of foresight and utter incompetency to judge of what is best than the result of the Rev. gentleman's care—that is, even taking it for granted that it was a consequence; for his daughters all died of the very malady from which he had been so anxious to guard them, and that at a time which to superficial thinkers would seem to have rendered the calamity awfully more distressing—when their death left several families of motherless children. The distress, we are but too apt to think, would have been greatly lessened if they had been taken away when their father consulted their safety by flight. But the ways of Providence are inscrutable to our dim vision!

Four of Mr M'Donald's sons lived to a good old age. Angus, the eldest, and his descendants, continued tacksmen of Dalilea for a century. Alexander, the subject of this memoir, was the second. His two younger brothers were settled in Uist as tacksmen.

The CLANRONALD of that day countenanced young men of merit. He wished young Alexander, of whom early hopes were entertained, to be educated for the bar. His father wished him to follow his own profession, and gave him a classical education. But our poet, like many a wayward genius, followed his own inclination—and disappointed both his chief and his father. His abilities and qualifications fitted him for any calling; yet there seems to be a kind of fatuity attending those who woo the Muses, which often prevents them from adopting the most prudent and advantageous pursuits.

When attending college, it is certain, however, that he did not neglect his studies, as he was a good classical scholar. His genius was not of that kind which too easily indulges in the indolence and inactivity of life. His powers were great; and his energy of mind adequate to any task in which his will inclined him to act. But he was inconsiderate, or improvident. He entered into the married state before he had finished his studies, and soon found it necessary to attend to other avocations.* His marriage gave rise to the vulgar error, that he was intended to have been made a priest; but that, disliking the office, he disqualified himself by that rash step; whereas, he was a protestant of the English church.

As teaching is the usual and most proper occupation of students who must do something towards their own support, the poet, whose studies had been interrupted by his marriage, betook himself to that most useful, but arduous labour. It is said that he was at first teacher to the Society for propagating Christian knowledge.

We find him afterwards parochial schoolmaster of Ardnamurchan, and an elder; consequently a presbyterian. He lived on the farm of Cori-Vullin, at the base of Ben-Shiante, the highest mountain in that part of the country, and adjacent to the noble ruins of Castle Mingarry, a romantic situation on the Sound of Mull, directly opposite to Tobermory, whose rural scenery aided the frequent inspirations of the bard; for, while he wielded the ferula, he neglected not the muses. There many a scene witnessed their delightful amours. He might have devoted more of his time to them than could be well spared from the labours of the farmer, and the duties of the instructor; yet the poet would have his own way, as well as please his own mind. As might have been expected, complaints were preferred against him; and the Presbytery appointed a committee to examine the school. His best friends must have allowed that there was just ground of complaint; yet, the examiners were not inclined to be rigorous. To give a specimen of the progress the scholars were making, the schoolmaster called up a little boy † who had entered the school at the preceding term, and then commenced to learn the alphabet. He read now the Scriptures fluently and intelligibly. The Reverend gentlemen were well pleased with the specimen, and gave a favourable report of the school.

* "He was married to Jane M'Donald, of the family of Dail-an-eas, in Glenetive. He composed a song on her, which is not remarkable for tenderness or affection, but cold and artificial, when compared with his lofty and impassioned strains in praise of Mòrag."—Memoir prefixed to the Glasgow edition of 1839.

† Duncan M'Kenzie, Kilchoan, who lived to the great age of ninety-four; and, in 1828, communicated to us this information. He also told us that in the ensuing summer he was taken from school to attend cattle; and that some time thereafter Mr M'Donald left his school and farm and joined the Prince. "Poor man," added he, "he lost his all." He also mentioned that the country was in an unsettled state for some time, and that he lost the opportunity of getting any more education.

A bard was, even in our poet's time, a conspicuous character, and that not only as the "man of song:" he was highly esteemed in war and in peace. He was first in council; consulted in all matters of importance as a man of acknowledged talent; as being shrewd, cautious, and intelligent. An anecdote will show the opinion entertained of our bard even in the eighteenth century. One day the clergyman and he met. They went to have a drink, and some conversation. "There is little public news, and what is the private?" enquired the clergyman. "Very little," was the answer. "Have you heard of any thing at all in my parish that is worth relating, or any thing the reverse?" "Nothing." "Then," said the minister, "I have a piece of news for you." "We shall hear it." "Yes; and it is, that one of my elders has got his nurse in the family way." "Is it possible!" "I understand that it is very true." The poet wondered that he had not heard of it. "How can any thing be known in the country, and I ignorant of it?" said he to himself. They parted. The poet felt chagrined: could not get over it. When he went home, he mentioned to Mrs M'Donald the piece of intelligence communicated by the minister, but could not think who the elder was. She smiled, and told him it was himself,—she being in the family way, and nursing.

Of the changes and troubles of the year 1745, our author had his share. He laid down the ferula and took up the sword; abandoned his farm, and lost his all, in a cause which to cool reflection must have appeared hopeless. Prince Charles must have esteemed him as a highly accomplished scholar and a soldier, enthusiastic in his cause, so much attached to his interest, but, above all, as a bard. He was the Tyrtæus of his army. His spirit-stirring and soul-inspiring strains roused and inflamed the breasts of his men. His warlike songs manifested how heartily he enlisted in, and how sanguine he was in the success of the undertaking. He received a commission.

He not only changed his profession, and put all he had on the chance of the Prince's success, but he also changed his religion: he became a Roman Catholic. We need not wonder at this, as he was now among his friends and countrymen of that persuasion,—especially as he was given to changes. He was brought up a member of the Church of England; he was a member of the Church of Scotland when parochial schoolmaster and elder; and he became a member of the Church of Rome among his own clan and relations. The Mull bard, his constant antagonist, hit upon the true cause of his last change when he says:—

"Cha be 'n creideamh ach am brosgul,
Chuir thu ghiulan crois a phàpa."

After the year 1745, the bard and his elder brother, Angus, a man of a diminutive size, but of extraordinary strength,* escaped the pursuit of their enemies, and concealed

* Some good anecdotes are still current in Moidart about this great little man. He is called Aonghas beag Mac Mhaighstir Alasdair. We deem the following worth preserving:—Colla bàn M'Donald, of Barasdale, came one day to a ford of the Lochie which he was meaning to cross, and found Angus sitting on a stone taking off his shoes and stockings preparatory to going over also. The river was considerably swollen at the time, and Barasdale, who was a strong and tall man, accosted Angus as follows:—"My little fellow, keep on your shoes and stockings, as they themselves in the wood and caves of Kinloch-na-nua, above Borradaie, in the district of Arisaig. Their local knowledge of the country, and the care and attention of friends, enabled them to elude all search, surmount difficulties, and endure privations to which many fell a sacrifice.

A well-authenticated anecdote of the poet and his brother demonstrate the courage of the soldier and the spirit of the times. One day, as they were removing from one place of concealment to another, Angus, observing that his brother's hair was grey, (the side of his head next the ground, cold and frozen, became quite grey the night before,) contemptuously declared him an old man. "I should not wonder," replied Alexander, "were it not a dwarf that called me 'a poor old man.'" Angus, turning instantly round, dared him to repeat his words. They were in imminent danger. The least noise or indication of persons concealing themselves might have betrayed the place of concealment, and it would not have been safe for them to remain any longer in that part of the country. Regardless of the situation and critical circumstances, the poet could not pass over an occasion of cracking a joke, and the spirit of the manikin was too high to suffer any contempt. The fear, however, of provoking the resentment of the redoubtable hero, made the bard observe silence.

After this eventful period, Alexander M'Donald lived poor. He was invited to Edinburgh by Jacobitical friends, residing in the metropolis, to take charge of the education of their children, and where he had a better opportunity of finishing the education of his own. From Edinburgh he returned to the Highlands, being disappointed of the expected encouragement, and took up his residence in Moidart. He and Mr Harrison, the priest, lived not on the best terms, and therefore he removed to Knoydart, and resided at Inveraoi.* He latterly returned into Arisaig, and resided at Sandaig till his death.

will make you wade the better, and make haste come over with me and keep in my wake; I will break the force of the stream, which will enable you to get over with the greater ease." Angus knew him, and thanked him for his goodness; he did also as he was bidden. When they were in the most rapid part of the stream, Barasdale was like to be overpowered by the current, and was for returning; which Angus dared him on his peril to do; and, placing himself between Coll and the stream, dragged him by sheer force to the other side. Then said Angus to him, "You called me 'little fellow' on the opposite side of the water; who, think you, might with greater propriety be called 'little fellow' on this side? Take advice: Never call any man little till you have proved him; and always try to form your estimate of a man's character by something more substantial than mere appearance. Remember, also, great as you are, that had it not been for a greater man than yourself you might have been meat for all the eels in the Lochie."

* He composed a number of songs after this: and one of them, entitled "Tomraich Alasdair á Eigneig do dh' Inner-aoidh," displaying curious traits of the irritable and discontented temper that embittered his life when in Eigneig. While there, he represents all things, animate and inanimate, rocks and thorns, thistles and wasps, ghosts and hobgoblins, combining to torment and persecute him. He speaks of Mr Harrison as follows:—

"Am fear
Dheanadh as-caoin-eaglais chruaidh orm,
Mu'n cluinneadh a chluais trí chasaid."*

On the other hand, he represents Inveraoi, in Knoydart, a place like paradise,—full of all good things, blooming with roses and lilies, and flowing with milk and honey,—free of ghosts, hobgoblins, and venomous reptiles. How long he remained in this rocky paradise is not known; but he appears to have lived some time in Morror, as he composed a very elegant song in praise of that country.

* For this song see the Glasgow edition of 1839, page 88.

He died at a good old age, and was gathered to his fathers in Eilean-Fionain, in Loch-Sheil.

Like most men of genius, who make some noise in the world, Mac-Mhaighstir Alasdair has been much lauded on the one side by the party whose cause he espoused, and as much vilified, and, in some instances, falsefied, by the other party. Mr Reid, in his book, "Bibliotheca Scoto-Celtica," seems to have had his information from the last mentioned source. We have taken our account of him from undoubted authorities. We have seen individuals who knew and were intimate with him; and have been acquainted with many of his relatives, and some of his descendants. Let us now proceed to his works. The first given to the public was his "Gaelic and English Vocabulary," published under the patronage of the Society for propagating Christian knowledge in the Highlands and Islands of Scotland,—a work of acknowledged merit and great usefulness in the schools, and which is very creditable to the author. It appeared in 1741, and was the first Vocabulary or Dictionary of the language ever published in a separate form. It is not alphabetically arranged, but divided into subjects. His poems were first published at Edinburgh, in 1751, and but for their being in Gaelic must certainly have brought on their author the vengeance of the law agents of the crown, for it is scarcely possible to conceive of language more violent and rebellious than that of many of his pieces. The longest and most extraordinary of his poetical productions is his "Birlinn Chlainn Raonull." "He has in his 'Birlinn,'" says Mr Reid, "presented us with a specimen of poetry which, for subject matter, language, harmony, and strength, is almost unequalled in any language." He must have had the greatest command of the Gaelic language to have composed on a subject that would exhaust the vocables of the most copious.

From 1725 to 1745 he composed his descriptive poems, &c. "Alt-an t-Siucair" is an ignoble stream passing between the farm he occupied and the next to it, which he immortalizes in flowing strains. As a descriptive poem, it is perhaps unequalled by any in the language. Every object which the scene affords is brought to bear upon, and harmonize with, and give effect to the picture with a skill and an adaptation which bespeak the master-mind of the artist. Nowhere does poetry seem more nearly allied to painting than in this admirable production of our bard. His "Oran an t-Samhraidh," or "Ode to Summer," in which he is said to be delightfully redundant in epithets, like the season in its productions which he describes, he composed at Glencribisdale, situated on the south side of Loch-Suainart, in the parish of Morven. He came there on a visit the last day of April; and rising early next morning, and viewing the picturesque scenes around, was powerfully impressed with the varied beauties of nature, displayed in such ample profusion. His "Ode to Winter" is longer, and indicative of even greater powers of genius. The reason why this poem is not so popular as the forementioned is probably because it contains so many recondite terms and allusions. If it were as generally understood it would doubtless be as well appreciated. It was composed in Ardnamurchan, as well as many others in which scenes and events have been described which enable us to point out the locality and relate the circumstances that gave occasion to them. But after leaving Ardnamurchan, a subject presented itself that required all his energy, exertion, and enthusiasm,—and he was not wanting in either of them. His powers, both bodily and mental, were roused to action. His soul was fired with the prospect in view. He invoked the Muse, and she was auspicious. The few that remain of his Jacobite poems and songs are known to excel all other productions of this mighty son of song. The “Lion’s Eulogy” breathes Mars throughout: so does the Jacobite song, sung to the tune of “Waulking o’ the Fauld,” beginning “A chomuinn rioghail rùnaich.” The song entitled “Am Breacan Uallach” is equally spirited and warlike.

We have good authority for saying that a tenth of these poems and songs have not been given to the world. His son Ronald had them all in manuscript; but having published a collection of Gaelic poetry, and not meeting with much encouragement for a second volume, he allowed his MS. to be destroyed. Dr. M’Eachen, a friend and connexion, had the mortification of seeing leaves of them used for various purposes through the house.

Mr M’Donald could bear no rival. He often selected indifferent subjects to try his own powers. For instance, “The Dairy Maid,” and “The Sugar Brook.” But, while as a poet he merits the highest praise, he is not to be excused for his immoral pieces, which of course are excluded from the “BEAUTIES OF GAELIC POETRY.”

Gu droch ghnìomh bhios claon,
Cuirleadh e cruaidh-shnuim
Air o'n ghòraich sin :
Ach thug i so mo chiall,
Uile bhnam gu trian ;
Cha'n fhaca mi riamh
Siunnailt Mòraig-sa,

Tha mi 'lan mulaid,
O'n chunnaic mi Mòrag,
Cho trom ri clach-mhuilinn,
Air lunnan d'a seòladh :

 Gun d' aisig mi mo phogan dù,
 'S cha robh d'a coir dad uaipe.

Note.—This is one of the finest productions of the Keltic muse. The bard appears to have been really enamoured, and he pours forth his elegant, rapid, and impassioned strains in a torrent of poetry which has never been equalled by any of his contemporaries. Mòrag was a common country girl; and it is said that the poet's wife became jealous of her rival. The bard had talked of the marriage ties with the greatest contempt, and regretted that he was fettered with the bonds of wedlock. This raised a storm, and the bard sacrificed the mistress to appease the wife, and composed his "Mhòladh." Here is an instance of his disregard to truth and common decency, as well as of moral and poetical justice. As the praise was exaggerated and extravagant, the censure was cruel, unmanly, and undeserved. He first raised the object of his admiration to the skies, with the most hyperbolic praise—and then, without any provocation, he suddenly wheels round and overwhelms his goddess with the most slanderous, foul-mouthed and unfeeling abuse. His “M. mhòladh Mòraig” is printed in the Glasgow complete edition of his works of 1839.

* We have heard it broadly asserted, that the commencing stanza of this song is a mere translation of the first stanza of a certain song in “Ramsay's Tea Table Miscellany.” That there is a general similarity between these two stanzas, is admitted at once: and that M'Donald may have seen the “Miscellany,” and also read the stanza in question, is likewise conceded. But that the similarity between the two is such as to warrant the conclusion that he must have seen it, we cannot allow. As to its being a translation, if our opinion were asked, we would say at once “It is not.” But we subjoin the lines from the “Miscellany,” that the reader may have the better opportunity of judging:—

“*As early I wak'd,
On the first of sweet May,
Beneath a steep mountain,
Beside a clear fountain,
I heard a grave lute
Soft melody play,
Whilst the echo resounded
The dolorous lay.*”

Note.—The poet here uses a redundancy of adjectives, epithets and alliterations, with more pedantry than becomes pastoral poetry: but, with all its faults, the poem contains many beautiful passages. The address to the primrose is peculiarly elegant and happy—the description of the love of the grouse is also very good—and the address to the black cock is lively and graphic, though it ends with an unlucky and far-fetched conceit.

Note.—This address to the Highland clans is a stately spirit-stirring martial poem, where the bard describes the various Jacobite clans coming forward in warlike array to place Charles on the throne, and leave the Hanoverians under his feet. The satirist (Aireach Mhuile) represents the poet travelling through the country to excite the Highlanders to arms, and it is probable that this song was composed on that occasion. It was well calculated to rouse the warlike clans to the approaching conflict.

Note.—This piece is an animated and faithful description of a beautiful scene in the country, on a summer morning. The bard walks abroad and sees the dew glittering on every leaf and flower—the birds warbling their songs—the animals grazing, and the bees collecting their stores—the fishes are leaping out of the water, and all nature rejoicing in the return of spring, or the luxuriance of summer! The very rivulet seems to partake of the common joy, and murmurs a more agreeable sound—the cows low aloud, and the calves answer responsive—while the dairy-maid is busily engaged at her task. The ground is bespangled with flowers of richer hues than the most costly gems. The horses gather together in groups to drink of the streamlet, and the kids are sporting and dancing about its banks. The ships, with all their white sails bent to the gentle breeze, are passing slowly along the Sound of Mull. The poet selects the most natural, lively, and agreeable images in the rural scene. All good judges admit that there is not a descriptive poem, in Gaelic or English, fit to be compared with this exquisite production.

Note.—This song has been always highly popular, and is certainly the most spirited and elegant of all our Jacobite songs. Charles is represented under the similitude of Mòrag—a young girl with flowing locks of yellow hair waving on her shoulders. She had gone away over the seas, and the bard invokes her to return with a party of maidens (i. e. soldiers) to dress the red cloth, in other words, to beat the English red coats. The allegory is kept with elegance and spirit, and the poet introduces himself as one who had followed Mòrag in lands known and unknown, and was still ready to follow her over the world if required.

A Bhanarach dhonn, &c.

Ceol farasda fìor-bhinn,
Fonnar, farumach, dionach;
A sheinn an cailin donn mìogach,
A bheireadh biogadh air m' àirneann.

A Bhanarach dhonn, &c.

'S ge b' fhonnar an fhiodhall,
'S a teudan an rithidh ;
'S e bheireadh damhs air gach cridhe
Ceol nighin na h-àiridh.
A Bhanarach dhonn, &c.

Tha deirg agus gile,
A gleachd an gruaidhean na finne',
Beul mìn mar an t-shirist,
O'm milis thig gàire.
A Bhanarach dhonn, &c.

Deud snasda na rìbhinn,
Snaite, cruinn, mar na dìsnean ;
Gur h-i 'n donn-gheal, ghlan smideach,
'S ro mhiog-shuilleach fàite.
A Bhanarach dhonn, &c.

Chuireadh maill' air do leirsinn,
Ann am madainn chiuin chéitein,
Na gathannan greine,
Thig bho teud-chul cas, fàinneach.
A Bhanarach dhonn, &c.

'S ciatach nuallan na gruagaich,
A' bleothann cruaidh ghuaillinn ;
A' toirt torroman air cuachaig,
'S bothar fhuaim aig a clàraibh.
A Bhanarach dhonn, &c.

'S taitneach siubhal a cuailein,
Ga chrathadh mu cluasan ;
A' toirt muigh air seid luachraich
An taigh buaile, an gleann fàsaich.
A Bhanarach dhonn, &c.

A' muineal geal boidheach,
Mu'n iathadh an t-òmar,
A' dhath féin air gach seòrsa,
Chite dortadh tre bràghad.
A Bhanarach dhonn, &c.

Dà mhaoth-bhois bu ghrinne,
Fo 'n dà ghàirdein bu ghile ;
'N uair a shìnt iad gu h-innealt',
Gu sinean cruaidh fhàsgadh.
A Bhanarach dhonn, &c.

Gu'm bu mhothar mo bheadradh,
Teachd do'n bhuaille mu ead-thra,
Séamh sult-chorpach beitir,
'S buarach ghreasaid an àil aic'.
A Bhanarach dhonn, &c.

Glac gheal a b' ard gleodhar,
A' stealladh bainn' an cuaich bleothainn ;
A' seinn luinnneagan seadhach,
An gobhal na blàraig.
A Bhanarach dhonn, &c.

'N uair thogadh tu bhuarach,
Cuach a's cùrrusan na bualle ;
B'ao-coltach do ghluasad
Ri guanag na sràide.
A Bhanarach dhonn, &c.

O R A N,

MAR GUM B'ANN EADAR AM PRIONNS AGUS NA GAEL.

AIR FONN—"Good night an' joy be wi' you a'."

AM PRIONNSA.

MILE marbhaig air an t-saoghal,
'S earach baoghalach a dhàil ;
Cuibhl' an fhortain oirn air caochladh,
Cha do chleachd sinn moim ro' chàch ;
Tha sinn a nis air ar sgaoileadh,
Air feadh ghleann, a's fhraoch-beann àrd ;
Ach teanailidh sinn fòs ar daoine,
'N uair a dh' fhaodas sinn gu blàr.

Misneach mbath a mhuinntir ghaolach,
'S gabhaidh Dia dhuinn daonnaan càs ;
Cuiribh dòchus daingheann, faoilteach,
Anns an aon Tìni dhuin stà :
'S buanaichibh gu rìgheil, adhrach,
Traisgeach, uirneach, caoineach, blà ;
'S bi'bh dìleas do chach a chéile,
'S duinear suas ar creuchdan bàis.

Ach 's feadar dhomhs' a nis bhì falbh uaibh,
A Ghàèlibh càlma mo ghràidh ;
Bu mhor m' earbsa' às ar fònadh,
Ge do hd' fhonadh dhuinn 's an àr,
'S iomadh ana-cothrom a choinnich
Sinn, 's an choinnidh bha gun àgh ;
Ach gabhaidh mis' a nis mo chead dhibh,
Uine bheag : ach thig mi tràth.

Leasaichidh mi fòs ar callsa,
Churaidhnean gun fheall, gun sgàth ;
A dhilse dhliodhach, rìgheil, threuna,
A dheanadh èuchd ri uchd nam blàr ;
'S cinna's coluinn chuir o chéile,
Sinn', 's sibh-féin a sgaradh fàs ;
Ach togaibh suas ar misneach gleusda,
'S cuiream féin r' ar creuchdan plàs.

NA GAEL.

A Mhoire sinn th' air ar cèusadh !
Air dhì-cèille, sinn gun chàil ;
Tearlach Stiubhart Mac rìgh Séumas,
A bhì na eigin anns gach càs ;

Gur h-e sin a rinn ar làireadh,
Gur h-e 's feudair dha gu'm fàg ;
Sinu na dhèigh gun airm, gun èideadh,
Falbh 'n ainm Dhé ; ach thig a ghràidh.

Ar mìle beannachd na d' dheigh,
'S Dia do d' ghleigheadh anns gach àit ;
Muir a's tìr a bhì cho réidh dhut ;
M' urnaigh gheur leat fein os àird ;
'S ge do sgar mio-fhortan deurach
Sinn o chéile, 's ceum ro'n bhàs ;
Ach soraidh leat a mhic rìgh Seumas,
Shùgh mo chéille thig gun chaird.

Chaill sinn ar stiuir, 's ar buill-bheairte ;
Thugadh uainn ar n-acair-bàis ;
Chaill sin ar compaisd 's ar cairtean,
Ar reull-iuil 's ar beachd gach là ;
Tha ar cuirp gun chiun, gun chasan,
Sinn marr charcaisich gun stàth ;
Ach gabh thus' a ghràidh do t-astar,
Dean gleas tapaidh 's thig gun dail.

AM PRIONNSA.

Beannachd gu léir le Clann-Dòmhnuaill,
Sibh a dh' fhoirinn orm na m' chàs,
Eadar eileanan, a's mhòr-thìr,
Lean sibh deonach, rium gach trà ;
'S iomadh beinn, a's muir, a's mointeach,
A shiubhail sin air chòrsa bàis ;
Ach theasraig Dia sinn air fuar-fhòirneart,
Nan con sròn-ghaoth 'bha ri 'r sàil.

Sibh a rinn fo-laimh na Trianaid,
Mis' a dhìon o mhì-ruin chàich ;
Mo dhearg-naimhdean, neartmhor, lionmhor,
Chuir an lion feadh ghleann a's àrd.
A mhiad 's a thaisbean sibh d' ar dilseachd,
'S còir nach dì-chuimhnich gu bràth ;
A bharr, gur sibh is luaithe shìn rium,
Toic air tìr 's an talamh-ard.

NA GAEL.

Ochan ! ochan ! cruaidh an dearmad,
Bhì 'g ar tearbadh bhuat gun bhàs ;
B'ì 'n fhoir eibhinneachd, 's am beirteas,
Bhì d' a t-fhaicinn gach aon là ;
Bì'dh ar rùisg lau tìm a frasadh ;
Ar crì lag-chùiseach gun chàil,
Gu 'm pill thus' a ris air tais oirn,
Beannachd leat le neart ar gràidh.

AM PRIONNSA.

O ! tiornaichibh a suas 'ur sùilean,
'Chomuinn rùnaich 'fhuair 'ur cràdh,
Bì'dh sibh fàs, maoineach, mùirneach,
N 'ur gàrd dùbailt' ma Whitehall,

'Nuair a bhios an reubal lùbach,
Ri bog chrùban feadh nan càrn,
Gu 'm bi sibhs' an caithream cùirte,
Lasdail, lù-chleasach, làn àidh.

AM BREACAN UALLACH.

LUNNEAG.

Hé 'n clò-dubh,
Hò 'n clò-dubh,
Hé 'n clò-dubh,
B'fhearr am breacan.

B' FHEARR leam breacan uallach,
Ma m' ghuailllean, 's a chuir fo m' achlais,
Na ged gheibhinn còta,
De 'n chlà 's fearr thig á Sasuinn.
He 'n clò-dubh, &c.

Mo laochan fein an t-éideadh,
A dh-fheumadh an crios d' a ghlasadh,
Cuaicheanach an éilidh,
Déis eiridh gu dol air astar.
He 'n clò-dubh, &c.

Eilidh cruinn nan cuachan,
Gur buadhach an t-earradh gaisgeich ;
Shiubhlainn leat na fuarain,
Feadh fhuar-bheann ; 's bu ghasd' air faich thu.
He 'n clò-dubh, &c.

Fìor chulaidh an t-saighdear,
'S neo-ghloiceil ri uchd na caismeachd ;
'S ciatach 's an adbhans thu,
Fo shrantraich nam pìob 's nam bratach.
He 'n clò-dubh, &c.

Cha mhios anns an dol sìos thu,
'Nuair sgrìobar á duille claiseach ;
Fìor earradh na ruaige,
Gu luaths a chuir anns na casan !
He 'n clò-dubh, &c.

Bu mhath gu seal an fhéidh thu,
'N am eridh do 'n ghréin air creachunn ;
'S dh-fhualbhainn leat gu lodbar,
Dì-dòmhaich a dol do'n chlachan.
He 'n clò-dubh, &c.

Laidhinn leat gu cearbail,
'S mar earbaig gu 'm brìòsgainn grad leat,
Na b' ullamh air m' arnachd,
Na dearganach, 's mosgaid ghlagach.
He 'n clò-dubh, &c.

'N am coilich a bhi dùrdan,
Air stùcan am madainn dhealta.
Bu ghasda t-fheum 's a chùis sin,
Seach mùtan de thrustar càsaig.

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

Shiubhlainn leat a phòsadh,
'S bharr feoirnein cha fhrosainn dealta ;
B' i sid a' t-sunach bhòidheach,
An òg-bhean bha moran tlachd dh'i.

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

B' aigeantach 's a' choill' thu,
D a m' choireadh le d' bhlàths 's le t-fhasgath,
Bho chathadh, a's bho chrìon-chur,
Gu 'n dìonadh tu mi ri frasachd.

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

Air t-uachdar gur a sgiamhach
A laidheadh a sgiath air a breacadh ;
'S claidheamh air chrìos ciatach,
Air fhiaradh os-ceann do phleatan.

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

'S deas a thigeadh cuilbheir,
Gu suilbhearra leat fa 'n asgail ;
'S a dh-aindeoin uisg' a's urchaid,
No tuil-bheum gu 'm biodh air fasgath.

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

Bu mbath anns an oidhch' thu ;
Mo loinn thu mar aodach-leapa ;
B' fhearr leam na 'm brat lìn thu,
Is prìseile thig a Glascho.

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

S' baganta grunn bòidheach,
Air banais a's air mòd am breacan ;
Suas an éileadh-sguaibe,
'S dealg-gualainn a' cur air fàsdaidh.

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

Bu mbath an là 's an oidhch' thu,
Bha loinn ort am beinn 's an cladach,
Bu mbath am feachd 's an sìth thu ;
Cha rìgh am fear a chuir as dut.

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

Shaoil leis gun do mhaolaich, so
Faobhar nan Gàil tapaidh,
Ach 's ann a chuir à géur orr',
Ni 's beurra na deud na h-ealltainn :

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

Dh-fhag e iad làn mì-ruin,
Cho ciocrasach ri coin acrach ;
Cha chaisg deoch an lotadh,
Ge b' fhion i, ach fìor fhuil Shasuinn.

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

Ged' spìon sibh an Crì asainn,
'S ar broilleichean sìos a shracadh,
Cha toir sibh asainn Tearlach,
Gu bràth gus an téid ar tacadh !

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

R' ar n-anam' tha e fuaighte,
Teann, luaite cho cruaidh ri glasan ;
'S uainn cha' n fhaodar fhuasgladh,
Gu 'm buaine ar fear ud asainn.

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

Cleas na mnatha-siùbhla,
'Gheibh tuillinn mu'm heir i' h-asaid ;
An ionad a bhi'n duimhb ris,
Gun dùbbail d'a fear a lasan.

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

Ge d' chuir sibh oirne buarach,
Thiugh, luaighte, gu 'r falbh a bhacadh,
Ruitheadh sinn cho luath,
'S na 's buaine na féidh a ghlasraidh.

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

Tha sinn 's na t-sean nàdar,
A bhà sinnu ro am an acta ;
Am pearsannan 's an imtinn,
'S 'n ar rìghealachd cha téid lagadh.

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

'S i 'n fhuil bha 'n cuisil' ar sinnsridh,
'S an innsinn a bha n' an aigne,
A dh-fhagadh dhuinn' mar dhileab,
Bhi rìgheil.—O! sin ar paidir !

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

Mallachd air gach seòrsa,
Nach deonaicheadh fòs dol leat-sa,
Co dhìu bhiodh aca còmhach,
No còmhruiste, lòm gu 'n chraiceann.

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

Mo chion an t-òg fearragha,
Thar fairge chaidh uainn air astar ;
Dùrachd blàth do dhùthcha,
'S an ùrnaigh gu lean do phearsa.

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

'S ge d' fhuair sibh lamh-an-uachdar,
Aon uair oirn le seòrsa tapaidh,
An donus blàr ri bheò-sa,
Ni febladair tuilleadh tapaidh.

He 'n clo-dubh, &c.

TEARLACH MAC SHEUMAIS.

AIR FÓN—“Black Jock.”

O! Tearlaich mhic Sheumais,
Mhic Sheumais, mhic Thearlaich,
Leat shiubhlainn gu h-èutrom,
N am èubhachd 'bhi màrsal,
'S cha b' ann leis a phlàigh ud,
A tharmaich o 'n mhuic.
Bheireadh creideamh a's reusan
Oirn òiridh mar b' àbhaist,
Leis an ailleagan cheutach,
'Shliochd éifeachdach Bhàncho;
Mo ghràdh a ghruaidh àluinn,
A dhearsadh orm stuirt.
Thu 'g iomachd gu sùrdail,
Air tùs a bhataill,
Cha fhrosainn an driùchda,
'S mi dlù air do shàilean;
Mi eadar an talamh
'S an t-adhar a seòladh,
Air iteig le aighear,
Misg-chath, agus shòlais;
'S caismeachd phìob' mòra,
Bras-shròiceadh am puirt.

O 'n eibhinneachd ghòrmhor,
An t-sòlais a b' airde!
G' ar lìonadh do spionnadh,
Air sliinneibh Thearlaich,
Gu 'n calcadh tu àrdan
An càileachd ar cuirp;
Do làthaireachd mhòr-chuiseach,
Dh-fhògradh gach fàillinn,
Gu 'n tiuntadh tu feòdar
Gach feola gu stàilinn,
'Nuair sheal'maid gu sunndach,
Air fabhra do rùisg.
Gu gnùis torrach de chruadal,
De dh' uaisle, 's de nàire,
Nach taisgheadh fuathas,
Ro' luaidhe do nàmhaid;
'S mar deanadh fir Shasuinn
Do mhealladh, 's do thrèigsinn,
Bhiodh an crùn air a spalpadh,
Le d' thapadh air Séurlas,
A dh-aindeoin na béist'.
Leis an d' érich na h-uile.

Gu 'm b' fhoirmeil leam tòrman
Na 'n òrghanan àluinn!
'S tein'-éibhinn a lasadh
Gu bras-gheal air sràidibh!
'S na croisibh ri h àrd-ghaoir,
Mhòir Thearlaich ar Prionns'!

Gach uinneag le foineal
A boisgeadh le dearsadh,
Le solus nan coillean,
'S deas mhaighdeann d'an smàladh;
'S gach ni mar a b' araidh.
'G cuir fàilt' air le puimp!
Na canoin ri bùirich,
'S iad a' stùradh an fhàillidh,
A' cuir crith air gach dùthaich
Le muiseag nan Gàel;
Agus sinne gu lù'-chleasach,
Mùirneach lan àrdain,
Am marsail gu mìùinte,
Ard-shundach m' a shailean—
'S gann bha cudrom 's gach fear dhuinn,
Trì chairsteil a phuinnt!

MO BHOBUG AN DRAM.

AIR FÓN—“The bucket you want.”

LUNNEAG.

*Ho rò mo bhobug an dràm,
Hò rì mo bhobug an dràm,
Hò rò mo bhobug an dràm,
'S e chuireadh an sòdan na m' cheann.**

FHEARABH ta'r suidhe ma 'n bhòrd,
Le 'r glaineachan cridheil n-'ar dòrn,
Na leanamaid ruidhinn air òl,
Ma mill sinn ar bruidhinn le bòl.
Ho ro mo, &c.

Na tostachan sigeanta fial,
'Ga'n aiseag gu ruige mo bhial;
Bu mhìreagach stuigeadh, a's triall,
Am màrsal le ciogailt tro' m' chliabh.
Ho ro mo, &c.

* The above chorus is not by Macdonald—it belongs to an old Uist song. Here are two stanzas of the original:—

Cha téid mi'n taigh-dèd' tha sud thall,
Cha'n fliach an sinéabhar a th' ann,
Ge d' olainn am buideal le srann,
Gu'n giùlan mo cholainn mo cheann.
Ho rò mo, &c.

Thuir cailleach cho libeasd' sa bh' ann,
'Nuair fhuair i blas air an dràm:—
“O! tairnibh 'ur casan a chlan,
'S their mise mo char air an damhs'.”
Ho rò mo, &c.

'S tu chuireadh an cuireid' san t-sluagh,
'N am cogaidh ri adainn nan ruag,
Gun olamaid sgaile dhiot gu luath,
Ma sguidseamaid slacain a truaill'.

Ho ro mo, &c.

'S tu dh' fhagadh sinn tapaidh sau t'òir,
'N am tarrainn nan glas-lann ri sròin,
'Nuair thilgte na breacain de 'n t-slògh,
'S á truaill, bheirt a mach claidhe mòr.

Ho ro mo, &c.

Ge tu mo leannan glan ùr,
Cha phòg mi gu dìliun thu 'n cùil;
Ach phògaim, a's dheadhlainn thu rùin,
Nuair thig thu 's Jacobus na d' ghnùis:

Ho ro mo, &c.

An t-ainm sin is fearr ata ann,
Ainm Sheumais a chuir air do cheann;
'S e thogadh an sògan fo m' chainnt,
'S a dh-fhagadh gu blasda mo dhràm.

Ho ro mo, &c.

Fadamaid teine beag shìos,
Na lauraichean ciuin a ni grios,
A gharas ar claigeann 's ar crì',
'Sa dh-fhògras ar n'airteal, 's ar sgìos.

Ho ro mo, &c.

Gur tu mo ghlaineag ghlan lom,
Mo leannan is cannaiche fonn;
Ged rinneadh thu dh' fheamain nan tonn,
Gur mòr tha do cheanal na d' chòm.

Ho ro mo, &c.

O fair a ghaoil channaich do phòg,
Leig clannadh d' a t-anail fo' m' sbròin,
Gur cubhraidh leam fannal do bheoil,
No tùis agus mire na h-Eòrp.

Ho ro mo, &c.

O aisig a ghlaime do phòg!
Cuir speirid n' ar teagaidh gu ceòl;
An òc-shlainte bheannaichte chòir,
A leasaicheas cnàmhan a's feoil!

Ho ro mo, &c.

M A R B H R A N N

DO PHEATA CALUMAN, A MHARBHADH LE ABHAG.

'S tùrsach mo sgeul ri luaidh,
'S gun chàch gha d' chaoidh,
Ma bhàs an fhir bu leanabail' tuar,
'S dà mheanbh ga chaoidh.

'S oil leam bàs a Choluim chaoimh,
Nach b' anagrach gnàs,
A thuiteam le madadh d'a 'm bèus,
Dòran nan càrn.

'S tu 's truagh linn de bhàs nan ian;
Mo chràdh nach beò,

Fhir a b' iteagach, miotagach triall,
Ge bu mheirbh do threbir;

B' fheumail' do Noah na càch,
'N am bhàrcadh nan stuadh,

Ba tu 'n teachdair' gun seacharan d' à,
'Nuair thraigh an cuan;

A dh' idreachdainn do dh-fhalbh an tuil,
Litir gach fear;

Dùghall is Colum gu'n chuir
Deagh Noah thar lear;

Ach chaidh Dùghall air seacharan cuain,
'S cha do phill e riamh;

Ach phill Colum le iteagach luath,
'S a fhreagra na bhial.

Air thùs, cha d' fhuair e ionad d' a bhonn
An seasadh e ann,

Gus do thiormaich dìle nan tonn,
Thar mullach nam beann;

'S an sin, a litir-san leugh an duine bha glic,
Gu 'n thiormaich a bhaile,

'S gu'm faigheadh a mhuirichinn, cobhair na'n
Agus fuasgladh na 'n aire, [teirc,

Le neart cha spùilte do nead,
Ge do thigte dha d' shlad;

Bhiodh do chaisteal fo bhearradh nan creag,
Ann an dainghnichibh rag;

Bha do mhodh sìolach air leath' bho chàch,
Cha togradh tu suas,

Ach a durraghail an taca ri d' ghràdh,
'S a cuir eagair 'n a cluais.

Cha do chuir thu duil ann airgead no spréidh,
No fèisd am biodh sùgh,

Ach spìoladh, a's criomadh an t-sìl le d' bhèul;
'S ag òl a bhùirn;

Aodach, no anart, sìoda, no sròl,
Cha cheannalcheadh tu 'm bùth;

Bhiodh t-éideadh de mhìn-iteacha gorm,
Air nach drùidheadh an driùchd;

Cha do ghabh thu riamh paidir no creud,
A ghuidh nan dùl;

Giheadh, cha 'n eil t-anam am péin
O chaidh tu 'null,

Cha 'n e gun chiste no anart
Bhi comhdach do chrè,

Fo lic anns an ùir,

Tha mise ge cruaidh e, 'g acain gu léir,
Ach do thuitean le cù.

Note.—This is the best of his smaller pieces, although it contains more of sparkling conceit than tenderness or pathos. It is probable that it was composed before he became a member of the Church of Rome, as he says that the pigeon never repeated paternoster or creed.

A CHAIM-BEULAICH DHUIBH.

GE beag ort's an Caim-beulach dubh,
Gur toigh leams' an Caim-beulach dubh ;
Biodh e dubh, no geal, no gris-fhionn,
Gràdh mo chri-s' an Caim-beulach dubh.
Ge h-ainnisgeach air an t-seòrs' thu,
Na 'm b' aithne dhomsa do phòrsa,
Chuirinn moran fios do 'n dò-bheirt,
'N an dubh dh'èintibh fhòtusach, tiugh.

'Suilean cuirpt' bh' ann an droch chrùth,
A fhuair oibheim do 'n fhear gheal-dhubh,
Do 'n dream oirdheirc 's foirmeile fuil ;
'S duilich tolg a chuir 'n a chruaidh stuth.
'S tric le madraidh bhì ri dealunn,
An òidheche reòt' ris a' ghealach ;
B' ionann sin, 's eifeachd t-ealaidh,
Air clùd geal a Chaim-beulaich dhuibh.

'S cà mar fhuair thu dh' aodann no ghnuis,
Caineadh uasail gun mhodh, gun tìus ?
Fhior dhearc-luachrach chinnich a lus ;
Ma t-aoir bhacaisich tachdam thu bhruic.
Sgiùrsaidh mi gu gu 'm bi thu marbh thu ;
Cha bhì ach mo theang' de dh'arm riut ;
A rag-mheirlich, bhraidaich, a gharbhlaich,
'Sioma gharbh-mhart dh'fheann thu le d' chuic.

Do'n t-sìol chruithneachd chuireadh gu tiugh ;
Cha b' e 'n fhèdag, no 'n coirce dubh,
Ach por prìseil, 's ro sgaoilteach cur,
Feadh gach rioghachd air tìr, 's air muir.
Gur iongantach leam, a dhuine,
Mar robh mearan ort air tuinneadh,
Cìod man do bhui tu do 'n urr' ad ;
Curaidh ullamh, 's cuireideach fuil ?

Dream nan geur-lann gu reubadh cuirp,
Cruaidh 'g a feachainn air beulamh trùp ;
S' math 's is gleust' iad gu bualadh phluic,
'N an retrèatd' dh' éibheach le stuir.
Cha "bhreac breun-join" idir Caillean,
Ach do dh' fhion-fhuil ard Mhic-Caillein ;
Teughlach ùiseil Iarla-Bhealajch ;
'S buadbach caithream ri uchd an truid !

'S cinnteach thiotadh gheibh thu do mhurt,
Ma t-aoir chiotaich, mhiosguinnich ehurt ;
Ge do dh' eirich gu robh ort stuir,
Bi'dh a bhiodag ridleadh do chuirp.
Claigeann gun eanachainn, gun mheadrach,
Sa faodadh na h-ìolairan neadadh ;
Cia mar fhuair thu ghnùis do sgiodar,
Ghluasad idir an ionad puirt ?

Eisg bhochd, chearbaich, seargaidh mi tur,
Do theanga chealgach a chearbaire dhuibh,
Rinn an t-searbhag gun chair' a muigh ;
Asad dh' earbinn "cealgairiachd cruidh."
Cha fhior-ragair ge d' bhiodh fearg air
Do 'n d' rinn thus' a dhuin' an t-searbhag ;
Ach òg faighidneach gun earra-ghloir ;
Lan do dh' fearra-ghnìomb, dhearbh e le ghuin.

Bha thu mi-mhoil a toirt dh'a guth ;
Cràg a chobhair gu màgradh gruth ;
Leòbas odhar a ghlainseadh suth,
Deis dh'a leaghadh, 's e ruidh na shruth.
Cha bu bheudagan gu sàbaid
Ach fìor leoghann stolda, staidheil,
Do 'n d' rinn us' an t-oran pràbach ;
Ach fìor ghaisgeach ; 's am blàr 'ga chur.

Sparram cinnteach ort a ghlas-ghuib ;
Losgadh peircill, corcadh, a's cuip
Air son ascaoin chealgach do bhuis ;
B' f'hear gu 'm bithinn-sa fagasg dhut.
Ge do bhiodh tu caineadh ghàèl,
Anns gach siorramachd a dh' àirinn,
Seachainn muinntir Earra-ghàèl,
'S gun a Chebraidh fabharach dhut.

'S mairg a dh' èireadh ri sìol an tuirc,
Gasraidh ghleusda nach èaradh cluich ;
Cha bu bhèus dhaibh bhì ris a' mhurt,
Ach cath trèun, a's cothrom r' an uchd'.
Ge beag ort-sa mìle cuairt e,
'S ioma sonn aigeantach ullach,
Eadar Asainn, 's Cluaigh nan luath-long,
A 's trom luaigh air Caim-beulach dubh.

Suil na seòca, 's ro bheòchail cur,
An ceann rò-bhìun nam bachalag dubh ;
Cha b' i "fròg-shuil, rògair" a chruidh ;"
Fìor fhiamh seoid air còr ann an sult.
'S geal 's a's dearg do leac, a's t-aogas,
Ge thubhuirt iad "peirceall caol riut ;"
Cha b' ionann as sligeas-gaoisneach,
'S fiasag-p*-laoigh ort nach eil tiugh.

'S ge d'reachadh tu 's na spèuraibh
Chum a Chaim-beulach dhuibh éisgeadh,
Tuitidh tusa mar a bhéisteag,
'N a t-ionad féin am buachar mairt.
Thusa bhreinen, magaran cac ;
E-san ghlè-ghlan lomlan do thlachd ;
Thus a dhéistinn 's muig ort air àt,
Mar bu bhéus do dhòran no chàt.

Aodann craineig, fharr-aodann tuirc ;
Com a chnaimh-fhì'ch, 's nadur na muic ;
Beul mhic-lamhaich, 's fáilleadh a bhruic ;
Spàgan clàrach ; sailean nan cùsp'.

De dh' òrliechan aoiridh bàrdail,
Toiseam o d' bhathais, gu d' shàil thu ;
'S feannam do leathar a thràill dhìot,
Chioun gu'n chàin' thu'n Caim-beulach dubh.

Cha 'n fhear sgìpi thus' ach fìor ghlug ;
'S beairt gun teagamh bi'dh tu fo bhruid ;
T-iasag failidh, t-flhalt, a's do ruisg ;
T'uitidh t-fhiaclan 's falbhaidh do thuigs'.
'S coltach nach b' aithne dhut mise,
'Nuair a bba mì so gun fhios dut ;
Na 'n b' eol, cha ghlacadh tu mhiseach,
Ròine riobadh as an fhear dhubh.

Note.—The Black Campbell was a cattle-lifter, and stole some cows from M'Lean of Lochbuy. For this M'Lean's àireach, or herdsman, composed the satire. At the end of the song he calls on all the bards to join him in lashing the thief. When M'Donald heard this he composed his song in praise of Campbell and against the satirist—without any cause of love or hatred to either party. It is only an exercise of his wit ; but it shows his usual talents and powers of invention, and felicity of language. After that the herdsman composed a very severe satire on M'Donald himself. We give a few verses of the satire on Campbell as a specimen :—

“ An Caim-beulach dubh á Cinn-tàile,
Iar-ogh' mhortair 's ogha 'mbeirlich ;
Am Braid-Alban fhuair e àrach,
Sìol na ceilge 's meirleach a chruidh.
'S obhar, ciar, an Caim-beulach dubh,
'S oilleil, fiadhaich, amharc sa' chruth ;
'S lachdan liath-ghlas, dubh cha'n fhiach e ;
'S fear gu'n mhiadh an Caim-beulach dubh !

“ Cuiream tuath e, cuiream deas e,
Cuiream siar e, cuiream sear e ;
Cuiream fios gu bàird gach fearainn,
Gus an caill e 'n craiceann na shruth.”
'S obhar, ciar, &c.

IAIN MAC CODRUM.

JOHN M'CODRUM,* the North Uist bard, commonly called Iain Mac Fhearchuir, was contemporary with the celebrated Alexander M'Donald. He was bard to Sir James Macdonald, who died at Rome. The occasion of his obtaining this situation was as follows:—He made a satirical piece on all the tailors of the Long Island, at which they were so exasperated that they would not work for him on any account. One consequence of this was, that John soon became a literal tatterdemalion. Sir James meeting him one day, inquired the reason of his being thus clad. John explained. Sir James desired him to repeat the verses—which he did ; and the piece was so much to Sir James's liking, that John was forthwith promoted to be his bard, and obtained free lands on his estate in North Uist. In a letter from Sir James Macdonald to Dr Blair of Edinburgh, relating to the poems of Ossian, dated Isle of Skye, 10th October, 1763, we find Sir James speaking as follows of Mac Codrum:—"The few bards that are left among us, repeat only detached pieces of these poems. I have often heard and understood them, particularly from one man called John Mac Codrum, who lives on my estate, in North Uist. I have heard him repeat, for hours together, poems which seemed to me to be the same with Macpherson's translations."

The first of M'Codrum's compositions was a severe and scurrilous satire. Being young, and unnoticed, he was neglected to be invited to a wedding to which he considered he had as good a right to be bidden as others. He was very indignant, and gave vent to his feelings in the most severe invectives. He had the prudence to conceal his name. The wedding party being minutely characterized, several of them lampooned, and held up to derision, the poem gave great offence to some of those concerned. Although the author was concealed, the satire could not be suppressed. Several individuals were suspected, while the real author enjoyed the pleasure of knowing himself to be at the same time a person of some consideration, and amply revenged for the neglect of those who should have acknowledged it. His father only knew him to be the author. He was alone about the farm: John was in the barn, whither his parent went, as he could hear no one thrashing; but, on approaching nearer, he heard his son rehearsing his poem. He admonished him to attend more to his work than to idle songs, and left him, without thinking of the verses he had heard till the fame of the satire was spread abroad, and a noise was made about it throughout the country. The verses then recurred to his mind, and he had no doubt of the real author. He spoke to John most seriously in private. He was himself a pious and a respectable man, and was much affected at the thought that any of his family should disgrace his fair reputation. He was sensible of the ill-will and hatred that John would incur were he known to be the author; and he, moreover, disapproved of the license taken with the characters of individuals. The young poet promised him that he would give him no more occasion of regret on that score; and he kept his word. Respect for his parent's authority restrained him; for he composed no more of the kind while his father lived, nor any so severe afterwards. He must have had great command over himself, as well as submission to the will of a parent. It is no easy task for a young author, while hearing his compositions recited and applauded, not to indicate the interest which he feels. Although unnoticed and unknown, while feeling all the flattering suggestions which popularity must have incited within him, yet a revered parent's authority checked the progress of the young aspirant in the career of fame.

After his father's death, M'Codrum concealed no longer the flame which he had been smothering in his breast. His name became known, and he was acknowledged to be the most famous bard in the Long Island since the time of Neil M'Vurich, the family bard of Clanronald. John M'Codrum was, like most of the bards, indolent. The activity of the body, and the exertion of mental qualities, go not always together. An anecdote will better illustrate this part of his character than any description we can give:—A gentleman sent for his neighbours to assist in draining a lake. The country people assembled in numbers; and, exerting themselves, soon finished the work, much sooner than the poet had expected they would have done: he just came in time to see the last of it. The gentleman was determined to punish him for his sluggish and indifferent behaviour. When he ordered some provisions and a cask of whisky for the people, he told them to sit down, and called on the poet to act as chaplain, and ask a blessing. The bard was not regarded as a man of grace. All were attentive, thinking him for once out of place. He, however, spoke in a most reverential manner—his grace was brief and pithy, couched in verse, and was longer remembered than the sumptuous repast.* While he expressed gratitude to the bestower of all good gifts, he turned the operations of the day into ridicule.

When Mr M'Pherson was collecting "Ossian's Poems," he landed at Lochmady, and proceeded across the moor to Benbecula, the seat of the younger Clanronald. On his way thither he fell in with a man, whom he afterwards ascertained to have been Mac Codrum, the poet: M'Pherson asked him the question, "Am beil dad agad air an Fhéinn?" by which he meant to inquire whether or not he knew any of the poems of Ossian relative to the Fingalians, but that the terms in which the question was asked, strictly imported whether or not the Fingalians owed him anything, and Mac Codrum, being a man of humour, took advantage of the incorrectness or inelegance of the Gaelic in which the question was put, answered as follows:—Cha'n eil, is ged do bhitheadh cha ruiginn a leas iarraidh nis, i.e. No; and should I, it is long since proscribed; which sally of Mac Codrum's wit seemed to have hurt M'Pherson's feelings, for he cut short the conversation and proceeded to Benbecula.

We will not attempt to select any parts of the poems of this author. All indicate the master-hand of the performer. One trait is striking in his character as a poet—his disposition to satire. He is perhaps the first satirist of the modern Gaelic poets. M'Donald and M'Intyre attacked like men determined to take a stronghold by open force, in defiance of all resistance: Mac Codrum held up the object of his animadversion in a light that exposed him to ridicule and contempt, and he made others his judges.

His fame as a poet and wit soon spread, and so delighted Alexander M'Donald that he determined to visit him. On meeting Mac Codrum a few yards from his own door, the visitor, naturally enough, inquired "An aithne dhut Iain Mac Codrum?" "'S aithne gu ro mhath," replied John. "Am beil fhios agad am bheil e 'stigh?" was M'Donald's next question, to which the facetious bard answered with an arch smile, "Mu ta bha e 'stigh nuair a bha mise 's cha drinn mi ach tighinn amach." M'Donald, yet ignorant that he was speaking to the individual about whom he was inquiring, proceeded to say, "Caithidh mi' n oidhche nochd mar-ris, ma's àbhaist aoidhean a bhi aiga." "Tha mi creidsin," replied the witty John, "nach bi e falamh dhiù sin cuideachd mu bhios na cearcan a breith (uibhean)."*

In purity and elegance of language Mac Codrum comes nearest to Macdonald, who appears to have been his model. Some of his pieces appear to us as servile copies of great originals. When he chooses to think and compose for himself, he appears to more advantage; witty, ingenuous, and original. His satire on "Donald Bain'e Baggpipe" is a masterpiece of its kind; full of wit and humour, without the filth and servility that disgrace the satires of Macdonald and other Keltic poets. His poems on "Old Age" and "Whiskey" are excellent. They first appeared in Macdonald's volume, without the author's name; but Mac Codrum's countrymen have claimed them for him. He never published any thing of his own, and many of his poems are now lost. In his days the only poets who ventured to send their works to the press were Macdonald and Macintyre; and, it is probable, that their great fame prevented our author from entering the lists with such formidable competitors.

* Mac Codrum's skill in the Gaelic was exquisite, and he was in the practice of playing on words of doubtful or double meaning, when used by others. He was once on a voyage, and the boat put into Tobermory, in the island of Mull, when the inhabitants, as usual, gathered on the shore to learn from whence the strangers came. One of them asked the crew, "Cia as a thug sibh an t-icmradh?" "As na gairdeanan," answered the bard. Another asked, "An ann bho thuath a hainig' sibh?" to which Mac Codrum again rejoined, "pàirt bho thuath a's pàirt bho thighearnan."

"Co's aithe air a bhàta?"—"an crann." "Cos toisim ich?"—"ann ball toiscach." "Co tha ga riagadh?"—"an shìon."

 Leis 'm bu chèl leadurra,
 Feadannan spàineach,
 Luchd dheiseachan màdair
 Bhi cràidht' air droch dhiol.

Nan cluinnt' ann an Muile
 Mar dh-fhàg thu Clann-Duili,
 Cha b'fhuillear leo t-fhuil
 Bhi air mulach do chinn.
 'S i bu ghreadanta dealachainn
 Air deas làimh na h-armachd;
 A' breabadh nan garbh-phort,
 Bu shearbh a dol sìos.
 Creach nach gann, sibh gun cheann,
 Fo bhruid theann Sheòrais;
 Luchd nam beul fiara
 'Gar pianadh 's 'gar fùgradh;
 Rinn iad le foirneart
 Bhur còir a bhain dith.

Cha tug thu taing idir
 Do bhriogardaich Thearlaich,
 Mach o fhear bhàile
 Bhi ghn' air a thì.
 Mhol thu ' chorr' ghliogach
 Nach dligeadh de bhàidse,
 Ach deannan beag gràin,
 No màm de dhroch shìl.
 Shaoil thu suas maoin gun ghruaim,
 Craobh nam buadh ceòlthor,
 Chuireadh fonn fo na creagan
 Le breabadaich mheoirean;
 'S nach fuiligeadh òdrchain!
 A thogail a cinn.

Cha'n fhaigh a' chùis-bhùirt ud
 Talla 'm bi mùirn,

Ach àth air a mùchadh
Le dùdan 's le sùith.
Cha bhì cathair aig Dòmhnall
'S cha 'n éirich e còrnard,
Ach suidh' air an t-sòrn
Agus sòpag ri dhruim.
Plàigh bloigh phuirt, gàir dhroch dhuis,
Fàileadh cuirp bhreòite ;
Ceòl tha cho sgreadaidh
Ri sgreadail nan ròcus,
No iseanan òga
Bhiodh leòinte chion bìdh.

Nach gasta chùis-bhùrt'
A bhì cneatraich air ùrlar
Gun phronnadh air lùtha
Gun siubhlaichean grin,an,
A' sparradh od-ròch-ain
A'n earball od-ròch-ain!
A' sparradh od-ròch-ain
An tòn òd-ro-bhì.

Nach dìonaich na meoirean,
Nach tuigear air dòigh
Ach "òth-hebin" 's "òth-hì!"

Diùdhadh nam fùidhidh

Bha i tamull fo 'n uisge

Thachair dh'i cnàmhadh
Fo uisge 's fo gaoith.
Thàinig smug agus dus

Ach leigeidh mi' chluinntinn
Gu'n phill mi Mac-Phàil.

A' C H O M H - S T R I.

Gur h-e dhùisg mo sheanchas domh
Cùis mu'm beil mi dearmalach,
Gach Turcach 's gach Gearmailteach,
Gach Frangach 'an rùn marbhaidh dhuinn;

Tha mo dhùil 's gur firinneach,
Gach muiseag tha mi cluinntinn deth,
Nach dean iad unnsa dhireadh oirn,
S nach buinig iad na h-Iunsean oirn,
Gu 'n sguir iad far 'n do dh-inntrig iad.

On chaidh na h-airm 'an tasgaidh oirn,
Ge tric a' ghairm gu faigh sinn iad,
Nach foghnadh claidhean maide dhuinn
Gu seasamh a' chrùn shasunnaich,
Mar thug an diùc a dh'fhasan duinn?

Ge morghalach rìgh Phrùisia
'S na rìghrean mòr tha 'n trioblaid ris,
'S co neònach leams' am Frisealach,
'S am Bàideanach le measrachadh,

Bha mise uair 's gu'm faca mi
Nach creidiun bhuaithe facal deth,
Nach bithinn suas 'nuair thachradh e,
A liughad gruag a's bagaisde,
Bha fuasgladh anns an t-sabaid ud.

'Nuair dh-inntrigeadh an ascaoinis,
Is àrd a chluinnte 'm Pabaidd iad;
Fhreagair coill a's clachan daibh;
Cha bhiodh bean 'an àite faicinn daibh,
Iad féin 's mac-talla bàs-bhuailadh.

'Nuair bhiodh iad sgi' 's na tagraichean,
'Se crìochnacha ' bhiodh aca-san,
A'g iarraidh iasad bhatachan,
Gach tuairisgeul ri chlaistinn ann,
Nach cualas riamh o bhaisdeadh sinn.

Gur maireg a bhiodh 'san ùbaraid
'Nuair ghabhadh iad gu tùirneileis.
Bhiodh fàsghadh air na sùilean ann;
Bu lìomhor duirn a's glùinean ann;
A's breaban cha bhiodh cùmhn' orra,

Bhiodh spuaicean air an cnapadh ann.

'Nuair thuiteadh iad gu mì-cheutaiddh,
Bhiodh rùsgadh leis na h-inean ann;

Bu mhath na h-airm na bodchrannan;
Bu sgiobailt iad an àm bogsaigeadh;
Cha bhriseadh e na cogaisean.

'S ann do 'n tìr bu shamhach so;
Bu shòlas inntinn bàilli e;
Bu lìomhor fear gu'n àiteach' ann,

Bha Uidhist air a nàrachadh.
Bha Iutharu air a fàsachadh.
Le guidheachan na càraid ud
Bha sòlas air an àbhairsear.
Bu neònach leis nach tàinig iad.

Cluinnidh Mac-Cuinn an toiseach e.
Cluinnidh a ris an Dotor e,
Mar chrìochnaichear na portaibh ud.
Cha taig e làn a' chopain domh,
Gu 'm bàraig e dà bhotul rium.

Innsidh mi do dh-Uisdean e,
D'fhear Bhàile páirt do'n t-sùgradh, ud,
Do'n Bhàili thair an dùthaich e;
Air chàch cha dean mi cùmhnadh air,
Bheir iad bàidse a's dùrachd dhomh.

DO SHIR SEUMAS MAC-DHOMHNUL SHLEIBHTE.

Aia tuiteam a' m' chadal
A nis o cheann fada
Gu'n thachair dhomh acaid

Tha àmhgharach ciùrrta.
Cha bhi mi 'ga mùchadh,
Gu rùisg mi os aird i.
Ach Dia bhi 'ga chòmhnadh
'S a riaghladh a ròidean!
An tì 'm beil mo dhùchas
Fo chòmhnadh an Ard-rìgh,

Gu'n do bhui an t-eug dhinn e,
Ar mi-fhortan làidir!
Fhir a chunnaic ar cruadal,
Leig umainn am fuaradh,

Bi thusa 'na d' bhuachaill
Air na fhuair sinn 'na àite.
Cuir dhachaidh Sir Seumas
Gun aiceid, gun éislean,
Gu chuideachda féin;

Chrìosda, gléidh dhùinne
Ar buachaille cliuiteach,
Ar n-uachdaran dùthcha;
Tha chùram an dràs d'oirn.

Ar déirce ga nasgadh,

Ar connspunna féile
A dheònaich Mac Dhé dhuinn
Gu còir chur air stéidhe,

Gur h-innealt' an connspunn

Nan sineadh e 'n gàirdean.

Mo rùn an sàr ghaisgeach,

 'Na lasair gun smàladh.
 A bhuaileadh a' chollaíd
 Mu 'n chluain air an cromadh iad
 A ghluaiseadh neo-shomalt'
 An coinneamh an nàmhaid
 Le spàintichean loma,
 Le mosgaidean tromha,
 Le fùdar caol meallach
 'N àm teannadh ri làmhach.

Ge fad a bha 'n acad

 Cuiridh mi airtaeal
 Air fuadach gu chairtealan,
 Nuair chuireas Dia dhachaidh
 Na dh-aisig mo shlàinte.
 Moladh dha 'n léigh
 A dh-fhàg fallain mo chreuchdan,

 Ach tòiseachadh cearr air!
 Buinidh dha 'n òigear

 Gu h-aigeantach stàdail.

Note.—The poet laments the untimely death of five or six of the M'Donalds of Slate. Sir Alexander died, a young man, in 1746; and his son, the amiable and accomplished Sir James, died at Rome in 1766, aged 25. This family prudently avoided committing themselves in the rebellion of 1745; but the bard appears to have been a thorough Jacobite.

MOLADH CHLANN-DOMHNUILL.

AIA FONN—"Oran a ghunna da' b' ainm an spàinteach."

TAPADH leat, a Dho'll 'Ic-Fhionnlaidh,
Dhùisg thu mi le pàirt de d' chomhradh.
Air bheagan eòlais san dùthaich,
Tha cunntas gur gille còir thu.
Chuir thu do chomaine romhad,
'S feairde do ghnothach an còmhnuidh
'S cinnteach gar a leat ar bàidse :
S leat ar cairdeas 'm fad a's beò thu.

Mhol thu ar daoine 's ar fearann,
Ar mnaithean baile, 's bu chòir dhut.
Cha d'rinn thu di-chuimhn' no mearachd ;
Mhol thu gach sean is gach òg dhiubh.
Mhol thu 'n uaislean, mhol thu 'n islean.
Dh-fhag thu shìos air an aon dèigh iad.
Na bheil de 'n ealain ri chluinntinn,
Cha chion dicheil a dh-fhag sgòd oirr'.

Teannadh ri moladh ar daoine,
Cha robh e saoirbheach air aon dèigh ;
An gleus, 'an guisge 's an tèbmachd,
Air aon aobhàr thig 'nan còdhail
Nochdadh an eudann ri gradan
Cha robh gaisendh anns a' phèr ud,
Chìù a's pailteas, mais' a's tàbhachd ;
Cìod e 'n càs nach faight' air chòir iad ?

Cha bu mhist' thu mise laimh riut,
'An am a bhì 'g aireamh nan connspunn,
Gu inns' am maisè 's an uaisle,
An guisge 's an cruadal 'n am togbhail.
B'iad sud na fir a bha fearail
'Philleadh an-seasgair 'an tòireachd,
'S a dh'fhagadh salach an araich
Nam fanadh an nàmhaid ri 'n còmhrag.

Ach nam faicheadh tu na fir ud
Ri uchd teine 's iad 'an òrdugh,
Coslas fadhaich a dol sìos orr',
Falbh gu dian air bheagan stòldachd ;

Claidheamh ruisgt 'an laimh gach aon fhir,
Fearg 'uan aodann 's faobhar gleois orr',
Iad cho nimheil ris an iolair.
'S iad cho frioghail ris na leùghainn.

Cha mhòr a thionnal nan daoine' ud
Bha ri fhaotainn san Roinn Eòrpa.
Bha iad fearrail 'an am caonnaig,
Gu fuileach, faobharrach, stròiceach.
Nam faigheadh tu iad 'an gliocas
Mar bha 'm misneach a's am mòrchuis,
C' ait' am feudadh tu aireamh,
Aon chinne' b'fhearr na Clann-Dòmhnúill.

Bha iad treubhach, fearail, foinnidh,
Gu neo-lomara mu 'n stòras.
Bha iad cunbhalach 'nan gealladh,
Gun fheall, gun charachd, gun ròidean.
Ge de dh-iarra na sinnsir,
O mhullach an cinn gu 'm brògan,
'N donas cron a bha ri inns' orr',
Ach an rìogbalachd mar sheòrsa.

Ach ma mhol thu ar daoine' uaisle,
C'uim nach de luaidh thu Mac-Dhòmhnúill ?
Aon Mhac Dhé bhì air 'na bhuaichail'
G'a ghleidheadh buan duinn 'na bheò-shlaintè!
On 's curaidh a choisneas buaidh e,
Leanas ri dhualchas 'an còmhnuidh,
Nach deachaidh neach riamh 'na thuasaid
Rinn dad buannachd air an comh-strì.

C'ait an dh-fhag thu Mac 'Ic-Ailein
'Nuair a thionnail e mhòr-shluagh,
Na fir chrodha bu mhòr alla,
Ri linn Alasdair 's Mhontròis ?
'S mairg a dhùisgeadh ruinn bhur n-aisith
No thionndadh taobh ascaoin bhur cleòca,
Ge b'e sùil a bhiodh 'gan amharc
Cromadh sìos gu abhainn Lòchaidh.

Ach ma chaidh tu 'nan sealbhaidh,
C'uim nach de sheanchais thu air chòir iad,
Teaghlach uasal Ghlinne-garadh
'S nam fùrain o ghleannaibh Chnoideart.
'S iomadh curaidh laidir uaimhreach
Sheasadh cruaidh 's a bhuaileadh stròicean,
O cheann Loch-Uthairn nam fuar-bheann
Gu bun na Stuidhe am Mòr-thìr.

An dh-fhag thu teaghlach na Ceapaich
'S mòr a' chreach nach 'eil iad còmhsian,
Dh-éireadh leinn suas 'an aisith
Le 'm pìob 's le 'm brataichean sròile.
Mac Iain a Gleanna-Cothan,
Fir chothanta 'n am na comh-strì,
Daoine foinnidh, fearail, fearradha
Rùsgadh arm a's fearg na'n srònan ?

Dh-fhag thu Mac Dhùghail a Lathurn,
(Bu mhuirneach gabhail a chòmhlain,)
Cuide ri uaislean Chinntire,
O'n Roinn Ilich 's mhaol na h-Odha.
Dh-fhag thu Iarl Antrum á Eirinn
Rinn an t-euchd am blàr na Bòine.
'Nuair a dhlùthaicheadh iad ri chéile,
Co chunntadh féich air Claun-Dòmhnuille?

Alba, ge bu mhòr ri inns' e,
Roinn iad i o thuinn gu mòintich.
Fhuair an còir o làimh Chlann-Dòmhnuille,
Fhuair iad a ris an Rùta ;
'S ioma curraí mhòr bha innte
Cunntaidh Antrum ge bu mhòr i.
Sgrios iad as an naimhdean uile,
'S thuit Mac Ghuilbinn san tòireachd.

Bhuinig iad baile 's leth Alba ;
'S e 'n claidheamh a shealbhaich coir dhaibh.
Bhuinig iad latha chath Gairbheach,
Rinn an argumaid a chòmhdach.
Air bheagan cònaidh gu trioblaid
Thug iad am bristeadh a mòran,
Mac' Ill-Iain ann le chuideachd,
'S Lachann cutach Mac-an-Tòisich.

Nan tigeadh feum air Sir Seumas,
Gunn òireadh iad uile còmhlaith
O roinn Ghall-thaobh gu roinn Ile,
Gach fear thug a shinusir còir dhaibh.
Thigeadh Mac-Choinnich á Brathainn,
Mac-Aoidh Strath-Nàbhair 's dìuc Gordon,
Thigeadh Barraich, 's thigeadh Bànaich,
Rothaich a's Sàilich a's Ròsaich.

Ar luchd dàimh 's ar cairdean dileas
Dh-eiridh leinne a sios 'an comb-stri.
Thigeadh uaislean Chloinne-Lean
Mu'n cuairt cho daingheann ri d' chòta,
Iad fo ghruaim 'an uair a' chatha
Cruaidh 'nan lamhan sgathadh feòla,
Tarruinn spàinteach làidir liobhar
Sgoilteadh dìreach cinn gu brògan.

Bhuidheann fhuilteach, glan nan geur-lann,
Thigeadh reiseamid nan Leòdach,
Thigeadh reiseamid nan Niallach
Le loingheas lìonmhor 's le seòltaibh,

'S thigeadh Clann-Reubhair 'an òrdugh.
'Nuair a dhùisgeadh fir na h-Iubhraich,
Co thigeadh air tùs ach Tòmas!!

Note.—There are several hills in the Highlands which still bear the name Tom-na-h-Iubhraich, all haunted by the fairies. One of them is near Strachur, Lochfine side; another near Inverness. According to popular belief, Thomas the Rhymer was captain of the fairy troops.

ORAN DO'N TEASAICH.

AIR FOKN—"Daibhidh gròsgach crom ciar."

'S mise chaill air geall na carachd,
Bha eadar mi-féin sa chailleach,
Gu'n tug i dhìom brìgh mo bharra,

Pailt de dh' fhiasaig gu'n tlachd,

Do chota fàs is e gun lianadh,

Gur pailt liagh dhaibh no lunn,
Cha bhean fiar dhaibh nach lùb.

Bidh do mhuinneal fada, feathach,
'S taisnichean mar chabar cleibhe,
Easgadan glagach gun spéirid,

Glùinean geura gun neart,
'S iad cho ciar ris a chairt,

A bhonaid da uiread sa b'abhast,

Cha be 'n còmpanach caomb,
Dh-fhag cho lom mi 's cho maol,

Bidh tu null sa nall mar chlisnich.
Bi'dh tu d' shiachaire lag,

EACHUNN MAC-LEOID.

EACHUNN MAC-LEOID, or HECTOR M'LEOD, the South Uist bard, lived after the year 1745, on the main land, chiefly in the districts of Arisaig and Morar. He composed and sung as he was moved by those internal powers of which the generality of men appear but little sensible. There are some individuals that appear heavy and destitute of parts, who are possessed of powers which attract the attention and merit the esteem of those who are more intimately acquainted with them: our poet was one of these. What occasioned his removal from the Long Island we know not. It is not unlikely that he was sent hither to watch and give information of what was going on in those troublesome times. He went often to Fort-William, as if doing something of no consequence, while in reality he was hearing all the news of the day, which he related to friends who durst not appear themselves. Shrewd and intelligent, he concealed those talents from strangers, to whom he seemed fooling, which character he could assume as occasion required. As he was frequently going and returning the same way, he was suspected and brought as a spy before the Governor of the Fort: on being examined and interrogated, he acquitted himself so well, under the assumed character, that he was dismissed as a fool.

A's nuallanach gach uile spréidh,
A' geimnich ri chéil' iad fein, 's an cuid àil.

An ceann leath dara mios an t-samhraidh,

 " A ghabhail sgéil a thainig thu."

Mu 's math leat naigheachd a thoirt uam
 Gu maitean Alba gu leir,

 'S chì thu na sluaigh na'n làn fheirg.

Chunna' mi'n fhairge mar choill'
 Le crannaibh loingheis làn ard,
 Le brataichean anasach, ùr,
 Air leam gu'm b'ann as an Spainn.

 A' gluasad air chrith na'm beann àrd'.

 'S e bualadh a sgiathan gu cruaidh,
 A's thuir an duine math sin rium :—
 " Cluinn coileach na h-Airde-tuath."

Chunna' mi tighinn air thùs
 Stiubhartach, cinneadh an rìgh,
 Na'm bòcanan giorraig san léirg,
 'Dhearg an airm le fuil san strì.

Thainig Ciann-Dòmhnúill na'n deigh,
Mar chonaibh confach gun bhiadh,
Na'm beathraichean guineach, geur,
An guailean a chéile gu gníomh.

Air a cheangal ri crann caol,
An robh caisteal, bradan, a's long,

Bha fraoch os ceann sin gu h-ard'
Ceangailt' am barr a chrainn chaoil,
Bha sin ann, a's leoghann dearg,
'S cha b'áite tearmuinn a chraos.

Thàirrneadh na sloigh air sliabh Fife,
An coinneamh ri cath a chur,
Fhuair iad brosnachadh fìor mhear,
Thug eirigh le buirbe na'm fuil :—

“ A Chlannaibh mìlidh mosgailibh,
Is somalta, cian 'ur cadal,
Teannaibh ri dioladh Chuilodair,
Dh-àt na fiachan so fada.
Toisichibh gu h-ardanach,
Gu bras, rioghail, moralach,
Gu mear, leumnach, dearg-chneadhach,
Gu luath-lamhach, treun-bhuilleach.
Gu aigheach, innsinneach,
Gu an-athach, nàmhadach,
Gu mìon-chuimhneach, dioghaltach,
Gu gruamach, fiata, an-tròcaireach.
Gun tearmuinn, gun mhathanas,
Gun ath-thruas, gun bhuigeachas,
Gun innidh, gun eagal,
Gun umhail, gun fhaicill.
Gun fhiamh, gun an-mhisneich,
Gun chùram, gun ghealtachd,
Gun taise, gun fhaiteachas,
Gun saidealtachd, gun uamhann.
Gun eiseamail, gun ùmhlachd,
Gun athadh do nàmhad
Ach a gabhail romhaibh thoirt iubhair
A' cosnadh na cath-laraich.”

Chunnaic mi air leath o chùch
Trì leoghainn a b'fharsuinne craois
Thug iad trì sgairtean cho ard'
'S gu'n sgain creagan aig mead an glaoth.

Bha leoghann dìu sin air chreig ghuirni,
Dha'm b'ainm Iain Muideartach òg,
O'n Chaisteal threan, 's o Bhòrgh,
Deshliochd nan Collaidh bu bhorb colg.

Thog sean leoghann luath a cheann,
'S a chas rioghail an Duntuilm,
Dh'a'm bu shean eireachdas riamh,
Buaidh nan sliabh an càs a chrùinn,

Thainig an treas leoghann diù
O'n choill', 's o gharaidh nam bàrc,
A's dh'ordaich iad pairt dhe'n cuid sluaigh
Dhol a thiolaidheadh nam marbh.

Labhairt.—San an sin a thagh iad oifigich an-diadhaidh; an-trocaireach, an-aobhach, an-athach, an-ìochdmhor. Agus thagh iad cuid-eachd de bhorb, bhrothach, bhodach, dha'm b'airm chosanta spaidean, agus sluasaidean, gu tiolacadh nam marbh, agus gu glanadh na h-àraich. Aonghas amharra á Eigneag—Calum crosda á Gruluinn—Eoghann Iargalta á Crása-bhaig—Dughall Ballach á Gallabaidh—Niall Eangharra á Raimisgearaidh—agus Domhnall Durrgha á Gearas.

Chunna' mì Gleann soileir uam,
An robh eireachdas thar gach glinn,
B'airde cheileirich', cheolmhoir' fuaim,
Glaodhaich nan cuach os a chinn.

Theid fargradh feadh Bhreathuinn gu léir ;
Eirigh gu feachd fìr gu leoir,
Chi sibh na Gàeil a' triall
Le rioghalachd mar bu còir.

Note.—The poet was a stanch Jacobite. In this Ode he describes what he and many others in his day most earnestly desired, and to which they eagerly looked, notwithstanding what they suffered at, and after the battle of Culloden. The bard gives full scope to his imagination; poetically describing scenes which his active fancy draws before him. It was not safe, in his time, to express the real sentiments entertained on a subject so near and dear to the heart, and so full of danger to all concerned. He therefore makes use of the style and metaphors adopted, that the poem might be intelligible to those alone who contemplated the dark events of futurity.

GILLEASPUIG NA CIOTAIG;

OR,

ARCHIBALD M'DONALD, THE UIST COMIC BARD.

WE know little more of this distinguished poet than the following songs contain, one of which was composed to the chief of the clan Cameron, who resided on his estate in Lochaber, when the poet visited that country. Having met with great kindness from the chief, the poet made the only return he could have made, and which was considered no small requittance in those days—he sung his praise. It was a tribute of gratitude. Another was composed to ridicule a vain young man; who, it is still believed, had a better right to the property of Lovat than the person who succeeded to it; but being guilty of murder, was obliged to fly the country. He used to appear in a dress which, in his estimation, completed the gentleman; but in the eyes of others made him ridiculous. Happening to be at a wedding in his full dress, with his hanger, or dirk, dangling at his side in the dance, and buckled shoes, the piper imprudently played the tune “Tha biodag air mac Thòmais,”—a satire composed by our bard to the identical man. He, incensed, drew his dirk, which all supposed he would sheathe in the bag of the piper, but, in his fury, mortally wounded him. He escaped to America, and durst not appear to claim the estate. His other poems remind us of similar pieces by Burns. Men of genius have similar ideas, and make use of the same means to expose such as they observe laying themselves open to ridicule.

* * We omit the poem in praise of Lochiell, as inferior to the bard's humorous pieces. It is in “Stewart's Collection,” page 103.

MARBHRANN DO DH' IAIN RUADH PIOBAIR.

Fhuair mi sgeula bho'n ghobha,
Cha'n aobhar meoghail, ach gruaim,
E-fein fo m'hi-ghean, 's fo thrioblaid,
Ri iarann cist' do dh' Iain Ruadh.*
Saoir a' locaradh, 'sa' sàbhadh,
'S a chulaidh bhàis 'ga cuir suas,
Samhach cadal na corra,
Cha chluinnear tuilleadh a fuaim.

Chaidh na maidean á òrdugh,
Cha'n aithne dhomh-s an cuir suas,
Tha'n gaothair air stòpadh,
Tha'n dà dhòs na'n trom-shuain.

Chaill an seansair a chlaisteachd,
Tha'n gleus air a ghrad leigeadh suas,
O'n tric a thainig ceòl taitneach,
Ragha caismeachd mo chluais.

Ceol bu bhlasd' a's bu bhinne,
'Dhùsgadh spiorad do'n t-sluagh,
Ceol bu tartaraich' siubhal,
Thionndadh tioma gu crnas:
Ceol mar smebrach a ghlinne,
Ceol a's binne na cuach;
Meoir gun bhraise, gun ghiorradh,
Dian ruith-leumnach, lnath.

Bu sgiolta sealleadh do sheansair,
Air port, 's air crunn-luath, 's air cuairt,
Pronnadh cnaparra, lùghmhor,
Caismeachd shuuntach 'san ruaig;

* John M'Quithen, a piper in South Uist. He was a great companion and favourite of the bard. This elegy was composed while the piper was living.

Dheanadh gaisgeach de'n sgliùraich,
Chuireadh diùn-laoch na luaths,
Claidhean glasa 'gan rùsgadh,
Claignean brùit' aig luchd fuath.

'S iomadh aon tha ga' iundrain,
O'n chaidh ùir ort san uaigh ;—
An toiseach labhair an spliùcan,
Bhiodh tu giùlan gach nair.
“ Tha mi féin gun tombaca,
Cha b'e cleachdadh a fhuair,
'S tric chuir lain fo m'aisne,
Greim, a's cairteal, a's cuach.”

Thuir a ghlòin' a bha'n Asdain,
“ Mo sgeul craiteach, ro chruaidh !
Dh-fhalbh mo shùgradh, 's mo mhàran,
Thug am bàs leis lain Ruadh ;
Fear a chluicheadh a chlàrsach,
Dheanadh dàn, agus duan,
Cha b'e Caluinn a chràmpaidh
Fònn a b'fhearr leis 'g a luaidh.”

Thuir am pigidh bha lamh ris,—
“ Faigh an t-àra gu luath,
Cuir am chlaigeann-sa spàirt e,
Tha tart 's gach àite mu'n cuairt.
Thainig con-tràigh na plàighe,
Tha nithe gnàthaichte bhuaninn,
Cha bhì reothart gu bràth ann,
'S ann a thràigheas an cuan.”

Thuir am buideal, 's am botal,
Thuir an gòc ris an stòp,
Thuir an copan, 's an t-slige ;
“ 'S mor an sgrìos th'air tigh'n oirn.
Tha gach sruth air a dhùnadh,
Bha cuir a dh-ionnsaidh nan lòn,
Cha'n fhaighear drap air an ùrlar,
A fhliuchas brù Dhòmhnùill òig.”

O'n dh-fhalbh an còmpanach sàr-mhath,
Dh-fhalbh an ràbhart, 's an spòrs,
Dh-fhalbh beannachd na cloinne,
'S e sheinneadh an ceòl.
Nis o rinneadh do chàradh
'N ciste chlàraich nam bòrd,
'S mor as mist iad am Phàro,
Gun fhear do ghnàs a bhì beò.

Dh-fhalbh an deagh ghille cuideachd,
Nach robh sgrubail san òsd' ;
Dh-fhalbh fear tràghadh nan searrag,
Chosgadh barrachd thar stòp.
Dh-fhalbh fear deanadh nan duanag
Leis an luaighte gach clò,
Cha b'e ghnàs a bhì gearan,
Ge h-ioma glain' thug dha pòg.

'S beag mo shunnt ri lath fòille,
'S beag mo speis dheth gach ceòl,
'S beag mo thlachd dhe bhì 'g eisteachd,
Gaoir theud f'hir nan cròc.
Leam a b'annsa do bhruidhean,
'N àm suidhe mu bhòrd,
Na droch dhreòchdan air fìdhill.
Mar fhuaim snithe an lòin.

Bha thu d' dhamhsair air ùrlar,
Bha thu siubhlach air snàmh ;
Bha thu d' chairiche lùghmhor,
Cha bhiodh tu d' luireich fo chàch.
Urram leum, agus ruithe,
Glac threun a ruitheadh an ràmh,
'San àm caitheadh na cloiche,
Bu leat an toiseach air càch.

Thoir mo shoraidh-sa tharais,
Dh-ionnsuidh 'n fhearainn ud thall ;
O nach faod mi bhì mar rìbh,
'S leibh mo bheannachd san àm.
Biodh an uaigh air a treachladh,
Ann am fasan nach gann ;
Buideal rùm aig a chasan,
'S rol tombac aig a cheann.

Cha'n eil falcag thig o'n tràigh,
Nach cuir thu oarr nan itean d'í.
Thugaibh, &c.

Biodag 's an deach an gath-séirg
Air crios seilg an luidealaich ;
Bha seachd oirlich oirr' a mheirg,
Gur maig an rachadh bruideadh dh'í.
Thugaibh, &c.

A bhiodag 's mios' th' anns an tìr,
'S a beart-chinn air chrith oirre,
Chnàmh a faobhar leis an t-suith,
'S cha ghearr i 'n Ìm na dh'itheadh tu.
Thugaibh, &c.

Claidheamh, agus sgàbard dearg,
S cearbach sud air amadan,
'Ghearradh amhaichean nan sgarbh,
A dh-fhagadh marbh gun anail iad.
Thugaibh, &c.

Cha nè deoch bhainne, na mheig,
'S cinnteach mi rinn ucsa dhìot ;
Ach biadh bu docha leat nan t-Ìm,
Giobainean nan gùgachan.
Thugaibh, &c.

'S iomad farspag rinn thu mbarbhadh,
A's sùlair garbh a rug thu air,
A blianna sin, mu 'n deach thu 'n arm,
Chuir uibhean sgarbh ciòch-shlugain ort.
Thugaibh, &c.

'Nuair théid thu na chreig gu h-ard,
Cluinnear gàir nan iseanan ;
'S mu thig am fulamair a d' dhail,
Sathaidh tu do bhiodag ann.
Thugaibh, &c.

'Nuair a théid thu sa' Chreig-bhàin,
Cha mhòr do stà 'sna sgorrachan ;
Cha tig na h-eunlaidh a'd' dhàil,
Le fàileadh do chuid drogaichean.
Thugaibh, &c.

'Nuair a théid thu air an ròp,
A rìgh bu mhor do cudthrom air ;
Mu thig an cipean a's a ghrund,
Cluinnear plumb 'nuair thuiteas tu.
Thugaibh, &c.

Bu tu theannaicheadh an t-sreang
Cha'n bhí i fann mur bris thu i,
Direadh 's na h-iseanan a d' sgéith,
Air lean gu'n feum thu cuideachadh.
Thugaibh, &c.

Cha mharbh thu urrad ri càch,
Ge leathan laidir mogur thu ;
'S t-àirm cha dian a bheag a stà,
Mur sgrìobar clàr, na praise leo.
Thugaibh, &c.

Note.—Dr M'Leod, the subject of this song, was a native of St. Kilda. He was some time abroad as surgeon to a Highland regiment, and on his return home he used to go about in his full uniform, in which the poet thought he made rather an odd figure.

BANAIS CHIOSTAL-ODHAIR.

LUINNEAG.

*A bhanais a bha'n Cìostal-odhar,
Ann an Cìostal-odhar, odhar,
A bhanais a bha'n Cìostal-odhar,
Cha robh othail chdìr oirre !*

THAINIG fear a staigh ga'm ghriobadh,
Dh-innse gu'n tainig am pigidh,
Fhuaras botul lionadh slige,
Bu bhinn glig a's crònan.
A bhanais, &c.

Thainig fear a nuas le mì-mhodh,
Gu e-féin a chuir an ìre,
Thòisich e air bleith nan inean,
Gu mì-fhìn a sgròbadh.
A bhanais, &c.

Ach labhair mise gu fiadhaich :—
“ Mas e mi-stath tha thu 'g iarraidh,
Gur dòcha gu'n cuir mi'n fbiacail,
Air iochdar do sgròrain ! ”
A bhanais, &c.

Smaointich mi eiridh 'n-am sheasamh,
On bu ghnà leam a bhì 'g eadradh,
Ole na dheigh gu'n d'rinn mi ' leagadh,
'S bhuail mi breab san tòin air.
A bhanais, &c.

'Nuair a chaidh na fir gu riasladh,
Gu'n robh ceathrar dhiu sa ghriosaich ;
Am fear bu laige bha e'n iochdar,
'S thug iad m'irean beò as.
A bhanais, &c.

'Nuair a thoisich iad air bullean,
Cha robh mì-fhìn a' cur cuir dhiom,
Gus na mhùigh iad air mo mhuinneal,
'S air duileasg mo shròine.
A bhanais, &c.

An sin 'nuair a dh' eirich an trioblaid,
Thainig iad far an robh mise,
Thog iad mi mach thun na sítig',
'Theab gu'n ithte beò mi.
A bhanais, &c.

Thug iad a mach thun nan raointean,
Mar gun reachadh cù ri caoirich,
'S am fear nach do sgròb iad aodann,
Bha aodach ga shròiceadh.
A bhanais, &c.

'Nuair thoisich iad air a chéile,
Strádadh na fal' anns na speuran ;
Bha 'mis' an àite gan éisdeachd,
'S gun b' éibhinn an spòrs iad.
A bhanais, &c.

Bhuail iad air a chéile chnagadh,
Leig iad air a chéile shádadh,
Shìn iad air aithris na braide,
'S air cagnadh nan òrdag.
A bhanais, &c.

Fear ri caoineadh, fear ri aighear,
Fear na sheasamh, fear na laidhe,
Fear a pògadh bean-an-taighe,
Fear a gabhail òrain !
A bhanais, &c.

Cha robh ann ach beagan dibhe,
Leig iad a dh-iunnsaidh an cridhe,
Bha fear a's fear aca rithist,
Gun bhruidhinn gun chòmhradh.
A bhanais, &c.

Sin 'nuair a labhair am fìdhleir :—
“ Chuir sibh mo phuirt feadh na fìdhle ;
'S mis am fear gu'n tig an dèilinn,
Nach toir sgrìob air ceòl duibh.”

DUGHALL BOCHANNAN.

DUGALD BUCHANAN was born in the parish of Balquidder, Perthshire, in the year 1716. His father was a small farmer, who also rented a mill. His mother was an excellent and pious woman; but, unfortunately for him, she died when he was only six years old. His father gave him such education as he could afford; and that appears to have been more than was commonly taught at country schools at that time. When he was only twelve years of age, he was sent to teach in another family, where he did not improve in his morals, as he learned to curse and swear. When he was farther advanced in life, he became loose and immoral, associating with bad company, and apparently regardless of the pious example that had been set before him by his mother. When he grew up, he was apprenticed to a house-carpenter in Kippen, where he did not continue long, till he removed to Dumbarton. Here he continued the same course of profane and sinful practice that afterwards caused him much trouble and remorse of conscience during many years, until he at last obtained peace with God, and became a sincere and eminent Christian. He does not appear to have settled long in any place, till the "Society for Propagating Christian Knowledge" appointed him schoolmaster and catechist at Kenloch Ranoch, in the year 1755. In this remote place he laboured with great pains and diligence in his calling during the remainder of his days; and here he composed those hymns which will render his name as lasting as the language in which they are written. Besides the hymns, he wrote a diary, which was published in the year 1836, with a memoir of the author prefixed. From this memoir we shall copy a short abstract of his labours and diligence at Kenloch Ranoch. Although he was not a regular licentiate, he acted as a kind of missionary; and exhorted, preached, catechised, and reproved, till he wrought a great reformation on the people in that district:—"Ranoch is an extensive district, in the parish of Fortingall. It is situated at a great distance from the church, and the clergyman visited it at long intervals. The people, therefore, instead of assembling on Sabbath to worship God, generally met to play at foot-ball. Moved with zeal for the glory of God, and grieved at the sins he witnessed, he zealously set about reforming the people, by convincing them of the sinfulness of their ways. Finding it impossible to bring them together for prayer or exhortation, he would follow them to the scene of their sinful amusements, and there reason with them about death and judgment to come. By the great and disinterested anxiety he manifested for their spiritual welfare, some of them were brought to a better observance of the Sabbath, by uniting with him in the worship of God. The impression made on the minds of those who came to hear him was such, that they persuaded their friends and neighbours to come also, which gradually drew a more numerous attendance. His piety and excellence of character becoming now generally known, the numbers who flocked from all parts to hear him were so great, that the house in which they had hitherto met was insufficient to contain them: he therefore adjourned with the people to a rising ground on the banks of the Ranoch. Nor was he attended by those only among whom he lived, but by many from other remote parts, who were attracted by the fame of his piety. In addressing the people, his meek and gentle spirit led him to dwell most on the loftier motives—the more tender appeals with which the gospel abounds; but, to stubborn and determinate sinners, he was severe in discipline, encountering them with the terrors of the Lord, that he might win them to Christ.”

It is said that Buchanan assisted Mr Stewart of Killin in translating the New Testament into the Scottish Gaelic, and that he corrected the work while passing through the press at Edinburgh, in the year 1766. During his stay there he availed himself of the opportunity of attending the classes for Natural Philosophy, Anatomy, Astronomy, &c., which made a great impression upon his mind, and gave him more extensive views of the omnipotence and wisdom of the Divinity. He was, during either of these years, introduced to the celebrated David Hume the historian, who, having been informed of his excellent character, received him with great affability, and entered very familiarly into conversation with him on various topics.

While discussing the merits of some authors, Mr Hume observed that it was impossible to imagine any thing more sublime than the following lines which he repeated:—

“ The cloud-capt towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself,
Yea, all which it inherits shall dissolve,
And like the baseless fabric of a vision—
Leave not a wreck behind.”

Buchanan at once admitted the beauty and sublimity of the lines, but said that he had a book at home from which he could produce a passage still more sublime, and repeated the following verses:—“ And I saw a great white throne, and him that sat on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away; and there was found no place for them. And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God: and the books were opened; and another book was opened, which is the book of life: and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works. And the sea gave up the dead which were in it; and death and hell delivered up the dead which were in them: and they were judged every man according to their works.”*

He published his “Hymns” about the year 1767. The demand for this little work has continued since, and every year adds to its popularity—a sure proof of its merit. There have been at least fifteen editions of it printed; while of the works of the celebrated bards, Macdonald and Macintyre, there have been only four editions.

Our author continued his useful and pious labours at Ranoch till his death, which happened on the second of June, 1768, when he was seized with fever, which carried him off in the fifty-second year of his age. During his illness he was frequently delirious, and in that state would sing of the "Lamb in the midst of the throne." In his lucid intervals he expressed his full hope in the resurrection of the just, and his desire to depart and be with Christ. The people of Ranoch wished his remains to be buried among them, but his relations carried the body away to their own country, and he was buried in the burying-ground of the Buchanans at Little Lenny, near Callander. In his person he was considerably above the middle size, and rather of a dark complexion, but upon a close inspection his countenance beamed affection and benevolence. Among his intimate acquaintance he was affable, free, jocular and social, and possessed much interesting information and innocent anecdotes, in consequence of which his company was much sought after by all the families in the country. In his dress he was plain and simple, wearing a blue bonnet and a black dress, over which he generally wore a blue great-coat. After his death his widow removed to Ardoch, where she remained till the time of her death. He left two sons and two daughters: one of the latter was alive in 1836.

As a poet, Buchanan ranks in the highest class. Endowed with great power of imagination, and full of moral and religious enthusiasm, his poetry is at once fervid, lofty, and animated; and invariably calculated to promote the cause of religion and virtue. Those distinguishing qualities have rendered him the most popular poet in the language; and we may safely assert, that his popularity will endure as long as the language in which he has written is understood.

"The Day of Judgment" is the most popular poem in the language. It displays great force of imagination, and fixes the mind on the sublime and awful scenes of a world brought to an end, amidst the wreck of elements, and the assemblage of the whole human race to judgment.

"The Scull" is full of good poetry, with appropriate reflections on the vanity of mortal enjoyments. It shows the fierce tyrant and the lowly slave—the haughty chief and the humble tenant—the mighty warrior and the blooming virgin—the mercenary judge and the grasping miser—all reduced to one level, the grave; to feed the lowly worm and the crawling beetle.

"The Dream" contains useful lessons on the vanity of human pursuits, and the unsatisfactory rewards of ambition. The following lines ought to be remembered by every one who envies greatness:—

" Cha 'n 'eil neach o thrioblaid saor,
A' measg a' chinne-daonn' air fad
'S co lionmhor osua aig an rìgh,
Is aig a neach is isle staid."

"The Winter" begins with a vivid description of the effects of that season, and the preparation of men and animals to provide food and shelter. The poet then draws a comparison between the winter and the decline of human life, warning the old man to prepare for his future state, as the husbandman prepares food and fuel for winter—to imitate the prudent foresight of the ant and the bee, and not the idle and improvident fly, dancing joyously in the sunbeams till he perishes by the winter's frost. This excellent poem is deservedly admired as one of the finest specimens of didactic poetry in the Gaelic language.

LATHA' BHREITHEANAIS.

Am feadh 'ta chuid is mo de'n t-saogh'l
Gu'n ghaol do Chrìosd, gu'n sgionn d'a reachd,
Gu'n chreideamh ac' gu'n tig e ris,
'Thoir breith na firinn air gach neach.

An cadal peacaidh 'ta'd nan suain,
A' brúadar pailteas de gach nì :
Gu'n umhail ac'n' uair thig am bàs,
Nach meal iad Pàrras o'n àrd Rìgh.

Le cumhachd t-fhacail Dhé tog suas,
An sluagh chum aithreachais na thrà,
Is beannaich an Dàn so do gach neach,
Bheir seachad éisteachd dha le gràdh.

Mo smuaintean talmhaidh Dhé tog suas,
'S mo theanga fuasgail ann mo bheul ;
A chum gu'n labhrainn mar bu chòir,
Mu ghloir 's mu uabhunn latha Dhé.

Air meadhon oidhch' 'nuair bhios an saogh'l,
Air aomadh tharais ann an suain ;
Grad dhùisgear suas an cinne-daoin',
Le glaoth na trompaid 's airde fuaim.

Air neul ro aird ni fhoillseach' féin,
Ard aingeal treun le trompaid mhoir ;
Is gairmidh air an t-saogh'l gu léir,
Iad a ghrad éiridh chum a mhòid :—

“ O cluinnibhs uile chlann nan daoin,
Nis thainig ceann an t-saogh'l gu beachd ;
Leumaibh 'nar beatha sibhs 'ta marbh,
Oir nis gu dearbh 'ta Ios' air teachd.”

Is seididh e le sgál cho chruaidh,
'S gu 'n cuir e sleibhte 's cuan 'nan ruith ;
Grad chlisgidh na bhios marbh 'san uaigh,
Is na bhios beo le h-uamhunn crith.

Le osaig dhoinionnach a bheil,
An saogh'l so reubaidh e gu garg,
'S mar dhùn an t-seangain dol 'na ghluais,
Grad bhrùchdaidh 'n uaigh a nìos a mairbh.

'N sin cruinnichidh gas cas in lamh,
Chaidh chur san àraich fad o chéil ;
'S bidh farum mor a measg nan cnàmh,
Gach aon diu' dol 'na hite fein.

Mosglaidh na fireanaich an tùs,
Is dùisgear iad gu leir o'n suain,
An anamaibh turlingidh o ghloir,
Ga'n còmh'lachadh aig beul na h-uaigh.

Le eibhneas togaidh iad an ceann,
'Ta àm am fuasglaidh orra dlù ;
Is mar chraoibh-mheas fo iomlan blàth,
Tha dreach an Slànuifheir 'nan gnùis :

Tha obair Spiorad naomh nan gràs
Air glanadh 'n nàduir o 'n taobh steach ;
'S mar thruagan glan 'ta ùmhlachd Chrìosd,
Ga'n deanamh sgiamhach o'n taobh 'mach.

Dùisgear na h-aingidh suas 'n an déigh,
Mar bhéisdibh gairisneach as an t-slochd ;
'S o ifrinn thig an anama truagh ;
Thoir coinneamh uamhasach da 'n corp.

'N sin labhraidh 'n t-anam brònach truagh,
R'a chluinn oillteil, uamhar, bhreun,
“ Mo chlaoidh ! ciod uim' an d'éirich thu
Thoir peanas dùbailt oirn le chéil ?

“ O ! 'n eigin dòmhsa dol aris,
Am prìosan neo-ghlan steach a'd' chré ?
Mo thruaighe mi, gu'n d'aontaich riamh,
Le t-anamianna brùdeil féin !

“ O'm faigh mi dealach' riut gu bràth !
No 'n tig am bàs am feasd a'd' chòir !
'N drùigh teine air do chnaimhean iarain !
No dibh-fheirg Dhé an struidh i t-fhebil !”

Eiridh na rìghrean 'e daoine mòr,
Gun smachd gun òrdugh ann nan làimh ;
'S cha'n aithn'ear iad a measg an t-sluaidh,
O 'n duine through bha ac' na thràill.

'S na daoine uaibhreach leis nach b' fhiù,
Gu 'n ùmhlaicheadh iad féin do Dhia ;
O faic anis iad air an glùn' ;
A' deanamh ùrnuigh ris gach sliabh :—

“ O chreagan tuitibh air ar ceann,
Le sgáirneich ghairbh de chlachan cruaidh,
Is sgriosaibh sinn á tir nam beb,
A chum 's nach faic sinn glóir an Uain.”

Amach ás uamhaidh gabhaidh 'thrial
An diabhol 's a chuid aingle féin,
Ge cruaidh e 's éigin teachd a làth'r,

Mar dhorus seòmair an árd Rìgh,
Is foillsichear am Breitheamh mòr,
Le glóir is greadhnachas gun chrich.

Tha 'm bogha-frois mu'n cuairt da cheann,
'S mar thuil nan gleann tha fuaim a ghuth ;

'S an glóir mar shùilean duine mhairbh.

Air charbad teine suidhidh e,
'S mun cuairt da béucaidh 'n tairneanach,
A' dol le ghairm gu crìoch na nèamh,
'S a'reub nan neul gu doinionnach.

O chuibhlibh 'charbaid thig amach,
Sruth mor de theine laist' le féing ;
Is sgaoilidh 'n tuil' ud air gach taobh,
A' cur an t-saogh'l na lasair dheing.

Leaghaidh na Dùile 'nuas le teas,
Ceart mar a leaghas teine céir ;
Na cnuic 's na sléibhte lasaidh suas,

Na beanntan iargalt nach tug seach,
An stòras riamh de neach d'an deòin,
Ta iad gu fialaidh taosgadh 'mach,

Gach neach bha sgrìobadh cruinn an òir,

Is eum an doinionn ata suas,
O cheithir àirdibh gluaisidh 'ghaoth ;

O Iudas thig a nis a lathair,
'S gach neach rinn bràithreas riut a'd ghnìomh,
An dream a dh'aicheadh creideamh Chrìosd,
Na reic e air son nì nach b'fhiach.

A shluagh gun cìriall thug miann do'n òr,
Roimh ghloir is eibhneas flaitheas Dé,
'Ur malairt ghòrach faicibh nis,
'S an sgrios a thug sibh oirbh féin.

'S a mhuinntir uaibhreach leis 'm bu nàr,

O Herod faic a nis an Rìgh,
D' an tug thu spid is masladh mor,
Ga sgeadachadh le trusgan ruadh,
Mar shuai'neas sgallais air a ghlòir.

Nach faic thu Breitheamh an t-saoghail gu léir,

A' teachd thoirt duais do dhaoine còir,
'S a sgrios luchd dò-bheirt ann am feirg.

Is thusa Philat tog do shuil,
'S gu'm faic thu nis' a mùthadh mòr ;
An creid thu gur h-e sud an Tì
A rinn thu dhiteadh air do mhòd ?

An creid thu gur e-sud an ceann,
Mun d' iath gu teann an sgitheach geur,
Na idir gur i sud a ghnòis,
Air na thig na h-Iùdhaich sìle breun !

'M bu leoir gu'n theich a ghrian air chùl,
A' dlultadh fianuis thoirt do'n gnìomh ?
Cìod uim' nach d'fhuir a chruitheachd bàs,
'N uair chéusadh air a chrann a TRIATH ?

Cuiridh e aingle 'mach gach taobh,
Chum ceithir ghaothaibh 'n domhain mhòir,
A chuairteachadh gach aon do'n t-sluagh,
A steach gu luath a dh'ionnsuidh 'mhòid.

Gach neach a dh' àitich coluinn riamh,
O'n ear 's o'n iar tha nise' teachd,
Mar sgaoth de bheachaibh tigh'n mu ghéig,
An déidh dhaibh eiridh 'mach o'n sgeap.

'N sin togaidh aingeal glormhor suas,
Ard bhratach Chrìosd da'n suaich'neas fùl ;
A chruinneachadh na ghluais sa chóir,
'S da fhulangas rinn dòigh a's buu.

Do m'ionnsuidh cruinnichibh mo naoimh,
Is tionailibh gach aon de'n dream,
A rinn gu dìleas is gu dlù,
Le creideamh 's ùmlachd ceangal leam.

'N sin tionsgnaidh 'm Breith' air cùis an là,
A chum a nàimhde chur fo bhinn,
Is fosglaidh e leabhraichean suas,
Far am beil peacadh 'n t-sluagh air chuimhn' :

Fosglaidh e 'n cridhe mar an ceudn',
Air dhoigh 's gur léir de'n h-nìle neach,
Gach namharrachd bba gabhail tàmh,
Air feadh an àrois ud a steach :

'N uair chi' an sealladh so dhiubh féin,
Is dearbh gur léir dhaibh ceartas Dhia ;
'S bidh 'n gruaidh a leaghadh as le nàir
Nach lugha cràdh na teine dian.

Togaidh an trompaid 'ris a fuaim,
" Na labhradh a's na gluaiseadh neach ;"
Air chor gu'n cluinn gach beag a's mòr,
A bhreith thig air gach seir's amach.

" A dhaoine sanutach thréig a chóir,
'S a leag 'ur dòchas an 'ur toic,
A ghlais gu teann 'ur cridhe suas,
'S a dhruid 'ur cluas ri glaodh nam bochd.

" An lomnochd cha do dhion o'n fhuachd,
'S do'n acrach thruagh cha d'thug sibh biadh,
Ged lion mi féin 'ur cisd' de lòn,
'S 'ur treuda' chur a'mòd gach bliadhn'.

" Ni bheil sibh iomchuidh air mo riogh'chd,
As eugmhais firinn, iochd, a's graidh ;
'S o reub sibh m' iomhaidh dhibh gu léir,
Agraibh sibh féin 'nar sgrios gu bràth.

" A nathraiche millteach 's oillteil greann,
Cha binn leam ceol 'ur srannataich àrd,
'S cha 'n éisd o'r teangaidh ghobhlaich cliù,
Le drùchd a phuinsein air a bàrr.

" Is sibh's thug fuath da m' òrduigh naomh,
Is leis nach b'ionmhuinn caomh mo theach ;
Leis 'm bu bhliadhna suidhe uair,
Am ìros tabhairt cluais do m' reachd.

“ Cionnas a mhealas sibh gu bràth,
A'm' sheirbhis sàbait suirruidh bhuan
Na cionnas bheir 'ur n-anam gràdh,
De'n ni da'n tug 'ur nàdur fuath ?

“ Luchd mì-rùin agus farmaid mhòir
Da'n doruinn iomlan sonas chàich,
Le doilghios geur a' cnàmh 'ur crì,
Mu aon neach oirbh féin their barr.

“ Cia mar a dh-fhendas sibh gu bràth,
Làn shonas àiteach ann an glòir ;
Far am faic sibhse mìlte dream,
Ga'n ardach 'os bhur ceann gu mòr ?

“ Am fad 's bu léir dhuibh feadh mo rìogh'chd,
Neach b' àirde inbhe na sibh féin ;
Nach fadadh mì-rùn 's farmad cùirt,
Tein' ifrinn duibh a'm flaitheas Dé ?

“ Is sibhs' 'an slighe na neo-ghloin ghluais,
'S gu sùmraicht' thruaill an leaba phòsd ;
Gach neach a thug do m' naomhachd fuath,
Ga'n tabhairt suas gu toil na feol'.

“ Mar b' ionmhuinn leibh bhì losgadh 'n teas,
'Ur n-uabhair, dheasaich mi dhuibh fearg,
Leaba dearg theth 'san laidh sibh sìos,
Am brachaibh-lìn de lasair dheirg.

“ Ged bheirinn sibh gu rìoghachd mo ghloir,
Mar mhucan steach gu seòmar rìgh ;
'Ur nàdur neoghlan bhiodh ga chràdh,
Le'r miannaibh bàsachadh chion bìdh.

“ Gach neach tha iomchuidh air mo rìogh'chd,
Teannaibh sibhse chum mo dheis,
Is cruinnichibh seachad chum mo chli,
A chrionach o na crannaibh meas.”

'N sin tearbainidh e chum gach taobh,
Na caoraich o na gobhraibh lom ;
Ceart mar ni'm buachaille an tréud,
'N uair chuairtaicheas e spréidh air tom.

'N sin labhraidh e ri luchd a dheis,
“ Sibhse ta deasaichte le m' ghràs,
Thigibhse, seallbhaichibh an rìoghachd,
Nach faic a sonas crìoch gu bràth.

“ Spealg mise 'n geat' bha oirbhse dùinnt',
Le m' ùmblachd 's m' fhulangas ro-ghéur ;
'S dh-fhogail an t-sleadh gu farsuinn suas,
Am leith-taobh dorus nuadh dhuibh féin.

“ Chum craoibh na beath' ta 'm Pàrrais Dé,
Le h-éibhneas teannaibh steach da còir ;
'S a fearta iongantach gu léir,
Dearbhadh 'ur n-uile chréuchd 's bhur leòn.

“ An claidhe ruisgte bha laist ga dìon,
O laimh 'ur sinnsir Adhamh 's Eubh,
Riun mise truaill dhe m' chrìdhe dhà,
'S a lasair bhàth mi le m' fhuil féin.

“ Fo dosraich ùrrair suidhibh sìos,
Nach searg 's nach crìon am feasd a blàth ;
'S mar smeòraichean a measg a geug,
Chum molaiddh gléusaibh binn bhur càil.

“ Le 'maise sàsaichibh 'ur sùil,
Is oirbh fo sgàil cha drùigh an teas,
O 'duilleach cùraidh blaibh slàint ;
Is bith'bh neo-bhàsmhor le a meas.

“ Gach uile mheas tha 'm Pàrrais Dé,
Ta nis gu leir neo-thoirmsigt' dhuibh ;
Ithibh gun eagal o gach géig,
A nathair nimh cha téum a chaoidh.

“ A's uile mhiann 'ur n-anma féin,
Lan shàsaichibh gu léir 'an Dia,
Tobar na firinn, iochd, a's graiddh,
A mhaireas làn gu cian na 'n cian.

“ Mòr-innleachd iongantach na slàint,
Sior rannaichibh air aird 's air leud,
'S feadh oibrìche mo rìoghachd mhòir,
'Ur n-eòlas ciocrach cuiribh' meud.

“ Ur n-eibhneas, mais' 'ur tuigs', 's 'ur gràdh,
Bitheadh gu sìorruidh fàs ni 's mò ;
'S cha choinnich sibh aon ni gu bràth,
Bheir air 'ur n-anam cràdh no leòn.

“ Cha 'n fhaca sùil, 's cha chuala cluas,
Na thaisg mi suas de shonas duibh,
Imichibh, 's biodh 'ur dearbhachd féin,
Sior-innse sgéul duibh air a chaoidh.”

Ach ris a mhuinntir th'air a chli,
O ! labhraidh e 'na dhìogh'ltas cruaidh,
“ A chuideachd nach d'thug gràdh do Dhia,
A chum an diabhuil siubhlaibh uam.

“ 'S mo mhallachd maille ribh gu bràth,
A chum 'ur cràdh 's 'ur cur gu pian,
Gluaisibhse chum an teine mhòir,
Ga'r ròsdadh ann gu cian nan cian.”

Mar sgàin an talamh a's a cheil,
'N uair gabh e teaghlach Chòrach steach,
Ceart laimh riu fosglaidh 'n uaigh a beul,
'S i miannanaich air son a creich.

Is mar a shluig 'mhuc-mhara mhòr,
Iònas 'n uair chaidh 'thilgeadh 'mach,
Ni slugan dubh an dara bàis,
A charbad iathadh umpa steach.

San uamhaidh taobhaidh iad ri chéil,
A ghluais nam beath' gu h-éucorach ;
Luchd mhionn a's mort a's fianuis-bhréig ;
Luchd misg a's reubainn 's adhaltrais.

Mar chualaig dhris an ceangal teann,
An slabhraidh tha gach dream leo féin ;
'S an comunn chleachd bhi 'n caidreamh dlù,
Mar bhioran rùisgte dol nan crè.

Mar leoghan garg fo' chuibhreach cruaidh,
Le thoscaibh reubadh suas a ghlais ;
An slabhraidh caguaidh iad gu dian,
'S gu bràth cha ghearr am fiacian phrais.

Bidh iad gu siorruidh 'n glacaibh 'bhais,
'S an cridh' ga fhàsgadh asd' le bròn,
Ceangailt air cuan de phronnmsg laisd'
'S a dheatach uaine tachd an sròn.

Mar bhàirneach fuaighte ris an sgeir,
Tha iad air creagaibh goileach teann ;
Is dìbh-fheirg Dhé a' seideadh 'chuain,
Na thonnaibh buaireis thar an ceann.

'N tra dhùineas cadal cruaidh an sùil,
Teas feirg 's an-dochas dùisgidh iad ;
A chnuimh nach bàsaich 's eibhle beò,
A' cur an dòruinn shiorruidh 'meud.

Air ifrinn 'n uair a gheibh iad sealbh,
S lìn-dearbhabh co gu'n toir iad cis,
Faodaidh sinn pàirt d'an gearan truagh,
Chuir anns na briathraibh cruaidh so sios.

" O staidh na neo-ni 'n robh mi 'm thàmh,
Ciod uime dh-àrdach Dia mo ceann !
Mo mhìle mallachd aig an là,
'N do gabh mo mhathair mi' na broinn.

" Ciod uime fhuair mi tuigse riamh ?
No ciall a's reusan chum mo stiuir ?
Ciod uim' nach d'rinn thu cuileag dhìom ?
Na durrag dhìblidh ann san ùir ?

" Am mair mi 'n so gu saogh' l' nan saogh' l' !
'N tig crìoch no caochladh orm gu brath,
Am beil mi nis san t-siorr'achd bhuan,
A' snàmh a' chuain a ta gun tràigh !

" Ged àireamh uile reullta nèimh,
Gach féur a's duilleach riamh a dh-fhàs,
Mar' ris gach braon a ta sa' chuan,
'S gach gaineamh chuairticheas an tràigh.

" Ged chuiream mìle bliadhna seach,
As leith gach aon diubh sud gu léir,
Cha d'imich seach de'n t-siorr'achd mhòir,
Ach mar gu 'n tòisicheadh i 'n dé.

" Ach O ! 'n do theirig tràcair Dhia !
'S am pian e mi gu saogh' l' nan saogh' l' !
Mo shlabhraidh 'n lasaich e gu bràth !
No glas mo làmh an dean e sgaoil !

" M bi 'm beul a dh-ordaich Dia chum seinn,
Air feadh gach linn a chliù gun sgìos,
Mar bhalagan-séididh fadadh suas,
Na lasraich uain' 'au ifrinn shìos !

" Ged chaidh mo thruaighe thar mo neart,
Gu deimhinn féin a's ceart mo bhinn ;
Ach c'fhada bhios mi 'n so ga m' chràdh,
Mu'm bi do cheartas sàitheach dhìom !

" No 'm bi thu dìo'lte dhìom gu bràth,
'N deach lagh an nàduir chuir air cùl ?
Mo thruaighe mi ! 'n e so am bàs
A bhagair thu air Adhamh 'n tùs ?

" Air sgà do dhìo'ltas 'm bi thu 'sniomh
Snàthain mo bheath' gu siorruidh caol ?
Nach leoir bhi mìle bliadh' ga m' losg'
As leith gach lochd a rinn mi 's t-saogh' l' ?

" Ged lean de dhìo'ltas mi gu m' chùl,
Cha 'n àrdaich e do chliù, a Dhé,
'S cha'n fhuir dè d' Mhorachd t-fhearg a chosg,
Air comharadh cho bochd rium féin.

" O Dhia ! nach sgrìos thu mi gu tìr ?
'S le d' chumbachd cnir air 'm anam crìoch,
'S gu staid na neo-ni tìlg mi uait,
Far nach 'eil fulang, smuain, no gnìomh.

" Ach O ! se so mo thoillt'neas féin
Is nì'm beil éu-coir buntainn rium ;
Oir chiùlt mi tairgse shaor de Chrìosd,
'S nìor ghabh mi d'a fhuil phrìseil suim.

" Mo choguis dìtidh mi gu bràth,
An fhianuis bba ga 'm chàineadh riamh ;
An-ìochd no éu-coir ann mo bhàs,
Cha leig i chràdh 'm feasd air Dia.

" Aitheanta thìlg mi air mo chùl,
A's ruith mi dùrachdach gu'm sgrìos,
Is 'fhianuis féin a' m' chridhe mhùch,
A' druid' mo shùile roimh mo leas.

" Cia meud an dìogh'ltas tha dhomh' dual
A's leith mo pheacaidh uamhor dàn
Am peac' thug dù'lan do dh-fhuil Chrìosd,
'S a dh-fhàg gun éifeachd brìgh a bhàis.

" Gidheadh nach 'eil de Bhuanhan fein,
Neo-chrìochanach gu léir o chian ?
'S an toir mo chiont air ìochd a's gràdh,
Gu'm fàs iad crìochuacht' ann an Dia ?

“ An comas dnt mo thilgeadh uat
Far nach cluinn do chluas mo sgread ?
'M beil dorchadas nu' ifrinn féin
Far nach bu léir do Dhia mo staid ?

Mar Fhàidh, mar Shagart, 'us mar Rìgh,
Chum slàinte, dìdean, agus iuil.

“ Biodh eiseimpleir am beach do shùil,
Chum d' uile ghluasachd 'stùir da reir,

Bi fein g'an gnàthachadh gu leir.

“ As 's fhìreantachd dean bun a mhàin,
'S na taic gu bràth ri d' thoill'tneas fein ;
'S mas àill leat eifeachd bhì na ghràs,
Na h-altrum peacadh dàimh a'd' chré.

“ Mar sin ged robh de chionta mòr,

Leam 's cinnteach gun d' fhuair,
Do dheanadas duais,
'N uair rainig thu 'm Buachaill' mòr;
'N uair chuartich am bàs,
A steach thu 'na laith'r,
Thoir cunntas a' d' thàlant' dè.

No 'n ceann thu bha làn,
De dh-innleachdan bàis,
Gu seolta ga 'n tath' r'a cheill';
G'an cur ann an gnìomh,
Gun umhail gun fhiamh,
A freagra' do Dhia 'nan deigh ?

'N robh teanga nam breug,
Gun chuibhreach fo d' dheud,
A' togail droch sgeul air càch;
Gath puinsein do bheil,
Mar naithir a' teum,
'S a' lotadh nan ceud gach là?

Tha i nise na tamb,
Fo cheangal a bhàis,
Gun sgainneal a' plàigh na dùthch';
A's durrags grannd,
Air lobhadh 'na h-àit,
An deigh dhaibh cnàmh gu cùl.

'S mu lean thu do ghnàths,
Gu leabaidh do bhàis,
Gun tionndadh' na thrà ri còir;
Car tamull na h-uair,
Dean flaitheas de'n uaigh,
Gus an gairmear thu suas gu mòd.

Mar losgann dubh grannd,
Ag iomairt a smàg,
Gu 'n eirich thu 'n aird o'n t-slochd;
Thoir coinneamh do Chrìosd,
'Na thighinn a ris,
A dh' fhaotainn làn dìol a' t-òle.

'N uair theid thu fo bhinn.
Ni cheartas do dhìt';
Ga d' fhògradh gu sìorruidh uaith;
Gu lasair ga d' phian,
Chaidh dheasach' da'n Diabh'l,
'S a mhallachd gu dian 'ga d' ruag.

'N sin cruaidhichidh Dia
Do chnaimhean mar iar'n,
'Is t-fheithean mar iallaibh prais;
Is teannaichidh t-fheòil
Mar innein nan òrd,
Nach cnàmh i le moid an teas.

No 'n ceann thu 'n robh ciall,
Is eolas air Dia,
'S gu'n d' rinn thu a riar 'sa chòir;
Ged tha thu 'n diugh ruisgt',
Gun aithe', gun iùil,
Gun teanga, gun sùil, gun sròn.

Gabh misneach san uaigh,
Oir eiridh tu suas,
'N uair chluineas tu fuaim an stulc,
'S do thruailleachd gu leir,
Shìos fàgaidh tu'd' dheigh,
Aig durragan breun an t-sluic.

Oir deasaichidh Dia,
Do mhaise mar ghrian,
Bhiodh ag eiridh o sgiath na m' beann;
'Cur fradharc ro gheur,
'S na suilean so féin,
'S iad a' dealradh mar reullt' a' d' cheann.

Do theanga 's do chàil,
Ni ghleusadh gun dàil,
A chantainn 'na àros cliù;
Is fosglaidh do chluas,
A dh-eisteachd ri fuaim,
A mholaidh th' aig sluagh a chùirt.

'N uair dhealraicheas Crìosd,
Na thigheachd a ris,
A chruinneach' na 'm firean suas;
'N sin bheir thu de leum,
Thoir coinneamh dha féin,
Mar iolair nan speur aig luaths.

'N uair dh-eireas tu 'n àird,
Grad chuiridh ort fàilt,
A mhealtainn a chàirdeas féin,
Gun dealach' gu bràth,
R'a chomunn no ghràdh,
A steach ann am Pàrras Dé.

Fhir 'chluinneas mo dhàn,
Dean aithreachas trà,
'M feadh mhairaes do shlaint 's do bheachd;

Mu'n tig ort am bàs,
Nach leig thu gu bràth,
Air geata nan gràs a steach.

AIR bhith dhomhsa ann am shuain
A' bruidh d' àmhain mar tha càch,
Bhi glacadh sonais o gach ni ;
Is e ga'm dhibreadh ann's gach àit.

Air leam gun tainig neach am chòir,
'S gu'n dubh'rt e rium :—" Gur gòrach mi,
Bhi smuainteach greim a ghleidh do'n ghaioith,
No fos gu'n lion an saogh'l mo chri.

" Is diamhain dut bhi 'g iarraidh sàimh,
'N aon ni' no'n ait air bìth fo 'n ghréin ;
Cha chlos do d' chorp an taobh so 'n uaigh,
No t-anam 'n taobh so shuaimhneas Dé.

" An tra dh'ith Adhamh 'a meas an tùs,
Am peacadh dhrùigh e air gach ni ;
Lion e na h-uile ni le saoth'r,
Is dh-fhàg é 'n saogh'l na bhriste crì.

" Air sonas 'anma chaill e chòir,
Mar ris gach sòlas bha'n sa gharr'
O sin ta 'shliochd nan deoiribh truagh ;
Mar uan a mearachd air a mhàth'r.

" Ri meilich chruaidh ta'd ruith gach ni,
'An duil gu 'm faigh an inntinn clos ;
Ach dhaibh tha 'n saogh'l gun iochd no truas,
Mar mhuime coimheich fhuair gun tlùs.

" Mar sin tha iad gun fhois no tàmh,
Ga 'n sàrach' glacadh faileas breig ;
'S a' deoth'l toil-inntinn o gach ni,
Is iad mar chiochan seasg nam beul.

" Bidh teannachd eigin ort am feasd,
'S do dhòchas faicinn fuasgladh t-fheum,
An còmhnuidh dhut mar fhad do làimh ;
Ach gu brath cha'n fhaigh dheth gréim.

" Cha teagaisg t-fheuchain 's dearbhadh thù,
O dhùil is earbsa chuir sa' bhreig,
A rinn do mbealladh mìle uair,
'S cho fhada bhuat an diugh san dé.

" An ni bu mho da'n tug thu miann,
Nach dh-fhag a mhealtuinn riamh e searbh ?
Tha tuille sonais ann an dùil,
Na tha'n an crùn le bhi na sheilbh.

" Ceart mar an ròs a ta sa' ghàr',
Crion seargaidh bhàl 'nuair theid a bhuain ;
Mu'n gann a glacas tu e d' làimh,
Grad threigidh fhàileadh e 'sa shnuadh.

" Cha 'n eil neach o thrioblaid saor,
Am measg a 'chinne daoin' air fad,
'S co lionmhor osna aig an rìgh,
Is aig an neach is ìsle staid.

" Tha 'smùdan fein ós ceann gach fòid
Is dòruinn ceangailt' ris gach math ;
Tha'n ròs a fàs air drisean geur,
'S an taic' a cheil tha mhil san gàth.

" Ged fhaic thu neach 'an saibhreas mòr
Na meas a shòlas bhi thar chàch ;
An tobar 's gloine chi do shùil,
Tha ghrùid na iochdar gabhail tàmh.

" 'S mu chuireas t-anail e 'na ghluais,
Le taruinn chabhaig suas a'd' bheul,
Dùisgidh an ruaghan dearg a nìos,
'S le gaineamh lionaidh e do dheud.

" 'S ged fhaic thu neach 'an inbhe aird,
Tha e mar nead am bàrr na craoibh ;
Gach stoirm a bagra' thilgeadh nuas,
Is e air luasgadh leis gach gaioith.

" An neach is fearr tha 'n saogh'l a riar,
Tha fiaradh eigin ann 'na staid,
Nach dean a sheòltachd a's a strì,
Am feast a dhìreachadh air fad.

" Mar bhata' fiar an aghaidh cheil,
A ta o shuidheach' fein do-chur ;
A reir mar dhìreas tu a bharr,
'S cho chinnteach ni thu cam a bhun.

" Na h-Iudhaich thionail beag no mòr,
Do'n Mhana dhòirteadh orra 'nuas ;
'N tra chuir gach neach a chuid's a chlàr,
Cha robh air bàrr no dadum uaith.

" Mar sin a ta gach sonas saogh'l't,
A ta thu faotainn ann a d' làimh,
Fa chomhair saibhreas, 's inbhe cùirt
Tha caitheamh, cùram agus cràdh.

" Ged chàrn thu òr a'd' shlige suas,
Fa chomhair fàsaidh 'n luath da reir,
Is ge do chuir thu innte riogh'chd,
A mheidh cha dìrich i na deigh.

" Tha cuibhrionn iomchuidh aig gach neach,
'S ged tha thu meas gur tuille b' fhearr ;
Cha d' thoir an t-anabharr tha'n an sud,
Am feasd an cudrom a's a' chràdh ;

" O iomluas t-inntinn tha do phian ;
A' diùlta' 'n diug na dh'iarr thu 'n dé ;
Cha chomasach an saogh'l do riar,
Le t-anamianna 'n aghaidh chéil.

" Na 'm faigheadh toil na feol a rùn,
D'a mianna brudeil dh'iarradh sath ;
Flaitheas a b' aird' cha'n iarrach i,
Na annta sud bhi siorruidh 'snàmh.

" Ach ge do b' ionmhuinn leis an fheadh,
Air talamh còmhachadh gach ré ;
Bhiodh dùrachd t-ardain agus t-uailh,
Cho ard a shuas ri Cathair Dhé ;

" Ach nam b' aill leat sonas buan,
Do shlighe tabhair suas do Dhia,
Le dùrachd, creideamh agus gràdh,
Is sàsaichidh e t-uile mhiann.

" Tha 'n cuideachd sud gach ni san t-saogh'l,
Tha 'n comas dhaoine shealbhadh' fìor ;
Tha bhìadh, a's eudach agus slàint,
Is saorsa, càirdeas, agus sìth."

'An sin do mhosgail a's mo shuain,
Is dh-fhag mo bhrudar mi air fad ;
Ghrad leig mi dhìom bhi ruith gach sgàil,
Is dh-fhàs mi toilichte le m' staid.

A N G E A M H R A D H.

Nis theirig an samhradh,
'S tha 'n geamhradh teachd dlù oirn,
Fìor nàmhaid na chiuneas,
Teachd a mhilleadh ar dùthcha ;
Ga saltairt fo chasaibh,
'S d'a maise ga rùsgadh ;
Gun iochd ann ri dadum,
Ach a' sladadh 's a' plùndruinn.

Sgaoil oirne a sgiathan,
'S chuir e ghrian air a chùlthaobh ;
As an nead thug e 'n t-àlach,
Neo-bhàigheil 'gar sgiùrsadh ;
Sneachd itegach gle-gheal,
O na speuran tigh'n dlù oirn,
Clacha meallain 's gaoth thuathach,
Mar luaidhe is mar fhùdar.

'N uair shéideas e anail,
Cha 'n fhag anam am fùdan ;
Tha bhilean mar shiosar,
Lomadh lios de gach ùr-ros ;

Cha bhi sgeadach air coille,
No doire nach rùlsg e ;
No sruthan nach tachd e,
Fo leachdanan dù'-ghorm.

Fead reòta a chleibhe,
Tha seideadh na doiniann,
Chuir beirín ann san fhairge,
'S a dh' àt' garbh i na tonnan ;
'S a bhinntich an clàmhuinn,
Air àirde gach monaidh,
'S ghlan sgùr e na reultan,
D' ar péile le'n solus.

Tha gach beathach a's duine,
Nach d' ullaich 'na sheasan,
Ga 'n sgiùrsadh le gaillinn
Gun talla' gun eudach ;
'S an dream a bha guiomhach,
'Fas iargalt mi-dhéirceil ;
Nach toir iasad do leisgean,
Ann san t-sneachda ged éug e.

Tha 'n seillein 's an seangan,
A bha tional an stòrais,
Le gliocas gun mhearachd,
A' toirt aire do'n dbrúinn ;
'G ithe bìdh 's ag òl meala,
Gun ghainne air lòn ac,
Fo dhion ann san talamh,
O anail an reòta.

Tha na cuileagan ciatach,
'Bha diamhain san t-samhradh,
'S na gathanan gréine
Gu h-eibhinn a' dambsa ;
Gun deasach 'gun chùram,
Roi' dhùlachd a gheamhradh ;
A nise a' dol bàs',
Ann 's gach àite le teanntachd.

Ach eisd rium a shean-duin',
'S tuig an samhladh tha 'm stòr',
Tha 'm bàs a tighin teann ort,
Sud an geamhradh tha 'm òran ;
'S ma gheibh e thu a' d' leisgein,
Gun deasach' fa' chòdhail,
Cha dean ùithreachas crìche.
Do dhionadh o'n doruinn.

Gur mithich fàs diaghaidh,
'S do chiabhan air glasadh,
'Na 'm bearnaibh do dheudach,
Is t-eudann air casadh,
Do bhathais air rùsgadh,
'S do shùilean air prabadh,
Agus cròit ort air lùbadh,
Chum na h-uire do leaba'.

Tha na sruthanan craobhach,
Bha sgoileadh a' d' bhallaibh,
Gu mireagach buailteach,
Clis gluasadach tana ;
A nise air traoghadh
O n' taomachadh thairis,
O'n a ragaich 'sa dh-fhuaraich
Teas uabhar na fala.

Balg-seididh na beatha,
Tha air caitheamh gun fheum ann,
'S o chrup ann a' d' chliabh e,
Gur h-e phian bhi 'ga shéideadh
Tha 'n corp a chruit chìùil ud,
Air diùltadh dhut gleusadh ;
'S comhar cinnt' air a thasgaidh,
Bhi lasach' a theudan.

Theich madainn na h-òige,
'S trebìr mheadhon latha
Tha 'm feasgar air ciaradh,
'S tha ghrìan ort a laidhe ;
'S mu bha thusa diamhain,
Gun gnìomh is gun mhaitheas ;
Gu h-ealamh bi d' dhùsgadh,
Mu'n dùinear ort flaitheas.

'Reir caithe na beatha,
'S tric leatha gun crìoch i ;
Bidh an cleachadh fàs làidir,
Do-fhàsach o'n inntinn ;
Na labhair an sean-fhacal,
'S deimhinn leam 's fìor e,
" An car theid san t-seana-mhaid'
Gur h-aìumic leis dìreadh."

Ach ògnaich threibhich
Thoir-s' éisdeachd do m' òran,
'S leig dhìot bhi mì-chéillidh,
Ann an céitein na h-òige ;
Tha aois agus ea-slaime,
Air do dheigh ann an tòir ort ;
'S mu ni h-aon aca gréim ort,
Pillidh t-eibhneas gu bròn dut.

An aois a tha 'n tòir ort,
Bheir i leon ort nach saoil thu ;
Air do shuillean bheir ceathach,
Is treabhaidh si t-aodann ;
Bheir i crìth-reodh' mu d' ghruaig',
Is neul uaine an aoig leis,
'S cha toig aiteamh na grìan ort,
'Bheir an liath-reodh a chaoidh' dhìot.

Bheir ni's measa na sud ort,
Fàilne tuigs' agus reusain ;
Dìth leirsinn a' t-inntinn ;
Dìth cuimhn' agus géire ;

Dìth gliocais chum gnothaich ;
Dìth mothaich a'd' cheudfath
'S gu'm fàs thu mar leanabh,
Dhì spionnaidh a's céille.

Fàsaidh 'n crìdhe neo-aithreach,
'S neo-ealamh chum tionndadh,
Aon tagra' cha drùigh air,
'S cha' lùb e d'a ionnsuidh ;
Ceart mar tha 'n talamh,
'N am gaillìonn a's teanndachd ;
Ged robh milltean 'dol thairis,
Cha dean aile sa' chausair.

Faic seasain na bliadhna,
'S dean ciall uath a tharruinn ;
'S mas àill leat gu'm buain thu,
Dean ruadhar 'san earrach ;
Dean connadh san t-samhradh,
Ni sa' gheamhradh do gharadh ;
'S ma dhìbreas tu 'n seasan,
Dhut 's eigin bhi fàlamh.

'S mar cuir thu siol fallain,
Ann an earrach na h-òige,
Cho chinnteach 's an bàs dut,
Cuiridh Sàtan droch phòr ann ;
A dh-fhàsas 'na dhubhaile,
'S 'na luidheannan fèl'mhor ;
'S bìdh do bhuaib mar a chuir thu,
Ma's subhaile no dò-bheirt.

Ma bhios t-òige gun riaghladh,
'S t-anamianann gun taod riu,
Gum fàs iad cho fiadhaich,
'S nach srìan thu ri t-aois iad ;
Am meangan nach snìomh thu,
Cba spion thu 'na chraoibh e ;
Mar shìneas e ghéugan,
Bidh fhreumhan a' sgoileadh.

Tha do bheatha neo-chinnteach
O 'n teinn a bheir bàs ort,
Uime sin bi ri dìcheall
Do shìth dheanamh tràthail ;
'S e milleadh gach cùise
Bhi gun chùram cur dàil innt' ;
'S ionann aithreachas crìche,
'S bhi cur sìl mu Fheill-màrtuinn.

Tha ghrìan ann sua speurraibh
A' ruith réise gach latha ;
'S i 'giorrach' do shaoghail,
Gach oidhche a laidheas ;
'S dlù ruitheas an spàla,
Troì' shnathaibh do bheatha ;
Tha' fighe dhut leine,
Ni beisdean a chaitheamh.

'S ma ghoideas e dlù ort,
 Gun do dhùil bhi r'a thighinn ;
 'N sin fosglaidh do shùilean,
 'S chì thu chùis thar a mithich ;
 Bidh do choguis 'ga d' phianadh,
 Mar sgian ann a d' chridhe ;
 'S co-ionann a giùlan,
 'S laidhe ruisgt' ann an sgitheach.

Faic a chuileag 'ga dìteadh
 Le sionntaibh an nàduir,
 'S o na dhìbhir i 'n seasan,
 Gur h-eigin d'i bàsach' ;
 Faic gliocas an t-seangain,
 Na thional cho tràthail,
 'S dean eiseimpleir leanail,
 Chum t-anam a shàbhal'.

DAIBHIDH MAC-EALAIR.

DAVID MACKELLAR, commonly called Daibhidh nan Laoidh, was another religious poet. The time of his birth is not known. He lived in Glendaruel after the beginning of last century. He was blind, and the people in that country still preserve some traditionary accounts of him and of the manner in which his hymn was composed, the most striking of which is that after having composed it his sight was restored. In his youth he composed some profane pieces. The time of his death is likewise uncertain, but a grand-daughter of his lived in Glasgow not many years ago. This hymn was first published in Glasgow about the year 1752. It was so very popular in the Highlands that many persons got it by heart that had never seen the printed copy.

LAOIDH MHIC-EALAIR.

MOLADH do'n Tì 's airde glòir,
 An Tì 's modha no gach neach ;
 Cruithear an t-saoghail gu léir,
 Da'n cubhaidh dhuinn géill' air fad.

'S tu rinn an domhan 's na th' ann,
 Na cuaintean domhain, 's am fonn ;
 'S chuir thu iasg g'a altrum ann,
 'S thug thu ciall gu ghlacadh dhuinn.

Rinneadh leat gealach a's grian,
 Thogail fianuis air do ghlòir ;
 Cha'n aithris mi a mìle trian,
 De chruthachadh an Dia is mò.

'S tu rinn na reultan air fad,
 A riaghlachadh gu ceart nan tràth ;
 Gheall thu maraon fuachd a's teas,
 Foghar ma seach agus Màirt.

'S tu rinn na h-ainglean air fad,
 Tha 'n t-abharsair fo d' smachd gu mòr :
 Air slabhruidh laidir aig do Mhac,
 Cumail a neart o theachd oirnn'.

Rinneadh leat an duine' ris,
 A réir t-iomhaidh chum do ghlòir ;
 Ach chaill e 'n oidhreacht ud gun luach,
 'S cha'n fhuasgalar i le òr.

'S tu chuir am fradharc na cheann,
 Chuir thu falt tro chlaigeann lom ;
 Thug thu cluas gu éisteachd dha,
 'S gluasad a chuirp o na bhonn.

Chuir thu Adhamh an cadal trom,
 Chaidh léigh nan gràs os a cheann ;
 'S de dh-aisinn bho thaobh do rinn
 A bhean, o'n do ghin gach clann.

Chuir thu e 'n gàradh nan seud,
 Far an robh éibhneas a ghràidh ;
 Dh-ith a bhean an sin a meas,
 'S dh-fhuilig i 's a sliochd am bàs,

Cha robh a teasargain aig neach,
 O'n a chumhnanta rinn i bhris ;
 'N trà ruisgeadh an sgeudachadh ceart,
 Bha chuis na h-eagal an sin.

Ach moladh do dh' Ard-Rìgh nam feart,
O nach b' àill leis teachd d' ar sgrios ;
'Nuair chummaic e Adhamh na aire,
Rinn e cumhant' nan gràs ris.

Thainig Iosa 'nuas le thoil,
Thug e suas mar iobairt fhuil ;
Mac na firinn, Uan gun chron,
Mar ciuntain-ne fhuair e ghuin.

Crochadh e ri crann an aird,
'S an t-sleagh sàite tro a chorp ;
Crùn geur na péine chuir mù cheann,
Fhuair mac Dhé le nàimhde lot.

Crùn sgithich, an aite crùn rìgh,
Mar thailceas, 's mar dhì-meas mòr ;
Domblas agus fion geur,
'N deoch a thug iad dha ri h-òl.

Na tàirnean g'an cur an sàs,
Am bosaihb a lamh le òrd ;
'S fuil a chridhe ruith á thaobh,
Ceannachd bu daoire nan t-br.

'Nuair chaidh Crìosd gu péin a bhàis,
'S a dh' fhuilig e air son an t-sluaigh ;
Sgoilt brat an teampull sìos gu Ìar,
'S dhùisg na mairbh an aird o'n uaigh.

Chreathnaich an talamh trom, le crith,
Air a gheirn gu'n tainig smal ;
Le feirg Dhé, do chrath e 'n sin ;
Dh-fhuilig Crìosd am bàs rè seal.

Dh-adhlaic iad an t-Uan fo lie,
Thug e buaidh, san uaigh cha d' fhan ;
As a bhàs thug e gheur-ghuin,
'S dh-eirich an treas là gun smàl.

Na shuidh' aig deas-laimh athar a ta,
Crìosd le gràsan os ar ceann ;
A' cur oifig sagairt an gnìomh,
A' deasachadh a rioghachd dhuinn.

Thig an t-am san tig mac Dhé,
Creidibh sud gur sgeula fìor ;
Le mìtibh mùl' de dh' ainglibh treun,
Thoirte oirne breith a réir ar gnìomh.

'N sin seinnear an trompaid gu h-ard,
Leis na h-ainglean 's àille sruagh ;
Eiridh na mairbh an aird o'n ùir,
'S bheir e cùntas uaith' an cuan.

Liubhraidh gach uaigh na fhuair i-féin,
'S cha bhi neach de'n treud air chall ;
Nochdar iad uil' am fiadhnais Dé,
'S e Mhac féin is breitheamh ann.

Bithidh iadsan soilleir an sin,
Mar sholus dealrach an dreach ;
Thig Crìosd nan coimneamh le gean,
'S bidh sìth an comunn nam fiath.

Ni thu 'n sin tearbadh air gach neach,
'S dìonaidh tu o'n fheirg na's leat,
Mhead 's tha air an dearbhadh dhut,
Cuirear jad fo dhìon do bhrait.

Cuirear na gobhair air laimh chli,
Chum triall gu prìosan a' bhròin ;
Druidear suas, 's gur cruaidh an sgeul,
Flath-Innis Dhé air an sròin.

Mallaichidh 'n nighean a mathair,
Mallaichidh mhathair a clann ;
'S mallaichidh 'n t-athair a mhac,
Nach do ghabh a smachd 'na àm.

'S iomadh sgairteach, a's gul geur,
Ri h-am cluintinn sgeul an cràidh ;
Mallachadh a chéile gu léir,
Sgarachdainn ri Uan a ghràidh.

Sin là an dealachaidh bho chd,
G'an sgarachdainn a dh'aideon riut ;
G'an sgiursadh gu h-aineal an loisg,
'S gun duil aig anam tigh'n' as.

An teach d'a mìleadh cuirear iad,
Fo dhìoghaltas an Ard-Rìgh ;
Gun duil ri furtachd no ri bàs,
Gu bràth, cha tig iad a nìos.

Fasaidh 'n cuirp cho chruaidh ri prais,
Mar iarunn an cas san lamh ;
G'an cumail beo ann an sior phian,
Teine dian gun fhurtachd là.

Gach aon là mar bhlianna bhuan,
An lagan loisgneach, cruaidh an sàs ;
G'an liodairt le teas a's fuachd,*
Sud an duais ge fad an dàil.

* The ancient Caledonians entertained the idea that hell was a cold and inhospitable place, as the following stanza from an old poem will show:—

" 'S maing a roghnaicheas Ifrinn fhuar,
'S gur h-i uamh nan droigheamh geur,
Is beag orm Ifrinn fhuar, fhliuch,
Aite bith-bhuan is searbh deoch."

The following lines from Dàn an Fhìr Chlaoin give it this character:—

" I sin allaidh na freòine,
Led' thugh-cheò as le t-namh-bhèisdean
A thir nam pian gun bhìadh gun bhàigh,
Dol ad dhàil be sud mo dhèisinn."

Latha cha bhi ann na dheigh,
Falaichear na reulltan 's a gbrian ;
Sgriosar an saoghal gu leir,
'S neach cha téid an toll bho Dhia.

M' achanaich riuts', air sgàth do mbie,
Meadaich mo ghliocas le gràs ;
'S thoir dhomh mathanas 's gach cùis,
Seal m'an druid mo shuil le bàs.

ROB DONN.

ROBERT MACKAY, otherwise called Rob Donn, was born in the winter season of the year 1714, at Allt-na-Caillich, in the parish of Durness, in the county of Sutherland, and in that part of the county, properly enough, till of late, designated by its inhabitants and others, "Lord Reay's country," and in the native tongue "Dùthaich Mhic-Aoidh," or, "The country of the Mackay." The bard was not the eldest son of his father; he had three brothers, of whom nothing remarkable is remembered. His father, Donald Mackay, or Donald Donn, is not remembered to have been of any poetic talent; but his mother's talents of that description are known to have been more than ordinarily high. She was remarkable for the recital of Ossian's poems, and the other ancient minstrelsy of the land. She lived to a very advanced age; and we have heard an instance of singular female fortitude evinced by her at the age of eighty-two. Having had the misfortune to break her leg, while tending her sheep at a considerable distance from home, she bound it up, contrived to get home unassisted; and while afterwards enduring the operation of setting the fracture, she soothed the pain by crooning a popular air.

If local scenery could be really imagined conducive in any way to the formation or training of poetic genius, of a truth the nursery of our bard might well lay claim to that merit—"the emblem of deeds that were done in its clime." The surrounding localities of his native spot, we believe, are not surpassed in picturesque grandeur by any other in the Highlands of Scotland.

Rob Donn might say of himself, with Pope, that "he lisped in numbers." Ere he had yet but scarcely obtained even the power of lisping, an anecdote is recorded of his infant age of no ordinary description, though homely enough in its history. At the wonted season of making provision for the winter, according to the country's fashion, by slaughtering of beeves, our bard's father, on one occasion, happened to slaughter two, one of which was found inferior in quality to the other. The small-pox, at the time, was committing mournful devastations among the youth of the neighbourhood. While busied in the necessary avocation of curing their winter's beef, the father says, "Now, the best of this beef is not to be touched till we have seen who survives the small-pox to share it." The infant bard, scarcely yet able to articulate or walk, on hearing this, exclaimed, "'S olc a' chuid sin do 'n fhear a dh' fhalbhas!" i. e. "He who departs will have a bad share of it, then!" "True, my boy," said the father, "and yours will never be a bad share, while you remain able to use it."

The first verse he is said to have composed, was when he had attained only his third year. Its occasion indeed testifies that his age could not have been much more at the time. It was the country's fashion for children, when they had little more than left the nurse's lap, to be dressed in a short frock, or cassock, formed close to the body round the waist, and buttoned at the back. A tailor had fitted our youthful author with such an habiliment, and next morning the child was anxious to exhibit it; but his mother, and the domestics, having been summoned early to some out-door pursuits, Robert became anxious to get abroad in his new garb, but found himself quite defeated in every attempt to button it on. He took the alternative of sallying forth in a state of nudity; when, being met by his mother coming towards the house, she chided him for being seen in this state. Robert's defence was made in the following stanza:—

“ 'S math dhomhsa bhi 'n diugh gun aodach,
Le slaodaireachd Mhurchaidh 'Ic Neill,
Mo bhroilleach chur air mo chùlthaobh,
'S gun a dhùnadh agam fhéin !”

reproaching the tailor for the trick he had played him, in placing the buttons behind, and lamenting his own inability to accommodate the new dress to his person. His next exhibition of poetic promise was given in the same year, we are told, in the harvest season, when all the inmates of the family were employed in reaping. An old woman, who acted as nurse to the children, was on this occasion called to the sickle. She complained that the more active labourers had jostled her out of her place, and left her only to reap the straggling stunted stalks that grew in the border furrow. While muttering her disappointment, Robert, scarce able but to creep at his nurse's elbow, endeavoured to rally her with a verse:—

“ Bi-sa dol a null 's a nall,
Gus a ruig thu grund na clais',
Cha 'n 'eil air, ma tha e gann,
Ach na tha ann a thoirt as.”

At the age of six or seven years, he attracted the particular attention of Mr John Mackay, the celebrated Iain Mac-Eachuinn, a gentleman of the family of Sherray, then living on the neighbouring farm of Musal. This gentleman, of poetic talents himself, prevailed with our author's parents to allow their child to come into his service, or rather into his family, at the early age we have mentioned. In this family our author remained as a servant from this age till the period of his marriage. Here he experienced liberal treatment, and sincere, unvaried kindness, of which he ever retained a lively and grateful recollection, especially towards his master; and it is no trifling praise to both, that though they once or twice latterly had a difference, the bard's esteem and affection returned when the casual excitement had passed; and when it lay upon his mind, he was never once known to have given it the least utterance in any shape bordering upon disrespect, and after his death the bard composed an admirable elegy to his memory, which combines as forcible, energetic description of character and conduct, with as pure poetic power as can be found in any poetry of its kind. The bard most feelingly and pathetically concludes it with a solemn appeal of his having mentioned no virtue or trait of which he was not himself a witness.

A youth of our author's poetic mind could not be expected to remain long a stranger to the more tender susceptibilities of his nature. Nor has he left us in ignorance of his first love. It is the subject of one of his finest songs:—" 'S trom leam an àiridh," &c. Here his passion breathes with an innocent, simple faithfulness, with an ardour and truth of poetic recital, that no lays of the kind can perhaps surpass.

After his marriage, Rob Donn first resided at the place of Bad-na-h-achlais, then probably forming a part of his late employer's tenure. It was, we believe, soon after this period, that Robert was hired by Lord Reay to the office of a cow-keeper, at that time an office, though a humble one, of considerable responsibility and trust. In this station he continued for the greater part of his after life-time. We have not been able to ascertain dates with precision, to say whether it was before or after having accepted this office that our bard enlisted as a private soldier in the first regiment of Sutherland Highlanders, which was raised in 1759. He did not enlist so much as a soldier, as he was urged by the country gentlemen holding commissions in that corps, and as he himself felt inclined to accompany them. The regiment was reduced in 1763, and our bard returned to his home.

Though we have said that he spent mostly the after period of life, since he entered the service of Lord Reay, in that office, it was not without interruption. He left his servitude at one time, and we are inclined to think it was then he went into the military service. While he had charge of Lord Reay's cattle, and his wife of the dairy, during the summer months, it was also his province to look over them during the winter months: and it became a part of his duty, or an employment connected with it, to thresh out corn for supplying the cattle with fodder. To the laborious exercises of the flail, the bard could never submit. He employed servants to perform this part of his duty. That was, however, taken amiss, and he was told that he must himself wield the flail or leave the situation. He chose the latter alternative; and removed, with his family, to the place of Achmore, in that part of the parish of Durness which borders upon Cape Wrath. Indeed, though we have no decided authority for the supposition, we are inclined to believe that the difference between him and his noble employer originated in another cause than that ostensibly alleged. The bard had been dealing his reproofs rather freely. No feeling of dependance; no awe of superior rank or station, ever restrained him from giving utterance to his sentiments, or from enjoying his satire, whenever what he conceived to be moral error, or evil example, called for reproof. And this was dealt with the dignity that belongs to virtue, refusing, as he always did on such occasions, to compromise that dignity by indulging in personal invective. But whatever was the cause of the difference that occasioned his removal, he was soon recalled, and left not the service again during the life of the chief.

Robert continued to attend his usual avocations till within a fortnight of his death, which took place on the 5th August, 1778, being then aged 64 years. The death of the bard caused a universal feeling of sadness, not only in his own native corner, but over the whole county. It might be said that there was no individual but mourned for him as a friend: those only excepted whose continued immoralities and errors had rendered them objects on which fell with severity the powerful lash of his satire.

His stories of wit and humour were inexhaustible; and, next to superior intelligence and acuteness of mind, formed perhaps in his every-day character the most distinguishing feature. He had ever a correct and delicate feeling of his own place; but if any one, high or low, superior or equal, drew forth the force of his sarcasm upon themselves, by assuming any undue liberty on their part, it was an experiment they seldom desired to repeat. His readiness and quickness of repartee often discovered him where he had been personally unknown before. At one time, when travelling northward through a part of Argyllshire, he met by chance with Mr M'Donald of Achatriochadan, well known in his own country as a man of notable humour and distinguished talents. Robert addressed to this gentleman some question relative to his way; and giving a civil answer, Mr M'Donald added, "I perceive, my man, by your dialect, you belong to the north—what part there?" "To Lord Reay's country." "O! then, you must know Rob Donn!" "Yes I do, as well as I know myself. I could point him out to you in a crowd." "Pray do inform me, then, what sort of person he is, of whom I have heard so much." "A person, I fear, of whom more has been spoken than he well deserves." "You think so, do you?" The last answer did not please the inquirer, who was poetic himself, thinking he had met with too rigid a censurer of the northern bard, and the conversation ceased, while they both proceeded together on their way. After a pause, Mr M'Donald, pointing to Ben-Nevis, which now rose in the distance before them, says, "Were you ever, my man, at the summit of yonder mountain?" "I never was." "Then you never have been so near to heaven." "And have you yourself been there?" "Indeed I have." "And what a fool you have been to descend!" retorted the bard, "are you sure of being ever again so nigh?" M'Donald had caught a tartan. "I am far deceived," said he, "if thou be not thyself Rob Donn!" The bard did not deny it, and a cordial friendship was formed between them.

To Rob Donn's moral character testimony has already been borne. It was uniformly respectable. To those acquainted with what may well be denominated the moral and religious statistics of the bard's native country at that time, and happily still, it will furnish no inconsiderable test not only of his moral but of his strictly religious demeanour, that he was chosen a ruling elder, or member of the Kirk Session of the parish of Durness. In that country such an election was never made where the finger of scorn could be pointed at a blemish of character. It scarcely requires to be told, that his society was courted not alone by his equals, but still more by his superiors in rank. No social party almost was esteemed a party without him. No public meeting of the better and the best of the land was felt to be a full one, without Rob Donn being there.

In the bosom of his own humble but respectable family, we have good authority for saying that he was a pattern in happiness and in temper. A family of thirteen were mostly all spared to rise around him, trained to habits of industry and of virtue. None of them became celebrated as inheriting their father's genius; but some of his daughters possessed more or less of the "airy gift;" and from their attempts at repartee and impromptu, the father used frequently to draw much mutual and harmless enjoyment. His wife had a musical ear and voice unrivalled in the country; and any ordinary pastime of their winter evenings was for the family and parents to join their voices in song; while we believe, that when the father's absence did not prevent, they never ceased to exemplify the most sacred lineaments of the immortal picture in "The Cottar's Saturday Night."

Rob Donn's compositions may be classed into four kinds—Humorous, Satirical, Solemn, and Descriptive; all these severally, with few exceptions, belonging to the species of poetry commonly called Lyrical. He was illiterate; he knew not his alphabet. The artificial part of poetry, if poets will grant that expression legitimate, was to him utterly unknown. Perhaps he never took more than an hour or two to compose either his best or his longest songs. Even the most of the airs to which he composed are original, which presents as a single circumstance the resources of his mind to have been of no ordinary extent. His works were published in Inverness, with a memoir prefixed, in 1830.

In forming an estimate of the moral and poetical merits of Rob Donn, his biographer has been more guided by the opinions and prejudices of his countrymen, than by a just and impartial examination of the poet's works. In poetry, as in religion, we may be allowed to judge men by their fruits. Rob has been held up as a man of high moral and religious worth; but the editor himself admits, that many of his pieces are too indelicate for publication.

Many of his published pieces are such as no good man ought to have produced against his fellow creatures. His love of satire was so indiscriminate, that he often attacks persons who are not legitimate objects of ridicule. Little men and women are the unceasing objects of his satire; and he does not spare the members of his own family.

He was proud of his own powers of satire, and seemed to enjoy the dread of those who feared the exercise of his wit. His satire is not rancorous and vindictive, but playful and sportive; more calculated to annoy than to wound. If he was not invited to a feast or wedding, next day he composed a satire, full of mirth and humour, but too indelicate to be admitted into his book. He has not the wit and poignancy of Macintyre, who composed his satires while in a state of irritation to punish his enemies.

As a writer of elegies, he is more distinguished for sober truth, than poetical embellishment. He hated flattery; and, in closing an elegy on the death of a benefactor, he declares that he had recorded no virtue that he had not himself observed.

As a poet he cannot be placed in the highest rank. He is deficient in pathos and invention. There is little depth of feeling, and very slender powers of description to be found in his works; and, when the temporary and local interest wears away, he can never be a popular poet.

Yet, Rob Donn has been honoured more than any of his brother poets in the Highlands. A subscription having been raised among his countrymen for a monument to his memory, it is now erected in the parish burying-ground of Durness, over his grave. Its foundation stone was laid on 12th January, 1829, with masonic honours, and a procession to the burying-ground, not only of the whole parish, but joined by numbers from the other parishes of "Lord Reay's country," headed by Captain Donald Mackay, of the 21st regiment of foot, who has done himself honour worthy of record by his activity and zeal in raising the subscription, and bringing, with his other coadjutors, this intention to its completion. The monument now stands a record of the bard's fame, and an honourable testimony of his countrymen's feelings. It is of polished granite, on a quadrangular pedestal of the same enduring material, and bears the following inscriptions:—

ORAN DO PHRIONNSA TEARLACH.

An diugh, an diugh, gur reusontach

 An tri-amh lath' air crìochnachadh,
 De dhara mios a' gheamhraidh dhuinn ;
 Dean'maid comunn fùilteach riut,
 Gu bruidhneach, gàireach, òranach,
 Gu botalach, copach, stòpanach,
 Le cruit, le ceòl, 's le damhsaireachd.

Dean'maid comunn fùilteach
 Ris an là thug thun an t-saoghail thu ;
 Olamaid deoch-slàinte nis
 An t-Seumais big o 'n d' inntrig thu ;

 Gu 'n d' fhuair do mhàthair llobhraigeadh,
 Dheth h-aon bha do na Gàèil,
 Mar bha Dàibhidh do chlainn Israeil.

Tha cupall bhliadhn' a's ràidhe,
 O 'n là thàinig thu do dh' Alba so ;
 'S bu shoilleir dhuinn o 'n tràth bha sin,
 An fhàilte chuir an àimsir oirnn.
 Bha daoine measail, miadhail oirnn,
 'S bha àrach nà a' sealbhach' oirnn,
 Bha barran troma tìr' againn,
 Bha toradh frith' a's faing' againn.

An diugh, an diugh, gur cuimhne leam,
 Air puing nach còir a dhearmad ort,
 Mu bhreith a' phrionnsa riòghail so,

 Le toil 's le end 's le earbsalachd.

Togamaid fuirm a's meanmnadh ris,
 Is aithnichear air ar dùrachd sinn,
 Le latha chumail sunndach leinn,
 As leth a' phrionnsa Stiùbhartach ;
 Gur cal' an àm na h-éigin e,
 Ar carraig threun gu stiùireadh air ;

Cha 'n ioghnadh sin, 'n uair smuainichear
 An dualachas o 'n tàinig e ;

 Mar Shamson, treun an làmhan e,
 Mar Absalom, gur sgiabhach e,
 Gur sgiath 's gur dìon d' a chàirdean e.

Nach fhaic sibh féin an spéis
 A ghabh na speuran gu bhli 'g ùmhladh dha ;
 'N uair sheas an reannag shoillseach,
 Anns an line an robhsa stiùireadh leis ;
 An comhar' bh' aig ar Slànuighear,
 Ro Theàrlach thigh'n do 'n dùthaich so,
 'N uair chaidh na daoine ciallach ud
 G' a iarraidh gu Ierusalem.

A nis, a Theàrlach Stiùbhairt,
 Na 'm biodh an crùn a th' air Seòras ort,
 Bu lionmhor againn cùrtearan,
 A' caitheamh ghùn is chleòcaichean ;
 Tha m' athchuing ris an Tì sin,

Eadar bràighe Srath-Cbluanaidh,
Agus bruaichan Loch-abair ;
Rachadh 'n cùisibh mhic t-athar,
'S a chrùn, 's a chathair r' an tagradh,
'S a dh' ath-philleadh na Ceathairn,
A dhioladh latha Chulodair.

Ach a chàirdean na cùirte,
Nach 'eil a' chùis a' cur feirg oirbh,
Na 'n do dh' fhosgail bhur sùilean,
Gus a' chùis a bhi searbh dhuibh ;
Bidh bhur duais mar a' ghobhar
A théid a bhleodhan gu tarbhach,
'S a bhith r' a' fuadach 's an fhoghar
Is ruaig nan gaothar r'a h-earball.

Ma 's e 'm peacach a 's modha
'S còir a chumbhachd a chlaoidheadh ;
Nach e Seumas an Seachdamh
Dhearbh bhi seasmhach 'n a inntinn ?
"C' uim' an dìteadh sibh 'n onair,
Na bhiodh sibh moladh na daoidheadh ?"
'S gur h-e dhlùitheachd d' a chreideamh
A thug do choigrich an rìoghachd.

Fhuair sinn rìgh á Hanobhar,
Sparradh oirne le achd e,
Tha againn prionnsa 'n a aghaidh,
Is neart an lagha 'g a bhacadh ;
O Bhith, tha shuas 'na do bhreitheamh,
Gun chrun 's an dithis nach fac thu,—
Mar h-e a th' ann, cuir air aghairt
An t-aon a 's lugha 'm bi pheacadh.

Note.—This song was composed in praise of a young lady, the daughter of Iain mac Eachuinn, the bard's early friend, to the well known air of the pipe tune, "Fàilte Phrionns." To those who have attended to the variations of that air, as played properly upon the great Highland bag-pipe, it cannot but appear as a very respectable effort, that the bard has met all its variations, quick and slow, with words and with sentiments admirably suited both to the air and to his subject.—Vide Memoir of Edil. 1829.

RANN AIR LONG RUSPUINN.

[Sean long bheag, a bha air a càradh le ceannaiche, bha 'n a sheau duine, agus a bhrist roimhe sin; chàraich e an long so, le spruilleach luinge chaidh a bhriseadh ri stòrm geambraidh air tràigh fagus do Ruspuinn; bha 'n ceannaiche pòsd' ri seann nighin-tacan ro'n àm sin, 's iad gun chlanu. Gun tuar conaich air a' chual chrannaich,
Is luath rainich air cheud luchd.
Bha sean acair, gun aon taic innt',

An sean eithear air seana chloich.

ORAN NAN SUIRIDHEACH.*

FHEARAMH òg' leis am miannach pòsadh,
Nach 'eil na sgeòil so 'g 'ur fàgail trom?
Tha chuid a 's diomhair' tha cur an lìn dibh,

Tha chuid a's faighreachail' air an oighreachd s',
O 'm beil am prise a' dol air chall,
Mar choirean làidir, cur maill' air pàirtidh,
Tha barail chàirdean, a's gràdh gun bhonn.

Tha fear a' suiridh an diugh air inighean,
Gun bharail iomraill nach dean e tùrn;
Bha i uair, 's bu chumha buairidh,
A ghuth d' a' cluais, a's a dhreach d' a sùil.
An sean ghaol cinnteach bha aig ar sinnsir',
Nach d' fhuair cead imeachd air feadh na dùthchl',
Nach glan a dhearbh i, gu 'n deach' a mharbhadh,
'N uair ni i bàrgan, 'nuair thig fear ùr.

'S iomadh caochladh thig air an t-saoghal,
'S cha chan an fhirinn nach 'eil e crosd',
Na h-uile maighdean a ni mar rinn i,
Tha fois a h-inntinn an cumart feasd.
An duine treubhach, mur 'eil e spréidheach,
A dh' aindeoin eud, tha e féin 'g a chosg,
'S le comhairl' ghòraich a h-athair dhòlum,
'G a deanamh deònach le toic, 's le trosg.

O 'n tha 'n gaol ac' air fàs mar Fhaoilleach,
Na bitheadh strì agaibh ri bhì pòsd',
'A seasmhachd inntinn cha 'n 'eil thu cinnteach,
Rè fad na h-aon oidhch' gu teacad an lò;
An tè a phàirticheas riut a chàirdeas,
Ged tha i 'gràdh sud le cainnt a beòil,
Fo cheann seachduin, thig caochladh fleasgaich,
'S cha 'n fhaigh thu facal dh'i rè do bheò.

Ach 's mòr an nàire bhi 'g an sàrachadh,
Oir tha pàirt dhiubh de 'n inntinn stòlt',
Mach o phàrantan agus chàirdean,
Bhi milleadh ghràidh sin tha fas gu h-òg;
Mur toir i aicheadh do 'n fhear a's fear leath',
Ged robh sud craiteach dh'i fad a beò,
Ni h-athair feargach, a beatha searbh dh'i,
'S gur fearr leis marbh i, na 'faicinn pòsd'.

Faodaidh reason a bhi, gu tréigeachd
An fhir a 's beusaich' a théid 'n a triall;
Ged tha e cairdeach, mur 'eil e pàgach,
Ud! millidh pràcas na th' air a mhiann;
Tha 'n duine suairce, le barrachd stuamachd,
A' call a bhuannachd ri tè gun chiall;
'S fear eile 'g éiridh, gun stic ach léine,
'S e cosnadh géill dh'i mu 'n stad e srian.

Mur 'eil stuamachd a' cosnadh gruagaich,
Och! ciod a' bhuaidh air am beil a geall?
Nach mor an neònachas fear an dòchais so,
Gun bhì enòdach ni 's modha bonn;
Fear eile sìneadh le mire 's taosnadh,
Le comunn faoilteach, no argneadh trom,
'S ge math na trì sin gu cosnadh aontachd,
Cha 'n 'eil a h-aon diubh nach 'eil a' call.

Ma tha e pàgach, ma tha e sgathach,
Ma tha e nàrach, ma tha e mear;
Ma tha e sanntach, ma tha e greannar,
Ma tha e cainnteach, a's e gun chron;
Ma tha e bòidheach, ma tha e seolta,
Ma tha e còmhnard, ma tha e glan;
Ma tha e diomhain, ma tha e gnìomhach,
Ud, ud! cha 'n fhiach le a h-aon diubh sin!

Ma tha e pàgach, tha e gun nàire,
'S ma tha e sgathach, cha bheag a' chrois;
Ma tha e gaolach, tha e 'n a chaora;
'S ma tha e faoilteach, tha e 'n a throsg;
Ma tha e gnìomhach, their cuid, "Cha 'n fhiach e,
Tha 'm fear ud mìodhair, 's e sud a chron;"
'S ma tha e failligeach ann an aiteachadh,
"Cha bhì barr aig", is bì'dh e bochd."

Cò an t-aon fhear air feadh an t-saoghail,
A tha nis cinnteach gu 'n dean e tùrn;
'S nach 'eil a h-aon de na tha mi 'g innsadh,
Nach 'eil 'n a dhìteadh dha air a chùl.

An duine meanmnach, 's e toimhseil, ainmeil,
Cha chluinn thu 'ainm ach mar fhear gun diù ;
'S nach fhaic thu féin, air son iomadh reusoin,
Gu 'n deach' an spréidh os ceann céille, 's cliù.

Tha fear fòs ann, a dh-aindeoin dbchais,
A dh' fhaodas pòsadh gun mhòran char ;
Na'm biodh de chiall aig' na dh' aithnich riamh,
Gu 'n do dh-éirich grian anns an àirde 'n ear ;
Deau 'n a dhuairc e, a rugadh 'n cuaran,
Thoir baile 's buar dha, a's treabhair gheal ;
Leig labhairt uair dha, ri athair gruagaich,
'S bheir mi mo chluas dhut mar faigh e bean.

'S gu 'm b' eòl dut gu 'n robh m' aimsir,
Is mo mheanmnadh air an claidh;
B' fhrasd' dhut 's na bliadhnaibh ud,
Mo riarachadh le mnaoi
Bhiodh ùmhail, cairdeil, rianail dhomb,
'S nach iarradh fear a chaidh."

"Dh' fhaodainn-sa do phòsadh
Ris an t-seòrsa tha thu 'g ràdh,
Ach 's aon an as a' chiad dhiubbh,
Bheireadh riarachadh dhut ràidh;
An tè de 'n nadur neònach ud,
'S nach toireadh pòg gu bràth,
Aon dràm no deoch cha 'n òlar leath',
'S cha dheònaich i do chàch."

Air an dara dùsal dhomb,
'N déigh dùsgadh as mo shuain,
Chunnaic mi na daoine sin,
Ag sgoileadh mach mu 'n cuairt;
S na h-uile bean bha pùda sin,
A' dol 'n an dùnaibh suas,
Ach 's aon tè as an fhlichead dhiubbh,
Bha buidheach leis na fhuair.

Labhair aon bean iunnsuicht' dhiubbh,
Bu mbotha rùm na càch:—
"Am biadh, an deoch, 's an aodaichean,
Cha 'n fhaodainn bhi ni 's sathaicht';
Ach gu m' fhagail trom, neo-shunndach,
Cha 'n eòl domh pung a's dàch',
Na gealltanas mo thòileachadh,
Gun choimhlionadh gu bràth.

"An duine sin tha mar rium,
Tha sìor ghearan air mo shunnd,
Dhearbhainn féin air 'fhiacaill,
Ged nach d' iarr mi, nach do dhiùlt;
Bidh mòran diubbh mi-reusonta,
'Nuair gheibh thu 'n sgeul gu grunn,
Tha dùil ac' gu 'n ghluais mireag riuth',
An spiorad nach 'eil annt'.

"S neònach leam an dràsda 'n so,
Sìor àbhaist nam fear pòsd',
Their gu ladarn' dàna,
Nach do thoirmisg aithne pòg;
Cia mòr an diùbheas beusan
Th' eadar eucoir agus còir,
Cha 'n eòl domh aite-seasaimh,
Gun a chos air aon diubbh dhò."

Chunnaic mi 's an àite sin,
Ni àbhachdach gu leòir,
Is shaoil mi gu 'm bu reuson e,
O 'n tigeadh eudach mòr;
Ciod bh' ann ach fear gun chomas,
'G iarraidh comunn tè gun chòir,
'S bha fìor dhroch bheachd aig ceud deth,
'S a bhean féin 'g a chur an spòrs.

Chuireadh e neul 'n am eanchainn-s',
A bhi 'g ainmeachadh le cainnt,
A' mheud 's a bh' ann de dh-argumaid,
'S do chomunn gearra greann';

Bha na ceadan pears' an sud,
'N an seasamh ann an rànc,
'S bha casaidean aig mòran duibh,
Ma 'n aon neach bha toirt taing.

AN DUINE SANNTACH

AGUS AN SAOGHAL, A' GEARAN AIR A CHEILE.

AN DUINE.

'S MI-CHOMAINNEACH thusa, Shaoghail,
'S b' abhaist dhut,
'S olc a leanadh tu ri daoine
A leanadh riut;
Am fear a cheangail sreang gu teann riut,
Leis a' ghlut;
'Nuair tharruinn gach fear a cheann féin d'i,
'S es' a thuit.

AN SAOGHAL.

Is sibhse tha mar sin, a dhaoine,
'S b' abhaist duibh,
'S olc a leanadh sibh ri saoghal
A leanadh ribh;
Ged chuir mise sorchan fodhaibh,
'S air gach taobh,
Mas sibh féin tha gabhal teichidh,
Soraidh leibh!

AN DUINE.

O, na 'n gleidheadh tu mis', a shaoghail,
Bhithinn dha do réir,
Oir tha na h-uile ni a's toigh leam
Fo na ghréin;
C' uim' an leigeadh tu gu dlínn
Mi gu péin,
'S nach 'eil flaitheas cho prìseil dhomh
Riut féin.

AN SAOGHAL.

S ann bu chòir dhut bhi cur t-eòlais
Ni bu deis',
Far am biodh na h-uile sòlas
Ni bu treis',
Ged ni mis' an t-umaidh àrach
Ri car greis,
'N uair a thogras e féin m' fhagail,
Leigeam leis.

A' bhliadhna na caluinn-s',

Ach cia b' e ni bha 's na cairtean,
Chaidh e feargach oirnn seachad an dé;
'S cò a 's dàcha bhi coireach,
Na 'n fear a dh-fhagas am baile leis féin?
Binn sin uair-eigin, &c.

Chunnaic mis' air a' bhòrd thu,

Ach ma thuiteas fear aithghearr,

Cha 'n 'eil fhios agam, aca,
Co a 's ciontaich' an leac no na buinn.
Binn sin uair-eigin, &c.

Tha mise féin ann an eagal,
'G iarraidh fàsaich no eag do mo shàil,

Ach tha m' earbsadh tre chunnart,

Cha 'n 'eil àird' aig mo smigeld o 'n làr.

Note.—Dr Morrison, the hero of this song, was for a long time in high esteem and favour in the family of Lord Reay; but at length a misunderstanding arising between them, he found cause to leave the family, reflecting, at the same time, on the fluctuating temper and unsteady favour of the great, and repeating the old Gaelic adage, "Is steamhuinn an leac a th'aig dorus an taigh' mhòir."

AIR FONN—"Oran na h-aoise."

'S e mo bheachd ort, a bhàis,
Gur bras thu ri pàirt,
Gur teachdair' tha laidir, treum, thu;
An cogadh no 'm blàr,
Cha toirear do shàr,
Aon duine eba tàr do thréigsinn;
Thug thu an dràs
Dhuinn buille no dhà,
Chuir eaglaisean bà, a's foghlum;
Is 's fhuasad dhomh ràdh,
Gur goirid do dhàil,
'S gur tric a' toirt beàrn 'n ar Cléir thu.

Bhuin thu ruinn garbh,
Mu 'n dithis so dh-fhalbh,
'Nuair ruith thu air lòrg a chéil' iad;
C' uime nach d' fhàg thu

* "Hate dogs their flight, and insult mocks their end"
Johns. Van. Hum. Wishes.

Bhuidhean a b' àirde,
A bhiodh do chàch ro fheumail;
A bhruidean a b' fheàrr
A' tighinn o 'm beul,
'S an cridheachan làn de reuson;
Chaidh gibhteachan gràis
A mheasgadh 'n an gnàths,
'S bha 'n cneasachd a' fàs d' a réir sin.

Dithis bha 'n geall
Air gearradh á bonn,
Gach ain-ìochd, gach feall, 's gach eucoir;
Dà sholus a dh-fhalbh
A earrannan garbh',
Dh-fhàg an talamh-sa dorch d' a réir sin;
Ge d' tha e ro chruaidh,
Gu 'n deach' iad 's an uaigh,
Tha cuid a gheibh buaidh a's feum dheth;
Mar ris gach aon ni,
Dh-aithris iad dhuinn,
Chaidh 'n gearradh á tim an leughaidh.

Dithis a bh' ann,
Bu chomhairl' 's bu cheann,
Do phobull fhuair àm g' an éisdeachd;
Dithis, bha 'm bàs
'N a bhriseadh do chàch,
Gidheadh gu 'm b' e 'm fàbhor féin e;
Cha ladurn gu dearbh,
Dhuinn chreidsinn 'nuair dh-fhalbh,
Gu 'n d' fhreagair an earbs' gu léir iad;
A dh' aindeoin an aoig,
B' e 'n cairde gaoil,
'Nuair sgair e o thìr nam breug iad.

Tha sgeulan r' a inns'
Mu dhéighinn na dith's,
A 's feumail a bhi sna ceudan;
Feudaidh mi ràdh,
Cia teumach am bàs,
Nach tug e ach pairt d' a bheum uainn.
Ged thug e le tinn,
An corpa do 'n chill,
Bidh iomradh ro bhinn 'n an déigh orr';
Is ionnadh beul cinn,
Ag aithris 's gach lium,
Na labhair, na sheinn, 's na leugh iad.

Sinne tha làthair,
Tuig' maid an t-stràchd-s',
Is cleachdamaid trà air reuson;
Nach faic sibh o'n bha,
An lathachan s' gearr,
Gu 'n ruith iad ni b' fheàrr an réis ud;
'S mac-samhuil dhuinn iad,
Ged nach 'eil sinn cho àrd,

Annas na nitheanaibh cràbhaidh, leughant' ;
 Na earb'maid gu bràth,
 Gu 'n ruig sin an t-àit-s'
 Mur lean sinn ri pàirt d' an ceuman.

Tha 'n teachdair s' air tòir
 Gach neach a tha beò,
 'G an glacadh an còir no 'n encoir ;
 Na gheibh e 'n a dhòrn,
 Cha reic e air òir,
 Ri gul, no ri deoir cha 'n èisd e.
 Chi mi gur fiù
 Leis tighinn do 'n chùil,
 Gu fear th' ann an clùd mar éideadh ;
 'S ged dheanamaid dùn,
 Cha cheannaich e dhuinn,
 Aon mhionaid de dh-ùin o 'n eug sin.

An dithis so chuaidh,
 Cha rachadh cho luath,
 Na 'n gabhadh tu uainn an éirig ;
 Cha leig'maid 'n an dith's
 Iad as an aon mhios,
 Na 'm b' urradh sinn dìol le seudan :
 Ach 's teachdair ro dhàn'
 Thu, tighinn o 's àird,
 Buailidh tu stàtaibh 's déircean ;
 Cha bhacar le 'pris,
 Air t' ais thu a rìs,
 'S tu dh' easbhuidh an aoin mu 'n téid thu.

Glacaidh tu chloinn
 A mach bho na bhroinn,
 Mu 's faic iad ach soills' air éigin ;
 Glacaidh tu 'n òigh,
 Dol an coinneamh an òig,
 Mu 'm feudar am pòsadh éigheachd.
 Ma 's beag, no ma 's mòr,
 Ma 's sean, no ma 's òg,
 Ma 's cleachdamh dhuinn còir no eucoir ;
 Ma tha sinn 'n ar beò,
 Is anail 'n ar sròin,
 Cuirear uile sinn fo na féich ud.

Tha 'm bàs os ar cinn,
 'G ar glacadh le tinn,
 S le fradhrac ar cinn cha léir e ;
 Ach tha glaoth aig' cho cruaidh,
 S gu 'm faodadh an sluagh,
 A chluinntinn le cluasan reusoin.
 Nach deare sibh a chùl,
 Is fear aig' fo lùil,
 S e sealtuinn le 'shùil gu geur air ;
 An diugh ciod am fàth,
 Nach bidh'maid air gheàrd,
 'S gu 'n bhuiin e ar nàbuidh 'n dé bhuainn.

A chumbhachd a tha
 Cur chugainn a bhàis,
 Gun teagamh nach pàighear 'fhéich dha ;
 Tha misneachd a's bonn
 Aig neach a tha 'n geall,
 Air tagradh na gheall do bheul dha.
 Oir 's athair do chlànn
 A dh' fheitheas a th' ann,
 'S fear-taighe do 'n bhantraich féin e ;
 'S e'n Cruithear a th' ann,
 A bheir gu neo-ghann,
 Na thoillean sinn anns a' chreutair.

M A R B H R A N N,

DO MHAIGHSTIR, MURCHADH MAC-DHOMHNUILLE,
 MINISTEAR SGIRE DHIURINNIS
 AN DUTHAICH MHC-AOIDH.

'S e do bhàs, 'Mhaighstir Murchadh,
 Rinn na h-àitean so dhorchadh,
 'S ged chaidh dàil ann do mharbhrann,
 Labhraidh balbhachd ri céill.
 Na 'm biodh a' Chrìosdaidheachd iomlan,
 Cha rachadh dì-chuimhn' air t-iomradh,
 No do ghniomharan iomlaid,
 Ach leantadh t-iomchan-s' gu léir ;
 Gur h-e chràdh mi 'n am mheanmhadh,
 'S do luchd-gràidh agus leanmhuinn,
 Meud do shaotrach mu 's d' fhalbh thu,
 'S lugh'd a luig as do dhéigh ;—
 Bheir cuid *leasan*an buadhach,
 O bhruaich fasanan t-uaghach,
 Nach tug daisèachan suarach,
 As na chual iad bhuaht féin.

Fìor mhasgull chionn pàidhidh,
 No stad gealtach le gàbhadh,
 Bhrìgh mo bheachd-s' ann an dànaibh,
 'S mi nach deanadh, 's nach d' rinn :
 Ach na 'm biodh comain no stà dhut,
 Ann a t-alladh chur os àird dut,
 Co ach mis' do 'm bu chàra,
 'S co a b' fheàrr na thu thoill ?
 Bhuidhean mholtach-s' a dh-fhàg sinn,
 Ged nach urr' iad a chlàistinn,
 'S còir bhi 'g aithris am pàirtean,
 Gun fhàbhor, 's gun fhoill ;
 Oir 's buain' a' chuimhne bheir bàrda,
 Air deagh bhua dhannaibh nàduir,
 Na 'n stoc cruinn sin a dh-fhàg iad,
 Is comb-stri chàirdean 'g a roinn.

Bha do ghibhtean-sa làidir,
 Air am measgadh le gràsan,
 Anns a' phearsa bla àluinn,
 Lom-làn de na chéill ;

An tuigs' bu luchdmhoir' gu gleidheadh,
An toil a b' èasgaidh gu matheadh,
'S na h-uile h-aigeadh cho fhathail,
Fad do bheatha gu léir.

Bhiodh do chomhairl' an còmhnuidh,
Le do chobhair 's do chòmhnadh,
Do luchd-gabhail na còrach,
Réir 's mar sheòladh tu féin ;
Dheanadh tu 'n t-aideonach deònach,
Is an t-aineolach eòlach—
'S b' e fìor shonas do bheòshlaint,
Bhi tabhairt còrr dhaibh de léirs'.

Bha thu caomh ri fear feumach,
Bha thu saor ri fear reusont',
Bha thu aodanach, geurach,
Mar chloich, ri encoireach, cruaidh ;
Bu tu 'n tabhairteach maoiniach,
Bu tu 'n labhairteach saoitreach,
Bu tu 'n comhairleach timeil,
'S crìoch a' ghaoil ann ad fhuath ;
Tha e 'n a ladaruas gàbhaidh,
Bhi le h-eagal ag àicheadh,
Nach 'eil stoc aig an Ard-Rìgh,
Ni an àird na chaidh uainn ;
Ach 's fàbhor Freasdail, 's a's foghnadh,
No 'n ni a 's faisge do mhìorbhuil,
Am bèarn so th' againn a lìonadh,
Gu blas miannach an t-sluaigh.

Leam is beag na tha dh' fhoighneachd,
Mu na thubhairt, 's na rinn thu,
'S mu na chliù sin a thoill thu,
O 'n là chaill sinn thu féin ;
Ach m'èran tartar is stroighlich,
Air son féich, agus oigbheachd,
Fàgaidh beartaich mur fhìne e,
Air an cloinn as an déigh ;
'S e ni a 's minig a chi mi,
Dh' aindeoin diombunachd tìme,
Gu'm beil gionaich nan daoine,
Tarruinn claonadh 'n an céill ;
Ach cha 'n 'eil iomairt no mòtion,
Anns na freasdail so dhomhsa,
Nach toir leasan 'n am chòdhail,
Le seann nòt bho do bheul.

Toigheach, faicilleach, fiamhach,
Smuainteach, facalach, gnìombach,
Ann do ghnòthachaihbh dìomhair,
Gun bhi dìomhain aon uair ;
Chaith thu t-aimsir gu saoitreach,
Air son sonas nan daoine ;
'S cha b' e truaillidheachd shaoghalt
No aon ni chur suas.
'Nuair tha nitheana taitneach,
Dol a mugh' a chion cleachdaidh,
B' e chùis fharmaid fear t-fhasain,
'S cha b' e beartas a's uails',

A' dol o 'n bheatha bu sheirbhe,
Tre na cathan bu ghairbhe,
Dh-ionnsuidh Flaitheas na tairbhe,
Gu buan shealbhachadh duais.

Gu'm beil cealgaireachd chràbaidh,
Air a dearbhadh gu gàbhaidh,
Tha 'n a gairisinn r' a clàistinn,
Is ro chràiteach r' a luaidh ;
Nuair a thuit thu le bàs bhuainn,
Mar gu 'm briseadh iad bràighdean,
Dhùisg na h-uile sin a b' àbhaist,
A bhi an nàdur an t-sluaigh ;
Gu'm beil cath aig an Ard-Rìgh,
Gu bhi gabhail nam pàirtean,
Anns na chruthaich e gràsan,
Thug air aghairt gach buaidh ;
Rinn sud sinne 'n ar fàsach,
Anns an talamh-s' an trà so,
So a' bharail th' aig pàirt diubbh,
Tric 'g a ràtainn air t-uai gh.

An duine thigeadh a suas riut,
Ann an guth 's ann an cluasan,
Cha 'n fhacas riamh a's cha chualas,
Is 's e mo smuaintean nach cluinn ;
Ged bu bheartach do chràbhachd,
Bha do mheas air gach tálann,
'S tu a thuigeadh na dàna,
'S am fear e dheanadh na rainn ;
Chuid a b' àirde 's a' bhuaidh sin,
Tha 'd air stad dheth o 'n uair sin,
Ach na daiseachan suarach,
Tha mu 'n cuairt duinn a' seinn ;
'Nuair a cheilear a' ghrian orr'.
Sin 'n uair ghoireas na biastan,—
Cailleach-oidhch' agus strìanach,
An coilltean fiadhaich, 's an glinn.

'S eòl domh daoine 's an aimsir-s',
Dh-fhàs 'n an cuideachd glé ainmeil,
Tigh'nn air nitheanan talmhaidh,
Ann an gearrabhaireachd gheur ;
Ach 'n uair thogar o 'n làr iad,
Gus na nithibh a's àirde,
S ann a chluinneas tu pàirt diubbh,
Mar na pàisdean gun chéill ;
Fhuair mi car ann do rianaibh-s',
Le do ghibhitean bha fialaidh,
Nach do dhearc mi, ma 's fìor dhomh.
An aon neach riamh ach thu féin,—
Càil gach cuideachd a lìonadh,
Leis na theireadh tu dìomhan,
'S crìoch do sheanchais gun fhìaradh,
Tighinu gu diadhaidheachd threun.

Bha do chuid air a sgaoleadh
Gu bhi cuideachadh dhaoine,

'S fhad 's a bha thu 's an t-saoghal,
 'S tu nach faodadh bhì pàidht' ;
 Chuid bu taitneich 'n an iomchlainn,
 Cha 'n 'eil facal mu 'n timcheall,
 Cha bhì ceartas mu 'n iomradh,
 Ach le 'n imrich, 'n am bàs.
 'S truagh am peanas a thoill sinn,
 Thaobh nan ciontan a rinn sinn,—
 Bhì sìor ghearradh ar goibhlean,
 'S ar cuid theaghlachean fàs ;
 Gun cheann laidir gu fhoighneachd,
 Co nì 'n àirde na chaill sinn,
 Cuid, d' an cràdh, là is oidhche,
 Nach tig t-oighre 'na t-àit.

CUMHA DO MHR. MURCHADH.

[A rinn am bard an ceann bliadhna an déigh bàis an duin' uasail sin, air iarrtas a mhic am fìor Gàel suairc ionnsaichte, Mr Padruig Mac.Dhòmhnuill, ministear Sglre' Chille-moire an Earraghàil, air dha thighinn do 'n dùthaich, agus a bhì aig àm àraidh an cuidcachd a' bhàird.]

CO-SHEIRM.

'S cianail, a's cianail,
 O ! 's cianail a tha mi,
 'N ceann na bliadhna,
 O ! 's cianail a tha mi,
 A Mhaighstir Murchadh,
 'S tu air m' fhàgail,
 'S maìry nach d' fhuair sinn,
 Linn no dhà dhìot.

CHRIDHE NA FÉILE,
 A bhéil na tàbhachd,
 Cheann na céille,
 'S an fhoghlum chràbhaidh,
 Làimh gun ghanntair
 An am dhut paigheadh,
 An uachdar a' bhùird,
 A ghnùis na fàilte.
 'S cianail, &c.

Tha mise 'n am aonar,
 Mar aon ann am fàsach,
 'S nì gun fheum dhomb,
 Aobhar ghàire,
 Cuims' ann an cainnt,
 Ann an ranu no dànachd,
 Chionn 's nach 'eil thu ann
 G' an clàistinn.
 'S cianail, &c.

Chaochail iad rianan,
 O chioslaich am bàs thu,
 Cha 'n 'eil meas am bliadhna,
 Air ciall, no air cràbhadh ;
 Thionndaidh na biastan
 Gu riasradh gràineil,
 Leo-san leig Dia,
 Srian o 'n là sin.
 'S cianail, &c.

Rinn cuid bròn
 Fa choir do bhàis-sa.
 Ach ghabh iad sgìos,
 Ann am mìos no dhà dheth ;
 Cha 'n 'eil mis' mar iadsan,
 Riaracht' cho trà dheth,—
 An ceann na bliadhna,
 'S cianail a tha mi.
 'S cianail, &c.

'S caomh leam an teaghlach,
 'S a' chlann sin a dh-fhàg thu,
 'S caomh leam na fuinn,
 Bhidhte seinn ann ad fhàrdaich ;
 'S caomh leam bhì 'g ùrachadh
 Chliù nach tug bàs dhìot ;
 'S caomh leam an ùir th' air do thaobh,
 Dheth na Bhàghan !
 'S cianail, &c.

ORAN A' GHEAMHRAIDH.

AIR FONN—" Through the wood, laddie."

Moch 's mi 'g éiridh 's a mhadainn,
 'S an sneachd air a' bheinn,
 Ann an lagan beag monaidh,
 Ri madainn ro dhoinid,
 'S ann a chuala mi 'n lonan,
 Chuir an loinid o sheinn,
 Is am pigidh ag éigheach
 Ris na speuraidh, 's cha bhinn.

Bithidh am beithe crìon, crotach,
 Sior stopadh o 'fhàs ;
 Mar ri gaoth gharbh shéididh,
 Agus ioma-chathadh 'g éiridh,
 Cròcan barraich a' géilleadh,
 Mìos éigheach an àil ;
 A' mhìos chneatanach, fhuachdaidh,
 Choinheach, ghruamach, gun tlàths'.

Bi'dh gach doire dubh uaigneach,
 'N dùil fuasgladh o bhlàth ;
 Bithidh an snodhachd a' traoghadh,
 Gus an fhreumb as na shùn e,
 Crupaidh chairt ris gu dìonach,
 Gus an erion i gu làr ;
 'N Ion-dubh anns a' mhadainn,
 Sior sgreadail chion blàiths.

Mhios dheitheasach, chaoile,
 Choimheach, ghaothach, gun bhlàths',
 Chuireadh feadail na fuarachd,
 Ànns gach badan bu dualaich',
 Dhòirteadh sneachda 'n a ruathar,
 Air chruach nam beann àrd',
 'S an àm teichidh na gréine,
 Caillidh Phæbus a bhlàths'.

Mhios chaiseaneach, ghreannach,
 Chianail, chainneanach, gheàrrt',
 'S i gu clachanach, currach,
 Chruaidhteach, sgealpanach, phuinneach,
 Shneachdach, chaochlaideach, fhrasach,
 Rètach, reasgach, gu sàr ;
 'S e na cháoirneinean craidhneach,
 Fad na h-oidhche' air an làr.

'S ann bhios Phæbus 'n a reòtachd,
 An ceap nam mòr chruach 's nam beann ;
 Bidh 's an uair sin 's cha neònach,
 Gach eun gearra-ghobach goineach,
 Spioladh iomall an oiraich,
 Cur a shrùin anns an dàm ;
 Còmhradh cùrrta gun bheadradh,
 Le bròn a's sgreadal 'n an ceann.

'S an àm tighinn an fheasgair,
 Cha bhì an acaras gann ;
 Ni iad còmhnuidh 's gach callaid,
 Buileach anmhunn a's callaidh,
 Sgrìobadh ùir as na ballaibh,
 Mios chur doininn nan gleann,
 'S iad a' beucail gu toirmneach,
 'S cha bhì 'n eirbheirt ach mall.

Ach nach dao-chail 's a' gheamhradh,
 Fann ghéim gamhna chion febir,
 Gnùgach, caol-dromach, fearsnach,
 Tioram, tarra-ghreannach, àrsaidh,
 Biorach, sgreamhanach, fuachdaidh,
 Siltean fuaraidh r' a shròin,
 'S e gu sgrog-laghrach gùgach,
 Fulang sàrach' an reòt.

Bidh gach creutair d' a threisead,
 'G iarraidh fasgaidh 's a' choill,
 Bidh na h-ùrlaichean cabrach,
 Gnùsdach, airtnealach, laga,

Gabhail geilt dheth na mhadainn,
 Le guth a' chneatain 'n an ceann,
 Is na h-aighean fo euslaimh,
 Air son gun thréig iad a' bheinn.

Sud na puirt bu ghoirt gearradh,
 Is bu shalaiche seinn,
 Ghabhadh m' inntinn riamb egal,
 Roimh bhur sgreadail 's a' mhadainn,
 'N àm a' chruidh bhì air ghadaibh,
 'S an cuid fodair 'g a roinn,
 'S iad 'n am baideinibh binniceach,
 Gu h-àsruidh, tioma-chasach, tinn.

Am bradan caol bharr an fhìor uisg',
 Fliuch, slaod-earballach, fuar,
 'S e gu tàrr-ghlogach, ronnach,
 Chlambach, ghear-bhallach, lannach,
 Soills na meirg' air 'n a earradh,
 Fiamh na gainn' air 's gach tuar,
 'S e gu crom-cheannach, burrach,
 Dol le buinne 'na chuaich.

An t-samhainn bhagarach, fhiadhaich,
 Dhubhrach, chlar-dhubh, gun bhlàths',
 Ghuineach, ana-bhliochdach, fhuachdaidh,
 Shruthach, steallanach, fhuaimnecach,
 Thuileach, an-shocrach, uisgeach,
 Gun dad measaich ach càl,
 Bithidh gach deat, a's gach miseach,
 Glacadh aogais a' bhàis.

Note.—This song appears to be a parody on twelve of the stanzas of M'Donald's "Ode to Summer."—“We are inclined to think that on a journey the poet made to the Isle of Skye, he might have heard M'Donald's 'Summer Song' and composed this in imitation of it.”—Memoir to Edit. 1829.

'S TROM LEAM AN ÀIRIDH.

[Rinn am bàrd an t-òran so d' a leannan, Anna Moir-iston, nighean òg ro chliùiteach, d' an tug e cheud ghaol ; bha e fada 'g a h-iarraidh, agus ise car leam-leat, gun bhì 'g a diùltadh no 'g a gabhail ; ach turus a thug e chun na h-àiridh far an robh i aig an am, 's ann a dhear e oirre na cuideachd an t-saor bhàin, d' am b' ainm Iain Moraidh, ghabh e gu ro-throm i a chur càl ris féin. Phòs i an saor bàin an déigh so, agus 'se aithris an t-sluaigh—nach robh i riamb toilichte gu 'n chuir i càl ri Rob Donn ; agus cha mho a dhearbh an saor bàin e féin 'n a chéile ro thaitneach.]

'S TROM LEAM AN ÀIRIDH,
 'S a ghàir so a th'innt',
 Gu'n a phairt sin a b'abhaist,
 Bhì 'n dràs air mo chinn ;

Anna chaol-mhalach, chioch-chorrach,
 Shlip-cheannach, ghrinn,
 'S Iseabail a bheoil mhillis ;
 Mharanaich, bhinn.
 Heich ! mar a bhà
 Air mo chinn ;
 'S e dh-fhag mi cho craiteach,
 'S gu'n stà dhomh bhì 'g inns'.
 Heich ! &c.

Shiubhail mis' a bhuaill' ;
 Agus shuas feagh nan craobh,
 'S gach àit' anns am b' àbhaist,
 Bhì tàthladh mo ghaoil,
 Chumna 'mi'm fear bàn,
 A's e màran r'a mhnaoi
 'S b' fhearr leam nach tarainn
 An trà ud na ghaoith.
 'S e mar a bha,
 Air mo chinn,
 A dh' fhag air bheag tàth mi
 Ge nàr e ri sheinn.
 'S e, &c.

Anna bhuidhe nighean Don' uill,
 Na'm b'eol dut mo nì,
 'S e do ghradh, gu'n bhì pàidht',
 Thug a mhàn bhuaam mo chli :
 Tha e dhomh às t-fhianais
 Cho ghniomhach, 's trà chí.
 Diogladh 's a' smuaiseach,
 'S gur ciuirrt' tha mo chrì.
 Air gach trà
 'S mi ann an strì,
 'Feuchainn ri àicheadh,
 'S e fàs rium mar chraoibh.
 Air, &c.

Labhar i gu h-àilleasach,
 Fàiteagach rium :—
 " Cha tàr thu bhì làmh rium,
 Gu càradh mo chinn :
 Bha siathnar ga m' iarraidh,
 Car bliadhna de thìm ;
 'S cha b' airidh thar càch thu
 Thoirt barr os an cinn.
 Hã ! hã ! hã !
 An d' fhàs thu gu tinn
 Mas e 'n gaol a bheir bàs ort
 Gu'm pàidh thu ga chinn !
 Ha ! &c.

Ach cia mar bheirinn fuath dhut
 Ged' dh-fhuaraich thu rium ?
 'Nuair a's feargaich mo sheannachas,
 Ma t-ainm air do chùl,
 Thig t-iomhaigh le h-annsachd
 Mar shamhladh na m' uidh,

As saoilaidh mi gur gaol sìn,
 Nach caochail a chaoidh.
 'S théid air a ràdh,
 Gu'n dh-fhas e as ùr,
 'S fasaidd e 'n trà sìn,
 Cho airde ri tùr !
 'S théid, &c.

On a chualas gu'n gluaisear thu,
 Bhuaam leis an t-saor,
 Tha, mo shuain air a buaireadh
 Le bruadairean gaoil,
 Gu'n an càirdeas a bha sid
 Cha tàr mi bhì saor.
 Ga mo bhàrnaigeadh laimh riut
 'S e ghnà dhomh mar mhaor.
 Ach ma thà
 Mi ga do dhì,
 B'fheairde mi pàg bhuat
 Mas fagadh tu 'n tìr.
 Ach ma tha, &c.

AN RÌBHINN ALUINN EIBHINN OG.

THA Deòrs' air a' Mhàidsear
 Ro dhàn' ann an cainnt,
 An rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.
 Sior chur an céill,
 Gu robh é-san fo staint*
 An rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.
 Ach 'nuair théid an t-òsd,
 Mu 'n bhòrd ann an rancaibh,
 Olaidh e gu càrdeach,
 Deoch-slàinte na baintighearn,
 Bidh h-uile fear do chàch,
 Mach o Sàlaidh, toirt taing dha,
 An rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.

Mu 'm faca mo shùil thu,
 'S e 'n cliù ort a fhuair mi,
 A rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.
 Mar gu'm bu bhan-dé thu,
 Gu 'n géilleadh an sluagh dhut,
 A rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.
 Shaoil leam gu'm bu bhòsd,
 A chuid mhòr bhasa luaidh riut,
 Gus na shìn an ceòl,
 Sa sìn gun tug iad a suas mi,
 Ach chreid mi h-uile drannd dheth,
 'S an danns 'nuair a ghluais thu,
 A rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.

* E bhì cheana pòsd'.

Shuidh mi ann an cùil,
 Mar gu 'n dùisgteadh á tranns mi,
 A rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.
 Is dh'amhairceadh an trìùir ud,
 Le 'n sùilean, 's le saunt ort,
 A rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.
 Do réir mar a dh-fhaodainns'
 A h-aodann a rannsachadh,
 Dhùraigeadh Sàlaidh,
 Am Maidsear 'n a bhantraich ;
 Tha aobhncas air Deòrsa,
 Mu 'n bhròn bh' air a' Ghranndach,
 A rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.

Cha 'n 'eil a h-aon,
 'S a' Bhatàillean d' an eòl thu,
 A rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.
 Nach 'eil ort a bruarad,
 Mas fuasgailt' no pòsda,
 A rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.
 Gus an ruig e Tearlach,
 Am maisdear a b' òige ;
 Ged bu chruaidh 'ainm
 Ann an armait rìgh Deòrsa,
 Chaoch'leadh e faobhar,
 Le gaol fa do chòir-sa,
 A rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.

Am fear a bhios an gaol,
 Cha 'n fhaodar leis 'fhuadach,
 A rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.
 'S ann is cruaidh a 'chàs,
 Gus an pàidhear a dhuais dha,
 A rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.
 Fuiligidh mi sùil,
 No fuiligidh mi cluas dhiom,
 Ma tha aon de 'n trìùir ud,
 As tric thasa luaidh' riut,
 Cho tinn le do ghaol,
 Ris an aon fhear a's fuath leat,*
 A rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.

'S e 'n t-aobhar nach ordaichinn,
 Salaidh do 'n Chòirneil,
 A rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.
 Eagal gu 'm bitheadh càch
 Ann an naimhdeas r' a bheò dha,
 An rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.
 Creutair cho caoimhneil riut,
 Is maighdeann cho bìdheach riut,
 Ri ! bu mhòr an diobhail,
 Gu 'n cailleadh tu g' a dheòin iad,
 Suiridhich an t-saoghail,
 Le aon fhear a phòsadh,
 An rìbhinn àluinn, éibhinn, òg.

Note.—Sally Grant, the subject of the foregoing two songs, was a girl of easy virtue, who followed the Sutherland fencibles. She was at first mistress to the Earl who commanded; she then served the officers, and finally the privates and drummers. Rob composed another song, called “Mòr nig' n a Ghìobarlain,” on the same girl, but the Editor has left it, and a number of others of the same description, out of the book on account of their indelicacy.

BRIOGAIS MHIC RUAIRIDH.

[Rinneadh an t-òran so leis a' bhàrd aig banais "Iseabail Nic-Aoidh," nighean Iain 'Ic-Eachainn, air dh'ì bhi pòsda ri Iain, mac Choinnich Sutharlain. Bha cruinneachadh ana-barrach sluagh air a' bhanaid de dh-uaislean na dùthcha; ach air do dh-Iain Mac-I'achuinn agus am bàrd cur a mach air a chèile goirid roimh 'n am sin, cha d' fhuair am bàrd cuireadh thun na bainnse, ged bha e chòmhnuidh ann an àite fagus do laimh. Ach air do Choinneach Sutharlain, athair fhir na bainnse, thighinn air an ath mhadainn an déigh a' phòsaidh, agus Rob Donn ionndrainn, thubhairt e ri Iain Mac-Eachuinn, gu 'm b' fhearr cuireadh a thoirt do 'n bhàrd 'n a thràth, no gu 'n cluinnte sgeula mu 'n bhanaid fathast. Bha fios aig Iain Mac-Eachuinn, nach tigeadh an bàrd air 'àilleas-sa, ged chuireadh e fios air. An sin chuir na h-uaislean uile, 'n an ainm féin, fios air, agus mur tigeadh a leis an teachdaircachd sin, gu 'n rachadh iad féin uile g' a shireadh. Thàinig Rob Donn gu toileach; oir bha mòr spéis aig do dh-Iain Mac-Eachuinn, 's d' a theaghlach, ged thàinig eadar iad aig an àm sin. Air an t-slighe dh-ionnsuidh taigh na bainnse, dh-fhoighnich Rob Donn ris an teachdaire thàinig d' a iarraidh. An do thachair ni àmbuilteach 's am bith 'n am measg o thòisich a' bhanaid? Thuir an teachdaire nach cual e-san ach aon rud—Gu 'n do chaill "Mac Ruaraidh beag," gille thàinig an cois fhir na bainnse, a bhriogais. Bu leoir so leis a' bhàrd, agus mu 'n d' rainig e taigh na bainnse, ged nach robh ann ach astar dà mhille, bha 'n t-òran déanta; agus cho luath 's a shuidh e, thoisich e air a ghabhail.]

LUINNEAG.

*An d' fhàidir, no 'n d' fhairich,
No 'n cuata sibh,
Co idir thug briogais
Mhìc Ruairidh leis?
Bha bhriogais ud againn
An am dol a chadal,
'S 'nuair thàinig a' mhadainn
Cha d' fhuairadh i.*

CHÀIDH bhriogais a stampadh,
Am meadhon na conlaidh,
'S chaidh Uisdean a dhams',
Leis na gruaigichean;
'Nuair dh-fhàg a chuid misg e,
Gu'n tug e 'n sin briogadh,
A dh-iarraidh na briogais,
'S cha d' fhuair e i.
An d' fhàidir, &c.

Na 'm bitheadh tu làimh ris,
Gu 'n deanadh tu gàire,
Ged bhidheadh an siataig
Na d' chruachanan;
Na faiceadh tu 'dhronnag,
'Nuair dh-ionndrain e 'pheallag,
'S e coimhead 's gach callaid,
'S a' suaitheachas.
An d' fhàidir, &c.

Iain Mhic Eachuinn,
Ma 's tusa thug leat i,
Chur grabadh air peacadh
'S air buaireadh leath';
Ma 's tu a thug leat i,
Cha ruigeadh tu leas e,
Chaidh t-uair-sa seachad
Mu 'n d' fhuair thu i.
An d' fhàidir, &c.

Chaitriona Nigh 'n Uilleim,*

Bha feum air a leithid,
'S bha uair dheth sin.
An d' fhàidir, &c.

Briogais a' chonais,
Chaidh chall air a' bhanaid,
Bu liutha fear fanaid
Na fuaidheil oirr';
Mur do ghléidh Iain Mac-Dhòmhnuill,
Gu pocan do 'n òr i,
Cha robh an Us-mhòine
Na luaidheadh i.
An d' fhàidir, &c.

Mur do ghléidh Iain Mac-Dhòmhnuill,
Gu pocan do 'n òr i,
Cha robh an Us-mhòine
Na ghluaiseadh i.
Mu Uilleam Mac-Phàndruig,
Cha deanadh i stà dha,
Cha ruigeadh i 'n àird'
Air a' chruachan dha.
An d' fhàidir, &c.

Tha duine 'n Us-mhòine
D' an ainm Iain Mac-Sheòrais,
'S gur iongantas dhomhsa
Ma ghluais e i;
Bha i cho cumhang
Mur cuir e i 'm mugha,
Nach dean i ni 's modha
Na buarach dha.
An d' fhàidir, &c.

Na leigibh ri bràigh' e,

An luachair e;

Do mhòinteach nan coille,
Mu 'n tig an labhallan,

An d' fhidir, &c.

Na 'm faiceadh sibh ' leithid,
Bha bann oir' de leathair;
Bha toll air a speathar,
'S bha tùthag air,
'S bha feum aic' air cobhair,
Mu bhréidean a gobhair,
Far am biodh am fear odhar,
A' suathadh rith'.

An d' fhidir, &c.

Ach Iain Mhic-Choinnich,*
'S ann ort a bha 'n sonas,
Ged 's mòr a bha dhonadas
Sluaigh an so;
'Nuair bha thu cho sgiobalt,

An còmhnuidh 'ga t-iarraidh;
Ni 's grànnde cha 'n eòl domh,
'S ni 's bòidheche cha b' fhiach thu,
Na 'n gille dubh ciar-dhubh,
Tha triall 'na d' ghaoith.

* Fear na bainse.

Tha ministear còir ann,
Is mòran de chiall aig';
'N a thaoitear do 'n inghean,
Gun iomrall gun fhiaradh;
Is b' fheàr leis, an òigh
Bhi gun phòsadh seachd bliadhna,
Na 'n gille dubh ciar-dhubh
Bhi triall 'na gaoith.

Ged bhiodh ann a phòcaid,
De dh-òr na th' aig Iarla,
Bu mhòr a' chùis bhròin e
Do 'n òigh tha e 'g iarraidh;
Sùilean a's sròn,
Agus feòsag, a's fìaclan
A' ghille dhuibh chiar-dhuibh,
Tha triall 'na gaoith.

'S olc an leannan òinid
An t-òlach s' 'n a fhìonaig,
'N a laidhe 'n a chòta,
'N a rògaire mìodhoir,
A sbàiltean 'n a thòin,

'S e 'n gille dubh ciar-dhubh
Tha triall 'na gaoith.

Tha pung ann a chhàileachd,
Thug bàrr air na ciadan;
Tha 'aogas ro ghrànnda,
'S e air fàileadh 'n t-srianaich;
An uair bha e an Grùididh,
Cha taobhaicheadh fiadh ruinn,
Leis a' ghille dhubh chiar-dhubh,
Bhi triall 'n an gaoith.

Ged tha e cho dao-chail,
Is aogas cho fiadhaich,
Bithidh feum air 's an tìr so,
Air tioman de 'n bhliadhna,
A thoirt ghabhraidh air mheann,
'S a chur chlann dheth na còchan;
'S e 'n gille dubh ciar-dhubh
Tha triall 'na gaoith.

'Nuair a bha sinn cruinn
Anns a' bheinn, 's sinn ri fiadhach,
Bu tric a bhiodh tu 'n sàs
Anns an t-sàuce-pan, is biadh ann;
Bhiodh eagal air bàis oirnn,
Gu 'n enàmhadh tu bian oirnn,
A ghille dhuibh chiar-dhuibh,
Tha triall 'na gaoith.

ORAN NAN GREISICHEAN BEAGA.

AIR FÖNN—"Crò nan Gobhar."

CHUNNA' mi crannanach,
Cuimir ri ceannaireachd,
'N Acha-na-h-Annaid,
Cur feannag á chéile ;
Sheall mi le annas air,
'S shìn mi ri teannadh ris,
Thug mi mo bhoineid dhìom,
'S bheannaich mi féin da.

Tha mi ro bhuidheach
Air chomhairl' nam breitheamhan,
Dh-òrdaich gach dùthis dhiu
Bhi le aon chéile ;
Faodaidh slìochd tighinn
An deigh na buidhinn so,
Fathast a bhithas
'N an iongantas féille.

Chaidh mi air m' aghairt,
Is shàraich e m' fhoighidinn,
Feuchainn le a' lughad
C' ait' am faighinn da céile :
Fhuair mi 'n taigh Choinnich i,
C' uime gu 'n ceilinn,
'S a h-aparan deiridh
Cho ghoirid r' a fhéileadh-s'.

Tha mi ro bhuidheach, &c.

Tòmas a's Dòmhnall,
Seòras a's Alasdair,
'S coltach 'n an colluinn
A' cheathrar r' a chéile ;
B' fhearr leam tè thapaidh
Bhiodh seachad air leth-cheud,
Na a faicinn air leth-trath,
Aig fear dhiubh mar chéile.

Tha mi ro bhuidheach, &c.

Tha iomadh sgeul eile
Tha againn gu barantach,
Naidheachd 'g a h-aithris
A baile Dhun-éideann,
Nach 'eil uile cho àit'
Ann an oibrichibh freasdail,
Ri faicinn nam peasan
A' maitseadh a chéile.

Tha mi ro bhuidheach, &c.

Tha mise fo chachdan,
Nach urradh mi leasachadh,
Nach fhaigh mi aon fear dhiu
Ni maitse do Chéitidh ;

Tha truas aig mo chridhe
Ri seasgaich' na h-ighinn,
Nach faigh sinn aon leighich,
Chuireas dithis ri chéil' diu.

Tha mi ro bhuidheach, &c.

Cuirear do 'n eilean iad,
'S thugar mìr fearainn dhaibh,
'S bheir iad an air'
Air na gearrain 's a' chéitein ;
Air eagal am pronnaidh
Ri fiodh no ri bolla,
Tha tub aig a' Mhorair
Ni taigh dhaibh le chéile.

Tha mi ro bhuidheach, &c.

Tha agam-sa tuilleadh
De leithid an fhirionnaich-s' ;
'S air chor a's gu'n cluinnear iad,
Seinneam air séis iad ;
Dòmhnall beag biorach,
Air pòsadh an uraidh ;
'S tha dithis de 'n fhine
Aig a' mhinisteir féin diu.

Tha mi ro bhuidheach, &c.

Na grèisichean beaga,
Oir 's iad is maoir eaglais,
Tha dùil ac' mo thagradh,
Air son magaidhnean beumach ;
Bithidh mise fo eagal,
'Nuair chluinneas mi 'm bagradh,
O 'n thachair mi eadar
An sagart 's an cléireach.

Tha mi ro bhuidheach, &c.

Tha dùil a'm gur duilich leis
Mis' chur an cunnart,
'S gu 'n do chaomhain mi 'n cuilean,
'S gu 'm bu mhùileach leis féin e ;
'S ma chreideas mi 'm ministeir,
An déigh 's na dh-innis e,
'S e 'm moncaidh an uiridh,
Mu mhìre na 'n Gréibhear.

Tha mi ro bhuidheach, &c.

Tha sgeula r' a h-aithris,
Mu Bhaile-na-Cille,
Gu 'n robh iad fo iomas
An uiridh le chéile ;
Am bliadhna 'n an dithis,
E-féin 's an cù buidhe,
Gun triall ac' gu uidhe
Ach 'n an suidh' aig na h-éibhlean.

Tha mi ro bhuidheach, &c.

'S bòidheach am baganach
Sebras na h-eaglais,
Chualas na creagan
Toirt freagairt d' a éigheachd ;
Shamhlaich mi 'm fleasgach ud
Ris a' gharra-ghartan,
Cho bìogach r' a fhaicinn,
'S cho neartmhor r' a éisdeach.
Tha mi ro bhuidheach, &c.

Tha Curstaidh fo chachdan,
Mur bhailich mi 'macan,
Gu 'n abrainn an garran,
Ri fleasgach cho treun ris ;
Seas thusa fa 'chomhair,
Is amhaire a chrodhan,
'S an tè thug an dreobhan air,
Thombais i féin e.
Tha ri mo bhuidheach, &c.

ORAN NA CARAIDE BIGE.

Tha dithis anns an dùthaich-s',
Tha triall gu dhol a phùsadh ;
'S gur beag an t-aodach ùr,
Ni gùn dhoibh a's léine.

*Hei tha mo rùn duit,
Hò, tha mo rùn duit,
Hèi tha mo rùn duit,
A rùn ghil' na tréig mi.*

Dithis a tha òg iad,
Dithis a tha bòidheach,
Dithis tha gun òirleach
A chòrr air a chéile.

Hei, tha mo run duit, &c.

Ma bhios macan buan ac',
'S gu 'n téid e ris an dual'chas,
Cuiridh e gu luath
An cù-ruadh as an t-saobhaidh.
Hei, tha mo run duit, &c.

Ach ma théid a chrùsach,
Sgaoilt' air feadh na dùthcha,
Théid prospig ris na sùilean,
Tha dùil a 'm, mus léir iad.
Hei, tha mo run duit, &c.

O R A N.

[Do dh' fhear chaidh a chòrdadh ri nighin òig, ach cha bhiodh e toilichte mu 'n tochradh, mur tugadh iad dhà gamhuinn eile bharrachd air na bha iad toileach thoirt seachad ; agus air so a dhiùltadh dha, thréag e a leannan.]

'S ANN a bhuail an iorghuill,
Air an t-suiridheach tha 'n so shìos,
Chuir e 'ùigh' air céile,
'S gu 'n do réitich iad 'n an dìos ;
Shaoil mi féin 'n uair thòisich iad,
Gu 'n còrdadh iad gun sgìos ;
Ach chum àsraidh beag do ghamhuinn iad,
Gun cheangal còrr is mìos.

Sin, 'n uair thuir a' mhaighdean,
Nach foighnich sibh rium fìor,
Is innsidh mi a rìreadh,
Gu 'm bu chaochlaideach a rian ;
Gu robh e cheart cho deònach,
Ri duin' òg a chualas riamh ;
'S a nis gu 'n ghabh e bhuar dhiom,
O nach d' fhuair e 'n gamhuinn ciar.

Cha e sin air aghairt,
'S ann do Shaghair chaidh e 'n tùs,
Chuir iad fios 'n a dhéighidh,
'Thigh 'nn air aghaidh ann a chùis ;
'S e roghnaich es' an tàillearachd—
'S i b' fheàrr leis na bhì pùsd' ;
O nach d' fhuair e 'n gamhuinn àsraidh,
Ged fhaigheadh e 'm bàs de 'n spùt.

Dh-aithnich mi 's an amharc ort,
Gu robh do thomas ganu,
Chunnaic mi air t-iomchuinn,
Gu robh 'n iom-chomhairl' 'n ad cheann ;
'S nach robh do spiorad dìomhair,
'G a do ghriosadh 's a' cheart àm ;
'Nuair b' fheàrr leat gamhuinn caoile,
Na do bhean, 's do ghaol, 's do chlann.

H-uile fear a chì thu,
'G a do dhìteadh air do chùl,
Ged leasaich sinn an t-airgead dhut,
Mu cheithir mhàrg 's ni 's mò,
'S e their gach filidh faicail riut,
Gu spot chur air do chliù,
Gu 'n d' rinn an gamhuinn bacainn,
Do chontract ' chuir air cùl.

'S mis a fhuair mo chàradh,
Leis na fearaibh as gach taobh,
A' mheud 's a bha 'g am iarraidh dhiubh,
'S nach b' fhiach leam duin' ach thu ;

Shaoil mi féin 's an fhoghar,
'Nuair a thagh mi thu á triùir,
Nach fanadh tu cho fada bhuam,
Ged b' fhiach an gamhuinn crùn.

A M B O C G L A S.

On tha mi na m' aonar,
Gu'n teann mi ri spòrs ;
Gu'n cuir mi mar dh-fhaodas mi,
'M boc air sheol.
'S gu'n leig mi fios dhachaigh
A dh-iunnsaidh nan Catach,
Gur h-e 'm boc glas,
A bhios ac air an tòs.
Pè hé fanndarai feininn òth-orò,
Hìhìli fanndarai feininn òth-orò,
Fa-thel-oth fanndarai feininn òth-orò,
Hìhìli shìubhal e,
Hanndarai hìth-horò,
Fa-thel-òth, fa-thel-òth.

'S iomadh òganach smearail,
Bha fearail gu leòr ;
A chunna' mis
Ann an cogadh rìgh Deòrs'.
'S cha'n fhaca mi boc,
Ga thogail air feachd,
Ach aona bhoc glas
A Bh' aig mac an Iarl' òig.
Pe he fanndarai, &c.

'Nuair thigeadh am Foghar,
Co dhianadh a bhuaìn ?
Co dhianadh an ceanghal,
No sgrùdhadh an sguab ?
Co chuireadh na siamanan,
Ceart air na tudanan ?
Ach am boc luideach,
Na'm faigheadh e duais.
Pe he fanndarai, &c.

Gu'n tug iad a' chobhair ud,
Bhuaine gun fhios ;
A's dh' fhagadh na gobhair
Gun bhaine gun bhliochd ;
Tha sine nigh'n Uilleim,
A caoine 'sa tuireadh,
'Sa suilean a' sileadh
Air son a bhuic ghlais.
Pe he fanndarai, &c.

Note.—This song was composed on a rake in Sutherland-shire, who, having got a number of young women in the family way, was obliged to take refuge in the Sutherland fencibles, where the poet gave him the name of Boc Glas—a name that he retained during life. The tune is excellent, and may justly be entitled the first of the Sutherland-shire pipe jigs. It was the poet's own composition. He also composed several other popular airs of great merit.

O R A N.

[Do dh' fhear a bha suiridh air nighinn òig, agus fear eile bhi 'g a toirt bhuaithe ; bha mathair na h-ìnghinn (a tha labhairt 's a' cheud rann) 'n a banàraich aig Morair Mac-Aoidh, agus e-san 'n a bhuaichaille : agus am fear bha toirt na h-ìnghinn bhuaipe 'n a bhrenbadair.—Tha t-dran air a sgrìobhadh do rèir dearbh Ghàidlig a bhàrd féin oir cha ghabhadh e séinn air caochladh dòigh.]

* The bard and Faolan being one day planting potatoes in a field near a public-house, some acquaintances of the former came that way, who went in to have some refreshment, and took him along with them. Faolan also followed, and got his "shell," but instead of returning again to his work, he went home and told the bard's wife that his master had abandoned the potatoe planting and went on the spree, and that he could not work by himself. On Rob returning home at night, Faolan's story was related to him, and before supper was ready this song was composed on him.

TURUS DHAIBHI' DO DH' ARCAMH.

[Eha Daibhidh so 'n a bhuachaille, agus 'n a àireach, aig duin' uasal àraidh, ann am bail' eile, beagan mhiltean bho 'àite féin; agus 'nuair a bha Daibhidh dol dachaigh leis an Ìm agus leis a' chàise, gu mhaighstir, fhuair e air bàta ceilpe, bha dol an rathad; ach 's ann chuireadh leis an stoirm iad air tìr ann an Arcamh, 's ged a b' ann 's a' ghrund a' rachadh Daibhidh, cha deanadh na nàbaidhnean mòran caoidh air a shon.]

Cha 'n 'eil seòmar aig Rìgh Breatainn,
'S taitneich' leam na 'n Càrn,
Oir tha e uaignidheach do ghruagaich,
'S ni e fuaim 'nuair 's àill;

Feur a's coille, blà a's duille,
'S iad fo iomadh neul,
Is ise le echo, mar na teudan,
Seirm gach séis a 's fearr.

Cha b' àite còmhnuidh leam air Dhòmhnach,
A bhi 'n ròig no 'n càrn,
Oir, mur robh strianach ann air bhliadhna,
Cha robh riamh ni b' fhearr ;
Fuaim na beinne, 's gruaim a' ghlinne,
'S fuathach leam a' ghàir ;
O! cràdh mo chridhe, reubadh lighe,
An t-àit an tìghe 'm feur.

Ciod am fath mu 'n tug thu fuath sin,
Do na bruachaibh ard ?
Nach fhaic thu fein, 'nuair thig an spreidh,
Gur feumail iad le 'n àl ?
Cha chradh cridhe, air làrach shuidhe,
Fuaim na lighe lain,
Do 'n gnàth bhi claghach roimh a h-aghaidh,
Is feur na deighidh a' fàs.

Na bha firinneach dheth t-ambran,
'N fhad 's bha 'n samhradh blàth.
Rinn e tionndadh oidhche-Shamhna,
'S bheir an geamhradh 'shàr ;
Duille shuidhicht' barr an fhiodha,
Dh-fàs i buidhe-bhàn,
'S tha mais' 'n t-Strath' air call a dhath,
Le steall de chathadh-làir.

Gleidhidh 'n talamh thun an t-samhraidh,
Sin a chrann e 'n dràs,
Beath a's calltunn latha-bealltuinn,
Gealltanach air fàs ;
Bidh gruth a's crathadh air na srathan,
'S téirgidh 'n caitheadb-làir,
Nach grinn an sealladh, glinn a' stealladh,
Laoigh, a's bainne, 's bàrr !

'S barail leam-sa gu 'n do chaill sibh,
Air na riin sibh chàis ;
Dhol do shliabh, gun chur, gun chliathadh,
'S nach robh biadh a' fàs ;
B' fhear bhi folluiseach an Goll-thaobh,
Na bhi 'n comunn ghràisg,
Air mo dholladh leis an chonnadh,
Laimh ri bolla fàil.

Note.—This is a contrast between the pleasures of a town and a pastoral life, as if by two young ladies, (daughters of the celebrated "Iain Mac-Eachuinn,") one of them returned from the town of Thurso, where she had been sent to school, and the other, yet ignorant of town, upholding the pleasures of rural retirement. The beauties of the bard's own native strath are delineated in strains so sweet that we have only to regret that he did not more frequently indulge his muse in descriptive poetry.

MARBHRANN IAIN GHRE,

ROGHAIBD.

[Agus e air caochladh ann an Siorramachd Pheairt, air a shlighe dol dachaigh do Chat-taobh.]

Tha rògairan airtnealach, trom,
'N taobh bhos agus thall do na Chrasg,
O 'n chual iad mu 'n cuairt an Ceann-cinnidh,
Gu 'n do dh-eug e an Siorramachd Pheairt ;
Dh-aindeoin a dhreachdan 's a chiall :
Cha do chreid duine riamh a bha ceart,
Aon smid thainig mach air a bheul
'S cha mhò chreid e féin Rìgh nam feart.

Cha 'n aithne dhomh aon ni cho laidir,
'S an t-saoghal-s', ri bàs, gu toirt teum ;
'N t-stràc thug e an dràs' oirnn air aghairt,
Gun do marbh e fear Roghaird do leum.
Tha Sàtan ro bhrònach, 's cha 'n iognadh,
Ged fhaigheadh e 'n t-aon-sa dha féin,
Air son nach 'eil fathast air sgeul aig'
Fear a sheasas dha 'àite 'na dhéigh.

'S fad a bho chunnacas, 's a chualas,
Gur teachdaire gruamach am bàs ;
Gidheadh gum beil cuid bh' ann an daoch ris,
Toirt rud-eigin gaoil da an dràs' :
Tha dùil ac' an Cat-thaobh 's an Gall-thaobh,
Nach urr' iad a mholadh gu bràth,
Air son gur h-e féin thug a' cheud char
A fear thug cùig ceud car á càch.

Sibhse tha mòr agus mion,
Sibhse tha sean 's a tha òg,
Thugaibh cheart air' air a' bhàs,
'Nuair is beartaich' 's is làine bhur cròg ;
Oir thig e mar mhèirleach 's an oidhch',
Ged robh sibh nìle cruinn mu na bhòrd ;
'S cha 'n fheadar a mbealladh le foill,
'S gu 'n do mheall e Ceann-feadhna nan ròg.

Rinn deamhnan is trùcairean talmhaidh,
Election mu chealgair bhiodh trenn,
Co bu stàraich', bu chàraich', 's bu cheilgeich',
'S a b' fhearr chuireadh lith air a' bhréig ;
B' e Sàtan am breitheamh bu shine,
Da 'm b' aithne gach fine fo 'n ghréin ;
'S b' i 'bharail nach fhaigheadh e leithid,
Mur robh e 's na Grèadhaich iad féin.

Bu mhath leam an ciontach a bhualadh,
'S cha b' àill leam duin' uasal a shealg ;
'S ged chuireas mi gruaim air a' choireach,
Cha gabh an duin' onarach fearg ;

Tha Caiptein Rob Grè air a dhiùltadh,
Le breitheanas Prionnsa nan cealg;
Rinn coimeasgadh Reothach a chumadh,
Gu uails' agus duinealas gharg.

Tha breugan a's cuir air am fàgail,
Do 'n fhear a 's fearr tàlann g' an inns';
Cha cheadaich a' chùis e do Bhàtair,
Tha onoir a's àrdan 'n a ghrìd;
Ge comasach Iain a bhràthair,
Cha 'n fhaigh e an dràs'd' i chion aois;
Ach an sin gheibh e obair an t-Sàtain,
Ceart comh-luath 's is bàs do fhear Chraoich.

M A R B H R A N N,

ULLIEM MHUILLEIR, AN CEARD.

O 'nuair 's a chaidh Uilleam fo 'n ùir,
Gur tearc againn sùil tha gun deur,
Do mhuilleir, a bhrachair, no 'chècair,
No 'mhnathan da 'n nòs bhì ri spréidh;
Cha mhodha na clamhain a's gaohair,
Tha subhach 's an fhoghar-s' 'n a dhéigh;
Air son gu 'm buin iomall na cloinne,
Gach ubh a's gach eireag dhaibh féin.

'S glan a tha 'n talamhs-s' 'n a fhàsach,
O 'nuair chaidh thu bàs o cheann mìos;
Ge maiseach na macain so dh-fhàg thu,
Cha seas iad dhuinn t-àitse 'n an dìos;
'S ann a tha acuin do cheàirde,
Mar rud chaidh 'n an clàraibh 's an dìosg,
An t-òrd a's am balg ris an teine,
An rusp, a's an t-innein, 's an t-ìosp.

'S giorra mo sgil, na mo dhùrachd,
Gu innseadh do chliù mar is còir;
'S minig a dhearc mi do chruinn-leum
Do 'n àite 'm bu chinntich' do lòn;
Sgiathan do chòta fo t-achlais,
Is neul an tombac' air do shròin;
Bhiodh gaoir aig na coin 'g a do ruith,
Agus mìr air dhroch bhrùich ann do dhòrn.

Air fhad 's a théid cliù ort a leantuinn,
Cha 'n urrainn mi chantainn gu leòir;
'S tu dh-fhuineadh, a ghuiteadh, 's a chriathradh,
'S tu dh-itheadh, 's a dh-iarradh an còrr;
'S tu rachadh do 'n t-sruthan a chlisgeadh,
'Nuair ghabhadh na h-uisgean gu lòn:
Bu choltach ri rapas na seilcheig,
An easgann mu thimcheall do bheadil.

Cha'n aithne dhomh neach feadh na talmhainn-s
A' choiteir, a' shearbhant, no 'thuath,
Nach ionndraineadh Uilleam, as aodann
Oir shiùbhladh e 'n sgìre ri uair;
Nis o 'n a chual iad gu 'n deach' e,
Tha rud-eigin smal air daoine' uails',
Air son nach 'eil neach ac 's a' mhachair,
A ghlanas taigh-cac no poit fhuail.

M A R B H R A N N,

DO THRUUIR SHEANN FHLEASGACH.

[CLANN FHIR TAIGH RUSPUINN.]

AIR FONN—"Latha 'siubhal sleibhe dhomh."

'N AN laidhe so gu h-ìosal,
Far na thiodhlaic sinn an triùir,
Bha fallain, làidir, inntinneach,
'Nuair d' inntig a' bhliadhu' ùr;
Cha deach' seachad fathast,
Ach deich latha dh'i o thùs;—
Ciod fhios nach tig an teachdair-s' oirnn,
Ni 's braise na ar dùil?

Am bliadhna thim' bha dithis diubh,
Air tighinn o 'n aon bhroinn,
Bha iad 'n an dà chomrad,
O choinnich iad 'n an cloinn;
Cha d' bhris an t-aog an comunn ud,
Ged bu chomasach dha 'n roinn,
Ach gheàrr e snàith' n na beath-s' ac',
Gun dàil ach latha 's oidhch'.

Aon duine 's bean o 'n tàinig iad,
Na bràithrean ud a chuaidh,
Bha an aon bheatha thimeil ac',
'S bha 'n aodach de 'n aon chlàimh;
Mu 'n aon uair a bhàsaich iad,
'S bha 'n nàdur d' an aon bhuaidh;
Chaidh 'n aon siubhal dhaoine leo,
'S chaidh 'n sìneadh 's an aon uaigh.

Bu daoine nach d' rinn briseadh iad,
Le fiosrachadh do chàch;
'S cha mhò a rinn iad aon dad,
Rìs an can an saoghal gràs;
Ach ghineadh iad, a's rugadh iad,
Is thogadh iad, a's dh-fhàs—
Chaidh stràc de 'n t-saoghal tharais ort',
'S mu dheireadh fhuair iad bàs.

Nach 'eil an guth so labhrach,
Rìs gach aon neach againn beò?
Gu h-àraidh ris na seann daoine,
Nach d' ionnsuich an staid phòsd';

Nach gabh na tha 'nan dleasanas,
A dheasachadh no lòn,
Ach caomhnadh ni gu falair dhaibh,
S a' falach an cuid òir.

Cha chaith iad féin na rinn iad,
Agus oighreachan cha dèan,
Ach ulaidhnean air shliabh ac';
Bhios a' biadhachd chon a's éun ;
Tha iad fo 'n aon dìteadh,
Fo nach roph, 's nach bi mi fhéin,
Gur duirche, taisgte 'n t-br ac',
Na 'nuair bha e 'n tòs 's a mhèinn.

Barail ghlic an Ard-Rìgh—
Dh-fhàg e pàirt de bhuidhean gann,
Gu feuchainn iochd a's oileanachd,
D' an dream d' an tug e meall ;
C' arson nach tugta pòrsan,
Dhe 'n cuid stòrais aig gach ìm,
Do bhochdan an Tì dheònaicheadh,
An còrr a chur 'na cheann ?

An déigh na rinn mi rùsgadh dhuibh,
Tha dùil agam gun lochd,
'S a liuthad facal firinneach
A dhùich mi 'n ur n-uchd,
Tha eagal orm nach éisd sibh,
Gu bhì feumail do na bhochd ;*
Ni 's mò na rinn na fleasgaich ud,
A sheachduin gus a nochd.

Note.—Two of these bachelors were somewhat remarkable, having been born together, brought up together, and died within a night of each other. They were buried in the same hour, in the same grave, and by the same company of men. Their whole study, from their youth, was to hoard up money, and had much of it hid underground, which they neither had the heart to use themselves, nor to bestow upon their friends, none of which has yet been found.

MARBHRANN

DO DH' IAIN MAC-EACHUINN.

[An dunn' uasal, aig an do thogadh am bàrd, 'n a theaghlach, o 'n bha e 'n a bhalachan òg; agus bu duin' e a choisinn a leithid a chliù, o a luchd-èòlais airfad, 's gu 'n d' aoidich iad uile, gu 'n robh am marbhrann so gun mhearachd, agus gu h-àraidh na briathran mu dheireadh dheth, 's gu 'n abradh gach neach mar an ceudna a chluinneadh am marbhrann, agus d' am b' eòl Iain Mac-Eachainn gu 'n robh e ceart.]

IAIN Mhic-Eachainn, o dh-eug thu,
C' àit an téid sinn a dh-fhuatainn
Duine sheasas 'n ad fhine,
An rathad tionail no sgaollidh.

* It is said that a wandering beggar called upon them for alms seven days previous to their death, whom they refused to relieve, a circumstance at which the bard hints above.

'S ni tha cinnt' gur beart' chunnairt,
Nach dean duine tha aosd' e,
'S ged a bheirt' de 'n àl òg e,
'S tearc tha beò fear a chì e.

Dearbh cha b' ionann do bheatha,
'S do dh' fhir tha fathast an caomhnadh,
Thionail airgead a's fearann,
'S b'ìdh buidhean eile 'g an sgaioleadh ;
Bhios iad féin air an gearradh,
Gun ghuth an caraid 'g an caoineadh,
Air nach ruig dad do mholadh,
Ach " Seall sibh fearann a dhaor iad."

Tha iad laghail gu litreil,
'S 'n an deibhtearan geura,
Is iad a' pàidheadh gu moltach,
Na bhios ac' air a chéile ;
Ach an còrr, théid a thasgaidh,
Gur cruaidh a cheiltinn o 'n fhéile,
Is tha 'n sporan 's an sùilean,
Cheart cho dùint' air an fheumach.

Leis an leth-noir riataich-s',
Tha na ciadan diubh faomadh,
Leis am fearr bhi fo fhiachan,
Fad aig Dia na aig daoine ;
Thig fo chall air nach beir iad,
'S e ceann mu dheireadh an dìteadh,
" C' uim nach tug sibh do 'n bhochd,
Am biadh, an deoch, a's an t-aodach ?"

Ach na 'm b' urrainn mi, dhùraighdinn
Do chliù-s' chur an òrdugh,
Ann an litrichean soilleir,
Air chor 's gu 'm beir an t-àl òg' air ;
Oir tha t-iomradh-s' cho feumail,
Do 'n neach a théid ann do ròidean,
'S a bha do chuid, fhad 's bu mhaireann,
Do 'n neach bu ghainn' ann an stòras.

Fhir tha 'n latha 's an comas,
Ma 's àill leat alla tha fiughail,
So an tìm mu do choinneamh,
An còir dhut greimeachadh dlù ris ;—
Tha thu 'm batal a' bhàis,
A thug an t-àrmunn-s' do 'n ùir uainn,
Glacadh gach fear agaibh 'oifig,
'S mo làmh-s' gu 'n cothaich i cliù dhuibh.

Oir ged tha cuid a bhios fachaid,
Air an neach a tha fialaidh,
'S i mo bharail-s' gur achdaidh
Bu chòir an achuing so iarraidh ;—
Gu 'm bu luath thig na linnean,
Ni chuid a's sine dhinn ciallach,
Nach dean sinn ìobairt do bhith-bhuantachd,
Air son trì fichead de bhliadhnaich'.

'S lìonmhor neach bha gun socair,
A chuir thu 'n stoc le do dhéilig,
Agus bàth-ghiollan gòrach,
Thionail eblas le t-éisdeachd ;
Dearbh cha 'n aithne dhomh ~~son~~ neach,
Mach o ùmaidhnean spréidhe,
Nach 'eil an iuntinn fo cudthrom,
Air son do chuid, no do chéile.

Fhir nach d' ith mìr le taitneas,
Na 'm b' ebl dut acrach 's an t-saoghal,
Fhir a chitheadh am feumach,
Gun an éigh' aig' a chluinntinn ;
B' fhearr leat punnd dheth do chuid bhuat,
Na unnsa cuid-throim air t-inntinn ;
Thilg thu t-aran 's na h-uisgean,
'S gheibh do shliochd iomadh-fillt' e.

Chi mi 'n t-aim-beartach uasal,
'S e làn gruamain a's airtneil,
'S e gun airgead 'n a phòcaid,
Air an taigh-bada dol seachad ;
Chi mi bhantrach bhochd, dheurach,
Chi 'n déirceach làn acraís,
Chi mi 'n dilleachdan ruisgte
Is e falbh anns na ragaibh.

Chi mi 'n ceòl-fhear gun mheas air,
Call a ghibhtean chion cleachdaidh,
Chi mi feumach chion combhairl',
A' call a ghuothuich 's a thapadh.
Na 'm bitheadh air' agam fh iarachd,
Ciod e is ciall do 'n mhòr acain-s',
'S e their iad uile gu léir rium :—
“ Och! nach d' eug Iain Mac-Eachuinn!”

Chi mi 'n t-iomadaidh sluaigh so,
'N an culaidh-thruais chionn 's nach beò thu,
'S ged e 'n call-s' a tha 'n uachdar,
Chi mi buannachd nan òlach ;—
O 'n a thaisbean domh 'm bliadhna,
Iomadh biadhtach nach b' eòl domh,
Mar na reannagan riallaidh,
An déigh do 'n ghrian a dhol fo orr'.

'S tric le marbhrannan moltach,
A bhios cleachdach 's na dùthchaibh-s',
Gu 'm bì coimeasgadh masguill,
Tigh'nun a steach ann' 'n a bhrùchdan
Ach ged robh mis' air mo mhionnan,
Don Tl tha cumail nan dùilean,
Cha do luaidh mu 'n duine-s',
Ach buaidh a chunna' mo shùil air.

MARBHRANN EOGHAINN.

LUNNEAG.

'S cian fada, gur fada,
'S cian fada gu lèdir,
O 'n là bha thu fo sheac-thinn,
Gun aon ag acain do bhròin ;
Ma tha 'n tìr air dol seachad,
'S nach d' rinn thu cleachdach air chòir,
Ged nach dàil dut ach seachduin,
Dean droch fhasan a lèdn.

'S TRIC thu, Bhàis, cur an cèill dhuinn,
Bhi sìor éigheachd ar cobhrach ;
'S tha mi 'm barail mu 's stad thu,
Gu 'n toir thu 'm beag a's am mòr leat ;
'S ann o mheadhon an fhoghair,
Fhuair sinn rabhadh a dh-fhòghnadh,
Le do leum as na cùrtean,
Do na chùil am beil Eòghann.
'S cian fada, gur fada, &c.

Ach na 'n creideadh sinn, Aoig, thu,
Cha bhiodh 'n saoghal-s' 'g ar dalladh,
'S nach 'eil h-aon de shliochd Adhaimh,
Air an tàmailt leat cromadh ;
'S i mo bharail gur fìor sud,
Gur àrd 's gur òsal do shealladh ; *
Thug thu Pelham á mòrachd,
'S an d' fhuair thu Eòghann 's a' Pholladh ?
'S cian fada, gur fada, &c.

Tha thu tigh'nun air an t-seòrs' ud,
Mu 'm beil bròn dhaoine mòra,
'S tha thu tighinn air muinntir,
Mu nach cluinntear bhi còine ;
Cha 'n 'eil aon 's an staid mheadhoin,
Tha saor fathast o dhòghruinn,
Do nach buin a bhi caithris,
Eadar Pelham a's Eòghann.
'S cian fada, gur fada, &c.

Tha iad tuiteam mu 'n cuairt duinn,
Mar gu 'm buailt' iad le peilear,
Dean'maid ullamh, 's am fuaim so,
Ann ar cluasan mar fharum ;
Fhir a 's lugha measg mòran,
An cual thu Eòghann fo ghalar ?
Fhir a 's mò anns na h-àitean-s',
An cual thu bàs mhaighstir Pelham ?
'S cian fada, gur fada, &c.

* “ Pallida mors æquo pulsat pede pauperum tabernas, Regumque turres.”—Hor. Carmin. lib. i. Carmin. iv.

Ach a chuidheachd mo chridhe,
 Nach toir an dìthis-s' oirn sgathadh !
 Sinn mar choinneil an laumtair,
 'S an dà cheann a' sìor chaitheamh ;
 C' hìt an robh anns an t-saoghal,
 Neach a b' ils' na mac t' athar-s ?
 'S cha robh aon os a' cheann-sa,
 Ach an rìgh bh' air a' chathair.
 'S cian fada, gur fada, &c.

Note.—Among Rob Donn's elegies, it would be difficult to distinguish the best. But as a test of his own abilities as a poet we would at once fix upon Màrbhrann Eoghainn, where he makes his subject a general one—the uncertainty of time, and the calls to preparation for death sounded to mankind in the simultaneous fall of the high and the low, the rich and the poor. The use made of the circumstances that led to it exhibits a poet's mind. Rob Donn had heard accounts of the death of Mr Pelham, the first minister of state. The same day when this intelligence reached him, he took a stroll to the neighbouring mountains of Durness, in search of deer. He was for that day unsuccessful; but judging, as a sportsman can on such occasions, that better fortune might attend him the following morning, instead of returning home he determined to spend the night, and await the dawn, at a solitary house situated at the head of Loch Erribol, that he might be the more nigh to surprise his game when morning arrived. The bleak dreariness of this spot of itself might present almost to any mind a striking contrast to all that we deem comfortable, social, or desirable in life. Here was a solitary hut (still standing), where the bard was to pass the night. And here was a solitary man, decrepid in old age, stretched on his wretched bed of straw, or heath, and so exhausted by a violent attack of asthma, that the bard pronounced him, in his own mind, surely in the very grasp of the King of Terrors. The idea of Mr Pelham's death, called away from the summit of ambition and worldly greatness, contrasted with this individual's state, set our author to the invoking of his muse. Ewen was unable from weakness to converse, or even to speak with the bard, who, kindling a fire for himself, sat down, and the elegy being composed, he was humming it over. He soon found, however, that Ewen had still his bodily sense of hearing, and his mental sense of pride. When the bard came to the recital of the last verse, the concluding lines of which may be thus metrically rendered, though we acknowledge not poetically,—

"Among men's sons where could be found
 One lowly, poor, like thee?
 And where in all this earth's wide round,
 But Kings, more high than He?"

Ewen, summoning the remains of his strength to one effort of revenge for the insult in the former two lines, seizing a club, crept out of bed, and was at the full stretch of his withered arm wielding a blow at the bard's head, who only observed it just in time to avoid it. He used, we may believe, the mildest measures to pacify Ewen's cholera. He related the circumstance afterwards to some of his friends; and, though others frequently spoke of it as a good joke, the bard could never indulge, we are told, even in a smile, upon the subject. He spoke of it with solemnity; and did not desire to hear the circumstance repeated. Ewen's elegy has been frequently compared to the well known Ode of Horace, "Solvitur acris hiems," &c.; and had Rob Donn studied Horace, we would doubtless say that he had at least in view the lines, "Pallida mors æquo pulsat pede," &c.—Memoir. 1829.

R A N N.

[A rinn am bàrd, air madainn, ann an taigh ministear 'Shléibhte, air an turus bha e san eilean-sgiathanach. Thainig bàrd de mhuintir an Eilein do thagh a' mhinistear, agus iad ri 'm biadh-maidne. Dh-iarr am ministear air rann a dheanamh air:—"Sgiath chogaidh, im, muc, plomb-thombaca, agus Sagart." Rinn am bàrd Sgiathanach so, mar chithear; agus thubhairt Rob Donn, "'S bochd dh-fhag thu 'n Sagart," agus ann an tiota rinn e.féin a'n rann mu dheireadh.]

THUIRT AN BARD SGIATHANACH.

A' mhuc mar bhìadh,
 'S an sgiath mar bhòrd,
 'S an Sagart nach itheadh an t-ìm,
 Sparrainn a' phìob 'n a thòin.

THUIRT ROB DONN.

Bhiadhainn an Sagart gu grinn—
 Bheirian dha 'n t-ìm air a' mhuc;
 An targaid air a làimh chli,
 A's pìob-thombaca 'n a phluic!

* Regarding this elegy, an anecdote is recorded, which exhibits the estimation in which it was held by the author's countrymen best able to judge of poetic merit. Mr Mackay (Jain Mac Each-uinn) happened to be on a visit to Mr Murdoch Macdonald, minister of Durness, when on a Sabbath morning the weather became so very boisterous that Mr Macdonald expressed doubts whether it were proper to go to church, or to detain the people by the usual length of services—expressing a fear, at the same time, that if once begun, he might forget himself, and detain them long. His guest urged the propriety of not detaining the people—"But I will tell you," said he, "what you had better do; just go to church, and sing to them 'Màrbhrann Eoghainn,'—it will be greatly more instructive than any sermon you can give." Mr Macdonald's esteem for Ewen's elegy did not go quite so far, as to cause him to adopt the advice.

DONNACHADH BAN.

DUNCAN MACINTYRE, commonly called Donnacha Bàn nan òran was born at Druimliaghart, in Glenorchay, on the 20th March, 1724. He spent the early part of his life in fishing and fowling, in which he always took the greatest pleasure. Although he discovered an early inclination to poetry, he produced nothing worthy of being preserved till after the memorable battle of Falkirk, in which he fought, under the command of Colonel Campbell, of Carwhin, on the 17th of January, 1746. He engaged as the substitute of a Mr Fletcher, of Glenorchay, for the sum of 300 marks, Scots, to be paid on his return. Mr Fletcher gave him his sword, which he unfortunately lost, or rather threw away, in the retreat; and as he returned without it, he was refused the stipulated pay. It was then, and for that reason, that he composed his poem, entitled "The Battle of Falkirk," in which he has given a minute and admirable description of what passed under his eye; and especially of the sword (Claidheamh ceannard Chloinn-an-Leisdeir.) He endeavours to excuse himself for his retreat, and more especially for parting with such a useless weapon; and he could have entered the army of the prince with much more zeal, had he been among the Jacobites. He, therefore, indulges his inclination in the descriptions he gave. The resentment of a bard, was not, in former days, incurred with impunity. The poem was known every where, recited in all parts. The famous battle of Falkirk was enough to give it publicity; and the ridicule so ingeniously, though indirectly, aimed at the gentleman who refused so paltry a sum of money to one who risked his life on his account, was well understood in the whole country. But Macintyre was not satisfied with all he said of the useless sword. He complained of the injustice done him, to the Earl of Breadalbane, who obliged Mr Fletcher to pay him his wages.

The first time he saw Macintyre after paying him, was at a market; being incensed at him for daring to complain of him, and more so because of his audacity in lampooning him, he stepped up, and taking his staff, struck him, exclaiming, "Go, fellow, and compose a song to that." The humble poet of nature was obliged to submit in silence, to the unworthy treatment, and, shrugging his shoulders, walked away. But the pain he felt was momentary; not so the wound of the passionate man, inflicted by the sharp edge of genius. It was probed by the disapprobation of all who witnessed his conduct, which recoiled on himself as a more severe punishment than he had given to the young poet of rising fame.

Duncan Macintyre, being a good marksman, was appointed forester to the Earl of Breadalbane, in Coire-Cheathaich, and Beinn-dòrain; and afterwards to the Duke of Argyll, in Buachail Eite. In these situations he invoked the rural muse, on the scenes of his delightful sports, when he described them in the celebrated poems, entitled "Beinn- ddain," and "Coire-Cheathaich," in strains that are inimitable, and have rendered his name immortal. Good judges of Gaelic poetry seem to be at a loss to which of these productions to give the preference. The first required powers, and knowledge of the noble amusement of the chase, and of the music of the bagpipes, to which few can aspire. And while we affirm that he was never equalled in this species except by the celebrated M'Donald, in his praise of Mòrag, we must conclude it to be his master-piece. And where is any to be compared to the last? which is indeed unrivalled.

Public schools were but thinly established in the Highlands of Scotland in his early days; and his place of residence was distant from the parochial school, so that our author derived no benefit from education. He possessed no advantage in reading the works of others, nor had he an opportunity of getting his own productions written. One advantage he had that was common to all lovers of song—he heard the poetry of his country recited; and, so tenacious was his memory, that not a line, or a word, of his own composition escaped it, which had only been written when sent to the press. A clergyman transcribed them from oral recitation. The first edition of his poems and songs was published in 1768. He went through the Highlands for subscribers, to defray the expense. During his life his work came to three editions, and since then, one edition was printed in Glasgow, in 1833.

He afterwards served in the Earl of Breadalbane's Fencible regiment, during the period of six years, (1793—1799) until it was discharged; he was a considerable time in the city guard of Edinburgh; and after that lived a retired life, subsisting on what he could have saved of the subscriptions of the third edition, which he published in 1804. The collection contains lyric, comic, epic, and religious compositions, all of merit, and composed solely by himself, unassisted in any way but by the direction and power of his own genius. His poetical talents, therefore, justly entitle him to rank among the first of the modern bards. He died at Edinburgh, in October, 1812. In his younger days he was remarkably handsome, and throughout his whole life possessed an agreeable and easy disposition. He was a pleasant and convivial companion; inoffensive, and never wantonly attacked any person; but, when provoked, he made his enemy feel the power of his resentment. See his verses to Uisdean and others. Neither he nor M'Donald knew when to set bounds to their descriptions, and in their satires went on beyond measure.

Duncan Macintyre lived to see the last edition of his poems delivered to his subscribers. The Rev. Mr M'Callum, of Arisaig, "saw him travelling slowly with his wife. He was dressed in the Highland garb, with a checked bonnet, over which a large bushy tail of a wild animal hang; a badger's skin fastened by a belt in front, a hanger by his side, and a soldier's wallet was strapped to his shoulders. He was not seen by any present before then, but was immediately recognised. A forward young man asked him 'if it was he that made Ben-dourain?' 'No,' replied the venerable old man, 'Ben-dourain was made before you or I was born, but I made a poem in praise of Ben-dourain.' He then enquired if any would buy a copy of his book. I told him to call upon me, paid him three shillings, and had some conversation with him. He spoke slowly; he seemed to have no high opinion of his own works; and said little of Gaelic poetry; but said, that officers in the army used to tell him about the Greek poets; and Pindar was chiefly admired by him."

Of his works, the poems and songs composed when following the pursuits of his youthful pleasures, are incomparably the best. It would be endless to attempt to mark the particular beauties in them. The reader must peruse them all in their native garb, the natural scenes of his darling pursuits are well known, but in his description every thing assumes a novel appearance, and in the enchanted scenes that rapidly pass, we wonder that we never observed such beauties before in so bewitching colours. His soul was poured out in the animating and interesting strains. His language is simple and appropriate; chaste and copious. He is most felicitous in the choice of words, idioms, and expressions. He was a man of observation and thought, and revolved the subject of his study often in his mind. M'Donald is learned, and indicates the scholar on all occasions; he was the pupil of nature. M'Donald could not compose on the spur of the moment, a reply impromptu. There is, however, an instance in which Macintyre proved that he was not deficient in that manner. When he composed the inimitable panegyric of John Campbell of the bank, he waited on that gentleman, repeated the poem, and demanded a bard's gift. "No;" replied Mr Campbell, "what reward do you deserve for telling the truth? You must confess that you could say no less of me; and, moreover, I doubt that you are the author; of that you are to convince me; let us hear how you can dispraise me, and then, I shall know, if you have been able to compose what you have repeated." Well, Macintyre commenced in the same measure, and continued in flowing and ready numbers till the gentleman was glad to stop him by giving him his reward.

Of his love songs the best is that composed to his wife "Màiri Bhàn òg." It seems an inexhaustible subject, in which he pours out the happy thoughts and elevated sentiments of the lover, in similes and comparisons taken from the most delightful scenes of nature, and the field of mental enjoyments. The 6th and 7th stanzas are truly beautiful.

The Lament of Colin Campbell, Esq. of Glenure, would alone immortalize his name. The subject was well adapted to awaken melancholy feelings of the most poignant nature. Mr Campbell fell the victim of envy and ill-will, arising from ill-founded suspicion. What pathos and tenderness! The mournful strains that so eloquently describe the fatal events were not those of a mercenary bard; they were the painful feelings of a foster-brother, poured out in the most earnest and pathetic effusions of a mind alive to the sentiments of an unfeigned sympathy.

His final leave of the mountains, dated 19th September, 1802, is full of tenderness, and sentiment, appropriate to his age and reminiscences.

AIR FONN—"Alasdair á Gleanna-Garadh."

LATHA dhuinn air machair Alba,
Na bha dh-armailt aig a chuirge,
Thachair iad oirne na reuball,
'S bu neo-eibhinn leinn a chuideachd ;
Nuair a chuir iad an ratreud oirnn,
'S iad 'nar deigh a los ar murtadh,
'S mur deanamaid feum le'r casan,
Cha tug sinne srad le'r musgan.

'S a dol an coinneamh a Phrionnsa,
Gu'm bu shunnach a bha sinne,
Shaoil sinn gu'm faigheamaid cùis dheth,
'S nach ro dhuinn, ach dol g'a sireadh ;
'Nuair a bhuail iad air a chéile,
'S ard a leumamaid a pilleadh,
'S ghabh sinn a mach air an abhainn,
'S dol g'ar n-ambaich ann san linne.

'N am do dhaoine dol nan éideadh,
Los na reabalaich a philleadh,
Cha do shaoil sinn, gus na ghéill sinn,
Gur sinn féin a bhite 'g iomain ;
Mar gu'n rachadh cù ri caoirich,
'S iad 'nan ruith air aodainn glinne,
'S ann mar sin a ghabh iad sgaolleadh
Air an taobh air an robh sinne.

Sin 'nuair thàinig càch 'sa dhearbhadh iad
Gu'm bu shearbhadh dhuinn dol nan cuideachd ;
Se'n trùp Ghallda g'an robh chàll sin,
Bha 'Coluinn gun cheann air cuid diubh :
'Nuair a thachair ribh Clann-Dòmhnuille,
Chum iad còmhail air an uchdan,
Dh-fhàg iad creuchdan air an rèubadh,
'S cha leighiseadh léigh an cuislean.

Bha na h-eich gu crùitheach, srianach,
Girteach, iallach, fiamhach, trùpach ;
'S bha na fir gu h-armach, fòghluimt',
Air an sonnrachadh gu murta.
'Nuair a dh-aom sinn bharr an t-sléibh',
Is mòran feum againn air furtach,
Na bha beo bha cuid dhiubh leoint',
'S bha sinn brònach mu 'na thuit ann.

Dh-eirich fuathas ann san ruaig dhuinn,
'Nuair a ghluais an sluagh le leathad ;
Bha Prionns' Tearlach le chuid Frangach,
'S iad an geall air teachd 'nar rathad :

* This is the author's first song.

Cha d' fhuair sinn facal comand'
A dh-iarraidh ar nàimhdean a sgathadh ;
Ach comas sgaolleadh feadh an t-saoghail,
'S cuid againn gu'n fhaotain fhathasd.

Sin 'nuair thàinig mise dhachaigh
Dh-ionnsuidh Ghilleaspuig o'n Chrannaich,
'S ann a bha e 'n sin cho fhiaata,
Ri broc liath a bhiodh an garraidh ;
Bha e duilich ann san àm sin,
Nach robh ball aige r'a tharruinn,
'S mòr an diùbhail na bha dhì air,
Claidheamh sinnsireachd a sheanar.

Mòran iarruinn air bheag faobhair,
Gu'm be sud aogas a chlaidheimh ;
'Se gu lùbach, leumnach, bearnach,
'S bha car càrn ann, ann san amhaich ;
Dh-fhàg e mo chruachainse brùite
Bhi 'ga ghiùlan feadh an rathaid,
'S e cho tròm ri cabar fearna,
'S mairg a dh-fhairdeadh an robh rath air.

'Nuair a chruinnich iad nan ceudan
'N là sin air sliabh na h-eaglais,
Bha ratreud air luchd na Beurla,
'S ann daibh féin a b' éigin teicheadh ;
Ged' a chaill mi ann san am sin
Claidheamh ceannairt Chloinn-an-Leasdair ;
Claidheamh bearnach a mhi-fhortain,
'S ann bu choltach e ri greidlein.

Am ball-teirmeisg a bha meirgeach,
Nach d'rinn seirbheis a bha dleasach ;
'S beag an diùbhail leam r'a chunntadh,
Ged' a dh-ionndrain mi mu fheasgar,
An claidheamh dubh nach d'fhuair a sgùradh,
'S neul an t-suthaidh air a leath-taobh ;
'S beag a b'fhiù e 's e air lùbadh,
'S gu'm b'e diuthadh a bhuill-deis e.

An claidheamh braoisgeach, bh'aig na daoine,
Nach d'rinn caonnag 's nach tug builleann,
Cha robh eugas air an t-saoghal,
'S mairg a shaoraich leis an cuimeasg ;
An claidheamh dubh air 'n robh an t-aìmhleas,
Gu'n chrìos, gun chrambait, gun duille,
Gu'n roinn, gun fhaobhar, gun cheana-bheart,
'S mairg a thàrladh leis an cunnart.

Thug mi leam an claidheamh bearnach,
 'S b'olc an asuinn e sa' chabhaig,
 Bhi ga ghiùlan ar mo shliasaid,
 'S maireg mi riamh a thug o'n bhail' e ;
 Cha toir e stobadh no sàthadh,
 'S cha robh e làidir gu gearradh ;
 Gu'm b'e diùthadh a bhuill airm e,
 'S e air meirgeadh air an fharadh.

Chruinnich uaislean Earraghàèil,
 Armaillt làidir de Mhalisi,
 'S chaidh iad mu choinneamh phrionns' Tearlach,
 'S duil aca r'a chàmp a bhristeadh ;
 'S ioma fear a bh' ann san àit ud
 Nach robh sàbhailt mar bha mise,

Am fasnadh doire-chrò,

An taice ris an t-sròin,

Am measg nam faillean òga

'S nan còsagan.

Masnadh 'n fhuarain mhòir,

'S e pailte gu leòir,

'S blasda le' na'm beòr

Gu bhi pòit orra.

Deoch de'n t-sruthan uasal

R'a òl aice,

Dh' fhàgas fallain,

Fuasgailteach, òigeil i :

Grad-charach ri nair,

'S eathlamh bheir i cuairt,

'Nuair thachradh i'n ruaig,

'S a bhiodh tòir oirre.

'S mao-bhuidh daith' a snuagh,

Dearg a dreach sa tuar,

'S gurro-iomadh buaidh

Tha mar chòladh oirr' ;

Fulangach air fuachd,

Is i gun chum' air luath's ;

Urram clàisteachd chluas

Na Rinn-eòrpa dh'i.

Siubhal.

Bu ghrinn leam am pannaal

A' tarrainn an òrdugh,

A' dìreadh le farum

Ri carraig na Sròine ;

Eadar sliabh Craobh-na-h-ainnis,

A's beul Choire-dhaingheinn,

Bu bhiaidhchar greidh cheannard

Nach ceannaich am pòrsan ;

Da thaobh choire-rannoich

Mu sgéith sin a' bhealaich,

Coire réidh Beinn-Achaladair,

A's thairis mu'n chonn-lon :

Air Iurgain na Laoidhre

Bu ghreadhnach a' chòisri,

Mu Iarach-na-Féinne

'S a' Chraig-sheilich 'na dheigh sin,

Far an cruinnich na h-éildean

Bu neo-spéiseal mu'n fhòghlaich :

'S gu'm b'e 'n aighear a's an éibhneas

Bhi faicheachd air réidhlein,

'A comh-mhacrus r'a chéile,

'S a' leumnaich feadh mòintich ;

Ann am pollachaibh daimseir

Le sodradh gu meannach,

Gu togarrach mearrachdasach,

Ain-fheasach gbrach.

'S cha bhiodh iot air an teangaidh

Taobh shois a' Mhill-teanail,

Le fion-uillt na h-Annadh,

Blas meala r'a òl air ;
 Sruth brìoghmhor geal tana,
 'S e sìothladh tor 'n ghaineamh,
 'S e 's millse na'n caineal,
 Cha b' ain-eolach oirun e :
 Sud an ioc-shlàinnte mhaireann,

 Gheibhte lìonmhoireachd math dh'i
 Gu'n a cheannach' le stòras ;

 Is dàicheala sealladh,
 A dh'fhàs anns a' cheithreamh
 A' bheil mi 'n Rinn-eòrpa :
 Le gloinead a h-uisge,
 Gu mao-bhlàst a brisg-gheal,
 Caoin, caomhail, glan, miosail,
 Neo-mhisgeach ri pòit' air :
 Le fuarainibh grinne
 Am bun gruamach no biolair,
 Còineach uaine mu'n iomall,
 A's iomadach seòrsa :
 Bu ghlan uachdar na lìnne
 Gu neo-bhuairesasach milis,
 Tigh'n 'na chuairteig o'n ghrinneal
 Air slinnein Beinn-dòrain.

Tha leth-taobh na leachdainn
 Le mais' air a còmhach,
 'S àm frìdh-choirean creagach
 'Na shesamh g'a chòir sin,
 Gu stobanach, stacanach,

 A h-aiseirine corrach,
 'Nam fasraichsan mollach,
 'Si b'asadh dhomh mholladh,
 Bha sonas gu leòir oirr' :
 Cluigeanach, gucagach,
 Uchdanach, còmhnard,
 Le dìthean glan, ruiteach,
 Breac, misleanach, sultmhor :
 Tha 'n fhrìdh air a busgadh
 San trusgan bu chòir dh'i.

'S am monadh farsuinn faoin

 Air an d'fhàs an aoidh,
 Far am bi na laoigh
 'S na daimh chròcach ;

 'S neo-bheag air an éildeig

Bhi chòmhnaidh ann.
 'S glan fallain a cré,
 Is banail i 'na beus ;
 Cha robh h-anail breun,
 Ge b'e phògadh i.
 'S e 'n coire choisinn gab' :

 A chunna' riamh a thaobh,
 'S a ghabh eòlas air :
 'S lìonmhor feadan caol
 Air an éirich gaoth,
 Far am bi na laoich

 Far am biodh greidh dhearg,

Gheibhte tachdar éisg

 A's bhì 'gan ruithe le leus
 Anns na mòr-shruthan ;

 Le chrann giubhais féin,
 Aig fir shubhach, threubhach
 'Nan dòrnaibh :
 Bu shòlasach a' leum'
 Bric air buinne réidh,
 A' ceapadh chuileag eutrom
 'Nan dòrlaichean ;
 Cha 'n'eil muir no tìr
 Am beil tuille brìgh,
 'S tha feadh do chrìch'
 Air a h-òrdachadh.

An Crunluath.

Tha 'n eilid anns a ghleannan so,
 Cha 'n amadan gu'n eòlas
 A leanadh i mar b' aithne dha
 Tig'n farasda na còdhail,
 Gu faiteach bhì 'na h-earalas,
 Tig'n' am faigse dh'i mu'n caraich i,
 Gu faicilleach, gle earraigeach,
 Mu'm fairich i ga còir e ;

 'S air a' char a thig na neoil air ;
 'S an t-asadar bhì 'ga tharruinn air
 Cho macanta 's a b' aithne dha,
 Gu'n glacadh e ga h-aùdeoin i
 Le h-anabharra seòltachd ;
 Le tùr, gun ghainne baralach,
 An t-sùil a chuir gu danara,
 A' stiùireadh' na du'-bannaiche,

'S a h-àire ri fear-cròice ;
 Bhiodh rùdan air an tarruinn
 Leis an lùbt' an t-iarrunn-earra,
 Bheireadh ionnsai' nach bi'dh mearachdach
 Do'n fhear a bhiodh 'ga seòladh ;
 Spòr ùr an déis a teannachadh,
 Buil' ùird a' sgaileachd dainghean ris,
 Cha diùlt an t-srad, 'nuair bheanas i
 Do'n deannaigh a bha neònach :
 Se 'm fùdar tioram tean-abaich
 Air chùl an asgairt ghreannaich,
 Cuir smùid ri acuinm mheallanaich
 A baraille Nic-Cbisean.
 B'ionmhuinn le fir cheanalta,
 Nach b'aineolach mu spòrsta,
 Bhi timcheall air na bealaichean
 Le fearalachd na h-òige :
 Far am bi na féidh gu farumach,
 'S na fir 'nan déigh gu caithriseach,
 Le gunna bu mhath barrandas
 Thoirt aingil 'nuair bu chòir dh'i ;

 'G am biodh a stiùir air bhogadan,

 'Nuair a shìneadh iad na h-ionnann
 Le h-atlghoirid na mòintich ;

 Gu'm freagrachd iad mac-talla dhut,
 Le fuaim na gairme gallanaich
 Aig farum a' choin ròmaich :
 'Gan tearpadh as na mullaichean
 Gu linnichean nach grunnach iad,
 'S ann a bhith's iad feadh na tuinne ;
 Anns an luineinich 's iad leòinte
 'S na cuileinean gu fulasgach
 'G an cumail air na munealaibh,
 'S nach urrainn iad dol tuilleadh as,
 Ach fuireach, 's bhi gun deò annt',
 'S ge do thuirte mi began riu,
 Mu'n innsinn uil' an dheanas orra,
 Chuireadh iad a' m' bhreisligh mi
 Le deisimearachd chòmraidh.

BHA m' 'n dé* 'm Beinn-dòrain,

* 19th September, 1806.

'S aobhach a ghreidh uallach,
'Nuair ghluaiseadh iad gu farumach,
'S na h-éildean air an fhuaran,
Bu chuannar na laoigh bhallach ann ;
Na maoisichean 's an ruadh-bhuic,
Na collich dhubh a's ruadha,
'S e'n ceòl bu bhinne chualas
'Nuair chluinnt' am fuaim 'sa chambanaich.

'S togarach a dh' fhalbhainn
Gu sealgairachd nam beallaichean,
Dol 'mach a dhùreadh garbhlaich,
'S gu'm b'ana-moch tigh'n'n gu baile mi ;
An t-uisge glan 'san t-àile
Thar mullach nam bean arda,
Chuidich e gu fàs m' ;
'Se rinn domh slànnt a's fallaineachd.

Fhuair mi greis am' àrach
Air àiridhean a b' aithne dhomh,
Ri cluiche, 's mire 's màran,
An caoimhneas blàth nan caileagan ;
Bu chùis an aghaidh nàduir
Gu'm maireadh sin an dràst ann,
'Se b' éigin bhi da'm fàgail
'Nuair thàinig tràth dhuinn dealachadh.

'Nis o'n bhuail an aois mi,
Fhuair mi gaoid a mhaireas domh,
Rinn milleadh air mo dheudach,
'S mo léirsinn air a dalladh orm ;
Cha'n urrainn mi bhi treubhach,
Ged' a chuirinn feum air,
'S ged' bhiodh an ruaig am' dhéigh-sa,
Cha dean mi ceum ro chabhadh.

Ged' tha mo cheann air liathadh,
'S mo chiabhagan air tanachadh,
'S tric a leag mi mial-chù
Ri fear fiadhaich ceannartaich ;
Ged' bu toigh leam riamh iad,
'S ged' fhaicinn air an t-sliabh iad,
Cha téid mi 'nis ga'n iarraidh
O'n chaill mi trian na h-analach.

Ri àm dol anns a bhùreadh,
Bu dùrachdach a leanainn iad,
'S bhiodh uair aig sluagh na dùthcha,
'Toirt òrain ùra 's rannachd dhaibh ;
Greis eile mar ri càirdean,
'Nuair bha sinn anns na Còmpan,
Bu chridheil anns an àm sinn ;
'S cha bhiodh an dràm oirnn annasach.

'Nuair bha mi 'n toiseach m' òige,
'S i ghòraich a chum falamh mi ;

'S e fortan tha cuir oirne
 Gach aon ni còir a' ghealladh dhuinn ;
 Ged' tha mi gann a stòras,
 Tha m' inutinn làn de shòlas,
 O'n tha mi ann an dùchas
 Gu'n d'rinn nigh'n Dheòrs' an t-aran domh.

Bha mi 'n dé 'sau aonach,
 'S bha smaointean mòr air m' aire-sa,
 Nach robh 'n luchd-gaoil a b' àbhaist
 Bhi siubhal fàsaich mar rium ann,
 'Sa bheinn is beag a shail mi,
 Gu'n deanadh ise caochladh ;
 O'n tha i 'nis fo chaoirich,
 'S ann thug an saoghal càr asam.

'Nuair sheall mi air gach taobh dhìom,
 Cha'n fhaodainn gun bhi smalanach,
 O'n theirig coill' a's fraoch ann,
 S na daoine bh'ann, cha mhaireann iad ;
 Cha 'n 'eil fiadh r'a shealg ann,
 Cha 'n 'eil eun no earb ann,
 'M beagan nach 'eil marbh dhiubh,
 'Se rinn iad falbh gu baileach as.

Mo shoraidh leis na frithèan,
 O's mìobhailteach, na beannaibh iad,
 Le biolair uainne a's fìor-uig,
 Deoch usal rìmhèach, cheanalta,
 Na bhàrran a tha prìseil,
 'S na fàsaichean tha lìonmhor,
 O's àit a leag mi dhìom iad,
 Gu bràth mo mhìle beannachd leo !

CUMHA CHOIRE-CHEATHAICH.

S DULLICH leam an càradh
 Th' air coire gorm an fhàsaich,
 An robh mi greis da'm' àrach
 'S a bhràidhe so thall ;
 Siomadh fear a bharr orm,
 A thaitneadh e r'a nàdur,
 Na 'm biodh e mar a bha e,
 'Nuair dh' fhàg mi e nall ;
 Gunnairèachd a's làmhàich
 Spùirt a s aobhar ghairè,
 Chleachd bhì aig na h-àrmuinn
 A b' àbhaist bhì sa' ghleann ;
 Rinn na fir ud fhàgail—
 'S Mac-Eoghainn t'ann a 'dràsta,
 Mar chloich an ionnadh càbaig
 An àite na bh' ann.

Tha 'n Coir' air dol am fàillin,
 Ged' ithear thun a bhàir e,
 Gun duin' aig am beil càs deth
 Mun àit ann sau àm ;
 Na féidh a bh' ann air fhàgail,
 Cha d' fhuirich gin air àruinn,
 'S cha 'neil an àite-tàmha
 Mar bha e sa' ghleann.
 Tha 'm Baran air a shàrach'
 Is dh'artlaich air an tàladh,
 Gun sgìl aig air an nàdur
 Ged' thàinig e ann ;
 B' fhearr dha bhì mar b' àbhaist,
 Os ceann an t-soithich chàtha,
 'Sa làmhan a bhì làn d'i,
 Ga fàsgadh gu teann.

Se mùghadh air an t-saoghal
 An coire laghach gaolach,
 A dhol anis air faoin-tragh,
 'S am maor a theachd ann :
 'S gur h-e bu chleachdadh riamh dhut,
 Bhì trusa nan cearc biata,
 Gur tric a rium iad siathnail,
 Le piannadh do làmh.
 Is iad na 'm baidnibh riabhach,
 Mu-amhaich 's ann ad' sgiathan,
 Bhìodh itealaich a's sgiabail
 Mu-fhiaclan sau àm :
 Bu ghiobach thu ri riaghailt,
 Mu chidsin taighe 'n iarla,
 Gar nach b'e do mhiann
 Bhì cuir bhian air an stàing.

Ged' tha thu 'nis sa' bbràighe,
 Cha chòmpanach le càch thu,
 'S tha h-uile duine tàir ort
 O'n thàinig thu ann ;
 'S éigin dut am fàgail
 Ni 's measa na mar thàinig
 Cha taintinn thu ri 'n nàdur
 Le cnàmhan, 's le cainnt :
 Ged' fhaiceadh tu ghreidh uallach,
 'Nuair racha tu mun-cuairt daibh,
 Cha dean thu ach am fuadachadh
 Suas feadh nam beann ;
 Leis a ghunna nach robh buadhar,
 'S a mheirg air a toll cluaise,
 Cha 'n eirmis i na cruachan,
 An cuaille dubh cam.

Se 'n Coire chaidh an déis-laimh,
 O'n tha e nis gu'n fhéidh ann,
 Gun duin' aig am beil spéis diubh,
 Ni feum air an cùl ;
 O'n tha iad gu'n fhear-gléidhte,
 Cha'n fhuirich iad r'a chéile,

'S ann a ghabh iad an ratreuta
Seach réidhlean nan lùb.
Cha 'n 'eil pris an ruadh-bhuic,
An coille na air fuaran,
Nach b' éigin da bhi gluasad
Le ruaig feadh na dùthch' ;
'S cha 'n 'eil a nis' mun cuairt da,
Aon spuir a dheanadh suairceas,
No thaitreadh ri duin-uasal
Ged' fhuasgladh e chù.

Tha choille bh' ann san fhrith ud,
Na cuislean fada, dìreach
Air tuiteam a's air crionadh
Sìos as an rùsg ;
Na preasan a bha brioghar
Na dosaibh tiugha lionmhor,
Air seachda' mar gu'n spiont' iad
A nìos as an ùir ;
Na failleanan bu bhòiche,
Na slatan a's na h-ògain,
'S an t-àit am biodh an smeòrach,
Gu mòdhar a séinn ciùil ;
Tha iad uil' air caochladh,
Cha d' fhuirich fiodh no fraoch ann ;
Tha mullach bharr gach craobhe,
'S am maor 'ga thoirt diù.

Tha uisge srath na dìge,
Na shruthladh dubh gun sìoladh
Le barraig uaine liogh-ghlais
Gu mi-bhlasda grannd ;
Feur-lochain is tàchair
An cinn an duileag-bhàite
Cha 'n 'eil guè tuille fàs
An san àit' ud san àm ;
Glumagan a chàthair,
Na ghluagaibh domhain, sàmhach,
Cho tiugh ri sùghan càtha,
'Na làthaich 's na phlàim ;
Sean bhùrn salach ruadhain
Cha ghloinne ghrunnnd na nachdar,
Gur coslach ri muir ruaidh e,
Na ruaimle feadh stannq.

Tha 'n t-àit an robh na fuarain
Air fàs na chroitèan cruaidhe,
Gun sòbhrach gu'n sail-chuaich,
Gun lus uasal air càrn
An sliabh an robh na h-éildean,
An àite laidhe 's éiridh
Cho lòm ri cabhsair féille,
'S am feur chinn e gann :
Chuir Alasdair le ghéisgeil
A ghraidh ud as a chéile,
'S air leam gur mòr an eucoir
An fheudail a chall ;

Cha lugha 'n t-aobhar mìo-thlachd,
Am fear a chleachd bhì tiorail,
A' tearnadh a's a dìreadh
Ri frith nan damh seang.

Ach ma's duine de shliochd Phàdruig
A théid a nis do'n àite,
'S gu 'n cuir e as a làraich
An tàch'ran a th' ann ;
Bi'dh 'n coire mar a bha e,
Bi'dh laoigh is aigheinn dàr ann,
Bi'dh daimh a dol san dàmhair,
Air fasach nam beann ;
Bi' buic s'na badain blatha,
Na bric san abhainn làimh riu,
'S na féidh an srath na làirge
Ag' arach na mang ;
Thig gach uile ni g'a àbhaist,
Le aighear a's le àbhachd,
'Nuair gheibh am Baran bairlinn,
Sud fhagail gun taing.

ORAN GA OIL.

A MHAIRI bhàn gur barrail thu,
'S gur barraicht' air gach seòl thu,
O'n thug mi gaol cho daingean dut,
'S mi t'fharraid anns gach codhail :
'S earbsach mi a'd' cheanaltas,
'S na fhuair mi chean' ad' chòmhradh,
Nach urrainn càch do mhealladh uam
'N déis do ghealladh dhòmh-sa.

'S chuala mi mar shean-fhacal
Mu'n darach, gur fiodh còrr e :—
" 'S gur geinn' dheth fhéin 'ga theannachadh
A spealtadh e 'na òrdaibh :"
'S mi 'n dùil, a réir na h-ealaídh sin,
Gur math leat mi bhì d' sheòrsa,
Nach tréig thu mi, 's gu 'm faigh mi thu
Le bannaibh daingean phòsda.

'S e chum an raoir mi m' aireachadh
An spéis a ghabh mi òg dhiòt ;
Bha smaointean tric air m' airese
Mu'n ainneir is fhearr fòghlum :
Cha 'n 'eil cron r'a àireamh ort,
O' d' bhàrr gu sàil do bhròige,
Ach ciallach, fialaidh, fàbharach,
Air fàmh a ghàir' an còmhnuidh.

'S do chùl daithte làn-mhaiseach
Mu'n cuairt a'd' bhròigh' an ordugh,

Air sniamh, mar theudan clàrsaiche,
Na fhàineachan glan nòsar :
Gu lùdh-dhonn, pleatach, sàr-chleachdach,
Gu dosach, fàsmhor, dòmhail,
Gu lùbach, dualach, bachlach, guairsgeach,
Snasmhor, cauchach, òr-bhuidh.

Tha t-aghaidh nàrach bhanaill,
Dà chaol mhala mar ite eòin ort ;
Rosgan réidhe, fallaine
'S dà shùil ghorm, mheallach, mhòthar :
Do ghruaidh mar chaorann meangain,
A thug barrachd air na ròsan ;
Do dheud geal, dreachmhor, meachair, grinn.
'S do bheul, o'm binn thig òran.

Tha do phòg mar ùbhlan gàraidh,
'S tha do bhràighe mar an neòinein ;
Do chiochan liontach, mulanach,
'S an sìod' g an cumail còmhnaidh :
Corp seang, geal, gnéadhail, furanach,
Deagh-chumachdail, neo-spòrsail ;
Do chalpa cruinne lùghara,
'S an troigh nach lùb am feòirnean.

'S e m fàth mu'n biodh tu talach orm,
Gur ro-bheag leat mo stòras ;
'Bha dà-rud-dheug a' tarruinn uam
Na thionail mi de phòrsan :
Bhiodh òl, a's féisd, a's banais ann ;
Bha ceòl, a's beus, a's ceannaichean,
N' fhéill, 's na gibhtean leananachd,
An amaideachd 's an òige.

'S a nis nam faighinn mar' rium thu,
Cha leanainn air an t-seòl sin ;
Dheanainn àiteach fearainn,
A's crodh-bainne chur mu chrò dhut ;
Mharbhainn iasg na mara dhut,
'S am fiadh sa' bhealach cheòthar,
Le gunna caol nach mearachdaich,
'S a mhealladh fear na cròice.

'S mòr an gaol a ghabh mi ort
Le ro bheagan a dh-èblas,
S mi 'n dùil gur tu bu leannan domb,
'S nach mealladh tu mi m' dhòchas :
Ge d' bhiodh am bàs an carabh dhomb,
Gu'n bharrail ri tigh'n beò uaith,
'S e dh'fhàgadh slàn mi n' ribhinn mhàlda,
Mairi bhàn o Lèch-lairig.

Thoir a' cruaidh as an innis
Air eagal na gillean
Bhi sireadh do phòg
'S i nighean, &c.

'S cha 'n aill leat am buachail,
'S cha 'n fhearde fear-fuadalain
Bhi cruaidh air do thoir.

Cha taobh i fear idir,
Air eagal mo thrioblaid ;
'S cha toilich tè mise
Ach ise le deoin.
'S i nighean, &c.

Nam bitheadh i mar rium,
Cha dh' fharraid mi stòr.
'S i nighean, &c.

Bheir mis' thu Dhun-éideann
A dh'ionnsacha' beurla,
'S cha 'n fhàg mi thu t-èigin,
Ri spréidh an fhir-mhòir.
'S i nighean, &c.

A'nighean na gruaige,
Cha chreidinn ort tuailleas ;
O'n a tharruinn mi suas riut,
Cha 'n fhuath leam do shebl.
'S i nighean, &c.

'S e mheudaich mo ghaol ort
Gu'n d' fhàs thu cho aobhach,
'S gu'n leumadh tu daonnan
Cho aotrom 's na h-eoin.
'S i nighean, &c.

'Si 'n togarrach laghach
A thogainn mar roghainn,
Nam bithinn a' taghall
'S an taigh am bi 'n t-òl.
'S i nighean, &c.

Gu'm b' fhearrde daoine-uaisle

Dheanainn riut furan
Am bliadh'n a's an uiridh ;
Bu docha nan t-uireasbhuidh,
Tuill' a's a' chòir.
'S i nighean, &c.

ORAN D' A CHEILE

NUADH-POSDA.

A MHAIRI bhàn òg,
'S tu 'n òigh th'air m'aire,
Ri'm bheò bhì far am bithinn fhéin ;
O'n fhuair mi ort còir
Cho mòr 's bu mhath leam,
Le pòsadh ceangailt' o'n chléir,
Le cùmhanta teann
'S le banntaibh daingean,
'S le snaim a dh'fhanas, nach tréig ;
'S e t' fhaotain air làimh
Le gràdh gach caraid
Rinn slànnte mhaireann a'm' chrè.

'Nuair bha mi gu tinn
'S mi 'n cinneal leannain,
Gun chinnt cò theannadh rium féin,
'S ann a chunna' mi 'n òigh
Air bòrd taigh-leanna,
'S bu mhòthar ceanal' a beus ;
Tharruinn mi suas rith',
'S fhuair mi gealladh
O'n ghruagaich bhanaill bhì 'm réir ;
'S mise bha aobhach
T' fhaotain mar' rium,
'S crobh laogh a' Bharain a'd' dheigh.

Madainn Di-luain,
Ge buan an t-slighe,
'Nuair ghluais mi, ruithinn mar ghaoth,
A dh-fhaicinn mo luaidh
'S rud bhuainn n-ar dìthis
Nach dual da rithist gu'n sgaoil ;
Thug mi i 'n uaigneas
Uair a bhruidhinn,
'S ann fhuair an nighean mo ghaoil,
A's chluinneadh mo chluas
Am fuaim a bhitheadh
Aig luathas mo chridhe ri 'm thaobh.

Sin 'nuair chuir Cupid
An t-uldach a'm' bhroilleach,
G'a shaighdean corranach caol,
A dhrùidh air mo chuislean,
Chuir luchd air mo choluinn,
Leis thuit mi ge b'oil leam a's dh'aom
Dh'innis mi sgeul
Do'n tè rinn m' acain,
Nach léigh a chaisgeadh mo ghaoid ;
'Se leighis gach creuchd
I fhéin le feartan
Theachd réidh a'm' ghlaicibh mar shaoil.

Bheirinn mo phòg
Do'n òg-mhnaoi shomult'
A dh-fhàs gu boinneanta, caoin,
Gu mìleant, còmharnad,
Seòcail, foimnidh,
Do chòmhradh gheibh mi gu saor.
Tha mi air sheòl
Gu leòir a'd' chomain,
A mhòid 'sa chuir thu gu faoin
De m' smaointean gòrach,
Pròis nam boireannach,
'S còir dhomh fuireach le h-aon.

Chaidh mi do'n choill'
An robh croinn a's gallain,
Bu bhoisgeil sealladh mu'n cuairt,
'S bha miann mo shùl
Do dh'fhùran barruicht'
An dlù's nam meanganan shuas ;
Geug fo bhlàth
O bàrr gu talamh,
A lùb mi farrasda nuas :
Bu duilich do chàch
Gu bràth a gearradh,
'S e 'n dàn domh 'm faillean a bhuain.

Shuidhich mi lìon
Air fìor-uisg tana,
'S mi stri 'ga tharruinn air bruaich,
'S thug mi le sgrìob
Air tìr a ghealag,
S a lith mar eal' air a' chuan ;
'S toilicht' a dh'fhàg
E 'n là sin m' aigheadh,
An roinn a bh'agam san uair ;
B'i coimeas mo cheud mhna'
Reull na maidne,
Mo chéile cadail 's mi 'm shuain.

'S e b'fhasan leat riamh
Bhi ciallach banail,
Ri gnìomh, 's ri ceanal mnà-uaila' ;
Gu pàirteach, bàigheal,
Blàth, gun choire,

Gun ghìomh, gun ghoinne, gun chruas,
Gu déirceach, daonntach,
Faoidh, farrasd',
Ri daoin fanna, bochd, truagh ;
Is tha mi le'd' sheòl,
An dòchas ro-mhath,
Gur lòn do t-anam do dhuais.

Chuir mi air thùs ort
Iùil a's aithne,
Le sùgradh ceanalta, suaicr,
'Nuair theannain riut dlù,
Bu chùraidh t' anail
No ùbhlan meala 'gam buain :
Cha bhiodh sgeul rùin,
A b'iùil domh aithris,
A b' fhiù, nach mealladh i bhuam ;
Nan cuireadh i cùl rium
'S diùlta' baileach,
Bu chùis domh anart a's uaigh.

Do bhriodal blàth
'S do mhàran millis,
Do nàdur grinneas gach uair,
Gu beulchair, gàireach,
Aluinn, coineil,
Gun chàs a thuille' dhut fuath ;
Chuir i guin bhàis
Fad ràith' am mhuineal
Dh'fhàg làn mi mhulad 'sa ghruaim,
'Nuair thuig i mar bha,
'Sa thàr mi 'n ulaidh,
Ghrad spàr i 'n cunnart ud bhuam

'S ann thog e mi 'm pris
O'n tìm so 'n uiridh,
An nì 'san urrainn a fhuair,
'Sguab do'n ìre
Fhìor-ghloin chruineachd,
An sìol is urramaich buaidh ;
Sin na chuir mi
Co-rìmhèich umad,
Bha t' inntinn bunailteach, buan :
Lìonadh do sgiamhachd
Miann gach duine,
An dreach, fiamh, an cumachd, 's an sruagh.

Do chuach-fhalt bàn
Air fàs cho barrail,
'S a bhàrr làn chamag a's dhual ;
T-aghaidh ghlan, mhàlda,
Nàrach, bhanaill,
Do dhà chaol mbala gun ghruaim ;
Sùil ghorm, lìontach,
Mhìn-ros, mheallach,
Gun dìth cur fal' ann ad' ghruaidh,
Deud gheal iobhraidh

Dìonach, daingean,
Beul bìdh nach canadh ach stuaim.

Shiùbhladh tu fàsach
Airidh glinne
'San àit an cinneadh an spréidh,
G' am bleothan mu chrò,
'S bhi chòir na h-innis,
Laoigh òg a' mireadh 's a' leum ;
Cha mhiosa do lamh
'S tu làimh ri coinnil
No 'n sèdmar soilleir ri gréin,
A' fuaidheal 's a' fàitheam
Bhann a's phionar,
An àm chur grinnis air gréus.

Do chneas mar an éiteag
Glè ghlan, fallain,
Corp seang mar chanach an t-slèibh ;
Do bhràigh co-mhìn,
'S do chiochan corrach
S iad lìontach, soluis le chéil :
Gaoirdein tlà geal
Làmh na h-ainnir,
Caol mheoir, glac thana, bäs réidh ;
Calpa deas ùr,
Troigh dhlù 'm bròig chumair
Is lùghar innealta ceum.

'S ann fhuair mi bhean chaoin
Aig taobh Mhàm-charraidh.
S a gaol a'm' mhealladh o'm chéill ;
Bha cridhe dhomh saor,
'Nuair dh'fhaod mi tharruinn,
Cha b'fhaoin domh bharail bhi d' réir
'S ioma' fuil uasal,
Uaibhreach, fharumach,
Suas ri d' cheann-aghaidh fhéin,
Gad' chumail am prìs
An Rìgh 's Mac-Caillein
'S tu shìol nam fear a bha 'n Sléibht'.

'Nam faighinn an dràst
Do chàradh daingean
An àite falaich o'n èug ;
Ge d' thigeadh e d' dhàil,
A's m' fhàgail falamh.
Cha b' àill leam bean eil' a'd' dhèigh :
Cha toir mi gu bràth dhut
Dranndan teallaich,
Mu'n àrdaich aileag do chléibh,
Ach rogha' gach màrain,
Gràdh a's furan,
Cho blàth 'sa b'urraim mo bheul.

Dheanainn dut ceann,
A's crann, a's t-earrach,

An àm chur ghearran an éill,
A's dheanainn mar chàch
Air tràigh na mara,
Chur àird air mealladh an éisg :
Mharbbainn dut geoidh,
A's roin, a's eala,
'S na h-eoin air bharra nan geug ;
'S cha bhi thu ri d' bheò
Gun seòl air aran,
'S mi chòmhnuidh far am bi féidh.

O R A N

DO LEANABH-ALTROM.

ISEABAL òg
An òr-fhuil bhuidh,
Do ghruaidh mar ròs,
'S do phòg mar ubhal,
Do bheul dreachmhor,
Meachair, grinn,
O'm faighte na h-brain
Cheòl-mhor bhinn.

'S tu 's gloine 's cannalche
Bhanaile snuadh,
Gur deirge na'n t-suthag
An ruthadh tha d' ghruaidh,
Do mhìn rosg lìontach,

'S e cosail na h-ainnir
An eal' air an t-snàmh,
Do chneas mar an canach
Co cheanalta thlà,
Do chiochan corrach
Air bhroileach geal bàn,
Do bhràigh mar ghrian,
'S do bhian mar chnàimh.

Do chuach-fhalt bachallach,

Le fearra-ghleus an dòrn,

'Ga h-àltrom le cìch ;
'Nuair a sheasas i fathast
Air faidhir an rìgh,

A' faraid,—“ Cò i ?”

Gruagach gheal, shomulta,

'S i finealta, foinnidh,
Gun chroma', gun sgeòp ;
Calpa deas cosail,
A choisicheadh ròd,

Nach dochuinn a' bhòg.

'S math thig dhut 'san fhasan
Gùn daithe de'n t-sròl,
Le staidhs 'ga theannadh
Cho dàingeas 's bu chòir

Air Iseabail òig.

ORAN GHLINN-URCHADH.

Mu'n tig ceann bliadhna tuille,
 Cha bhi sinn uile 'n Tora-mhuilt :
 Théid sinn thar nam bealaichean,
 Do'n fhearann an robh 'n tìs :
 Far am beil ar dilsean,
 Ann san tìr am beil ar cuid ;
 'S an t-àit an còr dhuinn crìochnachadh
 'S an tìodhlaicear ar cuirp.

'San Clachan-an-Diseirt,
 Bu ghrinn bhi ann an diugh,
 Suidhe 'n eaglais mhìorbhuileach,
 An dasg bu rìmheach cur ;
 Ag' eisdeachd ris na dh'inseadh dhuinn,
 Am fear bu shìobhailt guth ;
 Is e toirt sgeul a Bhiobaill duinn,
 'S a bhrìgh a'tig'n gu buil.

Gleannan blàth na tìoralachd,
 An ro-mhath 'n cinn an stuth
 Far am beil na h-inseagan,
 Am beil an sìol an cur :
 Cinnidh arbhar craobhach ann
 Cho caoin gheal ris a ghruth,
 Gu reachdmhar, biadhchar, brìoghar,
 Tròm, torach, lìontach, tiuth.

Bu chridheil bhi sa' gheamhradh ann,
 Air bainnsean gheibhte spuir ;
 Fonn cheol réidh na pìobaireachd,
 'S cha bhiodh sgìos mu sgur :
 Fuaim nan tend aig fìdheilrean,
 A sheinneadh sìos na cuir ;
 'S an luinneag féin aig nìonagan,
 Bu bhinne mhìllse guth.

Gheibhte bradan fìor-uisg ann,
 A dìreadh ris gach sruth ;
 Eoin an t-sléibh gu lìonmhor,
 'S na mìltean coileach dubh ;
 Earba bheag an sgrìobain,
 Na minnein chrìon 's na buic,
 'S a ghleann am beil na frìtheachan,
 'S na glòmanaich 'n am bun.

O'n a thàinig mi do'n fhearann so,
 Cha 'n fhaigh mi prìs an èoin,
 'S cha 'n 'eil fàth bhi bruidhinn
 Mu'n fhear-bhuidh air 'm bi 'n cròc :
 Cha b'ionnan 's bhì mar b'abhaist domh,
 Aig bràigh doire-chrò,
 Far am bi' na làn-daimh,
 Nì 'n dàmhair ann sa cheb.

Mo shoraidh do Ghleann-urchaidh
 Nan tulchan glasa feòir,
 Far am beil na sealgairean,
 'S a fhuair iad ainm bhi còrr ;
 A dhìreadh ris na garbhlaichean,
 Am biodh greidh dhearg na's leòir
 'S bhiodh gillean tròm le eallachan
 A dh'fhàgadh tarbhach bord.

'S an uair a thigte dhachaigh leo,
 Gu'm b'fhasanta bhur seòl,
 A suidhe 'san taigh-thàirne,
 'S bhi damhsa mar ri ceòl ;
 Cridhealas r'a chéile,
 'S na béin a bhi 'ga'n òl ;
 'S cha 'n fhaicte cùis 'na h-éigin
 An àm éigheach air an stòp.

MOLADH DHUN-EIDEANN,

'S x baile mòr Dhun-éideann,
 A b'éibhinn leam bhi ann,
 Aite fialaidh farsuinn,
 A bha tlachdmhor anns gach ball ;
 Gearasdain a's bataraidh,
 A's rampairean gu teann,
 Taighean mòr a's caisteal,
 Anns an tric a stad an càmp.

'S tric a bha càmp Rìoghail ann,
 'S bu rìmheach an luchd-dreuchd ;
 Trùp' nan srann-each lìonmhor,
 Gu dìleas air a gheard :
 Bhiodh gach fear cho eblach
 'S na h-uile seòl a b'fhearr,
 Na fleasgaich bu mhath fòghlum
 A dhol an òrdugh blàir.

'S iomadh fleasgach uasal ann,
 A bha gu suaírce grinn,
 Fùdar air an gruagan,
 A suas gu bàrr ann cinn ;
 Leadainn dhonna, dhualach
 Na chuachagan air sùomh ;
 Bàrr dosach mar an sìoda,
 'Nuair liogadh e 'le cìr.

'S mòr a tha do bhain-tighearnan
 A nùll 'sa nàll an t-sràid,
 Gùntaichean de'n t-sìoda orr',
 Ga'n slìogadh ris a bhìl ;
 Sìoise air na h-ainnìrean
 Ga'n teannachadh gu h-àrd.
 Buill mhais air eudainn bhòidheach,
 Mar thuilleadh spòrsa dhaibh.

Na h-uile té mar thigeadh dh'ì,
 Gu measail a' measg chàich,
 Uallach, rimheach', ribeanach.
 Cruinn, min-geal, giobach, tlà ;
 Trusgan air na h-oigheanan,
 Ga'n còmhdachadh gu làr ;
 Bròg bhiorach, dhionach, chothromach,
 'S bu chorrach leam a sàil.

'Nuair chaidh mi staigh do'n Abailte,
 Gu'm b'ait an sealladh sùl
 Bhi 'g amharc air na dealbhanan,
 Rìgh Fearghas ann air thùs ;
 A nis o'n rinn iad falbh uainn,
 Tha Alba gun an Crùn :
 'Se sin a dh'fhàg na garbh-chrìochan
 'S an aimsir so á cùirt.

Bi lòchrainn ann de ghloineachan,
 A's coinneal anns gach ùit,
 A meudachadh an soillearachd,
 Gu sealladh a thoirt daibh :
 Cha lagha 'n t-aobhar éibhneis,
 Cluig-chiuil ga'n éisdeachd ann,
 S gur binne na chuach chéitein iad,
 Le'n toragan éibhinn ard.

Bi farrum air na coitseachan,
 Na'n trotan a's na'n deann,
 Eich nan cruaidh cheum socrach,
 Cha bhiodh an coiseachd mall ;
 Cùrsain mheamnach, mhìreanach,
 A b'airde binneach ceann ;
 Cha'n e am fraoch a b'innis daibh,
 Na firichean nam beann.

Is ann an clous na Pàrlamaid
 A chi mi thall an t-each,
 Na sheasamh mar a b'abhaist da,
 Air lòm a chabhsair chlach ;
 Chuir iad srìan a's diallaid air,
 'Se'n Rìgh a tha n'a glaic,
 Ga'n robh còir na rìoghachd so,
 Ge d' dhiobair iad a mhuac* :

Tha taigh mòr na Pàrlamaid
 Air ardachadh le tlachd,
 Aig daoin-uailse ciallach,
 Nach tug riamh ach a bhreith cheart ;
 Tha breitheanas air thalamh ann,
 A mbaireas 's nach téid as,
 Chum na thoill a chrochadh,
 'S thig na neo-chiontaich a mach.

A's chuuna mi taigh-leigheas ann
 Aig leighichean ri feum,

* King James VII. was the brother of Charles II. whose statue is here described.

A dheanadh slàn gach dochartas
 A bhiodh 'an corp no'n crè ;
 Aon duine bhiodh an eu-slaunte,
 No'n freasdal ris an léigh,
 Be sin an t-àite dleasannach,
 Gu theasairginn o'n éug.

Tha Dun-éidean boidheach
 Air iomadh seòl na dha,
 Gu'n bhaile anns an rìoghachd so
 Nach deanadh strìochda dha ;
 A liuthad fear a dh'insinn ann
 A bheireadh eis de chàch,
 Daoin' uaisle casg an iota,
 A g' òl air fìon na Spàinnt.

Ge mòr a tha de dh' astar
 Eadar Glascho agus Peairt,
 Is cinnteach mi ged' fhaicinn
 Na tha dh'aitreabh ann air fad,
 Nach 'eil ann is taitniche
 Na'n Abait a's am Banc,

Le 'm falbh gurilleumach.

Cruideach, dlù-thairgneach,
Mear, aineasach, fuasgailteach,
Ceannardach, cluas-bhiorach,
Uallach gu leoir.

B'e do roghainn a dh'armachd,
An targaid chruinn ùr,
Gu meanbh-bhallach dlù,
Buidh' tairgneach cruaidh seolt ;
Is claidheamh chinn airgeid,
Cruaidh, calma, nach lùb,
Lann thana, gheur-chùil,
'Gu daingean a'd dhòrn ;
Mar ri dag ullamh, grad,
A bhiodh a snap freasdalach,
Nach biodh stad air a sraid
Ach bhi 'mach freagarach ;
Fudar cruaidh, sgeillecara,
'M feadan gle dhìreach,
A'd lamhan geal, mine,
'S cuileabhar caol, gorm.

Bu cheannard air feachd thu,
An am gaisgidh no feum,
Fhir mhiseachail, threin
A b' fhiosrach 's gach seòl ;
A fhuair fòglum, a's fasan,
Is aiteas g'a réir,
Tur pailte le céill
A' cur aignidh am mòid.
An am suidhe na cùirte,
No dùbladh an t-seisein,
An uchd bearraidh no binne,
'S i t-fhirinn a sheasadh :
Deag theang-fhear gu deasput,
Bu fhreagarach cainnt,
A bhuidhneadh gach geall
'S a chumadh a chòir.

'S e do shùgradh bha earailteach,
Ceannaalta, suaire,
An am tionnal nan uaislean
Mar riut a dh-òl ;
Gu failteachail, furanach,
A cuireadh a suas,
Gach duine de'n t-sluaigh,
G'am buineadh bhi d' chòir :
Na diùcan bu rìmhiche,
A chit' ann am Breatunn,
Is bu chompanach rìgh thu,
Le firinn 's le teisteas,
Fhir ghreadhnaich bu sheirceile
Sheasadh air blàr,
Fo 'n deise bhiodh lan.
De lastanan òir.

'S math thig dhut san fhasan,
An ùd a's a ghruag,

Air an deasachadh suas
Am fasan an t-slòigh
Gu camagach, daithte,
Lan chaisreag a's chuach,
Gu bachlach mu'n cuairt,
Le maise ro-mhòr :
Tha gach ciabh mar do mhiann,
Air an sniomh cumachdail,
Fiamh dhonn, torrach, tròm,
Gu'n aon bhonn uireasbhuidh,
Amlagach, cleachdach,
Cruinne cas-bhuidh tlà,
Cho gasda ri barr,
Th' air mac san Roinn-eòrp' ;

'S i t-aghaidh ghlan, shoilleir,
Bha caoineil ro suaire,
Caol mhala gun ghruain,
Sùil mheallach bu bhòidhch' ;
Gnùis àillidh mar chanach,
Bu cheanalta, snuagh,
Mìn, cannach, do ghruaidh,
Mar bharran nan ròs.
Cha 'n 'eil àilleachd air càch,
Nach tug pairt urram dhut ;
Foinnidh, finealta, dìreach,
Deas fir chumachdail,
Calpa chruinn, cothromach,
Corrach, gu d' shàil,
Gun chron ort a' fàs,
O mhulach gu bròig.

Do smaointeana glice,
Le misnich 's le céill,
Do thuigse ghlan, gheur,
'S deagh thuiteamas beoil ;
Gun tuirsneadh, gun bhristeadh,
Gun trioblaid, fo'n ghréin,
A b' fhiosrach mi féin,
Is misd thu bhi d' chòir.
'S ioma gibht' a tha 'nis,
Lìonmhor tric minig ort,
Iuil a's fios, mùirn a's mios,
Flùr a' meag finnich thu,
An uaisle le spiorad,
Air mhireadh a' d' chàil,
'S tu iriosal, baigheil,
Cinneadail, còir.

Gheibhte sud ann ad' thalla,
Fìon geal is math tuar,
Deoch thana gun druaipe,
'S i fallain gu pòit ;
Bhiodh sunnd agus farum
Air aire an t-sluaigh,
Deadh ghean ann san uair,
A teannaidh r'a h-òl ;

Ann san taigh bu mhòr seadh,
Leis nach dragh aithnichean,
Mùirn a's caoin, a bhios air fheadh,
Cupa 's gloin, canachan,
Coinnleirean airgeid,
'S drebs dheàlrach o chéir,
Feadh t-aitreamh gu léir,
'S iad pailte gu lebir.

B'e do mhiann a luchd ealaidh,
Pìob sgalanta, chruaidh,
Le caithream cho luath,
'S a ghearradh na mèir ;
Puirt shùilacha, mheara,
Is fìor allail cur suas,
Ann an talla nam buadh
Bu bharrail mu'n stòr
Cruite ciùil, torman ùr,
Is e gu dlù ruith-leumach,
Feadain lom, chruinne, dhonn,
Thogadh fonn mireanach,
Clàrsach le grinneas,
Bu bhinn-fhaclach fuaim,
'S cha pilleadh tu 'n duais,
'Nuair a shireadh tu ceòl.

'S iomadh àit am beil do charaid,
A t-fharaid mu'n cuairt,
An deas a's an tuath,
Cho dleas'nach 's bu chòir ;
Diùc Earragalach ainmeil,
Ceann armailt' nam buagh,
Leis na dhearbhadh làmh chruaidh,
Is ris an d'earbadh gu lebir :
An t-Iarla cliùiteach g'an dùthchas
Bhi 'n Tùr Bhealaich,
A chuir an ruaig le chuid sluaigh,
Air na fuar Ghallaich ;
Mòrair Loudon nan seang-each,
Ard sheanalair càinp,
Fhuair urram comann,
Far na bhuidhin na sebid.

Tha iomadh càs eife
Nach ceilinn san uair,
Tha tarraim ort buaidh,
A mhaireas ri d' bheò ;
Fuil rioghail air lasadh
Amach ann ad' ghruaidh,
Cuir t-aigneach a suas
Le ùiteas ro-mhòr ;
Tha b' mntam a's léirsiun,
Gu léir ann ad' phearsa,
Fhìr shunntaich na féile,
Sgeul éibhinn a b' àit leam-
Na 'm faicinn a'màireach
Le : bhachd 's le mùirn,

Bhi 'd chàradh fo 'n chrùn
An àite rìgh Deòrs'.

CUMHADH IARLA

BHRAID-ALBANN.

'S TRUAGH r'a éisdeachd an sgeul
Fhuair mì féin tuille 's luath ;
Rinn an t-éug ceann na céille
'S nam beus a thoirt uainn :
Cha'n 'eil léigh tha fo 'n ghréin,
Dheanadh fem dhut 's an uair :
'S bochd a'd' dhéigh sinn gu léir,
'S cha 'n'eil feum bhi 'ga luaidh.

Tha do chairdean làidir, lìomhor
Anns gach tìr a tha mu'n cuairt ;
So na dh-fhàg an aigneach iosal,
Do chorp prìseil bhi 'san uaigh :
Is iad mar loingear gun bhi dìonach,
Fad o thìr air druim a' chuain ;
'S tusa b'urraim an toirt sàbhailt,
Ge do bhiodh an gàbhadh cruaidh.

'S ann an diugh a chaidh do chàradh
'An ciste clàr 's ad leabaidh fhuair :
Is muldach a'd' dhéigh an tràths'
A' chuid is airde do d' dhaoine' uails.
Tha gach duin' agad fo phràmh,
'S goirt an càs an bheil an tuath ;
'S iad do bhochdan a tha cràiteach ;
Thugadh an taic' làidir uath'.

'S iomadh dilleachdan òg falamh
Bha le h-ainnis air dhroch shnuagh,
Seann daoine 's bantraichean fanna
Bha faotainn beathachaidh uair :
'S ann bu truaigh a' ghaoir a bh'aca,
'S deòir gu frasach air an gruaidh,
Caoineadh cruaidh, a's bualadh bhasan,
'S bhi toirt pàirt de 'm falt a nuas.

'S muldach an nochd do dhùthaich,
'S dubhach tìrsach tha do shluagh :
Cha 'n iognadh sin, 's mòr an diùbhail
An tionndadh so thigh 'n oirnn cho luath,
Am fear a b' àbhaist bhi le dùrachd
Gabhail cùram dhiubh gach uair,
Dh'fhàg iad 'na laidhe 'san ùir e
Far nach dùisg e gu Là-luain.

'S ann an tràthaibh na Feill-brìde
Thàinig crìoch air saoidh nam buadh.

'S lòn a thug an t-eug an sgrìob oirnn,
Och! mo dhìth cha deic a luath's,
Bhuail an gath air flàth na firian
Bha 'gar dìonadh o gach cruas :
'S goirid leinn do ré 'san àite,
Ged' their càch gu'n robh thu buan.

Cha do sheall thu riamh gu h-ìosal
Air nì chuireadh sìos an tuath :
Bu chùl-taic dhaibh anns gach àit thu,
'S tu bha ghnàth 'gan cumail suas.
Cha bu mhiann leat togail ùlaimh ;
Sin a' chùis d'an tug thu fuath :
Bha thu faotainn gaol gach duine,
'S ghléidh thu'n t-urram sin a fhuair.

Bha thu léirsinneach le suairceas ;
Dh-fhàs a'd' chòm an uaisle mhòr ;
Ciall a's misneach mar ri cruadal,
Fhuair thu 'n dualchas sin o d' sheòrs'.
Bha thu fiosrach, glic, neo-luaineach ;
Bha t-inntinn buan anns a' chòir.
O'n a thog iad air ghiùlan sluaigh thu,
'S aobhar sin a luathaich deòir.

Chan'eil aoibneas ann am Bealach,
Chan'eil farum ann, no ceòl ;
Daoine dubhach, 's mnathan galach,
A's iad gun ealaidh ach am bròn ;
O'n a chaidh do ghiùlan dachaigh
O'n mhachair air mhùthadh seòil,
'N àit' an éididh sin a chleachd thu,
Ciste, 's léine, 's brat de'n t-sròl.

'Nam bu daoine bheireadh dhinn thu,
Dh'èireadh milltean air an tòir,
O bheul Tatha gu Lathuirn-ìochdrach,
Sin fo chis dut agus còr :
Far an d'fhàs na gallain fhòr-ghlan,
A's iad Donnbor ann gu leòir,
A rachadh togarrach gud' dhìoladh,

Guidheam dlù gu'n tig e sàbhailt'
(Soirbheas àrd ri cùl gach seòil)
A dh' fhaotainn seilbh air an t-saibhreas,
'S air an oighreachd sin bu chòir ;

A ghabhail cùram ga chuid fearaion,
'S ga chuid daoine sean a's òg.

CUMHA' CHAILEIN

GHLINN-IUBHAIR.

SMAOINTEAN truagh a th'air m'aigne,
Dh' fhàg orm smuaircean, a's airsneul,
An àm gluasad am leabaidh,
Cha chadal ach dùisg ;
Tha mo ghruaighean air seacadh,
Gun dìon uair air mo rasgan,
Mu'n sgeul a chualas o'n Apuinn,
A ghluais a chaismeachd ud dhuin',
Fear Ghlinn-iubhair a dhìth oirnn,
Le putar luchd mì-ruin,
Mo sgeul dubhach r'a innseadh
Thu bhi d' shùneadh 'san ùir ;
'S truagh gach duine de d' dhilsean,
O'n a chaidh do chorp prìseil,
An ciste chuthainn, chaoil, dhìonaich,
'S ann an lìon-anart ùr.

B'e sinn an corp àluinn,
'Nuair bha thu roimhe so d' shlàninte,
Gun chion cumachd no fàs ort,
Gu foinnidh, dàicheil deas ùr ;
Suairce, foisinneach, fàillteach,
Uasal, iorsal bàidheil,
Caoimhneil, cinneadail, càirdheil,
Gun chron r'a ràit' air a chùl ;
Làn do ghliocas, 's do léirsinn,
Gu dana, misneachail, treubhach,
Gach àit an sirte gu feum thu,
'S ann leat a dh'èireadh gach chùis ;
B'e do choimeas an drèagan,
No 'n t-sothag 's na speuraibh,
Co bu choltach r'a chéile
Ach iad féin agus thu ?

'S cruaidh an teachdair a thàinig,
'S truagh mar thachair an dràsta,
Nach do sheachainn thu 'n t-àite,
'N do ghlac am bàs thu air thùs ;
Suas o chachaile ghàraidh,
Fhuair thu 'n tacaid a chràidh mì,
'S gun do thaic a bhi làimh riut,
'Nuair ghabh iad fàth ort o d' chùl,
Air do thaobh 's thu gun chòmhradh,
S'an àm 'n do chaochail an deò bhuat,
T-fhuil chraobhach, dhearg, bhòidheach
A gabhail dòrtadh 'na brùchd,

Le gnìomh an amadain ghòraich,
A bha gun aithne gun eòlas,
A reic anam air stòras,
Nach do chuir an trècair a dhùil.

B'e 'n cridhe gun tioma, gun déisein,
Gun àdh, gun chinneas, gun cheutaidh,
A chuir làmh a'd' mhilleadh gun reusan,
Le cion céill' sgus tùir ;

'S e glac mar chomharl' an eucoir,
'S boc an gnothaich mar dh'éirich,
Dh-fhàg e sinne fo eu-slainnt,
Is e féin 'na fhear-cùirn ;

'S ge nach sàmhach a leabaidh,
Le eagal a ghlacadh,
Cha 'n e tha mi 'g acain,

Ach mar a thachair do'n chùis ;
An t-armunn deas, tlachdmhor,
A tha 'n dràst' an Ard-chatain,
An déigh a chàradh an tasgaidh,
An àite cadail nach dùisg.

'S e do chadal gu storruidh,
A dh'fhàg m' aigne cho òmhaidh,
'S tric smaointeana dìombain ;
A tigh'n gu dian orm as ùr,
'S tròm a dh'fhàs orm an iargainn,
Is goirte tàrsa nam fiabhras,
Mo chomh-alt àluinn, deas, ciatach,

An déigh's a riabhadh gu dlù ;
Mìle mallachd do'n làmh sin,
A ghabh cothrom is fàth ort,
A thug an comas do'n làmbach,
'Nuair chuir e 'n spàinteach r'a shùil ;
Sgeula soilleir a b' àil leam,
Gu'n cluinnt' am follais aig càch,
E bhì dol ri crommaig le fàradh,
Gus am mìosa dhà-sa na dhuinn.

Ge b'e neach a rinn plot ort,
Le droch dhùrachd o thoiseach,
Bu dàna chùis dha tigh'n ort-sa,
Na do lotadh as ùr ;
Bha 'na rùn bhì gu h-òlc dhut,
'S gu'n a chridh' aig aodainn a nochadh,
'S ann a thain' e sàmhach mu'n chnocau,
'S a ghabh ort socair o d' chùl.

'S e mo dhiùbhail a thachair,
An àm do'n fhùdar ud lasadh,
Nach robh ad' chàirdean an taic riut,
Na bheireadh aicheamhail diubh ;
'S a liuthad furan deas, tlachdmhor,
Nach gabhadh cùram ro' bhagra,
A chuireadh smùid ris an Apuinn,
A chionn gu'm faiceadh iad thu.

'S tròm a phàigh sinn an òbairt,
A chuir ar nàmhaid a dhìth oirnn,

Ged' tha 'n aichmhail gu'n dlòladh,
Thig fhathas lìontan mu'n chùis,
Chuireas càch an staid Ìosal,
Air son an àilleagain phrìseil,
Bh' ann san àite mar fhàirean,

A chleachd firinn a's cliù :
'S bochd an naidheachd r'a àireamh,
Gur ann an nasgaidh a tha thu,
Nach tainig fhathas mu'n chùis ad,
Na dheanadh àbhachd thoirt duinn ;
Ach air fhad 's gam bhì dail ann,
Cheart cho fìor 's tha mi 'g ràite,
Bìdh an falachd ud pàighte,
Mu'n d' téid an gàmbhas air chùl.

'S iad na fineachan laidir,
Bu mhath a' gabhail do phàirti,
An rìgh, a's diùc Earraghàel,
Nach fhaiceadh fàilinn a'd' chùis ;
Iarla dlìgheach Bhraid-Albanu,
Air thùs a tighinn gu'n chearbaich,
'S gur ioma' fear armach,
A sheasadh calma r'a chùl ;
Mac-Aoidh 's a luchd-leanmhuinn,
Leis an éireadh suinn nach bu leanbaidh,
Na laoich bhuidhneach, mhòr, mheamnach,
Le'n lanna ceann-bheartach, cùil ;
Mac-Dhomhnuil duibh, 's Cloinn-Chamroin,
S gu leòir a thighearnan ainmeil ;
S fhad o'n chuala sinn seanchas,
Gu'n do dhearb iad an cliù.

S ghabh thu àite le ordugh,
Air pairt do Shrath-lùcha,
'S cha b' ann air ghaol stòrais,
'Na los am pòrsan thoirt diùbh ;
Ach a sheasamh an còrach,
Le meud do cheisd air an t-seòrs' ud,
'S an òidhre dleasnach air fògra,
G'am bu chòir bhì 'sa chùirt ;
'S ge do theireadh luchd faoineachd,
Gun robh t-aire-sa daonnan,
Bhì sgainneart nan daoìn ud,
Na 'n leigeadh sgaolteach air chùl ;
Chite fhathas a chaochladh,
N'am faighe tu saoghal,
Gur e bhì taruinnn luchd gaoil ort,
As gach taobh, a bha d' ràn.

Bu tu cridhe na féile,
Dh' fhàs gu tighearnail, ceutach.
An làthair brìtheamh Dhun-èideann,
'S tric a reitich thu cùis ;
'S oil leam càradh do cheud-mhna,
'S òg a bhantrach a'd' dhéigh i,
Lion càmpar gu léir i,
O'n dh'èug a céillidh deas, ùr ;
Fhuair mi 'n sealladh nach b'eibhinn,

An uaigh mu d' choinneamh 'ga réiteach,
'S truagh gach commun thug spéis dhut,
O'n chaidh tu féin anns an ùir,
'S gun dùil a nis ri thu dh-éiridh,
'S e dh'fhàg mise fo eu-slainnt,
Bhi 'n diugh ag' innseadh do bheusan,
'S nach tig thu dh-éiseachd mo chliù.

ORAN NA BRIOGSA.

AIR FONN—"Sean' Triuthais Uilleachan."

'So tha na briogais liath-glas
Am bliadhna cuir mullaid oirn,
'S e'n rud nach fhacas riamh oirn,
'S nach miann leinn a chumail oirn ;
'S na'm bitheamaid uile dìleas
Do'n rìgh bha toirt cuireadh dhuinn,
Cha'n fhaicte sinn gu dilinn,
A strìochda do'n chulaidh so.

S OLC an seòl duinn, am Prionns òg
A bhi fo mhòran duilichinn,
A's Rìgh Dèdrsa a bhi chòmhnaidh,
Far 'm bu chòir dha tuineachas ;
Tha luchd-èblais a toirt sgeòil duinn
Nach robh còir air Lunnainn aige,
'S e Hanbhar an robh sheòrsa,
'S coigreach oirn an duine sin—
'S e'n Rìgh sin nach buineadh dhuinn,
Rinn d'i'-mheas na dunach oirn,
Mu'n ceannsaich e buileach sinn,
B' e'n t-àm dol a chumasg ris ;
Na rinn e oirn a dh' ann-tlachd,
A mhì-tlachd, a's a dh' àimhreit,
Air n-eudach thoirt gu'n tàing dhinn,
Le ain-neart a chumail ruinn.
'So tha na briogais, &c.

A's ò'n chuir sinn suas a bhriogais,
Gur neo-mhiosail leinn a chulaidh ud,
Ga'n teanadh ma na h-ìosgannan,
Gur trioblaideach leinn umainn iad ;
'S bha sinn roimhe mìsneachail,
'S na breacain fo na crìosan oirn,
Ged' tha sinn am bichiontas
A nis a' cuir nan sumag oirn :
'S air leam gur h-olc an duais
Do na daoine chaidh 'sa chruadal,
An eudaichean thoirt uapa

Ge do bhuadhnuich Diuc Uilleam leo :
Cha'n fhaod sinn bhi suigeartach,
O'n chaochail ar culaidh sinn,
Cha'n aithnich sinn a chéile
La-féile no cruinneachaidh.
'So tha na briogais, &c.

'S bha uair-eigin an t-saoghal
Nach saoilinn gu'n cuirinn orm,
Briogais air son aodaich,
'S neo-aidheil air duine i ;
'S ged' tha mi deanamh ùis deth,
Cha d'rinn mi bonn sùlas
Ris an deise nach robh dàmheil
Do'n phàirti ga'm buinnin-sa ;
'S neo-sheannsar a chulaidh i,
Gur grannda leinn umainn i,
Cho teann air a cumadh dhuinn,
'S nach b'fheairde leinn tuilleadh i ;
Bidh putanan na glùinean,
A's bucalan ga'n dùnadh,
'S a bhriogais air a dùbladh,
Mu chùl-thaobh a h-uile fir.
'So tha na briogais, &c.

Gheibh sinn adan ciar-dhubh,
Chur dian air ar mullaichean,
A's casagan cho shliogta,
'S a mhìnichheadh muillean iad ;
Ged' chumadh sin am fuachd dhinn,
Cha'n fhag e sinn cho uallach,
'S gu'n toillich e ar n-uaislean,
Ar tuath no ar cummanta ;
Cha taitinn e gu bràth ruinn,
A choiseachd nan gleann-fasaich,
'Nuair a rachamaid do dh' àiridh,
No dh' àit 'm biodh cruinneagan :
Se Dèdrs 'a rinn an eucoir,
'S ro dhìombach tha mi féin deth,
O'n thug e dhinn ar n'éideadh,
'S gach eudach a bhuinteadh dhuinn.
'So tha na briogais, &c.

'S bha h-uile h-aon de'n Phàrlamaid
Fallsail le'm fiosrachadh,
'Nuair chuir iad air na Caimbeulaich
Teanndach nam briogaisean ;
'S gu'r h-ìad a rinn am feum dhaibh
A bhliadh'n a thàin' an stréupag,
A h-uile h-aon diubh dh'èiridh
Gu léir 'am Milisi dhaibh ;
'S bu cheannsalach duineil iad,
'S an àm an robh 'n cumasg ann,
Ach 's gann daibh gu'n cluinnear iad
A chàmpacha tuille leis ;
O'n thug e dhinn an t-eudach,
'S a dh' fhàg e sinn cho-fhaontra'ch,

'S ann rinn e oirn na dh' fheudadh e,
Shaoileadh e chuir m'laid oirnn.
So tha na briogais, &c.

'S ann a nis tha fios againn
An t-ìochd a rinn Diuc Uilleam ruinn,
'Nuair a dh' fhàg e sinn mar phrìosanaich,
Gun bhiodagan, gun ghunnachan,
Gun chlaide, gun chrìos tarsuinn oirnn,
Cha'n fhuair sinn prìs nan dagachan ;
Tha comann aig Sasunn oirnn,
O smachdaich iad gu buileach sinn—
Tha angar a's duilichinn
'S an àm so air iomadh fear,
Bha'n Càmpa Dhiuc Uilleam,
A's nach fheaird iad gu'n bhuithinn e ;
Na'n tigeadh oirne TEARLACH,
'S gu'n éireamaid 'na chàmpa,
Gheibhte breacain chàirneit,
'S bhiodh aird air na Gunnachan.
'So tha na briogais, &c.

ORAN DO'N EIDEADH GHAELACH.

FHUAIR mi naidheachd as ùr,
Tha taitinn ri rùn mo crìdh
Gu faigheamaid fasan na dùthch
A chleachd sinn an tùs ar tìm.
O'n tha sinn le glaineachan làn,
A' bruidhinn air màran binn,
So i deoch-slàinnte Mhontrois,
A sheasamh a chòir so dhuinn,

Chunna' mi 'n diugh an Dun-éideann,
Comunn na féile cruinn,
Litir an fhortain thug sgeul,
Air toiseach an éibhnis dhuinn.
Pìob gu loinneil an gleus,
Air soilleireachd réidh an tuim ;
Thug sinn am follais ar 'n éideadh,
A's cò a their réubail ruinn ?

Deich bliadhna fichead a's còrr,
Bha casag de'n chlà m'ar druim,
Fhuair sinn ad agus cleòc,
'S cha bhuineadh an seòrs' ud dhuinn :
Bucail a' dùnadh ar bròg,
'S e 'm barr-iall bu bhòiche leinn ;
Rinn an droch fhasan a bh'oirnn',
Na bodaich d'ar 'n òigridh ghrinn.

Mhill e pàirt d'ar cumachd
O'n bhlàr, gu mullach ar cinn ;

Bha sinn cho làn de mhulad,
'S gu'n d'fhàs gach duine gu tinn ;
'S ann a bha 'n càs cho duilich,
'S a thainig uile ri'm linn,
'Nuair a rinn pàirti Lunnainn,
Gach àit a's urram thoirt dhinn.

'S fhada bha 'n onair air chall,
Is fasan nan Gàll oirnn dlù,
Còta ruigeadh an t-sàil,
Cha tigeadh e dàicheil dhuinn :
B'èigin do'n bhrìgis bhì ann,
'Nuair a chaidh ar comann cho cùin
'S gu'n d'rinneadh gach finne nan tràill,
'S gach fireannach fhàgail rùisgt'.

Tha sinn anis mar as math leinn,
'S gur h-àrd ar caraid 'sa chùirt,
A chuir air na daoine am fasan,
Rinn pàrlamaid Shasuinn thoirt' diù' :
Beannachd gu bràth do'n mbarcus,
A thagair an dràst ar cùis ;
Fhuair e gach dlìghe air ais dhuinn,
Le ceartas an rìgh 'sa chrùin.

Fhuair e dhuinn comas nan arm,
A dheanamh dhuinn sealg nan stùc,
'S a ghleidheadh ar daoine 'sa chàmp,
Le fàgail an naimbdean brùit.
Thogadh e misneach nan Clann,
Gu iomairt nan lann le sunnd,
Pìob, a's bratach ri crann,
'S i caiseamachd àrd mo rùin.

Fhuair sinn cothrom an dràst,
A thoilicheas gràdh gach dùthch',
Comas ar culaidh chur oirnn,
Gun fharaid de phòr nan lùb :
Tha sinn a nis mar is còir,
A's taitnidh an seòl r'ar sùil ;
Chuir sinn' a bhrìgis air làr,
'S cha tig i gu bràth á cùil.

Chuir sinn a suas an deise,
Bhios uallach, freagarach, dhuinn,
Breacan an fhéile phreasach,
A's peiteag de'n eudach ùr ;
Còt' a chadadh nam ball,
Am bitheadh a' chàrnaid dlù,
Osan nach ceangail ar céum,
'S nach ruigeadh mar réis an glùn,

Togaidh na Gàèil an ceann,
Cha bhì iad an fann' ni's mò,
Dh' fhalbh na speirichinn teann
Thug orra bhì mall gun lùgh :
Siubhlaidh iad fireach nam beann,
A dh'iarraidh dhamh seanng le'n cù ;

S eutrom théid iad a dhambha,
Fregraidh iad srann gach ciùil.

Tha sinn an comain an uasail
A choisinn le chruadal cliù,
Chuir e le teòmachd làidir,
-Faoineachd dhàich air cùl,
Oighre cinn-feadhna nan Gràmach,
'S ioma fuil àrd na ghnùis:
'S ann tha marcus an àidh
Am mac thig an àit an diùc.

ORAN A BHOTAIL.

'NUAIR a shuidheas sinn socrach
'S a dh-òlas sinn botal,
Cha'n aithnich ar stoc bhuainn
Na chuireas sinn ann;
Thig onoir a's fortan
Le sonas a chopain,
Ga'r son nach bi deoch oirnn
Mu'n tog sinn ar ceann?
Bheir an stuth grinn oirnn
Seinn gu fileanta,
Chuir a thoil-intinn
Binneas n'ar cainnt,
Chaisg i ar 'n lota
'N fhior dheoch mhillis,
Bu mhuladach sinne,
Na 'm biodh i air chall.

Deoch slànnte nan gaisgeach
Nan Gàèlibh gasda,
Ga'm b' àbhaist mar fhasan,
Bhi pùit air an dràm,
Luchd gaòil an stuth bhlasda,
'S air dhaoirid an lacha,
Nach caomhnadh am beartas
A sgapadh 'san àm.
Fear g'am beil nì
Gheibh e na shireas e,
Fear a tha crionda
Fanadh e thàll;
Fear a tha m'or
Cha'n fhuilig sinn' idir e,
S am fear a bheil grinneas
Théid iomain a nàll.

'S ro rioghail an obair
Sruth briogar na togalach,
Ioc-slainnt a bhogaicheas
Cridhe tha gann;

'S e chuireadh an sòdan
Air fear a bhìòdh togarrach,
'S chuireadh e 'm bodach
A' fearr á bhìòdh teann.
Cha 'n 'eil e 'san tìr,
Uasal no cumanta,
Nach 'eil air thì
Gach urram a th' ann,
Ge do bhìòdh strì
Mu thogail na muirichinn,
Cia mar is urrainn sinn
Fuireach bho'n dràm?

Tha e fionnar do'n chreabhaig
A h-uile la gréine
Thig teas o na speuraibh
Thar sléibhteann nam beann,
'S e math ri la reòta
Chuir blàth's ann am pòraibh
An fhir théid g'a dheòin
An taigh-òsda na dheann.
Cuiridh e sunnd
Air muinntir eireachdail,
Tìmcheall a bhùird
S cuid eile dhiubh damhs';
Thogamaid fonn neo-throm
A's ceileirin,
'S freagarrach shinneas sinn
Deireadh gach rann.

O'n shuidh sinn cho fada,
'S gu'n dh-bl sinn na bh'-againn,
'S i chòir dol a chadal
O'n thàinig an t-àm,
Cha'n fhòghnadh ach pailteas
Thoirte sblas ga' n' aigneadh,
Deoch mhòr anns a mhadainn
Gu leigheas ar ceann.
Am fear tha gun chli,
Cuiridh e spiorad ann.
Togaidh e crì
Gach fir a tha fann,
Théid am fear tinn
Gu grinn air mhirreadh;
'S e leigheas gach tinnis,
Deoch mhillis an dràm.

NIGHEAN DUBH RAINEACH.

AIR FÖNN—"Cuir a chinn dileas."

CHUIA nighean dubh Raineach
Orm farran a's miòthlachd,
Nach cuir mi dhìon
Le cabhaig an dràst,
Ghoid i mo sporan,
'S na dollair gu lìonmhor,
Bh' agam fos n-ìosal
Feitheamh ri m' làimh.

Nam biodh a chail' ud
Gu daingean am prìosan,
Rachainn g'a dìteadh
Dh'ionnsaidh a bhàis;
A chionn gu'n do ghoidh i
'N rud beag bha sa chlàdan,
Bh' agam sa' chùil
Nach d' innis mi chàch.

'S muldach mise
Gun fhios ciod a nì mi,
O'n a thà mi
Gun searrach, gun làir,
Gun chaora, gun òisg,
Gun ghabhar, gun mhiseach.
Gun a mart mìn
A chrimeas am blàr.

Cha robh mi gun airgead
Gus an d' fhalbh e gu mì-mhail,
Leis an te chrìon
Nach d'amhairc air mo chàs;
Rinn i mo chreachdadh
'S bu pheacach an ni dh'i
Mise chuir sìos,
Gun i féin chuir an àird,

Cia mar a cheanancheas mi
Camraig na side?

Na 'n leig mi dhìom e
Tuilleadh gu bràth?
Ged' thig a marsant
Le phaca do'n tìr,
Cha 'n fhaigh sinn aon sìon
Bhios aige air dàil.

Bha mo chuid stòrais
An phèca cho uallach,
'S ged a bhiodh buaile mhart
Air mo sgàth;
'S i rinn an eucoir
A bhèisd a thug uam e,
'S tha mi fo ghruaim
'O mhadainn Di-màirt.

A rìgh nach robh mearlaich
Na cearna so'n rìoghachd,
Anns a mhuir ìosal,
Fada bho thràigh;
Is caille dhubh Raineach
'S an fheumain an iochdar,

RANN GEARRADH-ARM.

CHUNNA' mi 'n diugh a chlach bhuaghach,
'S an leug àluinn,
Ceanglaichean de'n òr mu'n cuairt dh'i
Na chruinn mhàilleadh;
Bannan tha daingean air suaicheantas
Mo chairdean,
A lean gramail ra'n seann dualchas
Mar a b' àbhaist.

Inneal gu imeachd roimh chruadal,
Le sluagh làidir,
Fir nach gabh giorag no fuathas,
Le fuaim làmhaich;
Fine is minig a ghluais
Ann an ruaig nàmbaid,
Nach sireadh pilleadh gun bhuannachd,
No buaidh làrach.

Bha sibh uair gu grinn a seòladh
Air tuinn sàile,
Chaidh tarrunn á aon de bhòrda
Druim a bhàta,
Leis a chabhaig spàrr e 'n òrdag
Sìos na h-àite,
'S bhuail e gu teann leis an òrd i,
'S ceann dh'i fhàgail.

An onoir a fhuair an saor Sléibhteach,
Leis gach treun'tas a dh'fhàs ann,
Ghléidheadh fathasd ga shliochd fein i,
A dh'aindeoin eucorach gach nàmhaid ;
Na h-airm ghaige, ghasda, ghléusda,
Dh'òrduigh an Rìgh gu féum dhàsan,
Cho math 'sa th' aig duine 'n dream threun sin,
Sliochd Cholla cheud-chathaich Spàintich.

Dorn an claidheamh, a's làmh duin'-uasail
Le crois-tàraidh,

Moch a's anmoch a sealg fàsaich ;

'S tha cuid dhiubh 'nan tuath ri àiteach.

'S rioghail eachdraidh na chualas
Riamh mu'd phàirti,
S lionmhor an taic, na tha suas dhiubh,
Na'm biodh càs ort ;
Tha gach buaidh eile ga' reir sin,
An Gleann-Nodha fein an tàmhachd,
Pìob a's bratach a's neairt aig Seumas,
An Ceann-cinnidh nach treig gu bràth sinn.

A O I R A N N A.

ANNA nigh'n Uilleam a'n Cròmpa,
Bean gun chonn 's i fhéin air àimbreith,
Nuair chaidh mi 'n toiseach g'a sealltainn,
Cha'n e 'm fortan a chuir ann mi ;
Bhruidhinn mise sìobhailt, suairce,
Mar dhuin-uasal anns an àm sin ;
Thòisich ise mar chù crosda,
Bhiodh anns na dorsan a drannail.

'S ann aice tha beul an sgallais,
 Gu fanaid a dheanamh air seann-duin',
 Nach urrainn a dheanadh feum dh'i
 Mar a bha i féin an geall air ;
 Chunna' mise latha ghluaisinn
 Leis na gruagaichean mar chàirdeas,
 Dh'aithnich i gun dh'fhalbh an uair sin,
 'S chuir i uaithe mi le angar.

Innsidh mi dhuibh teistean Anna,
 O'n is aithne dhomh 'san am i,
 Bean a dh'òl a peighinn phisich,
 Cha bheo idir gun an dràm i ;
 Cha nédnach leam i bhí misgeach,
 'S i 'n còmhnuidh a measg a Bhrannaid,
 'S tric a bha 'na broinn gu leòir dheth,
 'S bha tuille 'sa chòir 'na ceann deth.

Cha 'n'eil a leannan r'a fhaotainn,
 Cia mar dh'fhaodar e bhí ann d'i ?
 Breunag ris ann can' iad gaorsach,
 A bha daonann anns na càmpan ;
 'Sa bha rithist feadh 'n t-saoghail
 A giùlan adhaircean aig ceardan ;
 Cha d'fhuair i 'n onoir a shaoil i,
 'N t-urram fhaotainn air na bàrdan.

'S mòr an treunntas le Anna,
 Bhi cho gheur le sgaionneil chainnte,
 'S mairg air 'na thachair bean bheumach,
 Aig am beil an beul gun fhaitheam ;
 'M fear a bheir ise dhachaigh,
 'S ann air thig a chreach 'san calldach,
 'Nuair shaoil e gum bu bhcan cheart i,
 'S ann thachair e ri bhana-mhaighstir.

A bhana-chleasaiche gun ghrinneas,
 'S mairg fleasgach a théid na caramh,
 'S tric i tuiteam leis na gillean,
 Ceap tuislidh i do na fearaibh ;
 A bhean bhruidhneach, mhisgeach, ghionach,
 Ghlearach, lonach, shanntach, shallach,
 Roinn gu reubadh air a teagaidh,
 Coltach ri gath geur na nathrach.

Còmhdach nach falaich a craiceann,
 Leomach gun seòl air cuir leis ann,
 Cha'n 'eil brògan slàn mu' casan,
 Cha'n 'eil còta 'n-aird mu leasaibh ;
 Oirre tha aogas na glaistig,
 Neul an aoig 'na h-aodainn preasach,
 Closach i air searga' lachdunn,
 'S coltach i ri dealbh na Leisgè !

Taigh tha làn de mhnathan misgeach,
 'S olc an t-àit an d'riun mi tachairt,

Ged' thàine' mi ann gun fhios domh,
 'S fhearr falbh tràth na fuireach aca :
 Bana-mhaighsdir a chomuinn bbristich,
 ANNA tha ainmeil 'san eachdraidh ;
 Mu gheibh càch i mar fhuair mis i,
 Cha tig iad gu bràth g'a faicinn.

AOIR UISDEAN PHIOBAIR'.

TURAS a chaidh mi air astar
 A Chinn-tàile,
 Chunna mi daoine-uaisle tlachdmhor,
 Caoimhneil, pàirteach ;
 Bha aon bhallach ann air banais,
 A thug dhomh tàmailt,
 O 'n a bha e-san mar sin dòmh-sa,
 'S ann mar so bhios mise dhà-san.

'S ann an sin a thòisich Uisdean,
 Mar a ni cù an droch nàduir,
 Tabhunaich ri sluadh na dùthcha,
 'S be rùn gu'n gearradh e 'n sàiltean
 'S math an còmpanach do'n chù e,
 'S dona 'n còmpanach le càch e,
 Cha chuideachd e bhàrd no phìobair,
 Aig a mhìomhalachd 'sa dh'fhàs e.

Aidich fhéin nach 'eil thu 'd phìobair,
 'S leig dhìot bhi 'm barail gur bàrd thu ;
 Daoine cridheil iad le chéile,
 'S bithidh iad gu léir a tair ort ;
 Fear ciùil gun bhinneas gun ghrinneas,
 Fuadaichidh sinn as ar pàirt e,
 Mar a thilgeas iad craobh chrìonaich
 O 'n fhìonan a mach as a ghàradh.

Mu chi thusa bàrd no filidh
 No fear dàna.
 Mu bhios aon diubh 'g iarraidh gille'
 Ghiùlan màlaid,
 Lean an duine sin le dùrachd,
 Los gu'n sìùbhla' tu h-uil àite ;
 'S mòr an glanadh air do dhùthaich,
 I chuir cùl riut 's thu g'a fagail.

No ma chì thu fear a sheinneas
 Pìob no clarsach,
 Faodaidh tusa 'n t-inneal ciùil
 A ghiùlan dà-san,
 Gus am bi craiceann do dhroma'
 Fàs na bhallaibh loma, bàna,

Mar a chi thu mille' srathrach
Air gearran a bhios ri àiteach.

Cia mar a dheanadh e òran,
Gun eòlas, gun tuigse nàduir,
O nach deanadh e air dòigh e,
S ann bu chòir dha fuireach sàmbach ;
Bruidhinn ghlugach 's cuid di mabach,
Mòran stadaich ann am pàirt d'ì,
Na ni e phlabartaich chòmbraidh,
Cha bheo na thuigeas a Ghàellig.

'S sgimealair cheanna na'm bòrd thu,
Far am faigh thu'n t-òl gun phàigheadh ;
Cia mar chunntas sinn na geòcaich,
Mar bi Uisdean òg 'san àireamh ?
Cha robh do bhrù riamh aig sìochadh,
Gus an lìonadh tu bhìadh chàich i :
'S mòr an t-òl na chaisgeadh t'-lotadh,
'Nuair chitè thu 's do ghloc pàiteach.

'S tric do leab' an lag an òtraich,
No'n cùl gàraidh,
Bi do cheann air con-tom còmhnard,
'S ro mhath 'n t-àit e ;
Bìdh na coin ag iomlaich t'fheòsaig,
A toirt diot a bheoil 'sa chàirean,
Do chraos dreammach toirt phòg salach
A'd dhearbh bhràithrean.

Na'n cluinne' sibh muc a rùcaill,
Gèidh a's tunnagan a ràcaill,
'S ann mar sin a bha pìob Uisdean,
Brònach muldach a rànaich ;
Muineal gun' aolmann air tùcha,
'N ribheid cha'n fheud bhì làidir,
'S e call daonnan air a chùl-thaobh,
Na gaoith bu chòir dol an 'sa mhàla.

Bha lurga coin air son gaohair'
A'd chraos farsuinn,
'S culaidh sin a thogail plàigh
'S an cnai' air malcadh ;
Rinn e t'anail salach bréun,
Ma théid neach fo'n Ghréin an taic riut,
'S fhearr bhì eadar thu 'sa ghaoth,
Na seasamh air taobh an fhasga.

Cia mar a ni Uisdean òg dhuibh
Ceòl gu damhsa,
Nuair a chitheadh tu sruth ròn
O'n h-uile toll a bh' air an t-seannsair :
'Sgeul tha fìor a dh'inneas mise,
Gur h-e dh'fhàg e 'nis cho manntach
Gu'n tug iad dheth leis an t-siosar
Barr na teanga.

Séididh Uisdean pìob an ronngain,
'S mòr a h-anntlachd,

Bithidh i coltach ri gaoir chonnsbeach
A bhìodh an cnoc fraoich a dranndail ;
An Circeapoll laimh ri Tonga,
A' baigearachd air muinntir bainnse,
Fhuair mise pìobaire 'n rùmpuill,
'S dh'fhàg mi ann e.

AOIR IAIN FAOCHAIGH.

IAIN FHAOCHAIG* ann an Sasunn,
'S mor a mhasladh 'us ä mhi-chliù,
Chaill e na bh' aige de chairdean,
'S tha 'naimhdean air cinntinn lionmhor.
Ge b' fhad' a theich e air astar,
Chaidh a ghlacadh, 's tha e cìosnaicht ;
Chàraich iad e fo na glasan,
'S tha 'n iuchair taisgt' aig maor a phrìosain.

Tha e 'nis' an àite cumhann,
'S e 'n a chrìban, dubhach, deurach,
A chas daingeann ann an iarunn,
'G a phianadh, a's e 'n ä eigin.
B' fhasa dha 'bhi anns an fhiabhras
Na 'n iarguin a tha 'n ä chréubhaig ;
'S e 'n sin o éucoir a ta t-earbsa ;
A h-nìle là ag iarraidh réite.

Ach, na'm faigheadh tusa réite
An éirig na rinn thu 'sheannachas,
B'aobhar-misnich do gach béist e
Gu'm faodadh iad féin do leanmhaiun ;
Fear gun seadh, gun lagh, gun réusan,
'S anns an éucoir a ta t-earbsa ;
Theann thu mach o achd na cléire,
'S thug thu bòid nach éisd thu searmoin !

Thug thu di-meas air an Eaglais,
Air a chreideimh, 's air na h-àintean
Chuir thu bréugan air an Trianaid
'S air na h-iarrtasan a dh' fhag iad ;
Tha e 'nis' 'n ä ghnòthach cosail,
'Réir an t-soisgeil 'tha mi clai stiun,
Gu'n do chuir thu cùl ri sochair
Na saors' a choisinn ar Slàn'ear.

Chuir thu cùl ri d' bhòidean-baistidh,
'S mòr a mhasladh dhut an aicheadh,
Chaill thu 'chùirt 'am bìodh an ceartas,
Roghnaich thu 'm peacadh 'n a h-àite :
Ghleidh thu 'n riaghalt 's an seol-stiùiridh
A bh'aig Iudas, do dhearbh bhrathair ;
'S mòr an sgainneal air do dhùthaich
Thusa, bhrùid, gu'n d' rinn thu fàs innt

Ach, ged a sheallte 'h-uile doire,
 Cha robh coille riamh gun chrìonach,
 'S tha fios aig an t-saoghal buileach
 Nach bi 'choill uile cho dìreach :—
 'S tusa 'chraobh 'tha 'n deigh seacadh,
 Gun chairt, gun mheangain, gun mheuran,
 Gun snomhach, gun sùgh, gun duilleach,
 Gun rùsg, gun urad nam freumhan.

'S tu an t-eun a chaidh 's an deachamh,
 'S e nead creacht' an deachaidh t-fhagail ;
 'S tu 'm fitheach nach d' rinn an ceartas,
 A chaidh air theachdaireachd o 'n àirc ;
 'S tu 'm madadh-allaidh gun fhiacalan,
 S' maing a dh'ìarradh 'bhi mar tha thu,
 'S tu 'n ceann-cinnidh aig na biastan,
 'S tha gach duin' a's fiach a' tàir ort.

Cha-n iognadh leam thu 'bhi 'd bhalach,
 'S 'bhi salach ann ad nàdur,
 O'n a thin thu ris an dùthchas
 A bh' aig na sgiùrsairean o'n tain' thu !
 'S tu 'n t-isean a fhuair an t-ùmaidh
 Ris an t-siùrsaich air na sraidean :
 'S i 'n droch-bheairt a thog 'ad chloinn thu,
 'S ann 'ad shloightire 'chaidh t-àrach !

Thoisich thu 'n toiseach gu h-iseal
 Air a' chrìne 's air a' bhochdainn ;
 S e 'n donas thug dhut a bbi spòrsail
 'S ann bu chòir dhut bhi 'gad chosnadh.
 'S bochd nach d' fhan thu aig do dhùthchas,
 'Ad bhrùthair, a' bruch nam poitean,
 A' cumail dìbhe ris gach grùdair'
 'Nuair a dhruigheadh iad na botail.

Bha thu, greis 'ad thim, 'ad bhaigear,
 'S laidh thu 'n fhad sin air na cairdean,
 A bhi oidhche 's gach taigh a's dùthaich,
 A dhùraigeadh cuid an trath' dhut ;
 A mheud 's a bha de dh' ainfheich ortsa
 Chuir thu cuid nam bochd g' à phàidheadh :
 Ciod e 'nis' a chuir an stoc thu
 Ach an robairachd 's a mhèirle ?

Shaoil thu gu'm faigheadh tu achain,
 (Bu mhasladh gu'm biodh i 'd thàirgse)
 Cead suidhe 'am parlamaid Bhreatuinn,
 Gun chiall, gun cheartas, 'ad eanchainn.
 Duine dall a chaidh air seachran,
 Nach 'eil beachdail air na 's fhearra dha,
 Le còmhradh tubaisdeach, tuisleach,
 'S le sr droch-thuiteamas cearbach.

Duine gun fhearann, gun oighreachd,
 Gun nì' gun staoile, gun airgiod,
 Gun bheus, gun chreidhimh, gun chreideas,
 Gun ghin a chreideas ä sheanachas ;

Duine misgeach, bristeach, breugach,
 Burraidh tha na bheisd 's n'a ainmhidh,
 'S trioblaid-inntinn, le itheadh dèiseach,
 Gu tric a' téumadh a chridhe chealgaich.

Tha thu sònraicht' ann ad ehonan
 A' togail conais 'am measg dhaoine,
 Cha chualas roimhe do choimeas
 A bhi dhonas air an t-saoghal,
 Ach an nathair an garadh Edein,
 A mheall Eubh aig bun na craoibhe,
 A chomhairlich gu buain a mhios i,
 A dh'fhag ris an cinne-daoine.

Thoisich thu 'n toiseach 's an éucoir
 Ag innse bhréugan air rìgh Deòrsa,
 Cha chreid duine bhuat an sgéul ud,
 'S cha toir iad éisdeachd do d' chòmhradh ;
 'S beag a dhruigheas do dhroch-dhùrachd,
 Air oighr' a' chrùin a's na còrach
 S a liuthad neach a tha, gu toileach,
 A' toirt onorach d' a mhòrachd.

Ge beag ortsa Morair Loudain,
 B' aithne dhòmhs' an sonn o'n d' fhàs e,
 Duin-usal foisinneach, fonnar,
 Cridhe connar, aigne àrda ;—
 Seanalair, air thus na h-armailt,
 A bha ainmeil anns san blàraibh ;
 Cha mhisid e madadh air bhàothal
 A bhi tabhannaich an tras' ris.

'S gòrach a labhair thu mòran
 Air cùl Iarla Bhèid, an t-armunn,
 Cunnspunn onorach, le firinn
 A' seasamh na rìoghachd gu laidir ;
 S e gu h-àrd-urramach, prèisil
 Ann an cùirt an rìgh 's na bàin-rìgh'n
 A dh' aindeoin na Faochaig 's nam biasdan
 Leis am ' fhiach dol ann am pàirt ris.

Bhruidhinn thu gu leir mu Albainn,
 'S b' fhearr dhut gu'm fanadh tu samhach,
 Na'n tigeadh tu 'n còir nan Garbh-chrioch,
 Bu mhaing a bhiodh ann ad àite ;
 Bhiodh tu 'm prìosan ri do làthan
 'Dh' aindeoin na ghabhadh do phàirt-sa ;
 'S an eirig na rinn thu 'dhroch-bheairt,
 Bheirteadh chroich mar ghalar-bais dhut.

Cha'n iognadh dhut bhi fo mhulad,
 Fhuair thu diùmb gach duin' an àl so ;
 'S e sin fein a bba thu 'cosnadh,
 'S creutair crosd thu o'n a dh' fhàs thu ;
 'S lionar mì-run ann ad chuideachd,—
 Mallachd na Cuigse 's a' Phàp ort !
 Mallachd an t-saoghail gu leir ort !
 'S mo mballachd fein mar ri càch ort !

A GHABHAS MAIGHDEAN D'A LEANNAN.

CHA 'n eblas graidh dhut
 Uisge shràbh na shop,
 Ach gràdh an fhir thig riut,
 Le blaths a tharruinn ort ;
 Eirich moch Di-dòmhuich
 Gu lie chomhuairt phlataich,
 'S thoir leat beannachd pobuill,
 Agus currachd sagairt ;
 Tog sud air a ghualainn
 Agus sluasaid mhaide,
 Faigh naoi gasan ranaich,
 Air an gearradh, le tuaigh,
 A's tri chnaimhean seann-duine,
 Air an tarruinn á uaigh ;
 Loisg air teine crìonaich e,
 Dean sud gu léir na luath,
 Suath sin ra gheala-bhroilleach,
 An aghaidh na gaoith tuath ;
 'S théid mise 'n ra 's am barrantas,
 Nach falbh 'm fear ud bhuat.

MARBH-RANN DO CHU

A CHAIDH BATHADH 'SA MHAIGHEACH TARSAINN
NA BHEUL.

LATHA do Phàdruig a sealg,
 'Am fireach nan learg air sliabh,
 Thug e ghleann Artanaig sgrìob,
 'S ann thachair e 'm frith nam fiadh.
 Leig e na shiubhal an cù,
 A bha luath, laidir, lùghar, diann,
 Cha robh a leithid riamh san tìr ;
 Ach bran a bh'aig rìgh nam Fian.

Gadhar, bu gharg calg a's fionnadh,
 Cruaidh, colgara, fùil a's malla,
 Bu mhath dreach, a's dealbh, a's cumachd,
 A churraidh bu gharg sa charraid,
 Bheirreadh e 'm fiadh dearg a mullach,
 'S am Boc-earb, a dluthas a bharrach,
 B'e fhasan bhì triall don mhunadh,
 'S cha tain' e riamh dhachaigh fallamb.

Culaidh leagadh nan damh dònn,
 Air mullach na'n tòm 's nan cnoc,
 Nambaid n'am biasd dubh 's ruadh,
 'S ann air a bha buaidh nam broc.

Bha mhaigheach tarsainn na bheul,
 Thuit iad le cheil ann an slochd ;
 Bha iad bàite bonn ri bonn,
 A's muldach sin leam a nochd.

RANN CO'-DHUNAIDH.

THA mise 'm shuidh air an uaigh,
 Tha 'n leaba' sin fuar gu leòir,
 Gu'n fhios agam cia fhad an tìm,
 Gus an teannar mi fhein da còir ;
 Còmhach flainn 's léine lìn,
 A's ciste dhubh dhìonach bhòrd,
 Air mbeud 's ga 'n cruinnich mi nì,
 Sud na thèid leam sìos fo'n fhòd.

'S heag ar cùram ro 'n bhàs,
 'M fad 'sa bhios sinn làidir òg,
 Saoilidh sinn mu gheibh sinn dàil,
 Gur e ar 'n àite fuireach beo ;
 Faodaidh sinn fhaicinn air càch,
 'S iad g'ar fàgail gach aon lò,
 Gur nadurra dhuinne gach tràth,
 Gum beil am bas a' teannadh oirnn.

Tha mo pheaca-sa ro thròm,
 'S muldach sin leam an drast ;
 Tha mi smaoineacha' gu tric,
 Liuthad nair a bhrìst mi 'n àithn,
 Le miann mo dhroch iuntinn féin,
 Leis an robh mo chreubhag làn ;
 Gun chuimhn air Ughdarras Dé,
 Le dùrachd am bheul n'am laimh.

Ged' is mòr mo pheaca gnìomh,
 'S mi 'n cionta ceud pheacaidh Adh'mb,
 Cheannacha' mi le fuil gu daor,
 A dhòirte sgaolteach air a bhàr ;
 Tha mo dhùil, 's cha dèchas faoin,
 Rì iochd fhaotain air a sgàth,
 Gu'n glacar m'anam gu sìth,
 Le fulangas Chrìosd amhàin :

Tha mo dhòchas ann an Chrìosd
 Nach dìobair e mi gu bràth,
 'Nuair a leagar mo cherp sìos
 Ann an staid ìosal fo'n bhàr ;
 Gu'n togar m'anam a suas,
 Gu rìoghachd nam buadh 's nan gràs,
 Gu'm bi mo leaba fo' dhìon
 Cois cathrach an 'Tì is aird.

Cha bhiodh m'eagal ro' an aog,
 Ged' thigeadh e 'm thaobh gun dàil,

N'am bithinn do pheaca saor,
'N déigh's a ghaol a thug mi dha;
Tha mo dhùil anns an Dia bheo,
Gu'n dean e trècair orm an dràst,
Mo thoirt a 'steach a' dh'ionad naomh,
'N cuideachd Mhaois a's Abraham.

Gabhaidh mi 'nis mo chead an t-sluagh,
Le'n toirt suas daibh ann am' chainnt,
Fàgaidh mi aca na chnuasaich
Na stuaghaidh a bh'ann am cheann;
'Los gu'n abair iad ra' chéile,
"Mar a leugh sinn féin gach rann,
Cò air an d'théid sinn ga'n sirreadh?
'Nis cha'n 'eil am Filidh ann."

MARBH-RANN AN UGHDAIR,

DHA FEIN.*

Fuir tha 'd sheasamh air mo lic
Bha mise mar tha thu'n dràst;
Si mò leaba 'n diugh an uigh,
Cha'n'eil smior no sunais a'm' chnàimh:
Ged' tha thusa làidir, òg,
Cha mhair beo, ged' fhuair thu dàil;
Gabh mo chomhairle 's bi glic,
Cuimhnich tric gu'n tig am bàs.

Cuimhnich t-anam a's do Shlànuigh'r,
Cuimhnich Phàrras thar gach àit;
Gabh an cothrom gu bhi sàbhailt
Ann an gàirdeachas gu bràth:
Ged' a thuit sinn anns a ghàradh
Leis an fhàillig a rinn Adh'mb,
Dh'èirich ar misneach as ùr
'Nuair fhuair sinn Cùmhnant' nan Gràs.

Cuimhnich daomnan a chur romhad,
Gu'n coimhead thu a h-uile àithn',
O'se cumhachdan an ard rìgh
Rinn an fàgail air dà chlàr;

* The Author's Epitaph, by himself.

Chaidh sin liubhairt do Mhaois;
Rinn Maois an liubhairt do chàch;
Na'm b'urrain sinne ga'm freagradh,
Cha b'aobhar eagail am bàs.

Caochladh beatha th' ann 's cha bhàs,
Le beannachadh gràsmhor, buan;
Gach neach a ni a chuid is fearr,
'S math 'n t-àit am faigh e dhuais
Cha bh'i'n t-anam ann an càs,
Ged' tha'n corp a' tàmh 's an uigh,
Gus an latha'n tig am Bràth
'S an éirich sliochd Adhaimh suas.

Seinnear an tròmpaid gu h-àrd,
Cluinnear 's na h-uile àit' a fuaim;
Dùisgear na mairbh as a bhàl
'N do chàràich càch iad 'nan suain;
'S mheud 'sa chailleadh le an-uair,
No le anradh fuar a chuain;
Gu sliabh Shìoin théid an sluagh,
Dh' fhaotain buaidh le fuil an Uain.

Gheibh iad buaidh, mar fhuair an sìc,
A chinn lìonmhor anns an fhòch,
Cuid deth dh'fhàs gu fallain, dìreach,
'S cuid na charran Ìosal cròm:
Gleidhear a chuid a tha lìonntach,
'Am beil brìgh a's torradh tròm;
Caillear a chuid a bhios aotrom,
'S leigear leis a ghaoith am moll.

Cha'n'eil bean na duine beò,
Na lànain phòsda nach dealaich;
Bha iad lìonmhor sean a's òg
Ar luchd-eòlais nach 'eil maireann:
Cha b'e sin an t-aobhar bròin
Bhi ga'n cuir fo'n fhòd am falach,
Na'm biodh am bàs na bhàs glan,
Cha bu chàs talamh air thalamh.

Ghabh mi 'nis mo chead do'n t-saoghal,
'S do na daoine dh'fhuirich ann;
Fhuair mi greis gu suindach aotrom,
'S i 'n aois a rinn m' fhàgail fann:
Tha mo thàlant an air caochladh,
'S an t-aog air tighinn 's an àm;
'S e m' achanaich air sgàth m' Fhear-saoraibh,
Bhi gu math 's an t-saoghal thall.

FEAR SRATH-MHAISIDH.

MR LAUCHLAN MACPHERSON, of Strathmasie, was born about the year 1723, and died in the latter end of the last century. He was a gentleman and a scholar; and gave his able assistance to Mr James M'Pherson in his arduous and successful translations of Ossian's poems. His own works have not been printed in a collected form, and the most of them have, therefore, never been committed to press.* Mr Macpherson was not a poet by profession; he invoked his muse only when an object of approbation or animadversion presented itself, and attracted his notice: his observations and remarks were made on the customs and manners of men; his humour was directed against, and his ridicule exposed, excesses. He had the felicity of expressing himself in terms most appropriate to the posture and light in which men stood, who exposed themselves to censure; and he never failed in placing them in a position in which no one would wish to be found, yet into which many often fall.

CUMHA DO DH' EOBHON MACPHEARSON, TIGHEARNA CHLUAINIDH.

[AIR DHA TEICHEADH DO 'N FHRAING.]

Gur Ìonmhòr trioblaid sìnte,
Ris an linn a chì 'n droch shaoghal so,
Tha plùigh, claidheamh 's mì-run ann,
Tha gaol na firinn aotrom ann,
Tha fear na foille dìreadh ann,
Tha 'n crì-aon-fhillt' a' tearnadh ann,
S ma lasas eas' a rìreamh riu
Gheibh daoine dìreach aomadh ann.

Ged dh'èirinn le rìgh Seumas,
Agus dol air ghleus fo m' armachd leis,
Mar saoil mì gur h-e'n eu-còir é,
An nì chòir gur'n eight' am chealgair mì?

Ma nì sinn mar a's léir dhuinn
Cha bhì Rìgh na Gréin cho feargach ruinn,
Ach 'se clann nan daoine' a's géir-breithich,
S gur fad is éis air Alba sin.

O! is ìomadh gaisgeach sàr-bhuilleach,
A laodaich blàr an cunntais oirn,
Thug Tearlach a's na fàsaichear,
Chaill fuil an dàil nan Stiubhartach,
Nan cadal trom 's na h-àraichean,
'S a'n cùl rì làr 's cha dùisgear iad,
Bha croich a's tuagh toirt bàs orra,
'S bha cuid dhiu dh'fhag an Dùthchannan.

* All the poems that we have ever heard or seen attributed to him are in the collection, with the exception of four: viz., A Hunting Song, in the form of a dialogue between the sportsman and the mountain deer, in which President Forbes's Unclothing Act is loudly declaimed against; The Advice, in which the poet labours to curb ambition, and to modify inordinate worldly desires; An Amorous Piece, and Aoir nan Luch. These last two we have captured in an old Manuscript, together with the song we have classed first in his section of this work. We have had considerable difficulty in deciphering it; but the Love ditty we found partly erased and partly unintelligible, and Aoir nan Luch, although not destitute of merit, is not much to our liking.

Am fear a dh'fhag an dùthaich so,
 Bu mhath air chul na Cruadhach e,
 Be'n Gàil sgaiteach, cliùteach e,
 'S bu duthasach air Cluainidh e:
 Be'n crann chuir croiseal diùbhalach
 A dhruid a null thar chuaintean e;
 Thug teistean fir thar cheudan leis,
 "A chaidh nach meud a bhuaidhaicheas."

Gu'm b'fhearail, smiorail, anmant e
 Bu lasair fhearg 'nuair dhùisgeadh e
 Bu l heo na fheol 's na mhealbhainn e,
 Bu bhealach far am bruchdadh e,
 Mar thuinn ri carraig fhairgeach e,
 Mar fhaoillean 's stoirm ga dùbhlachadh,
 Mar thein air fraoch nan garbhaichean,
 'S mar easraich gharbh an ùr uisge.

Cha chuireadh faileas gruaimen air
 'S cha chuireadh fuathas càmpar air,
 Cha bu raghainn tuasaid leis,
 'S na b'fheudar dha bu luath-lambach,
 Bha luim, a's greim, a's cruadal ann,
 'S bu treun a' bualadh nàmhaid e,
 Mar ealtainn gheur fo'n fheur uain e
 Gun gearrte sluagh san aimhreit leis.

Cha bu bhrais gun reusan e
 'S cha mhò bu leumach, gòrach e,
 Biodh lamh a casg na h-eu-corach
 S lamh eile treun sa' chomraig aig.
 Bha truas a's iochd ri feumaich ann,
 S b'i sìth a's reit a b'òrdugh dha,
 S cha'n fhaca mis le'm leirsiinne
 No'n neach fo'n ghrein ri foirneart e.

Cha bu duine gòrach e,
 A chuireadh bòsd á thruacantais
 Mu nàdur gu dearbh b'eolach mi,
 Bha cuid de'm sheorsa dh'eireadh leis:
 Mas buidheann ghasd an còmhraig sibh,
 Bìdh na Naoidh an conaidh beusadh dhuibh,
 'S mas bratach thais an co-strì sibh,
 Cha chluinnear beoil a' séis umaibh.

'Nuair thrialladh brais na feirge dheth,
 Bu mhàlta tlà mar mhaighdeinn e,
 Bu bhath mar aiteal gréin mhoich e,
 Bu chiùin mar spéur an anamoich e
 Mar ghlaicair oigh fo ceud-bharra,
 'S i tighinn gu réith gu caoimhnealachd,
 Bha sean a's òg cho speiseil dheth,
 'S nach fac iad treun cho toillteanach.

'Nuair bha'n saoghal bruilleanach,
 S ghuasad air luchd nàthsachean

Nuair bhiodh an cinn gun chluasagan,
 Gun tàmh le buail' a's bàthaichean,
 Thug Eobhann sgrìob thoirt fuasgladh dhuinn,
 'S ghlais e suas a Ghàildachd,
 'S cha'n iarradh iad mar bhuaichaillean
 'S an taobh-tuath ach na fàsaichean.

Ach dh-fhalbh e nis a's dh'fhag e sinn,
 'S co chaisgeas lamh na h-eacorach?
 Ged fhaicte 'n chòir ga sàrachadh,
 Gu'n chaill sinn lamh ar trenndais,
 Mo bheannachd suas do Phàrrais leis,
 Bho'n dh' fhill am bàs na éideadh e,
 'S a dh'aindean rìgh a's parlamaid,
 Rinn Rìgh nan gràsan réite ris.

COMUNN AN UISGE-BHEATHA.

FEAR mo ghaoil an t-uisge-beatha,
 Air am bi na daoine' a feitheamh!
 'S tric a chuir e saoi 'na laidhe
 Gun aon chlaideamh rùsgadh.
Cìod eile chuireadh sunnt oirn,
Mur cuireadh bean a's lium e?

'Nuair chaisgeas gach slugh am pathadh,
 'S a théid mac nam buadh air ghabhail,
 'S lìonmhor uaisle feadh an taighe
 'S biasd nach caitheadh cùinneadh.

Cìod eile, &c.

Comunn aoidheil, òlmhor, pàirteil,

Cìod eile, &c.

Dh'éirich am fear a bha làimh ris
Theicheadh ro bholadh an fhàilidh,
Thuit e anns a' mhuinge-làgain,

Cìod eile, &c.

Dh'éirich an treas fear gu dàicheil
Chum 's gu'n tearnadh e'm fear bàite,
Chuir e ghrìosach as le mhàsan,

Cìod eile, &c.

'N sin dar dh'éirich iad uile
Thuirt fear, " Gabhar greim do 'n duine,
Fhuair e masladh, 's cha b'e munar:
Loisgeadh mu 'na ghlùn e."
Cìod eile, &c.

Thuirt caraid an fhir a chaidh losgadh
" Tha thu fìor bhreugach, a losgain.
Bi mach fhad 's tha 'n dorus fosgailt',

Cìod eile, &c.

San nair a 's fearr a bhios aca
Bi'dh làmh air gach cuail' a's bata,
Bi'dh fear buailte, 's fear ga thachdadh,
'S fear fo 'n casan ciùrte.
Cìod eile, &c.

Fear eile thig aileag 'na bhràgad,
Stuiridh e'm broilleach a bhràthar
Aran pronn, a's im a's càise,

Cìod eile, &c.

Leasaichidh fear eile an nollaig
Le gleus ronnach ùrar.

* Duncan Forbes, of Culloden, was Lord President of the Court of Session in the eventful period of the Rebellion, 1745.

IAIN RUADH STIUBHART.

JOHN ROY STUART, not less celebrated for his invocations of the muse than for his prowess in the field of battle, was a native of Kincardine, in Badenoch. Being of the middle class, and the son of a respectable tacksman, to whose farm he succeeded, he had the benefit of a good education. His scholastic advantages, combined with his extraordinary genius, soon procured him the reputation of a "knowing one." Like many other votaries of the muse, he manifested a strong and early predilection for hunting and fishing, which in themselves are a species of poetry. At an early period of his existence he copiously imbibed the principles of Jacobinism. These principles grew with his growth, and strengthened with his strength ;—and he was always proud to trace his descent from the royal family of the Stuarts. We do not mean here to enter on the moral or constitutional dissection of a poet ; but history and observation have combined to impress us with the fact, that people of colonel Stuart's mental structure are, some how or other, more liable to fall into companies than men of solid clay. The continual demands upon his presence at the festive board led to some irregularities, upon which censoriousness might animadvert, but over which we are disposed to draw the veil of oblivion. This we are the rather inclined to do, as he himself always stood forth as "king's evidence" against his own eruptions at the shrine of Bacchus. His genuine sallies of wit have established his reputation as an arch wag ; and his more plaintive strains are characterized throughout by originality and great pathos.

Stuart's mind was of that fabric which delights in the jostle of the elements of strife ; and his puissant arm, coolness of courage, and intrepidity of action, trumpeted his fame far and near. It is needless here to recount his adventures and "hair-breadth 'scapes," in the memorable civil war of 1745,—history already records them. On the first out-breaking of that war he was in Flanders, actively engaged in belligerent operations against the British government, when the Duke of Cumberland was called home to lead the Hanoverian forces against the Prince. Roy Stuart also hurried to his native country, now distracted with intestine broils and civil war ; and when at Culloden, he signalized himself in hewing and cutting down the red-coats, and spreading havoc and death on all hands, the Duke, pointing to the subject of our memoir, inquired who he was : " Ah !" replied one of his aides-de-camp, " that is John Roy Stuart." " Good God !" exclaimed the Duke, " the man I left in Flanders doing the butcheries of ten heroes ! Is it possible that he could have dogged me here ?" It is told of Colonel Stuart that he strongly urged for a day's truce before attacking the Government forces at Culloden. This, however, Lord George Murray overruled ; and the prognostications of the Colonel were but too fully verified in the result of a precipitate and unequal combat. The sombre feelings whose dark current chafed his soul in consequence of the extinguishment of the Jacobites' hopes on that day, are beautifully embodied in two fine and pathetic songs. In one of these he directly charges Lord George with treachery, and pours forth torrents of invective and revenge. His martial strains thunder along with the impetuosity of the mountain torrent—racy, sinewy, and full of nerve. He was so firm in his opinion of his Lordship's sinister motives, that he rushed from rank to rank that he might "hew the traitor to pieces." His elegiac muse was also of a very high order; his "Lament for Lady M'Intosh," whose attachment to the Jacobin party is well known, is at once lofty in sentiment, poetical in its language, and pathetic in its conceptions. We do not mean to ascribe to poetic or military genius all the recklessness which a sober-podding world compliments it with; and we, therefore, suppress a gossiping story in which our warrior-poet figures with the Lady of the Lord Provost of Glasgow. After lurking for some time in the caves, woods, and fastnesses of his native country, he escaped to France with other faithful adherents of Charles, where he paid the debt of Nature, leaving behind him an imperishable fame for the genuine characteristics of a warrior and a poet.

* Allusion is here made to Nairn, where the Duke of Cumberland was celebrating his birth-day on the night preceding the battle. Thither the Highlanders wended their way, expecting to take him by surprise; but it blew in their faces a tremendous storm of rain and wind, and frustrated the attempt. The storm continued next day, and tended materially to discomfit the operations of the mountaineers in the commencement, and ultimately to their total and precipitate rout.

* Having sprained his ankle when under hiding, after the battle of Culloden, and while resting himself beside a cataract, keeping his foot in the water, he composed the above piece as a prayer, and the following stanzas in English; both of which he seems to have couched in the style of language peculiar to the Psalms.

JOHN ROY STUART'S PSALM.

The Lord's my targe, I will be stout,
with dirk and trusty blade,
Though Campbells come in flocks about,
I will not be afraid.

The Lord's the same as heretofore,
he's always good to me,
Though red-coats come a thousand more,
afraid I will not be.

Though they the woods do cut and burn,
and drain the waters dry;
Nay, though the rocks they overturn,
and change the course of Spey:

Though they mow down both corn and grass,
and seek me under ground;
Though hundreds guard each road and pass,
John Roy will not be found.

The Lord is just, lo! here's a mark,
he's gracious and kind,
While they like fools grop'd in the dark,
as moles he struck them blind.

Though lately straight before their face,
they saw not where I stood;
The Lord's my shade and hiding-place—
he's to me always good.

Let me proclaim, both far and near,
o'er all the earth and sea,
That all with admiration hear,
how kind the Lord's to me.

Upon the pipe I'll sound his praise,
and dance upon my stumps,
A sweet new tune to it I'll raise,
and play it on my trumps.

the Highlands. The Editor well recollects with what self-complacency and sang froid the female Esculapian of his native glen used to repeat the "Eolas sgìochadh fèithe," over the hapless hobble of sprained ankles. With the success or result of the procedure we have nothing to do: its efficacy was variously estimated. The "Cantatum orum" was a short oration of Crambo, in the vernacular language; and if the dislocated joints did not jump into their proper places during the recitation, the practitioner never failed to augur favourably of comfort to the patient. There were similar incantations for all the ills to which human flesh is heir: the toothach, with all its excruciating pain, could not withstand the potency of Highland magic; dysentery, gout, dysury, &c., had all their appropriate remedies in the never-failing specifics of incantation. Nor were these cures confined to the skilful hand of the female necromancer alone; an order of men, universally known by the cognomen of the "Clair-sheana-chain," were the legitimate practitioners in the work. Two of these metrical incantations we may briefly quote as specimens of the whole. The first relates to the cure of worms in the human body and runs thus:—

"Mharbhainn dubhag 's mharbhainn doirbheag,
A's naoi naoinear dheth a seòrsa.
'S fiolar crìon nan casan lionmhor,
Bu mhor pianadh air feadh fèidla," &c.

Here follows the other, denominated "Eolas a Chronachaidh," or "Casg Beum-Sula." During its repetition, the singular operation of filling a bottle with water, was being carried on; and the incantation was so sung as to chime with the gurgling of the liquid, as it was poured into the vessel; thus forming a sort of uncouth harmony, according well with the wild and superstitious feelings of the necromancers. From the fact that one or two Irish words occur in it, and that the charm was performed in the name of St Patrick, it is probably of Irish origin; but we know that it held equally good in the Highlands of Scotland as it did across the Channel.

Note.—This lament was composed on the celebrated Lady M'Intosh of Moyhall, whose firm attachment to the Chevalier's interest is well known. A story is told of this lady which exhibits her character in a very bold and masculine light. Prince Charles had arrived at Moy, on his return from England, two or three days before his followers came through Athol and the wilds of Badenoch. M'Intosh and his clan were from home with the other Jacobites, and the place was altogether unprotected. Some keen-sighted loyalist had seen the Prince, and forthwith communicated the intelligence to Lord Loudon, then stationed at Inverness with 500 soldiers. His Lordship immediately marched towards Moy, taking a circuitous route, however, to avoid detection. Intimation was carried to Lady M'Intosh of his Lordship's approach—it was a moment of awful and anxious uncertainty. She immediately sent for an old smith, one of M'Intosh's retainers, and a council of war was held. "There is but one way," said her Ladyship, "of saving Prince Charles—your own Prince; and that is by giving them battle." "Battle!" exclaimed the smith, "where are our heroes? alas! where to-night are the sons of my heart?" It was ultimately arranged that Prince Charles should be placed under hiding, and that the son of Vulcan, with other six old men who were left at home, should give them battle. Armed with claymore, dirk, and guns, together with a bagpipe and old pail (drum), our octogenarian little army lurked in a dense clump of brush-wood until the red-coats came up. It was now night, and the sound of Lord Loudon's men was heard—they were within a mile of Moy! The smith and his followers, as instructed by her Ladyship, fired gun after gun, until the six were discharged; he then roared out "Clan M'Donald, rush to the right—Cameron, forward in a double column in the centre—M'Intosh, wheel to the left, and see that none will escape!" This was enough; the red-coats heard—stood, and listened—all the clans were there—so, at least, thought Lord Loudon, and away they fled in the greatest disorder and confusion, knocking one another down in their flight, and not daring to look behind them until they had distanced the smith by miles!

COINNEACH MAC-CHOINNICH.

KENNETH M'KENZIE was born at Caisteal Leuir, near Inverness, in the year 1758. His parents were in comfortable circumstances, and gave him the advantages of a good education. When he was about seventeen years of age, he was bound an apprentice as a sailor, a profession he entered with some degree of enthusiasm. Along with his Bible, the gift of an affectionate mother, he stocked his library with other two volumes, namely; the poems of Alexander M'Donald and Duncan M'Intyre. These fascinating productions he studied and conned over on "the far blue wave," and they naturally fanned the latent flame of poetry which yet lay dormant in his breast. His memory was thus kept hovering over the scenes and associations of his childhood; and, represented through the magic vista of poetic genius, every object became possessed of new charms, and so entwined his affections around his native country and vernacular tongue, that distance tended only to heighten their worth and beauties.

He composed the most of his songs at sea. His "Piobairachd na Luinge" is an imitation of M'Intyre's inimitable "Beinn-dòrain," but it possesses no claims to a comparison with that master-piece. We are not prepared to say which is the best school for poetic inspiration, or for refining and maturing poetic genius; but, we venture to assert, that the habits of a seafaring man have a deteriorating influence over the youthful feelings. This has, perhaps, been amply exemplified in the person of Kenneth M'Kenzie. He was evidently born with talents and genius; but, notwithstanding the size of his published volume, we find only four or five pieces in it which have stepped beyond the confines of mediocrity: these we give, as in duty bound.

M'Kenzie returned from sea in the year 1789, and commenced going about taking in subscriptions, to enable him to publish his poems. With our own veneration for the character of a poet, we strongly repudiate that timber brutality which luxuriates in insulting a votary of the muses. Men of genius are always, or almost always, men of sensibility, and nice and acute feelings; and it appears to us inexplicable how one man can take pleasure in showing another indignities, and hurting his feelings. The itinerant subscription-hunting bard, has always been the object of the little ridicule of little men. At him the men of mere clay hurl their battering-ram; and our author appears to have experienced his own share of the evil. Having called upon Alexander M'Intosh, of Cantray Down, he not only refused him his subscription, but gruffly ordered him to be gone from his door! Certainly a polite refusal would have cost the high-souled gentleman as little as this rebuff, and apologies of a tolerably feasible nature can now be found for almost every failing. Our bard, thus unworthily insulted, retaliates in a satire of great merit. In this cynic production he pours forth periods of fire; it is an impetuous torrent of bitter irony and withering declamation, rich in the essential ingredients of its kind; and M'Intosh, who does not appear to have been impenetrable to the arrows of remorse, died, three days after the published satire was in his possession.* Distressed at this mournful occurrence, which he well knew the superstition and gossip of his country would father upon him, M'Kenzie went again among his subscribers, recalled the books from such as could be prevailed upon to give them up, and consigned them to the flames: a sufficient indication of his sorrow for his unmerciful, and, as he thought, fatal castigation of M'Intosh. This accounts for the scarcity of his books.

Shortly after this event, his general good character and talents attracted the attention of Lord Seaforth and the Earl of Buchan, whose combined influence procured him the rank of an officer in the 78th Highlanders. Having left the army, he accepted the situation of Postmaster in an Irish provincial town, where he indulged in the genuine hospitality of his heart, always keeping an open door and spread table, and literally caressing such of his countrymen as chance or business led in his way. We have conversed with an old veteran who partook of his liberality so late as the year 1837.

In personal appearance, Kenneth M'Kenzie was tall, handsome, and strong-built; fond of a joke, and always the soul of any circle where he sat. If his poems do not exhibit any great protuberance of genius, they are never flat; his torrent may not always rush with impetuosity; but he never stagnates; and such as relish easy sailing and a smooth-flowing current, may gladly accept an invitation to take a voyage with our sailor-poet.

AIR FÖNN—"Cabar Feidh."

'S a nise bho'n a théig sinn,

* A clamorous vain young woman, whose custom was, when she saw any strangers passing by, to get up on some eminence, and call the hens from the corn, or cry to the herd to be careful, for no other reason than that she might be taken notice of. The cognomen is one of general application, but the bard had a particular dame in view;—and we have been told on undoubted authority, when she heard of her new name, that she gave up all concern about the hens and the herd-boy, to the great comfort and ease of both. Her father, however, suffered by the assumed modesty of his daughter—the herd-boy slept, the cows followed the hens into the corn fields, and destroyed them so much, that the old man was heard to swear if he came in contact with the poet, he would give him a hearty flagellation for making his daughter worse than useless to him at outside work!

Ge b'è chuireas dùil ann',
An dùrachd cha'n aithnich e,

UILLEAM ROS.

WILLIAM ROSS, was born in Broadford, parish of Strath, Isle of Skye, in the year 1762. His parents were respectable, though not opulent. His father, John Ross, was a native of Skye, and of an ancient family of that name, whose ancestors had lived in that country throughout a long series of generations. His mother was a native of Gairloch, in Ross-shire, and daughter of the celebrated blind piper and poet, John Mackay, well known by the name of Piobaire Dall.

It appears that when William was a boy, there was no regular school kept in that part of the country: and as his parents were anxious to forward his education, they removed with him and a little sister from Skye to Forres. While attending the Grammar school of the latter place, he discovered a strong propensity to learning, in which he made such rapid advances as to attract the notice and esteem of his master; and the pupil's sense of his obligations was always acknowledged with gratitude and respect. This teacher, we are informed, declared, that on comparing young Ross with the many pupils placed under his care, he did not remember one who excelled him as a general scholar, even at that early period of life.

After remaining for some years at Forres, his parents removed to the parish of Gairloch, where the father of our bard became a pedlar, and travelled through Lewis, and the other western Isles—and, though William was then young and of a delicate constitution, he accompanied his father in his travels through the country, more with the view of discovering and making himself acquainted with the different dialects of the Gaelic language, than from any pecuniary consideration—the desire of becoming perfectly familiar with his native tongue, thus strongly occupying his mind even at this early period of life. And he has often afterwards been heard to say, that he found the most pure and genuine dialect of the language among the inhabitants of the west side of the Island of Lewis.

In this manner he passed some years, and afterwards travelled through several parts of the Highlands of Perthshire, Breadalbane, and Argyleshire, &c., seeing and observing all around him with the eye and discernment of a real poet. At this period, he composed many of his valuable songs; but some of these, we are sorry to say, are not now to be found.

Having returned to Gairloch, he was soon afterwards appointed to the charge of the parish school of that place, which he conducted with no ordinary degree of success. From the time of his entering upon this charge, it was generally remarked, that he proceeded in the discharge of his duties with unremitting firmness and assiduity, and in a short time gained a reputation for skill in the instruction of the young committed to his trust, rarely known in the former experience of that school. He had a peculiar method and humour in his intercourse with his pupils, which amused and endeared the children to him: at the same time it proved the most effectual means of impressing the juvenile mind and conveying the instructions of the teacher. Many of those who were under his tuition still speak of him with the greatest enthusiasm and veneration.

In the course of his travels, and while schoolmaster of Gairloch, he contracted an intimacy with several respectable families, many of whom afforded him testimonies of friendship and esteem. His company was much sought after, not only on account of his excellent songs, but also for his intelligence and happy turn of humour. He was a warm admirer of the songs of other poets, which he often sung with exquisite pleasure and taste. His voice, though not strong, was clear and melodious, and he had a thorough acquaintance with the science of music. He played on the violin, flute, and several other instruments, with considerable skill; and during his incumbency as schoolmaster, he officiated as precentor in the parish church.

In the capacity of schoolmaster he continued till his health began rapidly to decline. Asthma and consumption preyed on his constitution, and terminated his mortal life, in the year 1790, in the twenty-eighth year of his age. This occurred while he was residing at Badachro, Gairloch. His funeral was attended by nearly the whole male population of the surrounding country. He was interred in the burying ground of the Clachan of Gairloch, and a simple upright stone, or Clach-chuimhne, with an English inscription, marks his "narrow house."

In personal appearance, Ross was tall and handsome, being nearly six feet high. His hair was of a dark brown colour, and his face had the peculiarly open and regular features which mark the sons of the mountains; and, unlike the general tribe of poets, he was exceedingly finical and particular in his dress. As a scholar, Ross was highly distinguished. In Latin and Greek he very much excelled; and it was universally allowed that he was the best Gaelic scholar of his day.

It is not to be wondered at, that a being so highly gifted as was Ross, should be extremely susceptible of the influence of the tender passion. Many of his songs bear witness that he was so. During his excursions to Lewis, he formed an acquaintance with Miss Marion Ross of Stornoway (afterwards Mrs Clough of Liverpool,) and paid his homage at the shrine of her beauty. He sung her charms, and was incessant in his addresses,—

————— "Every night he came
With music of all sorts, and songs composed
To her :"

But still he was rejected by the coy maid; and the disappointment consequent on this unfortunate love affair, was thought to have preyed so much on his mind, as to have impaired his health and constitution, during the subsequent period of his life. To this young lady he composed (before her marriage) that excellent song expressive of his feelings, almost bordering on despair, "Feasgar luain a's mi air chuairt."

In the greater number of his lyrics, the bard leads us along with him, and imparts to us so much of his own tenderness, feeling, and enthusiasm, that our thoughts expand and kindle with his sentiments.

Few of our Highland bards have acquired the celebrity of William Ross—and fewer still possess his true poetic powers. In purity of diction, felicity of conception, and mellowness of expression, he stands unrivalled—especially in his lyrical pieces. M'Donald's fire occasionally overheats, and emits sparks which burn and blister, while Ross's flame, more tempered and regular in its heat, spreads a fascinating glow over the feelings, until we melt before him, and are carried along in a dreamy pleasure through the Arcadian scenes, which his magic pencil conjures up to our astonished gaze. If M'Intyre's torrent fills the brooklet to overflowing, the gentler stream of Ross, without tearing away the embankment, swells into a smooth-flowing, majestic wave—it descends like the summer shower irrigating the meadows, and spreading a balmy sweetness over the entire landscape. If it be true that "Sermo est imago animi," the same must hold equally true of a song—and judging from such of his songs as have come into our hands, our author's mind must have been a very noble one—a mind richly adorned with the finest and noblest feelings of humanity—a mind whose structure was too fine for the rude communion of a frozen-hearted world—a mind whose emanations gush forth, pure as the limpid crystalline stream on its bed of pebbles. It is difficult to determine in what species of poetry William Ross most excelled—so much is he at home in every department. His pastoral poem "Oran an t-Samhraidh," abounds in imagery of the most delightful kind. He has eschewed the sin of M'Intyre's verbosity and M'Donald's anglicisms, and luxuriates amid scenes, which, for beauty and enchantment, are never surpassed. His objects are nicely chosen—his descriptions graphic—his transitions, although we never tire of any object he chooses to introduce, pleasing. We sit immoveably upon his lips, and are allured at the beck of his finger, to feed our eyes on new and hitherto unobserved beauties. When we have surveyed the whole landscape, its various component parts are so distinct and clear, that we feel indignant at our own dulness for not perceiving them before—but as a finished picture, the whole becomes too magnificent for our comprehension.

Ross possessed a rich vein of humour when he chose to be merry;—few men had a keener relish for the ludicrous. His Anacreontic poem "Moladh an Uisge-Bheatha," is a splendid specimen of this description. How vivid and true his description of the grogshop worthies—not the base and brutalized debauchees—but that class of rural toppers, who get Bacchi plenus once or twice in the year at a wedding, or on Christmas. This was a wise discrimination of the poet; had he introduced the midnight revelry, and baser scenes of the city tavern, his countrymen could neither understand nor relish it. But he depicts the less offensive panorama of his country's bacchanals, and so true to nature—so devoid of every trait of settled libertinism, that, while none is offended, all are electrified—and the poet's own good taste and humour expand over the singer and the entire group of auditors.

Among his amorous pieces, there are two of such prominent merit, that they cannot be passed over.—"Feasgar luain;" so intimately connected with the poet's fate, has been already noticed. Its history like that of its author, is one of love and brevity—it was composed in a few hours to a young lady, whom he accidentally met at a convivial party—and sung, with all its richness of ideality and mellowness of expression, before they broke up. “Moladh na h-òighe Gàèlich,” although not so plaintive or tender, is, perhaps, as a poetical composition, far before the other. Never was maiden immortalized in such well-chosen and appropriate strains—never did bard’s lips pour the incense of adulation on maiden’s head in more captivating and florid language, and never again shall mountain maid sit to have her picture drawn by so faithful and powerful a pencil.

Without going beyond the bounds of verity, it may be affirmed that his poetry, more perhaps than that of most writers, deserves to be styled the poetry of the heart—of a heart full to overflowing with noble sentiments, and sublime and tender passions.

ORAN DO MHARCUS NAN GREUMACH;

AGUS DO'N EIDEADH-GHAELACH.

Bu trom an t-arsneul a bh'air m'aighe,
Le fadachd 's le mi-ghean,
A bhuin mo threoir 's mo thàbhachd dhìom,
Cha ghabhadh cèol na màran rium
Ach thanig ùr thosgair' da m' iunnsaidh,
'Dhùisg mi as mo shuain,
'Nuair fhuair mi 'n sgeul bha mor ri éigh'd
Gun d'eadròmaich mo smuain.

Is làtha sealbhach, rathail, dealarach,
Alail, ainmeil, àgh-mhor,
A dh'fhuasgail air na h-Albannaich,
Bho mhachraichean gu garbhlaichean,
Bho uisge-Thuid* gu Arcamh-chuain,
Bho Dheas gu Tuath gu léir;
Is binne 'n srann feadh shrath a's ghleann
Na òrgan gun mheang glèus.

A Mhareuis òig nan Gréumach,
Fhir ghleust' an aigne rìoghail,
O! gu'm a buan air t-aiteam thu,
Gu treubhach, buadhach, macanta,
'S tu 'n ùr-shlat aluinn 's muirneil blàth
De'n fhiubhaidh aird nach crion,
Gur tric na Gàèil 'g òl do shlaint',
Gu h-armunnach air fion.

* The Water of Tweed.

Mo cheist am firean foinnidh, dìreach,
Maiseach, fìor-ghlan, ainmeil,
Mo sheobhag sùl-ghorm, amaiseil,
Tha comhant, cliùiteach, bearraideach,
A b'aird' a leumadh air each-sreine,
'M barrachd enchd thar chàich;
'S tu bhuinig cuis a bharr gach cùirt,
'S a chuir air chùl ar càs!

Air bhi air farsan dhomh gach là
Gur tus tha ghuà air m' inntinn,
Mo rùn do'n tìr o'n d'ìnich mi,
'S mo shuil air fad gu pilleadh ri:
'S ann thogas orm gu grad mo cholg
Le aigne meanmach, treun—
Mo chliabh tha gabhail lasadh aigheir,
'S àit mo naigheachd féin.

Thainig fasan anns an achd
A dh'òrdaich pailt am feileadh,
Tha eiridh air na breacanan
Le farum treun neo-lapanach,
Bi'dh oighean thapaidh sniomh 'sa dath
Gu h-eibhinn, àit, le uail
Gach aon diù 'g eideadh a' gaoil fein
Mar 's réidh leo anns gach uair

Biodh cogadh ann no sio-chainnt,
Cha chuir sin sior-euchd oirn,
An arm no feachd ma thogras iad,
No 'n àr-amach cha 'n obamaid,
Le'r teanadh suas ri nchd an fhuath's',
Le'r n'earadh usal féin ;
Le lannan cruaghach, neart-mhor, buan,
A leantain ruaig gun sgios !

On fhuair sinn fasan le'r sàr chleachdadh,
Dùisgeadh beachd ar sinnsir,
Le rùn gun cheilg 's na h-uile fear,
'S gun mheirgh' air leirg nan Luinninncach,
Le sunnt a's gleus, a's barrachd spéis
Toirt àite* fein do'n Rìgh,
Mo bhàs gun éis mar b'fhearr leam fein sin,
No ge d' éibht' an t-shith !

Note.—This song, as its title indicates, was composed on the repeal of President Forbes's unclotting act, and an anecdote is related of its first rehearsal, which we deem not unworthy of a place here. Our author, like all other poets of his day and country, was a staunch Jacobite, while his father was equally firm in his adherence to the family of Hanover. William had composed the song during one of his excursions through the country, where he probably heard of the erasure of the obnoxious act from the Statute Book, and sung it for the first time to a happy group of rustics who were in the habit of congregating nightly at his father's ingle to hear his new compositions. When he came to the last stanza, in which he indirectly lampoons his Majesty, "Ah!" said his father, involuntarily laying his hand on a cudgel, "ye clown, you know where and when you sing that." "Really, father," replied the poet, "I would sing it in the House of Commons if you were not there!"

ORAN AN T-SAMHRAIDH,

AIR FOKN—"Wat ye wha I met yestreen."

O! mosg'leamaid gu suilbhear àit,
Le sunntachd ghasd', a's cìreamaid,
Tha mhadainn sa le furan caomh
Toirt cnireadh faoilteach, éibhinn, duinn ;
Cuireamaid fàilt air an lò,
Le cruitean cèolmhor, teud-bhinneach,
'S biodh ar cridhe deachdadh fuinn
'S ar beoil a seinn le speirid dha.

Nach cluinn thu bith-fhuaim suthain, seamb,
'S a bhruthainn sgeamhail, bhlà-dhealtrach,
'S beannachdan a nuas o neamh
A dortadh fial gu làr aca :
Tha nadur a caochladh tuar
Le caomh-cruth, cuannda, pairt-dhathach,
'S an cruinne iomlan, mu'n iath grian,
A tarruinn fiamhan gràsail air !

* Hanover.

Nach cluinn thu còisir stolda, suaire',
'S an doir' ud shuas le'n branan,
Seinn cliù dha'n Cruthadair fein,
Le laoidhean ceutach, solasach,
Air chorraibh an sgiath gun tamh
Air mheangain ard nan rò-chrannaibh,
Le'n ceileirean toirt moladh binn,
Dha'n Tì dh'ath-phill am bèotachd riu.

Gu'm b'fhearr na bhi'n cadal an tamh,
Air leabaidh stàta chloimh-itich,
Eiridh moch sa mhadainn Mhàigh,
Gu falbh na fàsach fheoirneinich,
Ruaig a thoirt air bharr na driùchd,
Do dhoire dlù nan smedraichean,
Am bi tùis is curaidh na fion,
Le fàile ciatach ròsanan.

Tha feartan toirbheartach, neo-ghann,
'S an am so gun ghreann dubhlachdach,
Cuir trusgan trom-dhait' air gach raon,
Le dealt, 's le braon ga'n ùrachadh
Tha Flora cnodachadh gach cluain,
Gach glaic, a's bruach le fùraichean,
S b'f'hdh neòinean, ròsan, 's lili bàn,
'Fo'n dithean aluinn, chùl-mhaiseach.

Tha Phæbus fein, le lòchran aigh,
Ag òradh àrd nam beanntaichean,
'S a' taomadh nuas a ghathad tlà,
Cuir dreach air blàth nan gleanntanan ;
Gach inneag 's gach coirean fraoich
Ag tarruinn faoilteach na Bealltainn air ;
Gach f'fireach, gach tulach, 's gach tom,
Le foirm cuir fuinn an t-samhraidh orr'

Tha caoin, a's cìùin, airmuir a's tìr,
Air machair mhìn 's air garbh-shleibtean,
Tha cuirnean driùchd na thùir air làr,
Ri aird 's ri àin na geala-ghreine ;
B'f'hdh coil', a's pòr, a's fraoch, a's fèur,
Gach iasg, gach éun, 's na h-ainmhidhean
Ri teachd gu'n gnàsalachd 's gu nòs,
Na'n gnè, 's na'n dòigh, san aimsir so.

Gur éibhinn àbhachd nionag òg,
Air ghasgan feoir 'sna h-aonaichean,
An gleantaibh fàsaich 's iad gu suaic',
A falbh le buar ga'n siodachadh ;
Gu h-urail fallain gun sgios,
Gu maiseach, fialaidh, faoilteachail,
Gu neo-chiontach 'gun cheilg, a's gràs
Nan gaol a snàmh nan aodannan.

Uain' gach mi-ghean, sgios a's gruaim,
'S na bidheamaid uair fo'n aineartan,
Crathamaid air chùl gach bròn,
Le fonn, le còl, 's le canntaireachd ;

'S binn' an tathaich sud mar cheud
 No gleadhraich eitidh chàbhsairean,
 S mi 'm pillein chùrai', chul-gorm f'hraoich,
 'S na brughaichean saor on chàmparaid.

Bitheadh easlaint eitigeach, gun chli
 An didean rìmheach sheòmraichean
 Bitheadh éugailean gun spéis, gun brìgh,
 'N aithribh rìghrean, 's mor-uaislibh,
 Biodh slainte chonnabhalach gach ial,
 Am buthaibh fial gun stròthalachd,
 Aig Gàèil ghasd' an éididh ghearr,
 Fir spéiseil. chairdeil, rò-gheanach !

ORAN AIR GAOL NA H-OIGHE
 DO CHAILEAN.

ANN an madainn chiùin cheitean,
 'San spreidh air an lòn,
 Agus cailin na buaile,
 Gabhail 'n-uallain mu'n còir :
 Do bhi gathanan Phabus,
 A cuir an ceill tro' na neòil,
 Latha buadhach, geal, éibhinn,
 'S las na speuran le ròs.

Ach cha b'e 'n tian, bha'd a tional,
 Anns an Innis sa' ghleann,
 So bhuin m'aigne gu luasgan,
 'S mi air chuairt anns an am,
 Ach an cailin bu dreach-mhoire',
 Mìne mais', agus loinn,
 Bh'air an tulaich na'm fochar,
 Gu ciùineil, foisteach, grinn.

Shnàmh mo smaointean an iognadh,
 'S thuit mi 'n coachladh ro-mhòr,
 Sheas mi snasaicht mar iomhaidh,
 'G ambare dian air an òigh;
 'S ge do bhrosnaich mo dhùrachd mi
 Dh'èisdeachd ùr-laoidh a beoil,
 Stad mi rithist le mùuadh,
 'S dheachd mi rùn gu bhi fòil.

Ach gur deacair dhomh innseadh,
 Leis mar dhiobrainn an cainnt,
 Dreach na finn' ud, sa h-àlteachd,
 A thug barr air gach geall ;
 Tha slios geala-mhin mar eala,
 No mar chanach nan gleann,
 'S a h-anail chùraidh mar chaineal,
 O beul meachair gun mheang.

Bha falt cam-lùbach, bòidheach,
 Bachlach, òr-bhuidh', na dhuaill,
 Càs-bhuidh', sniomhanach, faineach,
 An neo-chàradh mu'n cuairt,
 Do bhraghad sneachdaidh a b' fhior-ghlain
 Fo' lic bu mhìn-dheirge gruaidh,
 Gun innleachd bhà, ach buaidh naduir,
 A toirt gach barr dhut gun uaill !

Aghaidh bhaindibh, ghlan, mhòdhar,
 Bu bhinne, ròs-dheirge, beul,
 Suil mheallach, ghorm, thairis,
 Caol-mbala, 's ròsg réidh,
 Uchd sòluis, lan sònais,
 Geala bhroilleach mar ghréin
 'S troidh mhùr-gheal, chaoin, shocrach,
 Nach doich'neadh am féur

Ach gu dubhar na coille,
 Am binne 'n goireadh a chuach,
 Bha 'm fochar na h-Innse,
 Gus an tionailt' am buair,
 Gun do dh'imich an cailin,
 Mìn, farasda, suaire' ;
 Ghleus i guth, 's ghabh i òran,
 'S bu rò-bhinn chèol bheireadh buaidh.

Bann air gaol bha i tighinn,
 S rùn a cridhe, sa buaidh,
 Do dh'òg-laoch nan ciabh òr-bhuidh',
 An leitir Laomuinn nan cuach,
 Do dhiuchd uiseag, a's smebrach,
 Am barraibh rò-chrannaibh suas,
 A's sheinn cho binn an co'-ghleus d'i,
 'S gun do dh'èisd mi càr uair.

" O chailean ! O Chailean !"
 Do sheinn cailin nan gaol,
 " Cia fath nach tigeadh tu tharais,
 Do ghleannan falaich nan craobh ?
 Is nach iarrain-s' air m'òrdugh,
 De stòras, no mhaoin,
 Ach bhi laidhe na t-asgail,
 Fo' do bhreacan san fhraoch,

" Gu'm b'òg mis' agus Cailean,
 Ann an gleannan na cuach,
 A's sinn a tional nan dìtean,
 Leinn fhìn feadh nan cluan ;
 A s sinn 'gar leagadh nar sìneadh,
 'Nuair bu sgi leinn air bruaich
 'S bhiodh na cruitearan sgiathach,
 Cuir ar cionalais bhuain.

" Gu'm bu neo-chiontach mòran
 Mo gràidh ann sa' chòill ;
 A's sinn a' mireadh n-ar 'n-aonar,
 Gun smaointinn air foill ;

Sinn gun mhulad, gun fhadachd,
O mhadaim gu h-èidhech',
Agus Cupid g'ar tàladh,
Gu toirt gràidh, 's sinn nar cloinn.

" 'S ge do thainig an samhradh,
'S mi sa' ghleann so ri spréidh,
Gur e's tric leam am fagail,
'S bithidh cách as au deigh ;
'S ann a dhiucas mi tharais
Do na ghàran leam fein,
Gu bhí taomadh mo dhosgainn
Ann am fechar nan géug.

" Tha mo chairdean fo ghruaim rium,
O là chual' iad mar tha—
Gur annsa leam Cailean
Na fear-baile le than ;
Ach cha treiginn-s' mo cheud-ghradh,
Gus an géillein do'n bhàs ;
On a gheall e bhí dileas,
Cia fath mu'n dibrinn-sa dha ?"

So mar sheinn an caomh chailin,
Tòsan tairis a gràidh,
'S a boid sheasmhach da ceud ghaol,
A's nach dìbreadh gu bràth,
Gach òigh' eile da cluinn so.
Gun robh a h-inntinn gu bàs,
Gu bhí leantainn an t-samh'l ud,
Gu'n a h-an-toil thoirt dha.

Ach air bhí grathuinn na m' thamh dhomb,
'S mi gun àbhachd san ròd,
'S mo ehliaibh air lasadh le h-éibhneas
A' tabhairt éisdeachd da'n òigh—
Chunnacas òganach gasda
Teachd o' leacain a chrò,
'S e le uile shàr imeachd,
'S b'ann gu Innis nam bò.

Bha dhreach, 'sa dhealbh mar bumhiannach,
Le òigh iarraidh dh'i féin,
An tùs briseadh an rùnachd,
'S i fo h-ùr bhàl air féill ;
Beachd a b'f hearr, bu neo-fhurasd
A thabhairt tuille na dheigh,
Air an òganach mhaiseach,
A teachd o leacain nan géug.

Ach suil dha'n tug an t-òg gasda
Bu rioghail mais' air gach taobh,
Dhearc air òigh nan ciabh cas-bhuidh',
Siar fo' asgail nan craobh ;
Dheachd a chridhe le furtachd
Gu'm b'e sud cuspair a ghaoil,
A's ghuidh e beannachd da 'n chodhail,
A bheag am bròn daibh araon.

Is ann an glacaibh a chèile,
Le mor spéis mar bu mhiann,
Ghlais an dìth's ud le éibhneas,
'S an rùn réidh gu'n cuir dian ;
'S o'n bha furan cho tairis,
'S nach b'fhuras aithris cho fial,
Ghuidh mi sònas gun dìth dhaibh,
Gu là 'n erìch a's mi triall.

Note.—The circumstances that called forth the foregoing beautiful song were these:—Our author in his excursions was perambulating the Highlands of Perthshire, where he happened to alight on a shelling, or mountain dairy, in the occupancy of a respectable farmer's daughter attended by a young man one of her father's servants. The bard was warmly invited to remain with them in this humble but hospitable hut for some days to rest himself and to bear them company. The invitation was accepted. A person of the poet's penetration could not long remain ignorant of the fact that the artless maiden was uneasy in her mind; and, as they had now arrived at that stage of intimate familiarity which justifies the disclosure of secrets; upon being questioned, she told him that her affections were fixed upon a neighbouring swain—a handsome, young fellow, whose advances, however, were discountenanced by her parents in consequence of his poverty. Possibly entered with enthusiasm into his friend's romantic love-affair—at all events, he was not the man to do violence to the feelings of the human heart for the sake of pounds, shillings, and pence. Short as his stay was in the shelling, he had frequent opportunities of seeing the young lover and the milk maid meet in the solitude of a contiguous dell. Spurning the threatened wrath of parents, they were speedily married—the poet was invited to the marriage feast, where he sung this song so tenderly expressive of the bliss which had its consummation in the union of his fair friend with the man of her affections.

 'S cha chladhaire neo-threun,
 Dha'm biodh làn nan còbhraichean,
 Dheth 'n òr 's gun treòir dha réir ;
 A threudan a' tigh'n' tharais air,
 Le barrachd dheth gach séud,
 Cha'n fhagadh saibhreas sona mi,
 Gun toileachas na dhéigh.
Gu'm b' annsa, &c.

Gu'n cumadh Ni-math bhuam-sa sud !
 Fear gabhaidh, cruaidh, gun chliù,
 Na fhionaig dhriopail, gheur-chuisich,
 Bhios leirsinneach le shùil,
 Gun tomad a measg dhaoine dheth,
 Gun ghean, gun fhaolt, na ghnùis,
 Gun fhailteachd, chairdeil, fhuranaich—
 Gun uirghioll aig a's fiù.
Gu'm b' annsa, &c.

Ach òigear dreachmhor, tabhachdach
 Neo-ardanach na ghnè,
 Bhios calma 'nuair as éigin da,
 'S rei'-bheartach dha reir ;
 Gun stòras bhi tigh'n' tharais air,
 Gun aim-bheartas gu leir,
 'S e sud na'm faighinn m'iarratas,
 A mhiannaichinn dhomh fein.
Gu'm b' annsa, &c.

FEASGAR LUAIN.

FEASGAR Luain, a's mi air chuairt,
Gu'n cualas fuaim nach b' fhuathach leam,
Ceòl nan teud gu h-brdail, réidh,
A's coisir da reir os a chionn;
Thuit mi 'n caochladh leis an iognadh,
A dh-aisig mo smaointean a null,
'S chuir mi 'n ceill gu'n imichinn céin,
Le m'aigneadh fein, 's e co'-strèap rium.

Chaidh mi steach an ceann na còisir,
An robh òl a's ceòl as dàmh's,
Ribhinnean, a's fleasgaich òga,
'S iad an ordugh grinn gun mbeang;
Dhearcas fa leath air na h-òighean,
Le ròsg foil a null 'sa nall,
'S ghlacadh mo chridhe, 's mo shùil cò'ladh,
S rinn an gaol mo leòn air ball!

Dhiuchd mar aingeal, ma mo choinneamh,
'N ainneir òg, bu ghriinne snuadh;
'Seang shlios fallain air bhàl canaich,
No mar an eal' air a chuan;
Suil ghorm, mheallach, fo chaoil mhala
'S caoin' a sheallas 'g amharc uath,
Beul tlà, tairis' gun ghnè smalain,
Dha'n gnà carthannachd gun uail.

Mar ghath gréin' am madainn cheitein,
Gu'n mbeath i mo leirsinn shùil,
'S i ceumadh ùrlair gu réidh, iompaidh,
Do reir pugannan a chiùil;
Ribhinn mhòdhail, 's fìor-ghlan fòghlum,
Dh-fhion-fhuil mhòrghalach mo rùin,
Reull nan òighean, grian gach còisridh,
'S i'n chiall chòmhraidh, cheòl-bhinn, chiùin.

'S tearc an sgeula sunnailt t-éugaig,
Bhi ri fheatainn san Roinn-Eòrp,
Tha mais', a's feile, tlachd, a's ceutaidh,
Nach facas leam fein fa m' chòir,
Gach cliù a' fàs riut mùirn, 's an àillteachd
An sùgradh, 's a màran beoil,
'S gach buaidh a b' àilli, bh' air Diana,
Gu leir mar fhagail, tha aig Mòir,

'S bachlach, duallach, cäs-bhuidh', cuachach,
Càradh suaineas gruaig do chinn,
Gu h-àluinn, bòidheach, faineach, òr-bbuidh',
An càraibh seòighn' 'san òrdugh grinn,
Gun chron a' fàs riut, a dh' fhéut' aireamh,
O do bharr gu sàil do bhuinn;
Dhiuchd na buaidhean, òigh, mu'n cuairt dut,
Gu meudachdain t-uail' 's gach puing!

Bu leigheas éugail, slan o'n Eug,
Do dh' fhear a d' fheudadh bhí ma d' chòir
B' fhear na'n cadal bhí na t-fhagaisg,
'G éisdeachd agallaidh do bheoil ;
Cha robh Bhenus a measg leugaibh,
Dh' aindeoin féucantachd cho boidh'eh,
Ri mùirninn mhìn, a leon mo chridh',
Le buaidhean, 's mi 'g a dith ri m' bheò.

'S glan an fhion-fhuil as na fhriamhaich
Thu, gun fhiarradh mhiar, no mheang,
Cinneadh mòrghalach, bu chrodha,
Tional cò'ladh cho'-stri lann,
Bhuin'eadh cùis a bharr nan dù'-Gball,
Sgiursadh iad gu'n dùthchas thall,
Leanadh ruaig air Càtaich fhuara,
'S a toirt buaidh ort' anns gach ball.

Tha cabar-féidh an dlùth's do reir dhut,
Nach biodh easlaimeach san strì,
Fìr nach òbadh leis ga'n togail
Dol a chogadh 'n aghaidh rìgh,
Bu chogail, faiceant' an stoirm feachdaidh,
Armach, breacanach, air tì
Dol 'san iomairt gun bhonn gioraig,
'S nach pilleadh gu dhòl fo chis.

'S trom leam m' osna', 's cruai' leam m'fhortan
Gun ghleus socair, 's mi gun sunnt,
'S mi ri smaointinn air an aon rùn,
A bhui mo ghaol gun ghaol d'a chionn.
Throm na Dùilean peanas dùbailt,
Gu mis' umhlachadh air ball,
Thàladh Cupid mi san dùsal,
As na dhùisg mi bruite, fann!

Beir soraidh buam do'n rìbhinn shuairc',
De'n chinneadh mhòr a's uaisle gnàs,
Thoir mo dhùrachd-sa g'a h-ionnsaidh,
'S mi 'n deagh rùn d'a cùl-bhuidh' bàn.
'S nach bruadar cadail a ghluais m'aigne,
'S truagh nach aidich è dhomh tàmh,
'S ge b'ann air chuairt, no thall an cuan,
Gu'm bi mi smuainteach ort gu bràth.

A thaigh Chill-Fheinn, cha bhuanachd leinn,
Air chinnt' ge d' tha thu boidheach,
A bhì ri sneachd' a diol mo leapa,

Noch gur faonraidh fuar thu ;

Tìr gun leon, gun gheibhinn,
An tìr bhraonach, mbachrach, raonach,

Thamo rùn do'n chomunn chiùin nach prìobal

'N'am teirce' do'n là thig sibh o'n tràigh,

 Gu beagadh 'ur mi-ghean.

 Bì'dh laoidh mu'n cuairt nach cluinnt' a luach.
 Aig suinn chuir cuairt na h-Eòrpa
 Bì'dh luagh a's luinneag, duan a's iorram,
 'S cuairt le sgil bho'n òisich,
 Aig bùidhean ghasda, nan arm sgaiteach.
 Treunmhor air feachd comh-stri.

'Nuair tharladh sibh 'san taigh-thabhairn,
 Far an tràighte stòp leibh,
 Cha b'e'n canran bhiodh n'ur pairt,

 Ach mir', a's màran, gaol, a's cairdeas

 'S Eachunn ruadh air thùs dhiubh,

ORAN A RINN AM BARD

ANN AN DUN-EIDEANN

AIR FÒNN—"The Banks of the Dee."

SA' mhadainn 's mi 'g eiridh,
 'S neo-éibhinn a ta mi,
 Cha b' ionann a's m' àbhaist;
 Air airidh nan gleann,
 O 'n thainig mi 'n taobh-s',
 Chuir mi cùl ris gach màran,
 'S cha bheag a chuis-ghraine leam,
 Canran nan Gall :
 Cia mar dh'fheudain bhì subhach,
 S mo chrì an àit' eile ?
 Gun agam ach pàirt dheth,
 Sa 'n àit' anns am beil mi,
 Fo dhubhar nam mòr-bheann,
 'Tha 'n còrr dheth 's cha cheil mi,
 'S gur grain' leam bhì 'g amharc,
 Na th'agam na gheall.

O! 's tric bha mi falbh leat,
 A gheala-bhean na féile,
 Ann a doire nan géug,
 A's air reidhleìn na driùchd ;
 'S air srathaibh a ghlinne,
 Far bu bhinne gùth smeòrach.
 'S air iomair nan nòineinean,
 Fhedirneanach chùr',
 A dìreadh a mhulaich
 'S a tional na spréidhe,
 Gu Innseag na tulaich,
 Air iomain sa' chéitean,
 Bu neo-chionntach màran,
 Mo ghraidh-sa gun bheud ann ;
 'S gu 'm b'ait leam bhì 'g eisdeachd
 Ri sgeula mo rùin.

*Hò rò gur toigh leinn drama,
Hò rò gur toigh leinn drama,
Hò rò gur toigh leinn drama,
'S ioma fear tha'n geall air.*

Mo ghaol an coilgearnach spraiceil,
Dh-fhàs gu foirmeil, meanmach, maiseach,
Dh-fhàs gu spéiseil, treabhach, tapaidh,
Neo-lapach san aimhreit ;
Hò ro, &c.

Ach trocair g' an d' fhuair a chailleach,*
Bha uaireigin anns na b-Earadh,
Cha mheasa ni mi do mhò-adh,
Ge do lean mi 'm fonn aic'.
Hò ro, &c.

Thagh i 'm fonn so, 's sheinn i cliù dhut,
Dh-aithnich i'nsgoinn a bh'ann san drùthnig,

Hò ro, &c.

Ach 's tu 'm fear briodalach, sùgach,
Chuireadh ar mi-ghean air chùl duinn,

Air ro-mhòid am bairdeachd,
Hò ro, &c.

Chuireadh tu uails' anns a bha'-laoch,

Chaoidh cha sgrubair 's an taigh-òsd iad,
Sgapadh òir nan deann leo.

* The bard here alludes to the celebrated Mary M'Leod the poetess, who is said to have been a little dry in her last years. Tradition has it that, when Mary paid a visit to any of her friends, if the shell was not in immediate requisition, she feigned to be suddenly seized with colicks—raising such lugubrious moans and shrieks as could not but alarm the inmates. "Oh! Mary, dear daughter," they would exclaim in their simplicity, "what ails you—what can do you good?" Mary, who was musical even in her distress, would reply in the words of the chorus—" Hò rò gur toigh leam drama".

Cha' n'eil cleireach, no pears eaglais,
Crabhach, teallsanach, no sagart,
Dha nach toir thu caochladh aigie—
Sparra' cèill san amhlair.
Ho ro, &c.

Cha' n'eil cleasaich anns an rìoghachd
Dha' m bu leas a dhol a strì riut,
Dh-fhagadh tu e-san na shineadh,
'S pioban as gach ceann deth.
Ho ro, &c.

Dh-fhagadh tu fear mosach fialaidh,
Dheana' tu fear tosdach briathrach,
Chuire' tu sòg air fear cianail,
Le d' shoghraidhean greannar.
Ho ro, &c.

Dh-fhaga' tu cho slàn fear bacach,
'S e gun Ich, gun òich, gun acain,
'G eiridh le sunnt air a leth-chois,
Gu spailpeil a dhàmhsa.
Ho ro, &c.

Chuire' tu bodaich gu beadradh,
'S na cromaichean sgrògach, sgreagach,
Gu éiridh gu frogail, sa cheigeil,
Ri sgeig air an t-sheann aois,

Bu tu sùiriche mo rùin-sa,
Ge d' thuirt na mnathan nach b'fhiù thu,
'Nuair a thachras tu sa' chùil riu,
Bheir thu cùis gun taing dhiù.
Ho ro, &c.

Bu tu cairid an fhir-fhacail,
Bheireadh fuasgla' dha gu tapaiddh.
Ged nach òl e dhiot ach cairteal,
'S blasmhoirid a chainnt e.
Ho ro, &c.

Tha cho liugha buaidh air fàs ort,
'S gu là-luain nach faod mi'n aireamh,
Ach 'se sgaoil do chliù 's gach àite,
Na bàird a bhi 'n geall ort.
Ho ro, &c.

Thogadh ort nach b'fheairde mis thu,
Gun ghoid thu mo chuid gun fhios uam
Ach gun taing do luchd do mhiosgainn
Cha chreid mise drannd dheth.
Ho ro, &c.

Bha mi uair, 's bu luach-mhor t-fheum dhomh,
Ge nach tuig mal-shluagh gun chéill e,
Dum amabam, sed quid refert,
Na ghràisg quæ amanda.

* When our author's celebrated preceding song in praise of whisky became generally known, Mr John Mac-Donald, the author of the excellent love-ditty, the second set of Mairi Laghach, invoked his muse and composed a parody on it systematically overthrowing every thing Ross had said in its praise. Our author having heard of this, again tuned his lyre—sustained the positions he formerly assumed—castigated the vilifier of aqua vitæ and at still greater length celebrated the inspiring qualities of it.

Tha luchd cràbhaidh dha do dhiteadh,
Le cùl-chaint a's briodal feall,
Ge d' nach aidich iad le'm beoil thu,
Olaidh iad thu mar an t-àllt.
'S toigh linn drama, &c.

A Chléir fein, ge seunt' an còta,
Tha'n sgornanan ort an geall,
Tha cuid ac' a ghabhas fraoileadh,
Cho math ri saighdear sa' champ,
'S toigh linn drama, &c.

Dh-fhag Mac-na-brach' e gun lide
Na amadan liotach, dall.

MOLADH NA H-OIGHE GAELICH.

AIR FOKN—"Mount your baggage."

A Nighean bhòidbeach
An òr-fhuil bhachalaich,
Nan gorm-shùl miogach,
'S nam mìn bhàs sneachda-gheal,
Gu'n siubhlain reidhleach
A'a sleibhtean Bhreatuinn leat,
Fo earradh sgaoilte
De dh'aodach breacain orm,

'S e sud an t-éideadh
Ri 'n eireadh m'aigne-sa,
'S mo nighean Ghàèlach,
Aluinn agam ann;
O bheul na h-òidhche
Gu soills' na madainne,
Gu'm b'ait n-ar sùgradh
Gun dùsal cadail oirn.

* Dr Samuel Johnson.

Ge d' tha na bain-tighearnan
Gallda, fasanta,
Thug òigh na Gàèlig,
Barr am mais' orra,
Gur annir sheòighn i
Gun sgòid ri dearc' oirre,
Na h-earradh glé-mhath
De dh'eudadh breacanach.

Gur foinnidh, mileanta
Direach, dreachmhor, i,
Cha lùb am feoirnean
Fo bròig 'nuair shaltras i;
Tha deirge a's gile
Co-mhire gleachdanaich,
Na gnùis ghil, éibhinn,
Rinn ceudan airtneulach.

Réidh dheud chomhnard
An ordugh innealta,
Fo bhilibh sàr-dhaitht',
Air blàth bhermillian;
Tha h-aghaidh nàrach
Cho làn de chinealtachd,
'S gun tug a h-aogas,
Gach aon an ciomachas.

Gur binne còmhradh
Na òraid fhileanta,
Tha guth nì's ceòlmhoir',
Na òigh-cheol binn-fhaclach,
Cha laidheadh bròn oirn,
No leon, no iomadan,
Ri faighinn sgeul duinn
O bheul na finne sin.

'Nuair thig a Bhealltainn,
'S an Samhradh lùsanach,
Bi'dh sinn air àiridh,
Air àrd nan uchdanan,
Bi'dh cruil nan gleanntan
Gu canntair, cuirteasach,
Gu tric gar dùsgadh
Le sùrd gu moch-eiridh.

'S bi'dh 'n crodh, 's na caoirich,
'S an firaach ag inealtradh,
'S na gobh'raibh bailg-fhionn,
Gu ball-bhreach, bior-shuileach,
Bi'dh 'n t-àl 's an leimnich
Gun cheill, gun chion orra,
Ri gleachd 's ri còmhrag
'S a snòtach bhileagan.

Bi'dh mise, a's Màiri
 Gach là 's na glacagan,
 No'n doire géugach
 Nan éunan breac-iteach,
 Bi'dh cuach, a's smeòrach,
 Ri ceòl 's ri caiseamachd,
 'S a gabhail òrain
 Le sgòrnain bhlasda dhuinn.

Note.—"WILLIAM Ross chiefly delighted in pastoral poetry, of which he seized the true and genuine spirit—'Moladh na h-òighe Gaelich' or his 'Praise of the Highland Maid' is a masterpiece in this species of composition. It embraces every thing that is lovely in a rural scene; and the description is couched in the most appropriate language"—BIBLIOTHECA SCOTO-CELTICA.

AN LADIE DUBH.

LUNNEAG.

*Hò ro ladie dhuì',
 Hò ro eile,
 Hò ro ladie dhuì',
 Hò ro eile,
 Hò ro ladie dhuì',
 Hò ro eile,
 Gu'm b'èibhinn le m'aigneadh
 An ladie na'm feudadh.*

Nach mirègach Cupid,
 'S e sùgradh ri mhathair,
 Dia brionnach gun suilean,
 An duil gur ceòl-gàir' e,
 A' tilgeadh air thuairream,
 Mu'n cuairt anns gach àite,
 A shaighdean beag, guineach,
 Mar's urrainn e'n sàthadh.
Ho ro ladie dhuì', &c.

Bha sagart 's na crìochan,
 'S bu diaghaidh 'm fear-leughaidh,
 Air dunadh le creideamh,
 'S le eagnachd cho eudmhor ;
 'S b'ann á cheann-eagair,
 A theagasg bhi hénsach
 Gun ofrail a nasgadh
 Aig altairean Bhenuis.
Ho ro ladie dhuì', &c.

'Nuair a chunnaic a bhan-dia,
 Fear-teampull cho dùire,
 Gun urram dh'a maildeachd,
 Gun mhiagh air a sùgradh,
 Chuir i 'n dia dalldach,
 Beag, feallsach, gun sùilean,
 'Dh-fheuchain am feudadh e,
 A ghlèusadh gu h-ùrlaim.
Ho ro ladie dhuì', &c.

'Nuair dhiuchd an dia baothar,
 Beag, faoilteach, mu'n cuairt da,
 Gun thilg e air saighead,
 O chailin na bùaile
 Chaidh 'n sagart na lasair,
 S eha chuir as gu là-luain e,
 Mar bhitheadh gun gheill e,
 Do Bhenus san uair sin.
Ho ro ladie dhuì', &c.

S b'e aidmheil an Lebhit,
 'Nuair a b' éigin da ùmhlachd,
 Gu 'm b' fheairrde gach buachaille
 Gruagach a phùsadh,
 'S bha cailin na buaile,
 Cho buan ann a shuillean,
 'S gun robh i na aigneadh,
 Na chadal 's na dhùsgadh.
Ho ro ladie dhuì', &c.

'S e fàth ghabh an sagart,
 Air caidridh na h-òighe,
 Air dha bhi air madainn,
 Ga h-aidmheil na sheòmar,
 A glacadh 'sa leagadh,
 Air leabaidh bhig chòmhnaird,
 'S mu's maitheadh e peacadh,
 Bhi tacan ga pògadh.
Ho ro ladie dhuì', &c.

Ach tilgidh na Cinnich,
 Mar ilisgean oirne,
 Mar tha sinn cho déidheil,
 Air éibhneas na h-òige
 Luchd-creideimh a's cràbhaidh,
 Toirt stràcan gu gòraich,
 'S a bristeadh nan àintean
 Le barr am buill-dòchais!
Ho ro ladie dhuì', &c.

Note.—The foregoing cynical song was composed on a rigidly righteous Highland School-master, who, fancying that his ferula and cassock were sufficient to sustain him in his self-lauded innocence, was notorious in the countryside for his scorching tirades against all delinquents—especially such as had incurred the rebuke of the kirk-session.—Our bard, although free from the grosser immoralities, being a little amorous in his disposition, came once or twice under the lash of this censor.—But alas! the instability of human virtues—"holy Willie", himself got an illegitimate child! The fama of the Saint's sin ran from one corner of the Parish to the other by getting his servant maid in the family way.—The poet readily availed himself of the opportunity to retaliate upon the Dominic, and applied the lash with great skill.—Nothing excels the irony and sarcasm of our bard in this production; if he does not exult a little too loudly over a fallen enemy.

 Seinn eibhinn gach là,
 Seinn eibhinn, binn eatrom,
 Seinn eibhinn, do ghnà
 Seinn eibhinn, seinn eibhinn,
 Chuireadh m' easlain gu làr.*

Tha mi còrr a's trì bliadhna,
 Air mo lionadh le gaol,
 'S gach aon là dhiu stiùireadh,
 Saighead ùr ann mo thaobh;
 Cia mar 's leir dhomh ni taitneach,
 Dh'aindeoin pailteas mo mhaoin?
 'S mi as éugmhais do mhàrain,

CUACHAG NAN CRAOBH.*

CHUACHAG nan craobh, nach trua'leat mo chaòl'

 Do chrùtha geal caomh sìnte ri m' thaobh,
 'S mise ga'd chaoin phògadh.

Chunna' mi féin aisling, 's cha bhreug,
 Dh-fhag sin mo chré brònach,
 Fear mar ri tè, a pògdh a beul,
 A brìodal an deigh pùsaidh,
 Dh'ùraich mo mhian, dh'ath'rich mo chiall,
 Ghul mi gu dian, dòimeach,
 Gach cuisle agus féith, o iochdar mo chléibh
 Thug iad gu leum co'-lath!

Ort tha mo gheall, chaill mi mo chonn,
 Tha mi fo throm chreuchdan,
 Dh'aisigeadh t-fhonn slainte do'm chom,
 Dhiuchdadh air lom m' éibhneas,
 Thiginn ad dhàil, chuirinn ort fàilt',
 Bhithinn a ghraidh réidh riut—
 M'ulaidh 's mo mhian, m' aighear 's mo chiall,
 'S ainneir air fiamh gréin' thu!

* The poet, crossed in love, suffered such poignancy of grief that it ultimately brought on a consumption and he was for sometime bed-ridden. On a fine evening in May, he rose and walked out through the woods to indulge his melancholy alone.—Arriving at a large tree, he threw himself on the green sward beneath its branches, and was not long in his sequestered sylvan situation ere the cuckoo began to carol above him.—“The son of song and sorrow” immediately tunes his lyre, and sings an address to the feathered vocalist.—He pours out his complaints before the shy bird, and solicits its sympathies.—Had Burns been a Gaelic Scholar, we should have no hesitation in accusing him of plagiarism when he sung:—

“How can ye chaunt, ye little birds
 While I'm so wae an' fu' o' care?”

But Ross embodies finer feelings and sentiments into his fugitive pieces than even the bard of Colia.

Thuit mi le d'ghàth, mhill thu mo ràth,
 Strìochd mi le neart dòrain
 Saighdean do ghaol sìit' anns gach taobh,
 'Thug dhìom gach caoin co'-lath,
 Mhill thu mo mbais, ghoid thu mo dhreach,

 'S mar fuasgail thu trà, le t-fhuran 's le t-fhàilt'
 'S cuideachd am bàs dhomh-sa!

'S cama-lubach t-fhàilt, fanna-bhui' nan cleachd
 'S fabhrad nan ròsg àluinn;
 Gruaidhean mar chaor, broilleach mar aol,

 Gus an cuir iad mi steach, an caol-taigh nan leao
 Bidh mi fo neart cràidh dheadh,

 Fo dhuilleach nam preas blàth'or.

 'S nach togair thu ghéug suas leam,

 Mas biodh tu fo chuing truaighe,
 Ach 's goirid an dàil gu'm faicear an là,

* The woman here introduced as a hypercritic in song was a particular friend of the poet.—Ross began, in her presence, to sing the praises of “the girl of his affections” and his own certainty of a premature grave in consequence of her refusal of him.—The old wife heard the first stanza, and by way of episode or running commentary, endeavours to cure him of his passion.—She thus continues her intervening remarks to the end of his ditty.—The poet was so struck with the shrewdness and point of her episodes that he immediately versified them.—The song, therefore, comes before us in the shape of a duet—the woman, however, singing two stanzas for the poet's one.—Ross does every thing as he should—he well knew the garrulousness of women, and their privilege to have the last word in every controversy!

He at length went to the family of Macleod of Lewis, and served him for several years as a Harper. Having fallen in love with Macleod's eldest daughter, he resolved, on the first opportunity, to fly with her to Ireland. One night, after supper, Cormac tuned his harp, and played a tune of the name of "Deuchain-ghleust' Mhic-O'Chormaic," which had the power to lull all to sleep who were within hearing of it. By this magic music the whole of Macleod's household fell into a deep slumber. Cormac then drew a large dagger, which he used to carry about him, called Madog-achlais, to cut Macleod's throat. As he was drawing near the chief with his knife, Macleod's eldest son came in, after returning from his daily mountain sports, and seeing Cormac approaching his father with such a dreadful weapon, exclaimed—"Cormac! Cormac! what do you intend to do—are you mad?" Cormac replied, "Mad, my young man! think you so? I am not; but I have a regard for your fair sister, whom I am resolved to take with me to Ireland; and as your aged father will not gratify my desire, I must sever his head from his body and clear my way." On hearing this, the youth replied, "You had better not, as you may get your choice of a thousand virgins in Scotland, much fairer than my sister, without committing so cruel a deed." Cormac said, "You speak truly, my young man; hand me my lyre, that I may banish the virgin's love with the sound of my harp." The Bard uses this history as a text to the above song, where he complains that Cormac, with the melody of his harp, had cured his love, while a remedy for his own was never to be found.

'S 'n teirc a bha 'n ad ghnùis-ghil,
A lub mi gu eugail,
'S nach deann Lìghich' slàn mi,
Och! b'fhearr gum b'e 'n t-éug e.

Is ciomach ann do ghaol mi
Ri smaointinn bean t-ailteachd,
Cha chadal anns an òidhech' dhomh,
'S cha 'n fhois anns 'au là dhomh,
Cha n' fhacas ri mo ré,
'S cha 'n fhaigh mi sgeul gu bráth air
Ni b'annsa' na bhi réith 's tu,
A gheug nam bás bàna.

Gur binne leam do chòmhradh
Na smeorach nan geugan,
Na cuach sa mhadainn Mhàighe,
'S na clàrsach na'n teudan,
Na'n t-Easpuig air la Dòmhnach
'S a mòr-shluagh 'ga eisdeachd,
Na ge do chunnte stòras
Na h-Eorpa gu léir dhomh.

C'arson nach d' rugadh dall mi,
Gun chainnt no gun leirsinn?
Mas facas t-aghaidh bhaindidh,
Rinn aimhleas nan ceudan,
O'n chunna' mi air thùs thu,
Bu chliùteach do bheusan,
Cha n' fhasa' leam nam bás
A bhi lethair as t-éugmbais!

Ach 's truagh! gu'm beil do rùn-sa,
Cho dùr dha mo leamhuinn,
'S mo chridhe steach 'ga ghiulan,
A h-uile taobh dha falbh mi,
An cadal domh no dùsgadh
A sùgradh no seanachas,
Tha sud da m' ruagadh daonnan,
'S mi sgaoilte gun tearmunn!

Ach fasaigh mi mo dhuthaich
Gu 'n diùch'naich mi pairt dheth,
Ro-mheud sa thug mi rùn
Dha do chul buidhe, faineach,
Air triall dhomh thar m' éolas
A dh'ain-deoin mo chàirdean
Tha saighead air mo ghiùlan,
A lùbas gu làr mi!

'S a nise bho'n a thriall thu,
'S nach b' fhiach leat mo mhàran,
A chionn 's nach robh mi stòrasach,
Mòr ann an stàta,
Ach sud ge d'robh da 'm dhì'-sa.
Cha 'n islich mi pairtean,
Tha m' aigne torrach, fìor-ghlan,
Nach dìobair gu bráth mi.

Ach mu's a triall gun dail dut,
 Gu aite nam mor-sheol,
 Gu'n fhuireach ri do chairdean,
 Do dhàimh, no luchd t-eòlais,
 Biodh soirion air na speuran,
 Gun eiridh air mor-thonn,
 A dh' aiseageas le réidh ghaoith
 Gun bheud thu gu seol-ait.

Mar sud bha ur-sgeul Chormaic
 Cho dearbhta sa' sheinn e,
 E-fein sa' chomunn òg
 'S iad gte bhronach ma thimcheall,
 E gabhail cead le pòig dh'i,
 Gu'n chòmhradh gun impidh
 'S e dioladh guth an còdhail,
 Na h-bighe gu 'm pill e.

ORAN EILE,

AIR AN AOBHAR CHEUDNA.

Tha mise fo' mhulad sa'n àm
 Cha'n òlar leam dràm le sunnt,
 Tha dùrrag air ghùr ann mo chàil
 A dh-fhiosraich do chàch mo rùin,
 Cha 'n faic mi 'dol seachad air sràid
 An cailin bu tlàithe sùil;
 'S e sin a leag m'aigheadh gu làr
 Mar dhuilleach bho bharr nan craobh.

A ghruagach is bach'liche cùl
 Tha mise ga t-inntran mòr,
 Ma thagh thu deagh àite dhut fein
 Mo bheannachd gach ré ga 'd' chbìr:

Tha mise ri osnaich 'na d' dheigh,
 Mar ghaisgeach an déis a leòn;
 Na laidhe san àraich gun fheum
 'S nach teid anns an t-sréup nì's mō!

'S d' fhad mi mar iudmhail air tréud,
 Mar fhear nach toir spóis do mhnaoi,
 Do thuras thar chuan fo' bhreid,
 Thug bràs shileadh dhéur om shùil—
 B'fhearr nach mothaichinn fein
 Do mhaise, do cheill, 's do chliù,
 No suairceas mìlis do bheil
 'S binne no séis gach ciùil.

Gach anduin' a chluinneas mo chàs
 A cuir air mo nadur fiamh;—
 A cantain nach eil mi ach bàrd
 'S nach cinnich leam dàn 'is fiach—
 Mo sheanair ri pàigheadh a mhàil,
 'S m'athair ri màlaid riamh
 Chuireadh iad gearainn an crann,
 A's ghearain-sa rann ro' chiad.

'S fad a tha m' aigne fo ghruaim
 Cha' mhosgail mo chlùain ri ceòl,
 'M breislich mar ànrach a chuan
 Air bharruibh nan stuadh ri ceò.
 'S e iunndaran t-àbhachd bhuam
 A chaochail air snùadh mo neòil,
 Gun sùgradh, gun mhìre, gun uaill,
 Gun chaithream, gun bhuadh, gun treòir!

Cha duisgear leam ealaidh air àill',
 Cha chuirear leam dàn air dòigh,
 Cha togar leam fonn air clàr
 Cha chluinnear leam gàir nan òg.
 Cha dirich mi bealach nan àrd
 Le suigeart mar bha mi'n tós,
 Ach triallam a chadal gu bràth
 Do thalla nam bàrd nach beò!

AILEAN DALL.

ALLAN M'DOUGALL, better known by the soubriquet of Ailean Dall, or blind Allan, was a native of Glencoe, in the county of Argyle. He was born about the year 1750, of poor but honest and industrious parents. When a young man, he was bound apprentice to a tailor, who, in conformity with the custom of the time and country, itinerated from farm to farm, "plying his needle" in every house where his services were required. The excursive nature of this occupation, accorded well with Allan's disposition—the house in which they wrought, was literally crammed every night with young and old, who passed the time in reciting old legends—tales of love, of war, of the chase—intermingled occasionally with songs and recitations of ancient poetry. Thus nurtured, Allan soon became famed for his fund of legendary lore. His mind became imbued with the yet lingering spirit of chivalry, which characterized his countrymen in former times. He heard the encomiums bestowed upon the bards, and his youthful breast felt the ardent flame of emulation. From the first stages of puerility, he was remarkable for his sallies of wit, and quickness of repartee—there was an archness about him, which indicated future eminence. It is said that as he was sitting one day cross-legged, sewing away at his seam, he retorted so keenly and waggishly on a fellow-apprentice, that the other, wincing under the lash, thrust his needle into Allan's eye;—in consequence of this, the assailed organ gradually melted away, and the other, as if by sympathy, wore off in the course of time. Thus, like Mœnides and Milton "wisdom at one entrance was clean shut out," from poor Allan. Nature, however, is an excellent compensator—we seldom find a man deprived of one faculty, who does not acquire others, in a pre-eminent degree. Such was the case with Ailean Dall. He possessed a lively imagination, an excursive fancy, and a retentive memory.

Incapacitated from pursuing his trade, he turned his attention to music, and soon acquired a tolerable knowledge of that science as a fiddler. But he never became eminent as a musician, and was chiefly employed at country weddings and raffles, and so earned a miserable pittance. About the year 1790, he removed with his family to Inverlochy, near Fort-William, where he was accommodated with a hovel and a small pendicle of land by Mr Stewart, who then held the salmon-fishing on the river Lochy, and the occupancy of an extensive farm. The change had materially bettered our bard's circumstances—his family did all necessary agricultural operations, and Allan's fiddle and muse were in ceaseless demand, and were occasionally successful in the realization of some little cash, or other remuneration.

We utterly repudiate the doctrine that hardships and indigence are, or can be fertile in the productions of genius ;—difficulties may spur to invention, but it is ease and comfort that can yield time and temper to give a polish to literary or poetic productions. The former may let off the whizzing squib of momentary excitation—it is the latter that can light up the bright-burning and pellucid torch of genius. During his stay at Inverlochy, he composed the most of his songs—his fame spread, and his reputation as a poet became ultimately stamped. His style is fine—his manner taking—his subject popular—and his selection of airs exceedingly happy. But while we are prepared to give our author a respectable position among the minstrels of our country, we are by no means disposed to place him in the first class.

Induced by the popularity his poems had acquired, Allan bethought him of preparing them for publication ;—and with this view, he consulted the late Mr Ewan M'Lachlan, of the Grammar School, Aberdeen, who was then employed as a tutor in the neighbourhood. Mr M'Lachlan, himself an assiduous votary of the muse, entered with his characteristic zeal and enthusiasm into the poet's prospects. He took down our author's compositions in manuscript, and as they would not of themselves swell even into a respectably sized volume, the amanuensis added a few of his own productions, together with several other select pieces. The volume thus "got up" soon became exceedingly popular—especially in that part of the country : to say that it possessed merit, is saying too little—but there were one or two obscene pieces which we would like, for the sake of moral purity, had been omitted.

Shortly after the appearance of his poems in a collected form, the far-famed Colonel Ronaldson M' Donald of Glengary, took Allan under his patronage, and gave him a comfortable cottage and croft near his own residence. And now might the palmy days of our minstrel be said to have commenced—he occupied the proud and enviable position of family-bard to the most famed Ceann-taighe in the Highlands. He laid aside his blue, home-made great-coat, and hat, and was equipped in habiliments suited to his newly acquired rank. Never was there a more marvellous transition outwardly ; and we venture to presume that the buoyancy of his feelings kept pace with his improved exterior. Allan now appeared in Glengary's retinue, clad in tartan trews, plaid, belt and bonnet, on all festival days and occasions of public demonstration. His minstrelsy tended to enliven the scene, and to inspire the party with the almost dormant chivalric spirit of their country. His panegyrics on Glengary were elaborate and incessant ; and, as poets like other mortals, must have some slight ingredient of selfishness about them, if our author stepped beyond the bounds of propriety or truth in this respect, he has his equal in Robert Southey, the poet-laureate—and this we should think sufficient apology ! He annually accompanied his patron to the gymnastic games at Fort-William ; and various anecdotes of his ready wit are related by the people of that place. He previously composed appropriate songs for these exhibitions, and sung them at the games, as if they had been strung together on the spur of the moment—always making sure of having his lyre tuned by two or three copious draughts, not of Helicon, but of Benevis ! On one occasion, after the sports of the day were over, Glengary having seen Allan quaff his third shell, stepped forward and said—"Now, Allan, I will give you the best cow on my estate, if you sing the proceedings of this day, without mentioning my name!" The bard adroitly and at once replied:—

"Dheanainn latha gun ghrian,
A's muir blian gun 'bhi sailt,
Mu'n gabhainn do na Gàèil dàn,
Gun fhear mo ghràidh 'n aird mo rainn!"

i. e. I would sooner create daylight without a sun, and call into being a sea of fresh water, before I would celebrate a gathering of Highlanders, without Glengarry figuring the first in my verse.

But although Allan became Glengarry's family bard, he did not give up composing pieces of general interest—and quite detached from the connexions of his proper calling. Indeed many of his productions while with the "proud chieftain," are, if any thing, better and more popular than his first. In the year 1828, he travelled the counties of Argyle, Ross, and Inverness, taking subscriptions for a new and enlarged edition of his works; and on procuring 1000 names, he went to press in 1829. But alas! the book was only in progress, when the cold finger of death silenced his harp for ever. He died much regretted, and was interred in the burying-ground of Kilfianan.

In personal appearance, Allan M'Dougall was thin and slender, and somewhat diminutive in size. He commonly wore a black fillet over his eyes. He was seldom out of humour, and very rarely nursed his wrath so long as to lead him to indulge in satire. He was amongst the family bards what Ossian was among the Fingalians—"the last of the race."

ORAN DO NA CIOBAIREAN

GALLDA.

THAINIG oirnn do dh-Albainn crois,
Tha daoine bochd nochdte ris,
Gun bhìadh, gun aodach, gun chluain ;
Tha 'n Airde-tuath an deigh' a sgrìos :
Cha 'n fhaicear ach caoirich a's uain,
Goill mu 'n cuairt dhaibh air gach slios ;
Tha gach fearann air dol fàs,
Na Gàicil 's an cinn fo fhliodh,

Cha 'n fhaicear crodh-laoigh air gleann,
No eich, ach gann, a' dol an éill ;
'S ann do 'n fhaisinneachd a bh' ann
Gun reachadh an crann bho fheum :
Chaidh na sealgairean fo gheall,
'S tha gach cuilbheir cam, gun ghleus :
Cha mharbhar maioseach no meann,
'S dh-fhuadaich sgrìachail Ghall na feidh.

Cha 'n 'eil àbhachd feadh nam beann,
Chaidh giomanaich teann fo smachd :
Tha fear na cròice air chall,
Chaidh gach eilid a's mang as :
Cha 'n fhaighear ruagh-bhoc nan allt,
Le cù seang ga chur gu srath ;
An eirig gach cuis a bh' ann,

Cha chluinnear geum ann am buaile,
Chaidh an crodh-guailionn á suim ;
Cha 'n eisdear luinneag no duanag,
Bleodhan mairt aig gruagaich dhuinn :—
Bho 'n chaidh ar cuallach an tainead,
'S tric a tha padhadh g' ar claidh,
N àite nan cairdean a bh' againn,
Linnseach ghlas am bun gach tuim !

Mar gun tuiteadh iad fo 'n chraoidh,
Cnnoimhan caoich 'dol aog sa bharrach ;
'S ann mar sid a tha seann daoine,
'S clann bheag a h-aogais bainne ;
Thilgeadh iad gu fomall cùirte,
Bho 'n dùthchas a bh' aig an seanair ;
B' fhearr leinn gun tigeadh na Frangaich
A thoir nan ceann deth na Gallaibh.

Dh-fhalbh gach pòsadh, threig gach banais—
Sguir an luchd-ealaidh bhì seinn ;
Chuala sibhse tric ga aithris,
“ Caidseirean a teachd air cléibh ;”
'S ionnan sid 's mar thachair dhomh-sa,
Cha dean iad m' fheòraich air feill,

'S fearr leo cù ga chuir ri spréidh.

Gach aon fhear ' fhuair lamb-an-nachdar,
Dh-fhogair iad uatha gach neach
A reachadh ri aghaidh cruadail,
Na 'n tigeadh an ruaig le neart :
Na 'n eireadh cogadh 'san rioghachd,

'S e sid an seula bu bhinn linn,

Gach fear a faoighneachd ri nàbuidh,
“ Cia mar sin a dh' fhad thu 'n treud ?
Cìod i phris a rinn na muilt ?
No 'n do chuir thu iad gu féil ?”

“ Cha 'n aobhar talaich am bliadh'n e,
Rinn iad a sia-diag a's còrr ;
Ma tha thus' ag iarraidh fios air,

Dh-fhalbh na crogaichean air dàil ;
'S ma ghleidheas mi 'n t-àlach òg,
Ge do gheibh an trian diù 'm bàs,
Nì mi 'màl air na bhios beo.”

'Nuair dhìreas fear dhiù ri beinn,

'Nuair thig e oirnn sa ghaoth,
'S mairg a bhios air taobh-an-fhasga,
Cha 'n fhaod fhaileadh a bhì caoin,
'S e giulan nam maodal dhachaigh ;
'S tric e ga fhoileadh 'sa ghaorr,
Sìos bho chaol-druim gu chasan,
'S ge be reachadh leis a dh' òl,
'S feudar dhaibh an sròn a chasadh.

Nuair shuidheas dithis no trìuir
'S an taigh-òsd' an cùis 'bhì réicé,
Chìtear aig toiseach a bhùird,
Cìobair agus cù na dhéidh ;

Bu choir a thilgeadh an cùil,
 'S glùn a chur am beul a chleibh,
 Iomain a mach thun an dùin,
 'S gabhàdh e gu smiùradh fein.

S olc a chuideachd do chàch,
 Neach nach àbhaist a bhì glan;
 Cha chompanach dhaoine 'is fiach
 Fear le fhiaclan a spòth chlach,
 Ann an garrabhuic air a ghluinean,
 Le chraos ga 'n sùghadh a mach;
 'S ma leigeas tu 'n deoch ri bheul,
 Na dheaghaidh na fiach a blas,

Amach luchd chràgairt na h-òluinn,
 Ma 's a h-àill leibh comunn ceart!
 Druidibh orra suas a chòmhla,
 'S na leigibh a sròn a steach:
 Bho nach cluinnear aca 'sdrì,
 Ach craicinn agus clòimh ga reic,

 'Ceannach uan mu 'n teid am breith.

 'S na biodh aon do 'n treud n' ar carabh;
 Olaibh deoch-slainnte Mhic-Choinnich,
 'S Chòirineil Ghlinne-Garaidh,
 Chionn gur beag orra na caoirich,
 'S luchd dhaorachaidh an fhearuin.

ORAN LEANNANACHD.

NAM faighinn gille r'a cheannach,
 A bheireadh beannachd gu Màiri,
 'S mo shoraidh le caoimhneas
 A dh-fhios na maighdinn' a chraidh mi;
 Ga nach a tug mi dhut faoidhreas,
 Ann am foill dhut cha d' fhàs mi:
 'S mar a math leam thu fallain,
 Nar a mheal mi mo shlainnte!

Nar a mheal mi mo chòta,
 Mar b'e mo dheoin a bhì lamh riut,
 'S a bhì bridal ri 'm leannan,
 An seomar daingeann nan clàraidh,
 Au iuchair fhaotainn am' phòca,
 S gun aò tòir a bhì laimh ruinn,
 'S mi gun deanadh do phògadh,
 Gun fheòraich de m' chairdean.

Gun fheòraich do m' chairdean,
 'S fada a dh'fhalbhuinn a d' choinnidh
 Far an deanainn riut còdhail,
 Cha bhidhinn beo gun a cumail:
 Tha mo dhuil ann sa mhaighdein
 Nach treig do chaoimhneas mi uile;
 'S mar do chaochail thu àbhaist,
 Gheibhinn t-fhàilt' agus t-fhuran.

'S e t-fhuran a leon mi
 A dh'fhag am bron so air m' aigneadh,
 A thromaich m' inntinn fo' éislein,
 Cha dean mi eiridh le graide:
 Tha mo chridhe neo-shunntach,
 Tha mi bruite fo'm aisnean,
 Aig a mheud 's thug mi 'ghaol dut,
 'S nach fhaod sinn ' bhì tachairt.

Nach faod sinn 'bhì tachairt
 An àite falaich no 'n uaigneas,
 Far an deanainn riut beadrach,
 A 's tacan cleasachd air uairean;
 Ach se lagaich mo mhisneach,
 Nach faod mi tric 'bhì mu 'n cuairt dhut:
 B' fhearr a phog na 'bhì falamb,
 Mar a faigh mi do bhuanachd,

Cha 'n 'eil m' éibhneas air thalamh,
 Mar a faigh mi thu 'Mhàiri!
 Cha dual domh bhì fallain
 Ma bhios mi fada mar tha mi:
 Cha ghuidhinn mo ghalar
 Do m' charaid no 'm nàmhaid;
 Chaidh acaid am chridhe,
 'S cha dean lighichean stà dhomh!

Beul milis, dearg, daite,
 Deud snaighte mar dhisnean,
 Suil ghorm is glan sealladh
 Fo 'n chaol mhal' aig an rìbhinn
 Tha cul buidhe mar òr ort,
 Is bòidheche nan dìthean;
 Blas na meal' air do phògan,
 'S bé mo dheòin bhì riut sinnte.

Ge d' chum mi falach an sgeula
 Tha mi 'n deigh bho cheann greis ort;
 Aig a mhiad 's thug mi ghaol dut
 Tha m' aodunn air preasadh:
 Dh-fhas glaise 'nam ghruaidhean,
 'S bochd a bhuaidh th' air an t-sheirc sin,
 A chaochail mo shnuagh dhìom,
 Mar dhuine truagh 'thig á teasaich.

Mar dhuine truagh thig à teasaich,
 A bhìodh fad ann am fàbhras,
 'S ann a dh-fhas mi mar fhuathaich,
 Cho cruaidh ris an iarunn;

Ach bho thoiseach ar sinnsridh,
 “’S trì nì thig gun iarraidh,
 An gaol agus eagal,
 ’S gun leith-sgeul an t-iadach.”

DUANAG DO 'N UISGE-BHEATHA.

FONN.—“Tha'n oidhche tighinn a's mise leam fin.”

THA fàileadh gun fhotas
 Bho 'chneas Mhic-an-'Tòisich,
 Chuireadh blàths' ann am pòraibh,
 Là reòt a's gaath tuath.

*O! sid i 'n deoch mhilis
 Nach pilleamaid uainn,
 Chuireadh blàths air gach cridhe,
 Ge do bhlitheadh iad fuar :
 O! sid i 'n deoch mhilis
 Nach pilleamaid uainn.*

Bu taitneach an ceòl
 A bhì g' eisdeachd a chrònain,
 Ga leigeadh a stòp,
 A' cuir cròic air a chuaich.
O! sid i 'n deoch, &c.

'S e gogail a choilich,
 Ga ghocadh ri gloine,
 Ceol inntinneach, loinneil,
 A thoilleadh an duais ;
O! sid i 'n deoch, &c.

Ma chreidear mo sheanachas,
 Bu mhath leinn 'bhi sealg ort,
 Le h-urchair gun dearmad,
 Fras airgeid mu d' chluais.
O! sid i 'n deoch, &c.

'Nuair chluinnte do ghlugan
 Ga tharruinn á buideal,
 Bu mhath le ar slugain
 Am fliuchadh gu luath.
O! sid i 'n deoch, &c.

'S tu culaidh an damhsa
 Nuair thigeadh an geamhradh,
 A bheireadh air seann-duine
 'Cheann' thogail suas.
O! sid i 'n deoch, &c.

Bu mhath thu air banais,
 Ga 'r cumail na 'r caithris,
 Nuair bhitheadh luchd-ealaidh
 Rì caithream na 'r cluais.
O! sid i 'n deoch, &c.

Be sid an stuth neartmhor,
 Dh-fhas misneachail, reachd-mhor,
 Nì saighdear do 'n ghealltair,
 Gu spealtadh nan cnuac.
O! sid i 'n deoch, &c.

Sùgh brìgheil na thirne,
 bho fheadan na pràise ;
 Tha spioradail, laidir,
 An caileachd 's an snuagh.
O! sid i 'n deoch, &c.

Ann an coinnidh, 's an codhail,
 Bheir daoine gu còmhradh,
 'S binn luinneagan orain
 Mu bhord ga 'n cuir suas.
O! sid i 'n deoch, &c.

Tha thu cleachdta 's gach dùthaich,
 N àm reiteachadh cùmhant,
 Ma bhios sinn as t-iunnais,
 Bì'dh sùgradh fad bhuain.
O! sid i 'n deoch, &c.

Tha thu d' lighich' neo-thuisleach,
 A dh' fhiachas gach cuisle,
 Gun iarmailt no duslach,
 Air nach cuir thu ruaig.
O! sid i 'n deoch, &c.

Gun eugail na fàilinn
 Tha 'n clannaibh nan Gàèl,
 Nuair toir thu gu slaint',
 Agus phaighear dhut dhuais.
O! sid i 'n deoch, &c.

Nuair 'shuidheamaid socrach,
 'S e 'ghlaodhte na bodaich,
 Cha b' ionnan 's am brochan,
 Thoir boslach dheth' nuas.

*O! sid i 'n deoch, mhilis
 Nach pilleamaid uainn,
 Chuireadh blàths air gach cridhe,
 Ge do bhlitheadh iad fuar :
 O! sid i 'n deoch mhilis
 Nach pilleamaid uainn.*

Note.—We have printed this song as we took it down from the poet's own recitation in 1828.

ORAN DO 'N MHISG.

AIR FÒNN—“An am dol sìos bhi dèdnach.”

AN àm dhomh gluasad anns a mhadainn,
Cha 'n 'eil m' aigneadh sunntach,
'S e Mac-na-bracha 'rinn mo leagadh
Ann an leabaibh dhùinte ;
Mo chliabh na lasair, air a chasadh,
S airtneulach mo dhùsgadh,
'S e sud an gleachdair fhuair fo smachd mi,
'S dh' fhag e m' aisnean bruite.

Nuair a shuidh sinn san taigh-òsda,
Chaidh na stoip thar chumntas,
Gu tric a tighinn, cha bu ruighinn,
Iad na 'n ruita m' ionnsuidh,
Gun iarraidh dälach a sìor phaigheadh
'G òl deoch-slaime 'Phrionnsa ;
'S cha 'n iarrainn fein a dh' aobhar ghàir',
Ach Ràonull a toirt cliù dhomh.

Nuair a ghluais mi gu tigh'nn dachaigh,
Lagadh a chion lùis mi,
Gun d' fhalbh mo neart gun leirsinn cheart,
Gun chaill mi 'm beachd bha m' shùilean ;
Feadh na h-oidhche 's mi gun soillseinn
Air mo shlaoic 'san dùnan ;
Cha robh air chomas domh ach àrusg,
'S bha mo chairdean diùmbach.

'S leir dhomh 'n diugh gur mor an tàmailt
Càch a bhi ga m' ghiulan,
'S mi fein an duil gun robh mi laidir
Gus an d' fhag mo thùr mi ;
Ge do chuir i 'n éis mo cholunn,
'S e mo sporan 'dhiubhail
Air gnìomh na misge 'shlaid gun fhios mi,
Mar tig gliocas ùr dhomh.

'S olc an ealaidh bhi ga léanailt,
'S aimdeach an tùrn 'bhi
'Suidh' air bhord a glaochaich òil,
'S mo phòcannan ga 'n tionndadh,
A' sgapadh stòrais le meud-mhoir,
Ag iarraidh phòg 's na cùltean ;
'S fad sa mhaireadh mo chuid òir,
Cha chuireadh òsdair cùl rium.

'S coir dhomh nise thoirt fos' near
An t-aithreachas a dhùbladh,
Mo bhoid gu gramail thoirt a'n Eala,
Dh' fhenech an lean mo chliù rium ;

Cha teid deur a staigh fo m' dhendaich,
'S feudar tigh'n as iùnaid ;
Cha 'n fhaigh fear falamh seol air aran
Ach le fallas gnuise.

Labhair Raonull—“ Na biodh sprochd ort,
'S theid mi nochd air t-ionnsuidh,
Gleidhidh mi dhut bean a's tochradh,
Cho coltach 's tha 's dùthaich ;
Ge do bhiodh tu gann de stoc,
Na faicear bochd do ghiulan ;
'S c'arson nach glaothamaid a'r hotul
Ann an toiseach cùmhnant ?”

SMEORACH CHLOINN-DUGHAILL.

LUIÑNEAG.

*Ho-i, ri na, ho-ro, hù-o,
Ho-lìb ho-i na, i-ri, ù-o ;
'S smèdrach mise le Cloinn-Dùghaill
A seinn cùil, an dluths' gach gèige.*

CHA dean mi bròn an còs falaich,
Tha seileir mo loin gun ainuis ;
Gheibh gach seorsa seol air aran,
'S cha churam dhomhsa 'bhi falamh.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

Nuair a dh'èireas grian an earraich,
Diridh an ianlaith 's na crannaibh ;
Tha 'm beatha-san dian' air thalamh
Bho 'n laimh gus am bial, 's i ro mhath.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

Gur a mise a smèdrach ghleannach,
Sheinninn ceol air bhàrr gach meangain ;
Ribheid ùr an siunnsair fallain,
'S math mo chàil, gun sàs air m' anail.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

Madainn chéitein, 'n àm dhomh dùsgadh,
'Seinn gu h-éibhinn, eutrom, siubhlach ;
Dealt nan speur air gheugan cùraidh,
Grian ag eiridh, 's feur a' brùchdadh.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

Ghineadh mi 's an tìr nach coimheach,
'S chaisginn m' iotadh le brìgh Chomhainn ;
Tobar ioc-shlainte nach reodhadh,
'G éiridh 'nìos bho 'n dilinn dhomhain
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

Air taobh greine, gleann mo chridhe,
Far an robh éibhneas mo dhibhe;
Ge do bhiodh an t-eug a tighinn,
Bheireadh slaint' do 'm chreubhsa rithist.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

'S an tìr àigh do 'n gnà 'bhi cridheil,
Chaidh m' àrach gun fhaillinn bidhe,
Air nead sàbhailte gun snithe;
S gheibhinn blaths' air sgà Chloinn Iain.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

Tha mi nise meag Chloinn-Cham'roin,
Cinneadh mòr bha 'n seòrs ud ainmeil;
'N cath 's an còmhail, seòlta, calma;
'Dol gu còmhrag, stroiceach, marbhtach.
Ho-i, ri-na, &c.

'S piudhar mi do 'n chuthaig shamhraidh,
Le 'm dheoin cha teid mi gu Galtachd;
Bho 'n is i Ghàellig is caiunt domh,
'Meag mo chàirdean talar ann mi,
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

Nuair theid fianlach feadh na coille,
Cruinnichidh ianlaith gach doire;
Thig gach ian gu nead le colleig,
Sràbh ga shniomh am bial gach coilich.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

'S ionnan sid 's mar dh'eireas domhsa;
Ma phiocas càch mi le dòruinn,
Falbhaidh mis' " an riochd na smeòraich,"
'S theid mi 'm ghearan far an còr dhomh.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

Gu Dùn nan Ciar thriallainn dàna,
'Dhol fo sgiathaibh nan triath stàtail;
Ged nach eil Eoin Ciar a lathair,
'S maireann am fear liath a's Pàdruig.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

Dùn-olla nan tùireid arda,
Nam fear fuileach, builleach, stràcach,
'Sheasadh duineil luchd an cairdeis,
'Choisneadh urram ri uchd nambaid.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

'S smeòrach mi bho chaisteal uaibhreach,
Nan steud prìseil, rìoghail, suairce,
Dream gun spid, bha 'n sinnsir uasal,
Bu mhor prìs ri linn Raon-Ruairidh.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

Dughallaich nan geur-lann aisneach,
Guineach, beumach, speiceach, sgaiteach,
Dol ri feum le treundas gaisgidh,
Garg 's a streup, 's bha 'n leus ri fhaicinn.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

Cha robh 'm Brusach na chuis fharmaid,
Ri fhuil cha chumadh iad earbsa,
Mu 'n do sguir sibh, bha e searbh dha,
'S bu bheag leis a chuid de dh' Alba,
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

Chuir sibh, Roibeart an cuil chumhainn,
Ghabh e gu fogradh car siubhail;
Cha robh dhaoine saor bho phuthar,
Fad 's a bha bhur taobh-sa 'buidhinn.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

Cha b' iongnadh e 'ghabhail grain diu,
'S tric a chuir iad cunnart bais air;
Thug sibh uaithe 'sròl 's am braisde,
'S tha sid an Dùn-olla 'lathair.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

'S i 'n t-sheann stòri tha mi gluasad,
'S naidheachd ùr do 'n fhear nach cual i,
Sgeula fìor, ge fada buaithe,
Gun do sheas an linn ud cruadal.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

Buidheann gun fhiamh, nach d' iarr socair,
Rinn iad aon blar-diag a chosnadh;
Gus an tainig sgrìob na dèsgainn,
Latha Dail-rìgh a mhi-fhortain.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

'S e bu mhiannach leis a bhuidheann,
Bhi cur ard-ramh'chean fo 'n uidheam,
Seoladh ard air bharr nan sruithean,
Sgoltadh nam bàrc le car shiubhal.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

Luchd a chaitheamh nan cuan borba,
'S muir a gairich ri h-aird stoirme;
Bheireadh iad gu aite soirbh i,
Dh' aindeoin barr nan sràc-thonn gorma.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

Fir mo ghaoil bho thaobh na tràghad,
Nach robh claon ri h-aodann gabhaidh,
Nach meataicheadh gaoir an t-sàile,
'Nuair a sgaoileadh iad a h-àlach.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

Cha d' innis mi trian da 'r n' àbhaist,
'S tha mo mhùineal tioram tràisgte;
'S olaidh mi nis' bur deoch-slainnte,
A shliochd a Cholla-Chathaich Spaintich.
Ho-i, ri na, &c.

TROD MNA-AN-TAIGHE RI FEAR,

AIR SON A BHI 'G OL AN DRAMA.

LATHA dhomh 's mi 'g òl an drama,
Còmhlat ri oigearan glana,
Ge do bha mo bhean-sa banail,
'S sgainnealach a trod i rium.

*"O! teann a null, 's na tionndaidh rium,
Bho 'n 's e mo dhiumb a choisinn thu ;
Fuirich sàmhach air mo chul-thaobh.
Sùgradh cha bhi nochd againn."*

Labhair ise 'sin na briathran :—

"Fasaidh tu d' shruthaire briagach,
S eagal leam nach pàidh thu t-fhiachan,
'S e do ghniomb tha coltach ris.
O! teann a null, &c.

"Cha 'n fhuilig mi bonn a d' bheadradh
Air moch, no anamoch, no feasgar ;
'S fearr leat comunn nan stòp beaga,
'S thoill thu leasan goirt' thoirtd dhut.
O! teann a null, &c.

"Thug thu òg do cheannas-cinnidh
Do Mhac-an-Tòisich an gille ;
'S bho na rinn an t-bl do mhilleadh,
A d' mhire cha 'n 'eil toirt agam.
O! teann a null, &c.

"Cha 'n fharraid' thu 'm bithinn beo,
Nam faigheadh tu tombac' a's pòit,
Bhi sgapadh airgeid air gach bòrd,
'S cha 'n 'eil an seol ud fortanach.
O! teann a null, &c.

"'S olc an an obair dhut bhi daonnan
A tighinn dachaigh air an daoraich ;
Cuiridh tu mise gu caoineadh,
'S dh' aognaich fear do choltais mi.
O! teann a null, &c.

"Tha thu gun leine, gun chota,
'S cha dean mise snaithe' ri d' bheo dhut ;
Bho na dh' fhas thu d' dhuine gòrach
Chuir an t-bl bho chosnadh thu.
O! teann a null, &c.

"Tha thu gun bhriogais, gun fheilsadh,
'S e air tolladh air do sbleisnean ;
S cia mar a ni mi dhut éideadh ?
Chuir thu fein gu bochdainn mi.
O! teann a null, &c.

"Phòs mi thu dh' aindeoin mo chairdean,
Gun toil m' athar no mo mbàthar ;
'S bho na ghabh mi nise gràin dhiot,
Falbh as fag a's droch-uair mi.
O! teann a null, &c.

"Phòs mi thu le deoin gun aindeoin,
'S bha thu seolt' air thì mo mheallaidh ;
Bho na bha mi òg am amaid,
Riun mi ceangal do-charach.
O! teann a null, &c.

"Ge do bheirinn spreidh a's earras
Do dh' fhear t-àbhaist agus t-ealain,
Chosgadh tu e leis na galain ;
Ailein! chaidh an ròsad ort !
O! teann a null, &c.

"Ge nach robh mo chrodh air buaille,
Bhuininn do dh-fhior fhuil gun truailleadh ;
'S na seallainn beagan mu 'n cuairt dhomh,
Cha d' fhuair thu mi socharach."
O! teann a null, &c.

E-SAN A' LABHAIRT

AIR A SHON FEIN

EISD! a bhean, do d' ghearan uaibhreach,
'S fuirich sìobhalt ann a d' ghluasad,
S na bi maoidheadh ormsa t-uaisle,
Bho nach d' fhuair' mi tochradh leat.

*O tionndaidh rium, a's deasach rium,
'S a rùn! na bi ri moit orm ;
'S teannaidh mise riut a null,
Le sugradh mar bu choltach dhuinn.*

'N cluinn thu mis, a bhean an taighe ?
Eirich, 's theid mi leat a laidhe ;
Smaoinich fein gun geill na mnathan,
'S gabhaidh iad le choiteach rud.
O tionndaidh rium, &c.

A bhi trod rium cha 'n 'eil feum ann,
Cha chuis àbhachd dhuinn le cheil e :—
"Air beul duinne cha teid féichean,"
'S e bhi réith is docha leinn.
O tionndaidh rium, &c.

'S ge do dheanainn stòp a thràghadh,
Maille ri cuideachda chairdeil,
'S maìrg thu 'mhaoidheadh orm gu bràch e,
Ged do phàidhinn crotag ris.
O tionndaidh rium, &c.

Ge do dh' òlainn làn an taomain,
Thiginn dachaigh cridheil, gaolach ;
'S cha bu chùis gu taigh a sgaoileadh,
Ge do ghlaodhainn botul dheth.
O tionndaidh rium, &c.

Ge do labhair thu 's gach doigh rium,
Dh' aindeon aon ni riamh a dhùl mi,
'S geal do churrachd, 's dùbh do bhrogan,
'S dionach, comhnard, socrach, iad.
O tionndaidh rium, &c.

Ge do dh' fhanadh tu air t-eolas,
Gun tigh'n riamh a nall á Cnòideart,
Gheibhinn te le beagan stòrais,
Bhiodh cho boidheach coltas riut.
O tionndaidh rium, &c.

Ach sin 'nuair a labhair ise :—
"Smithich togail dhoit a nis",
Chàin thu thu fein, 's dhìt thu mise ;
'S misd thu nach 'eil fòsadh ort."
O tionndaidh rium, &c.

GEARAN NA MNATHA AN

AGHAIDH A' FIR, AGUS IAD A FREAGAIRT A CHEILE.

FONN—" 'S muldach mi fhìn 's mo Dhòmhnall."

A' BHEAN,

'S cìa mar dh-fhaodas mi bhi beo,
'S an duine breoite, truagh agam ?
Tha e-san sean, agus mis' òg,
'S ann aig' tha 'n corr mar chuala mi :
Ge do laidheas mi 'ga chòir
Tha bhial 'sa shroin air fuarachadh,
'S gur mor a chulaidh ghrain a phog,
Le fhiasaig mhoir 'g a suathadh rium.

AM FEAR.

O ! bhean, cha 'n 'eil do labhairt ceart,
Bha neart annam 'n uair fhuair thu mi ;
Dheanainn mire, mùirn, a's macnus,
A's ghleachdalnn ris na gruagaichean :

Sean-fhacal a dh-fhaodar innse,
Sgeula fìor a chualas e :—
" Cha lean an sionnach air a shior-ruith,
'S bithidh e sgìth dheth uair-eigin."

A' BHEAN.

'S dona ghreis a mhair thu dhomhsa,
A's cha b'e 'm pòsadh buadhail e ;
Dh-fhalbh do mhisneach, 's do threbìr
An uair bu choir dhut cruadhachadh ;
Ged bhiodh tu da-fhichead 's corr,
Cha b' aois ro mhor an tuairmeachd sin ;
'S gur lionmhor fear nach 'eil cho òg riut,
Chuireas pòr mar thuathanach.

AM FEAR.

Dheanainn cliathadh, 's chuirinn crann,
Na' faighinn earlaid luathaireach,
Agus cuideachadh ri bantraich,
'S gheibhinn taing, a's tuarasdál ;
Ge do chaidh mi nis a prìs,
Bho 'n tha mi tinn air uaireanan ;
Gu 'n robh mi roimhe 'm sgalaig ghrinn,
'S bu mhor 'ga d' dhì na fhuair thu dhìom.

A' BHEAN.

'S a h-uile càs an robh thu riamh,
Bha teang' ad bhial a dh'fhuasgladh ort ;
Na'n creideadh gach neach do sgiala,
Dhianadh tu na cruachan domh :
Ach caite faca siun do ghnìomh,
Nam fiachta ris an rùmhar thu ?
Bha do dhruim 's do lamb cho dìomhainn,
Sid an giomh a fhuair mi dhut.

AM FEAR.

O ! bhean, nach labhair thu gu foil,
Cha 'n 'eil do chomhradh buannachdach :
'S ma thionndas tu rium a choir,
Bheir mise 'n corr nach fhuair thu dhut ;
Glacaidh mi sùiste 'ann am dhòrn,
'S air ùrlar combnard buailidh mi,
Bho airde na sparra nuas gu làr,
'S cha 'n fhag mi grainn air sguab agad.

BHEAN.

'S na 'n togadh tu ort a chroit sin,
Choisneadh tu do dhuais orm :
Cha chluinnte gu bràch mis' 'g osnaich,
A's nochdainnse mo shuairceas dhut ;
Chuirinn an t-im ann sa bhrochan,
A's chumainn deoch an uachdar riut ;
'S chaidleamaid gu sàmhach socrach
'S cha bhiodh sprochd no gruaim orm.

AM FEAR.

Shaoil mi bhean gu 'n robh thu bàindì,
 A's nach biodh sannt gu tuasaid ort :
 Ge do dh-fhàsainnse cho fann,
 'S nach tionndainn air do chluasaig riut ;
 Air leam fein nach eil thu 'n call,
 'S do chlann a chuir ri ghuailibh dhut ;
 'S ma dh-fhas thu guinideach nad' cheann,
 Gur bean tha 'n geall air buaireadh thu.

A' BHEAN.

'S ann agam-sa bba'n ceannfath,
 Nuair chithinn càch a' cluainis riut ;
 Chaidh a' chuis bho fhaladhà,
 A's cha robh stà bhi d' bhuachailleachd ;
 Ged a's mis' a' ghlac do lamh,
 Bha te no dha nach b' fhuathach leat :
 'S ma chosg thu riutha do liunn-tàth,
 Tha nis' am fàilt air fuarachadh.

AM FEAR.

Dh-aithnich thusa sin ort fein,
 A bheudag dh-fhas thu suarach orm :
 Chaill thu nise dhiom do spéis,
 'S cha 'n 'eil do reite buan agam :
 Bho 'n a chaidh mise nis' bho fheum,
 'S e 'n t-eud a rinn do bhualadh-sa :
 'S moch 'sa mhadainn chuir thu 'n ceill domh,
 Nach robh m' eiridh suas agam.

A' BHEAN.

Is fhir gun stà, gun rath, gun dìreadh,
 Na bi 'g innse tuaileas orm :
 Nam bidh tusa dhomhsa dìleas,
 Cha robh m' imtinn bruaillanach :
 Ach 's e bu mhiann leat a bhi brìodal,
 Ris gach ribhinn chuaileanaich :
 'S iomadh ribein agus cìr,
 A's deise chinu a fhuair iad bhuait'.

AM FEAR.

Ach c'aite 'n fhuair thu mi 'sa sgàth,
 Na'm faca tu 'g an tuairgneadh mi,
 Cha robh mi m' mheirleach cho math,
 'S nach glaca' tu mi uair-eigin :
 'S ma fhuair thu taisgeuladh no brath,
 'S e 's fhasa chuir a suas orm,
 S na càraich air a mblùin do chas,
 Ach leig a mach na chuala tu.

A' BHEAN.

'S ma chuireas tu mi gu m' dhùbhlann,
 Bithidh a chuis na 's cruaidhe dhut :
 Gheibh a' ministear an t-umhladh,
 A's theid an lùreach shuaicheant ort;

Linnseach, mhaslach air a dùbladh,
 Leis gach dùnadh tuaisgearra :
 'S ge do bhithinn's air do chul-thaobh,
 Air son crùn cha 'n fhuasglainn i.

AM FEAR.

Ach gus an càirear mi 's an ùir,
 Cha 'n fhaic do shuil mu m' ghuaillan i,
 'S ma thig do naidheachd os ceann bùird,
 Cha chliù dhut a bhi luaidh sin rium ;
 A's ge do lasadh t-fhearg le diumb,
 Cho ghrad ri fudar buaireasach,
 Cha chomhdaichear leat orm-sa chùis,
 Nach iunnsaich mi le h-uaibhreachas.

A' BHEAN.

'S cha mhor nach coma leam co dhùid,
 Cha robh do thùrn ach suarach leam :
 'S an a'r a b' fhearr a bha do shùgradh,
 Chunntainnse na h-uairannan ;
 Chaidleadh tu cho trom gun dùsgadh.
 Air mo chul le smuaisirein :
 'S ge do bhiodh mo thaigh 'ga ràsgadh,
 Cha robh curam gluasaid ort.

AM FEAR.

'S bheirinn comhairle gu h-eolach,
 Air gill' og tha fuasgailteach ;
 E bhi glie ri àm a phòsaidh,
 'S laidhe seolta suas rithe :
 'S gun droch cleachdadh thoirt 'g a dheoin,
 Do ghòraig nach biodh stuaim innte,
 'S gun fhios nan lagaicheadh a threoir,
 Nach ordaicheadh i bhuaithe e.

A' BHEAN.

Am fear nach dean a threabhadh tràth,
 'S a mhàirt ged bhiodh e fuar aige,
 S culaidh mhagaidh e chion stà,
 'S ri latha bhàth cha bhuaib e dias ;
 Bithidh an fearann aige fàs,
 Na stiallan bana, 's luachair air,
 A's e-san broinein! a' dol bàs,
 'S na saibhlean làn aig tuathanaich.

AM FEAR.

'S cha 'n fheud mo threabhadhhsa bhi mall,
 S do chall ri dheanadh suas agam ;
 Bheir mi oigeich as a' ghleann,
 'S theid cuing gu teann mu 'n guailleannsa :
 A' Dun-éideann gheibh mi crann,
 'S e fasan gallda 's usaile leinn ;
 Coltair, stailinn, soc, a's bann,
 'S gach ball bhos ann theid cruaidh orfa.

A' BHEAN.

Bi cho math 's do ghealladh dhomhsa,
 'S còrdaidh sinn gun duathalas :
 Bho 'n tha sinn cho fada comhla,
 'S am pòsadh mar chruaidh shnuim oirnn ;
 'S mor gur fearr leam an t-òl eolach,
 Na fogarach luasganach ;
 A's cuiridh sinn ar treis an ordugh,
 A's mar a 's coir dhuinn gluaisidh sinn.

AM FEAR.

Is thuirt an sean-fhear, 's cha b'i bhriag,
 Ge d' eireadh sian nan cuartagan :—
 " Nach robh soirbheas laidir dian,
 Gun fhiath bhi goirid uaithe sin ?"
 'S an cogadh bu chruaidh bh' ann riamh,
 Chaidh e rioch le rian air uair-eigin ;
 'S cuir thusa, bhean, ri d' theangaidh srian,
 'S bithidh sith 'ga dianamh suas againn.

BARD LOCH-NAN-EALA.

JAMES SHAW, or Bàrd Loch-nan-Eala, was a native of the island of Mull, where he was born about the year 1758. He latterly resided in the parish of Ardochattan, Argyleshire, where he was commonly called the Lochnell poet. Being partly supported by the late General Campbell and his lady; she, it is said, encouraged him to publish some of his works, for which purpose he went to Glasgow to get them printed. Whether he got a printer to undertake the work or failed in the attempt is not known; for, on his return home, he died suddenly on board a Steamboat on his passage to Oban: this happened about the year 1828. He lived in a state of idleness and dissipation; praising those who paid him well for it, and composing satires on those who refused him money or liquor. A few of his poems were printed in Turner's Collection, and many others are preserved in manuscript, but they are chiefly local satires of little merit. "B'ìdh Fonn oirre Daonna" is his chef d'œuvre and the only popular piece of all his compositions, except in his own country.

ORAN DO DH' FHIONNLA MARSANTA.

[Air son e chuir as a chéile seanna chuirn agus clachan iobairt, à bh'aig na Draoidhean bho shean.]

AIR Fonn.—"Alasdair á Gleanna-Garadh."

CHUNNA' mi brnadar air Fionnla,
'S chuir e iongnadh orm r'a fhaicinn,
'S ghabh mi iongandas ro mhor dheth,
Gu sòraicht o 'n bha mi 'm chadal;
Thuir an guth rium dol da ionnsaidh,
Dh' innse nach e cùis a b' fhasa,
Dol a rusgadh càrn nan Druidhneach,
Na 'n car a thoirt a muinntir Ghlascho.

Ach dh' fharraid mi co as a dh' fhalbh e?
'S fhreagair e le seanachas grad mi,

Thuir e gu 'n robh a chairdean dileas,
Eadar a Chill 's Allt-na-dacha;
Bha cuid air an Dun so shuas diu,
'S bha uair a bha iad na bu phailt' ann;
'S cha 'n eil mi buidheach a dh' Fhionnla,
Dhol ga 'n dùsgadh as an cadal.

'S chi thusa fhathasd le d' sl-uilean,
Ma bhios tu 's dùthaich ri fhaicinn,
Gu 'n téid an gnothach so dhioladh,
Cho chinnteach 'sa bha 'n crùn an Sasunn.

'S goilt e 'n steigh bh' ann an uachdar
Chladhaich e 'n uaigh fo na leacan ;
E gun fhios co dhiù bha innte,
Mac an rìgh na sliochd a bhaigeir.

'N saoil thu fhein nach robh e dàna,
Marsanta malleid no paca,
Dhol a rusgadh an àit-iobairt,
'S ioma linn a chuir e seachad ;
'N t-aite 'n robh cnaimhean an t-seann-duin,
'N tiolaiceadh ann o cheann fada ;
Mu 'n téid an gnothach gu crìch,
Gur duilghe dha na fiach a bhlastidh.

Ma dh' eireas mise 's mo luchd leamhuinn,
Gu 'm bi gnothach garbh a's dùthaich,
Theid Mac-'Ille-dhuibh a mbarbhadh,
'S cha dìon a chuid airgeid Fionnla,
Leagar an taigh air sa 'n sabhal,
Sgriosar an bathar 'sa bhùth air,
'S theid Gilleaspug ri posta,
Agus crochar mac a chùbair.

Eiridh an tubaist do 'n chiobair,
'S laidhe binn air Mac-na-Ceairde,
'S ma dh' òrdaicheas e gu h-òlc e,
'S gnothach neo-chiontach sud dâsan,
E na sheirbheiseach aig Fionnla,
Tuilleadh a null gu Feill-Màrtuinn,
'S ma chuireas e nall na leacan,
Ma bhios meachainn ann sann dâsan.

Bhi cuir fudair anns na creagan,
Chuireadh e eagal air bòcain,
Bhi ga 'n tolladh leis an tora,
'S bhi ga 'n sparradh leis na h-òrdan,
Daoine marbha bhì ga 'n gluasad,
'S gnothach uamhraidh gu leoir e,
'S na 'n leanainn e gu grunnad an t-seanchais,
B' ainmeil e na arm rìgh Deòrsa.

'S cha téid a chorp fhein gu dilinn,
Thiolaiceadh an aite gràsmhor,
'S ann théid a losgadh mar iobairt,
Air a dhiteadh leis na fàidhean,
Theid a luath a chuir le abhuinn,
'N aite nach fhaighear gu bràth i,
'S cha 'n faigh e ach rud a thoill e,
Chionn gu 'n d' rinn e gnothach graineil.

Ach dh' fhalbh an guth 's thug e chul rium,
Agus thionndaidh e gu h-ealamb,
Thuir e rium gu 'n d' rinn e dìochuimhn,
'S e ga inuse dhomh mur charaid,
Fios a thoirt dh' ionnsaidh Dhùghaill,
Gu 'n robh a ghual a's uird ro ealamb,
Dheanadh torachan do dh-Fhionnla.
Chuir fùdair an Dail-a-charra.

Smaointich mi so ann am inntinn,
Nach bithinn a dìteadh Dhùghaill,
Thuir mi ris gur duine grinn e,
Do dh' fhuil Rìghrean nan Stiùbhart,
Tha e fhein na dhuine toileil,
Dheanadh gnothach do dh' fhear dùthcha ;
'S on bha Fionnla na chabhaig,
Cha bu mhath leis bhì ga dhiultadh.

'Nuair a dhùisg mi ghabh mi eagal,
'S e na sheasamh air an ùrlar,
Dh' fheuch am faighinn reidh air falbh e,
Los nach coisninn na lorg diùmba ;
Tha Dùghall trom air an tombaca,
'S tha pailteas deth sin aig Fionnla ;
'S o 'n a labhair mi cho deas ris,
Ghabh e pairt de leith-sgeul Dhùghaill.

'S ann a tha 'n naidheachd so cinnteach,
Ged shaoileadh sibhse gur bàsd e,
Cha 'n innis mi a neach gu brath e,
Ach do chuideachd araid eolach ;
Cha robh a leithid riamh ri inuse,
Eadar an Sìthean 's Lag-Chòthain
Co dhiù th' ann breug no firinn,
Sin agaith mur dh' innseadh dhomhs e.

SEUMAS MAC-GHRIOGAIR.

THE REV. JAMES M'GREGOR, D.D., was born at a small farm-house near Comrie, Perthshire, in the year 1762. His parents were not affluent, but they were in circumstances which enabled them to give the benefits of such education as the country afforded, to their son. Young M'Gregor, nurtured amid the sublime and romantic scenery of Lochearn-side, had his mind early imbued with the feelings of poesy; but it does not appear that he produced any thing worthy of preservation until an advanced period of his existence. While yet a young man, he studied the Gaelic language with considerable assiduity and success, and could write it—a very rare attainment in his younger days.

Being of a sedate and serious turn of mind, he was early designed for the ministry; and after going through the various seminaries and halls of learning, he was licensed to preach the gospel when about twenty-one years of age. Mr M'Gregor was conscientiously a dissenter from the Church of Scotland. He belonged to the Anabaptist branch of the Secession-Church, and studied divinity under the tuition of the Rev. W. Moncrieff, of Alloa. Shortly after he was licensed to preach, some colonists in Nova Scotia sent an earnest entreaty to this country, for a person of acknowledged abilities and evangelical piety to preach the gospel to them. After due consideration had been given to this requisition, Mr M'Gregor was fixed upon as an individual well qualified to discharge the arduous duties of such a situation, both from his mental qualifications and robust physical constitution. He readily agreed to this proposal; and, although he had the prospects of an advantageous settlement in his native country he hesitated not to go to a strange land to proclaim the gospel of peace.

In Nova Scotia he entered on a field boundless in extent as in difficulties. The inhabitants were far apart; there were no roads in the country; and when we say that the sphere of his operations included the eastern part of Nova Scotia, and the adjacent islands of Cape Breton and Prince Edyard, the reader may form some idea of the Herculean task he had undertaken to discharge. He was, we believe, the first missionary to that country. While traversing from place to place, he encountered difficulties, perils, and hardships, which few men would have undergone, undaunted. The site of Picton contained only one or two houses—it was no easy matter to travel to the next hamlet through the density of woods and unbridged rivulets: marked trees, a pocket-compass, or an unintelligible and unintelligent Indian, were his only guides through the solitary and dreary wilderness—sleep was frequently a stranger to him for several nights,—a plank was his bed,—a potato his fare; yet the expatriated Highlanders around him were in need of the gospel; and that, to Mr M'Gregor, was enough.

Towards the close of this excellent man's life, he conceived the idea of clothing the doctrines of the gospel in versification, that he might unite the best and most wholesome instructions with the sweetest and most fascinating melodies. When entering upon the task, he wrote to a friend of his at Lochearn-side for a copy of Duncan M'Intyre's and M'Donald's Poems. His mind had been so occupied with the various studies necessary to the full and efficient discharge of his ministerial duties, that the airs, to which he wished to sing his contemplated hymns or songs, had escaped his memory. The desiderated volumes were sent; but, through the officiousness of some of his domestics, the fact of their being in the minister's possession became known, and a most unwarrantable, unjust and ungenerous construction was put upon the circumstance. How short-sighted, illiberal, and fanatical it was, to edge out insinuations against the genuineness of Mr M'Gregor's religious principles, simply because the productions of the two most brilliant stars of his native country were on the table of his study in a foreign land! How pitiful, that fanaticism which shrouds itself under the garb of piety—broad, expansive, benevolent piety! We blush for the moral perceptions and enlightenment of our expatriated countrymen, and notice these things simply in justice to departed worth.

Taking advantage of this state of public feeling, almost verging on what is understood in ecclesiastical language, as a schism, a stranger intruded himself about this period on his labours; and to the disgrace of many of M'Gregor's flock, they forsook the ministry of their long-tried friend, and followed the intrusionist. The desertion thus occasioned must no doubt have very much embittered his cup; but his expansive philosophy—his warm philanthropy—and above all, his genuine religious views, enabled him to bear it without a murmur. He proceeded cheerfully with his metrical effusions, until he composed as many as swelled into a respectable 18mo volume, which has now reached its third edition.

Mr M'Gregor's Poems are smooth in versification—pleasant in their garb and evangelical in their doctrines. They are almost all composed after the model of his countryman, Duncan M'Intyre, from whom he borrowed many of his ideas, using sometimes not only distichs and couplets, but entire stanzas with some slight alterations. We do not mean, however, to insinuate that our author trafficked wholesale in plagiarism, with the intention of “decking himself in another's feathers.” No! his poems are but parodies in many instances, and as such they are respectable and entitled to favourable consideration.

When M'Gregor's character and claims were notified to the Members of the University of Glasgow, the senate unanimously agreed to confer upon him the title of D.D., an honour which he amply merited by his services and attainments, and which, coming unsolicited from his native country, and from so respectable a literary quarter, must have been soothing to his feelings, and have gilded the horizon of the evening shades of his life.

In the spring of 1828, Dr M'Gregor was seized with a fit of apoplexy; and at Pictou, on the first of March, 1830, at the age of 68, he experienced a return which terminated in his death on the third day of that month. His funeral was attended by an immense assemblage of deploring friends, who showed their estimate of his character, worth and talents, by unfeigned expressions of regret.

AN SOISGEUL.

AIR FÒNN—"Coire-Cheathaich".

'S e 'n Soisgeul gràdhach thug Dia nan gràs duinn
A chum ar sàbhaladh dàn mo rùin :
Ach 's eòlas àrd e, air cùisibh àlunn,
Nach tuig an nàdur a tha gun iùil.
Gur mis' an truaghan 's n'asleòr man cuairt domh
A' tabhairt cluais da, mar fhuaim nach fiach ;
B' e 'n gnothach cruaidh e nach tuig an sluagh e,
An sgeul as uaisle a chualas riamh.

Tha clann nan daoine gu tur fo dhaorsa,
Aig dia an t-saoghail-s ag aoradh dhà :
Fò chois am miannan, a tha do-riarach ;
Gun fheart, gun iarraidh air Dia nan gràs :
A' dianamh tàir air gach ni is àill leis,
A' briseadh àintean gach là gun sgìos ;
E fad o'n smuaintibh, 's iad riuth gu luath uaith ;
Chum na truaighe ta buan gun chrìch.

Ge mòr an cùram th'aig Dia nan dùl diubh,
Cha tig iad dlù dha le ùrnaigh chaoin ;
Bu mhòr a' ghràin leo bhì uair 'na làthair,
An caidreamh blàth ris 'na àros naomh ;
Iad ruith na gaoithe, 's ag earbsa daonnan,
Ri sonas fhaotainn am faoinis bhreug ;
Gun fhios, gun aird ac' air doigh a's fearr dhai
Na greim an dràst air n' a's àill le 'n cré.

Tha 'm barail làidir gur muinntir shlàn iad,
'S nach 'eil ceann-fàth ac' air gràsan Dé :
Tha 'n Soisgeul faoin leo, seach gean an t-saoghail,
Tha 'n cridhe aotrom, gun ghaol do'n Léigh

Ach 's àit an sgeul e, air leigheas ceutach
Do dhuin' euslan, fo chreuchdaibh ciùirt ;
'S naigheachd phrìseil, bho Dhia na firinn
Do neach fo dhètheadh, 's e dìblidh, brùit.

Do neach fo smuairan, le Dia bhì 'n gruaim ris,
'S a lochdan uamhar 'g a chuartach' dlù ;
Gun fhios nach àite dha ifrinn chràiteach,
M'an tig am màireach, s' am bàs 'na shùil
Do neach a dh'fhoglum o'n Spiorad Naomha,
Gur sonas baoth bheir an saogh'l so uaith ;
Nach eil ann ach sgàil deth 'san àm tha làthair,
'S gu 'm bac am bàs e 's nach fàs e buan.

B'e sgeul an àigh e, air beatha 's slàinte,
O Ios' a bhàsaich 'na ghràdh do dhaoin.
'Si 'fhuil am plàsd anns am beil an tàbhachd,
'Nuair théid a chàradh gu bàigheil, caoin,
Ri cridhe leòinte, gun ghean, gun sòlas,
Ach dollich, brònach, gun seòl air sith ;
Le Spiorad usal nam feartha buadhar,
Nuair thig e nuas air le gluasad min.

Sud sgeul ro aoihbheach, air maoin' a's oighreachd,
Do dhuine daibhir, gun goinn do'n t-saogh'l ;
Air crùn, 's rìoghachd a chaoi nach crìochnaich
Gun dragh gun mhiòthlachd, ach sith, 's gaol.
Sud sgeul ro àraidh do dhuine tàireil,
Air urram àrd ann am Pàrras shuas ;
Le gràdh gun aimhleas, a measg nan ainghean ;
'S cha teirig cainnt dàibh, toirt taing do'n Uan.

Deaghseul air fuasgladh, do pheacach truaillidh
 O chionta duaichnidh, nach suail a mheud ;
 Tre 'n chumhachd bhrioghar a ta an lobaírt
 An t-Sagairt rioghail, ta siobhailt, seamh :
 'S air feartaibh grásmhor, ni cobhair tràth dha,
 'Nuair bhíos a nàmhaid gu làidir, gleusd,
 A' tarruinn teann air chum 'earbs a thionnda
 Tur bun osceann da, le ionnsuidh thréin.

Air gràs, a's tròcair, bheir neart, a's tròir dha,
 Re fad an ròid dh'ionnsuidh glòir an Uain ;
 'Sna neamhan àrd far am pailt an gràdh dhaibh
 'S cha teirig cail daibh gu bràth g' a luadh.
 'S e cliù an sgeòil ud gur firinn mhòr e,
 Gun fhacal mòr-uail, no sglèb gun bhri ;
 'S e Crìosd an éirig as buaine éifeachd,
 An lobaírt réitich, sàr stéigh na sìth.

Thug an t-Ard-rìgh aon mhac a ghràidh dhuinn,
 A ghabh ar nàdur, 's e bharr a rian ;
 'S an tug e 'n ùmhlachd, le deòin, 's le dùrachd,
 Thug còir as ùr dhuinn teachd dlù do Dhia :
 Sàr ùmhlachd chiatach do lagh na Trianaid,
 Leis an duin' is Dia ann bha riamh ri feum ;
 An coslas truaghain de dhùine truaillidh,
 Ach a b' fhearr, 's a b' uaisle na'n sluagh gu léir,

An caraid gaolach a choisinn saorsadh
 Do'n chinneadh dhaonna le caonnaig chruaidh ;
 A dh'fhuilig tamail o rug a mbath'r e
 Gu là a bhàis ann an àit an t-sluaigh.
 Nuair bu naoidhean òg e, rinn Herod fhògradh
 'S e dearc' an comhnuì air dèigh an t-sluaigh.
 Bha 'bheatha brònach, am fad 's bu bheò e,
 'S e cruaidh an tòir air gu bheò thoirt uaith.

Oir b' e bu ghnà dhaibh bhi deanamh tàir'
 Air Athair gràdhach, 's air àitean naomh :
 'S bhi deanamh dearmaid air slàint' an anma,
 Le cleachda garg, a's le h-ana-gnath baoh.
 Na sagairt uaibhreach, 's na h-ard dhaoin' uaisle
 'Nan naimhdean buan da, le fuath gun chrich :
 A' dianamh dìcheill, le h-ionadh innleachd,
 'Us mòran mì-ruin ga 'shìr chur sìos.

'Us air a lorg bha na diabhail bhorba,
 Fo phrionns' an dorchadais, colgail, cruaidh :
 Ach 'se bu chràitich an ceartas àrd bhi
 Cur claidhe 'n sàs ann, gun bhà, gun truas
 Rug mallachd Dhia air air son na fiachan,
 Bhuin 'Athair fial ris gu fiata garg ;
 Oir rinn e thréigsinn an àm na h-éigin,
 'Nuair chaidh a cheusadh le eucoir gharbh.

Ach 's gearr a' ehuairt a bha'm às an nachdar,
 Gu h-aighearr fhuair e a' bhuaidh gu slàn ;
 Oir rinn e éiridh 'n treas latha 'n dèigh sud,
 Gu subhach, treubhach, chum feum do chàch :

Do pheacaich dhùibhidh, a bha fo dhètheadh,
 Gu'n dianadh 'fhireantachd didean daibh ;
 O chiont an nàduir, 's o'n lochdaibh gràmeil.
 'S o chumhachd Shàtain bha ghnà ri foill.

Nis anns na h-àrdaibh, tha neart gu bràth aig
 A chum na's àill leis thoirt sàbhailt suas ;
 'Us chum a naimhdean a sgrìos gun taing dhaibh
 Droch dhaoin' a's aingle, luchdainneart chruai.
 Ach thar gach seòrsa na peacaich mhòra
 Le 'm fuathach eòlas air deòin an Triath :
 Nach creid an fhirinn, ged tha i cinnteach,
 Nach gluais gu dìreach, ach sìr dhol fiarr.

Ged bhiodh an crìosuidh 'n a laidh am prìosan,
 Gu dochrach, iotmhor, gun bhìadh, gun slaint,
 Nì'n soisgeul sìorruidh, tre bheannachd Iosa
 A chridhe tiorail, le fìor ghean gràidh.
 Ged dhùisg a nàmhaid gear leamhuin cràiteach
 Gun aon cheann-fàth air ach gràdh, a's sìth :
 Tha cridhe aoibhneach, tha ghnùis ro aoidheil ;
 Tha dàn 'us laoidh aig' gach oidhche gun dìth.

E cumail gleachdaidh an aghaidh peacaidh,
 'S a stiùireadh chleachdaidh, le beachd air Crìosd
 Tha gaol do'n reachd thar gach mì, 'us neach aig ;
 'S cha ghabh e tlachd ann an seachran fiarr.
 'Se Dia na tròcair a neart, 's a chòmhnadh,
 A bhios an còmhnuidh toirt seòlaidh dhà,
 Cha lag a dhòchas cha bheag a shùlas,
 'Tha aiteas mòr aig' nach eòl do chàch.

A Thighearn, Iosa, gabh truas de'n chrìosdachd,
 Tha 'n t-eòlas isal, 's gach crìoch mun cuairt ;
 Is bras a dh' eireas gach mearachd éitidh
 'S is beag an t-eud th' aig a chléir san uair'.
 Dean creideamh, 's eòlas, dean gaol na còrach,
 A's pailteas sùlais, a dhòrtadh nuas :
 Gu daoine a philltinn, o'n cleachdaibh millteach,
 'S gu naombachd inntinn bhi cinntinn suas.

A Dhè na sì-chaint, craobhsgeoil an fhìrinn,
 Measg sìogh nan tìrean, 's nan Innean cian :
 Mar dhaoin' air chall, ann an ceò nam beann iad,
 An oidhche teann orr, 's iad fann gun bhìadh.
 Thoir soisgeul glè ghan, thoir rathad réidh dhoibh,
 'Us cridhe gleusd a thoirt géill do 'n uan !
 Thoir sgeul do shlàinte, thoir fios doghràidhaibh,
 Cuir feart do ghràsan 'nan dàil le buaidh.

AN Gearran.

AIR Fonn—"Coire gòrm an fhàisach".

Is duilich leam mar tha mi
 A' siubhal le mo namhaid,
 Eas-umhal do na h-àintean,
 'S mo ghràdh dhaibh cho fann.
 "'S iomadh fear a bhàrr orm"
 Tha dol a réir a nàduir ;
 'S e 'n lagh tha fulang tàmailt,
 'Us tàire nach gann.
 Riamh o thuiteam Adhaimh,
 'Se 'm pecadh 'n ni a's fearr leinn,
 'S mì-chneasd a thug sinn gràdh dha.
 'Ga thàlath gacl am.
 Cha d'fhuair mi fad mo làithean,
 Dad buannachd, no dad stà dheth,
 Ach daonnau tarrainn saìs orm,
 'S 'g am chàradh am fang.
 'S e dl'fhàg gach ni a leugh mi,
 Gach searmoin riumh a dh' éisd mi,
 'S gach guth a labhair beul rium
 Gun fheum dhomh, gun stà.
 S e mhilleas gealladh Dhé orm,
 Nach carb mi ris ach eutrom,
 S nach càraich mi rium féin e,
 Gu h-éifeachdach, slàn.
 'S ann chuir e mi an déis-laimh,
 'G am fhàgail ro mhì ghleusda,
 Gu h-obair uasal, euchdach,
 'S gu treubhantas ard :
 Gu gleachdadh ris an eucoir
 A bhios a'm' chridhe 'g éiridh,
 No chithear ann am bheusaibh,
 Gu h-éitich, 's gu grànnd.

Nam bithinn tairis, dìleas,
 A leantuinn ris an fhìrinn,
 Bhiodh ise dhomh mar dhèidean
 Nach dìobradh gu bràth.
 Ged chuireadh daoine sìos mi
 Le casaidean, 's le dìteadh,
 Gu'n togadh ise ris mi,
 'S dhìrinn an aird.
 Cha toilleadh i gu dilinn
 Dad coire dhomh no mì-thlachd,
 Tha ceangal ris an t-sìth aic,
 'S is dìreach a gnà :
 Ach 's mòr an call, 's an dith dhomh,
 Gu'm beil i tric air di-chuimhn,
 'S nach' eil an creideamh cinnteach
 A'm' inntinn a tàmh.

Bha amaideachd a's gòraich
 A leantuinn rium o m' òige,
 'S b' annsa leam gu mòr iad
 Na 'n t-eòlas a's fearr.
 Nan deanainn leth na còrach
 Cha chreidinn nach bu leòir e,
 S nach tearnadh sud fa-dheòidh mi,
 Gun dòigh air tigh'n' gearr.
 Ge mòr an t-aobhar sòlais
 Bhi 'n comunn Rìgh na glòire,
 'S iad b' annsa leam na h-òrain,
 'S bhi 'g òl nan deoch-slàint.
 Bu dallag mi nach sòradh,
 Bhi cluich air bruaich na dòrainn,
 An Diabhol ga mo threòrach
 Gu seòlta air laimh.

Gur mòr a' chreach, 's an diùbhail,
 Mo chridhe bhi gun dùrachd,
 A gabhail Dé nan dùl domh,
 Mar Ughdar mo shlàint :
 'S e tairgse dhomh 'na chùmhnannt,
 A neart a bhi mar chùl domh,
 'S a ghliocas ard gu m' stiùireadh,
 Le cùram, 's le gràdh.
 Tha druidheachd air mo shùilean,
 'Se 'n rud a ni mo chiùrradh,
 D' an ruith mo mhianu gu siùbhlach,
 'S mi lùbadh 'na dhàil.
 Mo shonas air mo chùl-thaobh,
 Mar anabas nach fiù leam ;
 'S m' anam an droch rùn da,
 'Ga dhiùltadh le tàir.

'S mi 'n duin' as truaigh' san t-saoghal,
 Fo chis aig m' easgar daobhaidh,
 Làn fuath do 'n bheath' a's caoine,
 'S an gaol air a' bhàs.
 Cò sheallas rium a'm' dhaorsa ?
 Cò thionndas mi bho chlaonadh ?
 Cha'n-aingil, no clann-daoine,
 Och ! b' fhaoin iad sa' chàs.
 Ach taing do'n Athair naomha,
 A dh'ullaich dhomh an t-saorsa,
 Làn tearnadh o gach baoghal,
 Trid Aon-ghiu a ghràidh.
 A Dhe ta iochdmhor, maoineach,
 Cia fhad a bhios mi caoineadh !
 O greas le d' chobhair chaomh,
 Agus saor mi gun dàil !

Ach cha téid mi le gruaim 'na còir:
Oir bha Iosa mo rùin,

'S rinu e'n leabaidh ud cùbhraidh dhòmhs',

Thug e'n gath as a' bhàs,
Rinn e caraid de m' nàmh,
A shaoil mo chumail gu bràth fo leòn:
'Teachdair m' Athar e nis,
Dh'ionnsuidh m'anma le fios,
E dhol dhachaigh a chlisg chum glòir.

On a dh'éirich e ris
Sàr Cheann-fheadhna mo shìth,
Gun e dh'fhuireach fad shìos fo'n fhòd:
'Us gu 'n deachaidh e suas,

Dream chaidh losgadh 'nan luath 's nan ceò,

'S iomadh colainn bhios ann,
Tha fad air asdar o 'ceann
'S thig iad cuideachd 'sau àm, gu foill.
Thig iad uile 'nan taom.

EOBHON MAC-LACHUINN.

EWEN MACLACHLAN was born at Torracalltuinn, on the farm of Coiruanan, in Lochaber, in the year 1775. Coiruanan was possessed by a family of the name of Mac-lachlan for many generations. The forefathers of E. Mac-lachlan came originally from Morven, first to Ardgour and thence to Lochaber, and appear to have been in general, men possessed of superior natural gifts. His great grandfather was Dòmhnall-Bàn-Bàrd contemporary with Sir Ewen Cameron of Lochiel. That bard's compositions are justly admired, particularly his elegy on occasion of the death of that chief. The mother of E. Mac-lachlan was a Mackenzie, descended from a branch of that clan, which had settled in Lochaber many generations back. His father, Dòmhnall Mòr, a man of venerable presence and patriarchal bearing, was reckoned one of the most elegant speakers of the Gaëlic language in his day. He was distinguished by the extent and diversity of his traditionary and legendary lore, as well as by the appropriate beauty and purity of the language, in which he told his tale, or conveyed his sentiments to the admiring listeners, who delighted to resort to his humble dwelling.

Though the father was himself illiterate, he was keenly alive to the benefits of education. Besides the subject of our memoir, he had several sons and daughters. Two of the former were afterwards respectable planters in the Island of Jamaica. In the village of Fort-William, where his father now resided, the parochial school of Killmalie had been situated since the middle of last century, and taught by superior teachers. At this school the brothers of Ewen Mac-lachlan, as well as himself, got the rudiments of their education, which, by their natural abilities and laudable ambition, all of them afterwards extended. Ewen was the youngest son of the family, except one. While he excelled his very clever brothers in mental abilities, he was their inferior in bodily strength; the physical weakness of limb which disqualified him, in some measure, for the playful exercises of his fellow-scholars, tended, among other causes, to direct his views to objects and pursuits of a more exalted character.

His first teacher was the Rev. John Gordon, afterwards minister of Alvie; after him, Dr William Singers of Kirkpatrick-Juxta. He did not remain long under the tuition of these gentlemen, and on account of his father's poverty, was but very indifferently supplied with books. His progress, notwithstanding, was great for his years; it indeed excelled that of all others in the school, and in general, his class-fellows were glad to grant him the perusal of their books, in consideration of his very efficient help to them in learning their lessons.

Mr Maclachlan, at an early age, went out as tutor into the family of Mr Cameron of Camisky, in the parish of Killmonivaig; there his desire for classical studies received a considerable impulse from his intercourse with the father of his host, Cameron of Liandally, then an old gentleman confined to bed. Liandally, like many of the gentlemen of his day in Lochaber, had been well instructed in the knowledge of the Latin tongue, and much exercised in the colloquial use of that ancient language in the parochial school of Killmalie, taught by a Mr Mac Bean. Mr Maclachlan no doubt derived much benefit from his "colloquies" with the venerable classic, who, from his being bed-ridden, also derived much amusement, as well as pleasure, from his communings with his young companion.

Mr Maclachlan's next engagement as tutor was, when about fifteen years of age, in the family of Mr Cameron of Clunes. His pupils were Captain Allan Cameron, now of Clunes, and his brother General P. Cameron, H.E.I.C.S. Here Mr Maclachlan made great progress in the study of the Greek and Latin languages. It is said, that he even travelled on the vacant Saturdays, to Fort-William, (whither his parents had removed,) in order to get from his former teacher, an outline of his prospective studies for the subsequent week. Thus he soon became able to translate, with fluency, the Scriptures of the New Testament from the original Greek into his mother-tongue, Gaëlic; and frequently did he astonish, as well as instruct and delight, the unsophisticated rustics of the place, by this singular display of erudition.

After the lapse of two years, he engaged as tutor in the family of Mr Mac Millan of Glenpëan, a very remote and romantic situation at the west end of Loch-aircaig. In this family, he resided for two years, still devoting his spare hours to the prosecution of his classical, and other studies. So great indeed was his ardour in this respect, that his worthy hostess often deemed it necessary, to insist on his relaxing his application to his books, in order to take healthful exercise in the open air. On such occasions, his favourite walk was along the banks of the "slow-rolling Peän," so sweetly celebrated in his own ode to that romantic stream, and on whose green borders were composed many of his finest juvenile strains. At this time also, our young bard began to show a penchant for instrumental music. He constructed a rude violin, on which he took lessons from an individual, by profession a piper, who lived in the neighbouring district or "country" of Mòror, and came occasionally to Glenpëan. This rustic instrument possessed but few, if any, of the qualities of a Cremona. An individual, who lived in the family at this period, describes it as being no bigger than a ladle—"Cha bu mho i dhuibh na 'n liadh," and he himself in the ode to Peän calls it "fidheall na ràcail," or "dissonant lyre." Afterwards, however, our poet became a tolerable performer on the violin, as well as some other musical instruments.

After residing two years in Glenpëan, he returned to Clunes, and resumed his former office there. Here he remained for six years. In 1795, he fondly cherished the hope of being enabled to enter College, could he be so lucky as procure funds for that purpose. With the view of obtaining aid from certain wealthy namesakes of his, he and his father paid a visit to those gentlemen, and to some humbler persons, relations of his mother. The latter, "were willing to contribute something;" but the former met his suit with a discouraging refusal, telling his father, that "he meant to ruin his son by putting such idle notions into his head, and that he ought rather to go home, and forthwith bind the lad as apprentice to his own trade,—that of a weaver." With heavy hearts and weary limbs, they returned home. After anxious and earnest deliberation on this important point, by the poet and his parents around their humble ingle, the idea of going to college was, for a time, abandoned; and the young man resolved to return next day, to the family of Clunes, where he was assured that he should be received with open arms. He accordingly set out for that place; but as he approached it, his earthly career was very nearly terminated. In those days, there was no bridge over the river Arkaig. He found the stream greatly swoln, and hazardous to ford. Night, however, was approaching, and therefore he ventured out. He had not proceeded far in the rugged channel, when he was carried off his feet, and swept away by the rapid current; he now thought with himself that his golden dreams of literary and philosophic distinction were at an end: he committed himself, however, to the care of him who hath said, "when thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers they shall not overflow thee." On this he was providentially thrown on a stone, a part of which was still above the waters. After resting here a brief space, he made one desperate effort to reach the wished-for bank, and was successful. He there poured out a prayer of gratitude to the Most High for his signal deliverance from so great a danger. Forthwith Mr Mac-lachlan resumed his labours at Clunes; at the same time prosecuting his classical studies with unremitting ardour, as his time permitted. Here he composed several pieces of justly admired Gaëlic poetry; several of these and of his former compositions were published about 1798, in a volume printed in Edinburgh, for Allan M'Dougall, alias "Dall," musician, then at Inverlochy, afterwards family-bard to the late Glengarry. Among these were "Dàin nan Aimsirean," a translation of Pope's Messiah, "Dàn mu Chonaltradh," &c., and a translation of part of Homer's Iliad into Gaëlic heroic verse. During the currency of the year 1796, our poet was introduced by Dr Ross of Killmonivaig to the late Glengarry; and that Chief, ever after, continued his warm friend. He yielded him the pecuniary aid which he had in vain solicited from other sources. This kindly aid, together with our poet's own little savings out of his salaries, put him in circumstances to proceed to the University, whither he was accompanied by his anxious and affectionate father.* Arrived at Aberdeen, he determined to enter the lists as a competitor for a bursary at King's College. Here, for the first time, he found himself engaged with entire strangers in the arena of literary strife. The various pieces of trial being duly executed and given in, the hour for announcing the fate of the champions approached; the anxious expectants were assembled in the lobby of the great College-Hall, where the Professors were still engaged in earnest judicial deliberation. Meantime the rustic dress of the young Highlander, his diffident manner, and rather awkward appearance, drew upon him the ungenerous gibes and unmerited contempt of several young coxcombs, his rivals. It was sneeringly recommended to him to make a speedy retreat to the wilds of Lochaber, while he was comforted with the assurance that he had not the slightest chance of success. Enduring all this banter, with meek, but firm forbearance, he merely advised his assailants not to prejudge his case. The door of the hall was at length opened, the names of the successful competitors were announced, and the officer first called "EWEN MACLACHLAN," as being the best scholar, and chief bursar.

* It is said that he travelled to Aberdeen, dressed in the mountain garb.

From that moment, he gained and retained the respect and warm regard of his fellow-students. He entered on his studies in Aberdeen with his wonted earnestness and diligence, and greatly distinguished himself in his classes. At the end of the Session, he resumed the charge of his pupils at Clunes; this he continued to do, during the recess annually, whilst he continued in the gown classes. At the end of that period, having obtained the degree of A. M., he entered the Divinity-Hall. Through the good offices of the Rev. Dr Ross, our student was presented to a Royal bursary in the gift of the Barons of Exchequer; and about the same time (anno 1800), he was appointed assistant to Mr Gray as librarian of King's College, and teacher of the Grammar School of Old Aberdeen. From the date of these appointments, he took up his permanent residence in that town, of which, at a subsequent period, he was made a free burgher. He continued to attend the Divinity-Hall for eight sessions, and in the enjoyment of the Royal bursary above mentioned. He was, during the period last mentioned, custodian of the library attached to the Divinity-Hall of Marischal College. From this date, the life of our theologian was indeed a life of incessant literary toil and scholastic labour. In addition to the duties of the offices to which he had been recently appointed, he devoted several hours every day to private teaching, in order to eke out the limited income derived from these offices. Many gentlemen, especially from the Highlands, sent to him their sons to be under his effective and immediate superintendence. Even in these circumstances, as well as through life, he displayed great liberality and affection towards his aged parents and his other near relations, by often relieving their wants out of his hard earnings.

After completing his attendance at the "Hall," and delivering his trial-pieces with éclat, he found the bent of his mind, as well as his ambition, directed to a "Chair," in one of the Universities, rather than to the Pulpit. He was encouraged in his aspiration after this object, by several friends, but particularly by Professor James Beattie of Marischal College. The Professor's death, however, in 1810, was a heavy blow to Mr Maclachlan's hopes. A strong mutual friendship had existed between them, amounting to affection. On the melancholy occasion of his friend's death, Mr Maclachlan composed an elegy in the Gaëlic tongue, which for beauty of language, sincerity of sorrow, and unrivalled elegance of composition, can bear comparison with any thing of the kind ever presented to the world. This was not the only composition in which our poet's grateful remembrance of Professor Beattie's friendship was commemorated. In his "Metrical Effusions," (Aberdeen, 1816,) is printed an elegant Latin ode addressed to that accomplished scholar, during his life, and an English ode, entitled "A dream," being an apotheosis on that patron of neglected merit. Some years after his settlement in Aberdeen, Mr Maclachlan turned his attention to Oriental literature, as well as to that of the languages of modern Europe ; and his acquirements in these he made subservient to the critical culture of his mother-tongue. About the same time he undertook the arduous task of translating the Iliad of Homer into Gaëlic heroic verse. Of this immortal work, he finished nearly seven books, which still remain in MS. Besides this, he began to compile materials for a Dictionary of the Gaëlic language spoken in Scotland, and that, (as he did every thing else) from his mere regard and affection for every thing tending to promote the honour or improvement of his native land. What was then called "the Highland Society of Scotland," (having had reference to the mental culture of their Caledonian countrymen, instead of as now, unfortunately, to the physical development of the points of the inferior animals) had soon after entertained the project of preparing and publishing a Dictionary of that ancient language ; and having ascertained the eminent qualifications of Mr Maclachlan, and his progress in compiling the said work, they conjoined him with the late Dr Macleod of Dundonald, in carrying on the national Dictionary, compiled under their patronage. The department assigned to Mr Maclachlan was the Gaëlic-English, and so important and difficult a task could not have been committed to better hands. In the preface to the Dictionary published by Drs Macleod and Dewar, it is well remarked,—“ Mr MacLachlan of Aberdeen especially brought to the undertaking great talents, profound learning, habits of industry which were almost superhuman, an intimate acquaintance with the Gaëlic language, and devoted attachment to the elucidation of its principles.”

The pages of Mr Maclachlan's MS. of this great national work were enriched with innumerable vocables and phrases kindred to Gaëlic, derived not only from the cognate dialects of the Keltic, but also from the Greek and Latin, as well as from the Hebrew, Arabic, Chaldaic, Persic, and other Eastern languages.

In the winter of 1821 and 1822, he was engaged in transcribing this work for the press, and he expected to have it completed by the following July ; but alas ! his valuable life was not prolonged to see his hopes realized.

Let us now briefly revert to events somewhat prior in our poet's life. In the Metrical Effusions formerly mentioned, there is printed an ode in the Greek language, "on the Generation of Light," which had the honour of gaining the prize given by Dr Buchanan of Bengal to King's College for the best poetical ode upon the above subject. About this period (1816), he, at the request of his friend Lord Bannatyne M'Leod, deciphèred several old Gaelic MSS., and transcribed them into the ordinary character. A difficult and laborious task. In 1819, Mr Gray died, and Mr MacLachlan was then appointed Head-Master of the Grammar School of Old Aberdeen, and also principal Session-Clerk and Treasurer of the parish of Old Machar. These promotions increased his income, but greatly added to his labour. He was likewise secretary to the Highland Society of Aberdeen ; and in this character, used to wear the full garb of his country when officially attending the meetings of the Society, and on other particular occasions. In 1820, the office of teacher of the classical department of the Inverness Academy became vacant. Many friends and admirers of Mr Maclachlan's great talents made strenuous exertions to procure his appointment to that situation. At the head of these friends was his firm supporter and original patron, Glengarry. Unhappily, the proceedings on that occasion, instead of being conducted with a single regard to public utility, and the rewarding of merit, were mixed up with local politics and causeless prejudices. The result was, that after an unprecedentedly keen canvass, and the exercise of every available influence on both sides, Mr Maclachlan was excluded by the mere numerical force of the opposing party. It is plain from the very handsome document obtained from the Professors of Humanity and Greek at St Andrews, upon the occasion of Mr Maclachlan's being on a remit, examined by them, that want of deep scholarship, or talent as a successful teacher, was not the cause of his exclusion from a situation which he would have adorned.

Gifted with exquisite sensibility, he deeply felt the unworthy treatment thus experienced at the hands of his Norland countrymen; and he frequently expressed himself to the effect, that he was resolved never again to expose his peace of mind to the machinations of "ambidexter politicians."

Some short time after this period, his health became affected. His constitution began to yield under his incessant toils. He proceeded, however, to Ayrshire, to visit his colleague, Dr Macleod. There his health rallied considerably; and he continued in the enjoyment of much of that blessing, till the beginning of 1822; when again his health was most seriously assailed. He lingered till the 29th day of March, when this amiable man, and distinguished scholar, departed this life at the age of 47 years. It might be said that he died of a gradual decay and debility, induced by professional over-exertion and study. His locks had become, years before his death, silver-grey. In him, unquestionably, died the first Celtic scholar of his day. His premature death caused much regret in the public mind, particularly at Aberdeen, and throughout the Highlands; and deep sorrow among his numerous friends.

As a general scholar, possessed of varied learning and fine genius, Mr Maclachlan stood very high. The department of philology, however, was his forte, and favourite pursuit. In that respect, it is believed, he had few superiors. He was "eximius apud Scotos philologus." His Greek and Latin odes have met with the highest approbation from the best critics. The same may be predicated of his Gaëlic poems. His Gaëlic version of the first seven books of the Iliad stands second to the unrivalled original alone. His MS. of the national Gaëlic-English Dictionary (if preserved) affords ample proof of his unwearied diligence and labour, and of his pre-eminent philological and antiquarian acquirements; notwithstanding it did not receive the final polish from his master-hand. With the true spirit of genius, his mind descended, with grateful elasticity, from those abstruse subjects to the lighter amusements of poetry and music; cheerful, and often playful conversation.

As a classical teacher, Mr Maclachlan's success is sufficiently evinced by the circumstance, that his pupils annually carried off the largest proportion of the bursaries competed for at the University. His excellencies as a scholar were equalled by his virtues as a man and a Christian. His piety was unfeigned, deep, and, in some respects enthusiastic. He was the very soul of honour. None could go before him in moral purity, worth and integrity. His manners, withal, displayed the most engaging simplicity. In life, he secured the love and respect of all who knew him ; and in death, his memory is by them held in tender remembrance.

Eminently calculated to advance the literature and language of his native land, it is deeply to be regretted that he had not been placed through the munificence of individuals, or the public patriotism of his countrymen, in a situation of ease and comfort, such as a Professorship of Keltic in one of our Universities. There he could have effectually promoted the objects he so fondly cherished : the temperament of his modest nature required the supporting arm of a patron, as the limber vine requires the aid of the oak. But his was the too frequent lot of kindred spirits, to experience the heart-sickening of "hope deferred," and to be allowed to droop and die, the victims of ill-requited toil.

Mr Maclachlan possessed the friendship, and was the correspondent of several persons of distinction—among these might be enumerated, besides the late Glengarry, his Grace Alexander Duke of Gordon, Sir John Sinclair, Dr Gregory, and Lord Bannatyne Macleod. Much of their correspondence, (if collated) would be found very interesting.

In conformity with the prevailing feature of his character, this "true Highlander," on his death-bed directed his body to be laid with the ashes of his fathers at the foot of his native mountains; "et dulces moriens reminiscitur Argos." This dying request was religiously complied with. At Aberdeen, every mark of respect was paid to his memory. With all the solemnities usually observed at the obsequies of a Professor of the University, his body was removed from his house to the ancient chapel of King's College, his Alma Mater, and laid in the tomb of Bishop Elfington, the founder of this venerable seminary. Next morning, a great concourse of the most respectable persons in and around Aberdeen, including the Professors of both Universities, the Magistrates of the city and the Highland Society of Aberdeen chapterly, met in the College Hall, to pay their last respects to the remains of departed worth, and thence accompanied the hearse, bearing those remains, some distance out of town, and there bade a long and last adieu. Similar indications of respect and sorrow were evinced in all the towns through which the mournful procession passed. Glengarry, accompanied by a large number of his clansmen dressed in their native garb, paid a tribute of respect to his departed protégé, by meeting and escorting his remains, while passing through that chief's country. His Lochaber countrymen were not behind in exhibiting every proper feeling towards the memory of him whom they universally esteemed an honour to belong to their country. All classes of them came out to meet the hearse ; so that on entering his native village of Fort-William, the crowd was so dense, that the procession advanced with difficulty. Next day, being the 15th of April, the mortal remains of Ewen Maclachlan, preceded by the "wild wail" of the piobrachd, and accompanied by a larger assemblage than that of the preceding day, were conducted to their last resting-place, and laid with those of his fathers, at Killevaodain in Ardgour. There, "near the noise of the sounding dirge," sleeps "the waster of the midnight oil," without "one gray stone" to mark his grave !

 Bu bhinn a thogail na téis thu,
 'Sa chruit fhonnoir ga gléusadh gu ceòl.

'N uair dh' éireadh còisridh bu choinnealt,
 A dhamhs' gu lùghor ri pronnadh nam pòng ;
 Gum b' éibhinn crì do mhuà-comuinn,
 Do chròilein maoth, 's iad gu tomanach, donn ;
 A ghearradh leum air bhòrd loma,
 Dol seach a chéile mar ghoireadh am fonn,
 Ach dh' fhalbh sid uile mar bhruadar,
 "No bristeadh builgein air uachdar nan tonn."

A rìgh ! gur cianail mo smaointean,
 Ri linn do t-àrais bhì faotrach gun mhùirn !
 Sguir a chuilm 's an ceol-gàire,
 Chaidh meoghail ghreadhnach a's màran o'r cùl :
 Chinn an talla fuar fàisail ;
 'S è chuir mullach na fardoich 'na smùr
 Ceann na didinn, 's na riaghailt,
 A bhì sa' chadal throm shiorruidh nach dùisg !

Do bhantrach bhochd mar ian tiamhaidh,
 Ri truagh thùrsa, 'sa sgiathan mu h-àl ;
 A neadan creachta, 's i dòineach,
 Mu gaol a sholair an lòn daibh gach tràth :
 O'n dh'imich Fir-eun na h-ealtainn,
 Tha'n t-searbh-dhìle 'tighinn thart as gach àird !
 A Rìgh nan aingeal ! bì d' dhìon daibh,
 'S tionndaidh ascaoin na sine gu tlàths.

'S ioma sùil ata silteach,
 A thaobh ùigh nam fear glic gun bhì buan :
 Tha mìltean ùrnuigh ga d' leantainn,
 Le mìltean dùrachd, a's beannachd gu t-uagh ;
 A liuthad diùlannach ainmis,
 A dh' àrdaich t-ionnsachadh ainneamh gu uail ;
 'S gach là bhios-càirdeas air faoineachd,
 A bheattie chliditich ! bi'dh cuimh' air do luach.

Rinn t-éug sinn uile gun sòlas,
 Thateach nan inleachd, 'san òigridh fo phràmh ;
 Chaidh Albainn buileach fo èislean,
 Sgur na Ceòraidhean Grèugach de'n dàn :

Thainig dall-bhrat na h-òidhch' oirn,
 O'n chaidh lochrann na soillse na smàl :
 B' e sid an crith-reothadh còitein
 A mhill am fochann bu cheutaiche bàrr !

Bu tu craobh-abhull a ghàraidh,
 A chaoidh cha chinnich ni's àillidh fo'n ghrèin !
 Dealt an t-sàmhruidh mu blàthaibh,
 Lùisreadh dhuilleag air chràcaibh, a geug
 Ach thilg dubh-dhoirionn a gheamhraidh,
 A bheithir theinntidh le srann as an spur ;
 Thuit an gallan ùr, rìmbeach,
 'S uile mhaise ghrad-chrìon air an fheur !

A Thì tha stiùireadh na cruinne !
 'Stuleig d'ar n-ionnsuidh a bhuille bha cruaidh !
 Sinne cnaill an t-sàr ulaidh,
 Neònad prèisil nan iomadaidh buaidh !—
 Dh' fhalbh a chombaids, 's na siùil oirn,
 Chaidh an gaisreadh 's an fhiùbhai 'n am bruan,
 Gach creag 'na cunnart do'n fhiùraich,
 O laidh duibhr' air rèull-iùil an taobh-Tuath.

Och ! nan och, mar a ta mi !
 Mo chridhe 'n impis bhì sgàinte le bròn !
 Tha 'n caraid-cùirt' an dèigh m' fhàgail,
 A sheasadh dùrachdach dan' air mo chòir :
 Bi'dh sid am chliabh 'na bheum cnàmhain,
 Gus an uair anns an tàr mì fe'n fhòd ;
 Ach 's glic an t-Aon a thug cis dhinn,
 'S da òrdugh naomh bith'mid strìochdta gach lò.

* The chorus and first stanza of this song are not Mac-lachlan's. They were composed by Mrs M'Kenzie of Balone, at a time when, by infirmity, she was unable to attend the administration of the Lord's Supper in Strathmore of Lochbroom,—and ran word for word the same except the last two lines of the verse which are slightly altered. Our talented author got them and the air from some of the north country students in Aberdeen. All the other stanzas, however, are original, and worthy of the poetic mind of Mac-lachlan. The following translation of it by the celebrated author, we subjoin for the gratification of the English reader:—

Not the swan on the lake, or the foam on the shore,
Can compare with the charms of the maid I adore:
Not so white is the new milk that flows o'er the pail,
Or the snow that is show'rd from the boughs of the vale.

As the cloud's yellow wreath on the mountain's high brow,
The locks of my fair one redundantly flow;
Her cheeks have the tint that the roses display,
When they glitter with dew on the morning of May.

As the planet of Venus that gleams o'er the grove,
Her blue-rolling eyes are the symbols of love:
Her pearl-circled bosom diffuses bright rays,
Like the moon, when the stars are bedimm'd with her blaze.

The mavis and lark, when they wrolome the dawn,
Make a chorus of joy to resound through the lawn:
But the mavis is tuneless—the lark strives in vain,
When my beautiful charmer renews her sweet strain.

When summer bespangles the landscape with flow'rs,
While the thrush and the cuckoo sing soft from the bow'rs,
Through the wood-shaded windings with Bella Pl rove,
And feast unrestrain'd on the smiles of my love.

Mar Bhénus a boisgeadh
Thar choiltibh nan ard,
Tha a miog-shuil ga m' bhuaireadh
Le suaicheantas graidh :
Tha bràighe nan séud
Ann an eideadh gach àidh,
Mar ghealach nan speur
'S i cur reultan fo phràmh.

Ach tha'n uiseag neo-sheòlta,

ALASDAIR MAC-IONMHUINN.

ALEXANDER M'KINNON was born in Moror, in the district of Arisaig, Inverness-shire, in the year 1770, in which farm his father was tacksman. At the age of 24, he enlisted in the gallant 92d regiment, in which he served with marked distinction till 1801, when, in the famous battle of Alexandria, he received three several wounds, which were the means of breaking up his connexion with that corps. After the battle, Corporal M'Kinnon was found lying among the wounded and dead, "with his back to the field and his feet to the foe," in frozen gore, and on the apparent verge of dissolution. In disposing of the many brave fellows who fell on that memorable day, it was found necessary to dig ditches or pits in which indiscriminately to inter them ; and such was the seemingly lifeless condition of M'Kinnon, that he was ordered to be buried among the others. This order would have been executed had not Sergeant M'Lean, a bosom-friend and companion of our bard, been prompted by feelings of the purest friendship, to seek him out amid the heaps of carnage in which he was entombed. The Sergeant, applying his ear to the poet's breast, perceived that everlasting silence had not yet been imposed on his lyre ;—his respirations were feeble and slow, but he lived ; and his friend insisted upon having him forthwith conveyed to one of the hospital ships.

Upon experiencing the care and attention his situation required, he gradually recovered from his wounds ; and it was during his convalescence on board the hospital ship that he composed his truly sublime and admirable poem so descriptive of the battle. M'Kinnon, on arriving in England, was discharged with a pension ; but a life of inactivity seemed little to accord with his sanguine temperament,—for he was no sooner able to bear arms than he joined the 6th Royal Veteran Battalion, in which he served all the remainder of his earthly career. He died at Fort-William, Lochaber, in the year 1814, at the age of 44, and was interred with military honours.

Corporal M'Kinnon was prepossessing in appearance ; he stood about 5 feet 10 inches in height ; he was athletic in form and of very fine proportions and symmetry. As a poet he ranks very high : his mind, indeed, was of that gigantic order, which, by its own propelling powers, could rise equal to any subject he chose to sing. Judging from some of his MSS, now before us, he studied the Gaelic language to good purpose ; few have been able so completely to master its idiom and to soar on the syren wings of poesy, sustaining throughout such a sublime and uncontaminated diction. We have not been able to ascertain what his scholastic acquirements were in English, but we feel warranted in supposing these respectable, for he wrote the vernacular tongue with great accuracy, the study of which, it must be recollected, formed none of the school-attainments in his juvenile days.

The four pieces here presented to the reader are of prime quality. They speak for themselves, and need no passing encomiums from us. Any poetaster may string stanzas together ad infinitum, and at a hand-gallop ; he may infuse something of the spirit of poetry into them, but to give metrical composition a high finish—to put so much excellence into a poem as to ensure its survival, after the interest of the circumstance that called it forth has passed away—to do this, has fallen only to the lot of a few gifted individuals.

No one could be more happy in his choice of subjects than M'Kinnon ; and, most assuredly, none could handle his materials better. He was an enthusiastic soldier : he saw and admired the prowess of the British arms, and commemorated their feats in strains which cannot die. The poet that chronicled these feats, was worthy of the indomitable army that performed them. Ossian's heroes are often put beyond themselves through the magnifying vista of poetic description ;—and who has not felt how much of the prowess of Ajax and Hector owed its existence to the redundancy of Homer's inventive powers ? M'Kinnon has indulged in no fanciful representations ;—he has honestly and truthfully recorded such achievements as British valour performed within his ocular cognizance ; and one characteristic feature of his muse is, that she was always on duty.

It would be out of place here to attempt a formal criticism upon the works of this excellent poet. His heroics, in which he seems most at home, admit of no comparison. We wonder what stuff the poet was made of : the poet, who could wind himself up—yes, and inoculate us, too, with the high, patriotic, and impassioned feelings of his soul, to the highest pitch of enthusiasm, and depict, with more than the fidelity of the painter's hand, the panorama of the most sanguinary battles that ever drew the belligerent powers of two mighty empires face to face! His poem on the battle in Alexandria beginning "Am Mios deireannach an Fhoghair," has all the minuteness of detail of a studied prose narrative, while the vividness of his description, the freshness of his similes, the sublimity of his sentiments, rivet our breathless attention on the various evolutions of the day, from the discharge of the first shot until the whole place is strewn with mangled carcasses, and the dark wing of night overshadows the gory and groaning plain.

His "Dubh-Ghleannach" is a nautical production in which his muse appears to great advantage; and we are told by a friend, not likely to be misinformed on the subject, that this was his favourite piece. Mr M'Donald, the proprietor of the yacht, which the poet immortalizes, was so well pleased with the poem, that he gave M'Kinnon £5, and this sum appeared so enormous in the estimation of a boor, a neighbour of M'Kinnon's, that he spoke to him on the subject, saying, "It is a bonny song, to be sure, but faith, neighbour, you have been as well paid for it!" "I tell you, sir," replied the poet, "that every stanza of it—every timber in the 'Dubh-Ghleannach's' side—is worth a five-pound note!" This retort must be regarded more in the light of a reprimand, than as an empty gasconade. Men of genius, however, cannot be blind to their own merit; and if they ought not to be the trumpeters of their own fame, they are entitled, by the law of self-defence, to retaliate on the narrow-souled detractors of their well-earned laurels. Mac-Kinnon was neither egotistical nor pedantic: he submitted his pieces to the rigid criticisms of his fellow-soldiers, and never hesitated to throw out an idea, a distich, or even a stanza at their bidding. This has, perhaps, tended to the critical correctness of his Gaelic and the excellence of his productions: we read them and are satisfied: there is nothing wanting, nothing extraneous.

'S tric a chite fàll oirbh,
Na ruith a dhì a mbaighsteir,
Bu lionmhor marcach tàbhachdach,
Le each air tràigh gun deò.
Bu lionmhor, &c.

Bha 'm buidhean rioghail Gàelach,
Gu h-inntinneach, borb, ardanach,
Air thoiseach, mar a b' àbhaist daibh,
Gu lotach, piceach, stailinneach,
Mar nathairichean, gun chàirdeas
Do dh' aon nàmhaid a bha beò.
Mar nathairichean, &c.

Tha clann nan eilean aon-sgeulach,
Co theireadh gu 'n do chaochail iad?
'S iad fèin an dream nach maol-chluasach,
'N uair thàirnte a mire caonnaig iad,
Mar bheithir thana craoslachadh,
B' fhiar fhaoineis tigh'n' ga 'n còir.
Mar bheithir, &c.

Mar mhiol-chion sheang, luath-leumnach,
'Eangach, ìneach, tuasaideach,
Ri leanailt strì gun fhuarachadh,
Le siubhal 's i a dh' fhuasgail iad,
Bha Frangaich air an ruagadh,
'S iad na 'n ruith mar chuain gun tròir.
Bha Frangaich, &c.

ORAN

AIR BLAR NA H-EIPHIT.

C' arson nach tòisichinn sa chàmpa,
Far na dh'fhàg mì clann mo ghaoil,
Thog sinn taighean Samhraidh ann,
Le barrach mheang nan craobh,
Bu solas uaibbreach, ceannard.
A bhì gluasad ri uchd naimhdean ann,
'S a dh'aindeoin luaidhe Fhrangach,
B' aobhar dàmsha bhì ri 'r taobh.

Cha chualas ri linn seanachais,
Ann an cogadh arm na 'n strì,
Cuig mìle-dìag cho ainmeil ruibh,
A tharruinn airm fo 'n Rìgh;

B' aobhar clù an trèun-fhear Albannach,
A fhuair a chuis ud earbsa ris,
Nach cùbairean a thearbadh leis,
Thoirt gnìomh nan àrm gu crìch.

Dh'iarr e moch dì-ciadain,
'S a' chiad diagachadh de 'n Mhàirt,
Gach comisari riarachadh,
Ar biadh a mach oirn trà ;
Rùm ' bhi air ar cliathaichean,
Gu h-ullamh mar a dh' iarramaid,
Nach faodadh iad air chiad-lungaidh,
Dol sìos leis ann sa bhàr.

'S ann air òr-daoin a dh'fhàg sinn,
Air sàr chabhlach fad air chùl,
Na 'm faigheadhmaid rian snàmha dhaibh,
Bu làidir iad na 'r cùis ;
Lean Mac-a-Ghobha* cairdeil ruinn,
'S gu 'm b' fhoghainteach a bhàtaichean,
A dh' aindeoin gleadhraich nàmhaid,
Chum e smàladh air an sùil.

Bha ar 'n àrd cheann-feadhna toirteil,
Ann san àm ga 'r propadh suas,
Bho dhream gu dream ga 'm brosnachadh,
Cha b' ann le moit na ghruaidh ;
Ghlacadh cuibhle 'n fhòrtain,
Ann san laimh nach tionndadh toisgeal i,
'S a dhùisgeadh sunnt gu cosnadh dhuinn,
Mar Fhionn a mosgladh shluaidh.

Thàirneadh na laoi ch shomalta
Na 'n comblann throm, bhorb,
Bu tàrsalach, làmhnan, comasach,
An sradag fhonnidh falbh ;
A g' iarraidh àite an cromadh iad,
Na 'n tugadh nàmhaid coinneamh dhaibh,
Gu 'm fag-te 'n àrach tonn-fhuileach,
Le stàilinn 'thollach bholg.

Bho nach tionndadh nàimh gu casgairt,
Bu dlù lasair air an deigh,
'N uair chuinnacas gnùis nam Breatunnach,
B' fhearr casan dhaibh na strèup ;
Thug iad an cùl gu tapaidd ruinn,
A shiubhal gu dlù astarach,
A sìor dhìon an cùl le marcaichean,
Chum lasachadh na 'm ceum.

Bha gillean lùghar, sgairteil ann,
Nach d' aom le gealtachd riamh,
Mar dh' fhaodadh iad ga 'n leantain,
Philleadh caogad each le 'n gnìomh ;

* Sir Sidney Smith.

Bu smaointean faoin d'a marcaichean,
Nach faighte daoine ghleachdadh iad,
'S na laoi ch nach faoite chaisleachadh,
Ga 'n caol ruith mach air sliabh.

Bu tric an còmhach casgairt sinn,
Thug sud oirn stad na dhà,
Bhi gun eòlas ann san astar sin,
'N dùil mhòr ri gaisge chàich ;
Dh' fheuch Ralph gach doigh a chleachda leis,
'S an dian-te sròil a thaisbeanadh,
'S a dh' aindeoin seòltachd dh' fhairtlich oirn,
An toirt gu casgairt làmh.

Bha sinn làidir, guineideach,
Dàna, urranta 'san strì,
Bha iadsan ràideil, cuireideach,
Làn thuineachadh 's an tìr ;
Ghabh iad àird na monaidhean,
Gu 'n dh' fhuair iad àite cothromach,
'S an dianadh làmhach dolaidh dhuinn,
Gu 'n toileachadh r'a linn.

Thairneadh gàradh droma leinn,
De dh' armuinn fhonnidh thréin,
Bho shàil' gu sàil' a coinneachadh
'N trà chromaidh air a ghréin ;
Bu daingean, làidir, comasach,
A phàirc ga m' fhàl na bonaidean,
Cha bu chadal séimh ga 'n comunn,
'S càch ma 'r coinneamh air a bheinn.

Stad sinn ré na h-oidhche sin,
Gu leir an cuim nan àrm,
Bha leannan fein, gu maighdeannail,
Fo sgéith gach saighdear, bàlbh ;
Na 'n tigeadh feum na faoineachd orr',
'S gu tugte aobhar bruidhne dhì,
Bu neamhail a spéic phuiseanta,
Bho 'n bheul bu chinnteach sealg.

Dh' earbadh dìon an 'n anmanan,
Ri Albannaich mo rùin
Fir nach tàirnte cearbaich orra,
'N àm tharruinn arm gu dlù ;
Rinn iad a chaithris armailteach,
Gu h-ullamh, ealamh, ealachuinneach,
'S na 'n deanadh nàmhaid tairgneachadh,
Bha bàs allabarach na 'n gnùis,

Sinn ullamh air ar counspagan,
Gu dol san tòir gu dìon,
An treas madainn diag a shòraich iad,
Le 'r ceannard mòr gu 'n fhiamh ;
An dà réiseamaid a b' òige againn,
Na Gréamaich agus Gòrdonaich,
A ruith gu dian an còmhail,
Na bha dortadh leis an t-sliabh,

Cho ullamh ris an fhùdar,
A bha dol na smùid ma 'r ceann,
Ghluais na gillean lù-chleasach,
Air mhìre null do 'n ghleann ;
Thug sinn le teine dùbailte,
Bristeadh as na trùpairean,
Bha Gréumaich nan éuchd fùghantach,
'S cha d' éisd iad mùiseag lann.

Mar stoirm a b' iargalt connsachadh,
A spionadh neòil a's chrann,
A riasladh fàirge mòire,
Gu pianadh shebl 's ga 'n call ;
Cruaidh dian bha buaidh nan Gòrdonach,
Bu lionmhor sguab a's dorlaichean,
A bhuaibh iad air a chòmhnard,
Far an tug na slòigh dhaibh ceann.

Dhlùthaich ar n' arm urramach,
Gu h-ullamh air ar cùl,
Lion iad an t-sreath fhulangach,
Rinn guineideach gu smùis ;
Bu naimhdeil dian an gunnaireachd,
A dh'fhàg an sliabh 's nial fuileach air,
Bha cuirp na 'n riadhan uireasach,
Fo 'n ian gun tuille lùis.

'N àm propadh ris an nàmhaid,
Sinn g'an smàladh ann sa' cheò,
Las a bheinn mar àmhuinn ruinn,
A bàrcadh na prais oirn ;
Shaoil sinn gur h-i Vesavius,*
A sgàin bho bonn le tairneanaich,
Airm chaola b' fhaoinis làmh ridhe,
'S craos na chaoir tigh'n' beò.

Bha craoslach nan geum neimheil,
Gu brèun, aineolach, sa' cheò,
A bheist bu tréine langhanaich,
Bu reusan sgreabh do dh' fheòil ;
Bu chailteach dhuinn an dealanach,
'S a liughad saighdear bearraideach,
Bha 'n oidhche sin a mearachd oirn,
Gu 'n anam air an tòir.

Dh' aindeoin a h-ard bhùrainich,
Bha làidir, mùiseach, garbh,
Ga b' oil leis an cuid trùpairean,
Am bruchdadh rinn an arm ;
Ge d' fhuair sinn beagan diùbhalach,
A laoghad cha do làb sinn daibh,
Bu lionmhor marcach cùl-donn diù,
Fo 'r casan brùite, màrbh.

* Vesuvius, poetically rendered Vesavius, a volcanic mountain near the bay of Naples.—The first eruption took place in the year 79, when Herculaneum and Pompeii were destroyed.

Thug iad an cùl, 's cha mhasladh dhaibh,
Chuir casgairt iad na'n teinn,
Sinn ga'n sgiursadh do 's na fasaichean,
'S gach tùbh na las a bheinn ;
Thionndadh gach cùis taitneach dhuinn,
Bho bhon a cùil 's a càs-mhulaich,
Cha d' fhurich gnùis dhiu gleachda ruinn,
Nach d' bhrùchd amach na still.

'S càs a throm an ruaig orra,
Cho cruaidh 's a chualas riambh,
Bha Abercrombie suas riutha,
Le shluadh a dh' fhuasgail fial ;
Mar bhì'dh am baile bhuannaich iad,
Le canain air a chuartaichadh,
Bha barachd dhù 's na h-uàghichean,
'S a dh' fhuaraich air an t-sliabh.

Thàirneadh gàradh làidir,
'Dh' arm tabhachdach nach striochd,
Ma choinneamh Alexandria,
Air airde Aboukier ;
'N uair rainig sinn an làrach sin,
'S a dhealaich mi ri m' chàirdean ann,
'S ann ghiùlain iad gu m' bhàta mi,
'S fuil bhlàth fo 'm air an fhair.

Tha 'n dà Bhaiteal àraidh
An deagh Ghàilig ann am chuimhn',
Cha 'n e 'n treas fear bu tàire,
'S math a b' fhiach e bàrd ga sheinn ;
Tha mi sa' cheird air mhàgaran,
Cha 'n fhilidh no fear dàna mi,
Na dh' innis mi cha nàr leam e,
Co chluinneas c' àit' an d' rinn.

ORAN AIR BLAR NA H-OLAIND

AIR FÖNN—“Alasdair à Gleanna-Garadh.”

AIR mìos deireannach an fhoghair,
An dara latha, 's math mo chuimne,
Ghluais na Breatunnaich bhò'n fhaiche,
Dh'ionnsuidh tachairt ris na maimhdean ;
Thug Abercrombaidh taobh na mara
Dhiu le'n canain, 's mi ga 'n cluintinn ;
Bha fòirneadh aig *Mùr gu daingeann,
Cumail aingil ris na Fràncaich.

Thriall Abercrombaidh 's Mùr na felle,
Le 'n laoch éuchdach, thun a bhaitell ;
Tharruinn iad gu h-eolach, treubhach,
Luchd na beurla ri uchd catha ;

* General Sir John Moore.

N uair a dh'lù na h-airm ri chéile,
Dhubhadh na speuran le 'n deathaich ;
S bu lionmhor fear a bha 's an éisdeachd,
Nach do ghluais leis fein an ath oidhch'.

Dh'fhag iad sinne mar a b'annsa,
Fo cheannardachd Mhorair Huundaidh,
An t-òg smiorail, fearail, naimhdeil,
N an teannadh ain-neart ga 'r n-ionnsuidh ;
Le bhrataichean sìod' a strannraich,
Ri 'u cuid crann a damhs' le muiseag ;
S na fir a toghairt 's na Frànegaich,
B' iad mo rùinse chlann nach diultadh.

Bha 'n Ioghann colgarra gun ghealtachd,
Le mbile fear sgairteil là ruinn ;
An Camshronach garg o'n Earrachd,
Mar ursainn chatha 's na blàraibh ;
Dh'aontaich sinu mar aon sa bhaiteal,
Le faobhar lann sgaitreach stailinn ;
Cha bu ghuimh le 'r laoiach gun taise,
Faoinis air an fhaich' le làmhaich.

Bhruchd na naimhdean le 'n trom làdach,
Air muin chàich an àite teine ;
'N uair fhuair Sasunnaich droch chàradh,
Phill iad o'n àraich n' ar coinneamh.
Ghlaodh Ralph naibbreach ri chuid armunn
Greasaibh na Gàèil n' an coinnidh,
'S tionndaidh iad an ruaig mar b' àbhaist,
An dream ardanach, neo-fhoileil.

Grad air an aghairt 's an àraich,
Ghluais na saighdearan nach pillte ;
Mar iolaire guineach, gun chaoimhneas,
Nach b'fhurasda chlaoidh le mì-mhodh,
Thug iad sgrìos na'n gathan boisgeach,
Mar dhealanaich bìdheche dhilinn ;
Ri sior iomain romp nan naimhdean,
'S neul na fal' air roinn am picean.

'N uair a dh'ionndrainn a chonnspuinn
Morair Gòrdon o-uchd buailte ;
'S a chual iad gu'n robh e leòinte,
Dh'ùraich iad le deoin an tuasaid ;
Mar mhaoim do thuil nam beann mòra,
Brùchdadh bho na neoil mu'r guaillean,
Lean iad an ruaig le cruaidh spbltach,
Gu fuilteach, mor bhuilleach, gruamach.

Bha Camshronaich an tùs a chatha,
Air an losgadh mar an ciauda ;
Leonadh an Ceann-feodhna sgairteil,
Ri còmhraig bhaitealach a liath e ;
Gu sonraicht' coltach an dearcag,
'S an fheoil nach taisicheadh fiamh i ;
Mu'n chrom a ghriaun fo cleòc-taisgte,
Phàidh sinn air an ais na fiachan.

Ged' bha na Rìoghalaich bho Albainn,
Na fir ainmeil, mheamnach, phrìseil,
Fada bhuainn ri uair a gharbh chath,
'S buaidh a b' ainm dhaibh ri uchd mhiltean ;
Ghreas iad air aghaidh gu colgail,
'N uair a chual iad stoirm nam picean ;
Mo creach ! luchd nam breacan balla-bhreac,
Bhi le lasair marbh na'n sineadh.

Tha na Frànegaich math air teine,
Gus an teannar goirid uapa ;
'S an mar sin a fhrois iad sinne,
Ri deich mionaidean na h-uarach ;
Ach, 'n uair dh'fhaod ar laoiach gun tioma,
Dhol an àite buille bhualadh,
Bha roinn nan stailinne biorach,
Sàthadh guineideach mu'n tuairmse.

Gu'm bi sin an tuairmse smiorail,
Chinnteach, amaiseach, gun dearmad ;
Thug na leoghainn bhorba, nimheil,
Bu cholgail sealladh fo'n armaibh ;
Ri sgiùrsadh naimhdean mar fhalaisg,
A's driùchdan fallais air gach calg dhiu ;
'S bha Frànegaich a brùchdadh fala,
'S an cùl ri talamh sa ghainmhich.

Mar neoil fhuilteach air an riasladh,
Le gaoth a b'iargalta séideadh ;
Ruith nam baidibh ceigeach, lia'-ghlas,
An deigh an cliathadh as a chéile :
Chìte na naimhde gun riaghailt,
Teicheadh gu dian o uchd streupa ;
'S iad a leaghadh air am bialthaobh,
Mar shneachd am fianais na gréine.

Ged' a phill sinn o ar dùthaich,
Cha d' mhill sinn air cliù an cruadal
Bha sinn gach latha ga'n sgiùrsadh,
Mar chaoirich aig cù ga'n ruagadh.
Dù'aindeoin an cuid slòigh gun chunntas,
Tigh'n o'n Fhràing as ùr ga'r bualadh,
Bu leisg ar gaisgich gu tionndadh,
'Nuair a chòrd an Dùc ri'n uaislean.

'N uair chuireadh am baiteal seachad,
'S a dh-àireadh ar gaisgich threubhach,
Bha ioma Gàèl 's an deachaidh
Le miad am braise 's an streupa,
Fuil a ruith air lotaibh frasach,
Bho luchd nam breacanan féilidh,
'S i sior thaomadh leis na glacan—
'S truagh ! nach dh'fhaod ar gaisgich éirigh !

'S bochd gun sian orra bho luaighe,
On a bha iad cruaidh 'na'n nàdur,
Fulangach gu dhol san tuasaid,
Guineideach 'nuair ghluais' an àrdan,

Cha robh math d'an nàmhaid gluasad,
Dh'fharraidh buaidh orra's na blàraibh,
Chaill iad air an tràigh seachd uairean,
Tuilleadh 's na bha bhuain 'san àraich.

'Nis o'n chuir iad sinn do Shasunn,
Ghabhail ar cairtealan geambraidh,
Far am faigh sinn leann am pailteas,
Ged' tha Mac-na-praisich gann oirn
Olar leinn deoch-slaime' Mharcuis—
Ar gualann thaice 's ar Ceannard;
Tha sinn cho ullamh's a àit leis,
Dhion a bhrataichean bho ainneart.

Note.—Various spurious editions of this unrivalled piece have been published in different collections of Gaelic Poems. It is now printed genuine, for the first time, from the poet's own MS.; and never, perhaps, did poet's lay commemorate prowess in more graphic and burning language.

AN DUBH-GHLEANNACH.

LATHA dhomh 's mi 'n cois na tràghad
Chuala mi caismeachd nan Gàel,
Dh' aithnich mi meoir griun a Bhràthaich,
Air siunsair ùr bu lùghor gàirich,
A's thuig mi gu'n a ghluais an t-àrmunn,
Fear thogail nan tùr uasal,* stàtoil.

Sì'n Dubh-Ghleannach a bh' ann!
Hè rò ghealladh, na co chuireadh i,
—Trom oirre 'seinn

Bu mhiann leam sunnt nam port eallanta,
Bu chonnabhallach ùrlar a's gearraidhean,
Dionach, lughor, dlù, neo-mhearachdach—
Tionndadh nan siubhlaichean caithreamach,
Dhùsgadh lùgh na smuis 's na carraidean,
Dùthchas nan lann dù-ghorm tana dhuibh.

Sì'n Dubh-Ghleannach, &c.

Dh'irich mi 'm bruthach le h-éihhneas,
Dh' eisdeachd ri fáilte rìgh Seumas,
Chunna' mi'n Druimineach dhubh, ghleusda,
Cuir fa-sgaoll a h-aodaich breid-ghil,
Air machair bhìn, sgiamhach, réidhleach,
Mar steud cruitheach—'s i' cuir réise.

Sì'n Dubh-Ghleannach, &c.

Chunna' mi 'n Druimineach dhubh, dhealbhach,
Long Alasdair ghlinnich nan garbh-chrìoch,
Mar steud rìoghail air bharr fairge,
Togail bho thìr le sìoda balla-bhreach,
Suaicheantas rìoghail na h-Alba,
Ghluaiseadh na mìltean gu fearra-ghleus.

Sì'n Dubh-Ghleannach, &c.

* This song was composed on the pleasure-boat of Alexander M'Donald, Esq., of Glenaladale, who endeared himself to his countrymen by the cenotaph he erected for Prince Charles Stuart in Glenfinnan.

'Nuair ghabhaidh i'm fuaradh na sliasaid,
'S gualla 'n fhasgadh chasadh dian ris,
Ghearradh i'n linn' air a fìradh,
'N aghaidh gaoithe, sìd a's lionaidh,
Dh' éignich i Corran an diarrais,
'S leum i air iteig mar ian as!

Sì'n Dubh-Ghleannach, &c.

'Nuair gheibheadh i cliathaich fo fhars'neachd,
Soirbheas na sliasaid ga brosnachd,
Mar shiù'ladh mial-chù bras-astrach,
Na ruith air sliabh a's fiadh air thoiseach,
I dìreadh nan tonn liath 's ga'n sgoltadh,
Shnaitheadh i iad mar iarunn locrach.

Sì'n Dubh-Ghleannach, &c.

Mhionnach Neptune agus Æolus,
Bho n' chaidh gaoth a's cuan fo'n òrdugh,
Nach do mhaslaicheadh cho mòr iad
Bho linn na h-Airc a bha aig Noah,
Gu robh 'n rìgh is airde còmhnaidh,
Dion 's a sàbbaladh Chloinn-Dòmhnuille!

Sì'n Dubh-Ghleannach, &c.

Bha Neptune agus Æolus eudmhor—
Dh-iarr iad builg nan stoirm a shéideadh
Dh-òrdaich iad gach bòrd dh'i reubadh,
'S na sìuil a stracadh na'm bréidean,
Le borb-sgread a's fead na reub-ghaoith,
'Cuir siaban thonn na steoll 's na speuran:

Sì'n Dubh-Ghleannach, &c.

Thoisich ùr-spairn chruaidh mar dh'iarr iad,
Chruinnich neoil dhubha na h-iarmailt,
Na'n trom-lùirichean dlù iargalt',
'S iad a trusadh sìrd 'sa lionadh
Mar dh'èrch smùid á fuirneis iarunn,
Gu bruchadh stoirm bha garbh a's fìadhaich.

Sì'n Dubh-Ghleannach, &c.

'N earalas fo laimh air gabhaidh
Chuir sibh an ceann i gu dàna;
Gach cupall a's stagh 's an robh failinn—
Sparradh buil thaghta n'an àite;
Slabhraidhean canach air fàraidh,
Theannaich sibh gu daingean laidir.

Sì'n Dubh-Ghleannach, &c.

Bheartaich iad gach ball neo-chearbach,
Ullamh, deas gu glenchd ri fairge;
Tharruinn i le gaoith an earra-dheas,
Ghlac i 'n caol fo' taobh 's bu doirbh e,
'S ged bha Neptune saoitreach, stoirmeil,
Mhaslaich an saobh-shruth 's an dòrch e!

Sì'n Dubh-Ghleannach, &c.

Nochd an dubhair gnùis gun chaoimhneas,
Sgaoileadh cùirtearan na h-bidheche;

Sgioba na h-iubhraich an gainntir
 On' chiad duil gu cur Dun-aoibhneis
 Phaisg iad trian gach siùil gu teann-chruaidh,
 A's las iad ri cairt-iùil na coinnean.
Si'n Dubh-Ghleannach, &c.

Iomradh slàn do Chaiptein Alasdair,
 Le sgioba tàbhachdach, bearraideach,
 Bumbiann leam fàilt' ur cairdean dealai' dhuibh,
 Calla sèamh bho ghàbhadh mbaranan,

Coinnidh bhàigheil bhlàth gach caraid dhuibh,
 Pòg bhur mathar, mhna 's bhur leannan duibh.
Si'n Dubh-Ghleannach, &c.

Chaidh rìgh nan soirbheas gu dhùlan,
 Aig miad na strannaraich 's na h-ùpraid;
 Dh-fhosgail na builg air an cùlthaobh,
 Mun gann a fhuair iad an dùnadh,
 Bha Maighdeann nam Mor-bheann cuirteil,
 An acarsaid fo shròin na dùtcha!
Si'n Dubh-Ghleannach, &c.

AM BARD-CONANACH.

DONALD M'DONALD, commonly called Am Bàrd-Conanach, or the Strathconnon Bard, was born in Strathconnon, Ross-shire, in the year 1780. Owing probably to the secluded situation of his native glen, and the supineness of his parents, who deemed education of no essential importance to enable a man to get through the world, or, at least, thought one might weather through tolerably well without it, he got no English education, but could read Gaëlic. The wild and romantic scenery of his birth-place, with its characteristic exuberance of rock, wood, and water, was well calculated to inspire his breast at an early age with those poetical leanings, which, at a more advanced period, transpired in glowing verse. Highlanders, especially in his younger days, never dreamed of training their children up to any useful trade; the oldest son was invariably recognised as his father's legitimate successor in his little farm;—and the other, or junior members of the family, generally got possession of similar pendicles. Thus they married and got themselves established in the world—strangers to the promptings of ambition, and free from the cares, turmoils, and solitudes of their more affluent neighbours, the Lowlanders.

Donald M'Donald earned his livelihood as a sawyer; an employment that probably suggested itself as being more immediately productive of pecuniary aid than any other common in his country.

Having spent a number of years at the saw in his native glen, he removed to the town of Inverness, where he established himself as a regular sawyer. Like many other sons of genius and song, M'Donald was of a convivial disposition and warm temperament. He committed some youthful indiscretions which had drawn down upon him the combined wrath of his friends and the Kirk Session, and he has not left us in the dark as to the measures which were adopted against him. His parents dreading that he would elope with a young girl, who was reported to be in a state of pregnancy by him, had recourse to the severe measure of putting him in "durance vile." But, although they succeeded in frustrating his every attempt to do justice to his paramour, they failed to improve the morals of their aberrant son. He ultimately married a young girl, a countrywoman of his own, of the name of M'Lennan, with whom he enjoyed a great share of connubial happiness.

The first of the two songs we annex to this notice, he composed in Edinburgh, upon witnessing the demonstrations of joy which took place upon hearing the result of the battle of Alexandria. It is a triumphant piece, and a very respectable effort, exhibiting, as it does, no mean poetical talents. The other is equally good in its way. All his poems were arranged and taken down in manuscript preparatory to their being printed, but our author was seized with Cholera in the year 1832, which terminated his mortal career. The intention of publishing was consequently relinquished for the time, nor have we heard of any measures having been adopted to resume it.

M'Donald was of a middle-sized stature—active and cheerful. He was an excellent companion, and much liked by his acquaintances.

ORAN DO BHONIPART.

LATHA soilleir samhraidh dhomb,
Air càbhsairean Dhun-éideann,
Gu'm faca mi na brataichean,
A lasadh ris a ghréin ann,
Chuala mi na gunnaidhean,
A's dh' fhuirich mi ga'n éisdeachd,
'S mac-talla bh'anns na creagan,
A' toirt' freagairt dhaibh le éibhneas.

'Nuair sheall mi air gach taobh dhìom,
Feadh na dùthcha fad 's bu léir domh,
Bha ceòl 'sna h-uile taigh a bh' ann,
'S tein-aighear air na sléibhteann,
On chualas auns na Gàsaidean
'S gach àite bhi ga leughadh;
Gun deach' an ruaig air Bonipart
S an onair aig a Ghréumach.

'S lìonmhor bratach Albannach,
Tha ballach, balla-bhreac, boidheach,
Tha eadar a chrìoch Shasunnach,
Gu ruige taigh Iain-Ghròta,
Fir laidir, shunntadh, thogarrach,
Nach òb a dhol an òrdugh
Gu dol an coinneamh Bhonipart,
Chuir onair air rìgh Seòras.

C'àite biodh na h-Albannaich?
Duin' uaisle calma, treubhach,
Fir shunntach, shanntach, thogarrach,
Na seòld nach òbadh éiridh,
Ach on nach fiù laimhe leo,
Do bhàs a thoirt le treun-bheirt,

'S an thilg iad air sgeir thràghad thu,
'S gu'm bàsaich thu chion béidh ann.

Ach 's beag leam sud mar phianadh ort—
'S a mbiad sa rinn thu dh' eacòir,
Ach léir-sgrìos nan deich plàighean,
A bh' air Phàròh anns an Eipheld;
Gu'n laidh iad air do chraiceann,
Gu do shracadh as a chéile,
'S gu'n cluinnt' air falbh deich mìl' thu,
A's mi fhìn a bhi ga t-éisdeachd.

'S tu chaill do nàire, 'nuair
A bha thu ann an dòchas,
Gun leige sinn do Shasuinn thu,
Ged' ghlac thu bhuaib Hanòbher,
Ach cuiridh sinne dhachaigh thu,
S seachdnar air do thòireachd,
S mar toir thu grad do dhaoinne leat
Cha ruig a h-aon diù beò thu!

Nach saol thu nach bu ladorn dhut
Bhi bagairt air rìgh Deòrsa,
An cual thu fear chuir aodainn air
Nach daor a phàigh e ghòraich,
Ge do choisinn ainneart dhut
An Fhràing a chuir fo t-òrdugh,
'S e t-amhaich a bheir dioladh ann
Le tobha sniobhta còraich.

'Nuair thig am morair Sléibhteach ort,
'S na ceudan de Chlann-Dòmhnùill,
Mar sud a's Mac-Ic-Alasdair,
Ghlinn-garaidh agus Chnòideirt,

'Nuair thogas iad am brataichean,
'S an gaisgich a chuir còladh
O! c'ait' am faod thu t-fhalach orr'
Mar slug an talamh beò thu!

Ma chì iad aona bhaosgheadh dhìot
Bìdh greim ac' air do sgòrnan,
'S chan' eil de dh'eich no dhaoìn' agad
Na shaoras tu bho mèirean,
Ged dh-eireadh na deich legonan,
Bh'aig Ceasar anns an Ròimh leat,
Cha'n fhaothaich iad air t-amhaich
A's na lamhan aig Clann-Dòmhnùill.

'Nuair thig Mac-Choinnich Bhrathain ort,
Le cheathairn' de dhaoìn' uaisle,
Sud a bhratach aigeantach
Le cabar an daimh ghruamaich,
Cha tàr thu na bheir pilleadh orr'
A chruinneachadh mu'n cuairt-daibh,
'Nuair ruigeas fir Chinn-tàile
Co an geard a chumas bhuath thu?

'Nuair thig an cinneadh Frisealach,
Tha fios gur daoine bòrb iad,
Gu'n reachadh iad tro theine
Le Mac-Sbimidh mòr na Moraich.
Cha tàr thu na bheir pilleadh
Air na fir ud 'nuair bhios colg orr',
'S ged reacha tu fo'n talamh
'S e mo bhairil gu'm bì lòrg ort.

'Nuair a thig Mac-an-Tòisich,
Le sheòid ort a Srath-Eireann,
Mar sud agus fir Chluainidh,
Is iad uil' an gualle chéile
Ma gheibh an cat na chrubhan thu,
Le dhubhanan beag' geura,
Ged bhiodh càch air bheagan dhìot
Bìdh aige-sa cheud féin dhìot.

Tha Clann-an-Ab' a bagairt ort,
'S iad o cheann fad an deigh ort,
'S na gheibh iad ann am fagus dut,
Gur grad a bheir iad leum ort,
Bristidh iad do bhrataichean,
Na spealtan as a chéile,
'S bì'dh tus an sin na d' starsaich ann,
Fo chasan nam fear gleusda!

Tha Gòrdonach an toir ort,
'S chan' eil beò na ni do thearnadh,
'Nuair dh-eireas morair Hunndaidh,
Le fhearabh ionnsaicht, laidir,
On se fein a's còirneal,
Air na seòid ga'm buin buaidh-làrach:
'S e chanas sinn gu bicheanta
An dà-fhichead a's na dhà riu.

Ach cùmhnich thus a cheathairne,
Chuir latha Fontenbi,
'S a sheasadh ams an àraich,
As càch a chuir air fògar,
Chì thu nis san Fhràing iad
Fo chomanna mhorair Gòrdoin,
Se ni do lamhsa dh' fheum dhut,
An réusar chuir ri d' sgòrnan.

Tha Ròsaich agus Rothaich,
'S iad ro choimheach dhut le chéile,
Ma gheibh iad ma do chomhair
Gabh mo chomhairle 's thoir thu fein as!
Ach ma chì thu 'm firean
Tigh'n' le sgrìob ort as na speuran,
Na gheibh i ann na crubhanan
Grad luthaig oirre féin e.

'Nuair chruinnicheas na gaisgich,
Thig bho Apuinn-Mhic-Ian-Stiùbhairt
Sliochd nan rìghrean Abannach,
Da'n tig na h-airm a rùsgadh,
Co bheireadh tàire dhaibh
Nach faigheadh pàigheadh dùbhailt,
'S ma gheibh iad ann an sàs thu,
Gu bràch chan fhaic thu d' dhùthaich.

'Nuair chruinnicheas Clann-Ionmhuinn,
Cha shòr a dol 'san ùspairn,
'S mithich dhut bhì tiomnadh,
'Nuair tha 'n t-ìomraidh iad a dùsgadh,
Ma dh-eireas dhut gun tachair sibh,
'S guu faic iad thu le'n suilean,
Sid na fir a chaitheas,
Anns an adhar na do smùid thu.

Tha Caimbeulaich cho naimhdeil dut,
'S iad sanntach air do mharbhadh,
A Diùc tha 'n Earraghàil,
Agus morair ard Bhraid-Albann
C'ait am beil na thearnas tu,
S na h-àrmuinn ud a sealg ort,
'S ceart cho math dhut fàladair
A chàradh ri do shealabhan!

'Nuair a thig Clann-Ghriogair ort
'S neo-chliobach a chuir ruaig iad,
'S fir iad nach gabh pilleadh
Le teine no le luaidhe,
Le'n gairdean laidir, smiorail,
'S le lannan biorach, cruaghach,
S ma chì iad fad na h-òirleach dhìot,
Cha bheò na chumas bhuat iad.

Thig Siosalaich Srath-ghlas ort
Na'n lasgairan man cuairt dhut,
Le lannan geur a chiunn-aisnich
Tarsuinn air an cruachan,
'Nuair thòisicheas na gaisgich ud,
Air taruinn as an truaillean

Chi thu do chuid brataichean,
Ga srachadh ma do chluasan!

Thig Mac-'Ill-Lean Dhubhaird ort
'S gur subhach ni e greim ort,
Le dhaoine laidir lù-chleasach,
Nach diult a là no dh-bidhche,
Ni iad sin do sgiùrsadh-sa
Gu cuil an àite slaighteir,
'S théid thu air do ghluinean daibh
'Nuair chì thu 'gnùis an saighdear

An sin thig ort na Camshronaich,
Fir laidir, ainmeant, èblach,
Da thaobh Loch-iall a's Arasaig,
As chaisteal Inbher-Lòchaidh,
'Nuair a thig na saoidhean sin
Bu mhath gu straoiceadh feòla,
Cha mhios air pronnadh mhullach iad,
'S bu ghnà leo fuil a dhorthadh.

Thig Mac-Néill a Bara ort
Le dhaoine falain finealt,
Daoine bheir a fichead dhiubbh,
Bristeadh a's na mìltean,
Baoisgidh iad mar dhealanach,
Ri òidhche shalach dhìle,
'S m'an téid thu ceart na t-fhaireachadh
— Bidh ainneart mar a's tìr ort.

Thig Clann-an-t-Shaoir á Cruachan ort
Na fir 's an ruaig nach diobradh,
An am dol anns an chabhaig,
Sud na gallanan nach pillte,
Sliochd nan Gàèl cruadalach,
Bu dual daibh a bhì d'leas,
Gu dol an coinneamh Bhonipart,
Chuir onair air an rìoghachd.

'Nuair chruinncheas Clann-Fhiunnlaidh,
Na fir shunntach tha gun eislean,
Bheir iad tha gu cunntais,
As na dh' ùnnsaich tha de dh' eucoir,
C'ait' am beil de Fhràngaich
Na cheannsaicheas le sreup iad,
'S gun tugadh iad gu cìosachadh,
Na mìltean leis na ceudan.

Thig fathast diùc Mhontròise ort,
Le fhearabh mor an deigh ort,
'S ann an sin thig an dòrain ort
'Nuair thoisicheas na Gréumaich
'S an t-aon fhear tha ri t-aodainn,
'S e daonnann cuir retreat ort,
Cha'n fhad' gu'm bì do cheann aige,
Ri crann mas e thoil fein e.

Guidheamaid buaigh-làrach,
Leis na Gàèil anns gach teughbail,

Toil inntinn aig ar càirdean
'S gach nàmhaid a bhì geilleadh,
Mar chuala mis a chaiseamachd
Bha taitneach leam ri éisdeachd,
Air latha soilleir sàmhraidh
'S mi air càbhsairean Dhun-éideann.

ORAN D'A LEANAN.

[Agus sgeul' a bhì air a thogail gun robh i torrach aige, 's e 'g innseadh cho math 'sa bhiodh e dh' i ged a b' fhuir mar chaidh aithris.]

Fhuair mi sgéula moch an dè,
'S cha deach' mi 'n éis ri chluinntinn,
'S cha tug mi geill nach deanainn feum,
Le gaol do 'n té mu 'n d' innseadh,
'S cha toir mi fuath dh' i, 's beag mo luaidh air
Ged a fhuair mi cinnt air,
'Sa dh' aindeoin cruadal ga 'n toir cuairt sinn,
Gheibh sinn bhuainn ri tìm e.

A ghruagach dhonn, ma dh' fhas thu trom,
Tha mis, air bhonn nach dìobair,
Gu 'n seas mi thu, air bhialthaobh cùirt,
'S cha 'n ann an duil do dhìtheadh,
Tha mi air bheachd gu 'n seas mi ceart,
Ge d' bheir am Parson eis diom,
'S gu 'm pàighinn daor air rà do ghaoil,
Na 'n tàrainn saor 'sa 'n tìm so.

Gu 'm pàighinn daor gu t-fhàgail saor,
Mu 'n leiginn t-aodann nàrach',
Fa chombair cùirt mar fhasan ùr,
'S nach robh e 'n rùn do nàduir,
Cha n' eil mi 'n dùl thu dhol na 'n luib,
Mur tig a chuibhle cearr oirun,
'S ma chumas airgead thù o chis,
Gu 'n seas mi fhlu na t-àite.

Gur fad a rachainn ann ad leithsgeul,
Gu do sheasamh cliùiteach,
'S ghabhainn uileadh orm an seisoin,
Gu d' leith-trom a ghiùlan,
'S ged chumadh iad mi ann gun lasadh,
Gus an àt mo shùilean,
Mar dìobair ceartas mi, cha 'n fhaicear,
Chaidh thu ac' fo mhùiseag.

Ach 's truaidh! nach robh mi agus tu,
Dol fo na siùil do dh-Eirinn,
Na thir eile 's faide buainn,
Nach d' ruig air suaimhneas fheutainn,
'S truaigh nach faicinnse bhì seòladh,
A's sinn air bòrd le chéile,
Gun duil a chaidh thig'n' air ar 'n eblas,
Do'n Roinn-Eòrp na dheigh sin!

Ach cia mar 's urrainn domh bhi beò,
'S cho mar sa thug mi spéis dut?
Na cia mar dh' fhaodas mi bhi stòilte
'S mi gun chòir air t-fheutainn?
Ged fhaighinn airgead na Roinn-Eòrpa,
Agus òr na h-Euphaid,
Cha chumadh e mi suas car uaire,
S tu bhi bhuam gun sgeul ort.

Ach cùis mo chruaidail, 's faide bhuam,
An diugh dà uair na 'n dé thu!
S ma leanas tu mar sin air luaths,
Gu 'm bi sinn cuairt bho chéile,
Ach ma thionndas tu do sblios rium,
'S fiosrach mi mar dh' eireas,
Gur gearr an ùin a thàmhast tu,
'Nuair thig do chùl na dheigh sin.

Mas e gun chuir thu rium do chùl
Aun an duil mo threigsinn,
Gus an cuir iad mi 'sa 'n ùir
Cha dean mi tùrn ad dheighse;
Ci mar dh' fhaodas mi bhi saor,
'S nach dean an saoghal feum dhomh?
Mo chridh air fhialach lo do ghaol,
Gun duil a chaoidh ri fheutainn

Tha gaol nam boireannach o 'n òige,
Mar an ceò 'sa chéitean,
Laidhidh e ri madainn dhriùchd,
Ri làr cho dlù 's nach léir dhuinn,
Chi mi 'n t-adhar a's an beanntan,
Dol an ceann a chéile,
Ach sgaoilidh e ri ùin ro ghearr,
Gun fhios cia 'n t-àit' an téid e.

Gur mor a bh' agam ort do mheas,
'S cha tug mi fios do chàch air,
'S o 'n is beairt e tha gun fhios,
Cha 'n innis mis gu bràch e,
Gu'm beil an sean-fhacal o shinnsear',
Tigh'n gu cinnt an drasda—
“ Gur faide bhuam an diugh na 'n dé,
A bhean nach d' fheud mi thàladh.”

Cha 'n eil mo chadal domh ach ciùirt,
'S cha 'n eil mo dhùisg ach cianail,
Cha n' eil an obair dhomh ach cràdh,
'S cha n' fheairrde mi bhi diamhain,
Cha dean laidhe dhomh ach creuchdan,
'S cha toir eiridh dhiom iad,
Cha toir asdar mi gu slainte,
'S cha 'n fhasa tàmh no gnìomh dhomh.

Ged a tha mi 'n so 'sa ghleann,
Cha b' e bhi ann a b' fhearr leam,
'S mar b' e cruaidhead mo chomann,
Bu luath mo dheann ga fhàgail,
Gur fada 'n aimsir tha o 'n uair,
A chualas bhi ga radhainn,
Gur cruaidh an reachd a bhi fo smachd,
'S bidh mise nochd mur tha mi!

Cha b' e chùis bhi nochd an glàis,
Na 'n tiginn aisde a maireach,
Ach bhi 's na fiabhrais fad sheachd bliudhna,
Gun la riamh dhiu tearuinnt;
Cha robb uair gun chuartaich ùr dhomh,
Gur ciùirte rinn iad m' fhàgail,
Nis o 'n lagaich iad mo phearsa,
Tha mo sgairt air failinn!

AM BARD SGIATHANACH.

DONALD M'LEOD, commonly called the “Skye Bard,” was born in the parish of Durness, Isle of Skye, about the year, 1785.—His parents were in humble circumstances, and consequently unable to give him an extended education: but, whether by self-application, or otherwise, he acquired a tolerable knowledge of the Gaelic language.

In the year 1811 he published an octavo volume—consisting of all his own compositions and a few poems, the productions of other bards, ancient and modern. We cannot, however, say that, with the exception of a few pieces, either the original or selected poems, which it contains, are of a high order. Our author was little more than twenty years when he “came out;” the manhood of his mind was not fully formed;—neither reading nor society had ripened his judgment, or refined his taste; and we are convinced, had he profited by the sage admonition of Pope, and left "his piece for seven years", that the character of his book would be far different from what it is.

Donald M'Leod possesses a fine and delicate musical ear, and so fastidious has he proved himself in the nice discrimination of sounds, that, to preserve the smoothness, cadence and harmony of his pieces, original and select, he actually interpolated them with words of no meaning, or, at least, paid no attention to grammatical rules, but took the cases, tenses and numbers, as it suited his convenience.

In the year 1829, he travelled the Highlands, taking in subscriptions for a new work, the prospectus of which is now before us, and promises a "correct history of Calum-Cille, Coinneach Odhar, Am Britheamh Ledghasach agus an Taoitear-Sàileach, from the cradle to the grave." But whether he failed in the attempt of publication, or was otherwise diverted from his object, we cannot say; but the projected volume never made its appearance. This is much to be regretted, for, from the impression made on our minds by M'Leod's talents and legendary lore when we saw him in 1828, we are perfectly warranted in saying that it would amply recompense a perusal. Few men could speak the Gaelic with greater fluency and correctness than our author, and there was an archness about him which set off his story and witticism in an admirable light.

Shortly after the period of which we write, the Skye Bard emigrated to America, and of his history or adventures in the western hemisphere, we know nothing. He returned to his native country last harvest, and set up as a merchant in Glendale, near Dunvegan.

His two pieces here given are not destitute of poetic merit. Indeed, they possess some genuine strokes of grandeur, which entitle them to a place among the productions of poets of higher pretensions and fame. M'Leod possesses within him the elements of true poetic greatness; and if these are brought into fair play, under auspicious circumstances, it is within the compass of possibilities that he may yet take his stand amongst the first class of the minstrels of his country.

ORAN DO REISEAMAID MHIC-SHIMIDH,

CEANN-CINNIDH NAM FRISEALACH SA' BHLIADHNA, 1810.

An am ùracha' fhacail domb,
'S cunntas thoir seachad,
Air cliùteachadh fhasain
Nan gaisgeach tha 'n tràthsas
Air tiunndaidd a steach oirn,
Gu lù-chleasach, aigeantach,
Lùbht' ann am breacain,
'S paiste ann an sgàrlait;
Is cliùteach a bhratach,
'To'n cunntar air faiche sibh,
'Thoir leam nach bu chaidribh,
Ur tachaird le dàmhair ð

Is dlù dha na chasas riubh
Tiunndadh le masladh,
Na'n uine bhi paisgte,
Fo'r casan sa'n aràich,

Cha churam dha'n aitribh,
An dumhlaich ar Caipiteinean,
'S dlù dhaibh an t-achdsa,
Bheir casg' as an nàmhaid;
Le iunnsaidh nam bagraidean,
Fudar na lasraichean,
Dlù dhaibh cha'n fhaighear ð

Na bhagras air pàirt' dhiubh ;
 An cul-thaobh cha 'n fhaicear,
 A tiunnadh le gealtachd,
 Cho dlù 's ga 'm bi 'm feachd
 A bhios aca mar nàmhaid,
 'N am rùsgadh nan glas-lann,
 Biodh cunntas gun astar,
 'S croinn rùiste gun bhratach
 Ga'n stailceadh fo'n sailean.

Cha 'n eil cunntas air fasain
 Fò'n chrùn th'aig Rì Shasuinn,
 Nach eil ionnsaicht' am pearsa,
 Na th'aca de dh'aireamh,
 Is mairneach ri'm faicinn iad,
 'S clùiteach ri'n claidinn iad,
 'S lùghmhor an casan,
 'Sa 's brais an' cath-làmh iad,
 'S àluinn an crisleachadh,
 Sgàbardach, biodagach,
 Stailinneach, pìstealach,
 Slios-lannach, deàrsach ;
 Sgàrlaiteach, leisichte,
 An càradh fo itean,
 Thug stàtachan meas dhaibh,
 Nach fiosraich mo chànan.

Tha Lovat 's a dhaingheann,
 Na shòlas dha'n fhearunn,
 An deònaich iad fanntuinn,
 Nan gearasdain laidir ;
 'S mòr-chuiseach, ceannasach
 'S strolde ro'n taruinn iad,
 'S neòil an cuid lannan,
 Mar Iainnir an sgàthain ;
 A's feidh nan ceann cabrach
 A leumnaich mar bhradain,
 A beucaii, 's a plabraich,
 Rì caismeachd an làmhaich ;
 Miann leirsinn, is claisneachd
 An' éisdeachd, 's am faicinn,
 'S binn gleòraich an caismeachd
 A steach air na sràidean.

O ! dhaoin' nach fac iad,
 'S beàg ionghna a chleachd sibh,
 Mar saoirich sibh 'm fada,
 Gu 'm faicinn an càradh,
 An' caochla' gu beachdaidh,
 Bho 'n aodainn gu'n casan,
 Cho aontach dha 'n fhacal,
 Cha 'n fhacas air làraich ;
 'S pìob mhor a chaol-mhuineil,
 A lùrgeadh luinneig,
 Tro ibhiri cuimr,
 A's ribheidean spàinteach ;
 Siod na chuir umpe,
 'S gaoraich a h-uinneag,

A'g innseadh dha 'n druma'
 Mar chuireas i fàilte.

Bi'dh slàinnte Mhic-Shimidh,
 Na càirdeas dha' chinneadh,
 Sa'n t-àl nach do ghineadh,
 Bidh sireadh roi' chàch orr' ;
 'S ard ann an spiorad e,
 'S laidir an' gillean e,
 'S barr air an t-shiorachd e,
 'S teine e nach smàlair,
 'S gàradh ro ghioraig e,
 Sàbhaladh cinneadh e,
 Slàinte bho thinneas e,
 'S tuilleadh air àird air !
 Bho 'n thàr e mar ghibhteann,
 An àird 's a cuid sliochda'
 Buaidh-làrach biodh tric leis,
 Mu 'm brist' iad am bàra.

Buaidh-làrach air urram,
 Do chàradh a chulair,
 Roi réitichear ullamh
 Gu iomal gach sràide ;
 'S reull ann an Lonnainn thu,
 'S greidhneach do thuras ann',
 Eiridh iad uile,
 Na t-fhuran 's na t-fhàbhar ;
 Séididh na h-uramaich,
 Céir nan cuid uinneagan,
 'S gleusar gach inneal
 Is binne gu cànan ;
 Gach stiobal, 's gach druma,
 Na pìoban, 's na feadain.
 'S na cinn as na tunnaichean
 Ruma le t-àilleas.

Ach ge treun thu mar churaidh,
 'S deich ceud fo do chumail
 Lan-reiseamaid ullamh,
 Gheur, ghuineach, neo-sgàthach.
 'S e sheulaich do bhuinnig,
 Cinn fheodhna na cruinne,
 Lan ceill' agus urraidh,
 A cumal do phàirte ;
 S rioghal do Chaipiteinean,
 'S aoiheil ri 'm faicinn iad,
 S innsinneach, faicileach
 'S laisde air paràd iad,
 Bho shàilean an casan,
 Gu 'm bàrr air a marcadh,
 'S òr faineach na mhapaidh,
 Gu'n achlais bho 'n àirdid ;

Gu'n cluinnte na's beachdaidh iad,
 Sloinnidh mi 'mach dhuibh iad,
 Is lanntairean laisd' iad,
 Cha taisich am blàths iad ;

Eacoir, na craichinín,
 Dh'eiris 'n ar feachdanain,
 'S leir dhomh na chaisgeas e,
 An gaisgeach is màidsear ;
 Ge leibh e na ghlaine,
 'S bàs millteach e 'n carraid,
 Nì shaighdean geur, tana,
 Cum fhala a thràthadh,
 'N glaic diolt' an eich allail,
 'S ard srann ann am falas,
 'S dheannas mar dhealan,
 A gearradh, 's stràcadh.

'S làmh shéunt' thu na t-carradh,
 'S ard iarras do dheannal,
 'Sgriob dheuchain na gallin,
 Sion chal' gun bhàigh thu ;
 'S deuchuineach sealladh
 Air iarbhail do ghalair,
 Cuirp lionmhor ri talamh,
 Nan earruinnean gearrte :
 'S tòir' bhìatach thu 'm fallachd,
 'S corn iatach na falla',
 'S e lion an nì 'n t-annart,
 Is stailceas fo làr iad.
 Bheir ioc-shlainnt' an cannan
 Ceo fiamba ga 'n dalladh,
 A spianas bho 'n talamh,
 Nan deannanan smàil iad.

Ge grumach a sealladh,
 Fo shuaicheatais ballach,
 Mar bhualadh na mara,
 Na falaisge Màirte,
 Tha'n suairceas 's an cenneal,
 'S am boichead mar leannain,
 A buaireadh nan caileag
 'S am mealladh nam pàistean ;
 Theid Bainn-tighearnan glana,
 Dhe'n cuimhne 's dhe'n aithne'
 Cho cinnteach 's dh' amais mi,
 'N eallaidh-sa ràite,
 'S biodh banntaichcean fhearaibh,
 'S an clann air an dronnaig,
 Le geall an cuid bán,
 A bhì falach fo' chàrn leibh.

Note.—The above spirited song is now partly freed from the obscurity which characterized it in the author's own collection—it will still, however, task the understanding of many readers, but we could make no further emendations without manifest danger to the structure of the piece.

SMEORACH NAN LEODACH

BARD LOCH-FINE.

EVAN M'COLL, better known to his countrymen as the "Mountain Minstrel," or "Clàrsair nam Beann," was born at Kenmore, Loch-Fyne-side, in the year 1812. His parents, although not affluent, were in the enjoyment of more comfort than generally falls to the lot of Highland peasants; and were no less respected for their undeviating moral rectitude than distinguished for their hospitality, and the practice of all the other domestic virtues that hallow and adorn the Highland hearth. The subject of our memoir was the second youngest of a large family of sons and daughters. At a very early age he displayed an irresistible thirst for legendary lore and Gaelic poetry; but, from the seclusion of his native glen and other disadvantageous circumstances, he had but scanty means for fanning the latent flame that lay dormant in his breast. M'Coll, however, greedily devoured every volume he could procure, and when the labours of the day were over, would often resort to some favourite haunt where, in the enjoyment of that solitude which his father's fire-side denied him, he might be found taking advantage of the very moonlight to pore over the minstrelsy of his native country, until lassitude or the hour of repose compelled him to return home.

His father, Dugald M'Coll, seems to have been alive to the blessings of education; for as the village school afforded but little or nothing worthy of that name, he, about the time that our bard had reached his teens, hired a tutor for his family at an amount of remuneration which his slender means could scarcely warrant. The tutor's stay was short, yet sufficiently long to accomplish one good purpose—that of not only enabling Evan properly to read and understand English, but also of awakening in him a taste for English literature. A circumstance occurred about this time which tended materially to encourage our author's poetic leanings. His father, while transacting business one day in a distant part of his native parish, fell in with a Paisley weaver, who, in consequence of the depression of trade, had made an excursion to the Highlands with a lot of old books for sale. M'Coll bought the entire lot, and returned home groaning under his literary burden, which Evan received with transports of delight. Among other valuable works, he was thus put in possession of the "Spectator," "Burns' Poems," and the "British Essayists." He read them with avidity, and a new world opened on his view: his thoughts now began to expand, and his natural love of song received an impetus which no external obstacles could resist.

Contemporaneous with this literary impulsion, was the artillery of a neighbouring Chloe, whose eyes had done sad havoc among the mental fortifications of our bard: he composed his first song in her praise, and, although he had yet scarcely passed the term of boyhood, it is a very respectable effort, and was very well received by his co-parishioners. The circumstances in which his father was placed, rendered it necessary for him to engage in the active operations of farming and fishing, and he was thus employed for several years.

In the year 1837, he threw off the mask of anonymity, and appeared as a contributor to the Gaelic Magazine, then published in Glasgow. His contributions excited considerable interest, and a general wish was expressed to have them published in a separate form by all Highlanders, with the exception of his own immediate neighbours, who could not conceive how a young man, with whom they had been acquainted from his birth, should rise superior to themselves in intellectual stature and in public estimation. They of course discovered that our youthful bard was possessed of a fearful amount of temerity, and the public, at the same time, saw that they were miserably blockaded in their own mental timberism. If native talent is not to be encouraged by fostering it under the grateful shade of generous friendship, it ought, at least, to have the common justice of being allowed to work a way for itself, unclogged by a solitary fetter—unchilled by the damping breath of unmerited contempt or discouragement. The high-souled inhabitants of Inverary failed to extinguish the flame of M'Coll's lamp; and now, as they are not probably much better engaged, we recommend them to "see themselves as others see them," in our author's retaliative poem, "Slochd a Chopair," in which they are strongly mirrored, and the base metal of which they are made powerfully delineated. ◊

It is well for dependant merit that there are gentlemen who have something ethereal in them: much to their honour, Mr Fletcher of Dunans, and Mr Campbell of Islay, patronized our author, and through the generously exercised influence of either, or both of these gentlemen, M'Coll was appointed to a situation, which he now holds, in the Liverpool Custom-house.

M'Coll ranks very high as a poet. His English pieces, which are out of our way, possess great merit. His Gaelic productions are chiefly amorous, and indicate a mind of the most tender sensibilities and refined taste. The three poems, annexed to this notice, are of a very superior order: one of them comes under that denomination of poetry called pastoral or descriptive, and evinces powers of delineation, a felicity of conception, and a freshness of ideality not equalled in modern times. The second is an elegiac piece, before whose silver, mellifluent tones we melt away, and are glad to enjoy the luxury of tears with the weeping muse. The love ditty is a natural gush of youthful affection, better calculated to show us the aspirations of the heart than the most elaborate production of art. M'Coll imitates no poet; he has found enough in nature to instruct him—he moves majestically in a hitherto untraversed path; and, if we are not continually in raptures with him, we never tire—never think long in his company. But we are reminded that praises bestowed on a living author subject us to the imputation of flattery:—long may it be ere Evan M'Coll is the subject of any posthumous meed of laudation from us!

LOCH-AIC.

A LOCH-AICE na gnùis' chaoin—
Gnùis ghabh gaol air a bhi cùin,

Ged tha iad an diùgh air chall!

O air son a bhi leam féin!
'Siubhal sèimh taobh loch nan sgèrr

'S dh' fhairich i gur ann bho sìn

“ Thig a's taigh, a Shine bhàn !
Thig, a ghràidh, gun eagal beud ;
Feuch an oidhche dhubh m' an cuairt—
'S fada bhuat do dhachaigh féin.”

Chaidh i 's taigh—ma's fìor mo sgeul—
'Thuit i 'n gaol air fear a chiùil !
Dh' òl i 'n deoch bu deoch do chàch,
'S tuilleadh riamh cha d'fhàg i 'n dùn.

AIREAMH TAGHTA

DE

SHAR-OBAIR NAM BARD GAELACH;

A CHOICE COLLECTION

OF

THE BEAUTIES OF GAELIC POETRY,

ORIGINAL AND SELECT.

The following songs and poems are the productions of gentlemen, who invoked the muse only on rare occasions, and under the impulse of strong feelings excited by extraordinary events;—or, of individuals of whose history little is known to the world, and whose works were not sufficiently voluminous to entitle them to a place among the professed or recognised bards. When the tide of chivalry ran high in the Highlands, and ere the Gaelic ceased to be spoken in the chief's hall, it was deemed no disparagement to people of the highest rank to embody their feelings on any subject in Keltic poetry. Many of these pieces are of commanding merit, and it is hoped that they will form an appropriate and valuable appendage to this work. So far as practicable, the paternity of the poem is given, and such historical and illustrative notes are interspersed as the full elucidation of the subject seemed to require.

MOLADH CHABAIR-FEIDH

LE TORMOD BAN MAC-LEOID.

DROCH-SLAINTE ' chabair féidh so
Gur h-éibhinn 's gur h-aighearach;
Ge fada bho thír fein e,
Mhic Dhé greas g'a fhearann e;
Mo chrochadh a's mo cheusadh,
A's m' éideadh nar mheala mi,
Mur áit leam thu bhi 'g eiridh
Le treun neart gach caraide!
Gur mise chunna' sibh gu gunnach,
Ealamb, ullamh, acuinneach;
Ruith nan Rothach 's math 'ur gnothach,
Thug sibh sothadh maidne dháibh;
Cha deach' Cataich air an tapadh,
Dh'fhag an neart le eagal iad,
Ri faiciun ceann an fhéidh ort
'Nuair dh'eirich do chabar ort!

Be'n t-amadan fear Fòluis,
'Nuair thòisich e cogadh riut;
Rothaich agus Ròsaich—
Bu ghòrach na bodaich iad;
Frisealaich a's Grandaich,
An càmpa cha stadadh iad;
'S thug Foirbeisich nan teann-ruith,
Gu seann taigh Chuilodair orr'.
Theich iad uile 's cha dh-fhuirich
An treas duine 'bh'aca-san;
An t-Iarla Catach ruith e dhachaigh—
Cha do las a dhagachan;
Mac-Aoidh nan creach gun thar e as.
'S ann dh'éigh e 'n t-each a b' aigeannaich,
Ri gabhal an ra-treuta,
'Nuair dh-eirich do chabar ort!

'S ann an sin bha 'm fuathas
 Ga'n ruagadh thar bhealaichean,
 An deas dhuinn a's an tuath dhuinn,
 Gu luath ruith ro' d' cheann-eideadh ;
 Mar sgaoth a dh'coin nam fuar-bheann,
 A's gruaim air a h-uile fear,
 A tearnadh bho na sléibhteann
 Gu réidhleinn 's gu cladaichean.
 Dh'eigh iad port 's gu'n d'fhuair iad coit,
 'S bu bheag an toirt mar thachair dhaibh ;
 Ciod e'n droch rud rinn am brosnach',
 Le'n cuid mosg nach freagrach srad,
 'S a liuthad toirtear dheth na Rothaich,
 Dol air flod thar chlaigeanann ?
 'S ann ghabh iad an ratreata,
 'Nuair dh'eirich do chabar ort !

Gu'm faigh mi fein mi dhùrachd—
 ('Se dhùisg as mo chadal mi)
 An Tì da'n geill na dùilean,
 'S da 'n ùmhlaich na h-uile ni,
 Gun greas e thu gu d' dhùthaich,
 Gu h-uiseil 's gu h-urramach !
 Gur tu nach leigeadh cùis,
 Leis na dh-Ghaill nach buineadh dhaibh ;
 'S tu bheireadh clotha do' luchd gnothaich,
 Gun fhios co a throdadh riut ;
 Am fine Rothach chuir thu fothadh
 Ge mor leotha 'n ladornas,
 Ga'n cuir romhad le'n ruith-choimhich,
 'S am baile-nodha na shradagan,
 'S na lasair anns na speuran,
 Nuair dh'eirich do chabar ort !

Chunna mi m'a thuath thu,
 'S gu'm b'uaichdaran allail thu ;
 Bha Cataich fo do chùram,
 'S dh' ùmhlaich na Gallaich dhut ;
 'S gach tì bha riut an diùmba,
 'S nach dùirigeadh sealladh ort,
 A faicinn bhí ga'n sgiùrsadh,
 Gu dùthaich nach buineadh dhaibh.
 Le gasraidh fhinealt dheth do chinneadh
 Nach gabh giorag eagalach ;
 Luchd chlogaid 's bhiodag 's chorcan bireach,
 Cha philleadh luchd-bagairt iad ;
 Thig feachd Mhic-Shimi gu do mhilleadh,
 'S ruithidh iad gu saidealta ;
 'S gu'n teich iad o chlár t-eudainn,
 'Nuair dh'eireas do chabar ort !

Tb'am brochan a' toirt sàr dhuibh,
 'S tha 'n càl a' toirt àt oirbh ;
 Ach 's beag is misde 'n t-àrmunn,
 'Ur sàth thoirt an nasgaidh dhuibh :
 Ge mòr a thug sibh chàise,
 Thar àiridhean Asainne,

Cha'n fhacas cuirm a'm Fòlais,
 Ge mòr bha do chearcan ann ;
 Caisteal biorach, nead na h-ìolair',
 Coin a's gillean gortach ann ;
 Cha'n fhaicear bioran ann ri teinne,
 Mur bidh dileag bhrochain ann ;
 Cha'n fhaicear mairt-eoil ann am poit ann,
 Mur bi cearc ga plotaigeadh ;
 'S ga'n tional air an déirce,
 'Nuair thréigeas gach cosgais iad.

Cha'n eil ian 's na speuran,
 Is breine n'an ìolaire,
 Cha 'u ionan idir beus d'i,
 'S do dh-fhéidh anns na frichean ;—
 Bì'dh iadsa moch ag eiridh,
 A feuchainn a bhìolaire ;
 'S bì'dh is' air sean each caoile,
 Rì slaodadh a mhìonaich as ;
 Chuir i spuir astaigh na churach,
 A's thug i fhuil na spadul as,
 An-t-ian gun sonas' gearraidh donais,
 Bì'dh na coin a' sàbaid ris ;
 'S breun an t-isean e air iteig,
 Gun fhios c'ait' an stadadh e,—
 Mas' olc a lean e àbhaist,
 Cha b' fheàrr far na chaidil e.

Cha'n eil ian 'san t-saoghal
 R' a fhaotainn tha coltach riut,—
 Cha'n ithear do chuid sìthne—
 Rinn firinn a' mollachadh ;
 Ged tha ort iteag db'ireach,
 Mar fhior shaighdead corranach,
 S ged' thuirte iad riut am fireun,
 Tha ionan an donuis ort !
 S ioma buachaille th' air fuar chnoc,
 Agus cuaille bàt' aige' ;
 Ni guidhe bhuan do bhuntain bhuaith,
 'S a bhuaileas bho do thapadh thu ;
 'Nuair bheir thu ruaig air feadh nan uan,
 'S a bhios buaireas acrais ort,
 'N uair thachras cabar féidh ort,
 Gu'm feum thu bhí suasadh dha !

Tha cabar-fèarna Dhòmhuill,
 Mar spòrs' anns an talamh's ac' ;
 Nach innseadh sibh dhomh's e,
 'S gu'm b'eol domh a charachadh ;
 'S chuirinn fios gu h-eòlach,
 Gu Seòras an caraideach,
 Gur h-e Fear Dhuin-Dòmhuill,
 Le lùn chum an t-anam ris ;
 'Bhiasd gun mheas, gun mhiagh gun, ghliocas
 Riamh bu tric 's an talamh-s' thu ;
 Dh'ol a's dh'ith thu trian do d' paiseach,
 'S tu an t-isean amaideach ;

Chuir na Rothaich thu air ghnòthach,
 S tu an t-amhusg aineolach,
 'S ged' thug Clann-Choinnich miadh ort,
 Cha b' fhiach thu 'n treas earrainn deth.

Faire! faire! 'shaoghail,
 Gur caochlaidheach carach thu.
 Chunna mise Si-phort,
 'Nam pìoban cruaidh, sgalanta,
 Nach robh an Alb' a dh'aon-shluagh,
 Ged shineadh Mac-Caillein ris,
 Na chumadh riuts an eudann,
 'Nuair dh'eireadh do chabar ort!
 Dh'eireadh leat an còir 'san ceart,
 Le trian do neart gu bagarach,
 Na bh'eadar Asainn, a's fa dheas,
 Gu ruig Sgalpa chraganach,
 Gach fear a glacadh gunna snàip,
 Claidheamh glas, no dagachan,—
 Bu leat Sir Dòmhnall Shléibhte,
 'Nuair dh'eireadh do chabar ort!

Dh'eireadh leat fir Mhùideirt,
 'Nuair ruisgte do bhrataichean,
 Le 'n lannan daite dù-ghorm,
 Gu'n ciuirte na marcaich leo;
 Mac-Alasdair 's Mac-Ionmhuinn,
 Le 'n cuilbheirean acuinneach;
 'Nuair rachadh iad 'san iorghuill,
 Gu'm b' ioghna mur tròdadh iad :—
 B'ìdh tu fhathast gabhail aighear,
 Ann am Brathuinn bhaidéalach,
 B'ìdh cinne t-athair ort a feitheamh,
 Co bhrathadh bagradh ort?
 B'ìdh fion ga chaitheamh feadh do thaighe,
 'S nisge-beatha feadanach;
 'S gur lionmhor pìob' ga'n gleusadh,
 'Nuair dh'eireas do chabar ort!

Note.—Norman M'Leod, the author of the foregoing popular clan song was a native of Assynt, Sutherlandshire. Little is known to us of his parentage except that he moved in the higher circles of his country, and upon his marriage, rented an extensive farm in his native parish. He had two sons whose status in society shows that he was in comfortable, if not affluent circumstances—one of them was Professor Hugh M'Leod of the University of Glasgow; and the other, the Rev. Angus M'Leod, Minister of Rogart in the county of Sutherland. Both sons were men of considerable erudition and brilliant parts,—and Angus's name is still mentioned in the North with feelings of kindness and respect.

Norman M'Leod lived long on a footing of intimate familiarity and friendship with Mr M'Kenzie of Ardloch whose farm was contiguous to that of our author; and "Cabar-feidh," which has single-handed stamped the celebrity of M'Leod, arose out of the following circumstance. The earl of Sutherland issued a commission to William Munroe of Achany, who, with a numerous body of retainers and clansmen, by virtue of said commission, made a descent on Assynt and carried off a great many cattle. This predatory excursion was made in the latter end of summer, when, according to the custom of the country, the cattle were grazing on distant pasturages at the sheilings, a circumstance which proved very favourable to the foragers—for they not only took away the cattle, but also plundered the sheilings, and thus possessed themselves of a great quantity of butter and cheese. Indignant at the baseness and injustice of such cowardly conduct, M'Leod invoked the muse and composed "Cabar-feidh," or the clan-song of the M'Kenzies—making it the vehicle of invective and bitter sarcasm against the Sutherlanders and Munroes, who had antecedently made themselves sufficiently obnoxious to him by their adherence to the Hanoverian cause in 1745.

That a production teeming with so much withering declamation and piquancy of wit should have told upon its hapless subjects, may be reasonably supposed. Munroe was particularly sore on the subject, and threatened that the bard should forfeit his life for his temerity, if ever they should meet. They were personally unacquainted with each other; but chance soon brought them face to face. Munroe was commonly known by a grey-coloured bonnet which he wore, and was called "Uilleam a bhonaid uidhir." One day as he entered Ardguy Inn, there sat Norman M'Leod, on his way to Tain, regaling himself with bread and butter, and cheese and ale. Munroe was ignorant of the character of the stranger; not so M'Leod—he immediately knew Achany by the colour of his bonnet—drunk to him with great promptitude, and then offered him the horn with the following extemporary salutation :—

"Aran a's im a's cais,
 Mu'n tig am bas air Tormod;
 A's deoch do fhir an rothaid,
 'S cha ghabh na Rothaich fearg ris."

which may be translated thus—

Bread and butter and cheese to me,
 Ere death my mouth shall close;
 And, traveller, there's a drink for thee,
 To please the black Munroes.

Achany was pleased with the address, quaffed the ale, and when he discovered who the courteous stranger was, he cordially forgave him, and cherished a friendship for him ever after. Years after the events recorded above, the poet's son, Angus, then a young licentiate, waited upon Achany, relative to the filling up of the vacancy in the parish of Rogart.—"And do you really think, Sir," said Achany, "that I would use my influence to get a living for your father's son? Cabar-feidh is not forgotten yet." "No! and never will," replied the divine, "but if I get the parish of Rogart, I promise you it shall never be sung or recommended from the pulpit there!" "Thank you! thank you!" said Achany, "that is one important point carried—you are not so bad as your father after all, and we must try to get the kirk for you!" He gave him a letter to Dunrobin and he got the appointment.

"Cabar-feidh" is one of the most popular songs in the Gaelic language, and deservedly so. It has been erroneously ascribed to Matheson, the family-bard of Seaforth; but now for the first time, it is legitimately paternized, and the only correct edition, which has yet appeared, is here given. The song itself bears internal evidence that our history of its paternity is strictly correct; and our proofs in corroboration are numerous and decisive. Nothing can surpass the exultation of the bard while he sings the superiority of the clan M'Kenzie over those, who have drawn upon themselves the lash of his satire. The line "Nuair dh'eireadh do chabar ort!" falling in at the end of some of the stanzas, has an electrifying effect; and, although figurative in its language, is so applicable as to transport us beyond ourselves to those feudal times when our mountain warriors rushed to the red field of battle to conquer or to die. The music, as well as the poem, is M'Leod's, and forms one of the most spirit-stirring airs that can be played on the bagpipe; so popular, indeed, has this tune been in many parts of the Highlands, that it was not danced as a common reel, but as a sort of country-dance. We have seen "Cabar-feidh" danced in character, and can bear testimony that, for diversified parts, for transitions, mazes and evolutions, it yields not, when well performed, to any "Cotillon bred new from France."

Note—The above truly admirable song was composed by William M'Kenzie, the Gairloch and Lochbroom catechist, commonly called An Ceistear Crùbach, owing to a lameness which he had. He was a native of the parish of Gairloch, and was born about the year 1670. In his early years, M'Kenzie had the reputation of being a serious young man: he committed to memory the whole of the questions of the Shorter Catechism in Gaelic, and was subsequently allowed a small stated salary for going about from hamlet to hamlet in the forementioned parishes, catechising the young, and imparting religious instruction to all who chose to attend his meetings. It was while employed on these missions that he composed the foregoing. It was the dead of winter: the houses were far apart—a tremendous storm came on—and our author, to save his life, was compelled to stand in the shelter of a rock. In this situation he was fortunately discovered, and conveyed on horseback to the house of Mr M'Kenzie of Balone, where he experienced the greatest kindness. He forthwith invoked his muse, and celebrated the praises of his host's sister, then a beautiful young lady, and afterwards Mrs M'Kenzie of Kernsary, in Gairloch. A song of less poetic grandeur and merit might well have immortalized any mountain maid, and established the reputation of the author, and put it beyond the reach of destruction.

M'Kenzie continued to officiate in the capacity of perambulatory catechist for a period of seven years, and was then deposed, under circumstances which we shall briefly recount. He happened to be in Strath Gairloch at a time when the nuptials of one of the native rustics were celebrated; and, contrary to what he might well expect, he was left uncalled to the feast. How he felt in consequence of this indignity, we would probably have been left in the dark, had not two or three others, who had been slighted like himself, congregated where he lived, having with them a bottle of whisky. The glass went round, and various witticisms and epigrams were exploded, manifesting the contempt in which they held the newly-married couple, and the entire round of their relatives and guests. At length it was propounded to the catechist whether he ought not to commemorate the circumstances in a poem or song. Forgetting the sacredness of his office and the tenure by which he held his situation, in the buoyancy of the moment, he sung the following extemporary effusion before they separated:—

ORAN EADAR CARAID OG OIÐHCHE, 'M BAINNSE.

AIR FÖNN—"Oran na Feannaty."

Isr.—'S mithich dhuinne bhì 'g eiridh,
O'n tha sin feumach air cadal,
Bho na rinn sinn n-ar suipeir,
Cha dean sin fuireach na 's faide;
Mas a math an cuid leumnaich,
Biodh iad fein ris gu latha,
An rud sin th'agad a dhuine,
'S an ris is mo n-ar annas,
Gu fios a bhlas.

ESAN.—'S fada 'n latha gu h-oidhche,
'S fuid' an oidhche na'n latha,
'S ionadh seachdain sa' bhliadhna,
Gu bhì 'g iarraidh gu leithid,
'S misde sinne 'sinn gorach,
A dhol a thoiseachadh brais ris,
'S ma ni sinn' n'ar milleadh,
Gur h-ann is meas' an dibhear ann,
'S nach 'eil sinn sean.

Isr.—Ach c'uirme 's misde sinn fhiachalan,
Dh'fhiach am fiach dhuinn a leantulan,
'S ma chi thu fein na chuis ghrain e,
Cha bhì mi dana ga taagar;
Chuala mi' aig mo mhathair,
Gur ni gnathalate leithid,
'S gur beag math d'ann sa phosadh,
'S a bhì as aonais an thasain,
'S e aig gach neach.

ESAN.—'S truagh nach robh mi gun phosadh,
Arsa broinean 's e 'g eiridh,
Bu mhodha m' feum air a chadal,
S mi 'n deigh coiseachd an aonich,
Chall mi craiceann nam meoirean,
Ann 's na brogan 'a iad daor dhomb,
'S cha dian mi 'n obair air t-aileas,
Ge b'ì b' fhearr air an t-saoghail
'S nach 'eil mi 'n sgairt.

Isr.—Dh'bidh i air do sheanaclaus,
'S maing a dh'fhalbh leat thar aonaich,
'S truagh nach robh mi gun dear ort,
Ach mi dh'fhaicinn an t-saoghail,
Le do chroma-shlaid gun phiseach.
Nach tig thuige fo'n aodach
'S maing a thachair ad chuideachd,
Fhior thrudair nan daone,
'Sa ghlogaidh-both!

ESAN.—A Rìl bu mhise chris thruis leat,
'S moch a fhuair mi mo mhahadh,
Cha bhìd do thoibheim cho lath dhomb,
Na bidh tu stusime na narach,
Dh'fhaodadh tusa bhì suas leis,
Na'n deannan uair ann san raithe 'e,
'S misde dh'fhuireach'as aonais,
Thun na h-aois so a tha mi,
Gun dol na char.

Isr.—Dh' aithnich mise ort nach b'fhiach thu.
'S gu'm bu shiachaire breun thu,
'S nach robh duine 's na crìochan,
Cho measa rian air an fheum riut,
Tha mi dh'easbhuidh do sporsa,
Dh-fhalbh mi phosadh au de les!
'S mar faigh mi uniseachd fo maireach,
A chaidh cha charaichear breid orm,
'S cha ruig mi leas.

ESAN.—Bì tu sin ann a naire,
Mar a caraichear breid ort,
Bheir gach nabaidd dhut toibheum;
'Nuair a chluinn iad mar dh'èirich;
Ge do ruigeadh tu 'm Parann,
Gu n-ar sgaradh bho cheille;
A chaidh cha 'n fhaigh thu chead posadh
'S e 'n aghaidh ordugh na cleire,
'S nach 'eil e ceart.

Isr.—Jannis thusa dhomb 'n fhìrinn,
Na'm beil feum dhomb bhì fuireach,
Na'm beil comas air t-inleachd,
No 'na dhult thu mi builleach,
Mas eochair tha fas ort,
Gu do lamh chuir sa 'n obair
Fagaidh mis thu chn enlath,
Ris na seoid tha ris cumanta,
Bho chian fad.

ESAN.—'Nuair a thainig an oidhche,
'S nach robh soills' ann ach dorcha,
'Sa chaidil an duthaich,
'S nach robh dail ri luchd falbha,
Air an obair gun shin e,
'Nuair a dh'èirich a mheannach,
'S theab nach sguraidh e fhathasd,
Le ma thaitim am baragan ud
Ris cho math.

Isr.—'S fearr ad na bhì falamh,
Ma ni thu cleachdadh d'eth 'n comhnuidh,
'S mas ann am feobhas a theid thu,
Cha dian mi t-eibheach na t-olach,
Cha'n 'eil air n'air ach sineadh,
'S a bhì ga sir dheanamh comhnuidh,
Cha bhì fàiteachan treubhach,
'S bhìd don-bhìd air fear brorach
Nach teid na char.

This comic-satirical production was soon made public, and the author was lauded by one party, and denounced by another. The ministers of Gairloch and Loch-broom shook their heads—shuddered at the profanity of the catechist, and gave intimation from their respective pulpits that the catechistical labours of our author had ceased! He was previously dragged before the Presbytery, examined, and cross-examined, as to the extent and number of his bardic delinquencies. One or two of the elders and ministers had the hardihood to espouse his cause while thus arraigned at the Presbytery's bar, and insisted that the reverend judges should hear the song from his own lips. "I can repeat no song," said the bard, "unless I accompany the words with an air; and to sing here would be altogether unbecoming." This obstacle was removed by consent of the Moderator, and he sung the song with great glee, while his judges were more obliged to their handkerchiefs than to their gravity for the suppression of risibility. It does not appear that M'Kenzie was ever afterwards restored to his situation. He died at a good old age, and was buried in Creagan-an-Inbhir of Muckle Greenard, Lochbroom.

* The author of this popular song was Malcolm M'Lean, a native of Kinlochewe, in Ross-shire. M'Lean had enlisted in the army when a young man, and upon obtaining his discharge, was allowed some small pension. Having returned to his native country, he married a woman, who, for patience and resignation, was well worthy of being styled the sister of Job. Malcolm now got the occupancy of a small pendicle of land and grazing for two or three cows in Glensgaith, at the foot of Ben-fuathais, in the county of Ross. M'Lean during his military career seems to have learned how to drown dull care as well as "fight the French"—he was a bacchanalian of the first magnitude. He does not, however, appear to have carried home any other of the soldier's vices with him. Few men have had the good fortune to buy immortality at so cheap a rate of literary and poetical labour as "Calum a Ghlinne;" on this single ditty his reputation shall stand unimpaired as long as Gaelic poetry has any admirers in the Highlands of Scotland.

The occasion of the song was as follows: M'Lean had an only child, a daughter of uncommon beauty and loveliness; but owing to the father's squandering what ought,

Gur muldach mi,
'S mi 'n deigh nach math leam,
Na dheanadh dhut stà

under any economical system of domestic government, to have formed her dowry, she was unwooed, unsought, and, for a long time, unmarried. The father, in his exordium, portrays the charms and excellent qualities of his daughter, dealing about some excellent side-blows at fortune-hunters, and taking a reasonable share of blame to himself for depriving her of the bait necessary to secure a good attendance of wooers.

The song is altogether an excellent one, possessing many strokes of humour and flights of poetic idealism of no common order; while its terseness and comprehensiveness of expression are such, that one or two standing proverbs or adages have been deduced from it. His "Nighean dubh Thogarrach," and her husband were living in the parish of Contin, in the year 1769. Malcolm, so far as we have been able to ascertain, never got free of his tavern propensities, for which he latterly became so notorious, that when he was seen approaching an inn, the local toppers left their work and flocked about him. He was a jolly good fellow in every sense of the word; fond of singing the songs of other poets, for which nature had provided him with an excellent voice. He died about the year 1764.

* The virtue of mildness in his wife was often put to the test, and found to be equal to the glowing representation of the poet. Malcolm had occasion to go to Dingwall on a summer day for a boll of oatmeal; and having experienced the effects of a burning sun and sultry climate, he very naturally went into a public-house on his way to refresh himself. Here he came in contact with a Badenoch drover, who, like himself, did occasional homage at the shrine of the red-eyed god. Our "worthy brace of tapers" entered into familiar confab; gill was called after gill until they got gloriously happy. Malcolm forgot, or did not choose to remember, his meal; the drover was equally indifferent about his own proper calling—and thus they sat and drank, and roared and ranted, until our poet told his last sixpence on the table. After a pause, and probably revolving the awkwardness of going home without the meal, "Well," said Malcolm, "if I had more money, I would not go home for some time yet." "That's easily got," replied his cronny, "I'll buy the grey horse from you." The animal speedily changed owners, and another and more determined onslaught on "blue ruin" was the consequence. Our poet did nothing by halves,—he quaffed stoup after stoup until his pockets were emptied a second time. "Egad!" exclaimed M'Lean, making an effort to lift his head and open his eyes, "I must go now!" "You must," rejoined his friend, "but I cannot see, for the life of me, how you can face your wife." "My wife!" exclaimed the bard in astonishment, "pshaw! man, she's the woman that never said or will say worse to me than "Dia leat a Chalum," that is, God bless you Malcolm. "I'll lay you a bet of the price of the horse and the meal that her temper is not so good, and that you will get an entirely different salutation," replied the drover, who had no great faith in the taciturnity of the female sex. "Done!" my recruit, vociferated the bard, grasping the other eagerly by the hand. Away went Malcolm and with him the landlord and other two men, to witness and report what reception our drouthy friend should meet. He entered his dwelling, and, as he approached on the floor, he staggered and would have fallen in the fire, placed grateless in the centre of the room, had not his wife flung her arms affectionately about him, exclaiming, "Dia leat a Chalum." "Ah!" replied Malcolm, "why speak thus softly to me,—I have drunk my money and brought home no meal." "A heatherbell for that," said his helpmate, "we will soon get more money and meal too." "But," continued the intoxicated poet, "I have also drunk the grey horse!" "What signifies that, my love," rejoined the excellent woman, "you, yourself are still alive and mine, and never shall we want—never shall I have reason to murmur while my Malcolm is sound and hearty." It was enough: the drover had to count down the money, and in a few hours Mrs M'Lean had the pleasure of hailing her husband's return with the horse and meal.

Note.—The above popular song has been attributed to so many reputed poets, that we feel great pleasure in putting the reader right on the subject. The Perthshire people claimed it for the late Rev. Dr Irvine of Little Dunkeld; while the others were equally certain that it was the production of Mr Archibald Currie, teacher of the Grammar School, Rothesay. To arrive at a satisfactory conclusion as to its paternity, we have instituted the necessary inquiries, and have now the satisfaction to announce that it is the composition of Mr Angus Fletcher, parochial schoolmaster of Dunoon. We subjoin Mr Fletcher's letter in reply to our communication:—

"I was born at Coirin-t-shee (Coirinti), a wild, sequestered, and highly romantic spot on the west bank of Loch-eck, in Cowal, early in June, 1776; and was chiefly educated at the parish school of Kilmodan, Glendaruel. From Glendaruel I went to Bute in 1791, where I was variously employed until May, 1804, when I was elected parochial schoolmaster of Dunoon, and that situation I have continued to fill (however unworthily) hitherto.

"The 'Lassie of the Glen' is my earliest poetical production, and came warm from the heart at the age of 16 years. 'Clachan Ghlinn—da-ruail,' I think, was composed in 1807, in compliment to a very 'bonnie He-lan' lassie,' Miss Jean Currie of Coirechnaive, now Mrs B——n. In this song, although I believe the best of the two, the heart was not at all concerned. It appeared first in the 'Edinburgh Weekly Journal,' with my initials, and has been evidently copied from that paper into Turner's Collection of Gaelic Songs. The verse beginning 'Nuair 'shuidheas Cleir na tìre leam,' has reference to the situation I then held of deputy-clerk to the Presbytery of Dunoon, and to the office of Session-clerk of the united parish of Dunoon and Kilmun, which I still hold."

Here, then, the authorship of "Clachan Ghlinn—daruail" is settled. It is one of the best and most popular of our amorous pieces, and, although the talented author says that "the heart was not at all concerned" in it, we venture to remind him that Nature, that excellent schoolmistress, had taught him to study her ways. The air to which it is sung is also very popular, and is known in the Lowlands by the name of Neil Gow's Strathspey. But, without wishing to denude that celebrated violinist of any of his laurels, we beg to inform the reader that that air was known in the Highlands centuries before Neil was born. It is called "Ceileireachd na Mnatha Sìh," or the "Fairy's Carol," and has the following tradition annexed to it. A certain farmer had engaged a young beautiful female as herd and dairymaid, for a period of twelve months. During the first days of her servitude, as her character and history were altogether unknown, it was necessary to have a sharp eye after her. On one occasion while her employer went out to see whether she was tending the cattle with due care, he found her dancing lightly on the green, and singing a Gaelic song, one verse of which we subjoin:—

"Am bun a chruidh cha chaitiris mi,
Am bun a chruidh cha bhi mi;
Am bun a chruidh cha chaitiris mi,
'S mo leabaidh anns an t-shithean."

We beg to translate this for the sake of the English reader,—

I'll tend not long thy cattle, man,
I'll tend not long thy bullock;
I'll tend not long thy cattle, man,
My bed is in yon hillock.

But to return to Mr Fletcher, we are sorry that want of room prevents us from giving the "Lassie of the Glen" in Gaelic. We annex, however, an English translation of it which has deservedly become very popular. It is from Mr Fletcher's own pen.

AIR—"Cum an Fhiasag rìbeach bhuam."

Beneath a hill 'mang birken bushes,
By a burnie's dimpilt linn,
I told my love with artless blushes,
To the Lassie o' the Glen.

*O! the birken bank sae grassie,
Hey! the burnie's dimpilt linn:
Dear to me's the bonnie lassie,
Living in yon rashie glen.*

Lanely Rnail! thy stream sae glassie,
Shall be aye my fav'rite theme;
For, on thy banks, my Highland lassie,
First confessed a mutual flame.
O! the birken, &c.

What bliss to sit and nane to fash us,
In some sweet wee bow'ry den!
Or fondly stray among the rashes,
Wi' the Lassie o' the Glen!
O! the birken, &c.

And though I wander now unhappy,
Far frae scenes we haunted then,
I'll ne'er forget the bank sae grassie,
Nor the Lassie o' the Glen.
O! the birken, &c.

MALI BHEAG OG.

NACH truagh leat mi 's mi 'm prìosan.

A bhean na mala mìne,
'S na 'm pogan mar na fìoguis,
'S tu nach fagadh shìos mi,
Le mi-rùn do bheoil.

Di-dòmhnach anns a' ghleann duinn,

'Nuair thoisich mi ri cainnt riut;
Mo chuid de'n t-saogal mhòr.
'Nuair dh'fhosgail mi mo shùilean,

 Mo Mhàli bheag òg,
 'Nuair 'thain an 'sluagh mu'n cuairt duinn
 Mo rìbhinn ghlan ùr :

Gur bòiche leam a dh' fhas thu.
 Mo Mhàli bheag òg,
 Na'n lili ann san fhàsach,

 Mar aiteal caoin na gréin'
 Ann am madainn chiùin ag eirigh,

 Mo Mhàli bheag òg.

'S mise a thug an gaol
 Dha mo Mhàli bhig òig,
 Nach dealaich rium sa'n t-saoghal,
 Mo nighean bhoideach thu.
 Tha t-fhath air dhreach nan teudan,
 Do ghruaidhean mar na coaran ;
 Do shuilean, fathail, aobhach,

Shiubhlainn leat an saoghal,
 Mo Mhàli bheag òg ;
 Cho fad a's cùl na gréine,
 A gheug a's ailli gnùis
 Ruithinn agus leumainn,
 Mar fhiadh air bharr nan sléibhteann,
 Air ghaol 's gu'm bithinn réidh 's tu,
 Mo Mhàli bheag òg.

'S truagh a rinn do chàirdean,
 Mo Mhàli bheag òg !
 'Nuair thoirmsig iad do ghràdh dhomh,
 Mo chuid de 'n t-saoghal thu :
 Nan tugadh iad do lamh dhomh,
 Cha bhithinn-'s ann san am so,
 Fo' bhinn air son mo ghraidh dhut,
 Mo Mhàli bheag òg.

Ge d' bheirte mi bho'n bhàs so,
 Mo Mhàli bheag òg,
 Cha 'n iarrainn tuille dàlach,
 Mo cheud ghradh 's mo rùin :
 B'annsa 'n saoghal-'s fhàgail,
 'S gu'm faicinn t-aodann ghradbach ;
 Gu'n chuimhn' bhi air an là sin,
 'S na dh'fhàg mi thu chiùirt'.

Note.—The above beautiful song was composed by a young Highland officer, who had served under King William on the continent soon after the Revolution. His history, which elucidates the song, was thus :—He was the son of a respectable tenant in the Highlands of Perthshire, and while a youth, cherished a desperate passion for a beautiful young lady, the daughter of a neighbouring landed proprietor. Their love was reciprocal—but such was the disparity of their circumstances that the obstacles to their union were regarded even by themselves, as insuperable. To mend matters, the gallant young Highlander enlisted, and being a brave soldier and a young man of excellent conduct and character, he was promoted to the rank of an officer. After several years' absence, and when at the end of a campaign, the army had taken up their winter quarters, he came home to see her friends—to try whether his newly acquired status might not remove the objections of her friends to their union. She was still unmarried, and if possible more beautiful than when he left her—every feature had assumed the highly finished character of womanhood—her beauty was the universal theme of admiration. Othello-like, the gallant young officer told her of "hair-breadth 'scapes by land and flood" and so enraptured the young lady that she readily agreed to elope with him.

Having matured their arrangements, they fled on a Saturday night—probably under the belief that the non-appearance of the young lady at her father's table on Sabbath morning, would excite no surmises in the hurry of going to church. She, indeed, had complained to her father of some slight headach when she retired to rest, and instructed her maid to say next morning that she was better, but not disposed to appear at the breakfast table. Not satisfied with the servant's prevarication, who was cognizant of the elopement, the father hurried to his daughter's bed-room, and, not finding her there, he forcibly elicited the facts from the girl. He immediately assembled his men, and pursued the fugitive lovers with speed and eagerness. After many miles pursuit, they overtook them in a solitary glen where they had sat down to rest. The lover, though he had nobody to support him, yet was determined not to yield up his mistress; and being well armed, and an excellent gladiator, he resolved to resent any attack made upon him. When the pursuers came up, and while he was defending himself and her with his sword, which was a very heavy one, and loaded with what is called a steel apple, (ubhal a' chlaidheimh), she ran for protection behind him. In preparing to give a deadly stroke, the point of the weapon accidentally struck his mistress, then behind him, so violent a blow, that she instantly fell and expired at his feet! Upon seeing this, he immediately surrendered himself, saying, "That he did not wish to live, his earthly treasure being gone!" He was instantly carried to jail, where he composed this heart-melting song a few days before his execution.

Our neighbours, the Irish, claim this air as one of their own, but upon what authority we have been left in the dark. Sir John Sinclair establishes its nativity in Scotland, but falls into a mistake in making an inn the scene of the melancholy catastrophe of the lady's death. The song itself substantiates our version of it. The second stanza was never printed till given by us—the whole is now printed correctly for the first time. It is one of the most plaintive and mellow in the Gaelic language—full of pathos and melancholy feeling. The distracted lover addresses his deceased mistress, as if she were still living—a circumstance that puts the pathetic character of the song beyond comparison, and amply illustrates the distraction of his own mind—a state of mental confusion, and wild melancholy, verging on madness.

Note.—The author of the foregoing popular song was Murdoch M'Kenzie, a Loch-broom Drover, known better in his native country, by the cognomen of "Murchadh Ruadh nam Bò," or red-haired Murdoch of the droves. Mr M'Kenzie composed many excellent songs, and had them taken down in manuscript, preparatory to publication: but at the importunity of his brother-in-law, the Rev. Lachlan M'Kenzie, of Lochcarron, he consigned them to the flames. His own daughter, Màiri Laghach, was the subject of the above pastoral. Mr M'Kenzie's maid servant, it appears, had absconded from his service at a time when her labours were most required in the sheiling or mountain milk-house, and the parent naturally appreciates the services of his own daughter, who at a very early age showed great expertness in that department. The air is original, and so truly beautiful that the song has attained a degree of popularity, which its poetry would never have entitled it to, if composed to an old, or inferior air. Mr M'Kenzie died in 1831.

Note.—The second set of "Mairi Laghach," is the composition of Mr John M'Donald, tacksman, of Scoraig, Loch.

broom, a gentleman of great poetical talents. It is infinitely superior to the original set; and, while Mr M'Kenzie has the merit of having composed the air, Mr M'Donald is entitled to the praise of having sung that most beautiful of airs, in language, which, for purity, mellowness, and poetry, was never surpassed. Mr M'Donald now lives in the island of Lewis, where he is much respected; he is the author of many excellent poems and songs, and in him yet the Highland muse finds a votary of ardent devotedness,—of nerve, tact, talent, intelligence, and wit. We subjoin a beautiful translation of five stanzas of this popular song by another gifted Highlander Mr D. M'Pherson, bookseller, London.

CHORUS.

*Sweet the rising mountains, red with heather bells,
 Sweet the bubbling fountains and the dewy dells;
 Sweet the snowy blossom of the thorny tree!
 Sweeter is young Mary of Glensmole to me.*

Sweet, O sweet! with Mary o'er the wilds to stray,
 When Glensmole is dress'd in all the pride of May,—
 And, when weary roving through the greenwood glade,
 Softly to recline beneath the birken shade.
Sweet the rising mountains, &c.

There to fix my gaze in raptures of delight,
 On her eyes of truth, of love, of life, of light—
 On her bosom purer than the silver tide,
 Fairer than the cana on the mountain side.
Sweet the rising mountains, &c.

What were all the sonnds contriv'd by tuneful men,
 To the warbling wild notes of the sylvan glen?
 Here the merry lark ascends on dewy wing,
 There the mellow mavis and the blackbird sing.
Sweet the rising mountains, &c.

What were all the splendour of the proud and great,
 To the simple pleasures of our green retreat?
 From the crystal spring fresh vigour we inhale;
 Rosy health does court us on the mountain gale.
Sweet the rising mountains, &c.

Were I offered all the wealth that Albion yields,
 All her lofty mountains and her fruitful fields,
 With the countless riches of her subject seas,
 I would scorn the change for blisses such as these!
Sweet the rising mountains, &c.

Nach facas a thuarmas ;
'G imeachd fo'n chuach-chùil,
Chamagach, thla.

Rinn dealaradh a mais',
Agus lasadh a gruaidhean,
Mis' a ghrad bhualadh,
Tharais gu làr.

Cuir a chinn dileis, &c.

Ach dh' eirich mi rithist,
Le cridhe làn uabhair ;
A's dh' imich mi ruathar,
Ruighinn na dàil.

G'a h-iathadh na m' ghlaçaibh,
Ach smachdaich i bhuan sin
Ochan ! is truagh !
A mheath i mo chàil.

Cuir a chinn dileis, &c.

Do dhearc-shuilean glana,
Fo mhalla gun ghruaimean ;
'S daigheann a bhuaill iad,
Mise le d' ghràdh.

Do ròs bhilean tana,
Seamh, farasda, suairce,
Cladhaichear m' uaigh
Mar glac thu mo làmh.

Cuir a chinn dileis, &c.

Tar fuasgail air m' anam
On cheanghal is cruaidhe :
Cuimhnich air t-uaisle,
'S cobhair mo chàs.

Na biodham-s' am thraill dùt
Gu bràch, on aon uair-s' ;
Ach tiomaich o chruas,
Do chridhe gu tlàs.

Cuir a chinn dileis, &c.

Cha'n fhaodar leam cadal,
Air leabaidh an uaigheas :
'S m' aigne ga bhuaire',
Dh' òidheche 's a là.

Ach ainm is binne,
'S a's grinne, 's a's suairce ;
Gabh-sa dhìom truas,
'S bithidh mi slàn !

CUIR A CHINN DILEIS.

(MODERN SET.)

'S mi 'm shuidh' air an uillinn /
A tuireadh sa caoine ;
Bhuail saighead a ghaoil mi,
Direach gu'm shàil.
Dh' fhàs mi cho lag,
'S nach b' urra' mi dìreadh ;

Le goirteas mo chinn,
'S cha d' shìn i dhomh lamh.

Cuir a chinn dileis, &c.

'S mi 'm shuidh' air an tulaich,
An iomal na cùirte ;
A' g amharc mo rùin,
'S i 'n ionad ro ard.

Thug i le fionnaireachd,
Sealladh de sùil domb,
'S thiuindaidh i cul-thaobh,
Seachad air barr.

Cuir a chinn dileis, &c.

Sheall mi am dheighidh,
Gu fradharc dh'i fhaotainn ;
'S chuna' mi h-aodann,
Farasda, tlà.

Chuna' mi sealladh,
A mhealladh na mìltean,
'S amaideach mi,
'S nach faigh mi na pàirt,

Cuir a chinn dileis, &c.

Tha mais' ann ad bhilean
Cha 'n aithris luchd-ciùil e,
Togaidh tu sunnt,
An tallachan ard.

Leagair leat seachad,
Sàr ghaigich na dùthch' ;
Le sealladh do shùl,
'S le giùlan do ghuais.

Cuir a chinn dileis, &c.

Do bhraghad ni 's gile,
Na canach na dìge ;
Chite dol sìos,
'M fionn bhaine blàth.

S ioma rud eile—
Cha 'n 'eil i ri faotainn,
Idir san t-saoghal,
Aogais mo ghraidh,

Cuir a chinn dileis, &c.

Do chul mar an canach,
T-fhalt clannach 's cùirn air,
A chumas an trìùchd,
Gu dlù air a bharr.

Na chuaillean air casadh,
Na chleachdan air lùbadh,
'S do-cheannaicht' an crùn,
Tha giùlan a bhblath,

Cuir a chinn dileis, &c.

Do ghruaigh mar an corcur,
Beul socair o'm binn sgeul :
Deud mar na òsne,
'S finealt a dh' fhàs.
Do shlios mar an eala,
S do mheall-shuilean mìogach,

Thaladh thu m' inntinn,
'S cha pill i gu bràch.
Cuir a chinn dileis, &c.

Note.—The above two beautiful songs are of great antiquity, and their authorship is not known. There is a translation of one of them, by a lady, in Johnson's "Scottish Musical Muscum," Vol. II. The English version, however, although very literal and not destitute of merit, conveys no idea of the spirit, felicity, and poetical grandeur of the original.

AN NOCHD GUR FAOIN

MO CHADAL DOMH.

AN nochd gur faoin mo chadal dhomh,
Sior acaìn na'm beil bh'uam,
Do chomunn le deagh chaoimhnealachd,
Dh'fhag mi bho 'n raoir fo ghruaim.
Gur tric mi ann an aisling leat,
Gach uair da 'n dean mi suain;
Trom-osnaich 'nuair a dhùisgeas mi,
Air bhì dha t-iundrann bh'uam.

Air bhì dhomh 'g-iundrann suaiceis bh'uam,
'S tu leagh mo shnuadh 's mo bhlà;
O rinn do ghaol-sa' fuarachadh,
Cha dualach dhomh bhì slàn.
'S ann riut a leiginn m' uir-easbhuidh,
Air ghleus nach cluinneadh càch,
Dh-fhag t-aognag mi cho muladach,
'S gur cunnart dhomh am bàs.

Is mor a ta do ghibhtean ort,
A ta gun fhios do chàch
Corp seang gun fheall gun fhalachd ann,
Gur càs thu mhealladh graidh.
'S a liughad òigear furanach,
A thuilleadh orms' an sàs,
D' an tugadh t-aodann faothachadh,
'S an t-aog ga 'n cur gu bàs.

Cha chuireadh gaol gu geilte mi,
Na 'm freagradh tu mo ghlòir,
Gur h-e do chòmradh maighdeannail,
Mo raghainn d'beth gach cebl.
'S gur h- iomadh òidhch' no-aoibhneach,
Chuit do chaoimhneas mi fo leòn;
Is bh' dh mi nochd a' m' aonarann,
A smaointeach bean do neòil.

Tha bean do neòil am braithreachas,
Ri eala bhàn nan spèur:
Gur hinne leam bhì m'aran leat,
Na clàrsaichean nan téud.
Is tha do thlachd a's t-aillidheachd,
Ag cur do ghraidh an ceill;
Gur cosmhuil thu ri àilleagan,
Da'n umblaich c'èch gu léir.

Is beairt a chlaoidh mo shochair thu,
'S a shocraich ort mo ghaol;
'S gur e mheudaich tùrsa dhomh,
Gu'n thu bhì dhomh mar shaoil.
Sgeul fìor a dh' fheadar aireamh leam;
Gur leir a bhlà 's a chaoit;
Gu'n d' fhag gach speis a th' agam dhut,
An nochd mo chadal faoin.

Gu 'n d' rinn mi Alb' a chuartaichadh,
O Chluaidh gu uisge Spé;
Is bean do neoil cha chualas,
Bu neo-luainiche na beus.
Is corrach, gorm, do shuilean;
Gur geal, s gur dlù, do dheud,
Falt buidhe 's e na chuachan ort,
'S a shnuagh air dhreach nan téud.

Thug mise gaol da rìridh dhut,
'Nuair bha thu d' nionaig òig;
Is air mo laimh nach dìbrinn e,
Air mhìle punnd de 'n òr:
Ge d' fhaighinn fhìn na chrùintean e,
Ga chumntadh dhomh air bòrd;
Cha treiginn gaol na rìbbhine,
A tha 'n Ile ghlas an fheadir.

Noie.—The real author of this favourite ditty is not known, and though published on the "lips of thousand fair maidens and fond admirers," this is the first time it has been committed to press. Various MS. copies of it are in our possession, the oldest of which is by a Lady and bears the following title. "Miss Flora Macdonald's Lament for Prince Charles."

CUMHA DO DH' UILLEAM SISEAL,

FEAR INNS-NAN-CEANN AN SRATH-GHLAS
A THUIT LATHA CHUILODAIR.
LE MHNAOI FEIN.

Осн! a Thearlaich òig Stiubhairt,
'S e do chùis rinn mo leireadh,
Thug thu bhuam gach nì bh'agam,
Ann an cogadh na t-aobhar:
Cha chroth, a's cha chaoirich,
Tha mi caoidh ach mo chéile,
Ge do dh'fhàgte mi m'aonar,
Gun sian 's an t-saoghal ach leine.
Mo rùn geal òg.

Co nis 'thogas an claidheamh,
No nì chathair a lionadh?
'S gann gur h-e tha air m' aire,
O nach maireann mo chiad ghradh;
Ach cia mar gheibhinn o m' nàdur,
A bhì 'g àicheadh na 's miann leam,
A's mo thogradh cho làidir,
Thoir tu gu àite mo rìgh math?
Mo rùn geal òg.

Bu tu'm fear mor bu mhath cumadh,
O d' mbullach gu d' bhrògan,
Bha do shlios mar an eala,
'S blas na meal' air do phògan;
T-fhalt dualach, donn, lurach,
Mu do mhùineal an òrdugh,
'S e gu cam-lubach, cuimeir,
'S gach aon toirt urram d'a bhoichead.
Mo rùn geal òg.

Bu tu 'm fear slinneanach leathunn,
Bu chaoile meadhon 's bu dealbhaich;
Cha bu tailear gun eòlas,
'Dheanadh còta math gearra dhut;
Na dheanadh dhut triubhais
Gun bhì cumhann, no gaun dut;
Mar gheala-bhradan do chàsan,
Le d' ghearr òsan mu d' chalpa.
Mo rùn geal òg.

Bu tu iasgair na h-ambunn—
'S tric a thaghaich thu fein i;
Agus sealgair a mhùnaidh—
Bhiodh do ghunn' air dheagh ghleusadh;
Bu bhinn leam tabbunn do chuirein,
Bheireadh fuil air mac eilde;
As do laimh bu mhor m' earbsa—
'S tric a mharbh thu le chéil iad.
Mo rùn geal òg

Bu tu pòitear na dibhe—
 'N àm suidhe 's taigh òsda,
 Ge be dh'oladh 's tu phaidheadh ;
 Ged' thuiteadh càch mu na bordaibh,
 Bhì air mhìg cha 'n e b' fhiù leat,
 Cha do dh' ionnsaich thu òg e,
 'S cha d' iarr thu riamh cùis,
 Air te air chul do mhna pòsda.
 Mo rùn geal òg.

Gur mis th'air mo sgàradh,
 'S ge do chanam, cha bhreug e—
 Chaidh mo shùgradh gu sìleadh,
 O'n nach pillear bho'n eug thu,
 Fear do chéile a's do thuisge,
 Cha robh furast ri fheutainn,
 'S cha do sheas an Cuilodair,
 Fear do choltais bu treine.
 Mo rùn geal òg.

'S ioma baintighearna phrìseil,
 Le'n sìoda 's le 'n sròlabh,
 Dàu robh mis' am chuis-fhàrmaid,
 Chionn gu'n tairgeadh tu pòg dhomh ;
 Ge do bhithinn cho sealbhach,
 'S gu'm bu leam airgead Hanobhar,
 Bheirinn cnàc anns na h-àintean,
 Na'n cumadh càch sinn bho phòsadh !
 Mo rùn geal òg.

Och ! nan och ! gur mi bochdag,
 'S mi làn òsnaich an còmhnuidh ;
 Chaill mi dùil ri thu thighinn—
 Thuit mo chridhe gu doirteadh ;
 Cha tog fiodhall, no clàrsach,
 Pìob, no tàileasg, no ceòl e ;
 Nis o chuir iad thu'n tasgaidh,
 Cha dùisg caidridh duin' òig mi.
 Mo rùn geal òg.

Bha mi greis ann am barail,
 Gu'm bu mhaireann mo chéile,
 S gu'n tigeadh tu dhathaigh,
 Le aighear 's le h-éibhneas,
 Ach tha 'n t-àm air dol tharais,
 'S cha 'n fhaic mi fear t-eugais,
 Gus an teid mi fo'n talamh,
 Cha dealaich do spéis rium.
 Mo rùn geal òg.

'S iomadh bean a tha brònach,
 Eadar Tròiteirnis 's Sléibhte,
 Agus té tha na bantraich,
 Nach d'fhuair samhla da'm chéile ;
 Bha mise lan sòlais,
 Fhad 's bu bheò sinn le-chéile,
 Ach a nis bho na dh'fhalbh thu,
 Cha chuis fhàrmaid mi féin daibh !
 Mo rùn geal òg.

Note.—Christiana Fergusson, the authoress of the above elegiac production was a native of the Parish of Contin, Ross-shire, where her father was a blacksmith—chiefly employed in making dirks and other implements of war. She was married to a brave man of the name of William Chisholm, a native of Stratglas, and a near kinsman of the Chief of that name. On the memorable day of Culloden, William was flag-bearer or banner-man of the clan ; and most assuredly the task of preserving the "Braatach Choinneach" from the disgrace of being struck down, could not have fallen into better hands. He fought long, and manfully ; and even after the retreat became general, he rallied and led his clansmen again and again to the charge, but in vain. A body of the Chisholms ultimately sought shelter in a barn, which was soon surrounded by hundreds of the red-coats who panted for blood. At this awful conjuncture William literally cut his way through the government forces. He then stood in the barn door, and with his trusty blade, high raised, and in proud defiance, guarded the place. In vain did their spears and bayonets aim their thrusts at his fearless breast—he hewed down all who came within reach of his sword, and kept a semicircle of eight feet clear for himself in the teeth of his desperate enemies. At length he was shot by some Englishmen, who climbed up to the top of the barn from behind, where he fell as a hero would wish to fall, with seven bullets lodged in his body.

His wife forthwith composed the foregoing beautiful and heart-touching lament, which is altogether worthy of an affectionate woman. She is so full of the idea of her noble-souled husband, that her own personal hardships and privations find no place in the catalogue of her miseries—they have but one great radical source, the death of her beloved. Neither does she pour invective on the depopulators of her country—no ! these were too insignificant to draw her mind for a moment from her peerless William Chisholm. With great good taste too, she devotes to the Prince one solitary expression of sympathetic condolence :—

Who now shall wield the burnish'd steel,
 Or fill the throne he ought to fill !

and then, with the wings and wail of a mateless dove, flutters over the mangled carcass of her husband, and depicts his matchless person and soul in language that would melt the sternest heart to sympathy. There are several passages of great beauty, pathos and sublimity in this song ; and, apart from the interesting circumstance that called it forth, it possesses all the essential properties or attributes of a first rate production. The air is original.

MORT GHLINNE-COMHANN.

LEIS A BHARD MHUCANACH.*

LAMH Dhé leinn a shaoghail!
Tha thu carach, mar chaochla nan sion,
An ni nach guidheamaid fhaotainn
Mar na srutbaibh ag aomadh a nìos;
'S i chneidh féin, thar gach aobhar,
Bhios gach duine ri caoine, 's e tinn,
Breth Mhic-Samhain air saoidhean,
Tigh'nn a ghleachd ruini a thaobh cùl ar cinn.

A Rìgh! fheartaich na gréine
Tha'n cathair na féile, dean sith,
Ri cloinn an fhir a bha ceutach,
Nach bu choltaich ri féile fir chrìon;
'N uair a thogta leat bratach,
Croinn chaola, fraoch dait', agus piob,
Bhiodh mnaì ghaoil, le fuaim bhàs
A' caòl laoich nan arm sgaiteach 's an strì.

Gu'n robh aigne duin' uasail
Aig a bhail' agus uaithe a' d' chòir,
'Cha b' i gheire gun tuigse
Bha sa bheul bu neo-thuisliche glòir;
Ceann na céille 's na cuideachd
Rinn na h-eacoraich cuspair dheth t'fheoil:
'Cha b' e 'm breugair' a mhurtadh
Le luchd shéideadh nam plucean air stòl.

Ach fear mòr bu mhath cumadh,
Bu neo-sgàthach an curaidh gun ghiomh,
Cha robh barr aig mac duine ort
Ann an àilleachd, 's an uirigleadh cinn:
Auns a bhlàr bu mhath t-fhuireach
Chosnadh làrach, a's urram do'n rìgh;
Mo sgread chràiteach an fulachd!
A bha'n taigh chlàraidh 'n robh furan nam pìos.

Cha robh do chridhe mar dhreagon
Tarruinn slighe na h-eacoir a'd' chùrs,
'S tu le d' chlaidheimh ag éiridh
As leth t-athar 's rìgh Seumas a chrùn:
'Taid an Albuinn 's an Eirinn,
Luchd a thaghaich, 'sa réiteach do chùis;
B'ìdh là eile ga dheuchainn
'S tus' ad laidhe gun éisdeachd fo'n ùir.

B'iad mo ghràdh na cuirp gheala
Bha gu fùghantach, fearail, neo-chrìon,
'S maìrg a chunnaic 'ur n-uaislean
Dol fo bhinn 'ur luchd-fuatha gun dìon;

* This bard was one of the Macdonalds of Glencoe, and lived in the island of Muck, for which he was called Am bàrd Mucanach. After much inquiry this is all the information we could obtain concerning him, nor did we see any more of his productions. But from this piece it may be seen that he was one of the first poets of his day. We took down this version of the poem from the recitation of an old man in Glencoe, anno 1833.

Ach nam bitheamaid 'nar n-armaibh
Mu'n do chruinnich an t-sealg air an tìr,
Bhiodh luchd chòtaichean dearga
Gun dol tuilleadh do dh' armait an rìgh.

Cha robh gnothach aig léigh
'Dhol a leigheas nan creuchd nach robh slàn,
A' call am fala fo'n leintean
Bha na fir bu mhor féil' ri luchd-dhàn,
Nam b'e cothrom na Féinne
Bhiodh eadar sibh fein 's clanna Ghall,
Bhiodh eoin mholach an t-sléibhe
Gairsinn salach air chréabhagan chàich.

Cha b'e cruadal an cridhe
Thug dhaibh buannachd air buidheann mo rùn,
Tilgeadh luaidhe na cithibh
'S sibh mo thruaidh! gun fhios air a chùis:—
Eadar uaislean a's mhithibh
Gun robh bhuaidh ud a' ruith oirn o thùs;
O'n 's i 'n uigh ar ceann-uidhe
B'ìdh na sluaisdean a' frithealadh dhuinn!

Cha b'i sud an fhuil shalach
Bha ga taomadh mu'n talamh sa' ghleann,
'S a liuthad ùmaidh mar ghearran
A bha cuir fùdair na dheannabh mu 'r ceann;
A Rìgh dhùlaich nan aingeal!
Gabhsa cùram da 'r u-anam, 's sibh thall,
Chaidh 'ur cunntas an tainead
Le garbh dhùsgadh na malaìrt a bh' ann.

Thrùs do chinneadh r'a chéile,
Dheanamh coinneamh an dè anns an Dùn,
Cha d' aithris thu sgeula
Fhir a b' urrainn a réiteach gach cùis;
Ite dhaingean na'n sgéith thu,
'S am baranta treun air an cùl
B'ìdh là eile ga fheuchainn,
'S mise druidte fo dhéile 's an ùir.

Cha bu chòcairean gioraig
Chumail cùmhnard an slinnein ro chàch;
O'n là thòisich an iomairt
Chaill Chlann-Dòmhnuille ceann-fine no dhà;
'N gleacair òg 'ur ceann-cinnidh
Chuir a dhòchas 'an smioraibh a chnàmh;
Gheibheadh cùcaire bioradh
Rogha spòltaich o spionnadh a làmh.

Luchd a thràghadh nam buideal
Bheireadh earrach air rùban de'n fhìon,
'Nuair a thàrladh sibh cuideachd
Bu neo-bhrùideil mu'n chupan ud sibh;
Ag iomairt thàileasg, a's chluichibh
Air a chlàr bu neo thrù'ail 'ur gnìomh;
Cha bu chearr am measg truid sibh
'N am pàidheadh na cuideachd, 's g'an diol.

Gu'm beil mise fo mbulad
 Ag amharc 'ur gunnaidh' air stéill,
 Sàr ghiomanaich ullamh
 Leis an cinneadh an fhuil anns a bheinn,
 Ann am frith nan damh mullaich
 Far an deante libh munasg air seilg,
 Ga bu tric sibh gan rùsgadh
 Cha d' iarr sibh riamh cuntas 's na béin.

Cha bu sgùthairean gealtach
 Bhiodh a' maoitheadh an gaisge gach là,
 Tha 's an Eilean na'n cadal
 Nach dùsg gus am faicear am bráth,
 Luchd dhùreadh nan éit-bheann
 Le'u cuilbheirean gleusta na'n laimh,
 'S lionmhòr fear nach d'rinn éiridh
 Bha na ghiomanach treun air a h-earr..

Rìgh gur mis tha fo airtneul
 Rì am dhomb bhi faicinn 'ur beann,
 'S cha lugha mo chùram
 Rì bhi 'g amharc bhur dùtchannan thall,
 Mur bhithe mar thachair
 'S ann leamsa gum b'ait bhi dol ann,
 Gus an tainig a chreach oirn
 Mar gu'n tuiteadh a chlach leis a ghleann !

'S iomadh fear tha toirt sgainneil
 Do'n tighearn òg air an fhearann so thall,
 Eadar ceann Locha-Rtineach,
 Rugha Shléibhte, 's bun Gharaidh nam beann,
 Bha thu feicheannach daingean
 Far an éiste ri d' theangaidh an cannt,
 Mar urbal peucaig gu tarruinn,
 'S mar ghat reubaidh na nathrach gu call.

Leum an stiùir bharr a claiginn
 Le muir sùigh, 's gun sinn ath-chainnteach dho,
 Dh'fhalbh na croinn, 's na buill-bheairte,
 'S leig sinn uallach na slait air an sgòd ;
 'S bochd an dùsgadh sa' mhadainn
 So fhuair sinn gu grad a theachd oirn,
 S ma gheihh sinn ùine ri fhaicinn
 Bheir sinn fùcadh mu'n seach air a chlà.

Note.—The cruel massacre of the Macdonalds of Glencoe, to which this "Lament" relates, was perpetrated by a party of soldiers under the command of captain Campbell of Glenlyon, in February, 1691. Thirty-eight persons suffered in this massacre; the greater part of whom were surprised in their beds, and hurried into eternity before they had time to implore Divine mercy. The design was to butcher all the males under seventy that lived in the valley, the number of whom amounted to two hundred; but some of the detachments not arriving in time to secure the passes, one hundred and sixty escaped. Campbell having committed this brutal deed, ordered all their houses to be burned, made a prey of all the cattle and effects that were found in the valley, and left the helpless women and children, whose fathers and husbands he had murdered, naked and forlorn, without covering, food, or shelter, in the midst of the snow that covered the face of the whole country, at the distance of six miles from any inhabited place. For a particular account of this most unjust action, see "Smollett's History of England."

BHA CLAUDHEAMH AIR IAIN

'S AN T-SEARMOIN.

LUNNEAG.

*Bha claidheamh air Iain,
 Air Iain, air Iain,
 Bha claidheamh air Iain 's an t-searmoin ;
 Bha claidheamh air Iain,
 Fear deas-lainh mo chridhe,
 'S tu 'dheanadh an fhùighe neo-chearbach.*

THAINIG litrichean bagraidh,
 A nall a Lochabar,
 'Nuair chualas gu'n deachaidh tu t-armachd ;
 Ghabh an ceannard mor chùram,
 'S gach freiceadan dhùbail e,
 Eagal 's gun dùisgeadh tu Albainn !
Bha claidheamh, &c.

'Se'n sgathdan beag casraidh
 A thainig mu dheas oirn,
 'Chuir Iain na bhreislich mu 'armachd,
 'S ann a mhosgail mo chridhe,
 Deagh fhortain 'bhi tighinn,
 'Nuair chithinn a chlaidheamh 's an t-searmoin.
Bha claidheamh, &c.

Air là Sliabh an t-siorra
 Cha ghabhadh tu giorrag,
 'Nuair chaidh na gillean gu stairrich,
 'Nuair ghlaoidh iad am bristeadh,
 Cha philleadh tu idir—
 'S ann dh-fhag thu na ficheadan marbh dhù.
Bha claidheamh, &c.

Gur mòr a bha d' phòrabh,
 De dh'ardan Chlann-Dòmhuill—
 Na'm bitheadh do phèca lan airgeid,
 Gu'n tugadh tu dhachaigh dhuinn
 Rìgh fhear na h-Apunn,
 A dh'aindeoin fir Shasuinn mar mabht' thu.
Bha claidheamh, &c.

'S iomadh òganach ullamh,
 Nach éisdeadh an cumasg,
 Bha gun chlaidheamh, gun ghunna, gun targaid,
 Gun urad na biodaige,
 'M falach fo chrìoslaich ;
 Ged' bha Mac-a-Ghìobaich na armachd.
Bha claidheamh, &c.

'S mòr mo chùram mu d' phearsa
 Mu t-arm a's mu t-acuinn,
 Mu d' shìinnean mu d' chearisleau 's mu d'
 'S gu'n 'bhrist thu an t-achda [bhalgan,
 'Rinn Deòrsa bha 'n Sasunn,
 'Nuair chaidh thu cho spailpeil na t-armachd.
Bha claidheamh, &c.

Chaidh 'n claidheamh air astar,
Do bhraighe Lochabar,
Laidh rua-mheirg le dealt air a bharr-dheis;
Tha'm breabadair againn,
Na chliamhuinn do'n t-Sagart,
'S gu'm faigh e bho'n parhson sin tearmad.
Bha claidheamh, &c.

Mu dh-fhaireas sibh cunnart,
'S nach fhaod sibh a chumail,
Cuirbh e thuinidh do'n Gharbh-shliabh;
'S Iomadh àite math falaich,
Dà thaobh Locha-Garaidh,
'S tha'n dream ud gle dhealaidh do Bhalgan.
Bha claidheamh, &c.

Note.—The foregoing burlesque is the composition of Angus M'Donald, of Glencoe, commonly called Aonghas Mac Alasdair Ruaidh. The subject of it was Iain Gibeach, a weaver, belonging to the same glen. This John was present at the battle of Sherriffmuir in 1715, but deeming "prudence the best part of valour," he made more use of his heels than of his arms. It is said that, in order the more effectually to shield his person from danger, he laid himself down behind a dyke, pulling a portion of that fabric over him; and that thus covered he was rode over by the combatants. On the first safe opportunity, he entirely abandoned the scene of strife, which but indifferently suited his taste. His flight to Glencoe was a rapid one. There, however, he did not fail to give a magniloquent account of his feats of arms at Sherriffmuir, being, at the same time, the first intelligencer of that doubtful action. He afterwards went to church with his broadsword slung in his belt in order to indicate his valour, by setting the Act of Parliament for disarming the Highlanders at defiance! This last exploit of our hero gave birth to the admirable pasquin, "John wields his sword in the kirk."

FEAR A BHATA.

LUIÑEAG.

Fhìr a bhàta, na horo-eile,Fhìr a bhàta, na horo-eile;Fhìr a bhàta, na horo-eile,Gu ma slàn dat, 's gach àit' an téid thu.

'S tric mi sealtuinn o'n chnoc a's àirde,
Dh-fheuch am faic mi fear a bhàta:
An tig thu 'n diugh, na'n tig thu maireach?
'S mar tig thu idir, gur truagh a tà mi.
Fhìr a bhata, na horo-eile, &c.

Tha mo chridhe-sa briste, brùite;
'S tric na deoiribh a ruith o'm shuilean;
An tig thu nochd, na 'm bi mo dhùil riut?
Na 'n dùin mi 'n dorus, le osna thùrsaich?
Fhìr a bhata, na horo-eile, &c.

'S tric mi foidhneachd de luchd nam bàta,
Am fac iad thu, na 'm beil thu sàbhailt;
S ann a tha gach aon aca rium a 'g ràite,
Gur gòrach mise ma thug mi gràdh dhut.
Fhìr a bhata, na horo-eile, &c.

Gheall mo leannan domh gùn dhe 'n t-sìoda,
Gheall e sud agus breacan rìomhach;
Fain' òir anns am faicinn òimhaigh;
Ach 's eagal leam gun dean e dìochuimhn'.
Fhìr a bhata, na horo-eile, &c.

Cha 'n eil baile beag 's am bì thu,
Nach tàmh thu greis ann, a chur do sgios diot;
Bheir thu làmh air do leabhar rìomhach,
A ghabhail dhuanag 's a bhuaireadh nìonag.
Fhìr a bhata, na horo-eile, &c.

Ged a thuir iad gu'n robh thu aotrom,
Cha do laghadaich sud mo ghaol ort;
'Bìdh tu m' aisling anns an òidheche,
A's anns a mhadainn bìdh mi 'ga t-fhoineachd.
Fhìr a bhata, na horo-eile, &c.

Thug mi gaol dut 's cha'n fhaod mi àicheadh;
Cha ghaol bliadhna, 's cha ghaol ràithe;
Ach gaol a thòisich 'nuair bha mi m' phàisde,
'S nach searg a chaoidh, gus an claidh am bàs mi.
Fhìr a bhata, na horo-eile, &c.

Tha mo chàirdean gu tric ag innseadh,
Gu'm feum mi t-aogas a chuir air dìochuimhn';
Ach tha 'n comhairle dhomh cho dianhain,
'S bhi pilleadh mara 's i tabhairt lionaidh.
Fhìr a bhata, na horo-eile, &c.

Tha mo chriosan air dol an airde,
Cha'n ann bho fhidhleir, na bho chlarsair;
Ach bho stiùreadair a bhata—
'S mur tig thu dhachaigh, gur truagh mar tha mi.
Fhìr a bhata, na horo-eile, &c.

Bìdh mi tuille gu tùrsach, deurach,
Mar eala bhàn 's i an déis' a reubadh;
Guileag bàis aic' air lochan feurach,
A's càch uileadh an deighidh tréigisinn.
Fhìr a bhata, na horo-eile, &c.

ORAN GAOIL,

DO MHAIGHDIN UASAIL 'S AN EILEAN-FHADA.

LUIÑEAG.

A Mhàiri bhòidheach, 's a Mhàiri ghaolach,
A Mhàiri bhòidheach, gur mòr mo ghaol ort,
A Mhàiri bhòidheach, gur tu a chlàidh mi,
'S a dh-fhàg mi brònach, gun doigh air t-fhaotainn.

MHÀIRI bhòidheach gur mòr mo ghaol ort,
Gur tric mi cuimhneachadh ort 's mi m'aonar,
Ge do shiubhlainn gach ceum de'n t-saoghal,
Bìdh t'ìomhaigh bhòidheach tigh'n beò gach
A Mhàiri bhòidheach, &c. [taobh dhìom.

'S truagh nach robh mi 's mo Mhàiri bhòidheach,
 An an gleannan faoin a's ceò air—
 'S ged bu rìgh mi 's an Itoinn-Eòrpa,
 Cha'n iarrainn pòg ach bho Mhari bhòidheich.
A Mhari bhòidheach, &c.

Ach chithear féidh air sgéith 's na' speuran,
 'S chithear iasg air aird nan sléithean,
 Chithear sneachda dubh air gheugan,
 Mu'm faicear caochladh tig'n air mo spéis dhut.
A Mhairi bhòidheach, &c.

O Mhari!—lughdaich thu mo chiall domh,
 Tha mo chridh' le do ghaol air lionadh;
 Tha gach là dhomh cho fad ri bliadhna,
 Mur faic mi t'aodainn a ta mar ghrian domh.
A Mhari bhòidheach, &c.

Do shuilean meallach fo d' mhala bhòidheich,
 Do bhilean taua air dhath nan ròsan,
 Sìos mar chanach an gleannan mòintich,
 'S do ghruaidh mar chaoran fo séith nam mòr-
A Mhari bhòidheach, &c. [bheann.

Fhir a shiubhlas thar thonnan uaibhreach,
 A dh'ionnsaidh Iunseachan cian nan cuaintean,
 Thoir gach sìod, agus ni tha luach-mhor,
 Dh'ionnsaidh Màiri a rinn mo bhuaireadh.
A Mhari bhòidheach, &c.

Eoin! a's moiche a théid air sgiathan,
 'S a dhireas suas ann an aird na h-iarmailt,
 Na bitheadh latha thig fad na bhliadhna,
 'S nach seinn sibh ceol d'a mo Mhàiri chlàtaich.
A Mhari bhòidheach, &c.

Ach cha dean Eala air sìos nam mor-thonn,
 Cha dean smeòrach am badan bòidheach,
 Cha dean gach inneal ciùil ach crònan,
 'Nuair a sheinneas mo Mhàiri bhòidheach.
A Mhari bhòidheach, &c.

Ge do bhì mi gu tùrsach cianail,
 'S mi le cùram air mo lionadh,
 Ni do ghnùis-sa tha mar a ghrian domh,
 Mo chridhe sunntach 'nuair thig thu m'fhianais.
A Mhari bhòidheach, &c.

Gu mo slàn do mo Mhàiri bhòidheich,
 Ge b'e àite 's am bi i còmhnuidh,
 'S mo dhùrachd-sa 'm fad 's a's beò mi,
 Gu'm bi gach sòlas aig Màiri bhòidheich.
A Mhari bhòidheach, &c.

Note.—This song was composed by a schoolmaster in North Uist, who fell in love with one of the daughters of a family in which he was tutor; and his attachment to her preyed so heavily on his mind, that he sunk under it, and was consigned to a premature grave.

AN NIGHEAN BHUIDH BHAN.

LE DOMHNUL MACH-AONGHAIS

LUTNEAG.

*Mo nighean bhui' bhàn na fàlhadh tu leam,
 Mo nighean bhui' bhàn na fàlhadh tu leam,
 Mo nighean bhui' bhàn na fàlhadh tu leam,
 Gu'n ceannaicheim gun de'n t-shìoda dhut.*

NIGHEAN bhàn th'air enoc a mhurain,
 Dha'n tug mi mo ghaol o'n uiridh,
 B'anna leam na òr na cruinne
 'Chuillein thu bhì' sinthe rium.
Mo nighean bhui' bhàn, &c.

'S furasd dhomh-sa' ghruagach t-àireamh,
 Do chul dualach, cuachach, fàineach,
 Gruaidh thana, dhearg, a's glan' dearsadh;
 'S falt mar bharr nan dìthean ort.
Mo nighean bhui' bhàn, &c.

Tha thu gu ro bhòidheach taitneach,
 Foghainteach, deas, ann an pearsa,
 Cha 'n urra' mi chiall 's a thasgaidh,
 Trian dheth do thlachd innseadh dhut.
Mo nighean bhui' bhàn, &c.

'S mall do ròsg, 's gur glan do leirsinn,
 Suil ghorm, mar dhearcag an t-shléibhe,
 Mala chao a's caoine réidhe,
 Cha bu bhreug ach firinn sud.
Mo nighean bhui' bhàn, &c.

Calpa bàn nach iarr an gartan,
 Troigh shocrach nach dochunn faiche,
 'S e mheudaich cho mòr mo thlachd dhìot,
 Chionns nach faicte mi-ghean ort.
Mo nighean bhui' bhàn, &c.

Beul is binne sheinneas brain,
 Millis, blasda, socair, còmharnad,
 Gu fonnor, farasd, ro dhoigheil,
 Cha bhì sgòd ri' inus' oirre.
Mo nighean bhui' bhàn, &c.

Anna ged' nach eil mi stocail,
 Cha 'n i'n t-shnàthad mo cheird chosnaidh,
 Dheannain aran eorna 's corca
 Mar ris an dhroch shìde dhut.
Mo nighean bhui' bhàn, &c.

Ma ni thu mar a tha thu labhairt,
 'S gu'n cum thu rium-sa do ghealladh,
 So mo làmh gur mi do leannan,
 'S nach bi ba-laoch sinthe riut.
Mo nighean bhui' bhàn, &c.

ORAN GAOIL

LE NIGHEAN FHIR NA REILIG.

Thig trè nith gu'n iarraidh,
 An t-eagal, an t-iadach, 's an gaol ;
 'S gur beag a chùis mhaslaidh,
 Ged' ghlacadh leo mis air a h-aon,
 'S a liughad bean uasal
 .A fhuaradh sa' chiont an robh mi,
 A thug an gaol fuadainn
 Air ro bheagan duaise ga chionn.
*Air failirinn, illirin,
 Uillirin, othóro laoidh!
 'S cruaidh fortan gun fhios,
 A chuir mise fo chùing do ghaoil.*

'Fhir a dhìreas am bealach
 Beir soruidh do 'n ghleannan fo thuath ;
 A's innis do m' leannan,
 Gur maireann mo ghaol 's gur buan,
 Fear eile cha ghabh mi
 'S cha 'n fhuilig mi idir a luaidh
 Gus an dean thu ghaoil m' àicheadh,
 Cha chreid mi bho chàch gur fuath.
Air failirinn, &c.

Fhir nan gorm shuilean meallach,
 O 'n ghleannan de'm bidheadh an smùid,
 Ga 'm beil a chàoin mhala,
 Mar chanach an t-sléibh' fo dhriùchd :
 'Nuair readh* tu air t-uilinn,
 Bhiodh fuil air fear dhìreadh nan stùc,
 'S nam bì'dh tu ghaoil mar rium
 Cha b' anaid an céile leam thu.
Air failirinn, &c.

Na faicinn thu tighinn,
 'S fios domh gur tusa bhiodh ann ;
 Gu'n eireadh mo chridhe
 Mar aiteal na gréin' thar nam beann ;
 'S gu'n tugainn mo bhriathar,
 Gach gaoisdean tha liath na mo cheann
 Gu'm fàsadh iad buidhe,
 Mar dhìthein am bruthaich nan allt !
Air failirinn, &c.

Cha b' ann air son beartais,
 No idir ro phailteas na spréigh ;
 Cha b' fhear do shìol bhodach
 Bha m' osnaich cho trom á dhéidh.
 Ach mhac an duin' uasail,
 Fhuair buaidh air an dùthaich gu léir ;
 Ge do bhitheamaid falamb,
 Tha caraid a chitheadh oirn feum.
Air failirinn, &c.

* Reachadh, poetically rendered.

Mur tig thu féin tuilleadh
 Gur aithne dhomh mhalairt a th' ann
 Nach eil mi cho beartach
 Ri cailin an achaidh ud thall.
 Cha tugainn mo mbisneachd,
 Mo ghliocas, a's grinneas mo làimh,
 Air buaile chrodh ballach
 A's cailin gun iùil na'n ceann.
Air failirinn, &c.

Mu chaidh thu orm seachad,
 Gur taitneach, neo-thuisleach, mo chliù ;
 Cha d' rinn mi riut comunn,
 'S cha d' laidh mi leat riamb ann an cùil.
 Cha 'n araichinn arachd
 Do dhuine chuir ùd air a chrùn ;
 On tha mi cho beachdail,
 S gu'n smachdaich mi gaol nach fiù.
Air failirinn, &c.

Bu laoghadh mo thàmailt,
 Na 'm b' airidh ni b' fhearr a bhiodh ann ;
 Ach dubh-chail' a bhuaicair,
 'Nuair ghlacas i buarach na làimh.
 Nuair thig an droch earrach
 'S a chaillear an ni ann sa' ghleann ;
 Bitheas is' air an t-shiùlaid
 Gun tuille dheth' bunaltas ann.
Air failirinn, &c.

ES-AN DA FREAGAIRT.

S truadh nach robh mi 's mo leannan,
 'S a chrannaig air stiùireadh le gaoith,
 Na 'm bùthaig bhig bharrach,
 Aig imeal a ghleannain leinn fhìn,
 No'n Lochlainn an daraich
 R'a taobh na mara fo thuinn,
 Gun chumhn' air a chailin
 A dh' fhàg mi air àiridh chruidh-laoidh.
Air failirinn, &c.

DUANAG GHAOIL.

LE BAINTEGHEARN ILLE-CHALUM RASA.

LUNNEAG.

*Thainig an gille dubh,
 'N raoir na bhaile-so ;
 'S trom mo cheum,
 On thréig do ghealladh mi.*

Gua mis' tha gu tinn,
 Le goirteas mo chinn ;
 'S ged' reach mi na chill,
 Cha phill mo leannan mi .
Thainig an gille, &c.

'S e m' ulaidh 's mo ghràdh,
Fear dubh agus bàn ;
Cha'n innis mi chàch,
Gu bràch, do ghealladh dhombh.
Thainig an gille, &c.

Gur h-ioma' bean òg,
Le sìoda agus sròl ;
A chunntadh le deoin,
Ma chrò crodh baine dhut.
Thainig an gille, &c.

Gur guirme do shùil,
No 'n dearcag fo 'n driùchd ;
'S gur finealt do ghndis,
Na ùr-ros mheaganan.
Thainig an gille, &c.

'N gille dubh caol,
Na laidhe san fhraoch ;
'S a ghunna ri thaobh,
B'e 'n fhaodail fhalaich e.
Thainig an gille, &c.

'S math thig gunna bheoil chaoil,

Thainig an gille, &c.

'S tu sealgair a gheigh,

'S nam biodh i na d' chòir,
Gu'n leoint, a mhaigheach leat.
Thainig an gille, &c.

'Nuair lùbadh tu 'n glùn,

Bhiodh eilid nan stùc,

Thainig an gille, &c.

B'u stiùirich' a chuain,
Air bharaibh nan stuadh,
Ri latha fiuch, fuar :—
Mo luaidh do dh' fhearaidh thu.
Thainig an gille, &c.

Ged' bhidheadh a ghaoth,
Ri sgoltadh nan craobh ;
Gu'n cumadh mo ghaol,
A' taobh 's na maranan.
Thainig an gille, &c.

Mo bheannachd ad dhéigh,
Ma dh-fhag thu mí féin ;
Ach guidheamaid céile,
Beusach, banail, dut.

Beul o'm binne thig fonn,
Leis an deagh iompaidh.*

'S TRUAGH nach robh mi 's mo ghaol
Ann an gleann cùbhraidh ;
'S truagh nach robh mi 's mo ghaol
Ri h-uisg' ann 's ri gaioth ;
'S fo shileadh nan craobh
Bhitheamaid sunntach.
Dh-fhalbh, &c.

Nam biodh agamsa spréidh
Bhithinn glé chùirteil,
Nam biodh agamsa spréidh
Feadh bheann agus sléibh,

Dh-fhalbh, &c.

Ged tha thus' an tràth-s'

Ged tha thus' ann an tàmh,
Tha t-aighe fo phrành,
Agus mise gun stà,
Le do ghràdh ciùrrte.
Dh-fhalbh, &c.

Beir mo shorruidh gun dàil
Bham do dh Iuraidh ;
Beir mo shorruidh le gràdh
Dh-fhios na h-òigh rinn mo chràdh ;

B'ìdh sì-féin tùrsach.
Dh-fhalbh, &c.

Cha'n eil aice mar chéil'
Ach am fir ùmaidh,
Cha'n eil aice mar chéil',
Ach sean bhodach gun spéis,
'S e mar ghearran bh'o'n fhéill—
Doirbh, breun, brùdail !
Dh-fhalbh, &c.

AN NIGHEAN DUBH.

A NIGH'N dubh nan gruaidhean craobhach,
Bha uair gu'm bu bheag a shaoilinn,
Gu'n caidlinn an didhch' as t-aonais,
Chaidh sid aog a's chaochail e cruth.
Tha thu suarach umam an diugh,
Ge d' bha uair bu toigh leat mo guth ;
Tha thu suarach umam an diugh.

'Nuair a bha sinn anns na gleannain,
'Cullach a chruidh-laoigh mu'n mhainnir,
Shaoil mi fhìn nach robh air thalamh
Fear a mhealladh bean a chinn duibh.
Tha thu suarach, &c.

A thé sinn a th' aig na gamhnan,
Bha mi uair is bu mhòr mo gheall ort ;
'S gil' thu na sneachd' air na beanntan,
Ann san àm am bìte 'ga chur.
Tha thu suarach, &c.

'Nuair a thogadh tu güth t-drain,
Bu bhinn' thu na chuach 's an 'smedrach,
'Nuair a sheinneadh iad mar chòmhlà,
Madainn cheò air bharrach an stuib.
Tha thu suarach, &c.

Tha do chneas cho gheal 's an faolag,
Do dha ghruaidh cho dearg 's na caoran :
Suilean meallach, gorm, na t-aodann,
Mala chaol, mar ite 'n loin-duibh.
Tha thu suarach, &c.

Tha mi lag, ged' bha mi laidir,
Tha mi sgùth gu siubhal fhàsach ;
'S gur e thug mo chridhe mhàn,
Ro mhiad a gràidh a bhàirig mi dhut.
Tha thu suarach, &c.

Tha thu bòidheach, tha thu loinneil,
'S duilich leam gu'm beil thu foilleil ;
'S binne thu na guth choilich-choille,
Anns an doire 'n goireadh e moch.
Tha thu suarach, &c.

Is tric a bha saill air sean each,
Agus pùisean ann an glainne,
Amhuil sin as gaol mo leannain,
Mar chop geal air bharraribh nan sruth.
Tha mi suarach umad an diugh,
Ged' bha uair bu toigh leam do guth,
Tha mi suarach umad an diugh.

OCHOIN! MO CHAILIN.

Gu 'n dh'eirich mi moch, air madainn an dé,
'S ghearr mi'n ear-thalmhainn, do bhri mo sgéil ;
An duil gu'm faicinn-sa rùn mo chéilbh ;
Ochòin! gu'm facas, 's a cùl rium féin.
Ochòin! mo chailin, 's mo shùil a d' dhéigh,
Ochòin! mo chailin, 's mo shùil a d' dhéigh ;
Mo Lili, mo Lili, 's mo shùil a d' dhéigh :
Cha leur dhomh am bealach, le sìleadh nan deur.

Na 'm bidheadh sud agam, mo lùgh 's mo leum,
Mi 'm shuidh air a bhealach, 's mo chù air éill ;
Gu'n deanainn-sa cogadh, gu laidir, trenn,
Mu 'n leiginn mo leannan le fear tha fo 'n gréin.
Ochoin! mo chailin. &c.

'S am orm-sa tha mulad sa'm fiabhras mòr,
On chualas gun deach' thu le Brian a dh-òl :
Mo chomunn cha dean mi ri mnaoi san fheoil,
O rinn thu mo thréigsinn, 's mi fein a bhi beò.
Ochoin! mo chailin, &c.

O! cha 'n 'eil uiseag, no faoilinn bhàn,
Am barr a chaisteil 's an robh mi 's mo gràdh ;
Nach eil ri tuireadh, a dh-òidheche 's do là,
On' chual' iad gu'n ghlacadh mo chailin air làimh.
Ochoin! mo chailin, &c.

Note.—This song is said to have been composed by an Irish student, who had taken a fancy for a Highland girl when attending the classes in the University of Glasgow. "Brian," mentioned in this piece, was another Irish student, and a rival of our Hibernian poet.

THA MO CHADAL LUAINÈACH.

THA mo chadal luaineach,
'S an uair so cha 'n fhaigh mi tàmh ;
Cuimhneachadh an uasail,
A ghluais air madainn di-màirt.
Oigear a chuil dualaich,
'S nan cuachagan troma, tlà ;
Ged bhiodh agam buaile,
'S tu dh' fhuasglainn 's cha 'n fhear de chàch.
M' ulaigh agus m' eudail,
Bu réidh leam sealladh do shùl ;
Mar aiteal na gréine,
'S i 'g eiridh moch madainn dhriùchd.
Do bheul tana glé dhearg,
Fo 'n eudann 's guirme suil ;
'S ged bhiodh tu ad leine
B' e m' éibhneas de dh-fheararibh thu.

M' aighear a 's mo rùin thu,
 S e cuirtear na féile bh' ann ;
 Cäs dhireadh nan stùc-bheann,
 Ceum lùghar air feagh nan gleann.
 A mhiad sa thug mi dhiù dhut,
 Gu'n dh' fhàg e mo shuillean dall ;
 'S gu'n deanainn leat lùbadh
 Ged dhiùltainn trì mìle Gall.

On thana' mi 'n tìr so,
 Air m' inninn gun laidh trom sproc ;
 Cuimhneachadh na dh' fhàg mi,
 Cha tàmh dhomb 'm baile no port.
 Oigear a chul-shniomhain,
 Beul siomhalt nach labhair lochd ;
 Ged bhidhinn fo mhi-ghean
 Gu'n innsein dhut e le 'm thoil.

'S coma leam 'n seann duine,
 Laidheas gu teann ris an stoc ;
 Fad na h-òidhche geamraidh,
 Cha tinnidaidh 's gu'm bi na thosd.
 Laidhidh e gu dìblidh,
 Na shineadh air bharr nan sop,
 Gu'n tarraunn e t-sranntaich,
 'S gun tinnidaidh e cul a nòig.

C' arson nach labhrainn caoin riut
 A ghaoil, cha cheilinn sid ort ?
 Seann-duine cha taobh mi,
 Ged dh' fhaodadh cha'n eireadh moch.
 Ged' robh aige caoirich,
 'S an saoghal a bhi gu thoil ;
 'Nuair labhradh e pràmhail
 Bu chraiteach mo chridhe 'm chorp.

M' nìlidh, 's mo ghràdh, thu,
 Gur ràidhe gach bìdhch' ad dhéigh ;
 Lamb stiùireadh a bhàta,
 Ga sàbhaladh as gach beud.
 Poitear san taigh-thùbhairn thu,
 A phaidheadh a meag nan ceud,
 Giomhanach nan ard-bheann,
 'S cha shlàn a biodh mac an fhéidh.

Note.—This song has been sung and admired in Scotland time immemorial, and no tradition now remains of its authorship. The air is of great beauty, and as we have heard a lady, a native of Ireland, sing an Irish song to the same tune, we cannot say whether it belongs to us or to the sister kingdom. Here is the first stanza of the Irish, according to the Scottish orthography :—

“Madaoin 's mi gu h-uaigneach,
 Air bruach-Joch' an Iunis-fall ;
 A falbh air feadh a chruaich,
 Gu h-uallach 's mo ghunn' am laimh.
 S ann a dhearc' mi staire,
 Na gruaig finne' mhianneti bhain,
 Agus dorlach busint' aic,
 De'n luachair bu glaise dh-fhas'”

NIGHEAN DONN NA BUAILE.

A NIGHEAN donn na buaile,
 Ga'm beil an gluasad farasda ;
 Gu 'n tug mi gaol cho buan dut,
 'S nach gluais e air an earrach so.
 Mheall thu mi le d' shùgradh,
 Le d' bhriodal a's le d' chiùine ;
 A's lùb thu mi mar fhiùran,
 'S cha dàthchas domh bhi fallain bhuat.

Do chùl donn dait' an òrdugh,
 Gu bachlach, bòidheach, camagach,
 T' aghaidh fhilthail, chòmhnard,
 Mar ite 'n eoin do mhalaichean,
 Dà shuil chorrach, mhiogach,
 Rosg glan a' cumhail dìonn orr' ;
 Do ghruaidhean meachair, mìne,
 'S do phòg mar fhiogois mheanganan.

Mar reull a meag an t-sluaigh thu,
 Nam gluasad a chum tionalaidh ;
 Cha tugadh Bhénus buaidh ort,
 'S ard thug do shnuadh-sa barrachd oirr'
 Chit' am fion a' dealaradh,
 Ann am dol sìos tre d' bhragad ;
 Gur math thig sìoda 'n càradh,
 Ma mhuinneal bàn na h-ainnirè.

Do sheang chorp, fallain, sunntach,
 Nach do chiùrr an an-shocair,
 'Nuair reachadh tu air ùrlar,
 Bu lùghar anns na caraibh thu ;
 Le d' calpannan deas, bòidheach,
 Cruinn, cumadail, neo-lòdail ;
 Troigh chruinn ann am broigh chòmhnaird,
 Nach toir air feòirnean carachadh.

Do bheul o'm binn' thig òrain,
 Ceol agus ceileirean,
 Gur binne leam do chòmhradh,
 Na smeòrach air na meanganan.
 O 'n chuir mi 'n tìs ort eolas,
 Gu'n tug mi gaol cho mòr dhut,
 'S mar faigh mi thu ri d' phòsadh,
 Gu 'n cuir do bhròn fo'n talamh mì.

Na 'm b' e 's gu'm biodh tu deònach,
 'S gu'm pòsamaid an ath-ghoirid,
 Cha 'n iarrainn leat de stòras,
 Ach còmh-dacha na banaraich.
 Ge b' leamsa 'n Roinn Eòrpa,
 'S America le mòr shluagh,
 Na 'm faighinn dhomb fhin coif' ort.
 Bu leat gach stòr 's gach fearann dù.

A ghaoil na creid droch sgeul orm,
Ge 'd robh luchd-bhreug a labhairt riut;
Tha m' inntinn-se cho réidh dhut,
'S nach bi aon seud an an-fhios dut.
Ge d' their iad riut le bòillich,
Gur beag leo mo chuid stòrais;
A chaoidh cha churam lòn dut,
'S an rìgh cuir seòl air aran duinn.

Note.—The author of this favourite song was the Rev. Duncan Macfarlane, at one time chaplain to a Highland regiment, and lately minister of the Gaelic chapel, Perth.

AN CAILIN DILEAS DONN.

Gur ma slàn a chì mi,
Mo chailin dileas donn;
Bean a' chualain réidh,
Air an deise dh-èireadh fonn;
'S i cainnt do bheoil bu bhinn leam,
'N uair a bhiodh m' inntinn trom,
'S tu togadh suas mo chrì'
'Nuair a bhì'dh tu bruidhinn rium.

Gur muldach a tà mi,
'S mi nochd air aird a chuain,
'S neo shunntach mo chadal domh,
'S do chaidridh fada bluan;
Gur tric mi ort a smaointeach;
As t-aogais tha mi traugh;
'S mar a dean mi t-fhaotainn
Cha bhi mo shaoghal buan!

Suil chorrach mar an dearcag
Fo' rosg a dh-iathas dlù;
Gruaidhean mar na caoran,
Fo 'n aodann tha leam ciùin—
Mar d' aithris iad na bhreugan,
Gun tug mi féin dut rùin;
'S gur bliadhna leam gach là'
Bho'n uair a dh-fhàg mi thu.

Theireadh iad mas d' fhalbh mi bh'uat,
Gu 'm bu shearbh leam dhol ad chòir;
Gu do chuir mi cùl riut,
'S gu'n dhiult mi dhut mo phòg.
Na cùireadh sid ort cùram,
A rùin,—na creid an sgleò;—
Tha t-anail leam ni 's cùraidh,
Na'n drùichd air bharr an fheoir.

Tacan mu'n do sheol sinn,
'S ann a thoiseich càch
Ri innseadh do mo chruinneig-sa,
Nach pillinn-sa gu bràth.

Na cuireadh sid ort gruaimean
A luaidh; ma bhios mi slàn;
Cha chum dad idir bhuat mi,
Ach saighead chruaidh a bhàis.

Tha moran de luchd aimlis,
'S a sheannachais an droch sgeòil,
An chridheacha mar phuisean,
Cha chuimhnich iad air chòir;
Ach na creid an sgeula;
Ma gheibh a' chléir oirn còir,
'S ma dh' fhanas sinn bho chéile,
'S i 'n éigin a bheir oirn'.

Tha 'n snaim a nise ceangailte,
Gu daigheann agus teann;
'S e their luchd na fanoid rium
Nach 'eil mo phròthaid ann:—
'M fear aig am beil fortan,
Tha crois aige na cheann,
'S tha mise taingeil, toilichte,
Ge d' tha mo sporan gann.

Note.—This song is the composition of Hector M'Kenzie, a sailor belonging to Ullapool, Lochbroom. M'Kenzie is still alive—verging upon ninety years of age, and resides either in Glasgow or in Liverpool. He composed several Duanags of considerable merit. The air of this song is excellent and original; the composition, though good, is not so happy. A bad version of it appeared in Turner's Collection with a spurious verse beginning:—

“Tha Caimbeulaich mar chairdeas,
Ga t-ardachadh le strìth.”

M O R A G.

LUINNEAG.

'S i luaidh mo chagair Mòrag,
Mo ghaol sa mhadainn Mòrag,
Gu'n b'ait leam agam Mòrag,
Gur taitneach leam a còmhradh.

'S tu Mhòrag rinn mo bhuaireadh,
O chunna' mi di-luan thu,
Tha m'aigne leat a gluasad,
'S cha tàmh e mar bi buaidh leis,
Mur geill thu b'ìdh mi traugh d'beth.
'S i luaidh mo chagair, &c.

Do shaigidean rinn mo leònach,
'S iad chuir mi uil' as ordugh,
Cha bhi mi tuille 'n sblas,
Mur fàiltich thu le pòig mi,
'S do lamh a gealladh còir ort.
'S i luaidh mo chagair, &c.

'S tu 'n reull a' measg nan òg-bhan,
Do mhaise lian le bròn mi,

Do ghruaidh dh-fhàg fann na ròsan,
Do dheud dh-fhàg glas na nedèin,
Cha leir dhomh sàmh' do bhòicheid.
'S i luaidh mo chagair, &c.

Ge h-ioma tè a chi mi,
Cha téid iad uile 'm prìs riut,
'S tu Bhenus measg nam mìltean,
'S e t-eugas thug mo chli bhuam,
S a dh-fhàg an diugh gun lì mi.
'S i luaidh mo chagair, &c.

'Nuair bhitheas mi ann a m'aonar,
Nam chadal na mo sheòmar,
Thig t-iomhagh làn de bhòichead,
An sinn dùisgidh mi le sòlas,
An duil gu'm beil sinn còmhla.
'S i luaidh mo chagair, &c.

Gur tric mi air mo ghluasad,
'N àm cuimhneach air na h-nairean,
An robh mi, a's tu cluaineas,
'S a ruith le cèuman luatha,
'S nach pill iad tuille nuadh dhomh.
'S i luaidh mo chagair, &c.

Chuala tu mar tha mi,
Gu'm bheil mo chridhe 'n gràdh dhut;
Nis cuimhnich air do nàdur,
A's tionndaidh ann am blàs rium,
'S na fag a chaoidh am thraill mi.
'S i luaidh mo chagair, &c.

Note.—This deservedly popular air became known in the capital of Scotland only fifty or sixty years ago. “The young Highland Rover” and another song, both by Burns, are the only English words hitherto adapted to it.—M'Pherson's Melodies from the Gàidlic.

AN GILLE DUBH CIAR-DHUBH.

CHA dirich mi brughach,
'S cha shiubhail mi mòinteach,
Dh-fhalbh mo ghuth cinn,
'S cha sheinn mi òran.
Cha chaidil mi uair,
O luan gu dòmbnach,
'S an gille dubh ciar-dhubh;
Tighinn fo m' ùidh.

'S truagh nach robh mise,
'S an gille dubh ciar-dhubh;
An aodainn na beinne
Fo shileadh nan siantan;
An lagan beag fàsaich,
Nan àitigin diamhair,
'S cha ghabh mi fear liath
'S e tighinn fo m' ùidh.

Dh-òlainn deoch-slain',
A ghille dhubh chiar-dhubh
Do dh-uisge nan lòn,
Cho deònach 's ge b' fhuon e,
Ged tha mi gun òr,
Tha ni 's leor tigh'n' d'am iarraidh,
'S cha ghabh mi fear liath
'S e tighinn fo m' ùidh.

Mo ghille dubh bòidheach,
Ge gòrach le càch thu;
Dheanainn do phòsadh,
Gun deoin da mo chàirdean;
Shiubhlainn leat fada,
Feadh lagan a's fhàsach,
'S cha ghabh mi fear liath
'S tu tighinn fo m' ùidh.

Mo ghille dhubh laghach,
'S neo-raghainn leam t-fhàgail,
Na 'm faicinn an cuideachd thu,
Thaghainn ro chàch thu;
Ged' fhaicinn cùig mìl',
Air chinnt gur tu b' fhearr leam,
Cha ghabhainn fear liath
'S tu tighinn fo m' ùidh.

'S luaineach mo chadal,
Bho mhadainn di-ciadain,
'S bruaileanach m' aigneadh,
Mur furtaich thu chiall mi.
'S mi raoir air dhroch leabaidh,
Cha'n fhada gu liath mi,
'S an gille dubh ciar-dhubh,
Tighinn fo m' ùidh.

Note.—This fine little song is attributed to a Highland Sappho of the thirteenth century. Burns became so enamoured of it on hearing it sung by a lady, during his peregrination to the mountains, that he immediately wrote verses to the air, and it then became known for the first time to the English reader. To the same poet's taste we are indebted for the beauties of simple melody, and to the same lady's singing we owe the “Banks of the Devon,” from “Banarach dhonn a chruidh,” p. 127.—See Burns's Letters.

CRUINNEAG A CHRUIDH.

THA mulad mòr ga m' shàrach
Nach faigh mi dol do 'n àiridh,
'S cha'n fhaod mi bhì ga ràite,
Air eagal càch ga leughadh.
Mo chailin grinn, meal-shuileach, dubh,
'S toigh leam fhìn cruinneag a chruidh,
'Chailin glrinn, mheal-shuileich,
Air m' fhalluinn thug mi spèis dhut

Cha'n e nach bu mhiannach leam,
Gach òidheche laidhe sinnte riut,
Ach m' inntinn a bhì 'g innsadh dhomh,
Nach strìochdadh tu 's an éa-còir.
Mo chailin grinn, &c.

Tha nise bliadhn' a's eòrr,
O'n a dhùirginn do phòsadh,
'S tha 'n gaol a thug mi òg dhut
An diugh cho beò 's an ceud là.
Mo chailin grinn, &c.

Na'm biodh mo chruinneag deònach,
Cha chumadh Cléir no stòl mi,
Ach dh-fhalbhainn leat thar m' eòlas,
A phòsadh do Dhun-éideann.
Mo chailin grinn, &c.

Thug mi gaol ro òg dhut,
Nach tréig mi fhad 's is beò mi,
An dùil ri t-fhaighinn pòsda,
Le toil a's deòin na Cléire.
Mo chailin grinn, &c.

Tha gruaimean air mo chàirdean,
Gu'n tug mi gaol thar chàch dhut,
Ach cuim' an deanainn t-àicheadh
'S gu'n tug thu gràdh d'a réir sud?
Mo chailin grinn, &c.

Dh-innsinn duibh a h-aogas,—
A gruaidh cho dearg ri caoran,
'S a dà shùil mbeallach, chaogach,
Fo mbala chaol na h-euchdaig.
Mo chailin ghrinn, &c.

A bràighe dealrach rìomhach,
Mu'n àillte thig an sìoda,
'S a broilleach corrach chiochan—
A s gile 'fhiamh na'n éiteag.
Mo chailin ghrinn, &c.

Do phòg air bhlas na'm figis,
O'n bheul dh-fhas meachair, slomhalt;
'S e mheud sa fhuair mi d' bhrìodal,
A ghoid an crìdh 'a'm' chreubbaig.
Mo chailin ghrinn, &c.

Cha'n e mòid do phòrsain,
A dh-fhàg mo chion cho mòr ort;
Na'm faighinn thu ri phòsadh,
Cha stòr a bha mo dhéidh air.
*Mo chailin grinn, meal-shuileach, dhubb,
'S toigh leam fìin crùnneag a chruidh,
'Chailinn ghrinn meal-shuileich,
Air m' fhalluinn thug mi spéis dhut.*

FEAR AN LEADAIN THLAITH.

LUNNEAG.

*Fhìr an leadain thlàith,
Dh-fhàg thu mi fo bhròn
Tha mi trom an dràs,
'S e sin fà mo dheoir!*

Fhìr chuil dualaich, chleachdaich,
'S bòiche fiamh ri fhaicinn,
Tha do ghaol au tasgaidh
N seòmar glaist' na m' fheadil.
Fhìr an leadain, &c.

Tha do ghruaidh mar shuthain,
An garaidh nau ubhall,
Binne leam no chuthag,
Uirighill do bheoil.
Fhìr an leadain, &c.

An toiseach a Gheamhraidh,
'S ann a ghabh mi geall ort
Shaoil leam gu'm bu leam thu,
'S cha do theann thu'm chòir.
Fhìr an leadain, &c.

Fhìr an leadainn laghaich,
'S tu mo rùn 's mo raghain,
'Na'n sguireadh tu thaghal
'S an taigh am bi'n t-òl.
Fhìr an leadain, &c.

Fhìr an leadain chraobhaich,
'S òg a rinn thu m' aomadh,
Thug thu mi bhò 'm dhaoinne,
Fhuair mo shaothair òg.
Fhìr an leadain, &c.

An gàir' a rinn mi'n uiridh,
Chuir mo cheam an truimead,
'S mis a tha gu duilich,
'S muladach mo cheòl.
Fhìr an leadain, &c.

FAILTE DHUT A'S SLAINTE LEAT.

LUNNEAG.

*Fàilte dhut a's slainte leat,
Fàilte chuirinn a's do dhéigh:
Fàilte dhut a's slainte leat,
Fàilte chuirinn a's do dheigh.*

S e mo rùn an Gàel laghach,
'S tu a thaghainn 's cha be'n Gall;
Ort a thig na h-airm gu sgibidh,
Os ceann adhairc-chrios nam ball.
Fàilte dhut, &c.

'S tu sealgair a's dìrich ambarc,
'S geal an aingeal th' ann ad ghleus;
'S tric do luaidhe ghlas na siubhal,
'S i gu fuilteach, guineach, geur.
Faillte dhut, &c.

Bu tu nàmh a chapuill-choille,
'S a bhuic an doire nan stùc;
Marbhaich a bhric ris a choinneil,
'S a choilich anns a choille dhlù.
Faillte dhut, &c.

'S math thig sid air do ghiùlan
Flasg anns am bi fùdar gorm,
'S aireach leam nach d' rinn mi cùis riut,
Ged a bhiodh an t-ùmhladh orm!
Faillte dhut, &c.

Leat cha 'n iarrainn seòmar cadail,
No clàraidh leap' bhi ri m' thaobh;
B' annsa bhi le m' ghaol 's le m aighear,
'N àros nan aighean 's nan laogh.
Faillte dhut, &c.

Ma chaidh tu timicheall air an rugha,
B' dh mi dubhach as do dheigh;
'S gus an cluinn mi thu 'bhi tighinn,
Gu'n robh gach slighe dhut réidh.
Faillte dhut, &c.

HI-RI-RI 'S HO RA-ILL-O.

LUINNEAG.

*Hì-ri-ri 's ho ra-ill-o,
Raill o ho, raill o,
Hì-ri-ri 's ho ra-ill o,
Mo nighean donn is bòidheche.*

On tha mi fo mhulad air m'aineol,
Anns an tìr nach faic mi cairid,
Ruigidh mi nise mo leannan,
Gus am faigh mi còir oirr',
Hi-ri ri, &c.

Bha' mi òg a measg nan Gall,
'S thug mi greis air feagh nam beann,
'S ge lion'or té on d'fhuir mi cainnt,
'S ann tha mi 'n geall air Mhòraig.
Hi-ri-ri, &c.

Còmhach cinn is àilte snuadh,
S e'n ordudh nan ioma' dual,
Gus an cuir iad mi 's an uaigh,
Cha toir mi fuath do Mhòraig.
Hi-ri-ri, &c.

Na h-orain mhilis thig od bheul,
'S annsa' leam na ceol nan teud,
'S binne na smebrach air géig,
Na fuinn thig réidh bho Mhòraig.
Hi-ri-ri, &c.

'S cliùtach, siomhalta, do bheus,
Aigne cùin, 's e socrach, réidh
Gu seirceil, suairce, soitheamh, gléiste,
Gnùis na féile Mòrag!
Hi-ri-ri, &c.

B' annsa leam na òr na spainte,
Do ghnùis fhaicinn le fiamb gàire,
'S e sid a dh-fhag bruite m'airnean,
Mìad mo ghràidh do Mhòraig.
Hi-ri-ri, &c.

'Nuair lionte 'n deoch a bhiodh blàth,
Ma fheasgar 's na cupain bhàn',
Ged dhuisgear sgainneal le càch,
Cha chluinnear càran Mhòraig.
Hi-ri-ri, &c.

'N uair chuir an fhiodhal air ghleus,
Gu damhs air an ùrlar réidh,
Bu dlù mo bheachd air gach té,
'S mo chridhe leum gu Mòraig.
Hi-ri-ri, &c.

Na glacadh tu nise mo làimh,
Gu'n leiginn mulad ma làr,
Ghabhainn òran, a's dheanainn dàn,
'S mo làmh gu'n tugainn pòg dhut.
Hi-ri-ri, &c.

Note.—There are various sets of this popular song, we cannot, indeed, say how many. Of these we think this is the best, and we are told it is the original. It was written by the Rev. Charles Stewart, D.D., late minister of Strathchur.

ORAN CUMHAIDH,

DO-DH EACHUNN RUADH NAN CATH
A MHAERBHADH LATHA INBHIR-CHEITEAN.

Gur h-oil leam an sgeul sin,
A dh-éisd mi di-dòmhaich,
Gun bhi tuille d'a sheanchas,
Ach an fhoill a' rinn Hòburn;
Dh-fhàg iad deagh Mhac-Illean
A cur a chatha na òran,
'S theich iad féin troi chéile
Gun fhear-éilidh an òrdugh.
*Faill il-an hù-il-an, hù-il-an ò rò;
Fàil il-an hù-il-an, hù-il-an ò rò;
Fàil il-an hù-il-an, hù-il-an ò rò;
Fàil il-an ó hò : och nan och ! mar a tà sinn !*

Bu mhor bha dh-uireasbhui' làmh ort,
Ged thug àrdan ort fuireach,
Ach tuille 's an t-ana-bharr
Theachd a nall air an luingsis ;
'S mis a chuireadh an geall
Mur biodh ann ach na h-urrad,
Nach bualadh iad baing ort
Ann sa chàmpa le sulas.
Fail il-an, &c.

'Chuir thu ghràbhailte chruadhach
Air gruag nan ciabh amlach,
Lann than' air do chruachan—
'S i na cruaidh chum a barra-dheis ;
Sgiath dhaingean nan cruai-shnaim,
Agus dual nam breac-meannach,
Agus paidhear mhath Phiostal
Air chrìos nam ball airgeid.
Fail il-an, &c.

Cha bu shlacan aig òinid
Culaidh chòmhraig a ghaigich,
Dol' an coinneamh do nàmhaid
Cha chrith-mhàntain so ghlac thu ;
'Nuair a bhuail thu beum-sgéithe,
Dh' iarr thu céile chombat riut,
S nuair a thug thu na'n còdhail
Theich Hòburn 's a mharc-shluagh.
Fail il-an, &c.

'S ann a thug thu do dhualchas
O'n fhear a bhuaileadh an Gruinneart,*
Cha robh iomairt gun fhuathas,
'S cha robh buannachd gun chunnart ;
Chluinntte torunn na làmhaich
Agus tairneanach ghunna,
Ri deas-laimh mo ghràidh-sè
'Cuir nan Spainteach gu'm falang.
Fail il-an, &c.

'Nuair a thogta leat leibhi,
'S a dh'èighte fear air a mhàrg leat,
'Mhuire ! 's ioma bean baile
Dh-fhàg sud tamull na bantraich,
Agus leanamh beag cìche
Na dhilleachdan anfhann,
Ach ge duilich do mhuinntir
Cha'n ann ump' tha ar dearmad.
Fail il-an, &c.

Gur h-ìomadh laoch dòrn-gheal
Chaidh an òrdugh mu d' bhrataich,
Agus òganach sgiamhach
Bha ga riasladh fo eachaibh,
Agus spailp do fhear-taighe
Nach tugadh atha d'a phearsa,

A' bheireadh claidheamh a' duille
Bhiodh cho guineach ri ealtuinn.
Fail il-an, &c.

'Nuair a thogamaid feachdan,
A rì ! bu ghasd ar ceann-armailt ;
Ga b'è thigeadh air t-eachdraidh,
Ghabh iad tlachd dhìot air Ghalltachd ;
Bu tu caraid a Mharcuis
A bha 'n Sasunn gun cheann air,
Agus co-ainm an Eachuinn
Leis 'n do ghlacadh an càbhlach.
Fail il-an, &c.

S fad' o dh-ìnich am fear ud,
'S cha 'n ann da ghearan a tha sinn ;
Ach mar dh-fhàgadh gun sealladh
Suil mheallach an àrmuinn ;
Ach gu math an t-aon Dia dhuinn
Gu'r h-e iargain a chràidh sinn,—
Gun robh aoidh fir an domhain
Ann na cho-sheis' a' fàs riut !
Fail il-an, &c.

Ga b'è thug dhut cion-falaich,
Na thog do ealantan litrich,
Ge bi nighean Mhic-Chaillein
Bu diol maraiste dh' is' thu ;
Gun maig i thug gaol dut
Ma chaochlas i 'nis e,
'S nach faic i air talamh
Do mhac-samhail am misnich.
Fail il-an, &c.

M'a dheireadh an t-Samhraidh
Cha robh meamna do sgeul oirn,
'S beag an t-ìoghna do ranntachd
Bhi fo chàmpar as t-eugais ;
Agus muinntir do dhùthcha
'Bhi fo chùram mu d' dhéibhinn,
Gun robh 'n t-aobhar ud aca
Ga ruig an Leas agus Treufag !
Fail il-an, &c.

Tha iunntraichinn bhuanne,
'S cha bu shuarach an call e ;
Gu'm bu mhòr an luach-taisgeil
Ma tha 'n t-ath-sgeal a dearbhadh ;
'So bheireadh daoine' uaisle
As an uachdran ainmeil,
'S as ar tighearna smachdail
'S cha bu lapach an ceannard.
Fail il-an, &c.

C'ait an robh e air thalamh
Boinne fala a b' àilli,
Na t-òighre-sa 'Dhubhairt,
Lochabuidh agus Arois ?

* Lachunn Mòr, Chief of Maclean, Lord of Duart and Morven, killed at Grunneart in Isla, 5th August, 1598.

Gu'r iomad bean uasal
A bha gruag air dhroch càradh,
Ged nach dh-fhuair iad de sgeula
Ach gu'n chreuchdadh 'sa bhlàr thu.

Fail il-an, &c.

Tha do phàirc air a dùnadh—
Ionađ lùchairt nan Gàel ;
Gur deacair sud innseadh
Aig ro dhillsid do phàirtidh ;
Tha chraobh a b'fhearr àbhlan
Air a rùsgadh an dràst diu ;
Och ! a Mhuire mo dhìùbhail
Chaidh am flùr thar a ghàraidh !

Fail il-an, &c.

Note.—This beautiful elegy was composed on the death of Sir Hector Roy Maclean, second baronet of Duart and Morven, who was killed in the battle of Inverkeithing, 28th July, 1651. The author of the poem is unknown.

O R A N

DO SHIR EACHUNN MAC 'ILLEAN DHUBHAIRT.*

LE IAIN MAC-ILLEAN.

Dn' fhalbh air thuras fir Alb' uile,
'S na dh-fhàg Lunnainn dùmhail,
'S e fà ar mullaid ceannard Mhuile,
Gu'm b' e a chulaidh ionndrain,
Chunnacas uair thu, linn Raoin-Ruairidh,
Cha tuga luchd-fuatha pùic dhìot,
'S bu treun do gheard gu dol do'n bhlàr,
Ged dh-fhalbh thu 'n dràsd le aon-fhear !

'S an Dreòllainn tha air iomadh fà,
Fir a's muài fo chùram,
Mu'n tì a chaidh do Shasunn bhuaìn :
Ga 'm beil an uaisle ghiùlain,
Tha sinn na dheigh mar ian air géig,
Air chridh' am péin ga chiùradh,
Cha'n nochdar leinn aon gair air beul,
Mur faigh sinn sgeul ni 's ùire.

'Nuair chaidh thu d' bhàta moch di-màirt,
Gu fhalbh bharr clàr do dhùthcha,
Gur truagh a bha gach tonn air tràigh,
Le coltas cràidh a's tùrsa,
Chaidh gaoth air ghleus gu grad gu t-fheum,
Gu h-ealamh, gleusda, sùrdail,
Gun feum air neart nan laoch bu leat,
Ach aon-fhear pròp ga stiùireadh.

Bu truagh' nad dhéigh bha gruaim nan speur,
Gun an teas 'sa ghréin bu dù dh'i !
Gun Samhradh féin na chùrsa béis,
Ach mar aimsir gheur na dùlachd !

* This song was composed on Sir Hector M'Lean, fifth baronet, when he went to France in 1721. He died at Rome, July, 1750.

Gun mheas air crann, gun fheur ach gann,
Gun chuthag ann, no smùdan,
Gun sealg nam beann ri fhaotainn ann,
'S gun damh sa' ghleann 'ni bùireadh !

Bha coille 's machair caomh ri Eachunn,
Thaobh gu'm bu ghasd am flùr e,
Mar ùmhlachd dhò fo bhonn a bhròg,
Bha feur nam fòd a' lùbadh,
Na fhianais féin e grad a'g' éiridh,
Suas gu h-eutrom, driùichdach,
'S b' e barail gheur gach neach da'm leir,
Gu'r falbh 'n ad dheigh bu rùn dà !

Cha dù do 'n bhannrinn air aon aobhar,
'Bhi na nàmhaid dhuinne,
Gun seanachas dhaoine ri fhaotainn,
Gur dream a dh-aom o'n' chrùn sinn,
Gun aon aobhar—dha ri fhaotainn,
Aig luchd-gaoil no diùmba—
Air falbh le aighear do'n Fbraing air bhaideal,
B'e sud an aithis shùl-ghorm.

'S mor an luidheachd thug thu bhuat,
Air son na fhuair thu chùirt air,
Cinneadh greadhnach, feachdail, meadhvrach,
Fearann saor, a's dùthaich,
An t-anam féin bha staigh a'd chré,
Chaidh sin na cheudan cùntart,
Do shliochd fo fhuath 's am leat bu chruaidh,
'S nach robh e'n dual no 'n dù dhut.

An talla chomhnuidh 'n robh a sheòrsa,
Riamh gu ceòlmhor, mùirneach,
An earradh broin cha'n aoibhneas dò,
Fo fhuaim nan stòp aig dù-Ghail ;
'Nuair fhuair e steach e leum e'n aiteas ;
Air leis gu m' chaisteal ùr e,
Bha clach chinn-snaif' air caochladh drench,
Cho geal ri sneachd ri aon-uair.*

Tha 'n tì rinn ceann dibh air an rannus',
Gu tric fo ainneart spùilidh :—
'Nuair chi e'n t-am ga'r cuir a nall,
Gun bheud, gun chall, gun chunnard,
Bi'dh sibh air sògh, air cuirm, 's air ceòl ;
Air blaths gu leoir, 's air sùgradh,
'S gheibh sibh gu ceart bhur coir air ais,
'S dìon a dh' aindeoin cùise.

'Na'n abradh neach nach eil so ceart,
Cha'n iarrain dad bu mhò dha,
No teachd fo chall mar tha sinn ann,
Gun rìgh, gun cheann, gun dùthaich,
Ach chi mi 'ghuà gur fìor an ràit,
'S gur bristeadh àithn' bho thùs e :—
" Gu'r beag mar chràdh le fear tha slàn,
A chnead tha nàbaidh bùirich."

* This stanza has reference to some wild superstitious story, of which we freely confess our ignorance.

AN LAIR DHONN.

LE MURCHA' MOR MAC MHIC MHURCHAIHD
 FEAR AICHEALAIHD.

'Tha mise fo ghruain,
 'S gun mi 'n caidridh a chuain,
 Cha chaidil mi uair air chòir.
 Tha mise fo ghruain, &c.

Ge socrach mo ghleus,
 Air capull na leum,
 Cha chaisgear leam m' fheum le treòir.

Loth philleagach, bhreun,
 Fo phillin 's fo shreim,
 Aon ghille na deigh bu làd ;

Cha tugadh i ceum,
 Ach duine 's i-féin,
 'S gu'n cuireadh i feum air lòn.

Na 'n gabhaidh i sgìos,
 'S e b' fheadar dol sìos,
 'S a treigsinn ge b' fhiamh an tòir ;

Cha b' ionnan 's mo làir,
 Air linne nam bàrc,
 Bì'dh gillean a ghnà cuir bhòd.

Iubhrach shocrach a chuain
 Dha 'n cliù toiseach dol suas,
 'S croinn dhosrach nam buadh fo sheòl,

Air bharrabh nan stuadh,
 'Cuir daraich na luaths,
 'S buill tharuinn nan dual 'n am dhòrn.

'S i b' aighirich ceum,
 Dha 'm faca mi-féin,
 'S cha chuireadh i feum air lòn ;

Cha 'n iarradh i moll,
 No fodar, no pronn,
 Ach sodradh nan tonn fo 'sròin,

Reubadh mara le sùrd
 Fo bheul sgair agus sùigh,
 Deis a barradh gu dìù le òrd ;

Ruith chùip air a clàr,
 'S i druite fo shàl,
 'S bu chruit leam a gair fo sheòl.

Be sud m' aighear 's mo mhiann.
 Ged ghlasaich mo chiabh,
 'S cha shlaht agus srìan a'm' dhòrn ;

Ged thigeadh an ruaig,
 Le caitheamh a chuain,
 Cha laidheadh oirn fuachd no leòn.

Fhir a dh'im'cheas an Iar,
 Bho nach cinnteach mo thrìall,
 Bì 'g innse gur bliadh'n' gach lò ;

'S belr an t-soraiddh no null,
 Air fad oir thir an fhuinn,
 Far am faighte na suinn a 'g òl.

Gu Innis an fhéidh,
 Gu eirir au eigs,
 Far nach diolar leam féich air lòn ;

Gu eilein nan tonn,
 Nam ban àlluinn 's nan sonn
 Bu mhileanta fonn mu bhòrd.

Gu comunn mo rùn,
 Nach cromadh an t-shuil,
 'N àm tromachadh dhuinn air pòit ;

'S sinn gun àrdan gun strì,
 Gun àireamh air nì
 'Cuir sàradh am fion 's ga òl.

Note.—The author of this piece was Mr Murdoch M'Kenzie of Aicheldy, in Ross-shire, a gentleman of high respectability. In the early part of his life he resided in the island of Lewis, occasionally going to sea, in a vessel of his own. Afterwards he became a cattle-dealer on an extensive scale, purchasing among the tenantry of that island, and exposing them for sale in the English market. He happened to be in England with a drove of cattle, and not getting immediate sale, he was compelled to remain a considerable time. Being thus wholly unoccupied, he hired a gig in which he took short excursions through the adjacent country, and it was when thus employed that he composed his "Làir Dhonn." The air is by himself. He composed several other pieces of merit.

Various pieces of this sort are in our possession, but they are generally of little poetic merit, though the airs are sometimes cheering and melodious if well sung. * The Beaton's were a race of hereditary physicians who lived in Mull from the time of the Druids. Allusion, however, is here made to a time when one of the Scottish monarchs being dangerously ill, and hearing of Beaton's fame, sent for him as the forlorn hope,—the court doctors having pronounced their Royal patient incurable. The physicians in attendance, jealous of our rural Æsculapius, or, at least, anxious to put his skill to the test, brought him, with great pomp and formality, cow-urine instead of that of his Majesty, averring that its colour indicated the desperation of the ailment. Beaton at once detected the fraud, saying, "if it be his Majesty's urine, it smells strongly of the byre; and if you, gentlemen, open him up, you will find he is with calf!" but upon seeing the proper fluid, he undertook the case, and was successful in effecting a speedy restoration of his Majesty's health.

Many anecdotes have orally come down to us as illustrative of the Beaton's skill. One of these we may give in corroboration.—Sailing along the coast of Mull on a calm summer evening, the song of a milk-maid floated softly on the breeze and arrested the attention of the boatmen. "Is not that a charming voice?" remarked one of the party to Dr Beaton.—"S'breagh' an guth air uachdar losgairn e!" was the mysterious and significant reply.—i.e. A very fine voice for one who has swallowed a frog! It subsequently turned out that the young woman whose melody had charmed our navigators, had actually swallowed the amphibious animal; and, although it did not then annoy her, it soon assumed an alarming aspect, and had almost terminated in her death. We give one other anecdote:—

Beaton was once sent for by a gentleman at Aros, who had been long indisposed, and was attended by two eminent physicians. The worthy brace of health-restorers retired as Beaton entered the chamber of sickness, and after a few preliminary questions, he examined the patient's body, exudations, &c. He soon ascertained that the chieftain's complaint arose from a boil on the stomach, and forthwith bethought him how to effect a cure. His knowledge of the human system, and the laws that regulate it, enabled him to foresee that some violent exertion of the lungs would probably have the desired effect; in short, he put his brains to work to try how he could make the sick man laugh. Beaton, in the presence of his patient, discharged his excrements on a shovel, and then branched it with culinary skill and care until it was sufficiently dry to be reduced to powder. This ludicrous preparation was then made up in a paper parcel, and left half open on a table beside the astonished patient. Without giving any prescription of a dietary or medicinal nature, he took his leave, promising, however, that he would revisit the chieftain on the following day. He was no sooner gone than the other doctors returned to the object of their solicitude, anxious to ascertain the result of his interview with Beaton. The patient told them that he had received no advice from their rustic brother, but that he had left a powder there on the table, not deigning, however, to give any instructions as to how or when it was to be used. The medical gentlemen were roused to the highest pitch of curiosity to analyze the powder. What could it be?—It was brown and quite dry. Yielding to the curiosity of the moment, they smelt the simple—it was perfectly innocuous; each took his forefinger and thumb, and seizing a goodly quantity of it, they tasted and swallowed the pulverized excrements of their friend! The patient knew the history of the preparation—he saw, shook, and burst into an immoderate fit of laughter. It was enough; the boil burst, and the chieftain vomited a quantity of corrupt matter. A few days after, and the gentleman was foremost in the chase; and Beaton universally lauded as a man of shrewdness, skill, and penetration.

'S tric a chuir mi do lùireach 's an stòp.

'S a chuid eile de'n chùineadh,
Dhol a cheannach an fhùdair,
Spàirt dheth ga shùdhadh am shròin.

Bu tu mìslean nan uaislean,
'N robh mìsneach le cruadal,
Air an dh-fhas na h-airm uallach gun spòrs.

Note.—FORSÀIR CHOIRR'-AN-T-SUL, the author of this song, lived near Kilmun, a hundred and fifty years ago. His real name was John White: he composed several songs, some of which are in our possession, but our limits will not permit us to insert them here.

IORRAM NA TRUAIGHE

DO THIGHEARNA CHILL-DUINN.

LE SACHAIRI MAC-ALLAIDH.

GUR i iorram na truaighe,
Tha mise 's an uair so a seinn :
Gur e mheadaich droch shnuagh orm,
'S a laghdaich a ghraag bharr mo chinn,
A liuthad sgaradh a fhuair mi,
'O 'n là b' aithne dhomh gluasad leam fhìn
Ach so 'n t-aon bheum 's cruaidhe,
Chuir an saoghal air uachdar ri m' linn.

Gur bochd m' ur-sgeul ri leughadh,
Ge be dheanadh rium éisteachd an dràs,
Tha mo chridhe ga reubadh,
O 'n là chuala' mi sgeula do bhàis,

Gu'm bèil m' inntinn ro bhruite,
'S tric snithe mo shuilean gu làr,
Bho 'n la dh-fhalaich an ùir thu,
Fhir bu fhlaithle gnùis am meas chàich.

Measg chàich bu tu 'chuideachd,
Air mo laimh cha bu sgrubaire bùird,
Ann an tuigse 's an reusan,
Cha do dh-fhidrich mi féin ort ach clù,
Ann an ath-truas ri d' dhaoine,
'Nuair chidhe' tu baoghal ri 'n cùl,
Gur tu b' urainn da 'n tearnadh,
Fhir bu tairise blà-sealladh sùl.

Suil bu ghuirme na 'n dearcag,
Fo aghaidh ghlan, ghasa, chùil réidh,
Gruaidh dhearg mar na caorann,
Slios bu gile na faoilinn nan speur ;
Meoir bu grinne gu sgrìobhadh,
Litir bhàn bu glan sgrìob 'o d' pheann gear ;
Nochd gur tùrsach tha m' inntinn,
Air thùs domh bhì g' innseadh do bheus.

Beus a b' ainneamh ri fhaotainn,
Measg clanna nan daoine anns an fhomh,
Le d' chiall chunabhalach, socracl,
Cha bu leir dhomh aon lochd a bha 'd chòm ;
'S e tholl mo chridhe gu beachdaidh,
Gun thu thighinn air t-ais oirn le fonn,
Ceannard m' òil agus m' aigheir,
Fo na bòrdaibh na laidhe gu trom.

Bhuainn gu 'n tug iad a nis thu,
Gu là-luain mo shuil silteach ga d' chaoidh,
Gur e fuaigheal do chiste,
Càs bu cruaidhe 'n robh mise na 'm bì,
Ge bu chruaidh b' fheadar fhulang,
Ochoin ! tha mo bhunadh da m' dhith,
Mo cheol, m' òil, agus m' aigheir,
Fo na bòrdaibh na laidhe 's an I.*

Air an I ann san t-seapall,
Tha 'n tì bu mhòr ceist air an dàimh,
'S tu nach tréigeadh am feasd iad,
Fhad sa dh-fhaodadh tu 'n teasraiginn slàn,
'S bochd leam gaoir do dhaoine' uaisle,
'S iad mur chaoirich gun bhuachaill air blàr,
A Rìgh ghaolaich ! gabh truas diù,
Nois 'o thug an t-Aog 'uath thu gun dàil.

Dàil cha 'n iarainn a nis,
Ach bhì triall chum do lice mo mhiann,
Dol a dh-iunnsaidh na cathrach,
'Chuir cùram an eallaich so dhìom,
'S beag mo spéis dhìot a shaoghail,
Na 'n creideadh na daoine gur fìor;—
Tha sior ghiùlain a pheacaidh,
Choisinn sgiùrsadh le masladh do Chrìosd'.

* A burial place in the island of Lewis, near Stornoway

Ach a Chrìod tha sa' chathair,
Air deas laimh an athar gu buan,
An diugh 's leir dhut mo dhòran,
'S mi n deigh cloidhean an doruis thoirt uam,
Fhir thug maòis as an Eiphid,
'S a sgoilt na clàr réidh dha mhuir ruadh,
Fhir a chum mi 'sa dhéilbh mi,
So an Iorram a shéirm mi gu truagh!

Note.—Sachairi, or Zachary Macaulay, the author of this elegy, was born in the island of Lewis, in the beginning of the eighteenth century. He was the son of an Episcopalian clergyman and liberally educated. The subject of this piece was M'Kenzie, the last laird of Kildun, whose widow lady kindly entertained Prince Charles when in Lewis* (not "Tighearna Asaint," as erroneously stated in the Inverness and other Collections. The last of the lairds of Asaint had been dead some time before our poet was born). This Tighearna Chill-Duinn, was a gentleman of literary and poetical taste; he was a relative and great companion of our author. It is said that Macaulay grew melancholy after his death, though in his youth he was somewhat loose, and wrote some wanton pieces, clever enough in their way. The most celebrated of these was the "Ghòg-ran-chas," the air of which was a favourite with Burns, as appears from one of his letters to Thomson.

ORAN GAOIL.

LEIS A BHARD CHIANDA.

FONN—"Tha mo leannan air fàs rium an gruaim."

Tha mo chridhe mar chusaintean,
Air beil mulad, a's bruillean a snàmh,
Gur h-e trom-cheist mo leannain
Mo throm ghalar a's m'euslaint a ghnà,
Tha mo shuilean gu silteach,
Mo dheòir 'tuiteam mar uisge gu làr,
Tha liunn-dubh air mo bhuaireadh,
Rinn mo chaidridh thoirt bhuan 's mo phràmh.

Mu'n rìbhinn òig àluinn,
Bann-rìgh na h-uill' mhnà ta fo 'n ghréin,
Ann an deasachd 's an eolas,
Ann an tuigse 's 'm fòghlum 's an céill,
Ann an geamnachd 's am mialtachd,
Ann am baindeach gun mhì-ruin, gun éud,
Gradh neo-chionntach, diamhair,
Neo-lochdach, gun ghiamb, 's gun bheud.

* "While they were at lady Kildun's they killed a cow, for which the Prince would have paid, but she at first refused till the Prince insisted upon it. When they left the place they took some of the cow with them, two pecks of meal, and plenty of brandy and sugar, and at parting lady Kildun gave Edward Burk a lump of butter."—Ascanius, p. 134, Stirling, 1802.

Ge b' leam ùghdarachd Ailein,*
Ur-labhradh gach sgoile 's ro aird'.
Bu ro bheag leam mo chomas,
Air do dheanamh-sa follais an dàn,
Ach mu 'm pillear san àth mi,
'S mor gur fearr a bhi bàit air an t-suàmh,
Bho 'n a's ònair 'n nàch mulad,
Leam do mholadh bho d' mhullach gu d' shàil.

Dh-fhàs air ragha nan òg-bhan,
Cùl sgiamhach, falt còrnach nan cuach,
Ciambach, cam-lubach, caslach,
Sgiamhach, amalagach, dréach-bhuid', gach dual,
Barr gasta chùil or-bhuid',
Mar dhreach theudan a's ceol-mhòire fuaim,
B' éibhinn fhaicinn ga réiteach,
'S fiamb laiste na gréin' mu do chluais.

Fuaim òrghain na fìdhle,
Ceol toraghain nam pìob a's uan teud,
Cha do sheinneadh an sì-bhruth,
Ceol a's binne no piopan do chléibh,
Gaoth mar lusan na frìthe,
Tigh'nn bho uinneagan mìne do bhéil,
Bilean blàth-bhriathrach, àluinn,
Aig an rìbhinn a's cnaimh-ghile deud.

'S ceart cho geal tha do bhràgad,
Ri canach no trà-shneach air géig,
'S corrach mìn na tuilichean
Dh-fhàs na mulain air mullach do chléibh,
Bàsan fionalta, bàna,
Meoir ghrinn-chaol ga'm àbhaist cuir ghréis,
Air seudan le òr-shnath,
Dealbh ionmhaigh gach éoin a's gach géig.

'Nam biodh na h-urad aig càch ort,
'S a bh' agamsa ghràdh air do neòil,
Cha bu ràfart no mearachd,
Leo mi labhairt mo bhairéil a's mo ghloir,
Ach na'n creideadh iad fìrinn,
Cha tréiginn air mhèitean thu 'n òr,
No air airgead nan Innsean,
Do bheadradh, do dhìsleachd, 's do phòg.

Bi'dh mi nis a' co-dhùnadh,
Agus cuiream ri tùrsa gu bràch,
Cha 'n eil sì-shàimh nam aigneadh,
O'n nach meal mi do chaidridh 's do ghràdh:
Bho'n a thug thu làn fhnaidh dhomb,
Gus an téid mi 'san uaigh leis a bhàs,
Bi'dh ma chridhe mar chusaintean,
Air bi mulad' a's bruillean a snàmh!

Note.—This song is a lament for the loss of the poet's sweetheart, a coy maiden to whom he was attached, but who preferred and married another. It is questionable, however, whether he was altogether so grieved about the circumstance as he would have us to suppose.

COMHRADH, MAR GU'M B'ANN

EADAR DITHIS NIGHEAN MHIC-DHOMHNUILL DUIBH,
LE IAIN MAC-'ILLEAN.

AIR FONN—"Tha'n dìdhche nochd ro aonarach."

THUIRT Mairearad nigh'n' Dòmhnuille,
'S i tòiseachadh gu ciùin,
A phiuthar, ciod an t-òrdugh?
A nis m'an deònach thu:
Mas ionnan dhut 's dhòmhsa,
B' t-òigh, a's gheibh thu cliù;
'S na iarr dhut féin do shòlas,
Ach pòsadh ris an ùir!

Sin 'nuair labhair Marsaill,
'S bu taitneach leam a glòir,
A phiuthar 's beag mo chiataidh,
Do bhriathran sin do bheoil;
Gu'm b' fhearr leam a bhi macnus,
Ri mhac sin Eachuinn òig,
Na bhi cràbhadh mar ri sagart,
Agus paidearan na'm' dhòrn.

Ochan! 's bochd an fhaoisid sin,
A phiuthar, ghaolach, òg,
T'aonta thoir do'n t-shaoghal,
'S nach bi thu daonnan beò;
Gur h-e gnìomh a b' fhoghaintich,
Do leabhar a bh' d' dhòrn,
Na bhi falbh an gleanntan fàsaich,
Gun sàilm, ach bàirich bhò.

Air eagal t-fheirg' na t-ardain,
B' dh' m' aicheadh dhut gu mall,
Gur truaigh na smaointean dh-fhàs annad,
'S gur t-àrach a measg Ghall;
Gabh féin sgéoil an easpuig,
Fhuair ar creidimhne na cheann,
'Fhiachain nach sean òrdugh,
Am pòsadh a bhi ann

Tha lomadh ni ga chleachdadh,
Le lagh eaglais anns gach àit,
Ach faigh-sa dhomh-sa 'm Bioball:
'S e freamh gach firinn e;
'S fearr pòsadh, ge be thogradh e,
No losgadh, cùis a chràigh!
Ach ge be nach dean aon chuid diù,
Gur ciunteach gur h-e 's fearr

B' fhearr leam a bhi caiteanach,
Le taitneas, a's le stòr;
'S a bhi gu beartach, mearracasach
Le airgead a's le br.

Bhi gu rìmheach, fasanta,
Le pasmunn a's le sròl;
Na bhi seargadh an taigh-cràbhaidh,
Gun fiù a ghàir', ach bròn.

A bharail a th' aig càch ort,
'S e aobhar nàir as mò,
Gur h-e rud ' chum bho chràbhadh thu,
Ro mhiad do ghràidh air pòig,
Na biodh tu air t-ùrnaigh mosglaithe,
'S tu trodan ris an fheoil,
Gur deibhinn leam gu'n coisneadh tu,
An rìoghachd 's mugha glòir.

An rud ud their na càirdean,
Ciod e 'm fàth dhuinn bhi de 'n rùn,
Gu feairrde bean air bheusaichid,
A céile féin ri glùn;
An te nach ith am follais rud,
An connaltradh no'n cùirt,
Cha chreid na daoine glice,
Nach ith i cuid an cùil.

Gur bochd na smaointean aignidh,
Aig mnaoi agaladh do bhéil;
Ge h-ioma neach tha'n càirdeas,
Cha'n ionnan nàdur 's beus;
B' dh' barail aig a phòitear,
Bhios ag bì gach uair ga m' feud,
Gum bì gach neach an gràdh,
Air an dibh laidir mar e-féin.

B' fhearr leam a bhi daonachdach,
Ri feumanaich do ghnà;
No bhi gu faoilteach, furanach,
Ro' gach duin ad dhàimh;
Bho'n 's e 'm beus bu tric a bh' aig,
Gach mnaoi bu ghlic do mhnà,
Na bhi air mo ghlun ag eadarghuidh,
Ri P'eadar no ri Pàl.

An t-àite taisge diamhair,
'S am beil t-ulaidh agus t-òr,
Gun ann ach seòrsa phigidhean,
'S bristear iad gu fòil,
Far am beil mo thasgaidh-sa,
Tha glasan air do-leòint';
Gum beil mo Stiùbhart saibhir,
'S bheir a làidheal domh mo lòn

Bha gach bean bho'n tainig mi,
Gle stàthail anns gach euchd,
'S bu luchd a thabhairt dàlach iad,
Do neach air bith am feum,
Bu mhiosail ann an nàisinn iad,
'S nàire 'm miadh do ghléidh;
'S cha'n iarrainn féin do du-àilleas,
Ach a bhi mar bhà iad féin.

Gur deacair dhomhsa ràitinn,
 'Nach nàdurach do bheus;
 Mar a bha na càirdean,
 Gur stàthail bhi da'n réir;
 Gluais thusa mar b'abhaist,
 Feuch an taitin e riut féin,
 'S cha toill mise mòran dùmaidh,
 Chionn dol ri ùin' ad dheigh.

Note.—John Maclean, the author of this song and another excellent one at page 383, composed on Sir Hector Maclean's leaving his country and going to France in 1721, was a celebrated bard in the island of Mull. He died about the year 1760. When Dr Johnson and Boswell visited that island in 1773, they heard these songs sung by a lady. Boswell observes that "all the company who understood the Gaelic were charmed with the verses."—Boswell's Journal, p. 392.

ORAN

DO NIGHEAN FHIR NA COMRAICH.
 LE UILLEAM MAC-CHOINNICH.

'S CIANAIL m' aigne bho na mhadainn,
 Ghabh mi cead de 'n rìbhinn;
 Tì cho taitneach riut cha'n fhaic mi
 Anu an dreach no fiamhachd.
 Bu thrian de m' lòn do bhriathran beoil,
 A teachd mar cheol a sì-bhruth;
 'S i 'n t-sheirc a ta na d' bhràgad bàn,
 A thaisg mo ghradh gu diomhair.

Ciochan corrach, lionta, soluis,
 Air do bhroilleach réidh-ghlan;
 Do sheang-shlios fallain mar an eala,
 No mar chanach sléibhe.
 Bas ionnuidinn, caoin nan geala, mheur caol,
 A' dealbh nan craobh air peurlainn;
 'S tu fialaidh, glic—'s do chiall gun tig,
 Air diombaicheachd nan reulltan.

Do bhraighe glè-gheal mar gath gréine,
 T'aghaidh réidh ghlan mhodhar;
 Sinnuailt t-eugais 's tearc ri fheutuinn,
 Gur tu reull nan òighean.
 Gur bachlach, dualach, cas-bhuì', cuachach,
 T'fhalt ma'n cuairt an ordugh;
 S ann tha gach ciabh mar fhàin air sniamh,
 'S gach aon air fiamh an òir dhiubh.

'Nighean aingil nan rosg malla,
 'S nan gruaidh glana, nàrach;
 Dà shuill ghorm, mheallach, fo'd chaol-mhala,
 'S gach aon a' mhealladh gràidh dhiubh.
 Tha mais' ad gnùis, gun easbhuidh mhùirn
 Beul meachair, ciùin, nì màran,
 Do bhriodal caomh, 's do loinn maraon.
 A rinn mo ghaol-sa thàradh.

Corp seamhaidh bàn, cho-lionas gradh
 Gach tì a thàradh iùil ort;
 'S ann tha do shnuagh, toirt barr air sluagh,
 'S tu 'n ainneir shuairce, chliutach.
 Do dheas chalpannan ro dhealbhadh,
 Gu'n bhi meanbh, no dùmhail;
 Troighechruinn, chomhnard, dh-fhalbhas modhar,
 Nach dean feoirn' a lùbadh.

Cho glan is tu 's neo shoilleir dhuinn,
 'S mar ghealach thu 'n tùs éiridh;
 Beul tana, muinnt' a's anail chubhruidh,
 'S sinnuailt thu do Bhenus.
 'S e chruin' do thlachd deud ùr mar chaile,
 Air dlùthadh ceart ri chéile;
 O'n tig an t-òran eatron, ceol-mhor,
 Mar an smeòrach chéitean.

Bho Fhlath nan dùl, tùs rath' fhuair thu,
 Bhí modhail, ciuin gun ardan;
 Tha iochd, a's cliù, a's loinn, a's mùirn,
 Air glaothadh dlù' ri d' nadur.
 'S tu air do bhuain a freamh nam buagh,
 De 'n treun-fhuil uasail, statoil;
 Thu fialaidh, pailt, an gnìomh, 's an tlachd
 'S do chiall co-streup ri t-àillteachd.

* * * * *

Mi cian o d' chaidridh, 's buan dhomh fhaidid,
 Dh-fhag sud m' aigne pianail;
 Osnaich do ghnà, gun fhois, gun tàmh,
 A fhrois gach blàth dheth m' fhion-fhuil.
 'S e bhrosnaich deoir 's a chlaoidh mo threoir
 An rìbhinn òg so thriall bh'uainn;
 'S tu 's trom a dh-fhàg mi, òigh mo ghràidh,
 Le d' bhòrn ata mi cianail.

Note.—William Mackenzie the author of this beautiful song, was the son of a respectable tacksman at Lochcarron, Ross-shire. He lived about the middle of the last century, and was one of three brothers who were all poets. This song was composed on a beautiful young lady, Miss Mackenzie of Applecross. After she departed from his father's house on her way home, William and his brother Alexander accompanied her part of the way, and the song was made on their return. When he repeated it to his brother, Alexander said he could make a better song himself, and would allow his father to judge which of the two were best. He then composed An t-Ailleagan * Alexander died soon afterwards, and then William composed that admirable elegy on his death, which is unequalled in tenderness and pathos by the most celebrated of the Celtic bards.

* SORACH slàn d'òr ailleagan,
 Bha 'n so ma'n tra so 'n raic,
 Gur barrachd' ann an ailleachd thu,
 'S gur lan-mhaiseach do loinn,
 Thug thu barr air mnai na h-Albann,
 Ann an dreach 's an dealbh 's an sgoinn,
 Dh-fhag nadur ann an glocas dhut,
 Gach buaidh dhia sud os-roinn.

Ge dana dhomh ri raite sin,
 Thug nadur dhut na 's leor,
 Cho mor 's guu d' rinneadh bannrigh dhìot,
 Gun ardan no gne phrois,

CUMHA' ALASDAIR DHUINN

LE BHRATHAIR.

UILLEAM MAC-CHOINNICH CHIANDA.

'S trom an luchd so th'air m'inntinn,
 Agus m'uirseul ri innse gur truagh,
 Thriall mo shùgradh 's mo mhàran,
 Lion tùrsa 'n a àite mi 's gruaim,
 Tha mo choill air a maoladh,
 'S nì soilleir a shaoil air mo ghruaidh,
 'S tearc mo shochair ri fhaotainn,
 O'n là ghlacadh le Aog thu cho luath.

'S ann a chiad làtha 'n earrach,
 Bhuail an t-éug mi a spealadair lom,
 Bhris air ùbhlan mo ghàraidh,
 Leag e m'abhull fo bhàla thar a bhonn,
 Rium-sa bhuinn e neo-fharasd,
 'Nuair thug e leis Alasdair donn,
 Mo chruas iomairt 'a mo chearrachd,
 'S truaigh dhùinne nach tearuinn sinn bonn.

'S e bhi d' chàradh air eisleig,
 Rinn mo chràladh fo asnaich mo chléibh,
 Chuir mo chri as a chochull,
 Chor 's nach suidhich è socrach na dhéidh
 Gur luaithe le bhuille,
 Na mar ghluaiseas an duilleach air géig,
 Chaidh mo shlàinte gu mearan,
 Cha 'n eil feum bhi' ga ghearan ri léigh.

Cha'n eil cron ri aireamh ort,
 A dh-fhadadh fas air feoil,
 Am measg ban og a's maighdeannan,
 Ma dhaimen a measg oir!

A measg nam ban gur sagathan thu,
 'Fuir barr ort anns gach geall,
 'S bachelach, buidhe, sniamhanach,
 Gach ciann tha air do cheann!
 Tha do ghruaidh cho dreachmhoire,
 Ri ubhlan dait air crann,
 Suileagorm mar dhearcagan,
 Ma'n iath na'n raig the mall.

'N taobh staigh do d' bhilean daite,
 Tha deud geal, chaille, ghrinn,
 O'n ceolmhoire thig orain,
 Na na smeoraichean a seinn,
 Mar eile cronu am falach ort,
 'S e bharail am beil sinn,
 Gun thig thu-fein a's Dhenus
 Ann an dealbh, 's an eugais, croinn.

Tran do mhais cha'n innsar leam,
 A dh-aineam ni da'n can—
 Braghad mar chuar-dlonganach,
 Fo'n aghaidh mhin gun smal;
 Gur corrach geal na ciochan,
 Th'air do bhroilleach lionta, glan,
 Glac ghealla-mheur, faineach, fìnealta,
 Tha teom air gnìomh nam ban.

Cho fad sa mhalreas Albannaich,
 Bi'dh iomraidh ort air bhul,
 Slios mar ca' air chumaintean,
 Aig an oigh a's uaisle fuil,
 Do phos air bhlas nam fìogaisean,
 'S do bheul o'm binn thig guth,
 'Nam eisdeach, fuaim na fìdheileireachd,
 Gur fionalta do chuir.

'S e bhi' stràcadh air tuillinn,
 Chuir mo shlàint' ann an cunnart bochd, fann,
 Am breislich bàis bhi ga t'amharc,
 Ghres tre m'airnean an t-saighead gu cham
 Bhris an t-srian bha ri m'aigneadh,
 Dh-fhalbh mo chiall chaidh fà m' eagail air chall,
 Chaidh mo ghearadh gu neo-ni,
 Beairt a réubaidh mo shonais a bh'ann.

Dhia ullaich-sa féin mi,
 'S m'i'n deidhigh mo cheill a bhuin diom,
 O 'n là bhunnig an t-Eug dhìom,
 An tì 's mo robh m'èibhneas fo Chrìosd,
 Tha mo bhun ann san Treun-fhear,
 A dh-fhuilig a cheusadh da'r dìon,
 Gu'm beil t'anam an Phàrrais,
 'S b' é bhi' mar riut a' màireach mo mhiann.

Tha gach duine dheth d' chàirdean,
 Mar ri' d' mhuime 's ri d' bhraithrean fo bhròn,
 'S an aon a phiuthar a dh-fhag thu,
 Ri sior chumha 's ri fàsgadh nan dùrn,
 Gu'm beil fios aig an àrd-Rìgh,
 Ged nach fiosraiche chàch mar tha leòn,
 Gach aon neach tha mi' ràitinn,
 Gu'm beil an cridheachan cràiteach ni's leòir.

'S beag a t-ioghnadh mar thà iad,
 Mar mhuir reobhairt air tràghadh le deòir,
 Cha b' è garlaoch na feachda,
 'Bha sibh 'g àireamh bhi' agaibh mar threòir,
 Ach fòghlum, cruadal, a's cleachdadh,
 An fhir-thrèin bu mhor tapadh 's an tòir,
 Da m' bu leannan an uaisle,
 Ann ad leanabh, 's gun d'fhuair thu i òg.

B' e sud fiùran na glaine,
 Bha gu fùghantach, fearail, a' fàs,
 Muirneach, iriosal, suairce,
 Sùgach, binn-fhaclach, buaghach, 's gach càs,
 Fear do choimeis cha chualas,
 Thaobh gach subhailc bha fuaite ri d' ghnàs,
 Dh-fhag thu uile fo ghruaimen,
 Gach tì chunnaig, no chuala do bhàs.

Bha do threabhantas ullamh,
 Ann 's gach feum ann's an cuireadh tu làmh,
 Chor 's nach cùbaire' b'urrann,
 Cùis a bhunnig de 'n churaidh gun sgàth,
 Ge do theireadh luchd-mascul,il,
 Gur h-i bhreug cuid is ceart tha mi ràdh,
 Dhearbh thu féin a bhi tapaidh,
 Ge do dh-èireadh dhomb fantainn a'm thàmh.

Fhuair thu tuigse an deagh nàdur,
 Agus gliocas bho àrd-Rìgh nan dùl,
 Ann an céill bha thu labhar,
 'S ann an ceudfaidhean fathail bha thu,

Ann 's gach ceird bha thu cosant,
Gu neo-ardanach, foistinneach, ciùin,
Ort ri àireamh bu deacair,
Cron an' càileachd, am pearsa, no 'n cliù.

Shuidhich t'inntinn air cheartas,
Air chinnte, fhir reachdair so dh-eug,
Leis gach neach bha thu taitneach,
Iochdar, caomh-chàirdeach, ceart anns gach
Gu fial, furanach, nàrach; [céum
Riamh mar churaidh neo-sgàthach gun bhéud,
Leoghunn fiorachail, tapaidh,
Teò-chridhach, iriseal, macant' am beus.

Thriall gach socair bha agam,
Chaidh mo chòmhuaidh 's mo chadal an laoid,
Tha liunn-dubh agus airsneal,
Da m' tharuiun gu leabaidh am shlaod,
Ga m' shior ruagadh am shlapan,
Dh-aiudeòin cruadail na tapadh ga m' faod,
Tha ma ghualainn gun tàice
On là bhuaileadh ort slacan an Aoig.

Chaidh mo shùgradh fo lithe,
Gur ciùirt' tha mo chridhe am chòm,
Osnaich thùrsach da m' theirbheirt,
Blas mo chùpain gur seirbh e na'n dòmb,
Fhir a chruthaich mi'n ceud uair,
'S a tha stiùireadh nan réull os ar ceann,
Orm furtaich, 's cluinn féin mi,
S tog an luchd so th'air m'inntinn gu trom.

MAIRI DHONN

THORRA-CHAISTEIL.*

LE COINNEACH MAC-CHONNICH.

LUINNEAG.

*Mhàiri dhonn, bhòidheach, dhonn,
Mhàiri dhonn 's mor mo thlachd dhiot;
Thogainn fonn gun bhì trom,
Air nigh' n' duinn Thorra-Chaisteil.*

GUM ma slàn do'n mhaighdinn òig,
Tha gu stòlda na cleachdadh;
Tha gu fiosrach, tairis, tlà,
Tha gu màranach, macant'
Mhàiri dhonn, &c.

'S gile na'n sneachda do bhian,
'S fallain, sgiamhach, do phearsa;
Gun thu cuidreamach, no caol,
Beathail, aotrom, gun ghaiseadh.
Mhàiri dhonn, &c.

* There are several places of the above name in the Highlands, the one referred to in this song is near Creag-Ghobhar in Lochbroom.

'S ann ort féin a dh-fhàs a ghruag,
Tha na dualaibh gu cleachdach;
Clannach, dlù gheibh i cliù,
Miann gach sùl bhì 'ga faicinn.
Mhàiri dhonn, &c.

Aghaidh fhlatasach gun sgraing,
'S e do shealltuinn' tha taitneach;
Suil chorrach fo mhala chaoil,
Gorm air aogais na dearcaig.
Mhàiri dhonn, &c.

'S glan an rutha tha na d' ghruaidh,
Bòidheach, snuadh-mhòr, gun ghaiseadh;
Tha thu eireachdail gu leoir;
Co tha beò nach gabh tlachd dhiot?
Mhàiri dhonn, &c.

'S beinn leam ceileirean do bheoil,
Gabhail òrain gu taitneach;
Do ghùth mar smeòraich sa' choill';
'S tric thu seinn aig a Chaisteal.
Mhàiri dhonn, &c.

Bha mi greis an deas 's an tuath,
A' meas ghruagaichean tlachd-mhòr;
Ach té idir a thug barr,
Ort a Mhàiri cha'n fhacas.
Mhàiri dhonn, &c.

Gu'm fhaic mis' thu aig fear òg,
Dha'm bi stòras, a's pailteas,
Spréidh a's fearann agus fonn,
'S chridhe conn-mhor gu'n airceas.
Mhàiri dhonn, &c.

Bi'dh do thaigh agad le mùirn
Air mo cheanns' anns an fhasan,
Mu thig mi idir na chòir,
Cha'n ann beò théid mi-seachad.
Mhàiri dhonn, &c.

Tha do chairdean lionmhor, treun,
Dheanadh feum anns na baiteil;
Frisealaich bhò'n airde tuath,
'S math gu bualadh nan glas-lann.
Mhàiri dhonn, &c.

MAIRI GHREANNAR.

LEIS A BHARD CHIANDA.

LUINNEAG.

*O shaorainn, shaorainn, shaorainn i,
Air n' fhacal fhéin gu'm faodainn sin;
'S ged bhiodh cuid nach saoilteadh e,
Gu'n saorainn Màiri Ghreannar.*

SHAORAINN fhein gun teagamh i,
Ged bha mi tric a' beadradh r'i,
Nach d' iarr mi ni mi-dhleasannach,
'S nach freagradh dhomh bhì cainnt air.
O shaorainn, &c.

Shaorainn fein gu deonach i,
'S cha b' eagal leam ged' bhòidichinn,
Nach d' fhuair mi bheag de dh'-fhòtus innt',
O 'n ghabh mi eòlas cainnt oirr'.
O shaorainn, &c.

Ma tha crou ri leughadh ort
An gnìomh, no 'n gnè, cha léir dhomh e,
'S a dh-aindeoin beachd an t-saoghail so,
Is tusa daonnan m' annsachd.
O shaorainn, &c.

Tha suairceas, tlachd, a's sìmhaltachd,
A strì co dhìu a's dìlse dhut;
Tha maise, cliù, a's sìnealtachd,
Ag imeachd air gach laimh dhìot.
O shaorainn, &c.

Gur modhail, socrach, briathrach thu;
Gur aoidheil, caoimhneil, ciallach thu;
S nam biodh gach càis mar dh-iarrainn iad,
Bu tu mo chiad bhean-bainnse.
O shaorainn, &c.

T'fhalt boidheach, cam-bhuidh, dualagach,
'S a bharr a' fàs gu d' cruachanan—
Do phòg mar mhil nan cuachagan,
'S do shnuadh air dhreach an t-sàmhraidh.
O shaorainn, &c.

Gur soitheamh, banail, beusach thu;
Gur geanail, sunntach, eutrom thu;
Gur connar, fonnar, spéiseil thu;
Gu h-aoidheil, ceillidh, greannar.
O shaorainn, &c.

Cha mhol mi thu, cha'n urra mi,
Cha'n eil mo bhriathran ullamh dhomh,
Do bheusan thug mi 'n t-urram dhaibh,
'S iad chuir mi uile 'n geall ort.
O shaorainn, &c.

Ach dh-innsinn fhèid gu soilleir dhuibh,
Co i, 's co bhuaiche a shloinneadh i,
Mur be gun d' fhuair sibh coire dhomh,
Air son na rinn mi chainnt oirr'.
*O shaorainn, shaorainn, shaorainn i,
Air m' fhacal fhéin gu'm fuodainn sin;
'S ged bhiodh cuid nach saoilteadh e,
Gu'n saorainn Màiri Ghreannar.*

Note.—The author of this and the preceding song is Mr Kenneth M'Kenzie, late tacksman of Monkcastle and Strath-na-Sealg, in Lochbroom, Ross-shire. He was a descendant of one of the three brothers already mentioned who were all poets. These two songs were composed on the same girl, who was his own servant. He wrote several other humorous pieces; they are in our possession, but are rather too local for insertion here. Mr M'Kenzie died in 1827.

THA TIGH'N' FODHAM EIRIDH.

LE IAIN MAC DHUGHAILL 'O-LACHUINN.

DO THIGHEARNA CHLANN-RAONAILL.

LUINNEAG

*Tha tigh'n' fodham, fodham, fodham,
Tha tigh'n' fodham, fodham, fodham,
Tha tigh'n' fodham, fodham, fodham
Tha tigh'n' fodham éiridh.*

Sin an t-slaime chùramach;
Olamaid gu sunntach i;
Deoch slaint' an Ailein Mhuideartaich—
Mo dhùrachd dhut gun éirich.
Tha tig'n fodham, &c.

Ged a bhiodh tu fada bh'uam,
Dh-eireadh sunnt a's aigdeah orm;
'Nu 'r chluinninn sgeul a b' aite leam,
Air gaisgeach nan gnìomh euchdach.
Tha tig'n fodham, &c.

'S iomadh maighdean bharrasach,
G'a math d' an tig an earrasaid,
Eadar Baile-Mhanaich, agus
Caolas Bharraidh 'n déigh ort.
Tha tig'n fodham, &c.

'Tha part an Eilean Bheagram dhuibh,
'S cuid 's an Fhràin 's 'san Eadailt dhìu,
'S cha'n eil latha teagaisg nach
Bi 'n Cille-Pheadair treud dhìu.
Tha tig'n fodham, &c.

'Nuair chruinnicheadh am pannel ad,
Breid caol an caradh crannaig orra,
Bidh falus air am malaichean
A' dambs air urlar déile.
Tha tig'n fodham, &c.

Nuair chiaradh air an fheasgar,
Gum bu bheadarach do fhleasgaichean,
Bhiodh pìoban mòr 'gan spreigeadh ann,
A's feadanan 'gan gleusadh.
Tha tig'n fodham, &c.

Sgìobair ri là gaillinn thu
A sheoladh cuan nam maranan,
A bheireadh long gu calachan
Le spionnadh glac do threun-fhear.
Tha tig'n fodham, &c.

Sgeul beag eile a dhearbhadh leat,
 Gur sealgair sithne 'n garbhlach thu,
 Le d' chuillbheir caol, nach dearmadach,
 Air dearg-ghreigh nan ceann eatrom.
Tha tig'n fodham, &c.

B' e sid an leoghann aigeannach,—
 'Nuair nochadh tu do bhaidealan
 Lamh dhearg, a's long, a's bradanan,
 'Nuair 'lasadh meanmna t'eudainn.
Tha tig'n fodham, &c.

Note—This popular and cheerful song was composed on the rising of Allan, the famous Captain of Clanronald, in 1715. He was slain at Sherrifmuir, and the bards vied with one another in lamenting his death. Boswell, the biographer of Johnson, boasted that he could sing one verse of this ditty. He relates that "when Clanronald's servant was found watching the body of his master the day after the battle, one asked who that was? the servant replied, 'he was a man yesterday.'"—Boswell's Journal, p. 358.

ORAN ALLABAIN SUIRIDH.

LE PIOFAIRE FHIR GHLINN-ALLADAIL.

LUNNEAG.

*Thug mi 'n didhche raoir sa 'n àiridh,
 Thug mi 'n didhche raoir 'sa 'n àiridh,
 Chaith mi 'n didhche cridheil, caoimhneil,
 Mar ri maighdeannan na h-àiridh.*

MIL marbhaig air an t-sùiridh,
 'S bochd le neach da 'n téid i iomrall,
 Fagaidh si inntiun fo iomaguinn,
 Gluasad cho simplidh ri mearlach.
Thug mi 'n, &c.

Oidhche dhomh 's mi 'm bun na tìre,
 'S mi goirid o bheagan nìonag,
 'Smaointich mi gluasad os 'n ìosal,
 Nochdadh mo bhriodail le gràdh dhaibh.
Thug mi 'n, &c.

'Nuair rainig mi taigh-an-Dùnain,
 Bha chomhl' ac' air a deagh dhùnadh,
 'Sa dh-aindeoin m' òlais a's mo thùir,
 Gun thòisich na goid chuil ri rànaich.
Thug mi 'n, &c.

Labhair mo chompanach runach,
 Dean stad 's feuchaidh sinn cleas ùr dh' i,
 Faigh thusa boiseag dheth 'n bhùrn,
 'S fanaidh na lùdagan sàmhach.
Thug mi 'n, &c.

Fhuair sinn staigh gun dad uamhainn,
 'S bha sinn farasda n' ar gluasad,
 Rainig sinn leabaidh nan gruagach,
 'S chuir mi-fhìn gu suaire mo làmh orr'.
Thug mi 'n, &c.

Thuir i rium, na tig'ni 's faide,
 'S leanabh te eile nam acllais,
 Cha 'n eil rùm agad fo 'n phlaide,
 'S bi pilleadh dhachaigh mar thainig.
Thug mi 'n, &c.

Thuir mise, na bi cho doichleach,
 Fuirich gu si-mbalta, socrach,
 Dad a mhì-mhodh dhut cha nochd mi,
 Gus 'n eirich thu moch a maireach.
Thug mi 'n, &c.

Thuir i, ma ta cuir dhìot t-aodach,
 Bheir mise nochd mo leath-taobh dhut,
 Air eagal 's gu 'n dean thu m' aoireadh,
 'S cha 'n ann air son gaol do mhàrain.
Thug mi 'n, &c.

Mu n' d' fhuair mi mi-fhìn gu socrach,
 Cìod a rinn am pàist ach mosgladh,
 'S a nuair a ghrios mi e bhì tosdach,
 Theann e 'san droch-uair air rànaich!
Thug mi 'n, &c.

Thuir bean-an-taighe le dearras,
 A chlann a chum mi am chaithris,
 Ar leam gu 'm feumadh sibh anail
 Gur sìubhlach ur teanga le Gàellig.
Thug mi 'n, &c.

Chuir a briathran mi o thapadh,
 Eadar seorsa nàire 's gealtachd,
 'S cha robh drùichd a bha tro 'm chraiceann,
 Nach cuireadh cnag air an làr dheth.
Thug mi 'n, &c.

Dh-eirich i ionunn 'sa bhì rùisgte,
 'S theann i ri lasadh a chrùisgeen,
 'S mu 'n d' fhosgail i ceart a sùilean,
 Bha mis air taobh cuil na fàrdaich.
Thug mi 'n, &c.

Ach fhir tha fuireach 'sa bhaile,
 Giùlain mo shoraigh gu Anna,
 'S innis d' i gu 'n d' d' rinneadh ealaidh,
 Do 'n luchd-faire bh' air an àiridh.
*Thug mi 'n didhche raoir sa 'n àiridh,
 Thug mi 'n didhche raoir 'sa 'n àiridh,
 Chaith mi 'n didhche cridheil, caoimhneil,
 Mar ri maighdeannan na h-àiridh.*

Note.—This hearty song is the composition of John M'Gilvray, piper to the late Mr Macdonald, of Glenaladale. M'Gilvray composed several other local pieces of no general interest.

ORAN SUGRADH.

LE ALASDAIR OG THRIASLAIN.

LUINNEAG.

*Hil ù hìlin drò hó ró hìlin éile,
Hil ù hìlin drò hó ró hìlin éile,
Hil ù hìlin drò hó ró hìlin éile,
'S a nìghean donn an t-shùgraidh,
Mo dhùrachd bhì rèith 's tu.*

BHA mi-fhéin 's mo mhàthair,
Di-màirt ann sa'n t-seòmar,
'S gu robh i rium a g' raitinn—
"Nach nàr dbut bhì gòrach,
A laidhe leis na calleagan,
Gur amaideach an dòigh e,
'S cha pòs bean gu bràch thu,
'S a ghràisg' ud an tòir ort!"
Hil ù hìlin, &c.

Thuir mi fhìn gu dìblidh,
Gur cinnteach gu'm b' fhior sid,
'S nach bu duine fir-glic,
Bha strì ris a ghnìomh sin,
A cosg, a chuid le mì-chliu,
'S le mì-cheutaidh mhiannan,
Ach sguiridh mi ri'm bheò dheth,
Ochoin! 's beg mo mhian air.
Hil ù hìlin, &c.

Sin 'nuair a thuir mo mhàthair—
"O b'fhearr leam gu'm b' fhior sin,
Gu sguireadh tu gu bràch dheth,
'S gu'm fasadh tu ciallach,
Ged as iomadh càineadh,
Is àithn thug mi riamh dhut,
'S ann leigeadh tu ma d' chluais iad,
Le buaireadh na 'm biast ud."
Hil ù hìlin, &c.

'S ioma' duine b'fhearr na mi,
Dh-fhàilig sa cheum sin,
Ministirean, pàirt dhìù,
Air airde 's ga leubh iad,
A bhean an cual' thu 'm Pàpa'
Rinn pàist' ann sa Eiphid;
Na 'n cuala tu Rìgh Dàibhidh,
Chaidh dàn air Batseba.
Hil ù hìlin, &c.

"Ministeir, na Pàpa'
A dh-fhàilig sa ghnìomh sin,
Olc no mhath a rinn iad,
Cha'n fhaighnichear dhìots' e,
'S b' fhearr dhut a bhì cèillidh,
Ri ceusadh do mhiannan,

'S ma rinn iadsan eacoir,
'S iad fhein a bheir dial ann.
Hil ù hìlin, &c.

"Bu mhath an duinne Daibhidh,
Ged dh-fhàilig e 'n uair sin,
Bha e cneasda, naomha,
'S bha gaol aig an t-sluagh air,
Cha chomharda' do 'n Rìgh sin,
Do mhìsteireachd thruaillidh,
'S mi-loinn aig an t-saoghail,
A ghaolaich dheth d' ghluasad."
Hil ù hìlin, &c.

A bhean an cual' thu Sola',
Bha morghalach, fir-glic,
Dha 'n robh urram foghlum,
Eòlais, a's criandachd,
'Nuair fhòs e seachd ceud bean,
'S ochd fichead-deug diù dialain,
'S their thusa a bhean nach fhiach
Fear a dh-iaras a sia dhiu,
Hil ù hìlin, &c.

"Bha'n duinne sin na shearmonaich,
Ainmail sa Bhiobull,
Nach dàna leam do sheanachas,
Cho dearbhtha' ga dhìtheadh,
Cìod e cho brais sa bhìtheadh e,
Mu'n ruitheadh e air mìle',
Cha b'fhearde an te ma dheireadh dhiu,
Gu deibhinn os a cinn e,"
Hil ù hìlin, &c.

A bhean na 'm bithinn's ann,
Anns an am bha e-féin ann,
'S gu 'm bithinn a cheart làmh ris,
An àit an robh threud sa,
'Nuair bhìtheadh e ga shàrachadh,
Ghnà air gach tè dhìù,
Gu'n rachainn greis na àite,
Na 'm b'fheairrde leis fhéin e.
Hil ù hìlin, &c.

'Nuair bhios ma chlann-sa laidir,
'S a dh'fhàsas iad orianda'
Gu 'n teid mi null air sàl leo,
Gu sràid Charolina,
Sin a 'nuair a dh-eudar
Gach aon chuir ri gniomh dhiu,
Bidh duine air ceann gach feuma,
'S mi fein a bhì diamhain.
Hil ù hìlin, &c.

GAOIR NAM BAN MUILEACH.

LE MAIREARAID NĒ LACHUINN.

'S coir leam gaoir nam ban Muileach,
Iad a caoineadh 's a tuireadh,
Mu na dh-fhalbh 's mu na dh-fhurich;
Gun Sir Iain an Lunnainn,
E 's an Fhràing air cheann turais;
'S trom an calldach thu dh-fhuireach!
Gur h-e aobhar ar dunaidh,
Gun e leinn, ar ceann-uighe,
'S òg a choisinn e 'n t-urram 's na blaraihbh.
'S òg a choisinn e 'n t-urram, &c.

'Mhuire! 's mise th'air mo sgaradh,
O Fheill-brìde so chaidh,
O Fheill-micheil, o Shamhainn,
Chaidh a sìos sìochd ar taighe.
Thainig dìle tha ath-'bhualt!
'S mise an truaghan bochd mhnatha,
A tha faodrach gun fharaid,
Thaobh nàmhaid, no caraid;
Gun cheann cinne thaobh athar, no mathar.
Gun cheann cinne thaobh athar, &c.

Cha 'n e Ailean, no Eachunn,
Leis an eireadh fir Shasuinn,
So tha mise ag acain;
Ach Iarla nam bratach,
Thogadh sìoda ri crannaibh,
Nam pios òir, 's nan còrn dàite;
Dheanadh stòras a sgapadh,
B' iad cinn-fheodhnaidh nan gaisgeach,
Sir Iain, a's ceannard Chlann-Rànail.
Sir Iain, a's ceannard, &c.

'S cairdeach Lachunn nan ruag dhut;
Cha neart dhaoine thug bhuainn thù;
Na 'm b'e, dh-eireadh mu d' ghuaillean,
Luchd chlogaidean cruadhach,
Rachadh dàn anns an tuasaid;
Fir chròdha bho thuath dhuinn,
Le airm ghasda, gun rua'-mheirg.
'S bochd an acad so bhual mi,
O'n là chruinnich do shluagh ann an Aros.
O'n là chruinnich do shluagh, &c.

A mhic rìgh nan long siùbhlach,
Ged bu chairdeach do'n chrùn thu.
Co an neach d' am bi suilean,
Nach gabhadh da 'n ionnsaidh,
Mar bha choill air a rùsgadh,
'S an robh gach seud cùbhraidh?
Thuit a blà, a's a h-ùr-fhàs;
Fhrois a h-abbul, 's a h-ùbblan;
Cha robh leighe a chùireadh am bàs bhuat.
Cha robh leighe a chùireadh, &c.

'S e chuir m'astar am maillead,
Agus m' amharc an daillead,
A bhì faicinn do chlainne,
A's iad na 'n ceatharnaich choille;
A's cean curam da 'n oilean;
Iad g' am fògairt gun choire,
Mar chaora fhuadain gun aodhair;
Mar sgaoth ianlaidh ro fhaoghaid;
Nach eil fhios co an doire 's an tàmh iad.
Nach eil fhios co an doire, &c.

'S maing a d'fheumas am fulang,
Gach eugail 's an duine!
Ach, 's mìthich dhomhsa nis sgur dhibh,
'S gun toiseacha tuille.
'S e mo chòmhra-sa tuireadh!
'S ann mu 'n taice so 'n uiridh,
A bha sinn àobhach am Muile;
Ach bhris an claidheamh na dhuille,
'N uair a shaoil sinn gu 'n cumadh iad slàn e.
'N uair a shaoil sin gu 'n, &c.

Note.—The real name of the author of this lament was Margaret Maclean, sometimes called Mairearaid NĒ Lachunn, from Lachlan being the christian name of her father. She lived in the island of Mull, of which place she was a native. Like all local poets, NĒ Lachunn has been applauded by her countrymen in general, though we must confess that we are blind to any poetic grandeur in her compositions. We have seen twenty-five pieces of composing, but the above seven stanzas is her chef d'œuvre.

Note.—The Author of this and the preceding poem was John Munro, Esq., Accountant, Glasgow, who was born at Sordale, parish of Crieich, Sutherland-shire, on the 11th Nov. 1791. He was the eldest son of Andrew Munro,

Merchant, Spinningdale, and of Betty, daughter of the late John Ross, Esq. of Inveran. In October, 1794, his father removed to the new Village of Spinningdale in the same parish, where a Cotton Mill and a Weaving Factory had been erected by a Glasgow Company; here he carried on business as a Merchant along with Manufacturing and Bleaching on his own account for a number of years; but various circumstances rendering his efforts unsuccessful, in 1802 he was appointed to manage the Weaving Department of the Company. John, then in his eleventh year, was a good scholar, and able to write his father's books, but on the 19th of April, 1803, he had the misfortune to lose his father by an accidental death in his 38th year. His father was an enterprising man, and highly esteemed, for purity of intention and public spirit. On the death of her husband, Mrs Munro was aided in prosecuting the education of her children by her brothers in Glasgow, who were in flourishing circumstances. John was engaged, during the four winter seasons succeeding the death of his father, teaching in respectable families; and being now 16 years of age, and his uncles having procured a situation for him in Glasgow, he arrived there in March, 1808. He acted as clerk and cash-keeper during the succeeding nineteen years, in Houses of the first eminence, and in 1827, on his employers becoming insolvent, he commenced business as an Accountant.

Previous to this period he visited his native country, and had the melancholy satisfaction of being present at his mother's decease on the 20th Sept., 1825. It was in the prospect of this visit that he composed "O! theid sinn," &c. His acknowledged integrity and industry procured him considerable business without solicitation, from which, along with other successful speculations, he had realized a respectable competence by the period of his decease; which took place on the 27th Nov., 1837.

Mr Munro's mind was early imbued with serious impressions, and his piety increased with his years. During the whole of his life, the closest intimacy never detected a fault in his conduct, which leaned not to the side of virtue. He spent about a fifth of his income in aid of benevolent and religious purposes; pious men, teachers and students from the Highlands sought his intimacy; and he failed not to patronize piety and talents, and to aid such as he conceived to be deserving. His unassuming manner was no less conspicuous than his independence of mind; he was a diligent student, and in the hours of relaxation from business, he became author of several religious pamphlets and poems. The deep interest he took in promoting Gaelic literature, and in teaching a Gaelic Sabbath School, and for many years acting as Secretary to the Society for the support of Gaelic Schools, rendered his name familiar to the religious portion of his countrymen throughout the Highlands. His early death was much regretted. He was interred in the Necropolis, and a Monument, with a suitable inscription, is there erected to his memory.
